KILMAGTHOMAS NEWS.

The Metal Man Writes—
If you are one of those people who cannot conceive a thing unless it is set down before your optics, then the delights of the armchair cruise are not for you. But if the good fairies remembered to endow you with imagination (that inward eye which is the bias of solitude) then you are my man; you are capable of going far even though you haven't the price of a ticket to Tramore and back. Never mind, you are going to scorn lace and you are going to annihilate distance.

Come now, ensconce yourself comfortably in an armchair (or a deck chair if you have one) near to an open window where you will feel the wind (if there is any) fanning your cheeks. This wind, you understand, is not an ordinary domesticated wind; not at all; it is one of the trade winds, or the south-west monsoon (which depends on where you have elected to voyage to).

By the open window you should have suspended a sizable spray of seaweed which has been well soaked in water, so that when the wind blows the salt spray will sting your cheeks and the tang of the ozone fill your nostrils as you sit with your feet on your drawing-room or bed-sitting-room carpet.

To avoid being too cognisant of this piece of window drape and of your surroundings in general, it is well to wear a pair of dark green or blue-tinted sunglasses. If you must feel the heaving and swaying of the ship there are, I believe, certain beverages that can realistically produce this illusion.

You are now ready. Light your pipe and take up your book (I should have mentioned this first). The book must be a travel book, one describing a sea voyage; you have your pick of scores of them at any free library. The book (represents your ticket for the trip, and it will secure your safe passage to the Canary Islands, the Norwegian fjords, the South Seas or the Malay Archipelago.

I myself have just spent a glamorous week-end in the Orient, having looked in at Penang, Nagasaki, Yokohama, Tokyo (where I had lemon coloured tea with almond-eyed geisha girls), Java, Macassar, Samarang, and a lot of other sun-drenched countries and coral islands.

I have reclined on the long white deck under the glare of the tropic sun gazing entranced on the shimmering blue mirror of the infinite ocean and the luminous opalescent sky, and listening to the sweet monotonous chant of the screw. I have hung over the rail watching the coaling of the ship at night in Mediterranean waters. I have crept through the Suez Canal with the big searchlight in our bows pushing back the thick enveloping darkness. I have beaten up the China seas in the teeth of a gale, and I have seen a whale harpooned. I have glided past low, low tropical shores, flanked to the very edge by the dark impenetrable forest.

mensely refreshed and my mind is a kaleidoscope of exotic scenes and colours. I didn't suffer from seasickness, sunstroke, prickly heat, or mosquito bites, while the smells of some of those hot lands didn't discommode me in the least. Really the armchair cruise is the only perfect cruise. All the advantages, none of the inconveniences.

I made this particular voyage via "The Surgeon's Log" (a 6d. "Penguin" book) and I hope to take many more such voyages this season with the help of my seaweed, my sun goggles, and a spanking wind from the coonocuse or the pad (no, not "after hours" though!). It's the most economical way of seeing the world when all's said and done.

Anestown Anne Writes—
Most of us are, at some time, called upon to fill in a form or a coupon. It may be some absurd form in connection with the dole, or it may be a free sample coupon. Whatever it is we are usually requested to "state whether 'Mr., Mrs., or Miss." Why "Mr." should come first, I don't know, but one of these days we may find it will merely be necessary to decide whether we are "Mr." or "Madam." It has been suggested, quite recently, that the titles "Mrs." and "Miss" should be replaced by "Madam."

Such a radical change, of course, can scarcely hope to be effected overnight. It was only during the last two or three hundred years that these two titles came to be used. Before that there were no 'Misses and no 'Missuses. If you didn't know enough about the lady to permit of your calling her "Julia," or, if she hadn't already winked at you, you just called her "Mistress Julia" and let her go at that. "Mistress" was the title that applied to single ladies as well as to married ones, and even small girls were called that. The present titles, of course, make a distinction between married and single ladies and it's over this distinction that this great controversy, like so many other great controversies, is raging. In this case elderly spinsters are, as it were, the bone of bones of contention.

At first sight I am inclined to agree with the suggestion. The title "Miss" does sound strange. After all, many spinsters are misinformed, misdirected and mistaken. Some few are misjudged and misinterpreted. Several, sad to state, are "misbehaved." And one, I know, a landlady, seems to have been misled. Surely that's enough without the label—"Miss."

On the other hand, "Madam" sounds stiff for girls. But nothing will make me advise "Miss" for the youthful and "Madam" for the aged. I appreciate that hope, as the poet hath it, springs eternal in the human breast; spinsters never are, but always hope to be, married. I cannot, therefore, bring in that fatal distinction of age. So, being fully conscious of my heavy responsibility in the matter and of all that rests upon my final decision, I shall, as the turf experts say, take a chance with "Madam," for young and old, married and self-supporting. I'll leave it to them to make the distinction known when and how they please.

And yet, methinks, this talk of distinctions has struck a mournful note. It all seems so futile. Married men, I bethink me, are not distinguished from single men by any title. Does the absence of such a title remove the distinction? When a rag-and-bone man or a sarcastic neighbour calls my friend Mike Moustache "Mr.," he does not, thereby, reveal to the world and to you the gulf that separates Mike from his lost youth. But what can restore to Mike's face the grin that is pictured on that little old photo behind the clock? That's a photograph of the said Mike, children, of Mike Moustache long ago. At least it's half a photo; SHE took the other half to stop a noisy window sash. With all your "mistering" the grin has gone; the gulf remains. And it's plain to be seen.

And, one day, you will meet Mike on the thoroughfare; will observe the prints of tiny fingers on his collar, the bread and jam on his hair. You will see also the long, sooty scar of an early morning iron tonic on his brow and you will say simply—"Ah, my friend, I see you, too, are a family man."

That the Tramore Golf Club intend to continue (weather permitting) their series of Sunday open fixtures?
That the marriage arranged between Frank, elder son of Mr. Thomas B. Smyth, of Waterford City, and Catherine, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Flynn, Rocklands, Tramore, will take place at the Parish Church of the Holy Cross, Tramore, early next month?
That on her latest arrival at Waterford Quay, the ss. Rockabill disembarked the remains of the late Mr. Michael O'Brien, of Tramore?

That the deceased, who was in his 57th year, spent all his life at sea, and worked on many of the great liners plying between England and far away ports?

That large numbers of his fellow townsmen accompanied the funeral to the family burial plot in Holycross Churchyard?

That at the Clonmel Open Tennis Tournament, just concluded, Miss Stella McEnery and Mr. M. Harpur, of Tramore, gave a very good account of themselves in competition with crack players from Cork and other South of Ireland centres?

That active preparations are in progress for the holding of a Carnival Week in Tramore from the 22nd to the 30th proximo?

That, appreciative of the fact that Waterford and Tramore have of late become boxing-minded, the newly-formed Carnival Committee, with praiseworthy initiative, has decided to include a tournament wherein devotees of the fistic art will be accorded ample opportunity of publicly exhibiting their pugilistic prowess?

That this particular phase of the card of the coming Carnival is being entrusted to the capable charge of the Garda Siochana?

That the Tramore Branch of the Provincial Bank has been appointed the Carnival Committee's Bankers?
That Messrs. Joseph Harpur and T. P. Henry are the Committee's hon. treasurers?

SETTLEMENT OF A CLAIM

CO. WATERFORD CASE

Action For Return Of Money

A settlement was announced before Mr. Justice Johnston in the High Court, Dublin, on Tuesday, in an action in which John Coleman, retired farmer, The Pike, Knockan, Tallow, Co. Waterford, sued in his personal capacity, and as personal representative of his late brother, Michael Coleman, for a declaration that the defendants, Patk. McCarthy, farmer, Glenagloagh, Tallow, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Ann McCarthy, received from plaintiff and the late Michael Coleman, within the past six years, certain moneys as trustees for the plaintiff and his late brother. The plaintiff also sought an account of the money, which he claimed was due to him.

It appeared from the statement of claim that in 1931 the plaintiff and his late brother transferred to Patrick McCarthy two farms in consideration, amongst other matters, of their being supported by the defendants. It was further stated that from time to time the plaintiff and his late brother had withdrawn money from the bank and given it to the defendants for safe keeping. The plaintiff now claimed the return of this money, which was stated to total about £1,000.

Mr. Michael J. Ryan, K.C., who with Mr. Walter Molony (instructed by Messrs. John L. Keane and Son, solrs.) appeared for the plaintiff, said that the defendants had met the plaintiff in a way that he considered was fair, and had consented to judgment for £800, and a sum for costs.

Mr. Justice Johnston received the consent, and made it a rule of court.

Mr. Budd, who with Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald, K.C., (instructed by Messrs. E. A. Ryan and Co., solrs.) appeared for the defendants, said that the plaintiff and his late brother were old, and had become unable to look after their farms. They came to look after them for the rest of their days, and the defendants said that these moneys were given to them as gifts by way of compensation for the trouble they had taken. The defendants had expended a considerable sum on behalf of these old men, and had claimed credit for that. Of course, matters had been settled up satisfactorily.

Mr. Justice Johnston said that Mr. Ryan had made no reflections whatever on the defendants, and everybody ought to be satisfied with what had happened.

months for the completion of the work. The Council agreed to the proposed extension. The other matters were referred to Mr. Lonergan, the Council's Engineer, for a consultation with Messrs. O'Reilly.

PRIESTS AND NUNS IN SPAIN

THEIR GREAT WORK

By Rev. P. J. Gannon, S.J.

The charge of wealth so freely made against the martyred Church in Spain is as false as the crude absurdity of the gun-woman nun, said Rev. P. J. Gannon, S.J., when he delivered a talk on the wealth of Spain by the Rev. P. J. Gannon, S.J.

Father Gannon said that within a month of the outbreak of the civil war in Spain some 5,000 clerics had been butchered; hundreds of nuns had shared the same fate, and many others a fate more terrible still; while lay Catholics perished in incalculable numbers.

The accusation of wealth against the Church was always vague and general and was quite unsubstantiated. He had questioned at least a score of Spaniards from all parts of Spain, and not one of them had ever seen the mythical Church estates anywhere.

In 1835 an anti-clerical Ministry stripped the Church of all its possessions, and dispersed the Orders. By the Concordat of 1857 the clergy were paid small salaries as compensation.

The religious Orders returned gradually, but they never acquired any land worth speaking of. Their schools lacked playgrounds, or had small enclosures miserably inadequate.

It could be said confidently that the Church of Spain was not a landlord, great or small. It possessed no more territory than the area covered by its buildings, with an enclosed garden or a few acres of vineyard, olive-grove, pasturage, or tillage.

The chief glory of Spain, said Father Gannon, was its magnificent temples, now in ruins where the Reds hold sway. The chief cultural blot was its dearth of schools, hospitals, sanatoria, and the like.

The Orders living in communities under a vow of poverty could maintain their status and even enjoy frugal comfort very cheaply. Their complete upkeep would not exceed £50 or £60 per head per annum on an average in a land where living was not dear.

The common funds of the Orders went to the building, upkeep, staffing, and running of thousands of schools, hospitals, including leper hospitals—asylums, homes of refuge, etc. The most religious institutions ever received from the State was toleration. Yet they accomplished some remarkable things.

For example, they educated, without a penny from the Treasury, over 600,000 children in their schools—that is, about 50 p.c. of those who got any education at all.

The brothers of St. John of God conducted their Madrid work was perhaps the largest asylum in Europe. It was from this that on the outbreak of the civil war, militia men in lorries seized the whole community of 62 and murdered them to the last man. They also had another large asylum near Barcelona, where the Brothers were mobbed, but not slain, and an orthodox hospital for boys at Calas, a Spanish Capuchin, where again the Brothers were mobbed and their places taken by women without qualifications or morals.

A large community of nuns near Alicante who conducted a leper hospital, a hospice for the dying like that at Harold's Cross, a home for the old and infirm, like that near Kilmalmain, were seized and kicked down the steps of their building, which was then set on fire.

Father Gannon went on to quote from a letter from the Cardinal Archbishop of Toledo, in which the Cardinal stated that the Church had no real property and no capital invested in industrial concerns.

"We may conclude," he said, "that beyond the glorious ministers, mostly centuries old, with their priceless heirlooms, which were doubly inalienable by Canon Law and the law of the land, the Church of Spain possessed relatively little wealth, and used what it did possess in the interests of the poor, the ignorant, and the suffering."

An Unfounded Rumour—A rumour was circulated within the past fortnight that "Water Dean," the famous and well-bred stud dog owned by Mrs. M. Walsh "Walsh's Hotel," Cappoquin, has died recently, but we are glad to say that there was no foundation, whatever, for such a rumour, as the animal is still very much alive, and in perfect health at present.

One of his best pups, "Autumn Dawning," owned by Mr. Walsh, Kilmachomas, which won two races a short time ago on the Clonmel, Greyhound Racing Track, died recently from strangulation in his kennel, which may have given rise to the above rumour; but two other pups by "Water Dean" both untried, were bought for £20 each at Clonmel on Tuesday.

SOUTH ABBEY SCHOOL, YOUGHAL

Interesting Function

A very interesting and pleasing function took place in the South Abbey School, Youghal, in connection with the presentation of prizes and certificates awarded to pupils of the school by various public bodies.

Among the others on the platform were Col. H. S. Roch, representing the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, Rev. Z. Miller, Rev. M. Ludlow and Miss Vance, N.T.

The Rev. Chairman having opened the proceedings with prayer, paid a glowing tribute to the pupils and their able teacher, Miss Vance, for the brilliant success they had achieved and extended on behalf of all present warm congratulations to the parents of the successful pupils.

Work, with a capital "W." If they desired to win in the battle of life they should continue to work. They need not become slaves to it. All work and no play might make Jack a dull boy; all play and no work would make him a duller. Don't slack. They should be very careful of the friendships they formed and never do or say anything that their mothers would not be proud of.

Thoughts produced actions; action habits; habits character, and character was what told best in life and eternity. Concluding, he appealed to them to remember him saying "in all thy ways, remember Him and He shall direct thy path."

The Rev. Chairman then called upon Col. Roche, who read the Report of the "Lifeboat Essay competition." 189 schools had taken part in the competition and Albert Cole was successful in securing a prize (applause). That was the third year in succession that a prize had been awarded to their school. He had much pleasure, acting on behalf of the Lifeboat Institution in presenting their brilliant young friend with an Illuminated Certificate and Book, and he sincerely congratulated both him and his teacher on his outstanding success, having also won 3rd prize out of a total of 600 competitors in the school Essay Competition organised by the "Irish Animals' Protection League." (applause).

Miss Vance, who was warmly received, thanked all present for their kind cooperation and especially the Rev. Messrs. McCartney and Miller and Col. Roch, for their valuable help. The result of the Junior Foundation Scholarship Examination was that Alec Fowkes, secured 1st place in Munster, which entitled him to one of the two foundation scholarships. He obtained 3rd place in Ireland and 2nd in the Free State. He took 1st place in Arithmetic with full marks—100%. He was only 44 marks under the candidate who took 1st place. At the same Examination Betty Westbury, won an assistance scholarship out of a total of five scholarships for Munster candidates. Concluding, Miss Vance, very sincerely congratulated the children and parents on those excellent results and said she would not call them "model" pupils, as according to the Dictionary a "model" is only an imitation of the real thing. (laughter and applause).

The Rev. Chairman next called on their "very dear old friend," Rev. Mr. Miller, to present the prizes.

Rev. Mr. Miller, said, as an old Youghal man, it gave him real pleasure to take part in that pleasing function. He congratulated his dear young friends on their success and said he hoped they would continue the good work they had so well begun.

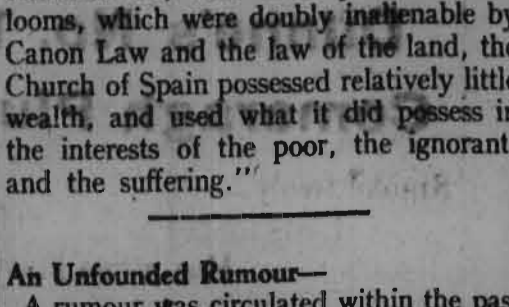

He then presented the prizes, etc., The pupils entertained the visitors to a programme including the following items: Recitation "A Fisherman's Appeal," Albert Cole; "Duke of Kent's Appeal," Alec Fowkes; Chorus "Jolly Sailors."

Col. Roch asked them all to take note of the fact that Lifeboat Flag Day fell on August 11th and he made an earnest appeal to all to help in the good work of making a record collection.

The Rev. Chairman bringing the proceedings to an end said he feared Col. Roch would not be happy, even in Heaven, as there would be no lifeboat there (applause, and laughter).

DEATH OF MRS. K. CLIFFE, CARRIGAUN, MODELIGO

The news of the death of Mrs. K. Cliffe, Carrigaun, Modeligo, on Saturday last, was received with feelings of deep regret and sorrow over a wide area. Deceased was well-known and held in the highest esteem by all who had the pleasure of being acquainted with her. Of a kindly, unassuming disposition, generous and warm-hearted, she was beloved in the family circle, where her example as a good Catholic mother was reflected in the respect and esteem in which her family are held.

The late Mrs. Cliffe, had not been in the best of health for some time and her death came at a comparatively early age. She spent the greater part of her life in Carrigaun, Modeligo where she carried on farming on an extensive scale.—R.I.P.

The remains were removed to Touraneena Church on Sunday evening, and despite the inclemency of the weather it was the largest funeral seen in the neighbourhood for many years. The large number of people from far and near who attended to pay their last tribute to a worthy member of a highly-respected stock manifested clearly the esteem entertained for the deceased lady and the other members of her family.

Interment took place after Requiem Mass on Monday morning in the presence of a very large gathering of relatives, friends and sympathisers.

Numerous Mass cards and letters and telegrams of sympathy were received by the bereaved family.

MINOR HURLING—At the Gaelic Field, Dungarvan, on Sunday evening last, Dungarvan and St. Anne's met in minor hurling. The game proved to be very exciting from the start. Good hurling was displayed by both teams. Dungarvan were well away in the start, Sheridan goaling twice and then had a point per N. Morrissey, further scores came from Kelly and Sheridan, and shortly afterwards Skehan goalled for St. Anne's, Halpin following with a further major. Dempsey then put Dungarvan attacking and L. Morrissey scored a goal. Skehan replied with a like score for St. Anne's. Further scores were secured by both sides before the long whistle sounded leaving the final scores—
Dungarvan ..... 7-3
St. Anne's ..... 4-1

THE SOCIAL CLUB, ABBEYSIDE—ANNUAL EXCURSION—The members of the Abbesside Social Club held their annual excursion on Sunday last and it proved the most enjoyable day ever spent by the members. Considering that the club is only a few years started it speaks volumes for the members of the Committee, and especially for Mr. J. Burke, President, Mr. J. Organ, Treasurer and Mr. W. Burke, Secretary, that the members as well as getting a free trip and luncheon, each received a bonus on the year's takings. Youghal was the unanimous selection of the members for this year's outing and when the two buses arrived at Clancy's Hotel, on the Strand, they were indeed a very happy party. Coyne, S.J., Tullamore, and Rev. R. A. M. Crofts, O.P., S.T.L., Waterford. The function has the patronage of His Lordship, Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, who in a recent letter to Rev. Fr. J. M. Hayes, C.C., Chairman of the Organisation, said that it was with pleasure he heard that Munintir na Tire intended to hold a social week at Ardmore. He appreciated very much the efforts of the organisation for a better understanding between the different classes of society and for the spiritual and temporal advancement of the people. His Lordship concluded his letter by saying that he bid the members a hearty welcome to the diocese and he wished their deliberations very successful.

BOXING AT BOHADDOON—Patrons were treated to a most enjoyable afternoon's sport on Sunday evening last at Bohaddeen where a first-class boxing tournament was staged. The bouts, which included Catch, Feather, Bantam, Middle and Welter Weights, as well as Juvenile and Exhibition contests, were keenly contested, and some really clever boxing was served up.

At the conclusion of the contests Mr. Hayes, on behalf of the promoters thanked the boxers for their support and the fine display given by each of them. He also thanked the audience for attending in such big numbers and for the reception given by them in each bout. Referring to the small number of boxing clubs in the County, Mr. Hayes said it was a pity that there was not a boxing club in every parish in Ireland, as this fine manly game promotes a feeling of good fellowship; it gives a man confidence in himself as well as being a fine healthy exercise for our young men.

THE NEW DAIL—The New Dail met on Wednesday last, and Mr. de Valera, was again elected President by 82 votes to 52. Kerry, and was trained by Mr. Paddy Kelly, at his kennels, Kingsfield, Crumlin, Dublin. The purchase was made on behalf of Mrs. Cairns, wife of the Manager of Wimbledon Stadium, London. Mr. Kelly is popularly known in Coursing circles all over Ireland and we wish him further success with the longtails.

DUNGARVAN BRASS AND REED BAND—At a special meeting of the Brass and Reed Band Committee held in connection with the departure of Very Rev. M. F. Heame, P.P., President, on Tuesday 21st July, 1937, the following resolution was proposed by Mr. J. F. Foley, seconded by Mr. Dunne, and passed unanimously:—"That it is with feelings of great pleasure that we, the members of the Brass and Reed Band Committee have to refer in a vote, congratulatory on his appointment as P.P. of Ballyduff, and in another tenor regret at his passing from our midst. As our worthy President in an association to which during his term of office his services were given unstintingly. ### LISMORE NOTES

New Post Office.—Miss C. Pender, Ferry street, Lismore, has been appointed Post Office Mistress owing to the resignation of Miss Healy, Lismore.

The townspeople take this opportunity of wishing her every success in her new position.

The post office has been changed and it is expected that the new premises will be situated in South Mall, Lismore, which should prove an ideal and convenient centre for everyone.

G.A.A.—Next Sunday will be seen the long-awaited clash between Tallow and Ballyduff at Lismore in the Junior Hurling Championship of the County. Year after year these two teams so evenly matched provided a thriller, drawing on a few occasions and this time seeing that their neighbouring rivals Lismore have entered the Senior Hurling ranks they are both favourites as being the Champions of the County for 1937. Next Sunday will decide all, and the clash should prove a memorable one.

Lismore Sports.—A permit has been granted for the running of the Lismore Sports on Sunday, August 8th, so that the Committee are already engaged in the preparation of a completely new track and the drawing up of a programme which should suit every competitor. For full particulars see next week's "Observer."

American Visitors.—The influx of American visitors to Lismore has been the largest ever remember-

YOUGHAL MENTAL HOSPITAL

At the usual monthly meeting of the Committee of the above their attended Messrs. W. J. Broderick, Chairman, Alden, J. F. Daly, M. Buckley, Rev. D. Daane, A. and Dr. M. Twomey, P.C., Visiting Physician.

Before the meeting the members went over the Institution and expressed themselves pleased with everything they saw.

The doctors report was as follows:—

Since my last report there has been one death. Five patients are confined to bed on the male side of the house and seven on the female side, owing to debility and other causes. There has been no case of seclusion, restraint, injury or violence.

The water supply has been defective occasionally during the month. The food supplies have been satisfactory. There has been no case of zymotic disease at present in the Institution and the general health is excellent.

The Manager's Report stated that since last meeting 2 male patients had been admitted from the Cork Mental Hospital and one male patient died, leaving in residence at present a total of 428 (240 men and 177 women). The bed was rejected on the 20th ult., but a satisfactory supply was sent next morning. The water supply had been unsatisfactory as to quantity during the month, and on the 6th inst., the supply was insufficient for the usual work. The Insurance Inspectors Report of Boilers, steam-Engines and Electrical plant was submitted, and instructions were required re repairs to No. 2 boiler, as recommended by the Inspector. Cheques value £54 7s. 5d., had been received for the sale of 10 pigs and £10 17s. towards the maintenance of patients, which sums had been lodged to the credit of the Mental Hospital Account.

It was decided to call on the Urban Council to expedite the laying of the new main as promised.

USE OF POISON GAS IN WAR

Strong Condemnation By Medical Men

The one hundred and fifth annual meeting of the British Medical Association began at Belfast on Thursday last. Many of the State medical men have arrived in the city for the meeting. It is almost thirty years since the B.M.A. last visited Belfast, and on this occasion a well-known local man, who is also a Queen's University representative in the Six County Parliament, is President. That honour has been conferred on Professor R. J. Johnston, and he succeeds Sir E. Farquhar Buzzard, Bart., K.C.V.O., L.L.D., D.M.F.R., C.P., (Ed.) Oxford, who is physician to King George VI.

Most of the business dealt with in the morning session concerned matters entirely Greek to the layman. The one motion which aroused any enthusiasm in the early session was one dealing with general practitioners. The Manchester Branch moved that a Standing Committee be formed to deal specially with general practitioners' work and to be composed of general practitioners.

The motion was defeated by a large majority.

The question of non-nationals of the refugee type also discussed, and it was announced that the number of applications received from such for the nine months from October, 1936, to June, 1937, was twenty-six, or 1.9 per cent. of the total. The British Home Office would issue no further permits to foreigners.

Chemical Warfare

The opening sessions were marked by a discussion on chemical warfare and anti-gas measures. Doctor Leslie W. Jones, proposed, and Doctor E. T. Jones, seconded, a motion calling on the Council to do all in its power to secure co-operation with the medical profession in all countries in order to secure the prohibition of the use of poison gas in war, which they regarded as inhuman in its results and degrading to civilisation. If necessary, a special committee should be set up with the B.M.A. to deal with the matter. The meeting unanimously agreed to the motion.

The Chairman of the Science Section, Sir Ewen MacLean, in the course of a report on his section, read a letter from the British Home Office in connection with anti-gas measures and the prohibition of chemical warfare, in which it was stated that it was not agreed that there was a divergence of opinion among competent persons as to the value of the measures proposed by the Government for the protection of the public. The Government had the assistance of expert scientists, who had made a life-time study of defensive precautions against poison gas. These scientists were able to avail of those services and facilities which only the Government could provide. Eminent scientists from the universities were also acting in an advisory capacity.

Doctor J. P. Sharley, Dublin, has been nominated for the Council by all the Free State branches, including Munster.

The Home Office in a letter read to the British Medical Association meeting in Belfast, gave assurances that civilian types of gas-masks would give protection against all gases that could be employed in time of war. Assertions that some smoke would penetrate respirators were without foundation, it was stated, and respirators having been tested with concentrated gases stronger than could be reproduced in time of war. It was also stated that the shutting of windows and doors in a reasonably built house would provide "quite a modicum of protection."

FROM COW TO BOTTLE

A Complete Milking System which Eliminates Handling and Simplifies Sterilization

Dairymen, when considering the possibilities of mechanical milking, sometimes contend that if the milk of each cow is weighed and checked and every portion of the machine in which the milk comes in contact is taken down and sterilized, it will be found that the labour saved by the machine over hand milking is hardly worth considering. A visit, however, to the Ballymacarney Dairy Farm, The Ward, County Dublin, will very soon dispel that idea.

On Mr. P. F. Cannon's farm at milking time last week, his Alfa-Laval Six-Unit Combine-Recorder Milking Plant was operating so effectively that the production of high-grade milk looked remarkably easy, every action being performed quietly and rapidly. The cows came along of their own accord a one-way passage, were washed, took their place automatically in the milking stalls, the operator released their portion of concentrated food to the troughs, the test-cups were placed in position and the milk flowed gently from the udder to the glass holder—where it is weighed and recorded and passed on under vacuum through a stainless steel pipe to the dairy room to be automatically cooled and bottled.

After milking, each cow passes out by a separate passage to the fields and another cow stands ready for the machine to do its work. The milk is never handled nor is it exposed to air, and I was not in the least surprised to learn that tests of the bacterial content of the Ballymacarney farm's milk have shown remarkably low bacterial counts.

Mechanical milking, I was informed has resulted in reducing labour to a very considerable extent. On Mr. Cannon's farm the Combine-Recorder milks about 90 cows in 14 hours; the cows are not stripped; cleaning and sterilizing operations are simple and quickly performed; in fact a special feature of the plant is that it can be sterilized without dismantling, the washing and steaming panel being probably the most effective method yet devised of sterilising a milker of the Recorder type, as steam is injected under pressure.

A Combine Milking Plant of the Alfa-Laval type—and it is really a system rather than a plant—provides one of the finest possible advertisements for the producer who supplies high-grade milk to the public. Visitors cannot fail to note the care which is taken to keep the milk from contact with any possible source of contamination and a demand for milk that is pure, clean and wholesome is thus created. The first machine of this type was installed by the Department of Agriculture in the United States in 1928, and since then it has been operating without a single interruption. Thousands of these machines are in use across-Chanel and I believe their worth is now becoming generally recognised in Ireland.—"Farmers' Gazette."

KEEP PIGS THRIVING ALL THE TIME

Any sort of unthriftiness in young pigs should be noted at once. Prompt remedies are always advisable, even if it is merely a case of mild indigestion. Take care not to feed anything that is likely to disagree with the pigs. Any signs of an abnormal appetite should give rise to suspicion that intestinal worms may be present.

Healthy and well-fed pigs will generally retire to their beds where they will rest contentedly until the next feeding time. If they do not do this there is something wrong with the pigs or the quantity or quality of the food is left in the trough and the pigs seem dissatisfied, the food is probably not of a very well-balanced kind. It may be somewhat stale or unwholesome. Pigs will not eat every kind of garbage, and the nearer they approach to a condition of marketable fatness the more dainty their appetite becomes. Care must be taken in pushing on the porkers neither to overfeed nor to give them food that is too rich.

If pigs are fed too largely on grain meals deficient in protein or body-building material they are apt to be stunted in growth, for the bones, muscles, and organs of the body are not developed properly. Such pigs may become excessively fat—too fat, in fact, for either pork or bacon—but they will be dwarfed in size and will not make the same weight as pigs of the same age that have been well fed on a well-balanced ration. Pigs should grow in size rather than fatten. In a well-grown pig, when fat, there is a goodly percentage of red lean meat, whereas one that has been overfed or fed too much upon starchy foods will yield a carcass of what may be described as "blubber fat." The earlier months of the pig's life must be devoted to the growth of bone, muscle, and strong internal organs.—"Farmers' Gazette."

SUPPLEMENTING HOME-GROWN FEEDING STUFFS

Timely Provision for Catch Crops

The Department of Agriculture desires to impress upon farmers the wisdom of making timely provision for the growing of catch crops to supplement the other home-grown feeding stuffs during the period of comparative scarcity that is usually experienced in the late spring, when the winter reserves of fodder are becoming exhausted and the new season's grass has not advanced in growth sufficiently to afford a reasonable amount of keep for live stock.

If catch crops are to be ready for use from, say, the beginning of April, onwards preparations for first sowing should be made after early potatoes have been dug. Most of the cereal crops, vetches, rape, hardy green turnips, cabbages and Italian rye grass are suitable for sowing as catch crops; the choice of crop depending to a large extent on the district. In Northern counties, rye, if sown as early as possible in August does very well on account of its hardiness, and is usually fit for cutting in early April; and Italian rye-grass, when sown in time and topped with nitrogenous manure, produces a heavy cutting in the latter part of April. Where a second cutting is desired a mixture of rye, vetches and Italian rye-grass proves very suitable. In the milder climates of the southern districts either winter oats or wheat mixed with vetches makes better feeding than rye, especially in the later stages when the rye becomes woody. Rape sown in July for Autumn consumption by sheep, if suitably topped, produces a second cutting in spring.

CARRICK-ON-SUIR MAN'S DEATH IN ENGLAND

News has reached Carrick-on-Suir of the death in sad circumstances in England of James Lamigan, a labourer, who secured employment at road making in England a short time ago.

He received severe burns when he was overcome by fumes of a road mixture of tar and other substances. He died from shock and burns. His wife went to England to live with him recently.

G.A.A. CRUX IN CAPPOQUIN

(To The Editor of the "Observer.")

Dear Sir, - The members of the Cappoquin Hurling and Football Club desire to express through the columns of the "Observer" their deep regret for any financial loss which was incurred by the members of the club on last Sunday...

The blame for the loss of this match to Cappoquin cannot be laid on the shoulders of the members of the local Hurling and Football Club, as it was due, entirely, to a set of circumstances over which they had no control.

The following are the circumstances: - The local G.A.A. Club had rented the field in March this year on the understanding that the terms would be the same as those in operation during the season of 1936.

When we offered this sum to Mr. M. F. Walsh, Hon. Sec., of the Field Committee, he refused it on the grounds that it was insufficient, which we considered was a poor mark of appreciation for our generosity.

CO. COUNCIL OF WATERFORD - Notice to Ratepayers - Ratepayers are hereby notified that the Rates for the year ending 31st March, 1938 are now payable.

MID-DEISE MEMS. - Bonmahon Horse and Pony Races are coming off on Thursday of next week on the extensive copper-coloured beach fronting the famous old village.

PORTLAW "PICKINGS"

The Marquess of Waterford, who was four years old on Wednesday last week, succeeded to the title when his father, the seventh Marquess died in 1934.

Nice to note that the local Leather Factory is steadily increasing its weekly output. The raw material is shipped direct from Liverpool to Waterford, from whence it is conveyed by lorry to the Tannery.

We are reliably informed that under the direction and supervision of experts from the Afforestation Department, tree planting on a very large scale will soon be carried out in Carrigrohane to replace the thousands of trees that have been cut down for the past two and a half years by a Scottish firm of timber merchants.

The heavy condition of the soil, as the result of the heavy rainfall, detracted somewhat from the game, which nevertheless was a first rate exhibition of our great National pastime.

To praise it even moderately would be to arouse suspicion or lack of balance, for those who did not witness it cannot be blamed for failing to appreciate its entrancing progress.

MOONCOIN, ERIN'S OWN, MOUNT SION, PORTLAW, and the Carrick Swans, will be figuring in a S.H. Tournament (for a valuable set of medals), which is being promoted by the local Gaels...
