

BLACKWATER FISHERIES.

MANY MATTERS DISCUSSED

At the monthly meeting of the Lismore Board of Conservators, held at the Grand Hotel, Fermoy, Mr. J. Kennedy (chairman) presided. Others present—Messrs. W. O'Brien, W. Dunne, J. Sheehan, W. Baldwin, Major Longfield.

The Secretary stated that he had written to the Department in connection with the recent resolution of the Board relating to the fungus sewage arising from a factory effluent, but had not received any reply.

Major Longfield said that the Department should have acknowledged the letter and resolution, but he had no doubt they were looking into the matter, which was a serious one, and probably would involve a good deal of expenditure.

The Chairman said that there was no time lost, and they could wait till the next meeting.

The Secretary read a letter from Supl. Meehan, Kanturk, acknowledging the Board's appreciation of the action of the Garda at Rathcoole, especially that of Guards Sexton and O'Neill, and he stated that the matter would be brought under the notice of the proper authorities.

Mr. J. Hogan (Secretary Fermoy and District Trout Anglers' Association) wrote forwarding a resolution tendering their thanks to the Secretary and Board for the gift of trout fry which had been distributed recently in the rivers.

The Secretary said that this year they had liberated 2,541,757 salmon fry as well as 24,000 trout fry, between Mallow and Fermoy.

Major Longfield—That is very satisfactory.

The Secretary said the numbers were about the best so far.

A letter was read from Mr. J. Power, Yougal, tendering his resignation, as he was unable to devote the necessary time to the business of the Board.

The Secretary said that personally he regretted Mr. Power's resignation, as although he was not a very regular attendant at the meetings, his advice was always sound. They could co-opt a member at the next meeting.

The Chairman said they all regretted Mr. Power's resignation.

Referring to the fishing, the Secretary said that the netting was bad and generally it was far below that of recent years. The catches were very small; but from the angler's point it was better.

Major Longfield said he was surprised at that, as it was the worst he had known for many years, and Mr. Annesley had the same to say.

Mr. Sheehan said that in the upper portion it was very good, and a great deal better than for many years so early in the season.

Major Longfield said that at Carrig and Ballyhoo the fishing was bad, and the same could be said of Killybarry, but Kilmurray was pretty good. The latest statistics published by the Department showed a very marked decrease in catches in rod fishing; in 1937 it was only a fifth of the total caught in 1936 it was between a sixth and a seventh, in 1937 it was a ninth and in 1933 it was only a fourteenth. These figures showed a serious decline in the numbers of fish caught by anglers, whilst the numbers caught by nets increased.

The Chairman said that he thought that this year the rods would be about half. There were boats in Yougal which had done very badly. He had always pressed for more men to be employed during the open season, with the result that they had not sufficient money for employment for the close season.

Mr. Sheehan said it was almost impossible to watch the smaller rivers; they would require the National Army to do it.

The Secretary said there were over 700 miles of rivers to protect and what could a small number of men do to carry out that work? There was no doubt that in the western portion the men had been greatly helped by the Civic Guards.

Major Longfield said he understood that there were three nets operating in the upper waters, and they could imagine what destruction they could do.

The Chairman said that the only way they could preserve the river was to provide money by an increased rate of 15s. or 16s. If they had more money at their disposal they could preserve the spawning fish, the destruction of which meant the loss of millions of fish.

Major Longfield said he was not in favour of a reduction in the rates at any time. They all knew the destruction which was caused by netting.

The Secretary said that the rate of last year had been reduced, and when he was making out his estimate he endeavoured to keep in mind the ratepayer as well as the amount of expense that would have to be met. When the Board reduced the estimate he was unable to help it, but he should agree that the rate was inadequate for the preservation of the river.

The discussion ended.

LOBSTERS

Government to renew Export Bounty

The Department of Agriculture announces that arrangements have now been made for a renewal of the bounty in respect of lobsters exported to Great Britain or Northern Ireland from Saragat Eireann. The bounty will apply to consignments exported to such markets from 1st May, 1937, to 16th October, 1937 (both dates inclusive) and will be equal to three-fourths of the British import duty. Payment will be subject to conditions of which particulars can be obtained from the Department of Agriculture.

THAT TOUCH OF NATURE

By A Holy Ghost Father

OF war stories there will never be an end, and I suppose I should be loth to call back here the memory of what we are more and more considering as a world orgy of hell let loose rather than a great war. But if this is a war story it is only by accident. For it is really a little story out of Africa that carries on the tradition of what is best and not of the worst in human nature, telling of one of those touches of nature which, in spite of wars and slaughter, affirm the kinship of the world and its peoples.

It was on the borderland of two prosperous colonies that flew the flags of the contending nations far away from "No Man's Land." For days the noise of battle rolled. Forest and swamp and river were torn with the terrors of conflict, but it was along the edges of an African highway that the battle of which I write was being fought.

The African bush, with its tangled undergrowth and the perpetual darkness of its rank and myriad foliage, would be ample cover for many a battalion, and in this particular spot it stood grim and impenetrable down to the very road itself. Pursuers and pursued held opposite sides of the highway, and for hours there was the rattle of rifle fire, flame burst and spurred, while bullets rang and screamed as they whirled on this side and on that. And then from the middle of the road was heard a cry, a feeble wail, so distinct between the rattle of gun-fire. It was a cry of helplessness repeated again and again. Some bolder and more reckless one ventured on hands and knees to the edge of the forest, to behold in the middle of the road a little kitten, unscathed but terrified and intense with forepaw raised as if to declare the helplessness of its defence against surrounding horrors.

Around its neck was a ribbon tied with loving hands, for Kitty was the Company's mascot and when the bugles called to combat she had followed the flag. But she had never dreamed of such a day as this. She had before now more than once stepped daintily among cartridge-belts and rubbed her purring self against rifle stocks and stanchions of great guns. This was a new introduction to the panoply of war and it was a terrifying one.

Suddenly near this spot where the kitten stood walling and trembling, there appeared at the edge of the forest a flag of truce. It waved and fluttered in the sunlight and in a few moments all along the line, on either side, every rifle was silent. Out of the gloom on to the road-way stepped an officer. He spoke but one word, a name, and Kitty looked over her shoulder. He stopped down where he stood, and Kitty seeing the familiar offer of welcome bounded on to his shoulder and disappeared with him into the forest.

It all happened in a moment. Down came the flag of truce and once again hell was let loose. The men who were battling for a continent had forgotten their hatred for a moment. They met upon that common ground upon which all men are brothers, and for that brief moment at least, common nature had made them friends.

Christianity is my trade in Africa. I have often to appeal to men. Sometimes my appeal is heard. But I wonder if it is heard that day in the middle of the African road where the kitten stood, would the guns have been silent and the hatreds forgotten, even for a moment for my sake or for the sake of my appeal.

One touch of nature, they say, makes the whole world kin; it is very true. But it seems to me to be a pity that we cannot say as much of the touch of grace. I could tell of times when I have appealed to men; times, too, when they were not swayed by the terrible passions which wars and warring nations in human hearts, and I have appealed in vain. I could tell you of these times, but I will not, because for telling, you might call me CAT.

But in conclusion I will appeal once more for co-operation for our fellow-countrymen in that Africa of throbbing forests of myriad colour and song, who are fighting not for colonies or protectorates or suzerainties, but for the kingdom of God. And I will add that the headquarters of the Holy Ghost Missionaries in Ireland is at Kimmage, Dublin.

AFFANE FIANNA FAIL CUMANN WEST WATERFORD

At a largely attended meeting of Affane Fianna Fail Cumann, the following resolutions were passed—

(1) That we, the members of Affane Fianna Fail Cumann demand the allocation of a grant for the provision of a road at Knockalara.

(2) That we call on the Minister for Local Government to provide a water supply for Knockalara. We deplore the careless attitude adopted by our representatives and public officials towards these works, as we are of opinion that such works are more necessary than the making of concrete footpaths or the widening of road-beds.

It was pointed out by the Secretary that the County Surveyor considered the Knockalara road the most necessary work in the county. The Secretary was instructed to send copies of the resolutions to the Press and a copy of the resolution relating to the water supply to the County M.O.H.

The meeting voted sympathy with the Cousins family, Bawnfoin.

TALLOW NEWS

G.A.A.—C. Championship Matches

Two matches were played off in the first round of the Western Divisional Championships at Tallow on Sunday.

Ideal weather conditions prevailed and the field arrangements were perfect under the supervision of the local club. The attendance was exceptionally good and judging from the display given football is not getting all the attention this game deserves.

The hurling was up to the standard and despite the fact that the losers got no score this did not indicate the play which was fast and strenuous and close marking was an outstanding feature.

In the football match, Tallow playing against a strong breeze were first to attack, M. McCarthy sending wide. Lineen kicked out and driving up field O'Donoghue received, but Condon cleared well. Tallow once more attacked and putting more dash into their play secured a goal, and almost immediately followed with a point. From this on Tallow dominated the play and in subsequent exchanges were awarded two goals per O'Sullivan and O'Keefe respectively. Half-time score being Tallow—3-2; Ballyin, Nil.

Ballyin showed up in promising style on resumption. Lonergan, Barry and Murray putting in effective play, but Sheehan, Curley and Burke were not to be denied, and added further scores. The full-time whistle found Tallow winners on the score of 5-6 to Nil.

The match was capably refereed by Mr. Wm. Hogan.

The hurling game between Lismore and Ballyduff opening up lively and with Lismore having the advantages of the hill and wind were nearly through for a score, but Sheehan held his net well and driving up field Ballyduff were away per Flynn. Healy in the Lismore goal saved at the expense of a 70. Whelan clearing brought relief and brisk hurling followed. The first score came after 20 minutes play when P. Feeney, goaled from a free. J. Healy opened up for Lismore, but Higgins, Pierce and O'Donnell held their lines well and Ballyduff added another goal from a free to lead at half time by 2 goals.

Starting the second half Ballyduff led off with a point. Lismore securing a free sent wide. Fahy next put in some good play. Geary scoring for Ballyduff. O'Neill and Feeney next put Ballyduff on a scoring endeavour, but Healy saved and running out the wing cleared. Ballyduff came again and goaled per Callaghan, and just before the full time whistle sounded Pierce pointed for Ballyduff, leaving the latters score 3-2; Lismore, Nil.

The teams were—
Tallow—F. Fitzgerald, T. McCarthy, Noel Condon, W. Ryan, J. Bourke, M. Curley, J. Daly, P. Sheehan, T. McCarthy, Wm. Sheehan, M. Ronayne, J. O'Keefe, C. Curley, D. Doyle, T. O'Sullivan.

Hurling teams:—

Tallow Pipers' Band—

The Tallow Pipers' Band, made their debut to the public on Sunday May 1st, when they attended at Glenbow Wood, Killeagh, Co. Cork, the rendezvous of thousands of visitors from all over East Cork, Cork City and County and West Waterford. On May Sunday the stirring music of the pipers as they played through the grounds was almost enchanting, and delighted the many visitors who were fortunate to be present. A Flag Day in aid of the funds was held and the response was beyond expectations.

The Committee in charge deserve the highest commendation for developing the band to its present stage of efficiency in such a short time, and it is hoped that the success which attended its initial effort will be the forerunner of similar successes throughout the present season.

Francis Canon Prendergast, P.P., Tallow, of the entire lot of antique and modern furniture and effects, the property of the deceased pastor.

There was a very large attendance, and a speedy clearance of the property was effected, and good prices were realised in many cases. The silver ware for which there was very keen competition proved exceptionally attractive.

EAST CORK GAELIC DAY

KILLEAGH

Two Junior hurling ties were decided at Killeagh on Sunday in the two-day tournament organised by the local hurling club. Conditions were ideal and a large crowd turned up to see Aghada challenge Castlemary, while Ballymacoda had very little trouble in disposing of Killeagh. The meeting of the winners which will take place very shortly, should prove a great drawing card. A set of medals, subscribed for by the local people will be presented to the ultimate victors.

The first encounter commenced well up to time and the teams were played on to the field by the Tallow Pipers' Band. Mr. P. O'Neill, Killeagh, H.C., had charge of the whistle. Aghada won the choice for ends and played with a slight breeze in their favour. Both teams were slow to settle down. The opening exchanges saw both defences tested, but no score came for some time. Castlemary were first to register with a point. Several fine saves by the Aghada custodian were loudly applauded. Play was transferred to the other end where nice combination of part of the Aghada forwards brought a goal. This was supplemented by a minor and immediately by a goal. Aghada seemed to get much the better of the play and before the short whistle came were worthy leaders on the score—

Castlemary 0-1

The opening minutes of the second moiety promised a thrilling bout. Aghada registered a point and followed with a goal. Great dashing now followed and Castlemary fighting hard notched a goal and followed with a like score. Their hurling in fine fashion broke through a good defence for a swift goal. Again Castlemary shot a goal, but Aghada were now getting the upperhand and ran out winners on the score—

Aghada 7-4
Castlemary 3-2

Mr. C. O'Brien, Castlemary H.C., set the game between Killeagh and Ballymacoda in motion. The local team, despite determined efforts could not beat off the lightning attacks of their opponents. Killeagh were first to record a score, but Ballymacoda soon established their superiority in all departments. There were some newcomers on both sides and they acquitted themselves admirably. Ballymacoda, at the interval led by 4-2 to 1-1 for Killeagh.

The second half was a reproduction of the opening half. Ballymacoda, though playing against the wind, were too strong and faster than Killeagh and were worthy winners on the score—

Ballymacoda 8-3
Killeagh 1-3

The following represented the teams:—
Aghada—Ml. McCarthy, C. McSweeney, T. McCarthy, Wm. Aherne, J. Aherne, C. Galvin, P. Glavin, T. Wall, J. Kirby, R. Rainey, W. Bray, D. Foley, C. Foley, J. Walsh, Jas. Walsh.

Castlemary—R. Barry, J. Harris, M. Harter, J. O'Brien, John O'Brien, P. Wade, J. Whelan, W. Hennessy, G. Colbert, M. Moloney, V. Deely, M. Desmond, J. Coughlan, J. Kelliher, C. O'Brien.

Ballymacoda—E. McLoughlin, W. Barry, D. Crowley, R. Shanahan, J. Cashman, E. Millerick, R. Rumbly, J. Aherne, M. Aherne, M. Hayes, M. Millerick, K. O'Keefe, D. Shaughnessy, D. Fowse, G. Cahill.

Killeagh—J. Crowley, J. Walsh, R. Deane, P. O'Neill, B. Mulcahy, C. Ronayne, M. Loughlin, M. Hussey, T. O'Neill, P. O'Neill, P. Foley, M. O'Connell, J. McGrath, F. O'Neill, D. Foley.

INCH

Each passing year but makes more dear the scenes the filled me with delight. In youthful long long ago when all the world seemed fair and bright. The heights of Rath and Barradaw o'er-looking many a storied glen. Where we are told the feniens bold were wont to train their fighting men.

In later year the volunteers here formed many a daring plan. Clonmult staff feels though time heals the markings of the Black and Tan. But Inch's plains and winding lanes my favourite haunts have ever been. Nor did I see by Bride or Lee a fairer sight than Gloun-Cahtleen.

The deep ravine, the rushing stream, the jutting rocks so bold and free; A mountain hold for warrior bold, the home of chief and rapasore. Across the way the sun's last ray lights up a scene of sylvian bliss. Whence you might spy with naked eye, the race course and the fairies lie.

Oh, Inch, my queen you've ever been, and will be to my dying day. I love your hills, your rippling rills, the Church wherein I kneel to pray. The stout Knockawn and Barnavidane, the "Pee" with all its dazzling view. Of land and sea, and hill and lea, oh Inch there is no place like you.

MULCAHY'S—DUNGARVAN

BETTER DAIRY CATTLE

STEPS ALONG THE ROAD TO IMPROVEMENT

Knowledge of managing cows for commercial milk production does not necessarily include the ability to effect herd improvement by constructive and selective breeding. If the above statement is doubted any reader states a writer in the April issue of the "British Friesian Journal," can prove it to his entire satisfaction by thinking of the men he regards as successful cowkeepers, and then forming his own opinion of the proportion of them possessing real knowledge of cattle breeding, as judged by results.

If success in cattle breeding is only possible to a herd-owner who appreciates the value of his animals, it would appear that no satisfactory progress along the road to improvement can be made until the owner has eliminated the animals which do not conform to the ideal he has set himself to secure.

To ask an ordinary cow-keeper if he is a good judge of cattle would seem almost insulting. Instead, the suggestion is made that each herd-owner who reads these notes should ask himself seriously whether he considers himself competent firstly to judge by himself a dairy cow section at some important show, and secondly, to accept the responsibility of selecting suitable stock for the good and successful herd of a neighbour. Putting this aspect of the case in another way, it would probably be an exaggeration to say that 5 per cent. of the owners of pedigree herds contribute materially to the lasting improvements of their particular breed. Thus quite 95 per cent. of pedigree stock-breeders must rely almost entirely upon the work of the outstanding few.

What constitutes success in pedigree stock-breeding? The answer partly depends upon the point of view, for there are two sides to this as to every question. If it is possible to summarise the height of success in pedigree live-stock breeding, the following short description might do as well as any: securing in home-bred animals a pleasing combination of all the commercial recommendations, and adding the aristocracy, style, quality and uniformity that make them superior, both for appearance and for profit production, as units of animal husbandry, and as distinct altogether from their selling value for breeding.

Often at shows differences of opinion are explained because one critic is enthusiastic about commercial recommendations that would mean money in an ordinary weekly cattle market, while another fancier waxes eulogistic because to him an animal possesses that rare quality which tells him that it will breed desirable progeny. That this quality is most readily appreciated after study of an animal's head may be true, but such fact would still be meaningless to one lacking the instinctive ability to recognise it. A human face may impress very much or it may displease greatly, the judgment being easier and more quickly formed than explained.

Possibly one of the best methods to appreciate the skill of a breeder is to study the herd he has developed as the result of years of concentrated endeavour, and to note whether uniformly in appearance has been blended with other recommendations. If that uniformity is pleasing and readily apparent, the herd is almost certain to be a "good one," because, if its owner has been able to obtain one desirable feature, his skill is obviously such that with it, he will assuredly have combined other important essentials. In all probability it will be found that he has adopted and followed a policy of line-breeding, choosing distantly related animals or strains possessing the virtues he prefers and adding their blood to his herd whenever possible and practical to do so. If an ancestor had certain virtues its descendants are more likely to inherit those good qualities if that ancestor's name appears several times in the list of the nearest 64 animals in the pedigree than if such ancestor is only one of those 64 nearest relations.

When line-breeding is carried to extreme lengths, it becomes in-breeding, which can briefly be described as the result of mating closely related animals. As in or very close breeding can probably only be successfully conducted by a genius it is, perhaps, safe to include it in the list of extremes to be avoided. As a general rule it is unsafe to pursue any breeding policy to extreme lengths, so that balance is as good a guide as any to the pedigree stock breeder. One example should serve to illustrate the need for balance. If the animals in a herd are all weak or low in blood, would a breeder do better to attempt to correct that fault by using one bull high in the back or by having two successive herd sires straight in the back?

The answer seems obvious. If there are those who claim that a straight back is unimportant, it is easy to see that they are considering only the one animal before them and are unmindful of the constitution of its descendants.

Seeing that pedigree livestock breeding is entirely a matter for the individual who must be something of a genius to secure outstanding success, it is as impossible as it is impertinent to attempt to fix rules that, carefully followed, must result in triumph. Yet guiding principles there must be. They include: (1) avoiding the multiplication of faults; avoiding extremes; obtaining balance; combining all commercial recommendations; and adding to the whole that style, quality and breed type that distinguish the strong, well-made aristocrat from the lifeless "worker."

IRISH BRIGADE TO LEAVE SPAIN

HOME THIS WEEK

It was learned in Dublin that the first contingent of General O'Duffy's Irish Brigade, who have been fighting with the insurgent forces in Spain, will arrive home within the next two days. The remaining officers and men will follow soon afterwards.

Their return follows the unanimous decision of the rank and file in favour of disbandment, a decision approved by their leader, General O'Duffy.

Conflicting reports are current about the reasons for the men's decision, but according to General O'Duffy himself, they are:—

1. That they have been in the front-line trenches exposed to continual shell-fire and bombing since February last;—

2. That they have suffered heavy casualties, and

3. That they have fulfilled their obligations to Spain (this is, presumably, an allusion to the fact that they enlisted for six months or the duration of the war whichever proved the shorter).

Details of the casualties show a total of seven dead, about 25 injured and 150 in hospital from rheumatic fever and other trench diseases.

Total strength of the brigade is about 1,100 men. No action can be taken by the State authorities against those who refuse to re-enlist, but the brigade was disbanded before the enactment of the Spanish non-intervention legislation. They will, however, be unable to return to Spain.

CAPPOQUIN NOTES.

Cappoquin Bacon for Palestine—We have previously stated that owing to the superior quality of the bacon turned out by the Cappoquin Bacon Factory, large markets for its sale have been established in New York, Boston and other important American cities for several years past, and huge consignments are being despatched from Cappoquin to the United States at regular dates every month, and the Management of the Factory has been receiving the highest testimonials from their agents as to its great demand at the highest prices amongst the best judges of good bacon there.

Annual Quazar One—For many years past the beautiful and impressive ceremony of Quazar One or 4 Hours' Adoration, has been opened in St. Mary's Catholic Church here on the fourth Sunday after Easter, and in accordance with custom, the same ceremony was opened here after last Mass on Sunday week.

An imposing religious procession was held around the Church grounds immediately after Mass, the Blessed Sacrament being borne under a rich canopy by the Very Rev. T. Fitzgerald, P.P., while sacred hymns were chanted by the children of Mary, Members of the Sacred Heart Sodality and other similar bodies in the Parish.

The Exposition lasted all day on Sunday and Monday, constant vigil being kept up before the High Altar by relays of members of the Children of Mary, while a continuous stream of the faithful from the town and parish visited the Church and prayed fervently before the Blessed Sacrament.

Clerk of Works for Drainage Scheme—Mr. Michael O'Carroll, B.E., Offaly, has been appointed by the Co. Waterford Board of Health as Clerk of Works over the Main Drainage Scheme at present being carried out in Cappoquin, and formally took up his duties here on last Monday week.

Confirmation—His Lordship, Most Rev. Dr. Kineane, Bishop of Waterford, will administer the Sacrament of Confirmation to the children of the town and parish on Wednesday May 26th, all of whom will be examined in the necessary religious subjects on Tuesday, 25th inst.

PORTLAW "PICKINGS"

It is with sincere and poignant feelings of regret that the news of the death was learned of Mr. William Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh, Whitestown, Clonca-Power. The deceased, who had been employed at the Leather Factory here, met with a very serious accident while at work on Thursday of last week, when one of his hands got caught and badly mangled in a machine used for scraping hair off raw hides. He was removed to Dr. Coffey's Nursing Home, Waterford, with all possible speed. It was found necessary to amputate the injured portion of the limb, and the operation was successfully carried out.

A large crowd gathered at the local Gaelic ground on Sunday evening last to witness the meeting of Rathgormack and Fenor in their first-round tie in this year's senior football championship of the East Waterford Division. The game was highly interesting and thrilling, especially towards the close, when the Whites managed to hold the Reds, and win by a margin of two points.

Portlaw's own senior hurling XV, the Tannagh-crossed crooked sticks, with Mooncoin in a friendly challenge. The sides served up a stylish exhibition of the matchless code. The argument ended in favour of the homesters, whose win was right meritoriously achieved.

WITH THE IRISH BRIGADE IN SPAIN

Interesting Letter From Mr. Sean N. Fitzgerald, Modeligo

Mr. John F. Ryan, Press Correspondent, Cappoquin, has recently received an interesting letter from Mr. Sean N. Fitzgerald, Modeligo, Co. Waterford, who was one of the first young men in West Waterford to volunteer for service in General O'Duffy's Irish Brigade, and who left home for active service on the side of General Franco's forces, towards the end of last November, being followed soon afterwards by his younger brother Mr. Florence Fitzgerald, both of whom have since been promoted to the rank of "Squad Commander, C. Company, 15th Bandero, Irish Brigade."

The letter, which is addressed from "University City, Madrid," and is dated April 19th states, amongst other incidents in the campaign, "On the night of March 12th, I was commanding a Section of Irish boys from different parts of Ireland, including a few from Youghal, together with my brother, Squad Commander Florence Fitzgerald, and Sergt. Tom Shaw of Middleton. We went out two miles in front of our own trenches, and well into the Red territory, to erect a Pontoon bridge over the Havana river in preparation for the advance which was to be made at dawn next morning by the Irish Brigade. This was the battle which took place on March 13th on the Valencia road, a short distance from Madrid, and it was in this battle that most of our comrades were either killed or wounded. I was wounded in this engagement myself, and was in hospital until April 4th and while there we were sent a special message of congratulation from General Franco for our brave action in erecting the bridge, with the aid of Nationalist engineers who were with us on the night of March 12th.

It is hard for the people of Ireland to realise that we have done such good work in this war, even though we have been such a short time in Spain, and it has been freely admitted here that the brave fighting of the Irish Brigade will form a bright and unsullied page in the history of this war. Of course I could not fully describe what the war is like; all I can say is that those of us who live to go home will never forget it.

The Irish Brigade has left the "Hill of Angels" and we now occupy University City, and here we have constant shell-fire and continuous halls of bullets whizzing about us every night and day. I must also mention that General O'Duffy had a very narrow escape last night when a heavy shell blew half of his dug-out to pieces, but of course, that is nothing new to us now, for with shells bursting all round us, it is only because the hand of God is with us that we are still alive.

I think I have no more to say now, only I hope that God will spare us to see our dear native land again, and all our old friends at home.

SEAN FITZGERALD This letter was obviously written before the writer knew that the Irish Brigade is shortly to return from Spain, so his fervent hope and wish to be spared to see his native land again will now, probably, be realised much sooner than he had expected, and when the survivors of the brave Irish Brigade will eventually return home, we trust that the noble and unflinching part which they have played on the side of Christianity and Catholicity against the forces of Communism and Atheism will not be forgotten by their fellow-countrymen at home. —(J.F.R.)

DEATHS

GRIFFIN—May 2nd, 1937, at her residence, Abbeyside, Dungarvan, Mrs. Alice Griffin.—R.I.P. Deeply regretted.

GRANT—May 2nd at Killosera, Dungarvan, Mrs. Mary Grant. Deeply regretted.—R.I.P.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

REMARKABLE ESCAPES—

How the driver and his helper on a lorry and two lady pedestrians escaped death on Tuesday last, at the Causeway, Abbeyside, can only be described as providential. The lorry, owned by Messrs. K. Williams and driven by James Byrne, accompanied by his helper M. Power, came down Sexton street, Abbeyside, loaded with grain. The Railway gates at the Causeway level crossing were at the time closed against road traffic to allow a goods train through. The lorry crashed through the gates, taking one half gate, the concrete pillar on which it was hung and the small side gate in its stride. Portion of the gate was carried on the radiator of the lorry which continued travelling on its way, but when nearly clear of the line the goods train came and crashed into it at the pier. The lorry was completely turned over with its two occupants. The two ladies—Miss Masterson and Miss May O'Brien, Abbeyside, who were standing on the footway waiting until the train had gone through had a most remarkable escape from serious injury, or perhaps death, as when the lorry was struck the portion of the gate on the radiator swung round and struck Miss Masterson, inflicting severe facial injuries. Miss O'Brien succeeded in jumping clear. Meanwhile the lorry driver and his mate, when onlookers thought must have been killed or very badly hurt, emerged unscathed from their perilous position. The train was brought to a standstill just at the point of impact, sacks of corn were thrown on to the buffers of the engine and all over the road. Both ladies as well as Messrs. Byrne and Power, suffered severely from shock.

CYCLING ACCIDENT—

A young lad named Doyle, Thompson's Lane, Dungarvan, had his leg broken above the ankle, when he was in collision with a bicycle ridden by a boy named Foley. The young lad was removed to hospital.

DAILY CUP COMPETITION—

The purpose for which the Competition was started (to improve the standard of football in the area) will soon be realised judging by the grand display given by the Hopes and Shamrocks on last Wednesday night. Final score—Hopes, 3-3; Shamrocks, 3-1. Next match Shamrocks v. Shandon Rovers, next Wednesday evening at 8.30.

DUNGARVAN CYCLING CLUB—

The newly-formed Cycling Club will have their first outing of the season on next Sunday May 8th. Since the formation of the Club some weeks past the membership has increased by leaps and bounds and when they take the road for their initial journey, it is expected to see a large number of cyclists on view. We wish the club every success, as it is a splendid way for our young people to enjoy themselves during the coming summer.

WATERFORD CORPORATION DISSOLVED—

The Minister for Local Government and Public Health has dissolved the Waterford Corporation, and appointed Mr. P. J. Meghan, Western Road, Clonmel, to carry out the duties from May 5th.

TICKET TO LOURDES—

It will be interesting to know who will be the lucky winner of the Ticket to Lourdes, which is to be raffled in the Band Room, the week after next. There are but a few days left to purchase tickets as counterfoils must reach Father Hearne, on or before the 15th inst. The number of the winning ticket will be published in the "Observer" on the 21st of May.

OBITUARY.

DEATH OF MRS. ALICE GRIFFIN, ABBEYSIDE

The death on Sunday morning last, of Mrs. Alice Griffin, Abbeyside, removed one of the best-known, most popular and respected residents of the district. During her long life of 86 years, she was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her. Her business brought her into contact with all sections of the general public and those who had business dealings with her, found her always courteous and obliging.

A devout Catholic all her life, her death came peacefully on Sunday morning in the fullness of years and fortified by the rites of Holy Church. Masses of Requiem were offered for the repose of her soul on Monday and Tuesday mornings.

On Monday evening, the remains were removed to the Abbeyside Parish Church and were followed by one of the largest and most representative corteges of mourners and sympathisers seen in the district for some time. Very Rev. N. Dunphy, P.P., received the remains at the Church gate.

On Tuesday, the burial took place in the adjoining cemetery in the presence of another very large gathering of friends and mourners.

Very Rev. N. Dunphy, P.P., officiated at the graveside.

LATE MRS. MARY GRANT

The death of Mrs. Mary Grant, Killosera, Dungarvan, at the fine old age of 89 years on Sunday last, removes yet another from the old stock of the district.

The deceased up to a few years ago carried on an extensive business in St. Mary street. She was sister of the late Mr. Laurence Curran, Killosera.

The funeral to the Parish Church, Dungarvan, on Monday evening, was followed by a large procession of mourners.

Requiem Office and High Mass for the repose of her soul was offered on Tuesday morning, after which the burial took place in the family plot in the adjoining cemetery.

LATE MRS. RYAN, ABBEYSIDE

The death took place on Tuesday last after a rather protracted illness of Mrs. Ryan, wife of Mr. M. Ryan, Sheare St., Abbeyside, at a comparatively early age.

The deceased was a hard-working and industrious woman all her life.

Much sympathy is felt for her bereaved husband.

A largely attended funeral followed the remains to Abbeyside Church on Wednesday evening. Rev. M. Power, C.C., Abbeyside, received the remains at the Church gate. On Thursday, the burial took place in the cemetery attached to the Church.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION

President To Succeed The Governor General

SENATE TO BE RESTORED

THE text of the draft of the new Constitution which Mr. de Valera proposed to put before the people for ratification at the coming General Election was issued in Dublin.

The main changes proposed are in connection with the Legislature. With the disappearance of the Governor-General under the legislation of last December the Legislature consisted of only one House, with the Chairman having authority to sign Bills. The new Constitution provides for two Houses, Dail and Senate, and for a President as successor to the Governor-General.

The President will be apart from party politics or sectional interests and is to be invested with powers not enjoyed by the former Governor-General. In the exercise of the powers which do not come within his own discretion he will be advised by his Council of State.

There is no mention of King George or Great Britain in the new Constitution which as Mr. de Valera has already indicated, will stand without alteration in the event of an All-Ireland Republic.

The name Irish Free State is to be altered to the name "Eire."

Article 1 says: "The Irish Nation hereby affirms its inalienable, indefeasible and sovereign right to choose its own form of government, to determine its relation with other nations, and to develop its life—political, economic and cultural, in accordance with its own genius and traditions."

Article 2 says: "The national territory consists of the whole of Ireland, its islands and the territorial seas."

Article 12, which deals with the office of President says he shall be elected by direct vote of the people, and shall hold office for seven years.

The President shall, on the nomination of the Dail, appoint a Prime Minister, or Head of the Government, who will be called an Taoiseach.

The Senate will be composed of 60 members, of whom 11 shall be nominated by the Prime Minister, and the remainder elected as follows:—Three by the National University, three by Trinity College, and forty-three by the Dail.

It is expected that the General Election and plebiscite will take place in the last week in June.

G. A. A. CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES AT THE PIKE

Faha v. Cathal Brugha's The first tie for decision was the junior football match in which the above teams met. Faha won the toss and decided to play with a slight breeze. For the first five minutes play was very even around mid-field, then Faha began to force the pace somewhat and carried play into their opponents territory, only to send wide twice. Next Faha forced a "g" which was cleared in fine style by "Fitzy's" backs. A free to Cathal-Brugha's brought play to the Faha goal-mouth, but very soon returned to the other end and from a free D. Reilly scored the first point for Faha after 15 minutes play. Duggan in goal brought off some fine saves for Cathal Brugha's. Faha were in hard luck when Curran hit the upright. Faha next succeeded in getting 2 points and from a forward burst by "Fitzy's" team the Faha net fell, leaving both sides level at 3 points each. Faha were far superior to their opponents, all through the first half but being slow to settle down and with erratic shooting only succeeded in scoring 9 points. Cathal Brugha's score for the first moiety being 1 goal.

The final scores were:— Faha..... 2-11 Cathal Brugha's..... 2-0

The hurling match Dungarvan v. St. Anne's was a ding-dong affair from start to finish, and on the run of play Dungarvan were rather lucky to win. Had St. Anne's got down to hard practice a month ago the result would be much different.

The final score read:— Dungarvan..... 5-5 St. Anne's..... 2-5

WARBLE FLY (TREATMENT OF CATTLE) ORDER, 1936

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN That the above Order as amended by the Warble Fly (Treatment of Cattle) Order, 1936, requires that all Cattle infested with the Larvae of the Warble Fly shall be dressed with Cattle Wash made from a Preparation approved by the Minister for Agriculture between the 1st and 7th days (both days inclusive) of each of the months: March, April, May, June and July. The Cattle Wash must be applied by the owner or person in charge of the cattle in such manner that it will come into contact with the Larvae through the Warble swellings in the skin of the Cattle. No method of treatment for Warble Infestation other than the foregoing is permissible for the purposes of the Order, and it should, therefore, be borne in mind, that the squeezing-out method of treatment will not be recognised as complying with the Order.

Supplies of the Preparations for making Cattle Wash are required to be sold in sealed packages bearing a printed indication of the Minister's approval. The approved preparations are not to be used with the object of preventing fly attacks. Stockowners should accordingly note, that only visibly infested parts of the animals are required to be dressed.

Owners of Cattle should note that it is not necessary for the Inspectors appointed under the Order to be present at the time of dressing, and on no account should dressings be postponed pending visit of Inspectors.

Offences against the Order entail Penalties under the Diseases of Animals Acts, and owners of cattle found to be evading their obligations under the Order will render themselves liable to prosecution.

The Order is enforced by the County Council, who have appointed Inspectors to supervise its working and to advise stockowners thereon. Any information required in connection with the operation of the Order, and copy of a leaflet containing detailed instructions in regard to the mixing and application of the cattle wash can be obtained from the Inspectors or from the undersigned.

By Order, M. A. FOLEY, Clerk to the Local Authority under the Diseases of Animals Acts for the County of Waterford, County Council Offices, Dungarvan, 7th May, 1937.

THE GIRL'S ORDEAL—

Although a man may be convinced in his own mind that the girl he has chosen will make him happy, he likes, at the same time, to have other opinions on the subject. Not that any other opinion is likely to influence him now that his mind is made up—often, on the contrary, the stronger the objections advanced, the more obstinately he holds his view, but it interests him to know in what light the world at large regards his fiancée, and the opinion which he feels to be most important is his mother's.

"I wonder what mother'll think of Lizzie?" he asks himself, and not without some misgivings. "Wonder what she'll say?" It is a nice question, for, although every one else may express the most unqualified approval of Lizzie and even agree with him when he says that she is "marvellous," he knows it is impossible to predict with any certainty that his mother will do the same.

Mothers can always be relied upon to contribute a new and disturbing point of view in these affairs. Some of them are easy to approach; others deliberately set themselves against a woman, though the reason for this attitude can usually be traced to amoderately circumstanced home. No mother wants to hear of her son's serious entanglement if his marriage is going to make it more alarmingly difficult than ever for her to make ends meet, and for this reason there are innumerable men who will not even admit to their people that they are keeping company with a girl because they know it will provoke a storm of abuse.

"So that's where your money goes? Well, if ever I get a chance to speak to that girl I'll tell her . . ." etc., etc. But such an attack as this by a mother is as likely to defeat, as it is to serve, her own ends, for it may easily incite the boy to marry, if only to show his contempt for his people's authority.

The best way for a man to "sound" his mother on the delicate question is to pass her over some snags, preferably scenic studies taken during the summer holidays, and include one of his girl friend at the end. If he has no prints of her except in beach pyjamas and bathing costumes, he should postpone the occasion until he has taken one of her in some mountain fastness posed, with an open book in her lap, and looking away to the distant peaks like Annetstown Anne or one of the Bronte sisters. Mothers have a peculiar antipathy to beach pyjamas, but anything that reminds them of the customs of their younger days is certain to find favour in their eyes.

"Now there's a nice, modest-looking girl and no nonsense," she says to herself when she turns up the fatal print, but she is careful not to voice her thoughts aloud.

"Who's this?" she enquires casually from her son. "Oh, that's a young lady I spent some of my time with during holidays. Rather pretty, isn't she?"

"Oh, she's not bad-looking. I suppose this is your girl?" "Well, as a matter of fact, it is," and it is his mother continues to listen with some show of interest when he tells her that the girl is "different," that she is an "unusual type," etc., he can rest assured that the danger is past and it is only a matter of time till he will be able to invite her up.

The first intimation that his girl has that he wishes her to meet his people comes by an introduction to his sister, who tells her that she will have to come up some night, "for we've all heard such a lot about you." "This is all very fine," the girl argues to herself, "but I'm not engaged yet. If I start to visit at his house now, I will feel obliged to respect his mother's wishes about marriage. Mother's don't like to lose their sons and she may tell us that we have time enough for another year or two yet. As I can't flatly contradict her below her own roof, he may begin to think that there is something in what she says."

This is sound reasoning, for, just as surely as her people like to hasten their marriage, his people have an inhibitive influence. His mother may be powerless to keep him from it, but if his girl is to be a frequent visitor at the house, the mother can control the affair through her until it suits her to let them go off.

Against her own judgment then, she accepts the invitation, for to refuse it will offend his sister and certainly mean a row with him.

"Thanks awfully, I'd love to go," she says, hating the idea, for the visit, she knows, will be an ordeal while it lasts.

His people will study her with critical eyes; no detail of her dress or manner will escape them, and they will be waiting to sneeze on her slightest error in deportment. If a man makes a slip at her house no one thinks anything of it at all. When, in a thoughtless moment, he knocks his pipe out against the heel of his boot, they rather like him all the better for it. And even if he catches the vase of everlasting flowers on the mantelpiece or glances in routine across the fender, they tell him it was "always in the way," that it was an "eyecore" anyhow, and convince him that he has actually done them a service by destroying it.

"After all, he's only a man," they tell themselves. It is a man's privilege to send women into a flutter of excitement by doing the wrong things.

But, among his people, a woman must exhibit an entire correctness of demeanour, and although she is unlikely to commit any of his blunders she can depend upon it that when she is gone, her visit will be reconstructed as carefully as the crime in a detective play, and if she has been guilty of any breach of etiquette it will provide a topic of conversation among them for days to come.

Sooner or later, of course, a woman must visit his people, but, before he risks the subject, she should mention it to him and make it clear that she would prefer to be engaged first. Even mothers recognise the fact that marriage must follow an engagement at a certain interval, and if she visits his people officially as his fiancée, in addition to being spared serious interference from his mother, she will have more confidence in herself before them.

THE FLIRT— With the flies back from wherever they go in the winter time it is becoming to consider the flirt, whose affections are "you-know-what" in their variability. You mustn't disparage the flirt because he loves one but a hundred. He might retort, "What! would you have me admire only one flower in all the garden?" The flirt is not a monstrosity or a perversity, but an experimental chemist anxious to see how the elixir of beauty will combine with the tincture of infatuation. He is working on a system of trial and error, and his motto is, "If at first you don't succeed try another one."

The flirt, unfortunate fellow, cannot conquer his interest in beauty in its multiple and engaging forms. There is the smooth-haired Madonnas with the ivory complexion and the dark demure orb; the tully checked one with the honeyed hair, and the effervescent spirits; the flapperish one with the boyish figure and the corkscrew curls, or the more solidly upholstered one with the Venus de Milo proportions and the dimpled cheeks, or the quiet and pensive one "with wraith soul sitting in her eyes"—all these exert their charms to them in turn. How happy could he be with either were the other dear charmer away!

It may not be good for law and order that such things as flirts exist, but human affections have no respect for the conventions, they just follow their own sweet will. "Love he comes, and Love he carries, Just as fate or fancy carries." "Love's a fire that needs renewal Of fresh beauty for his fuel." But the professional flirt lives in the midst of grave peril, like a man picking his steps across a raging torrent. He must have the manners of a courtier, the tact of a head waiter, and the dexterity of an acrobat, or he may find his lines of retreat suddenly closed up and his escape impossible. Unsuspectingly the bonds and cables of Hymen entwine themselves about him.

Playing with fire is an awkward thing to do, but the flirt gets half his thrills from this hazardous rushing upon the flames. It seems that the men are by nature promiscuously affectionate, and there's a dash of a flirt in all of us. The ordinance of marriage is the only safeguard against this chronic nibbling, and even that doesn't completely curb the propensity, as even the Metal Man will notice if he reads the Sunday papers.

It is well to issue here a gale warning to girls. The season of the flirt is in; you can almost here the buzz of his wings and catch the odour of brilliantine. He comes forth, appropriately, with the butterfly and hops from flower to flower. You have heard of "the merry month of May"; it is well to be reminded of "Merry" affection: "A May month lover:— 'Men were deceivers ever, One foot on sea and one on shore, To one thing constant never.'"

AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE— Energetic efficient Assistant County Surveyor, Mr. J. H. Jephson, was driving his motor car in the vicinity of Currabaha level crossing near Kilmacthomas last week-end, when one of the wheels of his vehicle rolled away from it. Fortunately for him, he was going very slow at the time and was able to stop the car quickly, and so escaped unhurt. The well and popularly known gentleman, who is to be congratulated on his lucky escape, returned to Waterford by bus, and the car was towed to Rowe's Garage, where it has since been repaired.

BY THE WAY— The "eat-more-potatoes" campaign has not assumed the same aggressive form in mid-Deise as in other parts of Europe. Probably it is not considered necessary here, where the "soud" is an almost indispensable part of the daily diet. It is a coincidence that the permissible expenditure of the feminine figure should be announced with the "Eat More Potatoes" propaganda. The ideal woman of this year of grace will, we are told, be 12 lb. heavier than has been the favourite average weight in recent years. This will please some people and curiosity will not be concealed when the twelve-pound look is subjected to the test of criticism.

DEATH— The death of Mr. Thomas Porter, happened at his home at Bonmahon on the 29th ult., after a protracted illness and in the fullness of his years, and has evoked feelings of deep regret, not merely in his native district, but far outside its confines. He was a member of a well-known Catholic family, and was for a considerable number of years the capable land steward on the estate of the late Mr. Richard Watts, Bonmahon, and in that capacity he had proved most considerate and indulgent to those who worked under his direction and supervision. He was an uncompromising Nationalist of the old school with a broad outlook, and was ever ready to subscribe generously to every movement that was calculated to advance the interests of the country. The poor and needy found in him a friend, indeed, and any appeal made to him in the name of charity met with a generous and munificent response. The cortege which accompanied the remains to St. Anne's Church, Ballylanean, on Saturday evening was one of the largest and most representative seen in the parish for a long time, being a fitting tribute of public respect to the memory of departed worth. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery after the late Mass on Sunday, in the presence of a large and deeply popular son (Thomas) and daughters, and numerous other relatives, friends and sympathisers. The Rev. T. O'Shea, C.C., Ballylanean, recited the last

The Department of Agriculture announces that it is proposed to fix, as soon as possible, after the 15th May next, the final percentage of home-grown wheat to be purchased by licensed millers during the current cereal year. Farmers who have not yet disposed of their wheat to a licensed miller or registered wheat dealer are, therefore, advised to do so without delay as the final percentage will be based on the amount of home-grown wheat marketed by growers up to the date mentioned above. What growers are warned that should they not have disposed of their wheat by 15th May, it may be difficult to find a buyer, as millers may then have obtained their full requirements of home-grown wheat.

YOUGHAL URBAN COUNCIL

At a special meeting held on Thursday, there attended—Messrs. P. J. O'Gorman, P.C., Chairman; E. D. Condon, Capt. C. Watson, E. P. Lynch, J. Daly, B.E.; R. Power, R. Savage.

On the proposition of Mr. Daly, a cheque for £72 14s. 4d. was passed for labour and wages.

Replying to a query by Mr. Power, regarding the allocation of £600 from the 1st Relief Grant towards work on the repair of the Sea Wall.

The Clerk said he had written to the Department several times stressing the necessity of a decision, but had received no reply. They had now received notification of a further Relief Grant of £1,265, contingent on the Council putting up £225.

Mr. Power—What have you in hand at present?

The Clerk—£1,500, including £240 of the First Grant.

Loan Sanctioned A letter was read from the Department sanctioning the raising of a loan of £375 from the Provincial Bank, instead of the Bank of Ireland, as at first stated.

The Clerk said that the Town Surveyor was of opinion that they could start work with 30 men, which they might increase later. They were adopting the new Rotational System which was something better than the previous one. The scheme, already approved of included work on O'Rahilly street, O'Neill Crowley street and de Valera street. The principal question before them was would they accept the offer of £1,265, subject to a contribution by them of £225.

Mr. Power said that the work at Green Park had been well done so far, and he suggested they make a good job of it. The promenade, etc., required looking after.

The Chairman said he was glad that Mr. Power had mentioned that matter. The Park was now in full view and they should make it presentable. Did they accept the new grant with the condition attached?

On the proposition of Mr. Power, seconded by Mr. Daly, it was unanimously decided to accept the grant and to contribute the amount named.

Mr. Daly drew attention to the neglected condition of Cork Hill. Something should be done about it.

The Chairman said there was some difficulty in dealing with that locality owing to the nature of the surface. He was sure the Town Surveyor would do all he could to make it good.

Mr. Power said that very little had been done to the Fair Field so far. They were going very slowly about it. What had been done was done well.

Mr. Lynch said that the Quarry Road was almost impassable in parts, and the road between the Mental Hospital and the old Cottage Hospital required attention.

The Chairman said with the help of the new grant all those matters would be seen to.

Mr. Savage—Could we divert a portion towards the provision of a Shelter for fishing boats which he feared that was out of the question altogether.

Mr. Daly—What about the £600 for the Strand repairs?

The Chairman—The Clerk has already written several times about it, but has got no reply.

Mr. Power—You might as well be writing to a stone wall as to those Government Department's. They don't give a damn (laughter).

The meeting then proceeded to select from the list submitted by the Local Labour Exchange, 30 men for work on the scheme.

Mr. Daly proposed a vote of sympathy with the relatives of the late Capt. P. Kelly, a copy to be sent to his son Dr. Kelly, Cork.

Mr. Lynch, seconded. The Chairman said the late Capt. Kelly was a very popular gent. His son, Dr. Kelly, was a credit to Youghal and to his profession.

Messrs. Power, Condon and the Clerk associated themselves with the proposition which was passed in silence.

Church Street Mr. Power called attention to the great danger of motor traffic in Church Street. It was a widely used thoroughfare, with the Technical School near the junction with the Main street. There should be a notice to motorists to "slow down."

This was agreed to.

Loan Sanctioned A letter was read from the Department sanctioning the borrowing of £8,500 for the new scheme of 28 houses.

The Chairman—Is there any word of sanction to proceed with the scheme?

Mr. Power—No, sir.

Mr. Power—How often have you written for sanction?

Mr. Power—Very many times.

Mr. Power—Any word about the nature of the material to be used on the building?

The Chairman—No. We had the Sworn Inquiry a couple of months ago, and not a word about the result yet.

Mr. Power—It is their intention to build them in the Phoenix Park? (laughter).

The Chairman—The General Election is coming on.

Mr. Power—They should let us know the reason for the delay.

Acknowledgment Miss E. Beaumont, North Main street, wrote thanking the Council for their kind vote of sympathy on the death of her mother.

CLOSE OF YOUGHAL MISSION

A most successful 3 weeks Mission, conducted by the Redemptorist Fathers Cleary, Murphy, and Wright, of Lime- rick, was brought to a striking close on Sunday. For many years past, the local quinquennial Mission has been given, almost without exception, by this Community from the city on the Shannon with the most edifying results, but it is doubtful if any of its predecessors came near the present one in the way in which the efforts of the good missionaries were availed of by the people, both in Youghal and the adjoining district of Clonpriest. From opening to close, at times in very inclement weather, crowded congregations filled the Churches at the morning Masses and Instructions and at the evening devotions, while day after day the confessionals were thronged by penitents, and morning after morning increasingly large numbers received Holy Communion. On the morning of the close it was deemed necessary to have an extra Mass at 7 o'clock to accommodate the unusually large numbers approaching the altar rails. The local clergy had their hands full each evening trying to get room for the crowds, numbers of whom had to take their place around the altar.

During the first week a Special Mission was given for the children of the Parish with a special Mass and Instruction. In the second week one of the good Fathers officiated morning and evening at Gurtroe, with a special evening of Devotion to Our Lady, her altar being specially decorated for the occasion by the Teachers of the Gurtroe National Schools, the people of the surrounding countryside contributing a wealth of flowers, etc., for the solemn function.

In the Parish Church on 2 nights special devotions were held in honour of the Sacred Heart and Our Lady of Graces. The High Altar and Altar of the Blessed Virgin being elaborately lighted and decorated for the occasion.

During the course of their sermons and lectures, the good fathers dealt in strong language with the evils of Communism, as seen in Russia, Mexico, Spain, etc., and appealed to the people to unite in joint Catholic Action to meet and conquer them. Certain dance halls and all-night dancing without proper control were vigorously denounced as being fruitful of shocking results. Father Murphy said that the Bishop's and the Parish Priests did their utmost to stem the flood of evil, but their efforts were thwarted by certain magistrates some of them barely qualified to fill their responsible positions.

The closing ceremonies on Sunday were carried out with all the usual solemnities at 3 o'clock for the women and at 7.30 for the men, including the Papal Benediction and the imparting of the temperance pledge.

At the conclusion of Solemn Benediction, Very Rev. Canon Dinneen, D.D., P.P., ascended the pulpit, and congratulated his parishioners on the wonderful success of the Mission. On behalf of his people, his priests and himself he tendered most sincere thanks to the good Missionary Fathers for their untiring zeal and labours which had brought down untold graces and blessings on all.

The League of the Cross Brass Band marched to the Church on Sunday and performed a number of sacred airs and hymns in the Church grounds.

The Town Clerk said he feared that was out of the question altogether.

Mr. Daly—What about the £600 for the Strand repairs?

The Chairman—The Clerk has already written several times about it, but has got no reply.

Mr. Power—You might as well be writing to a stone wall as to those Government Department's. They don't give a damn (laughter).

The meeting then proceeded to select from the list submitted by the Local Labour Exchange, 30 men for work on the scheme.

Mr. Daly proposed a vote of sympathy with the relatives of the late Capt. P. Kelly, a copy to be sent to his son Dr. Kelly, Cork.

Mr. Lynch, seconded. The Chairman said the late Capt. Kelly was a very popular gent. His son, Dr. Kelly, was a credit to Youghal and to his profession.

Messrs. Power, Condon and the Clerk associated themselves with the proposition which was passed in silence.

Church Street Mr. Power called attention to the great danger of motor traffic in Church Street. It was a widely used thoroughfare, with the Technical School near the junction with the Main street. There should be a notice to motorists to "slow down."

This was agreed to.

Loan Sanctioned A letter was read from the Department sanctioning the borrowing of £8,500 for the new scheme of 28 houses.

The Chairman—Is there any word of sanction to proceed with the scheme?

Mr. Power—No, sir.

Mr. Power—How often have you written for sanction?

Mr. Power—Very many times.

Mr. Power—Any word about the nature of the material to be used on the building?

The Chairman—No. We had the Sworn Inquiry a couple of months ago, and not a word about the result yet.

Mr. Power—It is their intention to build them in the Phoenix Park? (laughter).

The Chairman—The General Election is coming on.

Mr. Power—They should let us know the reason for the delay.

Acknowledgment Miss E. Beaumont, North Main street, wrote thanking the Council for their kind vote of sympathy on the death of her mother.

YOUGHAL NOTES.

Ordinary News—

Of local matters is at present non est. The most fruitful source of inspiration—the meeting of the Urban District Council—having been put off for 3 weeks owing to the Mission, conducted by Redemptorist Fathers, Cleary, Murphy and Wright, we are cut off from those bureaucratic fountains of wisdom, the various Government Departments. This is the third week in which no assembly of local administrators of municipal affairs has taken place, and yet despite that great want, the townspeople continue to carry on just as usual. To make material scarce still, only one ordinary Court has been held in the meantime. Our readers will, therefore, appreciate the position.

Strange Accident—

A rather strange accident took place in the Harbour during the week. It occurred in the broad daylight right opposite the Lifeboat House, near the Mall, and was witnessed by a number of persons standing along the water front. It appears that a Department motor Fishing Boat, hailing from Helvick, Dungarvan, has made Youghal her port of call for some time past. On the evening in question she left her berth and motored down the Harbour going seawards. As everybody acquainted with Youghal knows there is nothing in the least like congestion in the Harbour, and has not been for many a long day. The course was, therefore, clear enough for all appearances. Anchored near the Lifeboat buoys was a small fishing boat belonging to Mr. M. J. Murphy. The only other craft in the neighbourhood was the Fishery Conservators motor launch. To the surprise of the onlookers, the fishing boat crashed amidst the Lifeboat buoys, sinking her. The owner himself had the doubtful pleasure of seeing the collision. It is said that the incident will form the subject of a case in Court in the near future.

The Mission—

The three weeks mission has proved a most edifying success. Every night the spacious Church was crowded to inconvenience with devout worshippers, the morning Masses and Instructions also attracting large numbers, while the good Fathers have frequently commented in terms of warm praise and congratulation of the numbers receiving Holy Communion morning after morning. Similar scenes were witnessed at Gurtroe. Special Devotions to Our Lady were conducted on one evening, the altar being beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the little Church crowded in every part.

The Free Library—

It is still as usual, waiting for the supply of books from the County Library. If ever there was an example of the ridiculousness and expense of red tape—or should we say now "green" tape?—this question of the Library furnishes a most striking one. Coming down to brass tacks, to the ordinary man in the street it would appear that all that was required was the formal consent of the Urban Council. This was unanimously decided some 12 months ago. Since then there has been resolution after resolution passed unanimously and advertisement after advertisement published, but still nothing tangible has been done in the way of giving the people a supply of reading matter.

Summer—

After a long and dreary winter—"flap, flap, flap," the weather, it has at last changed for the better, until it has become almost summerlike. Had the atmospheric conditions of the past more than 3 months continued to prevail, matters would have been very serious for the whole country—rural and urban areas alike. Even as it is, crops of all kinds are bound to run very late with the probable result that there will be a further substantial rise in the cost of living. The Strand is being got ready for our summer visitors, and there is a decided air of "business." Should the weather continue to hold favourable an early influx of "elishers" or "gaybricks" may be expected.

SOME TROUBLE—

The daughter of Fred Hoerster, of Toledo, Ohio, is missing, his wife is ill, he is out of a job, and the roof of his house was destroyed by fire. His fire insurance had lapsed two weeks before the fire.

WRITERS ARRESTED FOR TRUTH TELLING

According to the Pravda a clean-up is being made in Russia among writers. Several have already been arrested on the grounds of informing foreigners by their surname had lapsed 2 weeks before the fire.

HORSE SENSE

ERRORS IN FEEDING AND MANAGEMENT

Idle horses, like colts, are better running out of doors in fair weather than stabled. A horse will lose appetite unless he is regularly exercised. Unlike a bullock, a horse cannot be made fat simply by means of feeding. Superfluous fat is an unnatural thing in an active horse. He should be of fine, hard, and flexible flesh, not soft and porklike. A horse's bodily form should be worked into him, not laid on by overfeeding. The young ploughman who takes a pardonable pride in the sleek and fat condition of his team frequently, in his eagerness to keep his horses "in the pink," makes the foolish mistake of overfeeding, more especially when the horses are idle. On Sundays the farm horses are very often fed too generously. They should be somewhat stinted in both corn and fodder. But a safe plan is to turn them out for a few hours during the day after a light feed of grain and hay. On the Saturday night the feeding should be less generous than on other weekdays. Some sort of laxative mash or a few raw swedes or turnips should be fed on Saturday evenings and also at times when the horses are idle. If precautions such as these were taken, there would be less trouble with "Monday morning" ailments.

While a fairly good feed of oats is good for a horse at regular work, an extra large feed will not make a thin horse usefully fatter, in fact, as a rule, a thin horse must be rather sparingly fed, because any attempt at forced feeding will inevitably upset its digestive system. Very, very gradually must a thin horse be restored to good condition. He must be regularly and very moderately well exercised, never hard driven nor worked long hours at a stretch.

A horse has a comparatively small stomach, and is consequently able to digest effectively only small meals at a time. To stuff a horse full of dry fodder and then treat him to a good feed of oats is to give him out of harness as surely as to put him a heavy feed of oats after a long fast, and to let him take an unusually long draught of cold water when in an overheated and exhausted state. "Water before corn" is a safe rule.

In very cold weather the stable ventilators should be closed a little; but it is better to clothe the horse with warm rugs rather than to let them breathe a vitiated atmosphere. Though a horse spends but an hour or two of the night lying down, and some old horses hardly lie down at all, the animal's stall should be well bedded with dry litter. The litter should be removed in the morning and the whole standing swept clean. Horses that stamp or strike the floor frequently with their feet should have their hoofs or legs seen to. It may be but a local itchiness that a simple remedy may cure.—R. in "Farmers' Gazette."

THE LIFE OF THE DAIRY COW

Time Spent on Various Activities

Everyone who has worked with or is responsible for the management of dairy cows realises that the daily round of the cow's life consists of eating, resting, cud-chewing, milk production and other activities essential to the maintenance of life, but the usual amount of time spent daily on these various activities and the degree of variation which may obtain amongst animals in good health has received little attention.

Interesting information on the daily activity and behaviour of a herd of cows has, however, been published in a bulletin issued by the New Hampshire Experiment Station. The proportion of time spent in standing and lying was first studied and was found to be the practically equal for a herd of 38 cows comprising four different breeds in the cowshed under winter conditions. Some individual cows spent as much as 75 per cent. of the day in standing position and some others as low as 35 per cent. There was no definite relationship between the milk yield and time spent lying, though dry cows stood for somewhat less time than cows in milk.

Water consumption per cow daily was judged by shutting off the automatic supply and offering all cows water in a pail at hourly intervals, except, during the night, when water was offered only to such cows as were standing. The amount of water a cow will drink is influenced mainly by the amount of milk she is yielding. The kind of food given and the temperature. In this case the food consisted of hay "at will," maize silage 3 lb. per 100 lb. live weight, and grain mixture 1 lb. per 3 lb. milk to Guernseys and Jerseys, 1 lb. per 4 lb. milk to Holsteins. A three days' trial with sixteen cows showed that the cows drank 4.38 lb. water for each 1 lb. milk given (equal to 4 1/2 gallons of water per gallon of milk).

The average daily amount of urine per cow in a three-day period was 31.3 lb., or at the rate of 28.8 lb. per 1,000 lb. live weight. The average daily amount of faeces was fully twice the weight of urine, viz., 69 lb. per cow or 59 lb. per 1,000 lb. live weight.

The time spent daily in eating and chewing the cud was also noted for a group of 22 cows for one day. The average time devoted to eating the ration allowed on the lines mentioned above was 3 hours 5 mins. and the average time devoted to cud-chewing was 8 hours 17 mins.

SOIL INSECTS THAT CAUSE DAMAGE TO CROPS

ATTACK MORE PREVALENT IN THE LARVAL STAGE

The majority of soil insects do the greatest damage in the larval state. Before discussing these insects in detail it may be as well to remind readers that most insects undergo a complicated series of changes during their life cycle, this series of changes being spoken of as metamorphosis. For example, in the case of the cabbage white butterfly, the animal starts life as an egg, and then changes successively into a caterpillar, a chrysalis and a butterfly. The caterpillar is the larva, the chrysalis is the pupa, whilst the butterfly itself is spoken of as the perfect insect, the adult or the imago. Now, in the case of soil insects it is usually the larval stage which is most destructive, since larvae are provided with biting or rasping jaws, and are cursed with tremendous appetites. The pupal stage is always one of rest and change, whilst it often happens that the adult insect has jaws of such a pattern that it is quite unable to damage plant tissues. On the other hand some of the adults are also very destructive.

Amongst the very worst of the farmer's enemies must be numbered the wireworm and the leatherjacket. They are extremely common objects, and they are very different in appearance and size and yet they are frequently confused in the mind of the agriculturist. Perhaps this is because the type of damage which they cause is very similar at first sight, although their methods of feeding do vary very considerably at times. Both these animals are larval forms, the wireworm being the larva of a click beetle or skip-jack beetle, whilst the leatherjacket is the larva or grub of the daddy-long-legs or crane fly. Wireworm are about two-thirds of an inch long, and not much fatter than the lead of an ordinary pencil; they have three pairs of legs on the front of the body, and the jaws are easily seen with a lens or even with the naked eye. The colour is yellowish brown. Leatherjackets are bigger, fatter, dull dingy grey in colour, and have no legs at all. They are pointed at the head end, and have a different in appearance and size and yet they are frequently confused in the mind of the agriculturist. INCH NOTES

Farmers Busy—Farmers are working from dawn till dark finishing the planting of the grain and potato crops. Taking full advantage of the present fine weather much leeway has been made up, and preparations for beet and mangold sowing are advanced.

Wheat Ploughed Up—Fields of wheat of early planting have lately been ploughed up and oats sown instead. Generally speaking the crop is doing badly here, and if unfavourable weather is experienced later, it is feared the return will not compensate the producer for his expenditure and work.

Trout Fishing on the Trillick River—The Trillick has always been a popular resort with the disciples and followers of Isaac Walton. From its source to the sea the river flows through a fertile valley, rich in historical associations and traditions, of which we shall have more to say in this column later on. Trout are fairly plentiful so far, and anglers have had many good catches.

EAST CORK JOTTINGS

May Sunday at Killeagh—Killeagh was full of pleasure-seekers on Sunday afternoon—One found them everywhere—On the streets, in the shops, on the bridges, and by the lake side in Glenblower wood. And everywhere it was the same glad story. Youth with all its buoyancy and merriment; full of enthusiasm and bubbling over with good humour. Out to get the greatest possible amount of enjoyment out of what was admittedly the finest May Sunday we have had for years.

The Old Dungeon

Writing of May Sunday hurling reminds me that it was on a May Sunday—more years ago than I care to count—that Dungeon won the County Hurling trophy from Shanballymore in the Cork City grounds at Turner's Cross. Glenbowry, with its varied and various attractions was dear to our youthful hearts, and for a time we hesitated, torn by conflicting emotions, for in many cases appointments and assignments had been arranged weeks ahead for the bridges or the tams grounds. And appointments of that nature are sacred to the young. In the end, however, loyalty to the club, and love of the game triumphed, and we marched through Killeagh that morning with our heads high, but—I'm afraid, with many a longing glance at the wood gate as we passed. Well the game was a thrilling one. Shanballymore were men of fine physique, and good hurlers, but they lacked the experience of the East Cork men, and Dungeon were a wonderful combination, as they proved later by winning the All-Ireland Championship with more than half of their own members. They were big men in every sense of the term. Big L. stature, and full of knowledge of the finer points of the hurling code, but big as still in their love of principle and in the feelings of brotherly affection that linked them to one another.

The Late Mr. Jim Rosayne

During the past year Jim Rosayne, magnificent hurler, brilliant footballer, and great all round sportsman, passed away. His remains being borne to their last resting place on the shoulders of the old Dungeon hurlers, with Jim Kelliher at their head. Rosayne was a daring and fearless hurler, who if he once got possession of the ball was almost certain of a score. I saw him on one occasion leap several feet into the air to catch a flying ball thirty yards from the post. An opponent dashed at him, but while still in the air Jim pulled on the ball, and sent it soaring over the bar for a point before he landed on terra firma again. He was as much at home in the racing saddle as on the hurling field. In a Point-to-Point race one day at Clonmult, his horse stumbled and threw his rider. The horse recovered and galloped on. Rosayne sprang to his feet as the animal passed, grasped the saddle and with a mighty bound landed on the horse's back. Afterwards winning the race amid the plaudits of the crowd, who were thrilled by his wonderful feat. May he rest in peace.

Death of Mother and Son

The death occurred on Thursday, April 25th of Mrs. Margaret O'Sullivan, Glenace, Killeagh. She had reached an advanced age, and was much respected in the district. The interment was at Mogeely cemetery. Her son, Mr. William O'Sullivan, a young married man, was no. well at the time, and later developing pneumonia, which in spite of medical and nursing skill resulted in his death on Monday May 3rd. The sad events has cast a gloom over the locality, and much sympathy is felt for the family and relatives in their double bereavement.—R.I.P.

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS

By "CROTOG."

Several ties in the junior championships were played off last Sunday. At Tallow a big crowd witnessed two very one-sided games. The locals scored a runaway victory over the Ballyin footballers. One-way scoring was the order too in the hurling bout between Ballyduff and Lismore. Both matches were below junior level, defections and activities of the changes in the hurling saved the programme from falling very flat indeed.

Tallow's football prowess was a surprise packet for most of the crowd. They were never extended and won pulling up without conceding a single score to their opponents. The Curleys, Sheehans, McCarthys, Burke and the newcomer O'Sullivan gave a most impressive display and their fielding, kicking and combination showed that they are not the novices at Gaelic football which many judged them to be. It will take a strong team to oust them from the championship.

The Ballyin team was not even a shadow of its former self. Weakened by emigration, defections and activities of the 'poacher', it could only muster three or four of its seasoned players, the rest being the greenest of green newcomers. Nevertheless, they fielded out in the face of all obstacles and did their duty as Gaels. Murray and the veteran Ned Lonergan did heroic work in a sorely tried defence and their dogged tenacity won the admiration of the spectators. Lisen, Barry and Allen kept fighting hard all through in the unequal struggle, but, on the whole, the Ballyin fifteen was outclassed.

Hard hitting and fierce tackling was the order in the hurling game. Lismore, though beaten scoreless, kept hammering away to the last whistle and never let their more fancied opponents have any ease. The form of the winners was very patchy, and the Ballyduff boys will need to come in a ton if they are to count in this year's hurling competitions. Their forwards are very ineffective but their defence and outfield are splendid. Feeney, O'Donnell, Hennessey and Higgins were the best of the backs, Flynn and Mick Feeney starred at mid-field, but O'Neill and Callaghan were the only two forwards of promise.

Lismore had not a single marksman in their attack, but young Healy was a great mid-field worker, while Coleman, Whelan and Sargent were sound backs, who gave little away. Despite Ballyduff's monopoly of scoring, the game held interest to the last.

Some very attractive games have been arranged for West Waterford venues during the month of May. All followers of the game will be delighted to hear that an Erin's Own-Tallow Senior Challenge is booked for Tallow Gaelic Field on Sunday week next, May 16th. The proceeds are in aid of the Sheehan Benefit Fund, so a huge muster of Gaels will answer the call. As a bearing on Championship prospects, the match will have an attraction all its own. Charley Ware's stout men have vowed to recover their lost laurels and the Tallow boys are all set to improve on last year's form. When these rivals meet, thrilling hurling is invariably the rule.

Cappoquin will stage a College classic on Sunday, May 23rd, when Mount Sion meet the North Monastery in a Cup match in aid of the Mount Melleray Church Building Fund. Those who saw the Harty Cup Final in Lismore, and those who did not, will be long to see this second encounter between the most famous school teams in all Munster.

Next Sunday, in Tralee, our Senior and Minor hurlers meet Kerry in the opening round of the Munster Championships. The personnel of the teams has already been published and calls for little comment. No less than three declared players figure on the Decies team, Tom Greaney, Michelstown and Dungeon, Ned Daly, and Jacky Butler, both of whom reside in Dublin.

The Seniors are confidently expected to survive the Kerry hurdle and it would be a tremendous sensation if they failed. Our minors will get a hard run of it as hurling youngsters grow big in the Kingdom and moreover can handle a caman with the best in Ireland. Here the issue is problematical, though, if the Decies brigade reproduce their County Championship form, they should go far in the race for minor hurling honours.

At Cappoquin next Sunday, there will be a record crowd to see the outcome of two of the most interesting ties of the year. Tallow and Gleann-na-h-Uidhre will test each other's mettle in junior hurling. The Nire lads have a rugged hard-pulling team who favour the Tipperary style. In their rivals from the Bride, they will be meeting worthy opponents who are strongly favoured for this year's junior crown. Rumour has it that Hartigan, Henley, Ryan and other noted stylists will don Tallow colours. Withal, it should be a rousing tussle, enough to satisfy the most exacting fan.

ALSO

They created the sensation of last year by knocking out Dungeon. In the final against De La Salle, they put up a splendid fight and faultily forward work alone lost them the day. Now that Gaelic football is beginning to 'grip' in mid-Waterford, this most attractive double programme should keep the turnstiles of Dungeon field very busy next Sunday.

All Gaels who subscribe fully to the Irish-Ireland programme should live up to their profession by supporting "An Gael" the bilingual monthly which reflects every phase of Irish National Life but, more especially, the athletic and cultural side. The May issue is now on sale and no Gael should miss procuring a copy. The Editor is Eamonn de Barra, well-known to all listeners for his broadcasts of Gaelic games. The contents range from Gaelic articles and Poetry to G.A.A. news of every kind. Boyle Roche's column and the Broadcasting page are replete with caustic wit and blunt criticism as well as the songs and entertainments of the Irish country side. Every G.A.A. Club should regard it as a national duty to promote the circulation and distribution of this splendid and outspoken organ of the Gaelic Ireland movement. Should any difficulties be found in getting supplies or in securing a copy, the local G.A.A. rannaidhe should be approached. Newsagents, of course, will procure, by request copies for all regular readers.

CAPPOQUIN NOTES

Next Sunday's Gaelic Games—The Cappoquin Sportsfield will be the scene of two very interesting G.A.A. matches on next Sunday, 9th inst., in connection with the West Waterford Hurling and Football Championships for 1937.

At 3.30 (Summer Time) Slabh gCua (Touraneena) will meet Villierstown in Junior Football, while at 4.45 (S.T.) Gleann na hUidhre (Glenahery) will try conclusions with Tallow in Junior Hurling. Having regard to the splendid records which those four teams have enjoyed in their respective classes in the past, it is safe to say that two thrilling games will be witnessed on Sunday, and as the men are nicely blended with football and hurling, the tastes of all classes of Gaelic followers will be well catered for, so there should be a record attendance from all parts of West Waterford to enjoy two of the best junior games in the first round of this year's championships.

The fine Gaelic pitch in the sportsfield won the admiration of all owing to the excellent manner in which it had been prepared for the great hurling match between Waterford and Clare on Sunday fortnight, and as still further improvement will have been carried out by the members of the Cappoquin Hurling and Football Club by next Sunday, the general arrangements are bound to give the utmost satisfaction to all.

International Celebrity Concert

The best and most attractive entertainment ever presented in Cappoquin will be staged in the spacious Bathhouse Hall, on Monday night, May 17th, in aid of the Mount Melleray New Church Building Fund when a grand International Celebrity Concert will be held, the first of its kind yet seen in this town.

The artists taking part will be representative of six countries, viz. Germany, Belgium, England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, so that for high-class talent and charming variety this programme will be hard to beat.

Most of the Irish artists taking part will be drawn from our own cultured County Waterford, and will include several of Dungeon's best singers and other entertainers. Mr. Frank Ryan, Tallan, the pure and sincere Tenor of Broadcasting fame, Miss Sheila White, Cappoquin, the talented and charming Elocutionist, and many other well-known and popular Concert "stars," so that our readers should make a special note of this event, and not miss it on any account.

Mr. M. J. Sargent, P.C., Cappoquin, our local organising genius, has all the arrangements in hand, which should be a sufficient guarantee of the success of the Concert, as everything he has hitherto touched in connection with the Melleray Church Fund has proved a wonderful success. The full names and addresses of all the artists taking part, and all other details, will appear next week.

water, practice has started a bit later than usual this year, but as most of the crews have kept remarkably fit since their brilliant performances last year, it will not require very much hard work to get them back to their winning form for the serious season which now lies before them. With Mr. T. F. Olden, Hon. Sec., and both evening and really delightful weather in charge of the crews this year; there is every reason to hope for still more brilliant achievements during the present year.

KILMACTHOMAS NEWS

GAELIC GARNERINGS—London's bus strike had no effect upon the size of the attendance at the Old Pike (Garranbane) Club's sports on last Sabbath evening, and really delightful weather favoured the enactment of the Western-Divisional Board fixed two-part programme, under the highly satisfactory sireship of Co. Board Treasurer Seamus Hayes. The pitch and general arrangements were in keeping with the occasion. Both bouts had excited considerable interest and keen tussles were expected. The happy-humoured assembly had certainly their fill of excitement for three-quarters of the hurling hour—Dungeon drew well away from St. Anne's in the closing quarter—and though Faha won by a comfortable margin in the football fray, this battle, too, maintained a fair amount of interest right up to the long whistle, because of the gallant manner in which the losers fought out the issue. Jimmy Higgins and the Powers, Connors and Caseys were always to the fore for Faha, whose full score was 2-11, as against 2-9 registered by Cathal Blyghas. If "Fitzies" team kept on in the game together they will not be so easily eclipsed in next year's junior championship competition.

Mickey Downey played a great game between the sticks for St. Anne's, while Andy Fleming, John Lucey, "Plus" Dalton and Jackie Troy, also hurried admirably on the vanquished side. The Old Boro's capital coach and trainer, to wit, witty "Patches" Duggan, was feebly and proudly proud of his successful junior string, for they are a hard fighting side undoubtedly.

Here are the full figures of this contest: Dungeon—4 70's, 2 frees, 14 overs, 5 goals 5 points; St. Anne's—2 70's, 4 frees, 16 overs, 2 goals 5 points. Both matches were played in a truly topping sporting spirit.

Onlookers included the skipper of a famous Kilmacthomas football team of the good old days—peerless "Patsy" Wall, on whom his years lie lightly, good luck to him! The sterling Secretary to the Co. Board, Pex O'Faolain, and his estimable life-partner were there, and Sean Ormond, N.T., Kilmac, Dathi de Paor, Pat Cullen, do, Mical Murphy, Ring, and Liam Hayes, Eddie Sperry, Sean O'Garman and numerous other equally familiar Old Boro sportsmen.

A Cellidhe in the Pike Hall on Sunday night fittingly rounded off what was a veritable red-letter day in the sporting and social annals of that picturesque place, wherein one will find the stream of hospitality flowing hearty and free at all times.

WE WARMLY CONGRATULATE

Miss M. Power, Mount Patrick, Kill, on her winning a prize in a crossword competition conducted in an Irish Sunday newspaper.

THANKS

To the local traders and merchants who, in conversation with us during the week, spoke in appreciable terms of the attractive lay-out of the special advertisements displayed in the front page of last week's issue of the "Observer." All progressive businessmen know that advertising pays.

Believe It Or Not

At a meeting of the old Kilmacthomas Board of Guardians held thirty-three years back of last Tuesday "authority" was given for the sale of nine pigs and for the purchase of a new lot.

As Matthias Moustache once remarked, "By the crooks of 'lard' this is more like Bacon than Shakespeare!" FROM THE COMERAGHS—To the neighbouring seaboard, the winter and spring wheat is springing splendidly these days. White and black oats, too, are shooting up strongly and thickly. The showers of this week have benefited all crops immensely. Just now the farmers of the area are busily engaged at the sowing of the turnip and mangold seeds.

N. A. & C. A.

At a special general meeting of the Waterford Co. Board, held in the Gaelic League Rooms, Waterford, on Sunday and May, Very Rev. Brother S. Flannery, Superior Mount Sion, presided, and amongst those present were—Chief Supt. Duffy, Vice-President; Leo Dunne, Munster Schools Athletic Union; W. J. Nolan, Dungeon (Secretary, Munster Council); J. Plunkett, J. Parle and G. Dunne, Waterford A. & C.C. Brother P. O'Connor, Mt. Sion, L. Murphy, and M. Murphy, Cloughemagh, M. Hunt, St. Carthage, C.C.; P. Hennessy, St. Otteran C.C.; T. Mills and Paul Rordan, Thomastown. Apologies for non-attendance were read from James Aylward, T.C., Mayor of Waterford and Rev. Father Slattery, C.C., Dunhill, (late Vice-President, Tipperary Co. Board).

The Balance Sheet showed a small credit balance after paying all expenses. The Secretary commented on the wonderful growth of the N.A. and C.A. in County Waterford. With the exception of the Dungeon A.C., all their clubs were in the eastern half of the county, yet their numbers would soon equal the number of affiliated clubs in any Munster county.

Having passed a vote of confidence in the National Athletic and Cycling Association in their fight for unity in Irish Athletics, the question of School Athletics was introduced by the Hon. Secretary. He was supported by the Rev. Chairman who promised on behalf of Mount Sion Schools, to send a delegate to the next meeting of the Munster Schools Athletic Union, at Cahir. They would also affiliate with the Waterford Co. Board N.A. and C.A. (I).

The Hon. Secretary was directed to communicate with the various schools and Colleges in the County and the interests of the Waterford Schools and Colleges was left in the hands of Mr. Leo Dunne.

An organising committee was formed whose first duty would be to organise new clubs in such districts as Dunmore, Passage East, and Portlaw. Applications for Sports Permits were received from 18 districts, an increase of 7 on last year, and it is hoped that districts in West Waterford who were so active in former years would again affiliate with the Co. Board.
