It has always been said that the British race have a flair for animal breeding. It is bred in our bones, but most of us have not the time or opportunity to keep herds of cattle, flocks of sheep, or studs of horses, but we can all go in for dogs in accordance with our means. Those who have only small incomes can manage to breed two or three litters a year, which, by the exercise of ordinary prudence, can be made to pay expenses. That is one of the charms of dog-showing. It is a demosafely said that the difference between cratic sport, of which all meet on equal week. The Duchess of Neweastle, who is to judge smooth fox terriers and borzois, is one of our stalwarts. At the end of last century she had succeeded in establishing the handsome Russian wolf-hunting dogs, and then, seeking other worlds to conquer, she turned her attention to fox terriers, which were a very different proposition, some of the cleverest men being engaged in breeding them In a few years she had one of the strong est kennels in the country, and the pro minence of wirehaired fox terriers today is largely due to the influence of her strain. QUEEN WILHELMINA

Queen Wilhelmina Wheat Seed produces a magnificently heavy crop. The trouble is that it is difficult to obtain this Seed. But perhaps that should make farmers all the keener to get it-as well as knowing that Queen Wilhelmina Seed is the money-maker of Wheat Seeds. By acting quickly you can get some of this Seed from Harpur Bros. of Waterford. But you must act quickly. The supply is very limited. Harpurs have been able to obtain this Seed from the finest Wheat Growing Districts of England, and are authorised to sell it with a guarantee of Purity and Germination, but, unfortunately, they have not been able to obtain nearly enough for requirements. Therefore, quick action on your part is necessary. Before other farmers snap it up place your order for Queen Wilhelmina Seed without delay.

"CROTOG."

A small but enthusiastic gathering of Gaels braved the elements to see the last of the Co. Championship Finals in Dungaryan on Sunday. A mere handful of spectators were present for the opening of the Minor Hurling Final timed for 1.45 p.m. The start was delayed for sever. ainutes owing to an Artic squall of blinding hail which swept the field from end to end. The conditions were atrocious for hurling and especially so for juveniles. Nevertheless, the hardy youngsters of Ferrybank and St. Carthages, with admirable stoicism which mo. ed at the raging elements, battled on with un agging energy and zeal to the bitter end. What cared they for biting winds and lashing rains The Decies Minor Hurling Crown was at stake: Nothing eles mattered to those youthful

With wind and rain in their favour, the Wesen boys were slow into their stride; many chances went a-begging and there was much aimless forward work. Sneyd, the Ferrybank full, outplayed and outwitted the whole front line attack and though Ryan fought with rare fire and tenacity he could not cope with the solid Suir-sider. Feeney, at mid-field, was too elever for the Waterford pair, Foley and Butler, and sent in ball after ball only to In the second half, Fenor press consee them squandered by hesitant and tinually but the Sliabh gCua backs, faulty forward tactics. Roused to fury by this incident an now one point behind the St. Carthages' lads grit their teeth and steel their muscles in a desperate effort to achieve the seemingly impossible. Undaunted by the blinding storm in their faces, they stand up to their exultant rivals. One could sense the resolve in their tense young faces—these youngsters refuse to be beaten. Hennessy, Fahy and Fives, burdled the wind the feeling like furies, smash up the Ferrybank attack; Moore and Feeney sweep irresistibly through the field and St. Carthages' flanks open up a swift attack.

Lismore's Win—

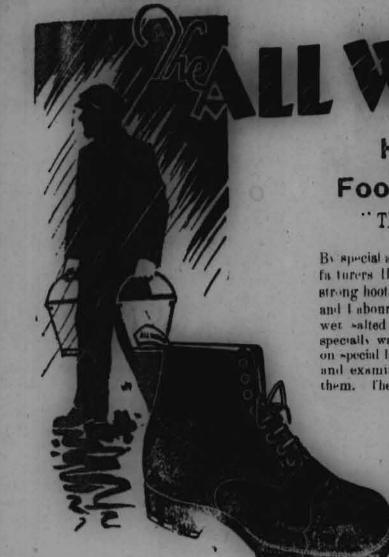

Once again our young Minor Hurling team romped home with the laurels of the Minor Hurling Championhip of the County by a single point victory. It was thought that with the absence of Lane, their staunch full-back, that victory would be snatched from their hands, but Feeney, Moore, and Foley rose to the ocasion and made the whole team combine to win the Minor title for the second successive year.

It was thought that with the absence of Lane, therefore, to the best advantage. Before doing this, however, it is desirable to consider some points about the value of hay as a feeding stuff.

It must be realised that the feeding value varies very much with the type of hay, the time it is cut and the conditions under which it is harvested. As an example, god meadow hay, cut in June and to avoid a "store" period. To attain this end, the young pigs should be encouraged to take exercise and a suitable run outside the farrowing pen should be provided. In the few moments that remain, the St. Carthage boys control the situation and the final whistle gives them a richly-merited victory on the score of 2-2 to 2-1. Seldom has a game been won against such odds. The indomitable fighting spirit displayed by the victors augurs well for the future of the G.A.A. in the Decies.

The Junior Football Final which followed provided a most interesting struggle all the way between two wellmatched teams in Fenor and Sliabh gCua. Splendid physique was the outs, nding feature of both sides and though the football was none too scientific it was no learnest stuff from first to last. Moore, a young Fenor giant with a great burst of speed, was the best player on view. Sliabh gCua playing with the wind established an early lead. Dalton fastened on to a neat centre to shoot a clever goal. Negle on the right wing sent over two well-judged points in rapid succession and then Fenor cried halt! Try as they might from that on, the Touraneena boys could never raise another flag. All their scoring was done in the first ten minutes. Then came a spell of Fenor supremacy. Healy and Hickey in defence and Mc-Grath and Moore round centre worked liked trojans and their vigorous kicking and tackling disorganised the Sliabh gCua side. The Eastern attack came into action and a goal and a point leaves the Comeragh men but the slender lead of a point at half-time.
