Melleran

Dear Sir, or Madam, The proposal recently put forward by a well-known Dublin gentleman, equally distinguished for generosity and piety, of erecting a shrine to St. Philomena in the new Abbey Church of Mount Melleray has met with such widespread and enthusiastic approval as to encourage the hope of its speedy materialisation. With the sanction of the Lord Abbot the beautiful Bishop's Chapel has been selected as the most suitable place for the contemplated Shrine, which is to be an exact replica of the world-famous one venerated at Museume Italy. The contemplate from whom the suggestion originally same is ready to Mugnano, Italy. The gentleman from whom the suggestion originally came, is ready to contribute a large sum towards the realisation of his idea; nevertheless there will be a considerable deficit if the result is to be worthy of St. Philomena and her Irish devotees, and of the magnificent Monastic Church now rising in majesty on the baron slopes of the Knock-mealdowns. Therefore, we appeal with fullest confidence to all clients of this wonderful Saint who seems to have quite an extraordinary attraction for our people, to assist us in any way they can to produce something they may feel proud of. Thereby they will be giving practical expression to their own devotion to the Saint and at the same time helping to extend her beneficient influence to the ends of the earth: for Mount Melleray is today one of the hilltops of Christendom.

Subscriptions, no matter how modest, shall be gratefully received and duly acknowledged. Gifts of Gold, Silver or Jewellery will be specially welcome, and all offerings will entitle its donors to a share in the Masses and prayers daily offered by the Community for Benefactors.

We have great pleasure in submitting the appeal to the public on the eve of the Birthday of the glorious Saint and Martyr.

Thanking you in anticipation,

We remain

Yours respectfully,

THE NEW YEAR-

Half-Yearly

Quarterly

Was brought in, beaten in, blugeoned in, in the usual manner by methods orthodox and unorthodox. As the Old Year was about to "give up the ghost" a large crowd of merrymakers, headed by a Pipers' Band, paraded the streets and made the welkin ring on the approach of 1937. Now had they confined themselves to introducing the New Year all would have been O.K., but some of them kept up the racket for hours, with the result that many a would be sleeper wished them and the New Year to-let us say, Jericho. When a mutual friend introduces two hitherto strangers he, or she, then if wise, leaves them to develop the acquaintanceship started, or to drop it if they think fit. But on New Year's morning, not alone was the introduction performed, but, willy or nilly, it was dinned into people, with the result aforementioned. Probably the cause is to be looked for in the exuberant vitality of the Celtic temperament, or accounted for by the well-known proverb 'la jeunesse oblige.' It may be safely said that one of the most fruitful causes of many of our troubles in this troubled country of ours is want of consideration for the opinion and feelings of others. In politics and other spheres of human activity, we, like the King, "can do no wrong." Therefore, the other fellow must, as a matter of course, be wrong. 'Quod when we were boys, at the conclusion of the geometrical problem of the "droichead na n-asal," undoubtedly, there is a lot asinine in many of the things we do.

Are we to have that Free Library in action? For months and months past the Urban District Council, have been passing resolutions, and adopting Acts of Parliament—or should it be of the Dail?—in connection with linking up the local Carnegie Free Library with the Co. Library, but we are still awaiting the periodical supply of books promised. People may talk and joke as they like about the "red tape" of the past regime, but you may safely bet your leine that the "red" or should it be the "green" tape of the present regime is every bit as bad, if not worse. At the rate that tape is being turned out, the day may come, and by no means in the dim and distant future, when almost every act of ours will be subject to some Act, or Rule, or Order or Regulation. However, for the time being we must only hope for the best. As one of the most prominent of our administrators said some time ago, we are now only in the experimental stage of our national progress. Let us hope that the powers that be will both learn and profit by experience, even though it generally proves to be a dear school in which to acquire knowledge. BUILDING-Is almost at a standstill locally just now. selence that is at once unexplained and secret.

It is called "Sandi-gbuy" and is the temple where the sacrificial offerings of women are placed, and where are carried out the initiation ceremonies of the Bundu. It is a kind of Mende pagan temple and only women were allowed into it to worship. Such as it was it dated from the very beginnings of the village. Built originally by Kayamba who had founded the village and given it its name, it was renewed from time to time to keep ever present to the minds of the people the symbol and memories it represented. Moyamba was only a desert in these early days but Kayamba thought it a suitable place for the large village of his dreams. choose the most beautiful maiden of the tribe and make her a living sacrifice to the spirits of their dead ancestors. It was done.

When the appointed day arrived a grave was dug on the site where the "Sandi-gbowey" stands today. The girl was banded over by her father and better and bourted alive. Her mother had been sent on a false errand during the ceremony. None of her family were allowed to mourn for her for she was given to God and was not dead. She was merely gone an errand to the world of Spirits. The maiden was but a recent inditiate into the mained made were since the upkeep of the temple has been entrusted to the "Kyarguma" the particular women's servert society of the village.

The victim was not bound or hurt in any way before being put into the grave. After being anomited with plann-oil she was arrayed in most beautiful attire; her hair was a dorned with brooches of mother-of-pearl; silver bracelets on her wirds, gold and silver ornaments in her earth, and round her neck, a string of pearls around her wist, and round her neck, a string of pearls around her wist. In her mouth they put a gold piece, to cover the earth being hammered down around her. They placed a white cloth over her head to attract the attention of the spirits. The chief in the name of all the village, and dressed a prayer to the Divillage, and dressed a prayer to the brivility and the content of the spirits. MAXIVIN

THE WINE OF GOOD COMPANIONSHIP

ITS VIRTUES ARE MANY—

YET ITS PRICE IS MODEST-

ITS VALUE TRULY MARVELLOUS.

Days of variable weather-wet and miserable, cold, foggy; days of biting winds, followed by the "mugginess" that so often spells chills and "flu." Days when work, whether it be housework or bread-winning, becomes a worry and a drawing upon your energy. Those are the days when you need most to guard your health, to build up your resistive powers. The days when you should seek the aid of MAXIVIN - your "Good Companion." No need to fall prey to morbid fears, nor resort to unpalatable and expensive medicines - tone yourself up with MAXIVINgood honest wine-one of mankinds greatest blessings. Take a glass during the morning, another at night if you like. Make a habit of it - a good healthy habit. Be as good a companion to others as MAXIVIN is to you.

Maxivin is equally good as an Aperitiff or as an after dinner wine. Keep a bottle handy to entertain your friends.

4/ Per Bottle.

" CROTOG"

A New Year of Gaelic activity opens before us. The achievements, indures and disapplintments of 1530 are an oldy fading with the mists of the Past and the anxieties and concerns of the Gael are directed towards the problems of future progress and development. "Hope Springs Eternal in the Human Breast." Full well does your hurler and footballer "lay this flattering unction to his soul." No matter how bitterly the gall of defeat may have tasted a few short months before, no matter how deeply the old Club may have sunk mto the slough of despend, with the coming of January a new spirit of endeavour appears to pervade the Gaelic mind everywhere. Feverish activities consume Club officials, organisation is tightened up, finances are adjusted, policy and programme is debated and an exhaustive census of the probable playing strength is

The Annual Convention are already upon us. The Western Divisional Convention takes place in Tallow next Sunday, and the County Comh-Dail in Dungarvan on January 24th inst. The average Gaelic player, the red-blooded athlete of the playing pitch, is disposed to regard the adtrative side of the Association with a kind of amused toleration not unmixed with a little contempt. He fumes and frets like a high-class hunter for the physical activity of the field of action. The tactical managuvrings and the oratorical excesses so typical of the ordinary convention, leave him cold. He craves the thrill of combat and the call of the flying ball. His general attitude to officialdon carries much of the lofty cynical disregard which the Column fighter of 1920 and 1921 affected towards the politicians.

The Munster Council met in Limerick on turday last, and selected the teams to esent Munster in the Inter-Provincial tions. It affords much pleasure to see that the rapid revival of Decies hurling prestige has been recognised to the extent of conferring playing honours on two Waterford burlers, Christy Moylan of Dungarvan and John Keane of Mount Sion. The whole county will heartily endorse this tribute to two players who have already won their spurs in League hurling. It is significant that both players are very young men, Moylan being twenty-one, whilst Keane has not yet celebrated his twentieth birthday. I make bold to say that Keane is the youngest hurler that was ever honoured in this way—he is the first hurler in his 'teens to represent Munster and this in itself is a record of which Waterford may justly be proud. Here is the full Munster hurling line-out to meet Connaught in Ennis on February 14th

That Ryan (Tipp.) and Sean Barrett (Cork).' they did and did so effectively perhaps ranged-it is a powerful combination of gruntled protagonists of the old regime. lusty youth. Hennessey is the only veteran starred, and his choice as full forward standard-bearers against Tipperary on in preference to the brawny McMahon is February 7th next in Clonmel :in the nature of a surprise.

The appeal of Tallow against the Water-ford Co. Board's action in overruling their objection to Mount Sion was also dealt

T. Grea with. Much additional evidence was pro- W. Lynch D. Goode P. Sheehan duced by Tallow in support of their case and accepted as admissable by the Council. As this evidence had not been before the Waterford Board in its trial of the sdiction with instructions to re-open he investigation of the objection in the ight of the new evidence submitted. Talow were instructed to produce the rele vant witnesses and the Waterford County Board was authorised to examine them The player, Patrick O'Connor of Mount Sion, whose status is the subject of appeal, is to be instructed to appear at the resumed trial. Father Hamilton and the other Clare delegates pressed strongly to award the appeal to Tallow. John Joe Sheehy criticised such a suggestion, conthe Waterford Chairman and Board and tions and local Gaelic activities, would re-act unfavourably on their authority and prestige. The majority concurred with John Joe's view and, on a vote, the question was referred back as
