DUNGARVAN URBAN COUNCIL

Mr. Thos. McCarthy, Vice-Chairman, presided at last Friday's meeting of the above. Other members in attendance were—Messrs. J. Dahill, J. F. Foley, J. Mansfield, S. Hayes, J. Christopher and J. J. Crotty.

Purchase of Land
Arising out of the reading of the minutes.

Mr. Foley asked the Clerk if an agreement had yet been reached with Mr. Beresford and Mr. Dalton, with regard to the extra land required at the head works at Deelish.

Clerk—With Mr. Beresford we have reached an agreement. The agreement with Mr. Dalton is not yet completed. I would suggest to the Council to leave the matter in the hands of Mr. Williams. It may not be prudent to discuss it now. This course was agreed on.

Paysheet
A paysheet for 2033s. 7d., was presented and passed.

Repairing Main Roads
The County Surveyor wrote enclosing an account for £48 8s. 6d., for the repairing and resurfacing of openings made in Main Roads from October 1st 1936 to March 31st 1937.

The B.S. said Mr. Ormonde, Assistant County Surveyor, called on him to check up the measurements, which are correct as far as square measure is concerned, but he held that the price charged for the resurfacing of certain roads such as the opening at Youghal was excessive. The matter was referred to the B.S. to deal with.

Clerk of Works
Arising out of the recommendations of the Engineers that a salary of 66s. per week be paid to the Clerk of Works appointed to the Water Improvement Scheme.

Messrs. Delap and Waller wrote stating that they believed the Department would sanction that amount, on receipt of their (the Engineers) report being received back from the Council. Pending that the Council would not be in order to appoint the Clerk of Works.

The letter further stated that Mr. R. E. Bain had withdrawn his application, being appointed to another job. In the circumstances, they recommended the appointment of Mr. Lenihan in due course.

Application for Footpath
Four residents of Friary Street, wrote asking the Council to put a small concrete footpath opposite their houses in Friary street, as all this street has concrete paths with the exception of the part in front of their houses.

Thanks
Sister M. Brendan, Mercy Convent, Dungarvan, wrote conveying grateful appreciation for very kind resolution of sympathy passed to her on the death of her brother.

A letter thanking the Council for resolution of sympathy passed to her, was also read from Mrs. E. Towler, St. Thomas' Street.

Mrs. P. Hallahan, also wrote thanking the Council for resolution of sympathy passed to her on the death of Mrs. Spratt, Grange.

Death of Mr. T. Fitzgerald, Moonarud, Dungarvan

It is with feelings of the deepest regret that we chronicle the death of Mr. Thomas Fitzgerald, Moonarud, Dungarvan, which occurred at his residence on Saturday evening last June, 19th.

The deceased had been in his usual good health up to a few months ago, and although under expert medical care since he gradually sank and passed peacefully away in the presence of the members of his family.

Deceased was one of the best-known and most respected farmers in this part of the County, and he devoted all his life to farming, which he carried out on a very extensive scale. Although he had reached a ripe old age, his years seemed to weigh lightly on his manly shoulders, and he always carried with him through life the air of perpetual youth. He was a pious Christian gentleman and a devoted son of Mother Church. Kind, affable and genial in disposition, a friend of the poor and the distressed, a noble-hearted citizen with a broad outlook on life, and a true and tried Irishman; his many neighbours in the adjoining districts whom he loved so well will sorely miss him.

On Sunday evening at 4 p.m. the remains were removed from his home to Kilrossanty Church amid every mark of public sympathy and the cortege was of record proportions, embracing a full representation of Dungarvan and every part of the County Waterford.

On Monday morning, at 11 a.m., Requiem Office and High Mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul in the Parish Church, Kilrossanty, in the presence of a very large congregation.

FINE GAEL

MR. COSGRAVE'S ADDRESS AT WATERFORD

Increased Prices

Imports Of Pigs From The Six Counties

Waterford welcomed the Fine Gael leader, Mr. W. T. Cosgrave, when he addressed a public meeting on the Mall on Tuesday. The crowd was reminiscent of the old Home Rule days, when the late John E. Redmond drew enormous crowds on the Mall. The crowd was a delightful reflex of those days, and Mr. Cosgrave when he stepped on the balcony of the Imperial Hotel looked upon a sea of faces stretching from around Reginald's Tower to below the City Hall, a distance of some hundreds of yards.

The meeting was organised by the Waterford Fine Gael Committee, who in strength met Mr. Cosgrave when he arrived in the city from Cork about 6 p.m. Prominent among them were Mrs. Redmond, Mr. Nicholas Wall, and Mr. John Butler, the three Fine Gael candidates, who had with them a strong band of supporters in men from historic Ballybricken, city shopkeepers, professional men and members of the late Corporation. Lady Susan Downey, her daughter, Lady Patricia Miller and Miss Anderson were other attending residents of Waterford who attended.

Mr. Michael Forrest, ex-I.C., who presided, said the very large gathering showed the consuming desire which the people of Waterford had to see Mr. Cosgrave and his party returned to Government, and it was an indication of the general feeling in the country. They could rest assured Mr. Cosgrave fully appreciated the significance of their numbers.

Mrs. Redmond, who received a truly warm welcome, expressed her pleasure at the large gathering, and asked the people to vote solidly for the Party to which she had the honour to belong.

"Mr. Cosgrave stands for the betterment of everyone of you in this enormous crowd," declared Mrs. Redmond. He stands for the policy of the late John E. Redmond, and of my husband, the late Captain Redmond (applause).

Our policy is very simple, but it is a sound policy. We stand not for building mythical factories and pointing to the vacant quayside, Mrs. Redmond said, but to restore that factory ruined by the policy of Mr. de Valera and his Government in starting a war with our best customer. The best factory Waterford ever had was its docks, when the ships were coming in to take the farmers' livestock, and dockers, labourers, ships' crews and others had good employment (loud applause).

Fianna Fail got their chance. Now give the Fine Gael a chance to repair all the damage Fianna Fail has done. She believed the people of the country say they had made a mistake at the last election (a voice: We won't make it again), and that they were now determined to return to Government again the Party who could and would settle the economic war. Referring to unemployment, Mrs. Redmond said the people were sick of all the talk about national dignity. What they wanted was work. She believed decent men and women would rather earn a week's wages than all they got on the dole. Fine Gael's interest was for all sections, British ex-servicemen and National Army ex-servicemen, the sick man and the poor man, because they believed in the unity of all. Mr. Cosgrave believed he could make the lot of all better, and he made no false promises.

Mr. Nicholas Wall, another of the candidates, said if they voted honestly he was certain the vote would be for Fine Gael. On a comparison of the records of the two parties for the five years of Mr. de Valera's Government taxation had gone up 12 millions, while the national wealth of the country had decreased by about 50 million pounds.

Mr. John Butler, the third Fine Gael candidate, said if they proved the new Constitution with the most powerful magnifying glass in Waterford, they would not find the word Republic in it (loud laughter). Three weeks ago a Fianna Fail Minister promised three trawlers to Dungarvan. For what? Mr. Butler asked, and replied amidst roars of laughter "to go cod fishing." Fianna Fail were cod fishing all over Ireland today. Their promises were all cod, and any man in the crowd who believed their promises was a big cod fish. Mr. de Valera and his Government, he concluded, must not give Mr. de Valera another chance to complete the ruin he had perpetrated for the past five years (loud applause).

Mr. Cosgrave's Address

Mr. Cosgrave, who was greeted with roars of cheering, which echoed all along Waterford Quay, stood facing the enthusiastic crowd for some minutes before he began to speak. The last three speakers, he said, had given them a fair outline of what the Fine Gael Party proposed to do, if the people of the country entrusted them with the responsibility of Government. There were a few points of difference, of a very great importance to the people, between the two parties, by reason of the Government policy for the last five years. There is scarcely a single article in household use which is not increased in price, declared Mr. Cosgrave.

In this County of Waterford, you have farmers as good as anywhere in Ireland, and yet during the last couple of weeks they had seen pigs being driven along the streets, imported into Southern bacon factories from Northern Ireland. Two years ago legislation was enacted to provide for the necessary action to be taken in order of prices to pig producers. Unfortunately by reason of incompetency, no effort was made, as was provided under the Act, to help pig producers during the period of low prices, and now, when prices have risen, the bacon curers are charged a sum of 12s. a cwt., to provide funds for the future, to deal with any case which might possibly arise when prices will not be as remunerative as they are now. Had the necessary action been taken at the right time, Mr. Cosgrave declared, there would now be no necessity to import pigs to Cork, Limerick, Waterford or anywhere else, and there would be no need to send money out of this country to enrich the farmers across the border. As long as this conflict with Great Britain lasted the people of this country would have to pay 5d. or 4d. on every pound of bacon they consumed, in order to allow the export of bacon to the British market, and the same thing applied to butter. The consumer of butter had been relieved of 3d. on the pound during the last few weeks, but the relief they had been called upon to make was in general taxation. When Fine Gael had claimed that the cost of living had been affected by taxation, they were prepared to prove it. Everything a man used, everything a woman wore, everything they had, the house—all were taxed, and not only taxed but something extra put on as well.

Mr. Cosgrave then went on to refer to the great fall in egg production and the loss of that industry to the State. In order to get live produce into the British market the coal-cattle pact was made. Five years ago it was treachery to buy English coal, today it is Fianna Fail patriotism (applause). Fine Gael policy was not one of marking time for the Free-State. We must progress towards a solution of the dispute. It is desirable in the interests of both countries and it is capable of producing great benefits, not only for the agricultural community, but for every section of the community (applause).

Referring to unemployment schemes, he said the Government claimed a good deal of credit for the spending of public money on unemployment relief schemes. Last year they took one hundred thousand pounds out of the road fund to put into rotational schemes of two or four days a week, at 12s. or 14s. a week. The sum taken from the fund would find work for one thousand men at 12s. weekly for 52 weeks. Our aim is to provide work for a larger number of men at better wages and at the same time to reduce the taxation and to help the farming industry every way we can. If you want to vote for that policy declared Mr. Cosgrave in conclusion, vote for the three Fine Gael candidates (loud applause).

GENERAL ELECTION

Fianna Fail Meeting in Dungarvan

A large and enthusiastic crowd gathered on the Square on Tuesday night at the meeting in support of the Fianna Fail candidates.

Mr. J. Power, Abbeyview, Dungarvan, presided.

Mr. Sean Goulding, candidate, the first speaker, said that he would deal with the National issue. They were being told that the Fianna Fail Government had let down the Republic and ideals of 1916. That was not so, the Fianna Fail Party were anxious to obtain the complete freedom of this country as they ever were. In 1922 they opposed the treaty and an unfortunate civil war resulted. They were beaten to the ropes and they did not deny that they were beaten. The people of Ireland were tired of the long conflict of war; they were tired and weary of the struggle from 1916 to 1922. They were so tired that they were anxious to accept any settlement at that time. Now, the Fianna Fail Government were adopting other means and they believed that the end could be accomplished by these means, because they believed sincerely that they could accomplish that work they were on this platform tonight. They were being told not to vote for the New Constitution. In an editorial in the "Sunday Independent" they were asked not to vote for the Constitution. The Bishop of Tuam, Dr. Gilmarin, praised the Constitution and spoke of it as a Christian Constitution. Were they going to follow the advice of Bishop Gilmarin or the advice of the "Sunday Independent"? Any intelligent man or woman who had read the history of Ireland would know the road to follow. This was a very serious period in their history. This Constitution was the greatest Democratic Constitution published since the American Constitution. They believed in the intelligence of the Irish people and the Irish people were not foolish enough to follow a policy unsound Nationally and economically.

Mr. Michael Morrissey, Chairman Dungarvan, Urban Council, candidate, said he could not understand why any sane man as a sane man should oppose the Fianna Fail programme. The Fianna Fail programme was the best programme ever put forward in Ireland. Let them cast back their minds to 1916 and take into consideration the Fianna Fail Government and the policy pursued by that Government. During their 10 years of office what had they done? They had neglected the social services; they had neglected the Housing Schemes; they were so far neglected, that they allowed the people living in the slums to dwell in misery and want without the proper Christian provisions necessary for them to live in comfort. They neglected the unemployment—saying that it was not their duty to find work for the workers willing to work. During that regime 170 factories were closed down. The people knew all these things as well as he did.

After 5 years of Government by the Fianna Fail Party, they could see how they pursued the policy they put before the people, and the good it had brought to the country as a whole. Here in Dungarvan the Urban Council were about to erect 139 houses at a cost of £45,000 assisted by the Government; a Water and sewerage Scheme would soon be in operation and he understood that a New Hospital was to be built. These Schemes were being generously assisted by the Government. There were also the Free Milk Scheme, the Pensions to Widows and Orphans, and the Old Age Pension. The Fianna Fail Government were going steadily along the road, but there was a long way to go still, but they were satisfied that the people of Ireland would see that the Fianna Fail Government would be let go along that road by voting for them on July 1st.

Mr. Little, candidate, said that they were half way through their programme. They had given new life to the people. A new hope and new heart; they had infused a new blood into the veins of the Irish people. There was a story told that during the illness of the late King George the doctors decided that a blood transfusion was necessary. An Irishman was selected for the transfusion; the operation was carried out successfully. When the King awoke, after the operation and opened his eyes, the first thing he said was "Up de Valera." This was the process that was going on in Ireland, at present; new blood was being infused into the Irish Nation.

Mr. N. Barron, a Californian lawyer, and a native of Dungarvan, said that a treaty had been forced upon the Irish people by threats more violent and more severe than those of the Black and Tans, when with guns and Mills bombs they tried to destroy the Irish people. Because of those threats some of their misguided leaders agreed to sign a treaty. They were given a contract which contained an Oath of allegiance to an English King. Did they sign for that? They were given a Senate and dictated the people who were to be in that Senate, but those men in that Senate had no use for Ireland. The new Constitution was an Independent Republican Democratic one. The opposition had held up their hands in horror at this new Constitution because

LABOUR MEETING

A public meeting in support of the Labour candidate, Mr. Dan Foley, was held on the Square, on Wednesday evening.

Mr. P. Lynch, Dungarvan, presided.

Mr. Lynch said that they were coming before the people again to ask them to vote for Dan Foley. For the last 15 years they had a Home Rule Government. They had a Cumann na nGaedheal Government for 10 years and a Fianna Fail Government for 5 years. Some effort had been made by the Fianna Fail Government to solve unemployment, but they had only touched the fringe of the question. There was a lot of work to be done in this regard and the Labour Party would see that it would be done. He appealed to the people to vote No. 1 Dan Foley.

Mr. Dan O'Callaghan, ex-T.D., said that their programme, the programme of the Labour Party had been ignored in a lot of high falootin' politics. He would ask them to vote for Dan Foley because he was one of their class and had as much education as any man in the Dail. He was a man of the highest integrity that could not be bought and who never wavered from the Labour banner or from the National banner. He was second to none in Nationality or religion. The Labour Party were the workers' party, every man in the country and when they voted for Labour they voted for themselves. Let them forget the high-toned speeches that were delivered and would be delivered. When the election day has passed these politicians would go off to the Dail and if it suited them they would come back. If Dan Foley were elected he would never be allowed to turn his back on the people, and if he did he would soon be expelled from the Labour Party.

The Labour Party had its own Economic and Political experts as well as the other parties. They did not want to go to the Dail as a large party, all they asked for was a break, a fair representation; a mandate from the people so that they could deal with unemployment, which they said it was a dictatorship. They had sent O'Duffy in his blue shirt through the country as a dictator, but the Irish people had sent O'Duffy in his blue shirt back in a blue fit to 3 Merrion Square. They had now a Christian Democratic Constitution for the Irish people.

Mr. Hugo Flinn, said that on July 1st they would get two voting papers; one would refer to the deputies and on that paper you will vote as you always did, 1, 2 and 3 in the order of your choice. The other paper referred to the Constitution and they were asked to vote "Yes" or "No," by putting a X before or behind. A State had been evolved on Irish Christian lines and that that State should be enacted by the will of the people was an important thing which they should keep in mind. From what he knew of Dungarvan and Waterford, he was sure that the people would do their duty on July 1st. It was a choice between an inevitable Government and an impossible Government; a responsible government and an irresponsible one. The Fianna Fail had promised things and they had carried them out, but the Opposition could make promises and not redeem them because they were not responsible. They had made promises before and as the result of the way they carried out those promises, they were chucked out by the people.

Ex-Senator Wm. Quirke in an able appeal to the voters said that from Carrick to the Shannon the people were more than ever behind Fianna Fail. The Fianna Fail Party were promising full derating. This would cost the State over two million pounds or about 1s per head or an average of about 15 per family. Where did they intend to get this money? The only way was by indirect taxation. They had accused Eamonn de Valera of establishing a dictatorship, but they had tried to make O'Duffy and Belton dictators. The people would be able to give Fine Gael their answer on July 1st.

The meeting concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.

Successful Fianna Fail meetings were held on Sunday last at Ballyduff, Lisnove and Cappoquin.

was the first thing in their programme. If they elected Dan Foley they would do a good day's work for themselves, for their children and for their country.

Mr. Casey, ex-Mayor of Limerick, said that Waterford with its industries and unemployment should have a labour deputy to stand side by side with the Limerick deputy.

A few months ago, the Executive of the Irish Trades Union received a challenge from the Minister for Industry and Commerce, Mr. Lemass, and was issued at the time of the tram strike. He told them that the Government intended to curtail the action of labour organisations in this country. On last Sunday in Roscommon, Mr. de Valera asked for a sweeping majority in the election. What did that portend, in view of Mr. Lemass's statement? The future of organisations that have stood by you, that have been the backbone of the country in times of stress were to be cut out. The future of the workers would be very dark. At present there were 100,000 unemployed in the country, deprived of creating that wealth that brings prosperity; deprived of a decent livelihood and must go through that humiliating system of going to the labour exchange. To cure unemployment was the first plank in the labour programme—a programme based on Catholic Philosophy. The Government paid 6/6 per head for inmates in County Homes and they expected a man with a family to live on 12/6 per week.

Waterford should have a labour representative and should follow the example of Wexford, Limerick, Cork and Clare. He would ask them to vote for labour for by so doing they were voting for their own interests.

Mr. O'Rourke, Secretary, Waterford Trades Council, said that Professor O'Reilly, in a broadcast on Catholic Social Action had said that 86 per cent. of the people were dying of starvation and gave facts and figures to show that 54/- a week was the minimum that a man with a wife and 3 children could live on. Were the people satisfied to remain as they were? Were they satisfied with the pensions for Widows and Orphans, with Old Age Pensions? They would say that when a man reached 65 years he should receive the pension and a woman at 60 years.

Mr. T. Ryan, Secretary I.T. and G.W. Union, said that during the 10 years of Cumann na nGaedheal Government, one shilling had been taken off the old age pension; they had attacked the Civil Service and the Civic Guards, and every useful service but had reduced the income tax for the rich people. In 1932 Fianna Fail were elected with a clear majority. They, the Labour Party, would not deny that the Fianna Fail Party made an attempt at what they said they would do, but they did not go far enough. They promised to merge all unemployment and open factories to such an extent that they should have to send to America for the emigrants to man the factories. Today, there was 100,000 unemployed in the country. Factories were set up but the Labour Party had to fight against conditions in the factories. Boys and girls that should be at school were working in these factories, while the real wage-earners were unemployed. The Labour Party did not stand for that. They appealed to the people to support them on July 1st. They did not expect the votes of the farmers or the shopkeepers; they wanted the votes of their own class. They expected the people to respect their own class by voting for the Labour Party. They should not follow the flag waving and the shouting or the 24/- a week Hugo Flinn. There was only one way to elect Dan Foley and that was by giving him No. 1 Vote.

Mr. T. Malone, said he would take this opportunity to dispel the vague rumours that were going around about Dan Foley. He was glad to say that he was happy and well and had been nominated that day. During the Cumann na nGaedheal regime, the workers were forgotten, and the Fianna Fail Government were not pulling with the workers. Communism had been applied to the Trade Union. There was no fear of Communism in this country. This country had run red with the blood of the workers for the Faith, and would again run red if necessary for the Faith.

Our policy is very simple, but it is a sound policy. We stand not for building mythical fantasies and pointing to the vacant quayside, Mrs. Redmond said, but to restore that factory ruined by the policy of Mr. de Valera and his Government in starting a war with our best customer. The best factory Waterford ever had was its docks, when the ships were coming in to take the farmers' livestock, and dockers, labourers, ships' crews and others had good employment (loud applause).

Fianna Fail got their chance. Now give the Fine Gael a chance to repair all the damage Fianna Fail has done. She believed the people of the country saw they had made a mistake at the last election (a voice: We won't make it again), and that they were now determined to return to Government again the Party who could and would settle the economic war. Referring to unemployment, Mrs. Redmond said the people were sick of all the talk about national dignity. What they wanted was work. She believed decent men and women rather earn a week's wages than all they got on the dole. Fine Gael's interest was for all sections, British ex-servicemen and National Army ex-servicemen, the sick man and the poor man, because they believed in the unity of all. Mr. Cosgrave believed he could make the lot of all better, and he made no false promises.

Mr. Nicholas Wall, another of the candidates, said if they voted honestly he was certain the vote would be for Fine Gael. On a comparison of the records of the two parties for the five years of Mr. de Valera's Government taxation had gone up 12 millions, while the national wealth of the country had decreased by about 50 million pounds.

Mr. John Butler, the third Fine Gael candidate, said if they probed the new Constitution with the most powerful magnifying glass in Waterford, they would not find the word Republic in it (loud laughter). Three weeks ago a Fianna Fail Minister promised three travellers to Dungarvan. For what? Mr. Butler asked, and replied amidst roars of laughter "to go cod fishing." Fianna Fail were cod fishing all over Ireland today. Their promises were all cod, and any man in the crowd who believed their promises was a bigger cod. The people of the country, he concluded, must not give Mr. de Valera another chance to complete the ruin he had perpetrated for the past five years (loud applause).

Mr. Cosgrave's Address

Mr. Cosgrave, who was greeted with rounds of cheering, which echoed all along Waterford Quay, stood facing the enthusiastic crowd for some minutes before he began to speak. The last three speakers, he said, had given them a fair outline of what the Fine Gael Party proposed to do, if the people of the country entrusted them with the responsibility of Government. There were a few points of difference, of a very great importance to the people, between the two parties, by reason of the Government policy for the last five years. There is scarcely a single article in household use which is not increased in price, declared Mr. Cosgrave.

In this County of Waterford, you have farmers as good as anywhere in Ireland, and yet during the last couple of weeks they had seen pigs being driven along the streets, imported into Southern bacon factories from Northern Ireland. Two years ago legislation was enacted to provide that there would be a certain level of prices to pig producers. Unfortunately by reason of incompetency, no effort was made, as was provided under the Act, to help pig producers during the period of low prices, and now, when prices have risen, the bacon curers are charged a sum of 12s. a cwt., to provide funds for the future, to deal with any case which might possibly arise when prices will not be as remunerative as they are now. Had the necessary action been taken at the right time, Mr. Cosgrave declared, there would now be no necessity to import pigs to Cork, Limerick, Waterford or anywhere else, and there would be no need to send money out of this country to enrich the farmers across the border. As long as this conflict with Great Britain lasted the people of this country would have to pay 5d. or 6d. on every pound of bacon they consumed, in order to allow the export of bacon to the British market, and the same thing applied to butter. The consumer of butter had been relieved of 3d. on the pound during the last few weeks, but the relief they had been called upon to make in general taxation. When Fine Gael had claimed that the cost of living had been affected by taxation, they were prepared to prove it. Everything a man used, everything a woman wore, everything they used in the home—all were taxed, and not only taxed but something extra put on as well.

Mr. Cosgrave then went on to refer to the great fall in egg production and the loss of that industry to the State. In order to get live produce into the British market the coal-cattle pact was made. Five years ago it was treachery to buy English coal; today, it is Fianna Fail patriotism (applause). Fine Gael policy was not one of marking time for the Irish Free State. We must progress towards a solution of the dispute. It is desirable in the interests of both countries and it is capable of producing great benefits, not only for the agricultural community but for every section of the community (applause).

Referring to unemployment schemes, he said the Government claimed a good deal of credit for the spending of public money on unemployment relief schemes. Last year they took one hundred thousand pounds out of the road fund to put into relief schemes of two or four days a week, at 12s. or 14s. a week. The sum taken from the fund would find work for one thousand men at £2 weekly for 52 weeks. Our aim is to provide work for a larger number of men at better wages and at the same time to reduce the taxation and to help the farming industry every way we can. If you want to vote for that policy declare Mr. Cosgrave in conclusion, vote for the three Fine Gael candidates (loud applause).

GENERAL ELECTION

A large and enthusiastic crowd gathered on the Square on Tuesday night at the meeting in support of the Fianna Fail candidates.

Mr. J. Power, Abbeyview, Dungarvan, presided.

Mr. Sean Goulding, candidate, the first speaker, said that he would deal with the National issue. They were being told that the Fianna Fail Government had let down the Republic and ideals of 1916. That was not so, the Fianna Fail Party were as anxious to obtain the complete freedom of this country as they ever were. In 1922 they opposed the treaty and an unfortunate civil war resulted. They were beaten to the ropes and they did not deny that they were beaten. The people of Ireland were tired of the long conflict of war; they were tired and weary of the struggle from 1916 to 1922. They were so tired that they were anxious to accept any settlement at the time. Now, the Fianna Fail Government were adopting other means and they believed that the end could be accomplished by these means, because they believed sincerely that they could accomplish that work they were on this platform tonight. They were being told not to vote for the New Constitution. In an editorial in the "Sunday Independent," they were asked not to vote for the Constitution. The Bishop of Tuam, Dr. Gilmartin, praised the Constitution and spoke of it as a Christian Constitution. Were they going to follow the advice of Bishop Gilmartin or the advice of the "Sunday Independent"? Any intelligent man or woman who had read the history of Ireland would know the road to follow. This was a very serious period in their history. This Constitution was the greatest Democratic Constitution published since the American Constitution. They believed in the intelligence of the Irish people and the Irish people were not foolish enough to follow a policy unsound Nationally and economically.

Mr. Michael Morrissey, Chairman Dungarvan Urban Council, candidate, said he could not understand why any sane man or woman should oppose the policy of the Fianna Fail. The Fianna Fail programme had done by the Fianna Fail. Let them cast their minds two years ago and take into consideration the Fine Gael Government and the policy pursued by that Government. During their 10 years of office what had they done? They had neglected the social services; they had neglected the Housing Schemes; they were so far neglected, that they allowed the people living in the slums to dwell in misery and want without the proper Christian provisions necessary for them to live in comfort. They neglected the unemployment—saying that it was not their duty to find work for the workers willing to work. During that regime 170 factories were closed down. The people knew all these things as well as he did.

After 5 years of Government by the Fianna Fail Party, they could see how they pursued the policy they put before the people, and the good it had brought to the country as a whole. Here in Dungarvan the Urban Council were about to erect 130 houses at a cost of £45,000 assisted by the Government; a Water and sewerage Scheme would soon be in operation and he understood that a New Hospital was to be built. These Schemes were being generously assisted by the Government. They were also the Free Milk Scheme; the Pensions to Widows and Orphans, and the Old Age Pension. The Fianna Fail Government were going steadily along the road, but there was a long way to go still, but they were satisfied that the people of Ireland would see that the Fianna Fail Government would be let go along that road by voting for them on July 1st.

Mr. Little, candidate, said that they were half way through their programme. They had given new life to the people. A new hope and new heart; they had infused a new blood into the veins of the Irish people. There was a story told that during the illness of the late King George the doctors decided that a blood transfusion was necessary. An Irishman was selected for the transfusion; the operation was carried out successfully. When the King awoke, after the operation and opened his eyes, the first thing he said was "Up de Valera." This was the process that was going on in Ireland at present; new blood was being infused into the Irish Nation.

Mr. N. Barron, a Californian lawyer, and a native of Dungarvan, said that a treaty had been forced upon the Irish people by threats more violent and more severe than those of the Black and Tans, when with guns and Mills bombs they tried to destroy the Irish people. Because of those threats some of their misguided leaders agreed to sign a treaty. They were given a contract which contained an Oath of allegiance to an English King. Did they sign for that? They were given a Senate and dictated the people who were to be in that Senate, but those men in that Senate had no use for Ireland. The new Constitution was an Independent Republican Democratic one. The opposition had held up their hands in horror at this new Constitution because

A public meeting in support of the Labour candidate, Mr. Dan Foley, was held on the Square, on Wednesday evening.

Mr. P. Lynch, Dungarvan, presided.

Mr. Lynch said that they were coming before the people again to ask them to vote for Dan Foley. For the last 15 years they had a Home Rule Government. They had a Cumann na nGaedheal Government for 10 years and a Fianna Fail Government for 5 years. Some effort had been made by the Fianna Fail Government to solve unemployment, but they had only touched the fringe of the question. There was a lot of work to be done in this regard and the Labour Party would see that it would be done. He appealed to the people to vote No. 1 Dan Foley.

Mr. Dan O'Callaghan, ex-T.D., said that their programme, the programme of the Labour Party had been ignored in a lot of high faluting politics. He would ask them to vote for Dan Foley because he was one of their class and had as much education as any man in the Dail. He was a man of the highest integrity that could not be bought and who never wavered from the Labour banner or from the National banner. He was second to none in Nationality or religion. The Labour Party were the only party that every movement in the country and when they voted for labour they voted for themselves. Let them forget the high-toned speeches that were delivered and would be delivered. When the election day has passed these politicians would go off to the Dail and if it suited them they would come back. If Dan Foley were elected he would never be allowed to turn his back on the people, and if he did he would soon be expelled from the Labour Party.

The Labour Party had its own Economical and Political experts as well as the other parties. They did not want to go to the Dail as a large party, all they asked for was a break, a fair representation; a mandate from the people so that they could deal with unemployment, which was the first thing in their programme. If they elected Dan Foley they would do a good day's work for themselves, for their children and for their country.

Mr. Casey, ex-Mayor of Limerick, said that Waterford with its industry and unemployment should have a labour deputy to stand side by side with the Limerick deputy.

A few months ago, the Executive of the Irish Trades Union received a challenge from the Minister for Industry and Commerce, Mr. Lemass, and was issued at the time of the tram strike. He told them that the Government intended to curtail the action of labour organisations in this country. On last Sunday in Roscommon, Mr. de Valera asked for a sweeping majority in the election. What did that portend, in view of Mr. Lemass's statement? The future of organisations that have stood by you, that have been the backbone of the country in times of stress were to be cut out. The future of the workers would be very dark. At present there were 100,000 unemployed in the country, deprived of creating that wealth that brings prosperity; deprived of a decent livelihood and must go through that humiliating system of going to the labour exchange. To cure unemployment was the first plank in the labour programme—a programme based on Catholic Philosophy. The Government paid 6/6 per head for inmates in County Homes and they expected a man with a family to live on 12/6 per week.

Waterford should have a labour representative and should follow the example of Wexford, Limerick, Cork and Clare. He would ask them to vote for labour for by so doing they were voting for their own interests.

Mr. O'Rourke, Secretary, Waterford Trades Council, said that Professor O'Rahilly, in a broadcast on Catholic Social Action had said that 86 per cent. of the people were dying of starvation and gave facts and figures to show that 54/- a week was the minimum that a man with a wife and 3 children could live on. Were the people satisfied to remain as they were? Were they satisfied with the pensions for Widows and Orphans, with Old Age Pensions? They would say that when a man reached 65 years he should receive the pension and a woman at 60 years.

Mr. T. Ryan, Secretary I.T. and G.W. Union, said that during the 10 years of Cumann na nGaedheal Government, one shilling had been taken off the old age pension, they had attacked the Civil Service and the Civic Guards, and every useful service but had reduced the income tax for the rich people. In 1934 Fianna Fail were elected with a clear majority. They, the Labour Party, would not deny that the Fianna Fail Party made an attempt at what they said they would do, but they did not go far enough. They promised to merge all unemployment and open factories to such an extent that they should have to send to America for the emigrants to man the factories. Today, there was 100,000 unemployed in the country. Factories were set up but the Labour Party had to fight against conditions in the factories. Boys and girls that should be at school were working in these factories, while the real wage-earners were unemployed. The Labour Party did not stand for that. They appealed to the people to support them on July 1st. They did not expect the votes of the farmers or the shopkeepers; they wanted the votes of their own class. They expected the people to respect their own class by voting for the Labour Party. They should not follow the flag waving and the shouting or the 24/- a week Hugo Flinn. There was only one way to elect Dan Foley and that was by giving him No. 1 Vote.

Mr. T. Malone, said he would take this opportunity to dispel the vague rumours that were going around about Dan Foley. He was glad to say that he was happy and well and had been nominated that day. During the Cumann na nGaedheal regime, the workers were forgotten, and the Fianna Fail Government were not pulling with the worker. Communism had been applied to the Trade Union. There was no fear of Communism in this country. This country had run red in the blood of the workers for the Faith, and would again run red if necessary for the Faith.

MINERAL DEFICIENCIES IN THE SOIL Influence on Animal Nutrition and Crop Yields If Nature's cycle of mineral circulation from soil, through plants to animals and back to soil again was undisturbed, the mineral supply in the soil would be maintained. In practice, however, the natural mineral cycle is not completed. The sale of crops, live stock and milk from our farms, represents a loss of minerals from the soil, which if not balanced by an equivalent return in some other forms, must eventually result in soil depletion. The mineral nutrients supplied to plants by the soil include phosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium, sulphur, iron, manganese, boron, copper and zinc. The first four are required by crop plants in considerable amounts, and are the first which are likely to become deficient in soils that have been heavily cropped for a long time. Sulphur, though required by crops in considerable amounts, occurs only infrequently as a deficiency in the soil, since the additions in the rain and snow, and the return of this element in the manure, more than balance the losses from most soils. Iron and manganese, both essential elements for plant growth, are usually present in adequate quantity in most soils, but the availability may be so reduced under certain soil conditions as to cause deficiencies affecting the crop. Boron, copper and zinc, although not established as essential nutrient elements for all plants, are known to be deficient in certain soils for some crops, and it is only when these deficiencies have been corrected that the susceptible crop plants can be grown successfully. So far as soils and crop plants are concerned, a variety of deficiencies is possible, depending on the original mineral content of the soil and the losses suffered during the time it has been under cultivation. What bearing some of these soil deficiencies may have on animal nutrition is not known, but their possible significance should not be overlooked. Phosphorus is one of the first of the mineral nutrients to become deficient in cultivated soils. It is well understood that, in most soils, the total supply of phosphorus is considerably less than that of nitrogen, potassium, calcium or magnesium. Even under most favourable conditions, the proportion of the phosphorus which is in a plant available form, is but a small fraction of the total. Experiments have shown that phosphorus is taken up in large amounts from the soil, during the early growth of the plant. The maintenance of an adequate supply of phosphorus in a readily available form, is thus a critical factor in the normal nutrition of the plant. If the available phosphorus supply is reduced to a level insufficient to meet the needs of a rapidly growing crop, phosphorus deficiency results, even though the total supply in the soil may be considerable.

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS By "CROTOG." A showery forenoon and threatening midday skies did not militate to any great extent against the success of the Sheehans Benefit Fund match in Lismore last Sunday between Cork and Waterford. A fine crowd was present and the game, if not very exciting, was interesting all through. At times the hurling was spectacular, but the absence of the keen competitive urge was noticeable. The Lesiders won by a two points margin mainly through the brilliancy and resource of John Lynch of Glen Rovers. Waterford overdid the fancy stuff and seemed more intent on displaying their wonderful variety of strokes than in securing scores. The spectators, while enjoying the pretty ball-play were somewhat disappointed and not a little mystified. Evidently they expected something more determined and more forceful—now they do not know what to think. Colourful striking is all very well—grand to look at and all that; it may even win admiration but it does not win matches. The Decies were without six or seven of their usual selection and the fact that the absentees occupy key positions made the team very unstable. Cork had a good team and, taking all the circumstances into account, it would be presumptuous on our part and a reflection on Leside hurling standards to expect any other result.

Amongst the players who were prevented by injuries and other causes from fielding out were Mick Hickey, Doyle Walsh, Paddy Duggan, Tom Greaney, 'Pa' Sheehan, Paddy Green. Moylan had to retire at half-time. With one exception, the substitutes who were tried out did not impress. Connie Ryan, 'Fad' Brown and Nick Farly have deteriorated to such an extent that even the selection Committee can harbour no further illusions about them. Jimmy Waters struggled hard to hold his own, but the company was too good. Shortall showed promise round mid-field. Con Curley fashed out with all his old style and vigour when changed to the right full back position in the second half.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

KILMATHOMAS DISTRICT COURT—

A CORRECTION— In the report of the local monthly Court, published in our last issue we regret to find that it was incorrectly stated (by our Kilmathomas correspondent) that a conviction was registered against Mr. Thomas J. Treacy, Carrick-on-Suir, who with Mr. Jas. J. O'Shea, Waterford, were defendants in a case preferred against them, by Superintendent Walsh, Dungarvan. (The charge arose out of a collision of their motor cars at Leamybrien Barrack Cross on Sunday evening, April 4th last. His Worship (Mr. F. J. McCabe, D.J., fined Mr. O'Shea £3 and further ordered that the fine be endorsed in Mr. O'Shea's licence, and that he be suspended from driving for 14 days. Later on a special appeal being made to the Justice, by Mr. O'Shea's Solicitor, the 14 days suspension was remitted. We deeply regret any annoyance caused to Mr. Treacy, by the unintentional mistake and trust that this correction of the matter will be acceptable to him.

THE ELECTIONS—

On Wednesday last, the nominations of Candidates for the New Dail took place all over the 26 Counties. The number of Candidates nominated for the 137 seats being 234, made up as follows:—Fianna Fail 100; Fine Gael, 95; Labour 23; Independents 36.

The Waterford nominees for four seats are—Fianna Fail—P. J. Little, T.D., Sean Goulding, T.D.; and Mr. Michael Morrissey, P.C., Chairman, Dungarvan Urban District Council.

Fine Gael—Mr. J. Butler, P.C., Mrs. Redmond, T.D., and Mr. N. Wall, T.D. Labour—Mr. Dan Foley, N.T. Independent Fianna Fail—Ald. Wm. Jones, Waterford.

BIG SPORTS MEETING FOR DUNGARVAN—

Dungarvan will be the rendezvous of the athletes of Ireland on Sunday 1st August, when the popular Garda Sports will take place. The Depot Band (under Superintendent Delaney) which gave us such a treat last year, will be in attendance, while the usual sports all-night dance will be held in the Town Hall that night. More anon.

BOXING TOURNAMENT—

A very interesting Boxing Tournament at present being arranged, will be held at Bohadoun, on Sunday July 11th. Full particulars next issue.

LOCAL SPORTSMAN'S SUCCESS—

Heartiest congratulations to Mr. Pax Whelan, Abbeyside, on his double victory at Shelbourne Park on Wednesday night last, when his good dog Rhin-creeha, won his race (255 yards) in convincing fashion, while Moresby (owned by Mr. Whelan in partnership with Mr. E. A. Ryan) disposed of his opponents in easy style in a 300 yards race. We wish Mr. Whelan further successes with his long tails.

MILLSTREET SPORTS—

Those in search of enjoyment should trek to Millstreet on Sunday next for the Annual Sports Meeting. Everything points to a most successful re-union. Entries are unusually large, and the keenest competition expected. The musical programme which will be supplied by Mr. O'Shea, Fermoy, will be broadcasted through a loud speaker and amplifier. Be there if you want a real day's enjoyment.

DEATH OF MR. E. HUMBLE, ABBEYSIDE—

We regret to record the death of Mr. Edmund Humble, Sexton Street, Abbeyside, which took place on Monday last. The deceased was a quiet inoffensive and most industrious man all his life. His funeral to the Abbeyside Parish Church was largely attended. The burial took place after the celebration of Requiem Masses on Wednesday morning.

RECENT ORDINATION—

At St. Mary's Oblate Scholasticate, Daingean, Offaly, on the 20th June, Rev. T. Fahy, O.M.I., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. Fahy, Abbeyside, was ordained by the Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin, Most Rev. Dr. Keogh. Father Fahy celebrated his first Mass in the Presentation Convent, Thurles in the presence of a large congregation. He is a nephew of Mrs. E. Donaldson Emmett Street, Dungarvan, Mrs. A. O'Neill, and Miss M. Fahy, Mary Street, Dungarvan, Mrs. B. McGrath, Knock, Clonea, and Mr. Matthew Fahy, Kilmaheran. Father Fahy, celebrated Mass at Abbeyside on Tuesday morning last, and later imparted his blessing on numbers of the congregation. We wish Father Fahy many years of health and strength in the fulfilment of his Sacred calling.

IRISH LABOUR PARTY—

Those willing to help the above party at Elections work are requested to attend a meeting in the Town Hall, on Saturday night next at 8.15 p.m. (Advt.)

IRISH BRIGADE—

General O'Duffy's Irish Brigade, who during the past 6 months were fighting with General Franco's Army in Spain against the Communist forces, returned home last Monday. They were given a rousing reception when they arrived in the Alexander Basin, North Wall by the thousands of citizens who lined the route through the centre of the City where a reception was held. Rt. Rev. Monsignor Waters, P.P., V.G., who presided at the reception, paid high tributes to General O'Duffy and his volunteers. Mr. Mee McGrath, the only Dungarvan man to join the Brigade arrived home on Monday night looking none the worse after his strenuous sojourn in "that land beyond the sea." Messrs. Sean and Flo Fitzgerald, sons of Mrs. Fitzgerald, Glen Lower, Modetigo (two other members of the Brigade), also arrived home in the best of health and spirits.

VOTE OF SYMPATHY—

At a special meeting of the Pike Football Club a resolution of sympathy was passed to the family of the late Mr. Thos. Fitzgerald, Moorarud, Dungarvan on their recent sad bereavement.

FIANNA FAIL MEETING—

A very enthusiastic meeting was held at Ballinroad on Sunday last in support of the Fianna Fail candidates. Mr. Michael Morrissey, P.C., Chairman, U.D.C., was given enthusiastic reception when he was introduced by the Chairman Jas. Power. Mr. Morrissey, dealt with the division of Land under the late Government and Division of Land under the present Government. The late Government gave land to the people of Ballinacourty and surrounding districts and put on a rent which the holders were not able to pay, but the present Government of Fianna Fail gave land and built houses on the lands, for half the rent that Cosgrave's Government put on the holders. He Mr. Morrissey dealt with the number of Labourers Cottages that had been built by the Fianna Fail Government within the last five years. Fifty-three thousand houses were built said Mr. Morrissey, and 55,000 had been planned and are ready to be built. Mr. Morrissey then dealt with the Old Age Pensions, Farming and derating, agriculture bounties to farmers, free milk to the children, and the Agricultural Workers' Wages' Act. Mr. Sean Goulding also dealt with the various schemes in the hands of the Fianna Fail Government and said 800 new factories had given employment to 78,000 people and much remained to be done yet and he asked the people of the Waterford constituency to give Fianna Fail the majority to complete the good work. Mr. Jas. Power, Chairman, also addressed the meeting.

DUNGARVAN CIRCUIT COURT.

Kett v. Walsh

Grazing and Turbary Rights. In the case of John Walsh, Ballintlea, Kilmacshanty v. Laurence Walsh, Ballinacilly, Bohadoun, for the alleged trespass of defendants sheep on the Ballinacilly or Treearia Commons. Mr. E. A. Ryan, solr., for plaintiff. Mr. McKenna, B.L., defended. His Lordship in the course of his summing up said his view was that other people had a right to graze and the defendant is one of them, and therefore this suit fails. His Lordship allowed costs.

Workmen's Compensation

This was a case in which Patk. Cowman, Abbeyside, applied under the Workmen's Compensation Act, for compensation in respect of injuries received while in the employment of Mr. Michael Moloney, Bridge St., Dungarvan. Mr. E. Carroll, solr., Fermoy, for applicant. Mr. Budd, B.L., (instructed by Messrs. E. A. Ryan and Co., solrs.) defended. His Lordship allowed 26/3 a week for total incapacity up to April 15th and 13/- on the basis of patient's incapacity until incapacity disappeared.

McCormiskey v Power

Mr. Molloy, B.L., (instructed by Mr. Farrell, solr., for plaintiff. Mr. Budd (instructed by Messrs. E. A. Ryan and Co., defended. This was a title case brought by Mr. McCormiskey, Abbeyside, Dungarvan, against Miss May Power, seeking an injunction to restrain the defendant from encroaching and trespassing on plaintiff's plot of ground, and claimed damages for the alleged encroachment by the taking down on plaintiff's plot. His Lordship after hearing the evidence granted the injunction and allowed £1 damages. A detailed report of the foregoing cases and the rest of the cases heard at the Circuit Court will appear in our next issue.

DAIL ELECTIONS 1937

Ald. W. Jones's Candidature

To the Electors of the Waterford Constituency Ladies and Gentlemen, having been selected by the P.H. Pearce Fianna Fail Cumann, Waterford City, to go forward as an Independent Fianna Fail Candidate, I beg to solicit your support, having being 27 years on the public life of the City of Waterford during which time the highest honour in the gift of the Citizens has been conferred upon me, viz., Senior Alderman, and Mayor of the County Borough of Waterford. During my political career extending over a quarter of a century, I have always stood for the Independence of my country politically and economically and have at all times championed the cause of Labour for better wages and housing conditions. If elected to represent you in the Dail, the freedom of my country shall be my first consideration, being a Waterford man the needs of the inhabitants of my native City and County, irrespective of Creed or class shall be my second consideration. Having supported the Fianna Fail policy since its inception, I pledge my honour to continue to support that policy, having due regard to the rights and privileges of the electors. I remain, Yours Very Sincerely WILLIAM JONES

YOUGHAL NOTES

It affords us genuine pleasure to call our reader's attention to the report of the latest meeting of the Cork Mental Hospital Committee, showing that a sum of no less than £135,000 has been allocated by the Hospitals' Trust towards the extension of the local Mental Hospital...

From time to time letters arrive here, and probably elsewhere, likewise, addressed in a manner calculated to puzzle the proverbial Quaker. But in summer time, with the usual big influx of "gay-bricks" otherwise yclept "olishers," this trouble assumes serious proportions...

A large number of entries have been received for the Tug-o-War Competition. Bands from Clonmel, Touraneena and Glenahery will give selections throughout the afternoon, so everything points to a gala day in the old village. Miss it and you miss a treat!

On last Friday evening Mr. Pat Butler, Curraghenavoher, had a remarkable escape from serious injury. When cycling down the steep hill from his home the front fork of his bicycle snapped and he was thrown heavily, receiving a number of nasty cuts on his face and hands...

Barber: "How would you like your hair cut, sir?" Chauffeur: "Oh, a little of the bonnet, and some from behind the mudguards."

BALLYMACARBERRY NOTES

The promoters of the Aeridheact are working overtime in preparation for next Sunday. The Secretary, Garda P. Mackey, has received a record number of entries for the various events. The nine-aside football tournament, for which there is a valuable set of medals, will be a big attraction, teams from Clonmel, Ardara, Ballyporeen, Rathgormack, Touraneena, Old Bridge and Glenahery having entered, and other teams desirous may do so up to 1.30 p.m. on the day of the Aeridheact.

The total sum payable in respect of Poor Rate by the occupier of agricultural land, the rateable valuation of which does not exceed £20, will be reduced by a sum equal to 74.6 pence in the £ on said land. A similar allowance will be made on the first £20 of agricultural land exceeding £20 valuation.

On the part of the valuation of agricultural land above £20 a reduction will be given at the Primary Allowance Rate of 74.6 pence in the £ on an amount not exceeding £12 10s. 0d. valuation in respect of employment of each male person (17 to 70 years of age) in the period 1st January to 31st December, 1936, where claims have been lodged on or before 31st March, 1937, and admitted.

The balance of the sum allocated to the County for the purpose will go to reduce the rates by a sum equal to 39.1 pence in the £ on the part of the valuation above £20 that does not otherwise get relief.

The Rate Books are now in my custody, and may be inspected by any person affected thereby at the Council Offices between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. (Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.), exclusive of Sundays and Bank Holidays. The said Rates will be payable from and after the publication of this Notice.

Signed this 15th day of June, 1937.

J. H. O'SULLIVAN, Secretary to the Council.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT
GRANT TO MENTAL HOSPITAL SCHEME

Mr. W. J. Broderick, T.D., Chairman, presided at a meeting of the Joint Committee of Management of the Cork Mental Hospital, held at the Institution. Also present: Very Rev. Canon Cobalan, P.P.; Messrs. R. Kelly, M.C.C.; W. Furlong, T.C.; C. Buckley, H.C.; M.C.C.; J. Hickey, T.C.; C. J. Ryan, M.C.C.; D. J. Kingston, do.; M. Buckley, do.; E. Gould, do.; P. Crowley, do.

A communication was read from the Department of Local Government and Public Health regarding the proposed works at the Auxiliary Mental Hospital, Youghal. "I am directed by the Minister for Local Government and Public Health to state that in view of the fact that the Joint Committee of Management propose in the new buildings to provide accommodation, inter alia, for the mental cases in the County Homes in Cork city and county, he is prepared to arrange for a grant from the Hospitals Trust Fund amounting to 75 per cent. of the cost of the works," the letter stated.

The Chairman said the estimate for the proposed buildings was £70,000 and that letter from the Ministry meant that of that amount £35,000 would be received by way of Government contribution. The main point about this was that until the grant money was expended, the rate would not be called upon to provide the balance and this would not be for at least two or three years.

Mr. McCarthy—I believe it will go to £200,000 before it is furnished with the extras.

The Chairman said the estimate of £70,000 covered everything, and of the total cost of everything the Committee would now get 75 per cent. from the Government, and the rates would not be called upon to contribute any portion until the Government portion had been exhausted.

It was decided to ask the Youghal Urban Council to expedite the laying of the water main to the Institution, and to place the Committee's architect, Mr. Hill, at the disposal of the Urban Council.

The Chairman explained that the Youghal Urban Council had agreed to give the Committee complete control of the new main. Mr. Hill should ensure that a main of sufficient size for all their requirements would be laid.

Following a discussion regarding the utilisation of land at Youghal, the Committee, on the motion of Mr. McCarthy, seconded by Mr. Crowley, decided to call on the Youghal Land Steward for an explanation as to why he had not tiled certain portions of the land.

Following on the letter from the Ministry regarding the grant for Youghal, the Chairman, pursuant to notice, moved that arrangements be now made to complete the purchase of the remainder of the lands acquired for the purpose of the extension at the Youghal Auxiliary Mental Hospital.

Mr. McCarthy seconded, and the motion was unanimously adopted, the Committee agreeing to instruct their Legal Adviser (Mr. Exham) to formally take over the lands in question.

ELECTION MEETINGS

The first meeting since the inclusion of Youghal in Waterford was held after the fair on Monday.

Mr. E. P. Lynch, U.D.C., presiding, introduced Mr. Nicholas Barron, Dungarvan, nephew of the Most Rev. Dr. Sheehan, who said that the new Constitution was a great Christian document, under which there was no possibility of man or mob dictatorships. It was a credit to the Irish people and the Irish leader.

Mr. Michael Morrissey, Chairman U.D.C., Dungarvan, candidate, condemned the attitude of Cumann na nGaedheal while in office to the condition of slum dwellers, the agricultural labourers, and the closing down of 120 factories, and their anxiety to play up to the ranchers, the Imperialists and the vested interests in the country. He asked his hearers to compare the achievements of the Fianna Fail Government in those respects with those of their predecessors in office. Fianna Fail had forced ahead schemes for the housing of the slum dwellers and the agricultural labourers. They had established 800 factories and workshops in their endeavours to stop emigration. He appealed to the people to consider those facts carefully and to return the Fianna Fail Party to complete the good work they had started on the way to national and economic freedom.

Mr. Sean Goulding, ex-T.D., candidate having dealt briefly with the great Constitution submitted for their approval, appealed to the people to give a fair hearing to all sides. That was a democratic country, the people were entitled to ask questions and public speakers should be prepared to listen to them and give proper answers.

Mr. P. J. Little, ex-T.D., candidate, having dealt at length with the questions of the economic war and land annuities said that Fianna Fail had surrendered no principle in the minor agreements regarding the coal and cattle pacts. The attitude of Mr. de Valera was that there would be no surrender on these questions. If the Irish people strengthened him by their vote in the present election, it would destroy all hopes of surrender in the minds of British politicians and he would be enabled to tell John Bull that the Irish Government were not going to steal money out of one pocket to pay another. Victory in the economic dispute depended upon the support which Mr. de Valera would get from the voters in that election.

Mr. M. O'Ryan, Director of Elections for Waterford, also spoke.

Apart from the usual heckling, the meeting passed off quietly.

FAHA V. KILBOSSANTY—These junior football teams are training hard for their coming championship clash, in which considerable interest is centred. With both sides equally confident of success, the set-to should prove a topping tussle for supremacy—under the supervision of a thoroughly competent referee.

TRAGEDY THAT SHUT A CASTLE GATE FOR EVER

(By Sean Flanagan)

I KNOW the road down through Kilkenny even with my eyes shut—so often have I come south from the capital to this lovely twelve-centuries-old city on the Suir.

You pass along by historic Jerpoint Abbey soon after leaving Kilkenny's town behind you and, if you're wise, you'll pull up in Mullinahone to ask the oldest inhabitant you can see the folk tales about the ruins of Granagh Castle, lower down.

But Granagh, if I mistake not, is in Kilkenny County itself. Come on into Waterford, a few miles away.

First of all, however, let's hear about Mullinahone. It's a fine, old mansion on your left as you arrive on the last half-mile of the trip.

You'll immediately notice a curious thing about it; the huge gate is shut tight. It has been closed like that for many generations. No human being has passed through it for a quarter of a century.

The reason? A tragedy—and, maybe, a ghost!

Death on The Gate—

The heir to the estate, a young lad of 18 or so, was killed there following a wager he made that he would jump the gate on his horse.

The horse stumbled, the rider fell, and animal and daredevil youth were both killed. They met a terrible death; they were spilt by the iron bars of the gate.

Some say the ghosts of the pair who failed to achieve the feat haunt the spot on each anniversary of the tragedy. Certainly the death of the youngster came as such a shock to the family that orders were given that the gate was to be kept locked from that on as a grim monument to his courage.

It was doubly sad, for he was the only son. The male branch of the family died with him.

It was at Curraghmore I found one of the few Shell Houses in Ireland. The Curraghmore Shell House attracts city people out the twelve miles or so each summer Saturday to inspect it.

There is a crystal ball there once supposed to cure ailing cattle by being dipped in the water they were drinking. But that was in the days before "vets" were qualified professional gentlemen!

The Cistercian monks of Mount Mellerey have not been working and praying on the top of the Knockmaldown Mountains for much longer than 100 years, yet already fiction is mingled so much with the facts about them that the only way to get the true story is to visit the holy spot yourself.

Pilgrims are doubly welcome at the hospitable monastery nowadays. The Lord Abbot, Rt. Rev. Dom Calous O'Connell, brought me out to admire the beautiful Church in course of erection. All the scaffolding has not yet been removed, but still it is possible to get some idea of what a beautiful mountain-side place of worship it is going to be.

The cost of it all is being borne by voluntary subscriptions from outsiders. That is but right, since it is not an exclusive monastic building, but its doors will ever be open to the farmers and to the visitors.

And you can pray at Mellerey—with sepiacs and converts and near converts by your side. For many non-Catholic tourists who come to wonder at Mellerey's system of silence and poverty remain to change their religion.

Some even remain for good.

A Tower of Blood

Back in Waterford City climb, as I did, up to the top of Reginald's Tower, kiss its lucky stone, wonder whether it is really true that an Irish princess and an Anglo-Norman adventurer were married in this Danish stronghold while the blood of Waterford's defenders was still warm as it dripped down beneath their feet; but do not, on a spot so historic, scribble your name or chalk out a political motto.

Your initials, your opinions have no place on the walls or roofs of the Tower.

Down below you is the river that brought its founders and its prosperity and, alas, its spoilers, to Waterford. You can cross the Suir at this particular spot by means of a very ancient, very picturesque ferryboat.

On the far side is the road that leads along the border line of Kilkenny into County Wexford and so on up to Dublin by the pleasant coastal route.

BALLYMACODA WIN

East Cork Junior Hurling Championship

Ballymacoda deservedly entered the semi-final stage of the East Cork Hurling Championship when they disposed of the much-fancied Castlemartyr team at Cloyne on Sunday last.

It was doubly sad, for he was the only son. The male branch of the family died with him.

The second half saw a spirited opening by Castlemartyr, but the attack was beaten off. A free to Ballymacoda was well directed for a neat point. A great effort for a goal was made by Castlemartyr, but the ball went wide.

The final score read: Ballymacoda 2-10, Castlemartyr 1-2.

The winning team was: E. MacLoughlin (Capt.); J. Crowley, W. Barry (goal); D. Ahern, J. Ahern, M. Ahern, C. Ahern, R. Rumley, E. Shanahan, D. Shaughnessy, D. Power, M. Millerick, M. Hayes, J. Cashman, G. Cashell.

Mr. Ben Purcell, Chairman, East Cork Board, G.A.A. proved an impartial referee.
