Entrance Examination For Probationer Nurses-A Waterford Lady Heads

The List-There was a large number of candidates for the recent entrance examination for training as probationers in the Waterford Chandlers, who flourished at the time when gas and electric light were not in existence and when the tailow dip was the method of illumination in the homes of the people. Waterford County Hospital. Twelve candidates passed the qualifying test as to the tailow dip was the method of illumination in the homes of the people. Waterford Counties Mayo, Galway, Leitrim, Clare and Cork competed. Waterford City and County have never supplied many applicants for those positions.

Successful G.A.A. Club Concert—

There was a more or less satisfactory end to an imperfect day when the Erin's Own Huring Club staged a very success ful concert in the Theatre Royal at 8.30 p.m. on Sunday, November 15th. There was an unusually big array of artistes, singers, violinists, piano-melodeon players, step dancers, etc. The Theatre building was packed beyond capacity. The charge of The Light Brigade was not in it with the rush that took place in the vestibule before the door were opened, the box office was stormed and it took the Herculean efforts of the Manager and his staff to prevent a forced opening of the doors! The varied programme was much doors! The varied programme was much enjoyed with the exception of a long recitation which appeared to pall on "the Gods." An outstanding artist was our leading local tenor. Mr. Patrick Mc-Manus (Feis Ceoil Gold Medalist) who was in coleration which appeared to pall on "the leading local tenor. Mr. Patrick Mc-Manus (Feis Ceoil Gold Medalist) who was in coleration to prevent a torced opening of the districts in East Waterford, recites the Irish prayers in the little book at "wakes" and in the Catholic Church on Sundays.

About 25 years ago the present Coadjutor Archbishop of Sydney (Mist Rev. Dr. Sheehan) read a paper at the Maynooth Mission on the Irish prayers he was in splendid voice. His songs were greeted with a storm of applause. Another Waterford vocalist, Mr. Tom Cooney, who possesses a magnificent basso voice, charmed the audience with his beautiful singing. Those two artistes provide an incomparable duet. The manage-ment of Radio Athlone would not find a finer "Beirth" in the Saorstat.

QUEEN WILHELMINA WHEAT

Queen Wilhelmina Wheat Seed produces a magnificently heavy crop. The trouble is that it is difficult to obtain this Seed. But perhaps that should make farmers all the keener to get it—as well as knowing that Queen Wilhelmina Seed is the money-maker of Wheat Seeds. By acting quickly you can get some of this Seed from Harpur Bros. of Waterford.

But you must act quickly. The supply is very limited. Harpurs have been able to obtain this Seed from the finest Wheat Growing Districts of England, and are authorised to sell it with a guarantee of Purity and Germination, but, unfortunately, they have not been able to obtain nearly enough for requirements. Therefore, quick action on your part is necessary. Before other farmers snap it up place your order for Queen Wilhelmina Seed without delay.

Success Of Bloodstock Breeding

IRIS HORSES

In a statement dealing with the Irish orse-breeding industry, submitted by reresentatives of the Fine Gael to the Minster of Agriculture, the following Deouties were signatories-Mr Cecil Lavery, K.C.; Ald. W. Desmond, T.D.; R. Curran, T.D.; R. Holonan, T.D.; C. Fagan, T.D.; G. Bennett, T.D.

The statement said that the development of bloodstock breeding followed on the striking successes of Irish-bred horses These successes were not due either to accident or luck. They were achieved on merit and in face of the keenest competition from many countries, and they established the superiority of Irish-bred iorses. The revenue from bloodstock depends to a very large extent on the export trade—along with the earnings provided by the racecourses in this country. Sales and purchases by Irish owners or producers in this country may be ascribed generally as transfers of ownership within the industry. Wealthy owners of race-horses and stud farms are few in num-

The fall in value of the export trade in norses during the last four years is a very serious matter for bloodstock producers and employees. However serious, and we do not in any way minimise its seriousness, it would not be so dangerous if it were certain that the superior, the outstandingly superior quality of the Irish horse was assured and was being maintained. That is, in our judgment, the important, as well as the dominating factor As in all other phases of industrial ac-tivity, in the horse-breeding industry, the main purpose of breeders, who comprise the vast majority of those engaged in it, must be to balance their accounts on the are not concerned with bloodstock raising the number of such mares for the breed-The pity of it is that there are few inde-will add appreciably to our national pendent and capable of being so finan- wealth and provide a steady and consi- rain, the coursing was got through in ex-

British penal tariffs are responsible for the present plight of the horse-breeding industry in this country. On other agricultural livestock the traiffs are imposed.

We suggest that in the interests of owner divided the Puppy Stakes and cultural livestock the traiffs are imposed on each head of livestock, varying in cases according to age. Certificates of sales by Goffs in this country and Tattersails in Great Britain are accepted by the British revenue authorities as the value of the horses. In the purchases at Goff's the buyer on exporting to Great Britain pays the tariff; at Tattersail's the seller Irish breeder or owner pays. "CROTOG."

How are the mighty fallen! Waterford tasted humble pie on Sunday last at the hands of lowly Leix and the taste was all the more bitter by the knowledge that Limerick, All-Ireland Champions had shared a similar fate at the hands of Tipperary. Both results are a complete up heav. of League form and both contri bute to revolutionise the whole aspect of the competition. At this stage, no less than five teams hold winning chances with resurgent Tipperary in a more or less favoured position. The Decies team has badly blotted its record and gravely endangered its ares by Sunday's extraordinary lapse. Now indeed have we good reason to echo the melancholy chant of the poet who sung "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these-It Might Have Been."

But there is a reason for everything The latest humiliation to our hurling pre tige, most galling because so utterly un expected, was far from being an accident It was caused by a combination of cir cumstances. Over confidence, allied to a disposition to underrate the Leix men, had much to do with it. The stupid obession o some Gaels, and selectors too, that old hurlers never deteriorate had much more. Vanity was at the root of the whole trouble. There is no gainsaying the fact that the occasion was exploited to recall gered by these heart-breaking reverses, from oblivion certain players of the "Old yet by no means beaten or even dismayed, Brigade" who had been discarded for the Waterford lads launch a terrific offenmany a long day. The "discards" were sive in a last desperate effart to pull the fondly expected to stage a "come-back" in game out of the fire. Walsh, Keane, a blaze of glory-was not the stage nicely Greaney and Goode, hurling like men set so that they could shine to the best possessed, burst through the Leix lines. advantage? But the "best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley." The come-back campaign failed dismally as none of the old-time stars gave never and then a great star of the old-time stars gave never and then a great star of the old-time stars gave never and then a great star of the old-time stars gave never and then a great star of the old-time stars gave never and then a great star of the old-time stars gave never and the never and then a great star of the old-time stars gave never and the never and the never and the Leix of the old-time stars gave never and the n the old-time stars gave peven a glimpse of and then a succession of exasperating he pay no attention to the Court's sumtheir former prowess. The defeat has had a sobering effect on many, especially the players and officials of the responsibility for having thrown the animals must have strayed. The caraway the game. The two Leix goals in the cases were easily accessible to dogs, and the general public, it has come as a rude second half should never have been conshock to their newly-awakened enthusiasm. Many and caustic were the comeffect. No doubt the emotional ones will throw their hands in despair-but that first-half sluggishness must be eradithese we have always with us. Sunday's match exploded once is plenty young hurling blood in the and for all the myth that the hurling star county and their quest may not be so can re-discover lost brilliance. Anno difficult a matter as would now appear: Domini spells R.I.P. to the hurler as well as to every other athlete.

The peculiar thing about the actual game was that, despite the feeble display of half-a-dozen of the homesters, the gam could have been won and won well. Leix, with strong wind and scudding rain in their favour, held an interval lead of two Farmers requiring Loans for Agricultural goals and four points to one goal. The Purposes should write to: first half exposed two wide-open gaps in the Waterford defence and through these gaps the Leix men pushed home every attack. Almost a dozen wides with a solitary score thrown in showed up the aimlessne of the Decies forwards. It was early evident that the home side was carrying an mormal quota of "passengers." Besider there was a lackadaisical touch about the play of the whole team which aroused misgivings as to their earnestness. They hurled as if they had something up their sleeve and were not in any great hurry to show it. They were over inclined to fondle and fiddle with the ball whereas the visitors slogged it along the greasy sod. On the resumption, Waterford with the elements in their favour were expected to monopolise the score-board. Our backs, forgetting their primary duties, moved well down-field, eager apparently to figue Monday. Tuesday & Friday in the scoring too. For most of the second half, the whole team, goal-keeper alone excepted, were in Leix territory. The players got in each others' way, there was no sense of position, no combined forward p ly, just any amount of rooting and i addling and nothing resulted but wides and still more wides. Ten minutes of this stuff brings Waterford a solitary point. Loix are in their element—slogging through the ruck is their delight, and they are no fools-they know what the wings are far. A loose ball flies towards the home goal; Cranny of Leix is hot after it. Hogan races back to clear and misses with a mighty swipe; Curley has advanced, undecided what to do, and while the Waterford pair hesitate, Cranny snigs to the net to give Leix a nine points lead. That goal James Dunne, is a tragedy-an omen of the disaster looming ahead. Another period of fruitless Decies attacks and again a patient Leix man is rewarded by getting a loose ball near the square. Not a home defender is within 30 yards. It sinks in the net and the Midlanders are twelve points ahead
