LAMENTED DEATH OF
MR J. A. LYNCH

PROPRIETOR AND EDITOR

IMPOSING FUNERAL TRIBUTE

IT IS WITH PROFOUND REGRET THAT WE CHRONICLE THE DEATH OF OUR EDITOR MR. J. A. LYNCH, WHICH TOOK PLACE AT HIS RESIDENCE, KILLINEEN, ON SUNDAY LAST AFTER A BRIEF ILLNESS

The late Mr. Lynch, was born at Marlhill, New Inn, Co. Tipperary, 52 years ago, and after a brilliant Collegiate Course at Rockwell College, the deceased spent some years attached to the Professorial Staff at the C.B.S., Mullingar, and St. Columb's College, Derry, before joining the Staff of the "Drogheda Independent." In 1912, the late Mr. Lynch, founded the "Observer."

The late Mr. Lynch, who had only attained the age of 52, was one of the most highly-respected citizens of Dungarvan, where on all sides sincere expressions of regret are heard at his passing. Up to a little over a week ago, he looked in the best of health and seemed to have many long and useful years in front of him. Such, however, was not to be. This great and noble character was snatched from amongst us, leaving Dungarvan and County Waterford much the poorer for his loss.

In his sphere as a Journalist, the late Mr. Lynch proved himself worthy of place beside the greatest in the land. He came to Dungarvan some 24 years ago and founded the "Dungarvan Observer" from that time until his death that paper gained a wide and deserved popularity. His brilliant and efficient business capabilities guided his paper from success to success and today no home in County Waterford would be without the weekly addition of his paper, which was part and parcel of the lives of the community.

From time to time under his able pen there appeared articles for the uplifting of the ideals of all Irishmen, and his efforts often bore fruit as those responsible saw that in his suggestions and advice the people could be better served. He was a first-class shorthand writer, and it is only a few years ago that when a marriage case was heard at the Dungarvan Circuit Court, he received letters of congratulation on the manner in which he reported the case. In all his dealings with the public, he acted with the utmost fairness and never did he say or do anything that would cause a hurt or promote unkindness. His quiet and noble manner made him beloved and esteemed by all.

His wide knowledge made him much sought after and his advice was always considered wise and helpful. As a student of nature he was in his element and it was a pleasure to note the joy which he spoke about trees, flowers or birds. He was for ever doing good and the Old Borough, which he loved so well, will remember for a long time the many acts of kindness that he, during his lifetime performed in his own quiet way, for he never courted popularity or praise, as humility was one of his outstanding qualities.

In 1915 when the Dungarvan Agricultural Show Committee was formed he was the chief mover in the venture and under his presidency he guided it through hard times, but the doubt of its success was never questioned for all knew when Mr. Lynch set his heart to a thing success was imminent. He resigned his presidency some years ago owing to pressure of his duties, but did not lose his interest in the Show for to the end he gave his valuable help to the Committee, who will now miss him very much.

Mr. Lynch will, perhaps be remembered by his employees, who each and every one he treated in an exceptionally decent manner, and they in return recognised his worth and kindness and worked in perfect harmony and with the wishes of their beloved employer.

Press men and others who came in contact with him will also miss the genial and kindly soul, who was ever ready to facilitate them. Those of us who knew him intimately will find it hard to think him gone. We can now only offer to his bereaved wife and family our deepest sympathy on their great loss and remember in our prayers a brilliant Irishman and a noble husband and father.—R.I.P.

T. and W. Lynch, who for many years was their President and later their Vice-President. Their sympathy would go out to his bereaved wife and family. The late Mr. Lynch was their mainstay and he doubted that only for his help would they be in existence at all today.

Mr. O'Dwyer, proposed, and Mr. Walsh, seconded—"That we, the members of the Dungarvan Agricultural Show beg to place on record our very deep regret on the death of Mr. J. A. Lynch, who for many years was their President and later the esteemed Vice-President of this Committee, and that we tender to his bereaved wife and family our sympathy on their great loss."

Mr. O'Dwyer said that he was sorry the occasion had arisen to make it necessary for him to perform such a sad duty.

Mr. Walsh—I am sorry the occasion has arisen, and I recollect the able and good help that the late Mr. Lynch gave us. I will miss him very much as an old friend.

Mr. Dempsey, in associating himself with the resolution said that the late Mr. Lynch was a great help to the Show Committee and he played a big part in the building up of the Show, and they would feel his loss very much.

Mr. Moloney said he knew the late Mr. Lynch for over 20 years and he was very sorry that the duty to pass such a resolution had fallen on them.

Mr. J. Lynch, deceased, paid a very high tribute to the deceased, and said that he would miss him very much as he was always there to give advice when ever needed. The late Mr. Lynch was their President since the Show was started in 1915 and held that position until 1932. His death came as a great shock to them all. It was also owing to the financial help of Mr. Lynch, that they were able to carry on.

The Chairman said that Mr. Lynch was the founder of the Show and while he knew him he found him to be a very fine type of man. The late Mr. Lynch's assistance was invaluable to their Committee and their sympathy would go out to the bereaved wife and family.

The resolution was then passed in silence and the meeting adjourned.

CO. BOARD OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

Late Mr. J. A. Lynch

At the monthly meeting of the Waterford Co. Board of Public Assistance, on Wednesday, the following resolution was proposed by Mr. Connolly, in connection with the death of Mr. J. A. Lynch, Editor of "Dungarvan Observer":

"That we the members of the Waterford County Board of Public Assistance, tender our sincere sympathy to the relatives of the late Mr. Lynch, Editor "Dungarvan Observer" whose death caused widespread regret in Waterford City and County. That we hereby place on record our appreciation of Mr. Lynch's services in his capacity of Journalist and Editor for the able manner in which he advocated the many reforms in Poor Law administration that this Board has been engaged in for many years.

"Humanity was always his guiding star to help and uplift the masses of the people and to make the country a better and brighter place than he found it. In his private life he displayed a spirit of fraternal charity and did his utmost to allay bitterness and unkindly policy among fellow-Irishmen, and he considered that any form of Government counted as nothing the development and well-being of the country compared with the co-operation of Irish men of all shades of political opinion. He acted up to the motto of Thomas Davis—"Manliness, Kindliness and Justice."

Mr. Connolly said that a month ago he saw the late Mr. Lynch looking in excellent health and seemed to have many happy years in front of him. Dungarvan is poorer by his loss, for he was an excellent type of an intellectual Irishman. As an editor he acted in a fair and generous way, and he was never known to be unkind or antagonistic.

The Chairman in seconding the resolution said he did so with profound regret.

Commissioner Moynihan—I beg to be associated with the resolution and tender to his wife and children our regret on their sad loss.

Mr. Cosgrave and Mr. O'Halloran, also associated themselves with the resolution.

Mr. Flynn, on behalf of the officials said that he knew Mr. Lynch while he was in Dungarvan and his death is much felt in Dungarvan.

The resolution was then passed in silence, all the members standing.

Dungarvan Agricultural Show Committee

SYMPATHY WITH THE FAMILY OF THE LATE MR. J. A. LYNCH

Mr. A. Hunt, president, presided at a specially convened meeting of the Dungarvan Show Committee held on Wednesday for the purpose of passing a resolution of sympathy with the late Mr. J. A. Lynch.

Others present were—Messrs. D. Dempsey, J. Moloney, N. Connors, J. Crotty, P. A. Walsh, N. Morrissey, J. O'Dwyer, J. Power, T. Lynch and Mr. J. Lynch, Secretary.

The Chairman said that the meeting was called to place on record their very

WATERFORD CO. BOARD OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE.

At the monthly meeting of the above on Wednesday, Mr. J. O'Donovan, Chairman, presided. Also present—Messrs. Commissioner Moynihan, P. Caulfield, J. O'Halloran, J. Cosgrave, T. Cassidy, T. Synott, T. D. Connolly.

Dental Clinic

Dr. O'Farrell, Co. M.O.H., wrote suggesting that the dispensaries be used outside working hours as dental clinics. The dentist he said had been appointed and was only waiting to start.

By 6 votes to 2 the Board agreed with Dr. O'Farrell's suggestion.

Gas or Electricity

Arising out of the minutes of the Co. Hospital Committee, re the electric wiring of the hospital, the Commissioner said that as they were contemplating building a new hospital it would be a mistake to carry out any such work while other arrangements were pending.

Mr. O'Halloran said that a lot of money was wasted on new buildings when it could be used to increase the dole for the unemployed. The hospital they had would not be built for £500,000 today. The people only want to be fed. The E.S.B. Mr. O'Halloran continued, was a National Institution and they should support it.

Mr. Caulfield said that the gas was costing £200 a year.

The Secretary stated that there was a special rate for gas in the institution. Commissioner Moynihan said that the Gas Company was a local institution and it deserved support. Nothing however, could be done until they had the comparative costs of gas and electricity before them. The amount required for installation would be more than £200 a year on the capital.

The matter was deferred to next meeting.

Waterford Dispensary

A letter was received from Mr. Kennedy, Dispenser at the Waterford Dispensary, stating that on Oct. 21st, he was on duty until 6.30 p.m. his assistant gave a bottle of medicine out of stock to a caller. It was he that compounded the medicine. He asked that the Board ask the Department to define his duties in order that he would avoid the vindictiveness of members of the Board.

The letter was in answer to an inquiry by the Department as to whether on the occasion mentioned was medicine compounded by an unqualified man.

The Chairman said he did not like the tenor of the letter. He was never vindictive to anybody in his life. All that was done was to ask a question arising out of a complaint. Mr. Kennedy had no right to accuse members of the Board with being vindictive or spiteful. He (Chairman) happened to come across the case by accident. He would not accept that letter and Mr. Kennedy should be asked to withdraw it. It would be all right if Mr. Kennedy in the first instance gave his explanation.

Mr. O'Halloran said he agreed with the Chairman, when a man was paid to do a job he should do it. Mr. O'Halloran then read a letter from a young man named John Carroll, in which he stated that he went to the dispensary at 7.5 p.m. on October 21st, he handed in his prescription and in about three minutes he was handed the medicine. He (Mr. O'Halloran) could not understand how medicine for prescriptions could be kept in stock.

Chairman—I do not want to be unfair to any man, but I object to the terms that were vindictive or spiteful.

A letter from Dr. McCarthy, Waterford, stated that he always found Mr. Kennedy, efficient and attentive to his duties, and had never heard any complaints.

Commissioner Moynihan said that he could quite understand that the medicine could be in stock. It was probably a case where the prescription was one that occurred often and that the medicine was compounded and kept in stock.

Mr. O'Halloran—Mr. Kennedy should have come before us and not hang on to the coat-tails of the doctors in Waterford.

Commissioner Moynihan—According to young Carroll's letter the medicine was in stock for he stated that he was only waiting three minutes, and as we all know if you go into a Chemist's shop you will be told come back in half an hour or an hour for the prescription.

Mr. Cassidy—Was there any complaints before?

Secretary—No.

Mr. Cassidy—I think we should defer the matter there has been no complaints from the poor people.

Mr. O'Halloran—If medicine is stocked like that it shows that prescriptions are only a humbug.

Commissioner Moynihan—Mr. Kennedy has explained that he compounded the medicine and we know nothing that would contradict that.

Mr. Cosgrave said that Mr. Kennedy was a 24-hour-day man and should be ready to give any prescription at any hour. It was unfair that poor people should wait for medicine until the next day.

The meeting agreed that something should be done as regards the hours of attendance at the Dispensary.

DECEMBER FAIR—

The Dungarvan December fair, which was held on Wednesday last, was poorly supplied in all departments. Prices for best quality cattle showing a slight improvement over last month. 1½-year-olds made from £3 10s. to £5 10s., exceptional lots making £6; 2½-year-olds £6 to £8; 3½-year-olds and upwards £8 to £10 10s., springers were in fair demand and made from £10 to £14. Fat cows realised from £3 10s. to £6, according to quality; sheep 35/- to 45/-.

A small supply of pigs were on offer at 30/- to 50/-.

(Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, B.L.)

Ejectment Order Sought
Dr. Eaton Waters, Cooma, Tallow, sought an ejectment order against Michael Harty, Barrack street, Tallow, in respect of a house held by him as a weekly tenant from the plaintiff.
Mr. E. Carroll, solr., Fermoy, appeared for the landlord, but the defendant was not professionally represented.
Mr. Carroll said this was a rather peculiar case in some respects, because although the defendant owed £1 7s. 6d. arrears of rent, he was making a counter claim for £2 18s. 6d. for repairs stated to be carried out to the house, but which Dr. Eaton Waters said he had no authority to carry out, as the repairs in question were simply luxuries, and the landlord could not be expected to pay for them.
Mr. Conway, Rent Collector, Tallow, gave evidence that the defendant went into possession of the house in August, 1935, and seemed glad to get it at the time. The weekly rent was 2s. 3d. including 3d. for rates, and the amount of rent due up to the 22nd August was £1 7s. 6d., but the amount due up to the previous Monday was £3 7s. 6d.
The Justice—I don't want to hear what was due up to last Monday, but only up to the time when the notice to quit was served.
Witness—The amount was then £1 7s.

6d. your Worship.
Replying further to Mr. Carroll, solr., witness said the house was unceded when defendant went into possession, but he had since got it ceiled with sheeting boards, for which he was now claiming £2 18s. 6d. although Dr. Waters had not authorised this work, and refused to accept any responsibility for it.
Mrs. Kathleen Harty, wife of the defendant, said when they went into the house there was no ceiling overhead, only the bare slates and rendering showing inside and she alleged that Dr. Waters gave them authority to get it boarded and he would allow them for the cost of same. They then paid £2 4s. 6d. for sheeting boards, and had a carpenter working for two days at 7/- per day, which brought the cost of the work up to £2 18s. 6d. which they were now claiming for.
Mr. Conway, on being recalled by the Justice, repeated his statement that Dr. Waters had never given them any authority to carry out this work at his expense. He said the defendant had paid his rent regularly until the question of payment for the ceiling cropped up, when he refused to pay any further rent.
Mrs. Harty—We refused to pay as a protest.
Mr. Conway—Yes, this woman got in a Wireless Set to the house, but refused to pay the rent (laughter).
Having heard further evidence, the Justice said that Mrs. Harty should abandon the idea of getting paid for the ceiling which they had put up of their own accord, as he was satisfied that they had no authority from the landlord to do so. He asked Mrs. Harty if she was now prepared to pay the rent due, leaving out of account their claim for £2 18s. 6d., which he was not going to allow.
Mrs. Harty said she was prepared to pay the rent, but she wanted some time.
Mr. Carroll—We don't want to turn them out of the house at all, your Worship, so long as they pay their rent, as that is all Dr. Waters requires.
He then asked Mrs. Harty could she have the arrears paid by Jan., 1st., but she said that was very short notice, and pleaded for more time.
Mr. Carroll not objecting, the Justice then adjourned the case to the Feb., Court, and advised Mrs. Harty to do her best to have the arrears paid up in the meantime.

Defaulting Farmers
The Agricultural Credit Corporation brought a civil bill against James McGrath, Ballinacree, for £22 17s. 11d.
Mr. E. A. Ryan, State Solr., Dungarvan, appeared for plaintiffs, but there was no appearance on behalf of defendant.
A decree for the amount was granted with costs.
Decrees were also granted at the suit of the Minister for Agriculture against the defendant in the last case, and also John Lynch, and James Buckley, neither of whom appeared.
Mr. E. A. Ryan, State Solr., for plaintiff.

In a case at the suit of the Minister for Public Health against James Walsh, Ballymullala, in respect of unstamped Insurance Cards, Mr. Ryan, State Solr., applied for an adjournment, which was granted.
Examination Order Ignored
Mr. J. W. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore, mentioned the case of Timothy Crowley, Glencairn, against whom he had obtained an Examination Order at the last Court, returnable for today, on foot of a decree obtained against him by Mr. M. F. Casey, Merchant, Lismore.
He said although the defendant had been working in the district when the Order was granted a month ago, he had again run away when he saw the report of his case in the local Press, and was, apparently, inclined to ignore the Order altogether. Mr. O'Gorman then applied for a renewal of the Order to the next Court, which was granted, and said he would continue renewing the Order from month to month until Crowley eventually appeared in Court for examination.
An Unlicensed Bull
The Minister for Agriculture, summoned Michael Walsh, Gairha, Ballyduff, for having an unlicensed bull in his possession.
Mr. E. A. Ryan, State solr., Dungarvan, for complainant.
Mr. John Hartney, Veterinary Inspector, under the Department, stated that he held an inspection of bulls in Ballyduff on August 27th., when the defendant presented a bull for inspection which he found to be over the age for inspection on that date, as the animal should have been inspected and licensed since Feb., 1935.
Defendant told him that the bull had only been calved in July, 1935, but witness was satisfied from his examination that the animal had been calved on a much earlier date.
In reply to the Justice, witness said that all bulls calved between January and June should be presented for inspection the following February., while those calved between July and Dec., should be licensed the following August.
Mr. Ryan said the offence in this case was that this animal, which should have been licensed in Feb., was used as an unlicensed bull for the service of cows between Feb., and August this year.
Defendant sworn, said he bought the bull from Michael Walsh, Coolishal, in March, 1926, and was then told that he had not been calved before July, 1925.
Michael Walsh, Coolishal, examined for the defence, said this animal was calved on July 8th., 1935, and he had an entry to this effect in a book, and told the defendant this when he was selling him the bull.
Mr. Ryan—Have you that book here today?
Witness—No, but I have it at home.
Mr. Ryan—Didn't you know that it was here you would require it today if you wished to get the defendant out of this case?
Witness—I didn't think I would want to bring it here.
Replying further to Mr. Ryan, witness said this was not the only entry he had in the book, as he had the dates when other animals were calved also entered down.
The Justice said he would adjourn the case for the production of this book the next Court day.
Mr. Ryan mentioned that there were £3 expenses involved in this case, as Mr. Hartney had to come from Limerick today, but this matter was allowed stand over until the next Court.

Undefended Civil Bills
Mr. J. W. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore, appeared for the plaintiffs in a number of undefended civil bills, decrees being granted in most cases, while a few were adjourned to the next Court, as the defendants had promised to pay up in the meantime.
Unlighted Bicycles
Fines ranging from 2/- to 3/- were imposed on a number of defendants who were charged with using unlighted bicycles, the complainants being Guards from Arglan, Ballyduff and Lismore.

Lismore Fair
The December fair held at the Fair Field, Lismore, on Wednesday, last did not reach the standard expected. The buyers were few and very little business was transacted.

YOUGHAL URBAN COUNCIL

INTERESTING DISCUSSIONS

SUGGESTED NEW INDUSTRY

Present—Messrs. P. J. O'Gorman, P.C., Chairman; E. D. Condon, M. Aherne, D. McCarthy, R. Savage, T. K. Keane, solr; R. Power, W. J. Broderick, T.D.; T. Beausang, R. C. Farrell, Vice-chairman; J. N. K. Macnamara, solr, Capt. C. Watson.

The following letter was read:—"We the relief workers at present employed by you, for which we are grateful, wish to bring to your notice for further consideration, if necessary, of the reported rumours of the wages of 5s. a day assigned to us by the Council. Surely, it can't be called relief when it only victimizes us. We have endured poverty to its full, as any man with from 12s. 6d. to 9s. knows that when fire, rent, light, food and other necessities used in the poorest homes, is taken from the said miserably allowed. It would take more than an expert in economy to manage same, and still three days a week at 5s. a day is worse. Take the man with four or five or more children in receipt of 12s. 6d. He also receives meat and voucher value 1s. 4d. (total 13s. 10d.) and on the said relief he loses price of stamps; yet he has to buy more food, coal, light for himself and family than he would otherwise use, for they could often forget a meal in the oblivion of sleep. Therefore, we trust you will view our case from a just and sympathetic point, and try to bring to us, namely, what the word bears—that word relief—Yours Relief Workers."

Mr. Macnamara—They have put their case well. Mr. Lynch—Is there any scale of wages fixed for relief work? The Clerk said they paid 30s. per week last year. It would be fair if they got a week's work, but with only three days they are merely working for the dole. Mr. Lynch—They are getting less than the dole. They have to pay for stamps. I propose that they get 11 for the three days. Mr. Power seconded. The Clerk said that was subject to the sanction of the Local Government Department. The proposition was passed unanimously. In reply to Mr. Power, the Clerk said there were 18 men he would take employed. Mr. Lynch said it would be better to take on 50 or so. Mr. Power—There is much dissatisfaction with the way the scheme is being worked. The Chairman—And rightly so. It is most unsatisfactory for everyone concerned. Mr. Broderick said the men should get a full week before Christmas. The Clerk read a circular letter from the Department dealing with the matter. Mr. Whelan said in view of acute distress prevailing they should employ as many men as possible.

Unemployed Deputation During the progress of the meeting a large number of unemployed men, accompanied by a band, assembled in the Mall outside, and a deputation appeared before the meeting. The spokesman having expressed their grievances, the Chairman informed them of the Council's action, for which they returned thanks and withdrew. Another letter and a deputation were received on behalf of the single men, who were excluded from the benefit of the relief work. The spokesman said that some of the single men had more dependents than some of the married men. They demanded a share in the distribution of the relief work. The Chairman said every member of the Council sympathised with them, but the Government imposed certain conditions on them to which they should adhere. The Council would do their best to help them over Christmas. The deputation then withdrew, and after a short discussion the Council unanimously decided to take on about 40 men at 30s. per week before the holidays on the proposition of the Chairman seconded by Mr. Power. A letter was read from the Local Government Department notifying a further grant of £1,125 for relief works provided the Council contributed a sum of £375. On the proposition of Mr. Savage, seconded by Mr. Whelan, it was unanimously decided to avail of the grant. Some discussion took place on the work that would give employment to labour, and it was suggested that something might be done to repair the sea wall and embankment. Messrs. Holnett, solr., wrote conveying counsel's opinion to the effect that he would not recommend proceedings against Mrs. Hurley for converting her conservatory into a shop. Mr. Power—She has simply wiped out eyes, and badly (laughter).

Courting Meeting A letter was read from the Hon. Secretary, Youghal Coursing Club, stating that after a lapse of 20 years they were revising the usual meeting. It had been originally intended to hold it on 6th January, but as that was a Church Holiday they put it off to the following day, Thursday 7th. As it was a big risk, they asked the Council to call on the townspeople to hold the usual weekly half-holiday on Thursday instead of Wednesday. After a short discussion, during which several members expressed warm appreciation of the Club's efforts, it was proposed by Mr. Power, seconded by Mr. Savage, and passed unanimously, that they comply with the request of the club. Some discussion took place on the question of the Christmas holidays. Mr. Keane asked what was being done in Cork? Mr. Macnamara—They are closing on the Monday after.

Some members were in favour of following this example, in order to give shop assistants from a distance an opportunity to get home. Others said that they believed employers would afford their assistants an opportunity of doing so. It was finally decided to confine the holidays to Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

An Industry Mr. Savage raised the question of the great necessity of taking some steps in an effort to have some industry established locally. Nearly all the neighbouring towns round had been active, with the result that industries which gave regular employment had been established. Mr. Power expressed his thorough agreement with Mr. Savage's remarks. It was up to the Council to give a lead in the matter. The Chairman said it was a rather difficult question to tackle. He suggested that they should adjourn the matter for the present. In the meantime he would consult some prominent townspeople and let them know the result as soon as possible. This was agreed to.

Gaelic Notes & Notions By "CROTOG" The next round of the League begins on February 7th, 1937. Cork enjoy the honour of heading the table during the winter recess, but half-a-dozen teams are close at their heels and some indeed in a more favourable position. The next round is being awaited with extraordinary interest. It will be the most critical of all for the fancied counties. "Will Limerick trip up again?" is the question being asked on all sides. Kilkenny, at home, may supply the answer next February. Cork must travel to Kilkishen in Clare next time out and it goes without saying that they are up against their hottest proposition in trying to lay the Clare "boogey". The Deicies meet Tipperary in Clonmel and the game means death or glory to one of them. Which? In the meantime we must possess ourselves in patience until the resumption of activities in two months' time sets the hurling public seething with anticipation once more. Here is the League table as it stands:—

It will be noticed that Limerick, Waterford, Leix, Kilkenny and Clare have played one game less than the others.

Many of our Gaelic Clubs are availing of the present inactive spell on the playing fields to promote social functions to raise funds for next year's campaigns. This is one of the most important and most necessary duties of any Gaelic Club but no promotion should be undertaken or encouraged which conflicts with Irish-Ireland ideals. The public will generously support any G.A.A. Club which loyally adheres to the Gaelic tradition in all its activities. Cellarthe, Concerts, Whist Drives, Forty Five Drives, etc., are now largely favoured by hurling and football Clubs, as a ready means of raising revenue. Much good can be done by functions such as these to make the G.A.A. Club a live-wire institution in the community. Far too often, the active life of Clubs ends with defeat on the field. This should not be. There is always ample work for the Gaelic Club to do and no period of the year should be squandered in mourning defeat or languishing in idleness. The Club should always be preparing for the morrow. That is why the organising and running of Minor Clubs looms so important in G.A.A. life today.

HOW MONEY EXPENDED ON FERTILISERS MAY BE WASTED

THE NEED FOR GOOD CULTIVATION

It would be waste of time to dwell on the great value of the various fertilisers. Their value and their necessity have been proved the world over; indeed, it does not seem clear how the human race could have been fed in these days in the absence of the fertilisers. But the careful observer of present-day agriculture cannot fail to see that a great deal more is expected from fertilisers than they can possibly accomplish; their successful, profitable action is dependent on certain soil conditions, and the main factor in providing such conditions is good cultivation, in the absence of which a great deal of the money expended on fertilisers is more or less wasted.

It should not be difficult to persuade the intelligent farmer of the truth of this contention; nevertheless, the great majority seem to be carried away with the hope that the fertiliser is going to be his salvation, under the belief that good cultivation is only of secondary importance. Unfortunately, this attitude is commended (unintentionally perhaps) rather than condemned by the attitude of some who are responsible for the planning of the experimental work undertaken on arable land. From time to time the results of those experiments are published, but seldom is the word 'cultivation' mentioned in their connection. There does not seem to be much reason to doubt that the failure, or seeming failure, of some of the fertilisers experimented with is occasionally due to the lack of good cultivation, and it must be borne in mind that such seeming failures will occur often under heavy manuring than under light.

In these critical times the arable farmer is naturally anxious to find some quick, easy, and inexpensive means of obtaining success; but, in a plan of lavish manuring, with meagre cultivation, he is inviting success with one hand, and menacing it with the other. Manuring and thorough cultivation, in conjunction, are the foundations of success in arable farming; that is, provided the drainage and lime content of the soil are as they ought to be. If manuring and good cultivation are separated the highest success becomes impossible. The excuse that extra cultivation is expensive cannot be accepted, because liberal manuring, in the absence of good cultivation, is more expensive still, although it may not be apparent.

For several thousand years, in the absence of what we call science, the most intelligent tillers of the soil proved the value of good cultivation; and of late years good cultivation must always be an essential in successful cropping. It is, then, any reason why the present-day, practical farmer should reject the findings of thousands of years practice and the science of the present day?

Good cultivation does not do away with the necessity of applying fertilisers. As a matter of fact, the quantity of fertiliser we may apply, profitably, will be gauged by the degree of intensity of the cultivation. Liberal manuring is profitable on well cultivated land, but it is decidedly unprofitable on the indifferently cultivated.

Judicious, even liberal, manuring, may be the soundest economy but, in too many instances, we are hiding our bad cultivation under heavy applications of fertilisers. We may grow passable crops under this system for the time being, not because of our system of cultivation, but in spite of it, and because to some extent we are indebted to the plant breeder for the introduction of more prolific varieties of cereals and other cultivated plants.

It too often happens that when a valuable scientific discovery is revealed to us we pay little attention to it or ignore it altogether. The very important discovery that plants received the greater part of their food and water from the atmosphere was scientific proof of the necessity of deep and thorough cultivation, because by no other means can we thoroughly aerate the soil and provide for the free passage of water. It should be plain to all that the more effectively will the soil be exposed to the action of the atmosphere; yet, in spite of such proof, we actually cultivate the soil in a more superficial manner today than did the best farmers of days gone by, although they were quite unaware of the fact that plants received the greater part of their nourishment from the air.

One old agricultural writer, after proving the advantages of thorough cultivation, concludes thus:—"Then balance the business and weigh the advantages. One acre beareth the fruit of three, and two acres are preserved to graze, the seed and all other charges of two acres are preserved to help the markets. The husbandry, the ploughing and sowing of two acres is saved." The language may be rather out of date, but who will care to deny that the above statement is as true today as it was hundreds of years ago.

All experienced farmers will grant that four great essentials of successful cropping are: Draining (natural or artificial), liming, manuring, and cultivation, because, in some instances, draining, liming, and manuring may be omitted, but good cultivation is an everlasting necessity, and cannot be ignored in successful farming, although it makes no direct contribution to the fertility of the soil. The same may be said of draining and (to a less extent) of liming. They are the means to an end, being the economical exploitation of the natural fertility in the soil, or the fertility that is produced by the farmer himself through the application of manures of various kinds.

The farmer's object is not the hoarding of fertility in the soil, his object is to use it to the fullest extent in the production of crops, and this he cannot accomplish in the absence of good cultivation.—M.C. in "Farmers Gazette"

DEATH OF EDMOND NUGENT, LISLEA

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Edmond Nugent, which occurred at his residence, Lislea, after a brief illness, on Sunday 6th December.

A splendid type of the old stock, the last of a large family, he had reached a patriarchal age, and the end came peacefully and calmly, surrounded by his entire family and fortified by the rites of Holy Church. Nature's gentleman, a devoted husband, a kind and indulgent father, a social companion and agreeable neighbour, he had a kind word for everybody, and judged very leniently the shortcomings of his fellow-men; and died as he had lived in harmony and friendship with all.

A sound practical farmer, he laboured diligently and strenuously with his respected wife in days of high rents, to rear and educate a respectable family, whom he had the pleasure of seeing with a large flock of grand-children, soundly established in their native soil. He also took a keen interest in industrial revival, and was one of the chief founders and promoters of that splendid successful establishment—The Knockmeal Co.-Op. Creamery and Stores. He stuck to it tenaciously during the initial struggling stages and required, owing to advanced age, from the managing committee when it was firmly established on a sound basis. Two of his sons, Messrs. M. and E. Nugent, Dublin, are engaged in industrial revival in the Capital.

The large and representative procession which accompanied the remains to Modeligo, as also the large gathering present at the interment bore ample testimony to the esteem in which he was held by his family and by all classes. After Mass on Tuesday 8th Dec., the remains were laid to rest in the family burial plot, Modeligo, Rev. Fr. Quinlan, officiating at the graveside.

To his family, and in particular to his aged widow, who cared him so affectionately, and tended him so diligently, we tender our sincere sympathy.

The chief mourners were—Mrs. Nugent (widow); Patrick, James, Michael and Edmond, Junr. (sons); Mrs. Rita Nugent, Lislea, and Mrs. Bridget Nugent, Fourmeena, (daughters-in-law); James Quinn, Ballinapark, brother-in-law; Nan Flynn and Mrs. Barron, Cappagh, (nieces); P. Flynn, Jas. Quinn, and M. Quinn, (nephews); Patk. and Mrs. Fenton, Tinniscart, Mrs. Quinn, Cappagh, cousins, etc., etc.—R.I.P.

SALE OF SEIZED STOCK AT CAPPOQUIN

Sixty-eight sheep, the property of Mr. James O'Donnell, Lyle East, and Mr. M. Vesle, Mellery Bridge, Cappoquin, which had been seized on a local farm for arrears of Land Annities, were driven into Cappoquin Pound where they were subsequently sold, by auction by Mr. English, Assistant Registrar for Co. Waterford, the only bidder being a stranger whose name was not disclosed, and who was declared the purchaser for the sum of £20. The sheep were subsequently bought back from him at an enhanced price by the two owners and driven home. Supt. Quinlan, Lismore, and a number of Guards were present in the Pound during the Sale.

FEEDING VALUE OF KALE

Discussing the feeding value of Marrow Stem Kale in the current issue of the Journal of the English Ministry of Agriculture, Dr. Crowther, Principal of the Harper Adams Agricultural College, points out that the merits of this crop are now widely acknowledged, but all too frequently because it takes the place of roots in the cropping, it is regarded as a substitute for roots also in the feeding programme, whereas it is more strictly comparable with grass and hay. This is well brought out in the analyses made recently at Cambridge, in which also thousand-headed kale was included. Taking the whole plant, marrow stem kale was found to contain about 13.74 per cent. of dry matter throughout the autumn and winter, the proportion thus being singularly constant and rather below that of young spring grass. Rather more than one-half of the dry matter was contained in the leaves, a little over one-third in the stems, and the balance of 10 per cent. in the marrow. The marrow was more watery than the rest of the plant and its dry matter was rich in sugars.

The average proportion of crude protein in the dry matter was 15.17 per cent. of dry protein thus being closely similar in this respect to young grass of average quality. The similarity extended also to the fibre content, which was very constant in all samples at 18.19 per cent. of the dry matter. In digestion trials with sheep, excellent results were obtained, fully to those previously found with other greenstuffs. On the basis of these data, the dry matter of marrow stem kale represents a feeding stuff of about 65 per cent. starch equivalent, including about 9 per cent. digestible "protein equivalent."

Another interesting point that comes out of the Cambridge data is the relative richness of the kales in mineral matters, especially lime, chlorine, potash and sulphur. The leaf is the part richest in lime and sulphur, whilst the dry matter of the marrow is richer in phosphorus, potash, soda, and magnesia. Clearly, the farmer who has a kale crop can make good use of it for remedying the defects of his hay supply.

Another problem of the coming winter on many farms will be the disposal of potatoes affected with disease. These can be fed to live stock but, if more than slightly affected, or if fed in large quantities, Dr. Crowther points out, they should first be well boiled or steamed. It is advisable to throw away the water in which the cooking has taken place as this may contain deleterious ingredients, especially if the potatoes are badly affected.
