Great News for Gardening Enthusiasts

Carters Tented Seeds are now available everywhere in packets costing only fourpence. This is the best news that gardening enthusiasts have heard yet. Up to now Carters Seeds were somewhat above the desire of all but those who were prepared to pay well for an outstanding show of ilowers in their gardens. In the spacious grounds of manors and castles, Carters Tested Seeds grew and bloomed in their wonderful richness—all around the world Carters Seeds have made big gardens beautiful.

The Gaelic year will commence in West Waterford on Sunday 13th inst., when the draws for the first round of the County Championships will take place in the Town Hall, Dungarvan, at 2.0 p.m.

There are signs of great activity in West Waterford this year. Several new clubs have been formed and many old ones reorganised. From the Cork and Tipperary borders right down the county to the boundary line of East Waterford inquiries are being sent in and club Secretaries are securing players and arranging transfers and where necessary reinstatements for their members. The competition in all grades promises to be keen and Gaelic code lovers can be sure of a great year.

Artists will include:

Featherstone (Contralto; Mr. Jim Keohan (Tenor); Mr. M. Ryan (Baritone); Misses S. Crawley (Accordeon); Monica Stokes (Recitations); Mr. Mark (Recitations), and Mr. and Mrs.

Bulfin (Duet).

butter on the British market during 1937 crease in prices, commencing now, canwas largely due to the increased purchas- not have any very noticeable effect until ing power brought about by better trade conditions generally is shown by the fact that the imports of butter from all countries were only 31 per cent less than in test of time and changing world circumnewal of the licence on behalf of Mr. 1936. In the latter year Britain imported stances better than any other branch of Simon J. Moynihan, Commissioner in 471,000 tons against 478,600 in 1936. Despite the adverse tariffs imposed by the soil and climate and it fits well into our climatic conditions affecting that country to a greater extent than any of the others.

The smaller exporters: Latvia, Sweden, Esthonia, had trifling increases. Ireland, unfortunately, shows the heaviest per unfortunately, shows the heaviest per latvia and they are looking for the sometimation of beet will be somewhat increased. Wheat is steadily adapted beyond the guaranteed brice. The butter maker must not, therefore, be left in the lurch.

There was a counter claim by defendant against plaintiff for £7 8s. for damages to his car on the occasion.

Mr. Shannon, solr., Clonmel, appeared for plaintiff. porary nature, but there can be little doubt that the main reason is that prices of dalry products have not for some time been advancing in proportion to the prices of other agricultural products. It would not, of course, be correct to attribute the of prices for 1938. Nobody can any with the car and was within about 30 yards of it at Ballymacarbry. After passing through Ballymacarbry he was still about 30 yards from the rere of the at Thurles, at a great disadvantage in not being in a position to estimate the trend which he took to be a bicycle and pulled in the car and was within about 30 yards of it at Ballymacarbry. After passing through Ballymacarbry he was still about 30 yards from the rere of the car. He saw a light coming against him which he took to be a bicycle and pulled in the car and was within about 30 yards of it at Ballymacarbry. After passing through Ballymacarbry he was still about 30 yards from the rere of the car. He saw a light coming against him which he took to be a bicycle and pulled in the car and was within about 30 yards of it at Ballymacarbry.

Hence it is certain that the prices paid for milk in 1935 and 1936—4d. and 41d. per gallon—had more to do with the decline in 1937 than the prices (41d to 5d.) paid last year. It may be that the producers or those who represented them in the producers or those who represented them in the producers or those who represented them in the producers are the producers or those who represented them in the producers or those was dazed, and when he came to, he found the Sergeant and Mr. O'Shea there. No one suggested that his headlight was not in order. The car in front had no rere light.

To Mr. McGuire, B.L.—He got between the two cars at Kilmanahan and remained the producers or those who represented them in the producers or those who represented them in the producers or those who represented them in the producers of the producers or the producers of the produce in the dairying side, in the cereal department and in other crops would have to be ascertained as nearly as possible. The food and a reasonable increase in price will not deter them from buying it or cause them to make any reduction in the there was a car behind as he could see should correspond with the gross total re-ceipts and expenses of the farm. The total Kilcronat, Tallow—

The death of Mr. Thomas McCarthy, the entire profit (or loss) of the farm, and this again must correspond with improvement or disimprovement of the general position at end of the year as shown by the difference between assets and liabilities, taking into account capital expenditure, such as drainage and machinery, and money spent on education of children, none of which can, of course, be charged as expenses. The balance sheet showing on one side all property, stock, etc., and on the other side the debts and liabilities on a given date is the acid test of any business.

When one considers that many factory owners and other business men—some in a fairly large way and keeping accurate accounts of all their transactions—have no costing system and cannot tell, with any reasonable precision, what profit or loss they are making on particular sections of the stock place and the family burial plot the care was abreast of witness he had his hand with took place at his residence Kilcronat, Tallow—

The death of Mr. Thomas McCarthy, which took place at his residence Kilcronat, Tallow—occasioned the deepest symming that the defendant to stop as he got a signal from a Guard further down the signalled defendant to stop as he got a signal from a Guard further down the road. Defendant would be about 100 yards off at the time he signalled. The car went about 20 yards beyond witness, and stopped in on its proper side. The falling-off in the total production of Irish butter, as revealed by the reduced exports for 1937, following a previous reduction in 1936, is one of the main arguments for a review of the stabilised price figure and it is an argument which cannot be ignored. There is, of course, also the contention—undoubtedly quite sound—not materially affect the position, though in the aggregate their exports of butter are considerable. It looks, therefore, as if increases in supplies from some quarters will be more than offset by reductions from others. On the other hand, the improved conditions in Great Britain, causing increased purchasing power, are likely to continue for some time to come. These conditions are, of course, due in a large bulb on that evening.

It may, however, be stated, with the utmost confidence, that no importial calculation of the cost of milk production would alone justify the fixing of 4jd, per gallon (equal to 6d, for whole milk), the average which the creameries received for 1937. At the same time one must recognise that other factors have to be considered, such as the world prices, the demand on the taxpayer and the price to the home consumer Each of these must have a certain influence on the price and the function of the Department is to so arrange.

PROSECUTION OVER A MOTOR

The Clerk read a letter from the Department calling for detailed particulars regarding applicants for allotments.

The Clerk said the procedure in connection with those allotments was most extraordinary and sumbersome. He had forwarded 18 certificates in triplicate, and now they were returned asking for additional information.

The Chairman said that those Government Departments seemed to have no statement.

Colonel Smith stated that he had tried to get the proper wide bands for the bands for the wheels, but was unable to do so, and as he had finished all his own work with the tractor, he had simply let it out to some outside farmers in order to give employment to Crowley, as he was finished with it himself at the time. He added that Crowley was unable to be present that of the politics I have no concern, and my point is ever such a small one.
