TOURANEENA PAROCHIAL FUND
SUCCESSFUL CONCERT IN BALLINAMULT

A most enjoyable and interesting concert was held in Ballinamult on Sunday night in aid of the Touraneena Parochial Fund.

The concert was held in a large and well-ventilated hall, kindly given by the Manager, Mr. Callanane, and the Committee of the Knockmeal Co-Operative Society, to whom the Committee feels deeply grateful for their welcome and valuable co-operation in helping such a deserving object as the Parochial Fund.

The programme was of the most varied and attractive nature, and included instrumental music, songs, comedy and Irish step-dancing, every item being a treat which was loudly applauded by the large and enthusiastic audience.

The stage and hall were brilliantly lighted by electricity supplied by the plant of the Knockmeal Co-Operative Society, and the committee feels deeply grateful to Mr. Wm. Hickey, Engineer and Electrician of the Knockmeal Society, for the admirable manner in which he had carried out all the lighting arrangements.

All the Villierstown artists were conveyed to Ballinamult and back by the "Collen Bus" in charge of Mr. E. Fielding, Dungarvan, and they speak very highly of the comfortable and satisfactory manner in which this gentleman carried out his portion of the contract.

The large and well-appointed hall was filled to capacity, and the generous manner in which the concert was supported by all classes of the parishioners proved the great popularity enjoyed by Father Callanane as Pastor of this important parish.

Mr. E. Kirwan, Knockmeal, acted as announcer and M.C., and under his capable charge the entire programme was run off in the smoothest and most expeditious manner.

Mrs. Walsh, Touraneena, had kindly lent her valuable piano for the occasion on which all the accompaniments for the vocal items were played by the accomplished Miss Josephine O'Keefe, Villierstown, while the accompaniments for the dancing items were beautifully played on the violin by Miss Biddy Whelan, Beary's Cross, and Mr. P. Parker, Villierstown.

The programme was opened with a grand selection of classical music by the Villierstown Cellidhe Band, comprising Messrs. M. Kiernan (Uilleann Pipes), P. Parker, D. Callanane and Master Bobby McCabe (violins), and M. Merrin, Clarinet, Accordion, whose tuneful and well-harmonized performance was warmly applauded. The pretty song, "When It's Lamp-lighting Time In The Valley," was sung as a duet by the Misses Josephine and "Queenie" O'Keefe, Villierstown, the former playing the accompaniment on the piano while singing, and the sweet and effective manner in which it was rendered by these charming and talented young ladies won for them a loud and well-deserved encore.

Miss Berry Barron, Ballinamult, danced a Hornpipe in a very finished manner and was loudly applauded, after which a delightful selection of popular Irish air was given on two violins by the Misses Biddy and Kathleen Whelan, Beary's Cross, whose tuneful and harmonious performance stamped them as young musicians of a very high order.

In response to a loud encore, they had re-appeared, when they gave another masterly selection of high-class music, dancing an Irish jig, while playing the violins, without missing a note, and this remarkably clever performance proved the treat of the night and brought the accomplished young artists a veritable storm of applause from all.

Mr. Thomas Crowe, Junr., Villierstown, well sustained his part as a comedian by his spirited singing of "Phil the Fluters' Ball," for which he was warmly encored.

A delightful treat was next provided by the dancing of a Two-Hand-Reel by the Misses O'Flynn, The Square, Dungarvan, who proved themselves to be talented exponents of Irish step-dancing, and both young artists won the hearts of all by their clever and graceful performance.

Mr. D. Callanane, gave a rousing selection of popular Irish airs on the Piano-Accordion, in the course of which he proved himself to be a clever and finished performer. Mr. Joseph Connerly, N.T., Villierstown, scored a great success by his capital rendering of the comic song, "The Old Skilra Hat," which created roars of laughter, and in response to a loud and insistent encore, he sang "The Broken-Hearted Clown" with wonderful feeling and expression which proved his great versatility as a first-class entertainer.

A Four-Hand-Reel was beautifully danced by four local young ladies, the Misses Nell Barron, Peggy McCarthy, Mary and Kitty Croft, Ballinamult, the accompaniment being played on the violin by Miss Biddy Whelan, and this graceful and well-timed "Turn" proved a welcome treat and was loudly encored. The popular song, "The Low-Backed Car," was sung as a duet by the Misses "Queenie" O'Keefe and M. Sullivan, Villierstown whose sweet and well-trained voices blended beautifully, and both charming young artists received a great ovation for their tuneful and highly acceptable contribution. Master "Bobby" McCabe, Drumana, gave a high-class selection of music on the violin, which proved a most enjoyable performance, by such a juvenile artist, and he received a warm and well-deserved encore.

Miss Maureen Walsh, Ballinamult, danced a Hornpipe in a most graceful and well-timed manner which won for her roars of applause. The Misses Eileen and Kitty Croft next gave a beautiful musical selection on the violin, after which the young Misses O'Flynn, Dungarvan, rendered an Irish song, which they supplemented with an Irish jig. The beautiful dance, "The Garden of Delilah," was very cleverly executed by the Misses Berry Barron, Ballinamult, Rita Maicahy, do., and Kathleen Whelan, Beary's Cross, after which a most interesting and attractive "Turn" was provided by the Villierstown "Cowboy Troupe," including Messrs. J. Connerly, N.T., T. Crowe, T. Morrissey, P. Parker and J. Hally, in the course of which each had to sing a popular song, all the artists being very loudly applauded.

An Irish Hornpipe having been danced in perfect style by Miss Croft, Ballinamult, Mr. M. Merrin, Villierstown, presented a grand Irish air on the Chromatic Accordion in a manner which proved him to be a very clever and talented musician, and he was loudly applauded for his rare treat. The popular and pretty song, "Little Angelina," was very sweetly rendered as duet by the Misses O'Flynn and M. Sullivan, Villierstown, after which Mr. P. Parker, Villierstown, gave a sparkling selection of Irish airs on the violin. The lively and popular dance, "The Blackbird," was executed with great charm and grace by Miss Biddy Whelan, Beary's Cross, who proved herself a clever and finished exponent of Irish step-dancing.

A high-class Pianoforte selection by Miss Josephine O'Keefe, Villierstown, was warmly applauded, after which Miss Rita Maicahy, Crough, danced a Hornpipe in excellent style, which was followed by a popular song by Mr. E. Lonergan, Lackardara, who is the possessor of a very sweet and flexible tenor voice, and he was loudly encored.

Another local artist, Mr. J. Kirwan, Knockmeal, won great applause for his masterly singing of "Maid O' Mine," after which a sparkling Comedy, entitled "On The Run," and dealing with the days of the Black and Tans, was staged by the Villierstown Dramatic Class.

The characters were as follows:—"Biddy Muldoon" (Mr. J. Connerly, N.T.), "Matt Muldoon" (Mr. T. Crowe), "Police Sergeant" (Mr. P. Parker), "Rebels" (Messrs. T. Morrissey and J. Murphy).

THE TURNIP FLY OR FLEA BEETLE
Life, History, Habits and Control

In a B.E.C. talk in the "For Scottish Farmers" series, Dr. J. E. Cameron, speaking from the Edinburgh studio, discussed the life, history, habits, and control of the turnip fly, which is such a troublesome pest at times to farmers. Dr. Cameron in his interesting and instructive talk said:

Of all the insect pests of criferous crops none causes greater and more widespread loss to farmers than the diminutive turnip fly or flea beetle, which is no more than 1/10th inch in length. Small as it is, this insect makes up for its lack of size by the abundance of its numbers and the voracity of its appetites.

Before I discuss the annual cycle, habits and control of the turnip fly, let me remind you that the popular designation of the insect is "Turnip Fly," and not "Turnip Beetle," as the insect is not a fly but a beetle, and in the second place it attacks not only turnips but practically all cultivated cruciferous plants and a goodly number of wild ones as well, such as charlock. In recent years the insect has come to be known as the "Lesser Striped Flea Beetle," a name that serves to focus attention on two yellow stripes present on the back, contrasting sharply with the shiny black colour of the rest of the body, and helping in the insect's identification. As a true flea beetle the turnip fly displays those ordinary powers of jumping for which the flea beetles are justly notorious. The organs of propulsion are the powerful hind legs which readily project the insect through a distance of 18 inches, equal to more than 200 times its own length. Thus it contrives to escape from the threat of attention during the breeding season of the preceding year. It is not denied that warm weather in May and June is conducive to an early attack in the crop, but such warm weather can merely stimulate to activity insects that are already in existence; it does not create them. And so we are led to enquire how and where the turnip fly spends the winter. Obviously it would show that the flies which occur on the leaves of turnips in August and September gradually disappear with the approach of cold weather into convenient places of shelter, such as are provided by bark of trees, dead leaves, hedgerows, tufts of grass, stubble and bottoms of haystacks, and remain dormant all winter. The numbers which enter upon hibernation will of course depend on the suitability of breeding conditions during the previous summer, and likewise the numbers emerging from hibernation in spring will be determined by the weather conditions of the winter. Especially are those of spring important since insects are very susceptible to injury by exposure to frost after a period of warm weather which rouses them from hibernation.

The remarkable feature of the life cycle of the turnip fly is the longevity of its adult insect, which lives for almost a year. Appearing in August the fly feeds for a very short time on the leaves of the turnip before passing into its winter quarters, in which it remains for 3 months. It is only after feeding on the young plants in early summer that the fly becomes mature, and begins to lay its eggs. Egg-laying is continued until August. The eggs which are white and very minute are laid in the soil near the surface and close to the plants. In ten days they hatch, and there emerges a tiny grub which feeds on the roots of the turnip and grows to a length of 1/4 inch after two weeks. The grub then becomes transformed into white fragile chrysalis, which remains quiescent in the soil for another two or three weeks, when a second transformation reveals the adult turnip fly in August and September.

The Attack Begins
Damage due to the turnip is threefold involving not only loss of seed, but increased costs attendant on re-sowing, and reduction of yield consequent upon retarded sowing. The attack on the crop may commence even before the seedlings have pushed their way to the surface. To satisfy their hunger the beetles enter the crevices of the soil and nibble the tiny stem causing irreparable damage to the small plants before they appear above ground. Thus, what often appears to be a sudden and mysterious attack on seedlings is due to the turnip fly attack. Unfortunately, the damage does not stop here but is continued upon other plants which have succeeded in bearing their seed-leaves to the surface. There now begins a concentrated attack on the seed-leaves, with the result that those plants which have escaped the earlier attack may succumb to a later one. In some of severe infestation farmers may have to sow twice or three times before the crop becomes established. In lesser degree the attack continues throughout the summer, but with the sprouting and growth of the rough leaves the risk of serious damage becomes progressively less significant.

Methods of Control
Now that we have learned how the turnip fly feeds and breeds we are in a bet-position to appreciate the methods that may be employed in combating its destructive activities. Against the eggs, grubs and chrysalids in the soil there is no method of direct control that is either practical or economical in its application, and so recourse must be had to methods which have for their aim first the encouragement and protection of the crop during the susceptible period immediately following germination, and second the repulsion or destruction of the exposed and active adult beetles.

Thus, the first essential in any scheme of turnip fly control is the provision of a seed bed with a fine tilth which will serve to stimulate the growth of the seedlings beyond the stage when they are liable to injury. As an added precaution the farmer during years of severe infestation is advised to roll the ground lightly in order to consolidate the soil around the young plants as they push to the surface. By this means the beetles are prevented from reaching the underground parts of the plants which they so summarily destroy.

As the result of recent experiments with insecticidal dusts it has been demonstrated that Derris gives excellent control of the turnip fly when applied to the drill with a hand-dusting machine at the rate of 50 lb. per acre. The actual cost of materials is about 7 to 8 shillings per acre, where the Derris is purchased in quantities of 5 cwt. and over. An efficient double-action knapsack duster costs about 45s., and two men can dust an acre in about an hour and a half. The first application should be made when the seedlings are just coming through and again four days later. In severe attacks a third dusting is necessary four days after the second. The plants should be kept covered with a thin coating of derris until the first rough leaves appear; if the dust is washed off by rain, the application should be repeated as soon as convenient. The dust should be applied, if possible in the early morning of a warm, still day. It is imperative that the first application should be made immediately beetles are seen on the plants. Forewarned is forearmed, and it is, therefore, advisable to sow two or three small test plots of turnips a yard square in the corners of the field about 3 to 5 days before the crop is drilled. The seedlings on these plots should be carefully examined as soon as they come through. If they are attacked the crop will probably suffer also. A supply of Derris dust could then be obtained ready for use when the main-crop seedlings appear.

Another material which has given promising results under field conditions is a repellent dust consisting of 50% pure naphthalene, and 50 per cent. colloidal silica, costing about 35s. per cwt. This dust is very light and adheres well to the foliage. It is applied at the rate of 50 lb. per acre and forms a very uniform deposit on the leaves. The first treatment is made just as the seedlings are breaking through to the surface, and is followed by two or three further applications at intervals of 4 or 5 days.

Trapping Devices—
The discovery of efficient insecticidal and repellent dusts has practically done away with the use of mechanical devices, all of which depended for their efficacy on presentation of a tar or grease-smear of fabric or inverted box to the beetles, as they jumped from the plants when disturbed. The fabric or box was mounted, low on the axles of a pair of wheels fitted with handles, so that the device could be pushed along the rows of seedlings with the fabric or box just clear of the young plants. The beetles jumping from the plants to escape the approach of danger are trapped and held securely by the adhesive tar or grease.

By way of recapitulation the outstanding facts of the life, history, habits, and control of the turnip fly, Dr. Cameron emphasised the following facts:

- I.—There is only one generation of the turnip fly or flea beetle each year.
- II.—The adult beetles first appear in August and after hibernating in the soil and other suitable places re-appear in spring.
- III.—The greatest damage is done by the beetles in May and June when they destroy the seedlings. As a result, re-sowing is sometimes necessary.
- IV.—Since the seedling is most susceptible to damage, sowing should be taken early to protect it. A fine tilth helps the seedlings to grow quickly, and rolling the land lightly when the seedlings are breaking through the surface is also useful.
- V.—The beetles are best controlled by the application of a derris or naphthalene-silica dust. The first application is made just before the seedlings appear, and is followed by two or three further applications at intervals of 4 or 5 days.

MOONLIGHT SCENE
(In Inch District)

A midnight moon from a cloudless sky Looks out on a night serene, And lends its light from his home on high, To silver a silent scene.

The stars in myriads twinkling bright, From out the blue depths of space, In silence watch o'er the silent night, And pour a flood of celestial light On Nature's reposing face.

How weird the look of Breeda Mills, Illumed by the silent moon, How sweetly lone is the light that fills The glens by lone Newtown.

The Toorig, too, like a sea of glass, Reflecting the heaven's o'er head, How dim the green of the moonlit grass, How dark the shadow that o'er it mass With swift and noiseless tread.

No sound is heard from Godsal's Inn, No cry from Park's lone glen, And lone is the tower by Toorig's banks, And all the stream is still.

Mr. D. Cullinane, gave a rousing selection of popular Irish airs on the Piano-Accordion, in the course of which he proved himself to be a clever and finished performer. Mr. Joseph Connerly, N.T., Villierstown, scored a great success by his capital rendering of the comic song, "The Old Skilera Hat," which created rounds of laughter, and in response to a loud and insistent encore, he sang "The Broken-Hearted Clown" with wonderful feeling and expression which proved his great versatility as a first-class entertainer. A Four-Hand-Reel was beautifully danced by four local young ladies, the Misses Nell Barron, Peggy McCarthy, Mary and Kitty Crotty, Ballinamult, the accompaniment being played on the violin by Miss Biddy Whelan, and this graceful and well-timed "Turn" proved a welcome treat and was loudly encored. The popular song, "The Low-Backed Car," was sung as a duet by the Misses "Queenie" O'Keefe and M. Sullivan, Villierstown whose sweet and well-trained voices blended beautifully, and both charming young artists received a great ovation for their tuneful and high-acceptable contribution. Master "Bobby" McCabe, Dromana, gave a high-class selection of music on the violin, which proved a splendid performance by such a juvenile artist, and he received a warm and well-deserved encore. Miss Maureen Walsh, Ballinamult, danced a Hornpipe in a most graceful and well-timed manner which won for her rounds of applause. The Misses Eileen and Kitty Crotty next gave a beautiful musical selection on the violin, after which the young Misses O'Flynn, Dungarvan, rendered an Irish jig, which they supplemented with an Irish jig. The beautiful dance, "The Garden of Daisies," was very cleverly executed by the Misses Berry Barron, Ballinamult, Rita Mulcahy, do., and Kathleen Whelan, Beary's Cross, after which a most interesting and attractive "Turn" was provided by the Villierstown "Cowboy Troupe," including Messrs. J. Connerly, N.T., T. Crowe, T. Morrissey, P. Parker and J. Hally, in the course of which each had to sing a popular song, all the artists being very loudly applauded.

An Irish Hornpipe having been danced in perfect style by Miss Crotty, Ballinamult, Mr. M. Merrin, Villierstown, performed a grand selection of Irish airs on the Chromatic Accordion in a manner which proved him to be a very clever and talented musician, and he was loudly applauded for his rare treat. The popular and pretty song, "Little Angelina," was very sweetly rendered as a duet by the Misses O'Keefe and M. Sullivan, Villierstown, after which Mr. P. Parker, Villierstown, gave a sparkling selection of Irish airs on the violin. The lively and popular dance, "The Blackbird," was executed with great charm and grace by Miss Biddy Whelan, Beary's Cross, who proved herself a clever and finished exponent of Irish step-dancing.

A high-class Pianoforte selection by Miss Josephine O'Keefe, Villierstown, was warmly applauded, after which Miss Rita Mulcahy, Crough, danced a Hornpipe in excellent style, which was followed by a popular song by Mr. E. Lonergan, Lackardarra, who is the possessor of a very sweet and flexible tenor voice, and he was loudly encored.

Another local artist, Mr. J. Kirwan, Knockmeal, won great applause for his masterly singing of "Mate O' Mine, ourie marking Comedy, entitled: "On The Ban," and dealing with the days of the Black and Tans, was staged by the Villierstown Dramatic Class.

The characters were as follows:—"Biddy Muldoon" (Mr. J. Connerly, N.T.); "Grady Muldoon" (Mr. T. Crowe); "Police Sergeant" (Mr. P. Parker); "Rebels" (Messrs. T. Morrissey and J. Murphy).

As "Biddy Muldoon" Mr. Connerly proved himself a most talented and irrepressible comedian, and kept the audience in a state of rapt attention by his realistic impersonation of the part, while Mr. T. Crowe as "Matt," her patriotic "husband," was also a great success, while all the other parts were equally well filled, and the Comedy went with a great gusto and verve from start to finish, all the clever artists being loudly applauded at the close. A Four-Hand-Reel was next danced with great charm and success by the Misses Mary and Eileen Crotty, Peggy McCarthy and Biddy Whelan, after which Mr. James Hally, Woodhouse, Aglish, scored a great success by his sweet and expressive singing of "Mother Macree" (Mr. E. Lonergan, Lackardarra, won fresh laurels by his beautiful rendering of "Don't Forget Me, Little Darling," for which he was very loudly encored.

A splendid violin selection was brilliantly executed by the Misses Biddy and Kathleen Whelan, Beary's Cross, and Mr. P. Parker, after which a further exhibition of Irish step-dancing was given by the Misses O'Flynn, Dungarvan, and also by the Misses Eileen and Mary Crotty, and Mary McCarthy, whose clever exhibitions were loudly encored.

The playing of The National Anthem by the Villierstown Cellidhe Band, augmented by the Sisters Whelan on the violins, concluded a most diversified programme, after which the Very Rev. Fr. Cullinane, thanked the audience for having attended in such large numbers in support of such a worthy cause. He also thanked the artists in general for their great services that night, and paid a special tribute to Mr. J. Connerly, N.T., Villierstown, Mr. Wm. Dower, do., the Misses O'Keefe, do., and all the other artists from Villierstown who had travelled such a long distance to support the concert. He also thanked the Misses O'Flynn, Dungarvan, Mrs. Hanrahan, Ballinamult, the Manager and staff of the Knockmeal Co-Operative Society, and all others who had helped him in any way, while his special thanks were due to Mrs. Walsh, Touraneena, for having so kindly lent her valuable piano for the concert, for which he was deeply grateful.

All the artists and their friends were then hospitably entertained to supper, which proved a welcome and pleasant wind-up to a most attractive and successful entertainment.

THE TURNIP FLY OR FLEA BEETLE

Life, History, Habits and Control

In a B.B.C. talk in the "For Scottish Farmers" series, Dr. A. E. Cameron, speaking from the Edinburgh studio, discussed the life, history, habits, and control of the turnip fly, which is such a troublesome pest at times to farmers. Dr. Cameron in his interesting and instructive talk said:

Of all the insect pests of criferous crops none causes greater and more widespread loss to farmers than the diminutive turnip fly or flea beetle, which is no more than 1/10th inch in length. Small as it is, this insect makes up for its lack of size by the abundance of its numbers and the voracity of its appetite. So thorough is it in its work that it is responsible in years of severe infestation runs into thousands of pounds.

Before I discuss the annual cycle, habits and control of the turnip fly, let me remind you that the popular designation of the insect is a misnomer. In the first place the insect is not a fly but a beetle, and in the second place it attacks not only turnips but practically all cultivated cruciferous plants and a goodly number of wild ones as well, such as charlock. In recent years the insect has come to be known as the "Lemon-Bristled Flea Beetle," a name that serves to focus attention on two yellow stripes present on the back, contrasting sharply with the shiny black colour of the rest of the body, and helping in the insect's identification. As a true flea beetle the turnip fly displays those extraordinary powers of jumping for which these beetles are justly notorious. The organs of propulsion are the powerful hind legs which readily project the insect through a distance of 18 inches, equal to more than 200 times its own length. Thus it contrives to escape from the threat of attendant danger. Jumping is indeed the primary mode of movement of the turnip fly; rarely is it observed walking, but in bright sunshine during warm weather it readily takes wing and flies.

The turnip fly makes its presence felt first in May, when the seedling turnips are just appearing through the soil. Its migration to the turnip fields, the insect is guided by its unerring sense of smell, and should the weather continue fine and warm the visitation may quickly develop into a mass attack on the young plants.

How the Winter is Spent

The question naturally arises, whence come all the myriad of turnip flies that overrun the young crop. The answer is to be found not in any immediate cause, but rather in conditions which have been operative during the breeding season of the preceding year. It is not denied that warm weather in May and June is conducive to an early attack in the crop, but such warm weather can merely stimulate to activity insects that are already in existence; it does not create them. And so we are led to enquire how and where the turnip fly spends the winter. Our enquiry would show that the insects which appear on the leaves of turnips in August and September gradually disappear with the approach of cold weather into convenient places of shelter, such as are provided by bark of trees, dead leaves, hedgerows, tufts of grass, stumps and hollows of haystacks. There they remain dormant all winter. The numbers which enter upon hibernation will of course depend on the suitability of breeding conditions during the previous summer, and likewise the numbers emerging from hibernation in spring will be determined by the weather conditions during the winter. Especially are those of spring important since insects are very susceptible to injury by exposure to frost after a period of warm weather which rouses them from hibernation.

The remarkable feature of the life cycle of the turnip fly is the longevity of the adult beetle, which lives for almost a year. Appearing in August the fly feeds for a very short time on the leaves of the turnip before passing into its winter quarters, in which it remains for 3 months. It is only after feeding on the young plants in early summer that the fly becomes mature, and begins to lay its eggs. Egg-laying is continued until August. The eggs which are white and very minute are laid in the soil near the surface and close to the plants. In ten days they hatch, and there emerges a tiny grub which feeds on the roots of the turnip and grows to a length of 1/4 inch after two weeks. The grub then becomes transformed into white fragile chrysalis, which remains quiescent in the soil for another two or three weeks, after a second transformation reveals the adult turnip fly in August and September.

The Attack Begins

Damage due to the turnip is threefold involving not only loss of seed, but increased costs attendant on re-sowing, and reduction of yield consequent upon retarded sowing. The attack on the crop may commence even before the seedlings have pushed their way to the surface. To satisfy their hunger the beetles enter the crevices of the soil and nibble the tiny stem causing irreparable damage to the small plants before they appear above ground. Thus, what often appears to be beetle damage is really due to the turnip fly attack. Unfortunately, the damage does not stop here but is continued upon other plants which have succeeded in bearing their seed-leaves to the surface. There now begins a concentrated attack on the seed-leaves, with the result that those plants which have escaped the earlier attack may succumb to the later one. In years of severe infestation farmers may have to sow twice or three times before the crop becomes established. In lesser degree the attack continues throughout the summer, but with the sprouting and growth of the rough leaves the risk of serious damage becomes progressively less significant.

Methods of Control

Now that we have learned how the turnip fly feeds and breeds we are in a bet-

The minutes of the last meeting were read and signed, and referees reports submitted and passed. The Secretary, Mr. T. Copies of same would be sent to all clubs, and a copy of the new scheme for the better-working of the G.A.A. in the County was ratified.

An appeal by Stradbally minor football team, beat by Dungarvan was ruled out. The appeal was against the lay-out of the grounds at Killossanty. A few transfers held over from last meeting were passed. The Insurance Scheme was discussed, and recommendations made. Permission was granted to Tallow Pipers Band Committee for the running of a Medal Tournament, subject to the usual conditions. DUNGARVAN BRASS & REED BAND

A meeting of the committee of the above was held in the Band Room, on Tuesday 10th inst.

Owing to the regretted departure of the Very Rev. M. F. Hearne, from Dungarvan, the position of President had been vacant, so it was proposed and carried unanimously, that Mr. M. Clancy, be the new President.

Mr. Clancy has devoted many years of service in the interest of the band, and one could travel very far indeed, before meeting another with the same enthusiasm and zeal shown by him during his connection with the band.

All will realise that while Mr. Clancy is at the helm, his great experience in musical matters, will be a real asset in keeping the band alive, if only for the special occasions, when it is very necessary that a musical combination should be in attendance.

On these occasions, the playing members assisted by Mr. Clancy and ably conducted by Mr. McHugh, have proved that "The Old Bore" can hold its own with any other town.

Mr. J. F. Foley, U.D.C., was unanimously elected Vice-President.

Other business before the meeting was discussed, and suitably dealt with.

It was proposed and carried that a message of condolence be sent to Mr. M. Hennebery, Abbeyside, on the death of his mother.

OBITUARY.

MR. M. CULLINANE

News of the death of Mr. Michael Cullinane, O'Connell Street, Dungarvan, which took place on Saturday last, occasioned sincere regret to his numerous friends in this, as well as in adjoining counties.—R.I.P.

The deceased gentleman, who in addition to conducting a most successful hat and Grocery business at O'Connell street, farmed extensively, and was a well-known dealer in cattle. In his young days he was a noted footballer, and helped the famous Dungarvan "Hopes" team, for whom he played full-back, to victory in many a hard-fought game. Much sympathy is felt for his deservedly popular wife and family in their bereavement.

The remains, accompanied by a large and most representative company of mourners, were removed to St. Mary's Parish Church, Dungarvan on Sunday afternoon.

On Monday morning Requiem Masses were offered for the repose of his soul after which the interment took place in the adjoining cemetery.

Rev. W. Flynn, C.C., assisted by Very Rev. J. Cullinane, P.P., Tauranagh, and Very Rev. P. F. McGrath, P.P., Old Parish, officiated at the graveside.

Numerous Mass Cards were laid on the grave.

LATE MRS. HENNEBERY

A quiet, gentle and industrious lady was laid to rest in the Abbeyside cemetery, on Wednesday morning, in the person of Mrs. Hennebery, King street, Abbeyside, whose regretted death took place on Monday morning last, after a brief illness and fully fortified by the rites of Holy Church, of which during life she was such a faithful member.

The funeral to the Abbeyside Church on Tuesday evening, was very largely attended. The burial took place on Wednesday morning after the celebration of Requiem Masses at 8 a.m., for the happy repose of her soul.—R.I.P.

MISS MARY DWYER

The death, which took place at the District Hospital, Dungarvan, on Thursday May 5th, of Miss Mary Dwyer, Bohadon, at the early age of 23 years, cast a gloom over her native district where the deceased young lady was extremely popular, owing to her bright and cheery disposition, which had made her a general favourite with all sections of the community. She was daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer, Bohadon.

The funeral, which took place from the Parish Church, Dungarvan to Killossanty on Friday last, was of imposing dimensions. The burial took place on Saturday after the celebration of Masses of Requiem.—R.I.P.

LIFEBOATMAN HONOURED

Mr. Wm. Bond, Dunmow East, was at the annual meeting of the R.N.L.I., in London, on Wednesday, presented with a vellum inscribed by the Lifeboat Institution, recording thanks for his services on the night of January 13th last.

On that night a terrible storm raged. The coxswain of the Dunmow East lifeboat was ill; the second coxswain was in Cobb. A message was received from Land's End that the ss. Republic, Houston, Texas, was in distress off the Hook Point, Waterford. Bond, who was second motor mechanic in the boat, went with a depleted crew to the rescue.

It was known later that the Republic had cleared Hook Point and continued on her voyage. The lifeboat was at sea for hours in the most appalling conditions.

KILMATHOMAS NEWS.

Death.—Sincere regret will be occasioned at the news of the death of Mr. Michael Casey, farmer, at his residence, Glanphooka, Clonsa-Power, on Friday of last week, after a brief illness and while yet in his early fifties.

Another Death.—Following an illness of somewhat protracted duration, Mr. Thomas Hunt, Rathmadden, Kilmathomas, passed peacefully away on the 7th inst., fortified by the rites of his church and at a comparatively young age.

Annual May Procession.—Young and old of the faithful of Kilmathomas took part in the annual May Procession in honour of Our Blessed Lady on Sunday evening last. The processionists, headed by Very Rev. Fr. Galvin, P.P., and Rev. Fr. Hally, C.C., traversed the usual picturesque route from the Convent Church.

Big Numbers.—From these parts patronised the Monster Boxing Tournament at the Military Barracks Gymnasium, Waterford, on the night of the 6th inst. Every one of the dozen contests decided proved a ding-dong affair, and the entire attendance was right well pleased with the night's sport, which was capably conducted under the aegis of the Volunteer Force Boxing Club.

Gaelic Garnerings.—Two divisional championship junior football ties were played at the Pike last Sunday. Weather conditions were ideal and the crowd was appreciably large. The Dungarvan v Keatings (Comeragh) clash had all the hallmarks of the beginning of the season.

Faha.—D. Power (Capt.); W. Curran, J. Curran (goals); T. Burke, W. Connors, F. Troy, J. Foley, T. Casey, J. Connors, B. Power, E. Foley, T. Power, M. Connors, J. Higgins, and M. Connors.

Abbeyside.—P. Whelan (capt.); T. Forde, A. Burke, T. Ryan, M. Noonan, T. McGovern, P. Nagle, T. Beston, M. Coleman, T. O'Gorman, E. Hayes, H. Healy, J. Elsted, A. Noonan and C. Coleman.

The Pika Dance.—The popularly established Pike Amusement Club had more than 250 couples in attendance at the Grand Cinderella Dance of last Sunday night in their fine Hall, furnished a fact obvious as it is refreshing to record. Dancing to the music of a brilliant band of Waterford City instrumentalists the happy-hearted hosts whirled the hours merrily away.

Noble Tap.—Is the name of a greyhound sold recently for more than £100 by Mr. P. Barry, brother of Mr. James Barry Ballylinch, Kilmathomas. Mr. P. Barry is a

YOUGHAL TRAGEDY

THE INQUEST

Youghal, Monday.—Coroner E. A. Rice, solr., Fermoy, held an inquest, without a jury, this afternoon into the circumstances attending the death this morning of Jeremiah O'Flaherty, whose former address was given as Gerard Grimm St., Cork. Superintendent Kelly, Midleton, appeared for the Authorities.

Mrs. M. Kenneally, 159 North Main Street, Youghal, deposed that the deceased lodged with her for the past year and 7 months. He was a butcher by trade and was a bachelor. On Sunday, he went to the hurling match at Midleton and returned back at 7.30 p.m. He had his dinner then and left the house at 8 o'clock. He came back at 12.40 a.m. this morning. He then had supper and went to bed at 1 o'clock a.m., in his usual health.

Dr. T. Kennedy, Youghal, deposed that in consequence of a report received from the Guards that morning he went to Mrs. Kenneally's, arriving about 9.15. He found the deceased lying across the bed on his back. He was partly dressed, his face turned towards the left shoulder. He had a humane killer in his left hand with the muzzle pressed against the centre of his forehead.

The Coroner found a verdict that deceased died of hemorrhage and laceration of the brain as a result of a wound self-inflicted by means of a humane killer, whilst temporarily insane.

MAHON-SIDE SNIPS

As advertised in another column the grand opening dance in the New Hall, at Kilmathomas will be held on the 12th of next month, and full particulars of the eagerly looked forward to function will be provided in a later issue.

On Tuesday morning a carrier pigeon flew in by the shop door to the licensed premises of Mr. Patrick Morrissey, The Square, Kilmathomas, and was captured and fed by the manager, Mr. David Power. A ring on one of the bird's legs was marked thus: UGH-26-27.

The weather continues exceedingly dry and harsh. Wells and streams have fallen to record low levels, and the prolonged drought is seriously affecting the growth of grass and of grain and root crops.

When Anestown Anne sighted a bald spot on your news-writer's pate yesterday, the dear lady remarked: "A hair in the head is worth two in the bush!"

Many Mahon-side dwellers heard the conker for the first time this year on Tuesday morning. All the cuckoos we hear in the valley these days seem to be suffering from sore throats.

The Good Wishes.—Of all locally accompanying Master Jack Maher, (son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Maher, Kilmathomas), who has just crossed to London, where he has procured a very good position.

The Pika Dance.—The popularly established Pike Amusement Club had more than 250 couples in attendance at the Grand Cinderella Dance of last Sunday night in their fine Hall, furnished a fact obvious as it is refreshing to record. Dancing to the music of a brilliant band of Waterford City instrumentalists the happy-hearted hosts whirled the hours merrily away.

Noble Tap.—Is the name of a greyhound sold recently for more than £100 by Mr. P. Barry, brother of Mr. James Barry Ballylinch, Kilmathomas. Mr. P. Barry is a

YOUGHAL URBAN COUNCIL

Present—Messrs. R. C. Farrell, Vice-Chairman, presiding, R. Power, E. D. Condon, J. Forrest, J. Daly, B.E., E. P. Lynch, J. Whelan.

A cheque for £59 10s. 7d., labour and wages for the week was passed on the proposition of Mr. Whelan, seconded by Mr. Power.

Water Supply.—The Water Curator reported that the height of water in the town reservoir was 17 feet. This was declared very satisfactory.

Rural Roads.—Mr. Lynch complained of the condition of the roads in the Rural area. The residents were paying heavy rates and should receive consideration.

The Town Surveyor said he was not able to come at all the work with his present staff.

He was instructed to employ a number of extra workmen to carry it on.

The Department wrote the proposed extension of the main sewer at McCurtainstown, in connection with which the Council asked for a grant towards the development of housing sites.

Mr. Power—What is the cause of the delay of the new housing scheme? It seems extraordinary.

The Clerk said he had written again about the matter, but got no reply.

Mr. Lynch—It was in a sad state last year. This year it beats the band.

Milk Supply.—A letter was read from the Commissioner Garda Stochana, H.2. Union Quay, Cork, re the enforcement of the Milk and Dairies Act, stating that one of the samples of milk submitted for analysis during the quarter were found adulterated.

The Chairman—That is very satisfactory.

Vaccination Defaulters.—Dr. T. Kennedy, M.O.H., submitted a list of 14 vaccination defaulters, including 2 outstanding cases, whose names had been submitted to the Council's solr., with a view to enforcing compliance of the Act.

Acknowledgment From An Taoiseach.—The Private Secretary of An Taoiseach, wrote acknowledging the Council's resolution re the outcome of the recent negotiations with the representatives of the British Government and conveying sincere thanks to the members of the Council.

The Chairman's suggestion, it was decided to insert the letter on the minutes.

The I.R.A.—Mr. Power said in proposing the resolution referred to he forgot an important matter and that was to pay a tribute to the men who had been instrumental in bringing the country to its present state of liberty—the members of the I.R.A.

Mr. Lynch seconded, but he did say that it was very little thanks the majority of those men—the rank and file got for what they did for the freedom of the country.

Mr. Power—There's a good time coming.

A very long discussion took place on the new Grants for Unemployment, portion of which the Council requested the Government to allow them expend on the cleansing of the old 6' water main.

The Clerk said that no definite reply had yet been received from the Department.

Councillor's Resignation.—A letter was read from Mr. J. N. R. Macnamara, solr., regretting he could not see his way to alter his decision of resigning from the Council.

The Chairman—We are all sorry to hear that.

Mr. Power—Perhaps he might change his mind now that there is peace.

Mr. Whelan said Mr. Macnamara was a most useful member.

The Clerk said he always found Mr. Macnamara most courteous and helpful.

Sympathy.—Mr. Power proposed a vote of sympathy with Mr. B. Stone and family, on the death of his wife. She was a most amiable lady and her demise was a great blow.

INCH NOTES

The death of Mrs. Edmond O'Malley, which took place at her residence in Kyle, Youghal, last week end is much regretted, and her family and relatives have the sincere sympathy of the whole community in their sorrow.

Mr. Power—Perhaps they have a notion of building them in Phoenix Park (laughter).

Replying to a question, the Clerk said he had written the Co. Surveyor and the Chairman of the County Council regarding the condition of the Front Strand, and had received a formal acknowledgment.

Mr. Whelan—The place is like a shambles. In a few weeks more the summer will be on us and the condition of the place is disgraceful.

LAND DIVISION IN COUNTY WATERFORD

Deputy's Appeal For A Speed-Up Of The Work

In the Dial, on Wednesday week Mr. Michael Morrissey, T.D., speaking to a vote dealing with the Department of Land said:

Like many other Deputies I would like to compliment the Minister on the great increase in the acreage of land divided since he took charge of the Department, but I regret to say that I cannot compliment him as far as land division in my constituency in Waterford is concerned. It is an extraordinary state of affairs that in 1936-'37 only 400 or 500 acres of land were divided there, despite the fact that at least 30,000 acres are available for acquisition and division. Land division in County Waterford appears to me to have been completely neglected by the Land Commission. The fact was brought to the notice of the Minister, but, as far as I am aware, there has been no improvement in land division in that area. The 30,000 acres available for division are made up mostly of derelict farms and holdings that are not being worked by existing tenants. I am sure the Minister and the Land Commission are aware of the tremendous burden imposed on the ratepayers by these holdings. Therefore, I cannot understand why they have not been acquired. The policy of the Land Commission appears to be to concentrate on areas where there is congestion. We are in this position in Waterford, that there is very little, if any, congestion there. I think it is a mistaken policy on the part of the Land Commission and the officials to concentrate on areas where there is congestion, and to neglect areas such as Waterford for a number of years where there is a big acreage of land suitable for division amongst applicants in every way suitable for working land. The Land Commission seems very hesitant about acquiring land that is not adjacent to a congested area. I think that is a great mistake.

In Waterford constituency 60 per cent. of the applicants for land are of a special type. When I say that, I mean a type that is not at present considered by the Land Commission—unmarried, landless men. Take the case of a farmer with a valuation of even £40 who may have three or four sons. The eldest son is married and lives on the holding, but the claims of the other brothers, who have an expert knowledge of land, having worked on it all their lives, and who, perhaps, have a capital of £200 or £300, are not considered at all by the Land Commission. That type of applicant should be seriously considered by the Land Commission, as they cannot expect the brother who is owner of a holding of 50 or 60 acres to divide it up. It would be ridiculous to expect him to do so. The best applicants in Waterford are unmarried men who are hoping that the Land Commission will give them a portion of the undivided land. I have not a great deal of experience of the division of land in Waterford, for the simple reason that very little land has been divided, but in the few estates that were divided I found that the landless men were completely ignored. The most suitable applicants are men who were brought up on the land and who, in all probability, will be found to have a little capital. They are looking forward to settling down and marrying on the land. I desire to impress upon the Minister the desirability of considering that type of applicant in future. The only alternative is to emigrate across the Channel or to seek employment in towns and cities. We want to avoid both of these alternatives. The Minister has the land, and that is to settle them on the land. I am not opposed to cottiers and small-holders settling land. They are certainly entitled to it, but I am opposed to the Land Commission and the officials trying to force land on people, cottiers and uneconomic holders, who never looked for it and who do not want it. I think it is ridiculous to ask such people to face the burden of working, say, 20 acres of land when they do not want them, especially when there is a good type of applicant willing to work it and who would make a success of it.

MR. DAVIN—You are giving the game away. MR. MORRISSEY—I am not giving any game away. I am speaking of facts that affect my constituency. I say that landless men should be considered in future in any scheme of land division, because I think they are the most suitable applicants. MR. MORRISSEY—What are the cottier tenants? MR. MORRISSEY—I want to impress upon the Minister and upon the Land Commission that in Waterford at least 60 per cent. of the landless men are genuine applicants who would work the land and make a success of it. In the division of land in that constituency I hope consideration will be given to the claims of landless men so that they may have an opportunity of settling on the land. I am sure they would be successful on it. We do not want to have these men emigrating or having to seek employment out of the country. The way to meet that situation is to put them on the land. I want to draw the Minister's attention to the extraordinary position that exists with regard to the Usher Estate near Cappoquin, which, I understand, was acquired by the Land Commission nine years ago. That is a long time. MR. EVERETT—Not for the Land Commission. MR. MORRISSEY—It has not been divided yet. I understand that for two out of nine years it was set for grazing and that it is set at the present time. It consists of 200 acres. One half is good arable land, and the other half is not so good, but with a drainage scheme it could be made suitable for grazing. I cannot understand why the Estate is not being divided in view of the fact that

ARMORE DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, D.J.) INSANITARY BUILDING

The Waterford Co. Board of Health, charged Mr. J. Bushe, Youghal, with failing to comply with an order of the Court, made in respect of premises situated in the Main street, Ardmore.

Mr. J. W. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore, appearing for complainants, said that an order had been made by his Worship at the December Court requiring the defendant to carry out certain works on his premises at Ardmore. They had collapsed, and as a result were in an insanitary condition, and dangerous to public health, being open from the back and liable to abuse. The defendant had repeatedly promised to carry out the order. There was a penalty of 10/- a day, and also costs in connection with the case. The Board of Health took a serious view of the case.

The defendant said he had been ill for some time past and was, therefore, unable to attend to the matter. He would finish the work in a fortnight.

The case was adjourned to next Court, costs being allowed.

Ad Interim Transfer Mr. E. A. Ryan, solr., Dungarvan, applied on behalf of Mr. M. J. Keane, for an ad interim transfer of the license lately held by Wm. Mulcahy, Pulla.

Supt. Walsh, Dungarvan, said there was no objection.

The application was granted.

No Lights Sergt. O'Leary, Clashmore, charged Patrick O'Connell, with using an unlighted horse and cart, and with not having a reflector.

He was fined 5/- in all. The same complainant and Sergt. Gallagher, Ardmore, and Guards O'Malley and Begley, had a large number of persons summoned for using unlighted bicycles.

The usual fines were imposed.

Dangerous Driving Guard Cooper, charged Thomas Hyde, with dangerous driving.

Complainant said the case was brought under the Road Traffic Act. He found defendant using a racing pedal bicycle with no lights. He was going so fast that he failed to stop when witness called on him. There were a number of others, cyclists and pedestrians on the road at the time.

Defendant was fined 10/-.

Overloaded Cars Superintendent Walsh, charged Wm. Begley, Aghish, with having an excess of passengers in his motor. He was licensed to carry 4 and there were 6 in the car.

Replying to the Court, the Supt. said the regulation was made for the safety of the passengers.

Guard S. Ryan, stated he held up the car at Ballinamona, and found it contained 6 persons. The Pub Servia License was for 4. They were going to a dance at Ardmore.

The Superintendent, replying to the Court said the number made no difference in the cost of the license.

The Justice—Do you think it dangerous to have 6 instead of 4?

The Supt. said there was a certain space provided for each seat.

The Justice—What kind of car was it?

Defendant said it was a Ford Saloon 1931.

The Justice—A fairly big car. The Superintendent having read the Section under which the case was brought.

The defendant replying to the Court, said there were 2 in front with him. There was one behind and not a seat.

The Justice—Sitting on the others knees, I suppose?

Defendant was fined 5/-. The Justice stating he would impose heavier penalties in future.

Patk. Hunt, Clashmore, was charged with a similar offence, and also with having no insurance.

Supt. Walsh, prosecuted. Guard Ryan, stated he found 5 passengers in the car which was licensed for only 4. He said he would produce his license at the barrack. He did so but the license was dated 19th April and the previous one had expired on 25th February. Defendant was fined 5/- for the excess passenger and 7/6 for not having the insurance.

Careless Driving John P. Morrissey, lorry driver, was charged under Section 50 with careless driving.

Supt. Walsh said that the defendant was driving a lorry for Messrs. Power of Dungarvan, and he collided with an Omnibus from Ardmore to Dungarvan. The Board of Health was laying a water main at the scene, and the available space was very narrow.

Owen O'Shea, driver of the 'bus in question, stated that when he saw the lorry coming on at the bend he stopped up. The lorry didn't stop and it just collided with the 'bus. To the Court—There was only room for one way traffic, and he was on his correct side. There was not room for two vehicles. There was a shed inside the fence. He stopped because there was not room for the two vehicles to pass. Could the collision have been avoided as far as you could see?

LAND DIVISION IN COUNTY WATERFORD

Deputy's Appeal For A Speed-Up Of The Work

In the Dail on Wednesday week Mr. Michael Morrissey, T.D., speaking to a vote dealing with the Department of Land said:

Like many other Deputies I would like to compliment the Minister on the great increase in the acreage of land divided since he took charge of the Department, but I regret to say that I cannot compliment him as far as land division in my constituency in Waterford is concerned. It is an extraordinary state of affairs that in 1937-38 only 400 or 500 acres of land were divided there, despite the fact that at least 30,000 acres are available for acquisition and division. Land division in County Waterford appears to me to have been completely neglected by the Land Commission. The fact was brought to the notice of the Minister, but, as far as I am aware, there has been no improvement in land division in that area. The 30,000 acres available for division are made up mostly of derelict farms and holdings that are not being worked by existing tenants. I am sure the Minister and the Land Commission are aware of the tremendous burden imposed on the ratepayers by these holdings. Therefore, I cannot understand why they have not been acquired: The policy of the Land Commission appears to be to concentrate on areas where there is congestion. We are in this position in Waterford, that there is very little, if any, congestion there. I think it is a mistaken policy on the part of the Land Commission and the officials to concentrate on areas where there is congestion, and to neglect areas such as Waterford for a number of years where there is a big acreage of land suitable for division amongst applicants in every way suitable for working land.

The Land Commission seems very hesitant about acquiring land that is not adjacent to a congested area. I think that is a great mistake. In Waterford constituency 60 per cent. of the applicants for land are of a special type. When I say that, I mean a type that is not at present considered by the Land Commission—unmarried, landless men. Take the case of a farmer with a valuation of even £40 who may have three or four sons. The eldest son is married and lives on the holding, but the claims of the other brothers, who have an expert knowledge of land, having worked on it all their lives, and who, perhaps, have a capital of £100 or £200, are not considered at all by the Land Commission. That type of applicant should be seriously considered by the Land Commission, as they cannot expect the brother who is owner of a holding of 50 or 60 acres to divide it up. It would be ridiculous to expect him to do so. The best applicants in Waterford are unmarried men who are hoping that the Land Commission will give them a portion of the undivided land. I have not a great deal of experience of the division of land in Waterford, for the simple reason that very little land has been divided, but in the few estates that were divided I found that the landless men were completely ignored. The most suitable applicants are men who were brought up on the land and who, in all probability, will be found to have a little capital. They are looking forward to settling down and marrying on the land. I desire to impress upon the Minister the desirability of considering that type of applicant in future. The only alternative is to emigrate across the Channel or to seek employment in towns and cities. We want to avoid both of these alternatives. The Minister has the curd, and that is to settle them on the land. I am not opposed to cottiers and economic holders getting land. They are certainly entitled to it, but I am opposed to the Land Commission and the officials trying to force land on people, cottiers and economic holders, who never looked for it and who do not want it. I think it is ridiculous to ask such people to face the burden of working 20 acres of their land when they do not want them, especially when there is a good type of applicant willing to work it and who would make a success of it.

MR. DAVIN—You are giving the games away.
MR. MORRISSEY—I am not giving any game away. I am speaking of facts that affect my constituency. I say that landless men should be considered in future in any scheme of land division, because I think they are the most suitable applicants.

MR. DAVIN—What are the cottier tenants?
MR. MORRISSEY—I want to impress upon the Minister and upon the Land Commission that in Waterford at least 50 per cent. of the landless men are genuine applicants who would work the land and make a success of it. In the division of land in that constituency I hope consideration will be given to the claims of landless men so that they may have an opportunity of settling on the land. I am sure they would be successful on it. We do not want to have these men emigrating or having to seek employment out of the country. The way to meet that situation is to put them on the land. I want to draw the Minister's attention to the extraordinary position that exists with regard to the Usher Estate near Cappoquin, which, I understand, was acquired by the Land Commission nine years ago. That is a long time.

MR. EVERETT—Not for the Land Commission.
MR. MORRISSEY—It has not been divided yet. I understand that for two out of nine years it was set for grazing and that it is set at the present time. It consists of 200 acres. One half is good arable land, and the other half is not so good, but with a drainage scheme it could be made suitable for grazing. I cannot understand why the Estate is not being divided in view of the fact that there are 13 families in the area who want land, and if they had it would work it. It has been said, but I do not know how true it is, the Land Commission are trying to sell this place. That is an extraordinary thing in view of the fact that you have many families there anxious to get land and work it. I would ask the Land Commission to divide this Estate as soon as possible, and would like to have an explanation from the Minister as to why it has not been divided among the many genuine applicants in the area.

I would also like to refer to an Estate of 40 acres in the County Waterford which has been acquired by the local golf club for a golf course. These 40 acres are in a congested area. In fact, I might say this is the only bit of land in the area that was available for division. All the people there derive their livelihood solely and mainly from tillage. It is on the Murphy Estate at Ballinacourty. Despite my representations to the Minister and to the Land Commission, I understand that the Minister has consented to the transfer of these 40 acres to the golf club. I have no objection whatever to golf, but everyone who knows the area is aware that there is plenty of other land, and not bad land by any means, that would be more suitable for this golf course at Dungarvan. I do not think you are really good land for a golf course. I have already made representations in connection with this, but I want again to protest strongly against the attitude of the Land Commission in transferring this land to a golf club. The harm is done now, and I suppose it cannot be rectified. I would like to express the hope that the Land Commission would seriously set about the acquisition and division of land in the County Waterford. The fact that only 400 or 500 acres have been divided there in the past year shows that Waterford has been sadly neglected in that respect. It is time that the Land Commission made a determined effort to divide more land in the county. You have there 30,000 acres of land suitable for division. I understand that a large percentage of that acreage has been offered to the Land Commission. They seem to be very slow in acquiring land. We have in the county a big number of applicants for land, all of whom are desirous of settling down and making their living on the land. I do not see why, after five or six years, the Land Commission should not turn their attention to the County Waterford and speed up land division there.

I have heard the view expressed by some Deputies on the opposite benches that the Minister should slow down the activities of the Land Commission in acquiring land. That view was expressed, I think, by a Deputy from the County Tipperary. That may be alright as far as that county is concerned, because I understand that a great number of estates have been acquired and divided there, although I am sure you have a number of others which have yet to be acquired and divided. I disagree with the view expressed by that Deputy and would ask the Minister to go even faster than he has been going in the acquisition and division of land. The pursuance of such a policy, of putting the people back on the land, will provide the country with a real national asset. I would appeal to the Minister to put the descendants of our forefathers who were evicted during the land war back on the land. It is the best work that could be done by any Government. I would ask the Minister to bring pressure to bear on the Land Commission, and to give his whole attention to land division in the County Waterford.

MR. HERON—That is rather a tall order.
MR. MORRISSEY—If he does, he will be able to land plenty of scope for his officials. We have a big number of applicants waiting for land. They are suitable applicants in every way. If the Minister does that he will find the people down there very courteous and ready to give him every help in the way of speeding up land division.

Could the collision have been avoided as far as you could see?
Supt. Gillagher, gave evidence as to the position of the 2 vehicles, the measurements of the scene, etc.
Defendant said as he came along he was doing about 15 miles. The road there was very narrow. He saw the shed in front and he was unable to stop in time to prevent the collision.
Cross-examined by the Supt.—Defendant said he saw the road was trenched, but he didn't realize there was any danger. There was no signal visible.

3. That the Senior Hurling Final (Championship) be played on or before last Sunday in August and the Senior Football Championship Final before the second Sunday in October.
4. That the gross gate receipts in every Senior Championship match be apportioned as follows:—
  - (a) Referee's expenses (if any) to be deducted from the gross gate receipts and paid in cash on the spot.
  - (b) That the net "gate" then remaining be divided as follows: twenty per cent. (20%) to each Senior team competing up to a maximum of £4 to each team. Twenty per cent. (20%) to the Club or venue running the fixture up to a maximum of £5.
  - (c) The remaining forty per cent. (40%) to be retained by the County Board and in addition any surplus accruing where the maximum limits stated in (b) are exceeded.
  - (d) That where a Minor Championship match is played in conjunction with a Senior Championship match, a sum of fifteen shillings be deducted from gross "gate" and given to the Divisional Board concerned. In the case of a Junior Championship match, a sum of thirty shillings be paid to the Divisional Board concerned.
5. That the junior and minor championships in each Division be controlled and carried out by the respective Divisional Boards.
6. That all gate receipts in both junior and minor championships in each Division up to and including the Divisional Finals are the property of the Divisional Board in question.
7. That the Junior and Minor County Finals be under the entire control of the County Board, and that the gate receipts therefrom are the property of the County Board.

IRISH COLLEGE, ARDMORE

At the meeting of the Committee of Management at St. Declan's College, Ardmore, (Liam O. Miodh, presiding) it was unanimously decided to send congratulations to Dr. Eghraim Hyde, on his selection as first President of Eire.
The Committee expressed satisfaction at the extensive additions made to the College and appreciation of the fact that it would enable them to accommodate some 50 extra students this year.
The staffs for the forthcoming sessions were selected, and in addition to the ordinary courses in July and August, it was decided to hold a Junior Course, principally conversational from June 13th to 27th.
This would be suitable also for Civil Servants and others who required a hearty conversational preparation or improve their conversational qualifications.
The Committee expressed their appreciation of the fact that Muintir na Tire were coming to the College this year again, during the first week in September. There would then be a fortnight's course of lectures of an advanced nature embracing Rural Science, Vocational and other subjects.

The Justice—Have you any solicitor? Defendants—No sir.
The defendants were remanded to Youghal on continuing bail.

TWO OF BELL'S GREAT ANNUAL CURES

DUNGARVAN URBAN COUNCIL.

Mr. M. Morrissey, T.D., Chairman, presided at the weekly meeting of the Council on Friday last.

Mr. Patk. Barry, Goulan, Old Parish, wrote in reply to the Council's advertisement for a horse, offering a five-year-old horse, for £50.

Mr. Walsh, S.S.O., said he had received an offer for £200. The Council left the matter in Mr. Walsh's hands.

Mr. Brady, Clerk of Work, reported the number employed on the Housing Scheme for the preceding week was 135. The Contractor of the above reported that the stream supplying the intake is very low.

A letter from the Youghal Urban Council, dated the 10th inst., regarding the resolution on the above subject, will be held in the City Hall, Dublin, on May 17th and asked that the names of the delegates to attend the Conference be forwarded.

The Electricity Supply Board wrote notifying their acceptance of the plan submitted by the B.S., showing the diversion of the cable route of the new housing site.

A letter from the Youghal Urban Council, dated the 10th inst., regarding the resolution on the above subject, will be held in the City Hall, Dublin, on May 17th and asked that the names of the delegates to attend the Conference be forwarded.

On the proposition of Mr. J. F. Foley, seconded by the Chairman, votes of sympathy were passed to the family of the late Miss B. Whelan, Abbotside, the family of the late Mrs. Kelly, Kilminton and with Mr. P. McCarthy, Main street.

Two very interesting Junior Hurling championship matches were played at Lismore on Sunday last under ideal weather conditions and before a large attendance.

In the first match, Knockanore met Ballyduff in a most exciting game. The match was a fine example of hurling, with both sides playing to the hilt.

From the resumption both teams strove hard, but for some time no score resulted, although Knockanore were unlucky on several occasions. In the last fifteen minutes, however, Knockanore smashed in a major, which eased the excitement which ran high amongst the supporters.

Next Sunday in Clonmel our inter-county Juniors go into action against Limerick in the Munster hurling and football championships. The selections have already been published, but it would cause no surprise to see some last-minute changes.

Our hurling selection carries too many of the 'old school' type to inspire much confidence. I believe it would have better policy to have given more scope to young players, who, if they have not experience, yet have plenty of fire and determination.

The news of the death of the Duke of Devonshire came as a great shock to many of the townspeople of Lismore. While in Lismore he provided both young and old with plenty of amusement.

Mr. Walsh, S.S.O., said he had received an offer for £200. The Council left the matter in Mr. Walsh's hands.

We regret to record the death of Mr. James Meade, who died at Lismore District Hospital, on Tuesday, after a brief illness and fortified by the rites of the Holy Church.

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS

By "CROTOG."

Garious weather and large attendance favoured the Western Divisional Championships played on last Sunday. At the Pine Castle Field, the dual football programme provided somewhat one-sided games, the losses in both matches falling to score.

The County Committee have decided to offer prizes for: (A) COTTAGES WITH GARDENS. (B) SMALL FARMS. For the purpose of the COTTAGE SCHEME the County has been divided into the following Districts in each of which separate competitions will be held, viz:— (1) Lismore; Dungarvan; Clonmel No. 2 and Youghal No. 2 Rural Districts.

At Lismore, Knockanore, the shock team of the championships, triumphed over last year's junior hurling finalists, Ballyduff. The latter had to be held without Mick Feehey, Higgins, Cashman and Hennessy, and though they put up a dour defence all through the hour, the winners carried far too many heavy guns for them.

The game opened tamely and for several minutes there was little fire in the play. To many it seemed as if the match was just stalling—playing the Cat-and-Mouse Act with their adversaries. But after twenty minutes play it was clear that the Cappoquin bunch were hurling with an abandon and a spirit of determination which showed that they meant business.

Early on the resumption, the Bridesiders went out to make the game secure and after a prolonged and bitter contest finished by the end. The match was a fine example of hurling, with both sides playing to the hilt.

Our hurling selection carries too many of the 'old school' type to inspire much confidence. I believe it would have better policy to have given more scope to young players, who, if they have not experience, yet have plenty of fire and determination.
