THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE CUCKOO'S ARRIVAL-

As being the harbinger of spring is no longer authentic. The seasons have long since digressed from the calendar regime, and confusion is more confounded by the and confusion is more confounded by the early operation of "Summer Time." We have summer time in spring, and is it any wonder we feel dismayed? The cuckoo, apart from the curiosity it annually evokes among those who claim to see or evokes among those who claim to see or hear it first, is no favourite. Its life scheme shocks our sense of justice. It is a spon-ger, a parasite. Nobody ever loved a cuckoo. Why bother about it? . . . .

BY THE WAY-

It looks as if Ireland's distinction as the only country on earth immune from the snake peril is threatened. There are rivals of Thanet will be searched in vain for a snake, and that Iona has none other than the visionary product evoked by the native the visionary product evoked by the native that Iona has none other than the visionary product evoked by the native that Iona has none other than the visionary product evoked by the native that Iona has none other than the visionary product evoked by the native that Iona has none other than the visionary product evoked by the native that Iona has none other than Iona has no the visionary product evoked by the native Mr. P. O'Donnell, Chairman Eastern Divisional Board, had the teams whole of Ireland. These stories are disturbing. For centuries—thanks to our National Apostle—we have gloried in the tradition that no snake has ever been seen on the sacred soil of the Emerald Isle, and that in this respect we have been exclaim the same privilege we must look to our laurels. It was our proud boast that tourists from all parts of the world could travel our shores from coast to coast in banished every reptile from the land, and that in no other part of the globe could cult angle. For the Factory I. Barron McGRATH, Lackendarra, Ballinamult, the consciousness that St. Patrick had that in no other part of the globe could such safety be assured. Dungarvan v. D. L. F.
In the first match the local junior team met the newly-established Dickens Leather Factory junior football team. For the greater part of this game rain fell very heavy and players found it very hard to keep their feet on the slippery sod, yet it was very interesting from start to finish. Dungarvan fielded a very strong team, to other Terms. Groom's fee 2/6.

The eagerly awasted Erin's Own-Tallow Senior Hurling clash takes place in Tallow next Sunday. The old champions are anxious to test the mettle of Western hurling and are fielding out at full strength. Having only recently accounted for Ferrybank in the Senior champion-ships down East after a lively tussie, they will not want for training. Moreover, having had several games in good company lately, they will have a decided advantage over Tallow who have not had a game together since last September. It is too bad that a glut of fixtures, championship and otherwise, in venue, all around the area.
