SUCCESSFUL SALE— Supt. Walsh, Dungarvan, prosecuted, and Mr. James Reilly, solr., appeared for the accused.

On Thursday last, April 7th, Messrs, Hayes and Sons, Auctioneers, Dungarvan, held a most successful sale of the the accused.

Mr. Reilly said he had to plead guilty on behalf of the accused. It was a rather serious case of assault and that could not be minimised, and the cause of it was the old story—drink. Accused was a house painter by trade and a very respectable man and an excellent tradesman until he gave way to drink. He had been drinking hard for some time past and though he was all right when sober, when he did take drink it had a very bad effect on him. Father Walsh, C.C., Dungarvan, had intended coming to the court to make a plea for the accused, but he was, una plea for the accused, but he was, unfortunately, unable to attend. Accused and his wife, as a result of the assault, trious tradesman. He reared a most result of the assault, and his wife, as a result of the assault, were separated at the moment, and very naturally it was the wish of the clergy to try to bring them together again. Accused told him (Mr. Reilly) that he had taken the pledge and that he was going to treat his wife properly in the future. In the circumstances he appealed to the Justice to deal with the accused as leniently as possible.

The remains were removed to the Parish Church, Dungaryan, on Thursday evening, and were followed by a representative cortege of mourners.

In the circumstances he appealed to the Justice to deal with the accused as leniently as possible.

Supt. Walsh said the accused acts the bully when he is drunk. The wife had been very seriously assaulted. She was badly beaten and her arms were kicked black and blue. The doctor said that one was in terror of her life wondering what would happen if the accused returned home. Father Walsh had told him (Superintendent) that morning that he intended attending the court, but that he found himself unable to attend. He had intended asking the Justice to deal with the accused as leniently as possible.

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS By "CROTOG."

Portlaw was en fête last Sunday for the big National League Football match be- WEST WATERFORD JUNIOR tween Carlow and Waterford. The weather was perfect, the surroundings ideal and the playing pitch splendidiy equipped down to the minutest detail. The Portlaw Gaels don't believe in doing things by halves and the thoroughness with which they had attended to everything is typical of their earnestness and enthusiasm. The crowd was big and gay and Gaelic, and thoroughly enjoyed the programme. It would be hard to say which were the most admired, the majestic Irish Pipers who played the teams on to the field or the stalwart footballers them-

It was a unique event in the G.A.A. history of Portlaw; never before had an intercounty match of such importance been housed there. Strange then to find that the Waterford Press had ignored the whole business; stranger still, to find that the ballers, but failed to stick the page from co-operating with the Portlaw Club were beaten by five points. from co-operating with the Portlaw Club were beaten by five points.

Abbeyside's junior hurling victory over their Dungarvan rivals was as decisive as it was sensational. Few would concede the newly organised village side a chance at all against an array of talent which included Jimmy Mountain, Jimmy Motoney, Jimmy Waters, Paddy Joe Morrissey and Co. Yet the infectious enthusiasm of Pakeen' and Sean Hayes carried all before it and they achieved the seemingly impossible in beating the hot favourites by margin of eleven points. No wonder that the "Boys of the Village" let themselves go in celebrating their triumph. They have just cause for pride. What price now the junior hurling stakes?

. . . The Pike won their way to the second round of the junior football championsh after a sturdy game with the Gaels of Ring. The victors, for whom young Daly played a 'star' game, will make the hottest of them travel in this competition.

At Lismore, Sarsfield's overcame Tallow after a sprightly though somewhat robust encounter, and brought back with them to Cork the massive Goulding Cup. Curley retired hurt early in the game, but Tallow, not a bit disconcerted, struggled manfully to the final whistle. Brennan was the big thorn in the side of the Tallow backs, and his ferocity decided the issue. The brothers Sheehan, especially "Pa'een," made valiant efforts to save the game, but the Corkmen would not be denied and Sarsfields on the run of the play well deserved their victory.
