YOUGHAL NOTES

After Mass the Blessed Sacrament was borne in Solemn Procession to the Altar of Repose and the children of the parish gave a beautiful rendering of the appropriate hymns. After the evening devotions Rev. Fr. McGrath, preached an eloquent sermon on the Holy Eucharist.

On Good Friday morning there was no Council the time being. There was no Council held on Thursday night and no Court on Friday. Hence the usual spates of municipal eloquence of the periodical washing of dirty linen in public are missing. This means that there will be a double dose or more of both in the coming week. Indeed it would appear from all accounts.

the featuring of this type profitable was ber the opening lines of the latter : Peter M'Haffie. He was one who attained a certain amount of popularity in the London music halls of the cheaper kind. Dressed in the costume of an Irish squireen he would sing songs like this :-Why can't Paddy be a gintleman?

A gintleman, a gintleman, Oh. why can't Paddy be a gintleman? Come, tell me the reason why." It can be safely assumed that the singer of a song of this type nowadays would Another favourite in those days was Sam Collins. It is questionable if Sam could lay claim to being an Irishman, for he was a Londoner of Londoners and was born at Vegg. Originally a chimney sweep, he always had a flair for singing and dancing, and eventually gravitated to the stage via the "free and easy." He adopted the role of Irish Comedian, and it must be admitted as an Irish dancer nobody in those days could approach him. He was very popular, and one of the songs with which he used to bring down the house was "Donnybrook Fair." It is well-known to the present day.

rated very high in the halls. Bessie Bell-wood in her day was a serious rival to Marie Lloyd and Jennie Hill ("The Vital Spark"). Bessie was born Mahoney, was reared in London, and claimed, it is said, quite rightly too, to be a relative of Father Prout, who wrote the famous "Bells of Shandon." Her chief ditties were of the Cockney type, and she will be remembered for her singing of "Wotcher' Ria!" "Woa Emma!" and "Ria's on the Job."

to return too ur comedians. There was Pat Feency. A few will probacly remember him. A finished artist, an accomplished dancer, and a splendid singer, he soon won his way into the hearts of the public, and occupied a position which since then has been occupied by few. A most charitable man, he was COMPLETE RANGE OF 1937 always forward in the cause of distress, and no call made upon Pat for charitable purposes was ever turned down. Like many others of the same profession, he made big money and yet died poor at the earlyg age of 38. Pat Rafferty, still comparatively fresh in the mind of the public, was an artist of no mean ability, although, perhaps, he did not make such a name for himself as Feeney did. Walter Munroe will not be easily forgotten. A tuneful singer of fine appearar a, and a splendid dancer, he became v. v popular. As a vocalist his rendering of "The Man Who Struck O'Hara" was ininvitable.

Dragged him up and down the stairs Then we lugged him round the room, Under tables, over chairs.

But two who stood pre-eminent above that others were W. J. Ashcroft and always been well represented by her sons (and others) on the music hall stage, and if we examine the list of those who have figured as "Irish comedians" we find the roll a long one. The perusal of the mass takes us almost, if not quite, beyond living memory, and brings back into remembrance artists who were in their day famous, but are not now even memories.

In the earliest days of the music hall, when it was the bed for a long time afterwards, it is to be feared that Irish character was not often portrayed in a favourable light on the stage. It was the day of the stage Irish man. Complete with pig, swallow-tail coat, knee breeches, and himless last he trud the boards, figured in cartoons and drawings, and conveyed to the outside world an impression which has not yet quale died down. The picture was faithfully shown in a comic opera by Str. A thur Sullivan called "The Emerald Lise" years afterwards. One of the characters, Professor Bunn, sings a song which may be a song that the characters, Professor Bunn, sings a song which may be a song that the characters, Professor Bunn, sings a song which may be a song that the characters, Professor Bunn, sings a song where the characters are all the characters and the complete with a serious proper and the characters and the characters of the characters, or the characters of the charac

Some great Irish comedians who preceded him were "Irish lohnson," the great Tyrone Flower, and Hudson. Sam occasionally used some of the songs which had been sung by Power, the Donnobrook song being one of them.

By the way, Tyrone Power was born at Kilmacthornas, Co. Waterford, in 1797. His first important appearance was in Dublin on December 0, 1817. SACRED HEART CONFRATERNITY

LATE MR. P. SEXTON-

At a specially convened meeting of the Dungarvan Urban Council on Saturday last the following resolution proposed by Mr. Dahill, and seconded by Mr. Quann, was passed in silence:—"That we the members of the Dungarvan Urban Council desire to place on record, an expression of deep regret on the death of Mr. Patrick Sexton, who for a number of years was an esteemed member of this Council, and also acted as Chairman for a long period. We direct that our sincere sympathy be conveyed to his family and relatives, and as a small tribute of West Waterford. and relatives, and as a small tribute of West Waterford. respect to his memory, we adjourn this The chief mourners included :-

MAN'S DEATH

The death is much regretted of Mr. The full programme for next week R. I. P.—

A great wave of public sympathy goes out to Mr. Nicholas Dunphy, farmer, Grawn, Kilmacthomas, on the death of his sister, Miss Brigid (Ciss) Dunphy, Rathclaque, Waterford, which sad event happened at her home on Monday, after a brief illness and at a comparatively young age. Her remains, followed by an immense age. Her remains, followed by an immense contage ware remained to Butlerstown.

The death is much regretted of Mr. Andrew F. Quirke, Carrick-on-Suir. Deceased had been for 40 years an auctioneer and rate collector. He was a most estimable and popular man. The late Mr. Quirke was a brother of the late Mr. Joseph F. Quirke, and of Mr. Ml. J. Quirke, solr., Carrick-on-Suir, a popular member of the legal profession. There was a large attendance at the funeral to work. The Council sent a resolution work at the funeral to work. The Council sent a resolution work at large attendance at the funeral to work.

The Battle of Graiguenageeha— An Episode of the Land War—and Plan of Campaign, which was known as The Battle of Granguenageeha in the townland near Kilmacthomas. It was the first big challenge to the Ascendancy people in the County Waterford and it was decided that the Waterford Hunt would be stopped. That occurred in the carly eighties of the last century when the country was rallying to the side of Particell. Foremost in the ranks of the challengers was Mr. William Power. Could The Board of Assistance be Scrapped ? At the last meeting of the Waterford Board of Public Assistance it was decided to re-advertise for a purchaser of erap-o'd brass, lead, iron, bedsteads, cg., in Waterford County Hospital, as only one tender was received. The price was not considered satisfactory or in esping with the demand that now prevals for scrap. Many people regard it as an indication of the near approach of another Great War-the cagerness with which dealers are searching for old iron, · brass and lead. Recently I noticed a couple of men in punts in the Waterford Pill, fishing for scrap. They had no bait. The oars served the purpose of grabbers. There must have been a marine store or repot in the vicinity at one time and the bits of iron must have dropped into the Pill during the process of un J. Daniel & Sons, loading a cargo of scrapi.
