CHAIRMAN'S ILLNESS

WATERWORKS SCHEME

Mr. Thos. McCarthy, Vice-Chairman, presided at the weekly meeting of the Council on Friday. Also present—Messrs. P. Byrne, J. Mansfield, M. Connors, D. Foley, P. Quinn, J. Christopher, J. F. Foley, M. Clancy and J. Dahill.

Illness of Chairman
Before proceeding with the business the Chairman referred to the illness of the Chairman and expressed the hope that in a very short time he would be with them again.

Several members having expressed regret at the indisposition of the Chairman. The Clerk was directed to convey same to the Chairman.

Lighting For New Housing Scheme

The question of the installation of electric light in the proposed new Housing Scheme under the special conditions laid down by the E.S.B. for such schemes. Members differed in their opinions as regards the cost and working of the scheme, and it was decided to ask the E.S.B. to have a representative attend the next meeting to explain the scheme in detail.

Paysheet

A Paysheet for £15 7s. 7d. was presented and passed.

Excessive Charge

The Clerk said there was also a payment of £1 12s. 6d., to the Railway Co. for carriage on 21 cwt. of chain from Cork to Dungarvan in connection with the Harbour and the Harbour Master thought the cost excessive.

Applications For Ranges

Applications for new ranges were read from Mrs. K. Kelly, St. Thomas' Terrace, and Mr. E. Spratt, St. Garvan's Terrace, on the usual 50 50 basis.

Lighting Wigan Buoy

A letter read from Mr. M. Kiely, Mitchell's Street, contractor for the lighting of the Wigan Buoy, stated that he did not get paid for the first 3 months of his contract.

The Clerk explained that just as the contract was taken the buoy went adrift and was taken to the Quay for repairs so that the contractor had no duty to perform.

The Chairman said he was speaking to the contractor and his contention was that since he got the contract for 12 months he is entitled to be paid for the 12 months.

Mr. Christopher said he thought what the contractor wanted was a further 3 months to make up 12 months.

Mr. Clancy—According to the letter the contractor wanted to get paid for the first 3 months.

Mr. Kiely who was then called before the meeting said in reply to the Chairman that he tendered for 12 months, he only got paid for 9 months. He agreed he never put a hand to the buoy for the first 3 months.

Replying to Mr. Christopher, Kiely said he would be satisfied with an extension of a further 3 months to his contract.

An order was made extending the contract a further 3 months so that Kiely would have the full 12 months.

The Chromatic Accordion Dance Band were granted the hall for a dance on Sunday night 18th October. The Accordion and Jazz Band for Sunday night October 25th and the Green Badminton Club for Monday and Thursday nights.

Lighting At Railway Station

A letter received from Mr. P. J. Floyd, G.S. Rlys, stating that owing to the pressing need for economy the Company regret they are unable to incur the necessary expenditure of installing electric lighting at the Dungarvan Railway station.

Mr. Clancy—It is a terrible state of affairs. In fact it is dangerous to go to the station after dark.

Opening of Main Roads

Mr. Bowen, Co. Surveyor, wrote giving particulars of the cost of repairs and maintenance of openings made by the Council in the main roads from April 1st to September 30th, and requesting a paying order for £26 8s. 6d., in respect of same.

The letter was referred to the B.S.

New Technical School Sewerage

The Co. M.O.H. wrote stating that with reference to the correspondence of the Chief Executive Officer of the Co. Waterford Vocational Education Com-

WATERFORD CO. BOARD OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE.

Ald. Jas. O'Donovan, Chairman, presided at the monthly meeting of the Board at the Courthouse, Dungarvan, on Wednesday. Also present—Commissioner Moynihan, Councillors J. Cosgrave, P. Caulfield, J. Cassidy, T. D. Connolly and P. O'Halloran.

New Hospital

Messrs. McDonald and Dixon, Architects, wrote enclosing plans of the Dungarvan New Hospital, under the County Hospitalisation Scheme for the Board's approval.

Commissioner Moynihan asked if the cost was mentioned?

Secretary—No.

Commissioner—The plans should not be approved until we have the cost before us. We have at present no indication of what the cost will be. He proposed that the matter be deferred pending a report from the Quantity Surveyor.

Mr. Cosgrave—Did we get any of the money yet?

Secretary—Yes. Anything we asked for was given. We have got about £3,000 up to the present.

Further consideration was adjourned pending a report on the cost of the Hospital from the Quantity Surveyor.

Lismore Hospital

With reference to the Compulsory Acquisition of 4 acres of land at Lismore as a site for the New Hospital, a resolution forwarded by Mr. Farrell, solr., to the Board was passed.

Marriage Allowance Sought

Arising out of the minutes of the Co. Hospital Committee at Waterford, where an application was made by John Ryan, temporary male attendant for 6-lodging allowance. The application stated that Ryan was recently married and lived a short distance from the Institution.

Secretary—He is only a temporary attendant, and it would be a rather dangerous experiment.

Mr. Halloran—I would pay the man, he is employed by us and any money you will pay will be in circulation.

Secretary, replying to a member, said the man was supposed to sleep in the premises.

Commissioner—What is his pay?

Secretary—17s. 6d. all found?

Secretary—Yes.

Mr. Halloran—He got married on 17 6 a week.

Commissioner—Are there any other temporary attendants married?

Secretary—No.

After some more discussion the recommendation was refused.

It was held by the members that the proper course for Ryan to adopt would be to apply for an increase of salary.

Kilmacthomas Dispensary, Residence

Mr. Jephson, Engineer, reported that the repairs amounting to £67 5s. 6d., were completed at the above.

Unemployment Assistance

A long letter from the Department was read explaining the working of the Unemployment Assistance Act, in relation to Home Assistance.

The Secretary stated he had sent a copy of the letter to all the Assistance Officers.

Advertising

Commissioner Moynihan referred to the acceptance of tenders for advertising at the previous meeting. He was not present when the tenders were accepted and he now protested against the non-acceptance of the tender of the "Waterford Standard" as all the papers in Waterford tendered at the same figure.

The Chairman said the "Standard" was run by a man from Northern Ireland who has time and again attacked the Waterford Corporation and he (Chairman) wondered if the Editor of a Catholic paper in Belfast attacked the Belfast Corporation in the same manner what would be the result.

CO-ORDINATION OF ENGINEERING SERVICES

APPOINTMENT OF ASSISTANT SURVEYOR

INCREASES OF SALARIES

Engineering Services

A letter was read from the Local Government Department stating that the Minister sanctioned the County Commissioner's proposals for co-ordination of the County Engineering services, including an increase of £25 in the salary of Mr. Jephson. The Local Appointments Commissioners may therefore be requested to recommend a person for appointment as Assistant County Surveyor at remuneration of £250 rising by Annual increments of £15 to a maximum of £400 per annum with usual allowance for travelling expenses. It should be clearly understood that acceptance of the scheme by the Surveyors involved them in the obligation to devote their whole time to the work of the County, and that any participation by them in private practice will obviously prejudice payment of the enhanced remuneration as well as their position as responsible officers.

As regards the appointment of an Assistant County Surveyor for the Lismore Area.

Commissioner Moynihan said in his opinion an experienced man would be required there.

Co. Surveyor—Experience is absolutely essential.

The Commissioner made an order that the age limit for applicants be 25 to 35 years, with an extension of 10 years to 45, in the case of any candidate employed in the Government service or by Public Bodies.

Dealing with the paragraph re whole-time officers.

Mr. Bowen said personally he was very well satisfied and as far as himself and the other Surveyors were concerned there would be no difficulty about that. He had a few small things on hand which will be completed in a very short time.

Commissioner—There is a very heavy programme before us including a full survey of the Public Health services and a big cottage scheme.

The Co. Surveyor agreed that for the next half a dozen years they would have a very full programme before them. On behalf of himself and the staff he thanked the Commissioner for his efforts on their behalf and said as far as they are concerned the Commissioner will have their loyal service. Having taken on this job, there will be no turning back, they will do it, and do it thoroughly.

It was decided that the Co. Surveyor take over the duties of the Board of Health and Assistance on November 1st, the assigning of the duties of the Assistant Surveyors was left in abeyance pending the new appointment for Lismore.

Increases of Salaries

Applications for increases in their present salaries were read from Messrs. Jas. Fuge, and A. W. McComeskey (Co. Surveyor's Office).

Replying to the Commissioner, Mr. Bowen said those two men work very long hours. They are both very loyal and attentive workers who keep good hours and give general satisfaction.

Commissioner—I dare say their duties will be increased under the Co-Ordination Scheme.

An order was made that in view of the increased work and responsibility under the Amalgamation Scheme of County Engineering services, the salary of James Fuge be increased from £200 to £230 rising by two annual increments to £250. Mr. McComeskey's salary was increased from £250 to £280, subject to the approval of the Minister for Local Government.

The Secretary said that increases granted 12 months ago to other members of the staff were not yet sanctioned.

A letter was read from the Minister approving of the increase of salary from £95 to £100 granted by the Diseases of Animals Committee to their Clerk, Mr. Foley, with effect from 1st January, 1936.

A DAY ON A MOTOR BIKE

I travelled forth from old Kereen, one morning last July. The wild-flowers bloomed, the song-birds sang, the lark soared to the sky.

Along the road from Loughagh Cross, to sweet Dungarvan Town, And then by sep-washed Ballyvoile and on to Ballygowan.

Yes on it sped brave motor-bike upon its merry way. It seemed to sing of hope and joy, and freedom on that day.

I then took a passenger to old Kilmossinty. Where sleep the gallant Comeragh boys, who died to make us free.

Along by Barnakill, the Pike, and then by Abbesside, Where young Pat Keating fought and fell, and John Fitzgerald died.

Yes on it sped brave motor-bike upon its merry way. It seemed to sing of hope and joy, and freedom on that day.

Then on to Ring where Gaelic is still the spoken word. The language that survived the shock of torture fire and sword.

The tongue that roused the fighting clans, when Shane the Proud swept down. And drove the Saxon robber forth, from every Ulster Town.

COMMUNISM EXPOSED BY ARCHBISHOP DOWNEY

Communism as expounded in Russia, and exported to the world at large, differs from ordinary Socialism in three particulars.

(1) It aims at establishing a State Socialism, which is not a democracy, but a dictatorship of the so-called proletariat.

(2) Communism proposes to attain its end by violence and terrorism rather than by constitutional means.

(3) It is professedly atheistic, opposed in essence to all religion and committed to an anti-God campaign.

The excerpt, from an address by His Grace the Most Rev. Dr. Downey, Archbishop of Liverpool, at the annual meeting of the Young Men's Society in Waterford.

The Sovereign Pontiff repeatedly uttered grave and solemn warnings against the dangers which threaten the whole world from the subversive propaganda of Communism.

In our own country, where powerful factors are at work to conceal the facts from the public, it is urgent that the true nature of Communism should be understood by all right-minded citizens.

It is disastrous for the workers to look on Communism for deliverance from the yoke of oppression which has been laid on their necks by the abuses of modern industrialism.

Communism is really a theory of life which is in direct contradiction to the Christian revelation and even to the dictates of natural reason, and, therefore, it can never provide a basis for any true social reform.

Communism is essentially Atheistic, materialistic, and disruptive.

The Communism does not consist merely in the denial of God. It is a positive hatred of God, intense, implacable, like that which burns the evil spirits of hell; a hatred which is organised as a veritable war.

Communism places the last end of man in a purely earthly Utopia, fantastic and impossible of realisation, in which the individual will attain to his supreme good as a part of the vast machine of a completely socialised community.

To prepare the way for this 'golden age' Communism labours by every possible means to kindle in every land the flame of red revolution in which 'the Proletariat must rise and destroy all other classes, all religions, all morality, all forms of government, all existing cultures and institutions.'

The Communist attack is directed principally against the Catholic Church, which is highly regarded as the strongest bulwark in defence of all social order. That a doctrine so crude, so barbarous, so irrational and so destructive of all human rights and liberties should, within the last twenty years, have seized dominion over a vast part of the human race, is the presence behind the Communist movement of a preternatural power that can be described only as diabolical.

The organisers of the movement are equipped with a cunning and resource that are truly marvellous. They are adept at fishing in the troubled waters of discontent, posing when it suits their purpose as the champions of the unemployed, the downtrodden and the oppressed.

Since for them Christian morality has no meaning, they are hampered by no solicitude for truth or honesty in their efforts to win adherents, and one of the falsehoods which they most habitually employ is to represent the Catholic Church as the enemy of the working class and as the upholder of those very abuses of the capitalist system which the Church herself has most vehemently condemned.

NATIONAL HURLING LEAGUE WATERFORD'S GREAT VICTORY AT LISMORE

At Lismore on Sunday before a good attendance and in fine weather Waterford met Cork in the National Hurling League contest. The game was splendidly contested, but the Cork men were no match for the homesteaders and suffered defeat on the score of 5-4 (Waterford) 3-1 (Cork).

In every part of the field the Waterford men were superior and won out with the same superiority as they showed against Dublin a few Sundays ago. Despite the one-sidedness of the play generally the match was not at all uninteresting one from the point of view of the eight or nine hundred spectators present.

All through there was plenty of dash and nerve in the passages, the outstanding feature being Waterford's speed on the ball and the all-round excellent display given by the individual players. In the earlier stages it looked as if the visitors required time to find their feet but as the game progressed the hoped for improvement was not forthcoming.

In one period of the second half Cork did put on a promising spurt but this was not maintained and the League points went deservedly to the home fifteen.

Waterford made the pace from the beginning and were kept at bay by a very fine defensive line. They came back again to the attack and a strong duel resulted in an over. Greaney sent along a beauty from far out and this was followed up to be contested strenuously and to register another over. A little after this Waterford obtained a 70 but no advantage came to them till Connie Ryan, taking a last one, opened the scoring for the homesteaders with a point from a lovely ground lift fifty yards out.

Cork made a few gallant efforts to get away and as they were developing a promising movement Waterford were penalised, but the Cork free crossed the point sticks by a margin of inches. Keane was doing splendidly all along the line. He was responsible for the next score when he deftly lifted, delivered to the square, and the ball went in from a scrimmage.

This same player figured soon afterwards when he sent to Moylan on the wing and from where Moylan shot between the point posts. The Leesiders crossed the others net in dangerous proximity. They were forced to be content with an over.

Lively play followed in Cork's territory. Then another of Cork's rushes was held up but a free to the visitors reached the danger zone. The ball was cleared but the visitors speedily returned and Keane was mainly responsible for getting Waterford away.

A nice Cork movement developed from mid-field and was brought as far as the homesteaders' goal when a clearance was effected. Two successive seventies were awarded the Leesiders. These proved uneventful and then came a flukey Waterford goal when Green found his 'No. 13' a lucky number.

He was in a goal-mouth mix-up and was being pushed net-wards when the ball struck him in the breast and rebounded into the net. Shortly after this half-time was called, at which juncture Waterford led by 2 goals 2 points to nil.

Waterford began the second half like the first with a quick invasion. This was beaten off and they came back doubly strong and a goal went in from a goal-mouth scrimmage off Goode's blade. Cork lost a chance when Cogan, with the goal at his mercy, failed to steady himself and shot badly wide from five yards out.

Matters changed speedily to the other end where the defenders had difficulty in clearing a determined onslaught. Again the positions altered and then the Leesiders rushed up field when W. Walsh lifted wide of the point sticks. For some minutes the Cork end was the scene of much activity and a fast one was stopped by Cusack, the custodian. After this Waterford got a seventy which Keane directed wide. Some nice overhead play followed, Cork got beautifully placed per Reid and Kelly and, from their joint efforts, Waterford's goal fell for the first time. The advantage was short-lived for Goode got possession and shot with precision to find the net. The hurling continued fast with the homesteaders holding the mastery in practically all departments. Reid notched a point for the Leesiders and they looked like doing further damage when Waterford gave away a seventy. Norberg's lift was cleared to the wing, and Keane sent his side away but Cork returned. Kelly was watchful and netted in dashing fashion. Cork were showing up to much better advantage at this stage. They had to give way before a spirited homesteaders' rush from which a goal went in but the score was disallowed. Kelly had another try and was unsuccessful. Splendid defensive work at the Cork end thrilled the spectators and Moylan closed the issue by sending over the bar. Greaney got away and on Cork forcing back, Curley, the Waterford goalie, shone brilliantly by effecting a spectacular stoppage of a bullet-like ball. The visitors' fort was stiffly assaulted and it lasted out the barrage, but was soon again suffering a further bombardment and Wyse, taking for Moylan, banged into the net to send the Suir men all the farther ahead. Curley was severely tested after this and only his quick movement kept his goal erect.

Greaney, with a long one, put Moylan in possession. This time the Dungarvan man misdirected the finishing shot. A Cork free from the seventy line was taken by Murphy and had an uninterrupted passage to the corner of the net. Mountain served the Waterford side. Quirke, of the visiting side, shot wide and this was followed by a Waterford point per Moylan from long distance. Greaney marked progress from the side line and his townsman Moylan, improved matters by delivering to the square, from where Cork cleared. T. Murphy (Cork) stooped a rush and Cork were pressing when the final whistle sounded leaving Waterford victors with a margin of 2 goals 3 points. TORTURE OF A PRIEST RED BRUTALITY

Members of the so-called Red 'Humanity Society' inflicted a barbarous death upon the parish priest of Torrijos, a village about 9 miles from Toledo on the military road to Maqueda, says 'The Catholic Times.'

At the command of the committee the priest was dragged out of his house, and ordered to blaspheme God, to which he replied he would rather suffer for Christ. The Reds then tore off his clothes, and made him suffer as far as they could collect the Passion of Our Lord. He was made to carry a heavy wooden beam and was dragged through the streets of the village, meanwhile being insulted and given vinegar to drink. They clothed him with the garments of one of the Red Army and placed a crown of thorns on his head.

The terrible sufferings of this martyr were repeated for 3 days, and he was finally shot after deliberations as to whether or not he should be crucified. 'Christian men and women of all denominations should realise that the strenuous attempt to destroy Catholicism in Spain—as in Mexico and Russia—is part of the world-wide plans of the Communist International—which has never been and is not neutral,' states Sir Arnold Wilson, M.P., a non-Catholic, in a letter to Rev. L. J. Dove, P.P., Letchworth.

'The Protestant Church in this country (England) has,' he continues, 'had no guidance in the matter from the Archbishops who have maintained a timorous neutrality, but this is no reason why Protestants should not join with your church in praying that the Christian Church in Spain may have grace and power to withstand those evils which the craft and subtlety of the devil or man worketh against us, and in assisting liberally those who have fled from Spain, especially those of the household of faith.'

WARNING TO PARENTS

When a number of cases under the School Attendance Act came before Mr. McCabe at Carrick-on-Suir Court on Monday, the Justice having heard a number of excuses from the parents of the children, said he had decided to send a number of these children who will not go to school to the Reformatory. The State provides these children with free education and their parents should take that warning from him that in future he will send the children to a Reformatory.

A letter was read from Messrs. Hodnett, solicitors, stating that the points involved required serious consideration and they would let the Council have a definite opinion on the 22nd. Mr. Lynch said that matter had been brought before them six months ago. Mr. Power—And we were led to believe that the Council was not responsible. The Clerk—It is not suggested that you are responsible. The question was adjourned to the 22nd.

Water to Mental Hospital The Water Curator reported that the water meter to the Mental Hospital registered 83,000 gallons for the week.

The Ball Room The Clerk said they had a number of applications from the use of the Ball Room. The repairs would be completed next week. It had been suggested that before letting it (the walls) should be decorated.

Replying to Mr. Whelan, the Clerk said that up to the present, the repairs had cost £70 10s. 0d. Mr. Lynch said it was not worth while but to finish it properly. He proposed that the walls be decorated. Mr. Savage seconded. The Clerk said that Mr. M. Collins, had offered to do the work for £33. Mr. Condon—Where is the money to come from? Mr. Lynch—Where is the money for all the other matters coming from? Mr. McCarthy, proposed and Mr. Macnamara, seconded, that there be no further expenditure on the Ball Room for the present.

Replying to a query, the Clerk said they should increase the hiring charges. In fact, there was a resolution on the books to that effect. Mr. Savage suggested that they be unanimous. It meant only £d. in the £. Mr. Ahern said the re-flooring of the hall was a much more important job.

The Clerk said he had applications for the hall from the British Legion, Southern Rowing Club, Fianna Eireann, Republican Memorial Committee and Lifeboat Institution. Mr. Collins' proposal was submitted to Capt. Watson (of the Youghal Art Works) who expressed approval of it. He said that the decoration could be done anytime.

Mr. Broderick said he would support the proposal if an increase of the charges was included to meet the extra cost. After further discussion a poll was taken with the following result:—For Mr. Lynch's proposition—Messrs. Savage, Smyth, Beausang, Lynch and Forrest—5. Against—Messrs. Macnamara, Watson, Whelan, McCarthy, Broderick, Condon, Ahern, Power, Daly and the Chairman—10. The proposition was therefore defeated.

New Housing Scheme

A letter was read from the Department Local Government approving of the Council's proposed scheme of 28 houses, subject to the incorporation of certain small amendments. Mr. Savage proposed that all necessary steps be taken to get the scheme into operation as quickly as possible. Mr. Whelan, seconded. Mr. Power proposed that the new houses be built in brick. The Clerk—That was the original intention.

Housing Matters

For the greater part of the time, the Council was occupied in dealing with questions concerning the last scheme of housing—rent arrears, notices to quit, new tenancies, etc. A letter was read from the Department calling for a monthly return of the rent collectors, etc. The Clerk—This looks like a whole time job with those houses. Mr. Broderick—They won't allow anything towards a clearance assistant.

Rates on Clearance Areas

A letter was read from the Department re the question of rates on the Clearance Areas of Kenny's Lane, Murphy's Row, etc. It wasn't the function of the Department to determine what rates might be regarded as irrecoverable. It was a question of the Local Authorities subject only to review by the Auditor. Mr. Broderick proposed that the rates in question be struck off, subject to review by the Auditor. This was seconded by Mr. Savage and passed unanimously. Sympathy On the proposition of Mr. Daly, seconded by Mr. Power, a vote of sympathy to Miss Torpey, North Main street, and her brother on the death of their sister, the other members and the Clerk associated themselves with it.

IRISH CO-OPERATIVE MEAT Strike Still Continues

The strike at the factory of the Irish Co-operative Meat Co., at Waterford still continues. Mr. D. J. Gorey, Chairman of the Factory, issued an important statement concerning the strike. 'It has been stated on several occasions,' says Mr. Gorey, in the course of his statement, 'our enterprise at Christendom was founded for two principal objects—(1) to handle the shareholders' produce with the object of raising and maintaining prices at the highest economic level, and (2) to find employment for their families. Government legislation as embodied in the Pigs and Bacon Bill, has nullified object 1, for under that Bill we are not allowed to pay more for live bacon pigs than the price fixed by the Pigs Marketing Board, over which we have no control. No. 2 remains, the maintaining of which is now menaced by the action taken by the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union in attempting to make this a closed factory. Object No. 2 we must and will preserve, and anyone coming into our service must be free to join or not to join a Union if he so wish. We will neither allow compulsion, ultimatums, or the threat of taking action, to be used against our people who find employment here, and until such time as the terms of the letter signed 'T. Dunne,' and bearing date Sept. 16th, 1936, as quoted, is officially repudiated is lodged with the Minister of Industry and Commerce, together with a guarantee signed by responsible officers of the Transport Union that the employees here shall be free to join or not to join as seems best to them, our attitude of recognition disappears so far as we are concerned. 'I take this opportunity of reminding the public,' concludes Mr. Gorey, 'that our position in industry is unique. We are not the ordinary business concern. We are not bloated capitalists grinding the faces of the poor. Our 6,000 shareholders, mostly small farmers, would be glad to change places with the men on strike, under their conditions of work, and wages from £2 to £4 10s. per week.'

YOUGHAL COURSE CLUB

A special meeting of the above was held in the Town Hall, (Mr. P. O'Sullivan, Chairman, presiding) for the purpose of taking steps to revive the local meeting. A financial statement was submitted by Mr. W. Fowkes, Treasurer, and was declared satisfactory. A letter was read from Mr. T. A. Morris, Secretary I.C.C., Clonmel, granting a licence to hold a public coursing meeting. Mr. W. Shanahan, Hon. Sec., reported that the field had been inspected by Mr. M. Grogan, I.C.C. steward, who stated that it was an ideal venue for the meet. On the proposition of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Fowkes, a cordial vote of thanks to their patrons and friends for the support, financial and otherwise they had given the project. It was decided to hold a 45 Drive with the object of supplementing the funds in hands.

YOUGHAL DISTRICT COURT

The only cases for disposal were a few undefended civil bills.

KILMACTHOMAS

BEEES—Beekeepers in the town already obliged to feed the bees, lest they starve. The last season's honey has all owing to the wet summer feeding the stocks during winter and spring will probably amount that may be the summer's honey supply.

DRAINAGE—The party of local men work of carrying out drainage scheme involving landwards in the parish, going ahead splendidly in the direction and supervising competent official of the Works, in the person of Mr. Works, in the person of Mr. Works. The farmers who are included in the project benefit immensely by it, portions of other townships will be similarly drained. By the way, Mr. Conway, perary man, he was in Athlone a decade of years ago, functioning as a railwayman at the principal cities in the Black and Tans raided his on a night in 1920, they took of his and shot him dead nearby.

NEUTRAL!—Apparently a non-party 'great war' now being a 'tribe of Brex' is the Kilmeboy who recently placed bits with a cast which the Cast is now rearing own progeny.

AN APPOINTMENT—The Management of the Operative Creamery and Mr. Michael Brennan (of Luke Brennan, Ballinacorney, Dungarvan) to the manager branch creamery and Bridge, in succession to Mr. who had held the position seven years and who resign securing the management intensive similar concern in hood of his native town. Mr. Brennan has just left Mahon Bridge, where the volume of business is daily.

HARVESTING MANGOLD—The harvesting of the now taking place on the farms. In preparation of beet to the factories (C and Mallow), agricultural forward rapidly with the should be in a good position to expedite when either of the factories name that the Mallow strike is finally settled for all come delivery time. Best crops somewhat below the average very uneven crop. The late this year proved a poor one.

POPULAR DUNHILL'S FARM DEMISE—Fortified by the rites of Mr. Edmond Norris, farmer Dunhill, breathed his last week (12th inst.) after an illness of 50 years. The deceased only surviving brother of Presentation Convent, Moss Pierce Fitzgerald, Lisnagar, was of a most religious and position, and his passing regret throughout East Waterford. He was well and popular; a sound Nationalist and enthusiastic supporter of the pastimes of the Gael. The companion by a large car moved to the Parish Church the evening of the 13th inst. the celebration of Mass for the repose of his soul, morning the interment took adjoining cemetery. Arrived a hansom.

GOOD TIDINGS—The troops of friends and of Mr. James Fleming, Stratford, will be glad to learn that the gentleman is now on the full and complete recovery from his illness, and all wish him to continue on duty at his office in the Mr. Fleming and his most have been residing at Duncannon for twenty years, and acquaints with the people of the part of Portlough. KILMACTHOMAS NEWS.

BEES—Beekeepers in the Mid-Deise area are already obliged to feed their stocks to prevent them starving. Their profit from last season's honey has been practically nil owing to the wet summer. The cost of feeding the stocks during the coming winter and spring will probably absorb the amount that may be realised from next summer's honey supply.

DRAINAGE—The party of local men engaged at the work of carrying out a much-needed drainage scheme through a number of townlands in the parish of Kilrossanty are going ahead splendidly at their job, under the direction and supervision of a highly-competent official of the Board of Public Works, in the person of Mr. William Conway. The farmers whose lands are included in the project will undoubtedly benefit immensely by it. It is stated that portions of other townlands in Mid-Deise will be similarly drained in due course. By the way, Mr. Conway is a South Tipperary man; he was in America for more than a decade of years, during which, functioning as a railway inspector he visited the principal cities in the U.S.A. When Black and Tans raided his native tree-roof on a night in 1920, they took out a brother of his and shot him dead on the roadside nearby.

NEUTRAL!—Apparently a non-participant in the "great war" now being waged against the "tribe of Bree" is the Kilmacthomas school boy who recently placed two young rabbits with a cat which is rearing kittens. The cat is now rearing them with her own progeny.

AN APPOINTMENT—The Management of the Dungarvan Co-operative Creamery and Stores appointed Mr. Michael Brennan (brother of Mr. Luke Brennan, Ballintlea, Old Parish, Dungarvan) to the management of their branch creamery and stores at Mahon Bridge, in succession to Mr. Joe Twomey, who had held the position for the past seven years and who resigned recently on securing the management of a more extensive similar concern in the neighbourhood of his native town of Charleville. Mr. Brennan has just taken up duty at Mahon Bridge, where a pretty good volume of business is being transacted daily.

HARVESTING MANGOLDS—The harvesting of the mangold crop is now taking place on most Mid-Deise farms. In preparation for the delivery of beet to the factories (Carlow, Thurles, and Mallow), agriculturists are pushing forward rapidly with their work and should be in a good position to handle beet expeditiously when required by either of the factories named. They hope that the Mallow strike will be satisfactorily settled for all concerned by beet-delivery time. Root crops of all kinds are somewhat below the average, beet being a very uneven crop. The late setting of beet this year proved a poor crop in some districts.

POPULAR DUNHILL'S FARMER'S DEMISE—Fortified by the rites of Holy Church, Mr. Edmund Norris, farmer, Shanaculane, Dunhill, breathed his last on Monday week (12th inst.) after an illness of some weeks and at the comparatively early age of 50 years. The deceased, who was the only surviving brother of Sister Gerrard, Presentation Convent, Mooncoin, and Mrs. Pierce Fitzgerald, Lisnageragh, Bonmahon was of a most religious and charitable disposition, and his passing evoked general regret throughout East Waterford, where he was well and popularly known. He was a sound Nationalist and a most enthusiastic supporter of the games and pastimes of the Gael. The remains, accompanied by a large cortege, were removed to the Parish Church, Dunhill, on the evening of the 13th inst. and, following the celebration of Masses of Requiem for the repose of his soul on the next morning, the interment took place in the adjoining cemetery. Ar dheis Deo raibh a h-anam.

GOOD TIDINGS—The troops of friends and well-wishers of Mr. James Fleming, Stationmaster, Dunhill, are glad to learn that the genial gentleman is now on the high road to complete recovery from his recent serious illness, and all will hope to see him again on duty at his office in the near future. Mr. Fleming and his most estimable wife have been residing at Darrow for the best part of twenty years, and are great favourites with the people of that picturesque part of Portlargo. They are parents of Messrs. Jim and Andy Fleming, who are both in responsible clerical positions, under the Controlling Board of the G.S.R., following their brilliant Collegiate courses at Mount Sion Schools, Waterford. Jim is a musician (violin and piano) of considerable merit and Andy is a prominent hurler of the Deise, and he is also one of the "stars" of the Stradbally senior football team.

A KILL ITEM—Mr. P. J. Baldwin's Hall at Kill, was again the scene of an enjoyable few hours dancing on last Sunday night, the music being excellently provided by O'Brien and Weldon Brothers' Orchestra. No other village in the land can boast of a more commodious and up-to-date equipped hall than that of hospitable Kill. Sunday night's patrons included parties of ladies and gentlemen from Waterford, Tramore, Portlargo, Kilmacross, Bonmahon, Kilmacthomas and Carrick-on-Suir.

MINOR DISCOURTESIES—One dislikes to utter it, but some of the "fair sex" make life harder for well-meaning men. The Deise is one of the best strongholds of civility, and Kilmacthomas is still one of the towns in which men offer seats to ladies in crowded buses.

Few men object to doing this, but few men like to be conspicuous—so, women-folk, when next an embarrassed member of the stronger species rises with neck and ears assuming a crimson hue, don't argue with the dear "devil" and pretend you don't want the seat. Take it and smile your gratitude, please. He'll enjoy standing after that. Nobody objects to telling a fellow how many horses Gordon Richards has ridden successfully and otherwise to date, or how Annetstown Anne and the Metal Man have come by their "dead cert" for the Cambridgeshire, but few of us received with any pleasure the feel of the narrator's breath on the back of the neck as he leans forward to unfold his information over our shoulders, which is a not infrequent happening in buses. One of the most common of bus troubles, all the more regrettable in that it annoys the female more than the male, is the unextinguished cigarette. It is easy to drop the "butt" of a "rag" and forget it, and nostrils used to nicotine rarely notice the unpleasantness, but a smouldering cigarette-end can produce a most nauseating aroma. As a matter of fact this reference to the habit was prompted by the sight of a respectfully dressed, elderly lady, who in a bus on her way to work, had dropped her cigarette. It is easy to drop and forget to remember the discarded cigarette, but it is just as easy to extinguish it. Much more might be written on the topic of minor discourtesies, for their name is legion. There is one consolation, however—in nearly every instance thoughtlessness is the cause, and the average human will rarely continue to cause annoyance once he realises he is doing so. And, well—that's that!

THE "ORDER OF THE BATH"—In a Portlargo bathroom, last week-end, your simple scribbler was amused by a comic picture of a child "tubbing" himself, with the following lines underneath: This is not the place to choose—To read in—dream or snooze; The only thing to do while here Is jus' to wash you'self, ole dear!

We Put It To You (Serious And Not)—That, unlike the vast majority of their sex, the wise and otherwise virgins of Nire Valley do not always angle for what they want with tears. That there are more Bonmahon bachelors who have missed their chances than Stradbally spinsters who have been missed by chance.

That the Metal Man has just made the interesting discovery that both the best writers and the best burglars favour short sentences—

That, despite the unpleasant tenor of foreign news during the past three weeks, the way is open for more concrete discussions on the subject of the suitability of the crest of Croughaun as the terminus of an international service of "NEER-APLANES"—

That the Newtown "45" Card Drive is now being played for in parts far and near—

That regardless of high prices, the devaluation of the franc, and the slow but sure increase in the cost of living, all rightly respected rate-paying residents of the Rathgormack region are rejoicing in bigger and better "spuds"—AND—

That a Kill-born bean-a-tighe is the first person (singular!) in the whole wide-world to predict that all electricity users in An Saorstát will be affected by a Government Bill, to be introduced to the Dail next year, to stop radio interference, from a given date.

THE PRESENT MONTH—A darling daughter of the Bohadon district has just informed her Kilbrien boy that she has been reading that October should be the luckiest month of the year, and although professing no great belief in assertions of the kind her lad was pleased to know she was not displeased to read it. Whether or not we scoff at palmistry, phrenology, astrology, eugenics, crystal gazing, etc., we prefer pleasant things to be interpreted through these media concerning ourselves than dismal and undesirable predictions, a fact to which some of those who practice these cults are not oblivious. The reason why October ought to be the luckiest month is of a negative kind that is not very reassuring. It is said to have only four unlucky days. From this it is to be inferred that the other eleven months are dotted with many more unlucky dates. It is good to know that three of October's sinister days are past—the 4th, 6th and 16th. (They were not unlucky from the weather point of view, as three days fuller of the charm of autumn have not blossomed the countryside for a long time). Perhaps we should not mention the remaining one, but here it is—the 24th. Let us hope it holds no terrors for us, and that every reader of the "Observer" will survive its entire run of twenty-four hours without mishap or ill-fortune.

IN BRIEF—Ballyloneen National Schools were closed this week owing to an outbreak of measles in the district. Playing on the home pitch last Sunday, Fahs bested Stradbally in a friendly football test. Playing at Ballymacarbery on the same day the Clonmel Commercial's collared a lucky win over Kilrossanty in the semi-final of the Ballymacarbery football tournament for a set of medals. Mid Deise Gaels join with the rest in saluting the victorious home-county comely combination of last Sunday in lovely Lismore. All roads lead to Dungarvan Gaelic Field to-morrow (Sunday).

YOUGHAL NOTES.

Cyclomania—Frequent complaints have been voiced from time to time regarding the reckless and dangerous conduct of young cyclists, dashing madly through our narrow streets, risking their own or others safety. A striking instance of this occurred recently. A lady was crossing the street when along came one of those "speed fans," knocking her down. Were it not for the prompt action of a thoughtful passer by, who quickly pulled her on to the footpath, the incident might have ended in a tragedy, for a motor was coming along at the time and although the driver brought all his brakes into action he could hardly have stopped up in time to avoid her. Another dangerous practice is that of cycling without lights. Quite a number of offenders have lately been summoned and exemplary fines imposed. The District Justice remarking that for the future to have proper lamps for the intended putting on heavier fines. Another very reprehensible practice is that of 3 or 4 or more riding abreast on our country roads. If a motor came along behind them, some must swerve aside and even if they get out of the way in time, the risk remains that they might crash into one another and very easily get seriously injured. In connection with this cycling nuisance, an incident that ultimately ended fatally occurred a short time ago. It appears that a local man while stepping backwards to avoid an oncoming bicycle fell and sustained serious injury to an ankle. The trouble developed, he was transferred from Youghal to a Cork Hospital, where the poor fellow underwent several operations. He finally succumbed as a result of the injuries he received in his fall. It is stated that the cyclist was not to blame in the circumstances, but the incident shows that even ordinary ordinary cycles can do great mischief, when they are ridden recklessly, often without bell or light. As regards motor cycles and motors, it is nothing short of providential how there are not frequent accidents in our narrow streets, with all the lanes abutting on them, seeing that drivers dash along at 30 to 40 m.p.h. if not more. Let us hope it will not prove a case of "shutting the stable door when the steed is stolen."

Late Mr. Michael Moloney, Solicitor, Midleton. The death took place of Mr. Michael Moloney, solicitor, a member of a well-known Cork family, prominently identified with the legal profession. The deceased gentleman, who was 42 years of age, was the third son of the late Mr. John Moloney, solicitor, and of Mrs. Moloney, Midleton, and a brother of Mr. H. J. Moloney, K.C., Dublin, and of Mr. G. J. Moloney, solicitor (of Messrs. McCarthy, Hanrahan and Moloney, solicitors), Cork. Educated at Christian Brothers' Schools, Midleton and Clongowood Wood College, Mr. Moloney volunteered for service in 1914, following the outbreak of the Great War, and subsequently served with distinction with the Dublin Fusiliers. He took part in the Gallipoli campaign and was present at the historic landing at Suvla Bay. Later he served with the same regiment in Bulgaria. When the retreat from Kevis Ridge took place, Mr. Moloney was asked to hold the position while the main body of the British forces retreated. Though he was captured, he and his men were able to hold the position until their object was successfully achieved. For his part in that action, Mr. Moloney was mentioned in dispatches. He was held a prisoner by the Bulgarians for some time but was released when Bulgaria capitulated. The war over, Mr. Moloney returned to Ireland to pursue his legal studies, and in 1919 he qualified as a solicitor. He practised for about three years in Youghal, where he proved himself an able and learned advocate. He was then appointed solicitor to the Provincial Bank of Ireland, and took up residence in Dublin, a position he held at the time of his death.

BACK FROM "DEAD"—Woman Gives Doctors Strange Shock In Belgrade. Doctors, preparing to hold a post-mortem on the body of a young woman, Pepica Brklichitch, who lay covered with a shroud, and with candies at her head and feet, were astonished when the "corpse" suddenly sat up, removed the shroud from her head, and asked: "What do you want here?" As soon as he could recover from the shock, one of the doctors blurted out: "We've come to cut you up." It was then explained to her that Jure Dubravchitch, a tax collector, had surrendered to the police, declaring that he had accidentally killed her while beating her, and Pepica's neighbours, believing her to be dead, had her laid out. Although her body was covered from head to foot with bruises, the girl refused to charge Dubravchitch. She simply remarked: "Ayr jura is a Lika man and can hit hard. Bot I am a Lika woman and can stand it."

TOBACCO PROSPECTUS—Tobacco Growing this season clearly demonstrates the experience gained by Growers during the past three years and in spite of most unfavourable weather conditions crops have, in most cases, turned out satisfactory. New Growers, also have, with the necessary care and attention, in general been successful in producing Tobacco of a high standard. It is interesting to note that according to statistics from previous years the average Grower's return for a medium crop was around £50 per acre, while from £80 to £100 per acre has been obtained for crops of extra good quality. General expenses incurred in the Growing and Curing of such an acre can, with experience be cut down to a very low figure. It is understood that the Department of Agriculture will, in the coming year, be prepared to approve of the issue of further Licenses to Growers whom they consider to have suitable land and buildings and also to curtail to an extent, certain restrictions with regards to the maximum area allocated to each Grower. Therefore it would be advisable for intending Tobacco Growers to make the necessary application at an early date, to their Local Customs and Excise Officer, to grow in 1937. Under the Act, all applications must be received before the end of December.

JILTED MAN STEALS A BRIDE—Within one hour Jelena Jecipovitch, the prettiest girl in the Banja Luka district of Bosnia, was stolen and regained. On the eve of her wedding a jilted lover waited in ambush until she went to the well. He seized her, threw her into a waiting cart, and drove to his home in a neighbouring village. Jelena's fiancé gathered his friends, rode hard after the raider, and caught up the cart at the very gates of the thief's house. There a large party was being prepared to "celebrate" with music and dancing. The thief had already entered his home. Jelena's fiancé seized his opportunity, turned the cart, whipped up the horses, and carried his bride back home. The remainder of the night was spent by the rescuers in singing until the church opened next morning.

THE BEET FACTORY STRIKE

The Companies proposal that the workers at the Beet Factories should continue at work was rejected by the men and the Beet operations all over the country are held up. A mass meeting of strikers was held on the road near the Mallow Sugar Factory. It was addressed by the I.T. & C.W.U. Organiser, Mr. Patrick J. O'Brien. He stated that the Sugar Company had sent a mandamus that men must resume work for the entire manufacturing campaign before any more negotiations could take place. He asked the men if they were agreeable to that. The response from the meeting was a general shouting of "No." Mr. O'Brien then asked them if they wished the negotiations to be through their trade unions and they assented. All the men then removed their head-gear, and while they stood to attention bareheaded, they repeated a declaration read by Mr. O'Brien in the following terms: "We, the members of all trade unions on strike, hereby pledge ourselves to resist the company's attempt to smash trade unionism, and, in the name of Conolly, we hereby determine to take all steps at our command to press our claim to a successful issue, and we further declare that all negotiations must be conducted through our recognised trade unions." On the pledge being given, Mr. O'Brien publicly set fire to the document received from the company amid the cheers of the crowd. When he applied the match to the paper it flickered for a few seconds, and one man roared: "It won't burn, there is too much poison in it." The 12 Czechoslovagians employed as technicians in the factory were invited to join the strikers and did so.

The death took place of Mr. Michael Moloney, solicitor, a member of a well-known Cork family, prominently identified with the legal profession. The deceased gentleman, who was 42 years of age, was the third son of the late Mr. John Moloney, solicitor, and of Mrs. Moloney, Midleton, and a brother of Mr. H. J. JILTED MAN STEALS A BRIDE—Within one hour Jelena Jecipovitch, the prettiest girl in the Banja Luka district of Bosnia, was stolen and regained. On the eve of her wedding a jilted lover waited in ambush until she went to the well. He seized her, threw her into a waiting cart, and drove to his home in a neighbouring village. Jelena's fiancé gathered his friends, rode hard after the raider, and caught up the cart at the very gates of the thief's house. There a large party was being prepared to "celebrate" with music and dancing. The thief had already entered his home. Jelena's fiancé seized his opportunity, turned the cart, whipped up the horses, and carried his bride back home. The remainder of the night was spent by the rescuers in singing until the church opened next morning.

DEISE DOINGS

CHRONICLED AND CRITICISED

CARRIG NA GAEDHEAL (Specially Contributed.)

The County Waterford's Facilities—For Our Best Winter Sport—In the current issue of "Irish Travel" (the official organ of the Irish Tourist Association) there is published a list of Irish Hunts, Masters, Secretaries, fees, etc. Judging by the list County Waterford has the best facilities for the winter sport of hunting than any County in Ireland. With two packs of Fox-hounds; two packs of Harriers and one pack of Beagles. No other County figures so prominently in the list. In addition to the hunts named, a local sportsman informs me that there are three privately owned packs of Harriers in Waterford County. In the same issue an interesting article is published entitled "Irish Hunting through English eyes" by W. E. D. an old hand at the game.

Waterford School For Irish Dancing—The Best of any Provincial Centre—A very successful school of Irish dancing is conducted in the Astoria Ball Room Waterford City, on Mondays and Fridays, where about three hundred buaille and ceili are taught Irish step and figure dancing. Three public ceilidhs were held in the Astoria last winter when there was a big gathering of parents and friends of the children. The exhibitions of the National figure dancing were much enjoyed. Amongst the patrons on those occasions was the Marchioness of Waterford and a party of relatives from Curraghmore, who were delighted with the Irish music, song and dance. I understand that Lady Waterford invited the teachers—Miss J. Toms and Miss B. Collins to give dancing lessons to the children in the Curraghmore district. The popular Ceilidhs will be organised again during the coming months and it is anticipated that they will be a large attendance of the general public.

The Mased Hornpipe and Double Jig Displays—Unique Features—The Waterford School of Irish Dancing referred to in the previous paragraph is carried on under the auspices of the Irish Dancing Commission. Judging by the number of children catered for and the variety of Irish folk dances taught it is the most flourishing school of the kind in any provincial centre in the South-East. The kilted costumes of the grown-up kiddies and the Irish Colleen dresses of the tiny tots add considerably to the attractiveness of the dances, the buaille are also neatly attired. The parades (preparatory to dancing) the mased hornpipes and double jigs and reels are features of the Ceilidhs that look very picturesque. There is no doubt that an excellent training in the native dances is provided for the rising generation in Portlaine. I might add that competitors from the Waterford school of dancing won several valuable prizes at the Father Mathew Feis in Dublin this year.

His Rightful Place In A First-Class Carriage—"The Gentleman who pays the Rent"—Pedestrians walking on the old Tramore Road in the vicinity of Ballinud will notice a first-class railway carriage drawn up in a farmstead the property of Mr. Teddy Lynch. At first sight it would appear to be shunted into a siding as the Tramore Railway is not far distant. In reality it is an old first-class coach (one time the property of the Tramore Railway Company) which was purchased by Mr. Lynch and now utilised for the purpose of a pigsty. A sow and a large litter of bonhams are comfortably housed in it. Peeping out of the windows of the first-class compartment the piggies look quite "stuck up" in their aristocratic aloofness and feel that they are the makings of "quality" bacon. The pig used to be referred to sarcastically by English writers in the Land League agitation days as "the gentleman who pays the rent." Whatever about trade fluctuations or slumps in agriculture produce the rearing of porkers is still a paying proposition for farmers. And the pigs have a claim to first-class board and lodgings.

The Waterford Mayoral Chain—The Missing "Links"—The Waterford Mayoral chain was referred to at the Corporation Sworn Inquiry last week. The Chain which was introduced in 1912 is now the most elaborate and costly emblem of Mayoral office of any County Borough in the South-East. It has been the custom for every Mayor to add a link to the chain. In pre-war times the cost of a gold link was about £5. The custom has fallen into abeyance for many years. The last link was added by the late Dr. J. J. O'Sullivan, who was Mayor for the years 1915-16 and 1916-17. The family crest and motto is stamped on each link. A local jeweller, Mr. Thomas Bell, High Street (formerly of Messrs. Davidson and Jack, The Quay) who fixed the last link on the chain and also valued the insignia for insurance purposes informs me that the most valuable part is the gold medallion. The latter is ornamented with the City Arms and Motto in white enamel. Mr. Bell is of opinion that it would be impossible today to get a similar specimen of the Goldsmith's craft. The Mayoral Chain is insured for one thousand pounds. If the tradition of adding a link had been continued there would be a treble row of chains at the present time. Will the present Sworn Inquiry be instrumental in producing the "Missing Links"? That is the question!

The New Insurance Act—The First Irish Insurance Company To Comply with the conditions of the Act

The first transfer of business by a composite insurance company as required by the Insurance Act of 1936 has been made by the Irish Life and General Insurance Co., Ltd., to the Insurance Corporation of Ireland Ltd. The Irish Life and General Insurance Co., Ltd., does a considerable amount of business in the City and County of Waterford. Under the agreement the Insurance Corporation in future will transact the fire and accident business hitherto done by the Irish Life and General. The Corporation will deal with the Company's existing contracts in its fire and accident branch and issue new policies as from the renewal dates. The Irish Life and General is to handle life business only.

Reciprocity And Co-operation—The Motto of Success—

According to a statement issued to the Press the arrangements are of the most amicable character and it is confidently anticipated that there will be reciprocity and co-operation between the two concerns for the development of the business transacted by each. I might add that the Headquarters for the Deise of the Irish Life and General Insurance Company is at Barronstrand Street, Waterford. Mr. Joseph McDonald an experienced insurance official is District Manager of the Irish Life and General.

DEATH OF MRS. CATHERINE COFFEY, CARRIGEEN, CAPPOQUIN

Sincere regret has been caused over a wide area in West Waterford by the death of Mrs. Catherine Coffey, Carrigeen, Cappoquin, which occurred at a comparatively early age after a brief illness on Wednesday 14th inst.

Deceased, who was relict of the late Mr. Matthew Coffey, Farmer, Carrigeen, was a member of one of the oldest and most respectable families in West Waterford, the Keenans of Kibree, Cappoquin and was sister of Messrs. Thomas and Michael Keane, Hardware and General Merchants, Youghal, and also of Sister M. Joseph Xavier, Convent of Mercy, Stradbally, Co. Waterford, and cousin of Rev. Mother Margaret Mary, Superioress of the same Convent, besides being connected, with many of the most popular families in West Waterford.

Sprung from such a decent stock, she was a lady of a refined and unassuming manner, whose kind and generous disposition, coupled with her devout and religious character as a most exemplary Catholic, won for her the respect and esteem of everybody, and made her extremely popular with all classes.

During the later stages of her illness she was regularly attended by the Very Rev. M. Carroll, P.P., Modeligo, so that her death proved a most peaceful and happy one after she had received the last rites of the Holy Church of which she had been such a faithful and exemplary member.

The remains were removed from her late residence on Thursday evening to Affane Catholic Church, when there was a very large attendance of mourners from Youghal, Cappoquin, Kibree, Ballinacult, and other places to pay a fitting mark of respect to her memory.

On Friday morning Office and Requiem High Mass was offered up for the repose of her soul in the Church before a very large congregation.

The celebrant of the Mass was the Rev. P. Power, St. John's College, Waterford, (nephew of deceased), and the other clergymen officiating included—Very Rev. M. Carroll, P.P., Modeligo; Very Rev. J. Gleeson, P.P., Aglish; Very Rev. J. Cullinane, P.P., Tourneena; Rev. Father McGrath, C.C., do.; Rev. D. Quinlan, C.C., Modeligo, and Rev. T. Dunphy, C.C., Cappoquin.

After the solemn obsequies, the funeral took place to the family burial place in Tourneena Cemetery when there was an unusually large and representative attendance of the general public from all parts, which afforded striking evidence of the great respect in which deceased had been held by all, and the deep sorrow caused by the death of such a justly-esteemed lady.

The funeral cortege was headed by the Very Rev. M. Carroll, P.P., Modeligo, and the Rev. Father Quinlan, C.C., do., and on arrival at Tourneena Catholic Church the coffin was received by the Very Rev. J. Cullinane, P.P., and the Rev. P. Power, (nephew of deceased), who later read the final prayers at the graveside.

The chief mourners included:—The Misses Eileen and Maud Coffey (daughters); Patrick Coffey (son); Mrs. Power, Lackendarra, and Miss Nellie Keane, Youghal, (sisters); James Keane, Ballinagulke, Ballinacult, and Thomas and M. Keane, Youghal (brothers); Michael and Peter Keane, Kibree, and Thos. and Jas. Power, Lackendarra, (nephews); the Misses Bridget, Josie, Mary and Kitty Keane (nieces); Thomas Keane, Ballinagulke; Patrick and Mrs. Walsh, Cappoquin; Miss A. McGrath, Dungarvan, Mrs. O'Keefe, and Miss B. O'Keefe, Tourneena, Edmond and Mrs. Cullinane, do.; Mrs. J. Power, Emmet Power, Patrick and Mrs. Coffey, Mellerray; Patrick Coffey, Coolagurthboy; William and Mrs. Coffey, Cappoquin; Michael and Mrs. Mason, do., etc. (cousins and relatives).

Wreaths and Mass Cards were sent by the following:—"From Eileen, Maud and Paddy"; "From Nora, Nellie and Joseph"; "From Sister Joseph Xavier, Convent of Mercy, Stradbally"; "From the Rev. Mother and Community, Stradbally Convent"; "From Bridget, Josie and Mary"; "From Jim and Minnie"; "From Martha and Paddy"; "From Josie Mason"; "From Mrs. Kirby, Carrigeen"; etc., etc.—R.I.P. The coffin was supplied and all the funeral arrangements admirably carried out by Mr. P. Walsh, Undertaker, Cappoquin.

POPULAR POSTMAN'S RETIREMENT

The retirement has taken place of Mr. Michael Curley, Town and District Postman of Tallow, Co. Waterford. He entered the service of the Post Office as Telegraph Messenger and assistant postman in 1884, in 1902 he was promoted to the position of Rural Postman between Tallow and Knockanore, which post he held until 1918 when he was appointed Senior Postman to the town and district, in which position he continued until his retirement.

The distance between, viz. 10 miles he covered each day in a donkey trap until 1912, when he was supplied with a post office bicycle with which after some exciting moments he became familiar and succeeded in mounting and controlling with a good deal of effort. On this machine he carried out his arduous duties for a period of six years until 1918, when he was appointed Senior Postman. It has been computed that during his term of service he covered a distance of a quarter of a million miles. His early morning greetings, his kindly smile, and genial banter will be missed by all and sundry with whom he came in contact on his rounds, particularly the children of school-going age to whom he was a familiar figure.

His eldest son occupies an important post in Cork G.P.O., and his youngest son, Michael is the well-known hurler, whose brilliant goal-keeping was an outstanding feature at the recent matches in London and Dublin and Lismore.

His favourite pastime was fishing and he availed of every opportunity to ply his rod and line with a good measure of success in the lower and upper reaches of the river Bride.

His many friends wish him many long and happy years to enjoy his well-earned rest.

CLONMEL MENTAL HOSPITAL'S FINANCES

A letter from the staff of the Clonmel Mental Hospital, complaining that the payment of their wages had been held up for a month, was read at a meeting of the Committee of Management of the institution. A letter was also read from the head office of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union on the subject, and stating that no explanation for the failure to pay the staff had been given. As the matter was very serious for the members of the staff it was requested that payment be made without delay. A third letter was read from the Local Government Department, asking for an explanation of the delay.

Dr. Fitzgerald, R.M.S., said in reply he had written to the Department stating that as the funds to the credit of the institution with the treasurer were insufficient it was found impossible to issue paying orders to members of the staff for wages or to contractors after the meeting on September 9th.

Mr. O'Driscoll—Every one of them knew the reason why they could not pay the staff, because we had not the money. Mr. Ryan said the payment of the staff should be ensured.

Chairman—How could we pay them when there was no money available?

Mr. Quilliam (Clerk) said on receipt of money from the North and South Riding County Councils the wages had been paid.

It was stated that the estimate for the past six months had been over-expended in a number of items.

Mr. Commissioner Meghen, said he did not blame the staff for looking for their money and the committee would do their best to see that it was paid, but in return they asked the staff to see that the institution was run as economically as possible. It was necessary to economise if the estimate was not to be exceeded and some things might have to be cut.

Dr. Fitzgerald, R.M.S., said the main trouble was that they had been under-estimating for many years and were trying to make up in a terrible hurry for that.

It was decided to apply for sanction to an overdraft of £3,000.

TALLOW COURSIING CLUB

The Tallow Coursing Club richly deserve to be congratulated on the success which has attended their efforts to secure a more convenient and suitable coursing enclosure. They have secured for a term of years an ideal field on the Parker Estate at Janerville, Tallow.

At the moment the laying out of the ground is in progress under the guidance of the President Mr. J. J. Walsh, and the Hon. Secretaries P. Ryan and D. Sheehan. The Treasurer, Mr. J. M. Beecher and several very active members of the committee and the enthusiasm with which the work has been undertaken, and the thoroughness with which it is being carried out all go to prove the earnestness of the Committee to provide for the coursing men of the County of Waterford and the neighbouring Counties of Cork and Tipperary, a coursing field par excellence. A large stock of stout racing hares have been secured and arrangements are being completed for the running of trials at a very early date, the announcement of which will appear in the Press shortly and dog owners both near and far will have the pleasure of being able to see their dogs in action, previous to their intensive training for the forthcoming coursing meetings. The Tallow Club will hold their meetings on the new grounds on November 11th and December 9th next. Before taking over possession of the above-mentioned lands, at a specially convened meeting of the Committee, on the motion of the Chairman, a special vote of thanks was unanimously tendered to Mr. E. Percival Maxwell of Morehill House, for his great kindness in placing at the disposal of the committee for a long number of years free of rent a portion of the lands on the Morehill Estate, on which very many successful Coursing Meetings were carried out under the auspices of the Tallow Coursing Club.

NO. 300.—EIGHT YEARS' OLD

THE TAIL-WAGGERS' BIRTHDAY

By PHILOKOUN.

EIGHT years ago this month, the Tail-Waggers' Club was founded, and in a short time the novel idea had appealed so much to dog lovers generally that members began to roll in by thousands. Before long, at the present rate of progress, we shall have reached the 670,000 mark. During the present summer the rate of recruiting has been accelerated considerably. A few ladies are doing excellent service in bringing in new members. Miss Chapman of Kingston-on-Thames, described as the "second best recruiter," has just completed her eight hundred.

Sometimes the Club is asked to perform rather out-of-the-way services. A lady called the other day who had met two charming people at the seaside. Having forgotten their address, she asked if we could supply it, as they had a Tail-Wagger. Mr. H. W. Austin, the tennis player, has been soliciting information apropos of his Gordon setter, and Squadron-Leader Stainforth, whose performance in the Schneider Cup race will be remembered, called in one day to get a new medallion for his dog which will be left in charge of his father while he is on foreign service.

The staff at 58, Mark Lane has been working at high pressure dealing with the letters that have arrived in response to Mr. Leslie Henson's wireless appeal on behalf of the Guide Dogs for the Blind. More than 7,000 were received and there were many calls as well. A number of small donations came from ex-service men, who remembered with gratitude how Mr. Henson entertained them during the War. We are deeply grateful to those who responded so generously, for the work depends entirely upon the goodwill of sympathisers, and its scope is limited only by the extent of donations. The Tail-Waggers' Club has given accommodation to the Guide Dogs for the Blind Association, which is run in a most economical manner. I wonder if Mr. Henson realised what he was undertaking when he launched the appeal. He must have spent a lot of time endorsing cheques.

Having been interested in dogs all my life, I am in a position to appreciate the changes that have come about in the treatment of our domestic pets as a result of the educational campaign undertaken by the Tail-Waggers' Club. The Kennel Club, whose great annual show will take place at the Crystal Palace on October 7th and 8th, is concerned principally with the aristocracy; the Tail-Waggers' Club takes in everybody's dog, from the highest to the lowest in the land. The 104th Royal enrolment was made recently by the Begum of Bhopal, who also sent a donation. Members of our Royal Family have been good enough to encourage the work by making some of their dogs Tail-Waggers, and any number of notabilities appear in our card-indexes.

NOTE—This chat is issued by THE TAIL-WAGGERS' CLUB OF IRELAND, 23, Old Abbey Street (off Marlborough Street), Dublin, Co. The new Club will be pleased to answer any enquiries submitted by Tail-Waggers owners in connection with canine hygiene and welfare.

INTERESTING CASE ABOUT A DYNAMO

At Carrick-on-Suir District Court on Monday, before Mr. McCabe, D.J., G. Barnes, Green street, Callan, Co. Kilkenny, sued William Morrissey, Kickham street, Carrick-on-Suir, for £3 for repairs to a dynamo and engine belonging to defendant's van.

Mr. Power, solr., for plaintiff; Mr. Murphy, solr., for defendant. Plaintiff's case was that defendant came to his garage in Carrick and asked to have the dynamo repaired. Witness's mechanic undertook to repair the dynamo with armature and other Ford parts. The cost of the repairs was £3.

In reply to Mr. Murphy, witness said all the parts he put in the dynamo were new Ford parts. He knew of the Auto Electric Co., Dublin, but he never got Ford parts from them. The new Ford armature he put into Morrissey's dynamo cost £1 17s. 6d. He was not aware that refitted second-hand armatures could have been got for 15s. each.

Justice—If that is going to be the defence the case will not last long. Defendant was examined and stated that Mr. Barnes gave him a second-hand dynamo to keep the van going until the old dynamo would be repaired. All witness asked Mr. Barnes to do was to put an amateur in the dynamo. Witness got a bill for £3 for dynamo he had got. He told Mr. Barnes he would give him £3 if he would give him back his repaired old dynamo.

Mr. Power—And then you would have two dynamos for £3. The Justice having examined the account sent to Mr. Morrissey by Mr. Barnes said it was not £3 for a dynamo but £3 for repairs to Mr. Morrissey's old dynamo.

Mr. Murphy—My client's car is old and he did not want more than an amateur put in the dynamo. The Justice said the usual arrangement made by repairers at garages had been observed by Mr. Barnes. He had lent to Morrissey a dynamo to carry on while his old dynamo was being repaired and refitted and then he sent Mr. Morrissey a bill for the work done. He gave Mr. Barnes a decree for £3 and allowed him 10/6 for the motor car from Callan to the Court.

EVEN IN A BAD SEASON

BAD SEASON

Many farmers have been put off sowing wheat by the belief that it was "a fair weather crop" which would not succeed in a bad season. But there's no longer any ground for such a belief. Sowing conditions during last Winter and Spring were not favourable, and the Summer that followed was bad. Yet most of the wheat grown is reasonably good. No! Wheat is not "a fair weather crop." It is a hardy crop that can be grown with success on practically all kinds of soil, even newly ploughed lea. Don't hesitate any longer. Think of the good prices—and sow wheat.

 Next Season's guaranteed MINIMUM prices per barrel will range from 23/- after harvest time to 27/- in the Spring, according to quality. Note that these are MINIMUM prices. 27/6 per barrel on the farm is now being paid for home-grown wheat of good quality.

CARRICK C.Y.M.S. ACTIVITIES

Mr. R. Cleary, President presided at a meeting of the Committee of Carrick-on-Suir C.Y.M.S. held on Wednesday at the Society's rooms at the Town Hall.

Rev. J. Walsh, Spiritual Director and Mr. W. Galvan, Secretary were present.

The Chairman reviewed the progress made by the branch since its foundation only this year. It has now a membership of over 100 and is in a sound financial condition. The success that attended the Society's first Whist Drive held the previous night was an indication of the public interest in the good work of the C.M.Y.S. The Chairman outlined the Society's programme for the winter months. He then presented the prizes won at the Whist Drive and congratulated the winners on their good luck. He also thanked all who had helped to make the function a success.

Father Walsh, C.C., joined in the Chairman's remarks. A special word of praise was due to Mr. William Galvan, for the zeal and enthusiasm with which he worked for the Society's welfare.

The following were then presented with prizes:—

Gentlemen 1st—James Crowley, Bridge street (18s), 2nd Ed. Guiry, Mill House (17s), 3rd P. Allen, Carrick-on-Suir (17s). 2nd and 3rd prizes were divided between the 1st and 2nd who had tied.

Mistery Prizes—Ed. Fleming and Thos. Morrissey.

Ladies—1st—Miss M. Gray, Kichham street; 2nd Miss R. Reek, William Street, 3rd Miss M. Harris, Main Street. Ladies' mystery prize, divided between Miss Fabey Miss McGowan; and Miss Harris.

INTERESTING TRESPASS CASE

At Carrick-on-Suir District Court on Monday before Mr. McCabe, D.J., James Butler, farmer Old Court, Co. Kilkenny, sued James Grace, a neighbouring farmer for £30 damages for loss caused by cattle, the property of the defendant having trespassed upon and destroyed 41 acres of plaintiff's corn.

Plaintiff's case was that in consequence of the trespass only 40 barrels of the oats were available where 80 barrels would have been the yield but for the trespass and damage. He had lost 40 barrels at 11/- a barrel and £7 10s. worth of straw. The fences had been broken down and 13 cattle had trespassed on the oats on two days in May and June.

Mr. Quirke, solicitor, for defendant—When did a hungry farm on the hillside at Old Court, covered with thistles and ferns and infested with rabbits produce 18 barrels to an acre.

Plaintiff—It was good land.

Patrick Corcoran, stated in reply to Mr. O'Connor, solicitor, for plaintiff, that at 6.30 o'clock in the morning he saw 13 cattle in Mr. Butler's oats.

Mr. J. E. Flanagan, C.E., Waterford, who was the Engineer for the water scheme for which some of plaintiff's land was bought by the Board of Health (Co. Kilkenny) produced a map of the land.

In reply to Mr. Quirke, Mr. Flanagan said he had seen the land in question. It was very poor land covered with thistles, ferns and overrun by rabbits. He had inspected the oats following the alleged trespass. The crop was 2 inches high and was not in any way damaged.

Mr. Quirke said this was only a dodge by plaintiff to get money softly.

The Justice said he accepted Mr. Flanagan's evidence and also the point made by Mr. Quirke that the trespass was not reported to the owner by plaintiff. He dismissed the case and allowed £2 2s. costs to Mr. Quirke.

SAORSTAT WHEAT

The Danger of Disease

By E. J. McNaughton, B.Sc., (Agric.)

The cultivation of Saorstat wheat is rapidly becoming one of the main interests of the farmer, as it is of the State. In 1851, nearly 430,000 acres were under wheat, but, except for a brief rise during the Great War, this declined rapidly and progressively to reach the low record of 20,848 acres in 1931. From the State's point of view something had to be done about it, and the Agricultural Production (Cereals) Act of 1933 was introduced—a very sound measure designed to promote the development of milling and encourage the growing of wheat. The Act has had both these desired effects.

Imports of flour are now only a fraction of what they were before the Act came into force, although grain imports have increased. Milling has markedly progressed. The area under wheat has extended enormously, reaching 255,000 acres in 1936, or more than twelve times the 1932 area. Thanks to a guaranteed price, wheat is one of the farmer's main cash crops, and if the acreage continues to expand as rapidly as it has done since 1933 there is no reason why self-supply should not be attained in a few years' time.

One significant fact, however, is liable to be overlooked. So little wheat has been grown for the past fifty years or more that many farmers in Ireland are now growing wheat for the first time, while there will be more beginners still in future. There is no tradition of wheat growing as there is of potato growing, and no experience of the dangers which attend its cultivation. The Irish farmer, perhaps more than any other, is familiar with the ravages of potato blight, estimated to have caused a total loss of £200,000,000 from its outbreak eighty years ago. He now knows how to control this trouble by spraying with Burgundy mixture, but many yet lack the knowledge which will enable them to combat wheat diseases. With wheat likely to remain a highly profitable crop, it is important that its major diseases should be recognised and the appropriate control measures adopted.

Rust of wheat, with its familiar rusting of the leaves as the crop approaches maturity, is now so well checked by the cultivation of resistant strains that it may be left for the plant breeder to look after. It is the "seed-borne" diseases and "root-rot" that are really important from the farmer's point of view, and every grower should be able to recognise these in the field and know the correct measures to take for their control.

Bunt, or stinking smut of wheat, is easily recognised when the crop has headed. Infected ears remain green longer than healthy ones, and the chaff is more loose and spreading. If a diseased ear is examined, it will be found that some of the grains are rounder and plumper than normal and packed full of a dense black powdery mass. During threshing, these "bunt balls" burst open and the black powder, which has an unpleasant fishy smell, becomes scattered over the good grain. The powder consists of millions of "spores" by which the disease is spread. When healthy grain which has been contaminated by bunt spores is sown out, the spores germinate at the same time as the seed and infect the young seedlings. At maturity infected plants will bear bunted ears, so carrying on the disease from season to season.

It has been estimated in the U.S.A. that bunt caused an average 2.3 per cent. loss in harvested grain over a period of ten years, while about 12 to 10 per cent. of the grain had to be classified as low grade. Reliable figures are not available for Great Britain or the Irish Free State, but there is no reason to believe that the disease does not cause similar losses. The essential importance of the disease is that bunted grain will not be accepted by the miller, which means a loss to the grower. Should any grain be rejected by the miller, the farmer should realise that

Bunt may have been the cause. He should take immediate steps to eliminate the possibility of this by dressing all his seed. He should remember that, even if the grain is millable, the presence of only one or two bunted ears in the field may be responsible for considerable damage to next season's crop if any of the grain is used for seed. One single bunt ball may contain a million or more of spores, each capable of reproducing the disease in favourable circumstances. By dressing the seed with an organic mercurial dust, the crop can be safeguarded and no farmer can ever be secure unless he so dresses it.

Control of Loose Smut

Loose Smut of wheat differs in nature and appearance from Bunt. The smutted ears which appear at flowering time bear no grain, this having been entirely replaced by loose masses of black spores which blow about the field in dry weather. These spores infect the ovaries of flowers upon which they chance to alight and although apparently normal grain develops the fungus exists inside. If the grain is used for seed, smutted heads will be produced. Loose Smut can only be controlled by treatment with hot water at a carefully regulated temperature, and as this is not always practicable on the farm, it is best to select seed from crops known to have little or no disease. Fortunately the milling value of the grain is not affected, so that Loose Smut is much less serious in its effects than Bunt.

In the early stages of growth wheat seedlings are liable to attack by various fungi which exist in the soil, causing different types of "Root-Rot." The symptoms of attack vary. In some cases the seedlings are killed outright so that the stand may be poor; in others, attack is less severe and seedlings escape death to produce much weakened and low-yielding plants. Seed dressing is the best means of avoiding infestations of this type, for the chemicals used form a protective zone around the seed through which soil fungi cannot penetrate.

An important protective measure against attack by soil fungi, insect pests and grubs is the application of a complete fertiliser prior to sowing or when the crop is well through. This stimulates vigorous growth and brings the plants rapidly on to the tillering stage, so that they will either escape attack in the delicate seedling stage or, by the production of abundant tiller shoots, be able to recover from its effects and still produce a good healthy crop. A fertiliser dressing at sowing time usually means an extra quarter of harvested grain.

Disinfection of Seed

The important disease of wheat are seed-borne and therefore carried on from season to season in ever accumulating seriousness. As most farmers in the State are likely to use home-grown seed and rarely change it, the spread of such diseases is a natural consequence unless precautions are taken to see that only sterile grain is sown. Grain which would be accepted by the miller or even pass standard germination tests may easily carry disease, and if used for seed (unless adequately disinfected) produce a crop next year which would be unfit for milling. The only satisfactory method of insurance against seed-borne cereal diseases and root-rot is disinfection of the seed by means of organic mercurial dusts such as Agrosam. Wheat growers should adopt this as standard farm practice, and make sure that their grain will always be of good enough quality to secure the State bounty. ("Farmers' Gazette.")

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS

By "CROTOG."

The Cork "bogy" is laid once and for all. Two thousand Gaels of the Deise and Desmond saw Waterford out-play Cork's best hurling combination of today in Lismore on Sunday last.

Next week the form of the various individual players in the Cork-Waterford game will be analysed. The composition and prospects of the team to face Limerick in the National Hurling League at Ennis Ross, Gaelic Field, on Sunday week will also be critically examined.

The latest rumour to throw the Gaelic forces into confusion is in full swing. The new converts to "Internationalism in sport" have started the "Unity" hare. Now what about a solid Gaelic Front to combat the newest menace to our National heritage?

At a special Court held in Lismore on Tuesday, before Mr. G. P. Farrell, D.J., Michael Mountain, Knockanore, was charged on remand by Supt. Quinlan, Lismore, with having set fire to a house at Knockanore on Saturday night Nov. 10th 1935.

At a special Court held in Lismore on Tuesday, before Mr. G. P. Farrell, D.J., Michael Mountain, Knockanore, was charged on remand by Supt. Quinlan, Lismore, with having set fire to a house at Knockanore on Saturday night Nov. 10th 1935.

The Co. Board met and heard the Talleville appeal to Mount Sion last Sunday night in Lismore. All efforts to reach a satisfactory solution in private conferences between the two parties failed.

The numerous points in the appeal were dealt with in an exhaustive hearing and all but one were disallowed. Judgment on this was deferred until the next meeting of the Board.

The Minor Hurling Final between St. Carthage's and "Padraic Peres" of Ferrybank as well as the Junior Football Final between Slabh na Cua and the Eastern Champions was fixed for Dungarvan on Sunday Nov. 8th.

Clones fight out with Lismore the issue for the Junior Hurling Crown of the County before the Senior Football game. The Eastern lads, though little fancied in the earlier stages, jumped into prominence by beating a much-expected Ferrybank side and then put the seal on their ability by a surprise victory over a De La Salle team which included minor inter-county talent from Cork and Tipperary. Clones is a hard-hitting, well-balanced bunch. Forward play is their strong suit. Power and the Whelan pair know the whereabouts of the net while Galan and the rest of the Phelan clan combine vigour with experience.

Lismore has its main strength in attack where Ryan, Ormond, Moore and Coleman are live-wire foragers and sharpshooters. O'Donoghue at mid-field should swing things in their favour, but apart from the half-back line where Lane and O'Gorman of the County Juniors operate, the defence is not over-steady. Goal-keeping will be the deciding factor and if Lismore can field out a calibre to stand up to the shooting of Phelan and Co. then the extra dash and abandon which they put into their game may pull them through.

Next week the form of the various individual players in the Cork-Waterford game will be analysed. The composition and prospects of the team to face Limerick in the National Hurling League at Ennis Ross, Gaelic Field, on Sunday week will also be critically examined.
