Suggested Clearance areas
Mr. Clancy handed in the following resolution which was recorded by Senator Butler, and passed unanimously:
"That Dr. Carey, M.O.H., accompanied by the B.S. and S.S.O., inspect all the houses in the areas suggested to be cleared, and report on the number of houses which in their opinion should be demolished in the different areas, having due regard to proper Town Planning, for the purpose of enabling the Council to have the necessary formalities for the transfer of the people from the cleared areas to the new houses in course of erection.

DUNGARVAN URBAN COUNCIL.

Mr. Thos. McCarthy, Vice-Chairman, presided at the weekly meeting of the above on Friday. Officers present were—Messrs. D. Foley, P. Byrne, P. O'Dwyer,
Senator J. Butler, Mr. Clancy and P.
Quinn.

Purchase of Hoses
Mr. R. Morrissey, Ballinacourty, Dungarvan, wrote in reply to the Council's advertisement for a hose, offering one at £2, and another at £3.

All the hoses offered to the Council are to be inspected by the V.S., on Saturday 28th.

Housing Scheme
Mr. Brady, Clerk of Works to the above reported the number of men employed the previous week 118.

Compensation
Mr. T. C. Williams, solr., wrote stating that he had informed the Council some months ago that it was the intention of Messrs. Thomas Power and Co., to claim compensation for the damage caused to their lands by the new sewerage scheme and suggested that the B.S. should examine the lands in question in the near future and form an estimate of the loss which Messrs. Power has suffered. There is no doubt that he is entitled to reasonable compensation and every effort should be made by the Council to avoid the trouble and expense of arbitration proceedings.
The matter was referred to the Engineer.

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS

By "CROTOG."
Garryowen's long and glorious reign of mystery in the hurling world has come to an end at last. For almost a year now, ever since the shock administered by Waterford in Clonmel last July, the Limerick men had been gradually losing their grip.
They recovered from their defeat by Tipperary to another victorious campaign; yet, though they avenged that defeat in thorough fashion in the League Final of a month ago, they flattered only to deceive. Sharp-eyed port students had noted their vulnerable points and Cork Sunday basketball had not only outplayed them on those weak roots until they smashed up the outworn Limerick harling machine.

The Corkmen had prepared quietly but thoroughly, they noted the cards held by their opponents but they kept their own hands well up. At the psychological moment, they lashed their trumps and won the game. Limerick, banking on the superiority complex, were lulled into a false sense of security and did little concentrated or intensive training. Once again, fitness-proved superior to fatness.

There was no manner of doubt about the merit of Cork's victory. They were faster, cleverer and surer in every sector from the first to the final whistle. It was not a good game. There was far too much tempo and dangerous play. The tactics at times were more like those of the cockpit than the hurling field. More than one discrediting incident angered the huge crowd and the referee was far too tolerant.

The line-out of the Cork team created more surprise even than the result itself.
The last-moment inclusion of Garret,
"Fox" Collins and Tommy Kelly was evidently a psychic touch intended to undermine the Limerick morale; it worked like a talisman. From the first ball, Cork hurled with a fury and determination and at a speed bewildering to their adversaries and never let up until the final whistle blew. Macker's men, on the other hand, never got going; their striking was faulty, timing poor, and combination co-spicuous by its absence.

DEATH OF MR. M. J. OLDEN, CAPPOQUIN

Very deep and sincere sorrow has been caused in Cappoquin and throughout all the surrounding districts by the death of Mr. Michael J. Olden, which occurred at his father's residence in Cappoquin at an early hour on Wednesday morning, 26th inst., after a rather protracted illness.

Deceased was the third son of Mr. John Olden, Draper, Cappoquin, and was brother of Mr. Thomas J. Olden, a leading and learned member of the staff of Professors at Mount Mellary Seminary, and also the popular Hon. Sec., of the Cappoquin Rowing Club, while he was also brother of Mr. Jack Olden, Radio Officer, Marconi Company, and of Mr.
James P. Olden, the efficient Hon. Sec., of the Cappoquin Catholic Young Men's Society.

The late Mr. Olden was appointed as a Radio Officer under the Marconi Company in 1916, when he entered the Medi-cantine Marine Service, and in the course of his duties he later visited practically every country and every port of importance in the world.

During the period of the Great War he had the thrilling experience of serving on two steamers which were torpedoed by German submarines, the first case being that of the steamer, "Zamorra," which was torpedoed and sunk off Hull, near the English coast, the crew, fortunately, escaping in the lifeboats, while later he had a similar experience in the steamer,
"Ferry," which was torpedoed South of the island of Crete, in the Mediterranean, this boat being also sunk. In this case also, he and the members of the crew again escaped with their lives by reaching the North African coast, where they slept under the wide-spreading Palm trees during several tropical nights, and lived on a diet of dates until they were rescued by a passing steamer some days later. He had many other exciting
escapades during the war period, but especially unscrupulous thievery in Cappoquin,
where they slept under the wide-spreading
Palm trees during several tropical nights,
and lived on a diet of dates until they were rescued by a passing steamer some days
later. He had many other exciting
escapades during the war period, but especially unscrupulous thievery in Cappoquin,
where they slept under the wide-spreading
Palm trees during several tropical nights,
and lived on a diet of dates until they were rescued by a passing steamer some days later.

A gentleman of high intelligence and rare descriptive powers, he was a most easy and interesting "conter," and his delightful descriptions of his experiences at sea were a treat to listen to when he came home on holidays from time to time.

Gentle and refined in manner, with a kindly, genial and generous disposition, he was a particularly warm favourite with all classes in his native town, and it is an exaggeration to state that he was one of the most respected and popular young gentlemen in Cappoquin.

After spending a breezy and eventful period of 18 years at sea, failing health compelled him to retire from the Marconi Company about 4 years ago, and since then he had resided in Cappoquin, where everything possible was done to restore him to health, but all to no avail.
It was only within the past month that his health took a decided turn for the worse, but even then his manly spirit and genial manner never failed him, and he received great consolation from the fact that his loving and devoted brother, Jack, another Radio Officer like himself, had returned from a world trip in time to be beside his bedside and comfort him before he had "slipped his cable" and started on his final trip into the great unknown.

At the last meeting of the Board of Health a letter was read from Messrs.
James Lucas and Patrick Mahony, Wilkinstown, Cappoquin, stating they have ceased selling milk. A letter from Mrs.
Susan Browne, Wilkinstown, stating that she could not afford to carry out the necessary alterations to her premises.
Mrs. Morrissey wrote stating she did not come under the Milk and Dairies Act as she only sells 2 quarts of milk daily.
Mr. O'Sullivan did not reply to the Board's letter.
The letter from Messrs. Lucas and O'Mahony was noted. In the case of Mrs. Browne and Mrs. Morrissey, the Secretary stated that he had written those parties pointing out that they cannot continue to supply milk unless they register. Mr. Sullivan is to be again written to.

At the last meeting of the Board of Health, a letter was read from Shobhan Uj Meachair, asking for permission not to demolish the old house at Ballinagurmore as she requires it for a storeroom and boiling house.
The matter was referred to the County

TALLOW DISTRICT COURT.

DANCE LICENSE

(Before Mr. G. P. Farrell, D.J.) Mr. J. W. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore, applies on behalf of Denis Montagne, licensee, for a dance license for Sunday night 28th inst., for the local Hall.

No Lights, Etc. A large list of cases of unlighted vehicles, wandering animals, etc., were brought by Sergeants Grey and Houlihan and Guards Rice, McDermott, O'Shea, and others. The usual fines were imposed.

Cottage Rent Arrears The Tallow Cork Board of Health had a number of cottage tenants summoned for arrears of rent and decrees were granted.

Licensing Case Supt. Quinlan charged Margaret Walsh, Barnack street, with a breach of the Licensing Act on 2nd February, by Mr. Wm. R. Hodnett, solr., Youghal, defendant.

Guard Keogh, Tallow, stated that at 2.40 a.m. on 3rd February he with Gerard Rice entered the premises and found John Hartly, a local man, in the kitchen. Hartly said he had been engaged to mind the door that night and the publicans sister, who was in charge gave the same explanation. There were signs of drink in the kitchen and bar.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hodnett, witness said it was Race Day in the town and there was a great crowd about. There were a good many travellers from near and far.

Guard Rice, corroborated. Mr. Hodnett said that was Race night and there were many people around. The defendant didn't reside on the premises, but her sister, Miss Sheehan, was in charge. Nothing could be said against the manner in which the premises had been conducted. On that night she employed Hartly to help her by minding the door. When he left home he forgot his coat and he returned for it almost immediately. He was in the act of putting it on when the Guards arrived.

Miss Sheehan stated they were very busy that night and she employed Hartly to help. She paid him 2/6 and gave him a couple of drinks. He left the place and she put out the lights and locked up, when Hartly returned for his coat which he forgot.

Cross-examined she said she gave that explanation to the Guards. Hartly gave corroborative evidence. Guards Keogh and Rice having been recalled and questioned, it was clear there was some suspicion attached to the case for the defence, it was possibly true, and he saw no reason to disbelieve it. The case was dismissed.

Rate Defaulters Thomas Barry, Collector, had a number of persons summoned for arrears of rates and decrees were granted. In one case, where the amount of arrears was 79s. 4d., the Collector said the defendant had not paid the current rate for many years past. The farm had been long deserted.

Assault Etc. John Milward, Tallow, chauffeur, charged Miss Smyth, the Bride, Vintner, with assault and threatening language. Mr. Hodnett, solr., for plaintiff, and Mr. E. A. Ryan, solr., Dungarvan, for defendant.

From the evidence it appeared that on Sunday 13th February, plaintiff drove to Miss Smyth's and deposited his employer there, it being alleged he was under the influence of drink at the time. Milward returned to Tallow on business. When he came back to Miss Smyth's she attacked him, using abusive language and struck him in the shoulder and on the face, and asking what he meant by leaving that gent there.

Defendant's case was that the gent in question was drunk and it being Sunday and she was naturally annoyed as it would be a serious matter for her if the Guards came along and found him in her premises. She denied striking Milward. She just gave him a pack. She might have used strong language, but she did not threaten him.

After a very protracted hearing, plaintiff and defendant being examined and cross-examined at extreme length, the Justice said he personally failed to see why those proceedings were brought. He couldn't understand why a young man should be so sensitive at being called an ill-reared fellow or being assaulted by an old woman. His time, and the time of the Court should not be taken up with a lot of unimportant and unnecessary debates. The assault was proved. It was trivial and he dismissed it.

Edward O'Brien, Stranacally, charged J. J. O'Connor, Knockanore, farmer, with assault and threatening language. Mr. J. N. R. Macnamara, solr., Youghal, for plaintiff and Mr. C. Murray, L.L.B., solr., Lismore, for defendant.

Mr. Macnamara, having stated the case said he had summoned a witness Patrick Veale, Kinsalebeg, but he declined to come. The Justice said he would issue a warrant for his attendance if required.

Mr. Macnamara said what made the case worse for his client was the fact that he had previously fallen foul of the criminal law for cattle thieving and was imprisoned, but that was no reason why he should be blamed for the disappearance of any cattle in the countryside.

Complainant said that at Youghal fair O'Connor approached him saying: "You robber, what did you do with my cattle?" "Only for the law I'd murder you," hitting a stick to him. On the way home he also accosted him in threatening terms.

Cross-examined by Mr. Murray, witness said defendant was a friend of his and often did him a kindness. He could not tell if cattle were stolen from defendant. The priest spoke about it from the altar. Did you ever steal sheep?—Yes. Tackling?—Mr. Macnamara—I object. Mr. Murray—it is relevant to show what sort of a character he is. The Justice—it is admitted. To Mr. Macnamara—O'Connor raised his stick to him and Veale put up his hand. The Justice—What were you doing at the fair?—I walked in 9 miles to see my brother. Defendant stated that 2 cattle, value about £20, were recently stolen from him. He met O'Brien at the fair and asked him did he take his cattle and he said he didn't. Witness said that that work never went on in the parish till O'Brien came there, and only for his wife and children he would swing for him. To the Justice—No one heard him. He was speaking to Veale about it afterwards. He didn't threaten to murder O'Brien, nor did he hit him. Two cattle were stolen from him. He bore no grudge against the man. The Justice said the case might have been one for slander and defamation, and therefore not for his jurisdiction. Mr. Macnamara said his client had asked him whether the words were slanderous and he advised him they were but the question of finance arose. O'Brien was a poor man. The Justice said he would not exercise his power to bind to the peace, but would adjourn the case for 3 months. Fishery Cases Joseph Power, Secretary Board of Conservators, charged Michael Carr, Bridepark, with using a gaff and unlawfully removing a salmon from the river Br. Mr. T. A. Riordan, solr., Mallow, for complainant. Patk. Ronayne, water bailiff, stated he saw defendant taking a salmon from the river with a gaff attached to a pole over 11 feet long. The usual length was 5 or 6 feet. Witness told him he was after gaffing a fish illegally and defendant said to let him go and he would take it as a caution for the rest of the year. The Justice—What became of the salmon?—I took it from him. Witness was cross-examined at length by defendant. He did not believe the defendant's story. He would hear the other case before giving his decision. Timothy Carr, was charged with being in possession of a strokehaul and a gaff. Mr. Riordan, solr., for complainant. Guard Keogh, Tallow, stated that he saw the defendant hanging around the bank of the river for 2 hours on the day in question. Witness finally approached him and asked him had he anything on him to take salmon. He said no, but an old gaff belonging to his father. On searching him witness found the strokehaul (produced) and some twine. The defendant said the gaff was broken and useless, and the other thing was not a strokehaul, but he declined to take the oath. Patk. Ronayne, who accompanied the Guard on the occasion, having given evidence. Both the Carrs were each fined 20/- with 20/- costs. Road Traffic Acts Supt. Quinlan, charged Wm. Tobin, Kilmacow and Patk. McGrath, Lisfinny, with a breach of the Road Traffic Act. The Sgt. said the prosecution was brought under Section 167 of the Act, which prohibited persons from getting into a motor vehicle or interfering with the mechanism. Wm. Henley, left the lorry at Tallow Bridge on a slight incline. When he returned he found it 30 yards away in the middle of and across the road. It appeared the defendants got into the lorry. The battery was down but they started it down the incline. Sgt. Grey said defendants admitted the offence. They released the brake, but could not get it going and it moved backwards down the incline. The Supt. said he did not wish to proceed with the case. The Justice said he would let them off with a caution, but in any further case of the kind he would impose a fine. Abusive Language Hannah Doyle, Kilmacow, summoned Margaret Murphy, and her daughter, Catherine, of West Street, Tallow, with abusive and threatening language. Mr. Hodnett, for plaintiff, said his client was the wife of a labourer. She had to pass through West street on her way to town, and for the past 2 years, both mother and daughter were constantly using foul and filthy language towards her and her family. Since the service of the summons the defendants had cleared out of Tallow. Evidence being given by plaintiff and witness. Sgt. Grey said that both parties had been coming to him for the past 2 years. Defendants were each bound to the

YOUGHAL DISTRICT COURT.

CIVIL BILLS

There was a big list of civil bills, in which Messrs. Wm. R. Hodnett, T. K. Keane, and J. N. R. Macnamara, solrs., appeared for plaintiffs or defendants. Decrees or adjournments were granted.

Insurance Case The Minister of Local Government and Industry and Commerce, had M. Bennett, Junr., summoned for the non-stamping of cards in respect of 2 employees, Ml. O'Keefe, and Ml. O'Mahony, and there were also 2 civil bills. O'Mahony was stated to be in hospital and his case was adjourned.

Mr. D. Casey, State Solr., appeared for plaintiffs. There was no appearance for defendant. In the other evidence having been given by Mr. J. McNamara, Inspector and O'Keefe, the case was marked "proved" and adjourned.

Substitution of Hours Mr. Keane applied on behalf of P. J. Meade, and L. Clancy, for a substitution of hours. Mr. Hodnett made a similar application for G. Dickenson. There being no objection all were granted.

Recovery v. Fitzgerald This was an Ejectment Civil Bill by D. Rooney, Ardmore, against Patk. Fitzgerald. Evidence having been given that there was a year's rent due, a decree was granted.

Rate Defaulters Mr. J. E. Farrell, Collector, had a number of defaulters summoned for rates. Mr. Hodnett for plaintiff. Decrees or adjournments were granted in cases not settled.

Insurance Case The Minister for Local Government had two summonses against Mrs. L. Murphy, Main street, for the non-stamping of the Insurance Cards of several employees. Mr. Casey, for plaintiffs and Mr. Keane, for defendant.

On the application of Mr. Keane, the cases were adjourned for a month. Vaccination Defenders The Urban Council summoned T. J. Donovan, for the non-vaccination of 2 of his children. Mr. Hodnett for complainants asked for an adjournment, stating that Mr. A. R. Farrell, Dungarvan, for defendant consented.

The case was adjourned for a month. Road Tax Guard O'Donoghue, charged R. Langphuir, Cork and W. F. Heffernan, with using an expired road tax. Guard Healy had a similar charge against defendants.

Mr. Keane, for the defence, said it was a case of mere oversight. Defendants were fined 5/- and 2/6 respectively in one case. Obstruction Guard Griffin, Killeagh, charged Patk. Murphy, Ballydaniel, with allowing 12 cattle wander on the public road near Ballymacoda, causing an obstruction. Defendant said he had been ordered by the Co. Council to cut down his hedges and the cattle got out. The place was barred by rabbits. He was fined 5/-.

MILK AND DAIRIES ACT At the last meeting of the Board of Health, a report was received from Dr. O'Farrell, County M.O.H., stating that during the month Veterinary Inspectors reported that the premises of seven applicants for registration under the Milk and Dairies Act, 1935, are now fit for registration. He accordingly recommended that they be registered and attached the following list of same: viz. John Drady, Scouter's East, Clonmel; Hugh McGrath, Balvisheny, Clashmore; John McGrath, Dysert, Ardmore; Nicholas Bresford, Coolnagour, Dungarvan; Mrs. Rd. Hartly, Ballynagobeg, Ring; Mrs. Mary Lenane, Mweelbarna, Ring; Miss E. Hickey, Knockanore.

An order was made that those recommended be registered. peace in their own recognisance of £10. Alleged Motor Offence Supt. Quinlan (for Supt. Higgins, Fermoy), charged Patrick Lee, Aghern, with a breach of Section 95 of the Road Traffic Act. Sgt. Houlihan, Ballyduff, stated he held up the defendant in his own car on 21st December and 4th February. On each occasion he had 4 passengers. Defendant had applied for a Public Service license, but was refused. He was still using the car for the carriage of passengers. Defendant said it was a private car and he thought he was entitled to carry his friends free. The Sgt.—On the first occasion he said he was entitled to use it up to the end of the year. Defendant, cross-examined by the Superintendent, said he had applied for a Public Service license, but it was refused on the ground that the car was defective. He didn't use it for hackney work. The Justice said he was afraid the defendant was entitled to a dismiss in the absence of proof. It was dismissed on that occasion anyhow. Exemption Order Mr. Hodnett applied on behalf of a number of local vintners for Exemption Orders on Fair Days. Superintendent Quinlan said there was no objection and the applications were granted.

FOUR ESSENTIAL POINTS IN PIG KEEPING

A Thrifty Strain—Suitable Accommodation—Efficient Feeding—Proper Management

Pork and bacon production is an industry which utilizes the pig for the conversion of meals, milk, etc., into meat. The animal may be compared to a machine the efficiency of which is the primary factor in profitable production. Just as the highest grade of petrol and the most careful management cannot produce work economically over an inefficient, out-of-date engine, so also even the most scientific system of feeding and management cannot produce meat economically on the body of an unthrifty and inefficient strain of pig.

The various strains of pigs in a breed vary quite as much as the strains of milk-cows. There are sows which are capable of producing two litters of ten or twelve young pigs each per annum, while others are such unsatisfactory breeders that an average of not more than six or eight live bornams can be expected in such a year. The importance of making the selection of stock animals unless it possesses the potentiality for high milk production. Again, it is no uncommon occurrence, in fact it is almost usual, for a litter of bonhams to differentiate into a certain number of strong, vigorous animals, some mediocre ones, and a number of weaklings, which are reared at a very positive loss. The capability to produce a large number of young which grow uniformly into profitable pigs is hereditary, and an important point to remember in the selection of brood pigs.

Good Housing It is not intended to review all the points concerning the matter of accommodation, but rather to refer to a few of the salient features. Young pigs suffer most from cold, and principally because of the low temperature pigs, generally speaking, make poorer progress in winter than in summer. The importance of making the accommodation comfortably warm in winter will be seen when it is realized that of the food taken by the pig some is used for maintaining the working organs of its body and for keeping up the body temperature, while the remainder goes to pork production. The amount required for the maintenance of heat is less under warm than under cold conditions, and consequently an improvement in the accommodation of the pig towards the making of the sty comfortably warm diverts a greater proportion of the animal's food into pork production.

Direct Light Necessary The pig's eyes may, however, be all that is apparently desirable—enclosed, well ventilated and well provided with glass windows—and yet be very unsuitable for its purpose. Direct light, as Dr. E. J. Sheehy, Lecturer in Animal Nutrition, University College Dublin, has pointed out, is necessary for the well-being of the pig, and this fact explains the superiority of animals housed under fairly primitive conditions over those kept continuously in some of the most expensive of modern piggeries. Research work has shown that light contains a principle which in the case of the pig is as food in so far as it enables the animal to grow a normal skeleton and to properly utilize the food consumed. Curiously, light which has passed through window glass does not possess this food factor, so that if the pig house does not communicate with an open yard care should be taken that light be admitted to the house through windows or doors or in some such fashion.

Pigs kept in the open have the advantage of light, exercise and perhaps pasture herbage, and do quite well in this climate during the warmer months of the year, but better results are obtained from animals kept in suitable houses during cold weather and in all cases fattening is done more economically when exercise is restricted during the fattening stage proper, while in the case of the fattening pig, too, pasture or other green material provides very little nutrition.

Efficient Feeding Feeding accounts for the greater part of the cost of production of the pork or bacon pig, and provided the strain of animal is efficient and the accommodation is suitable, the success or failure of pig raising depends upon the efficiency of the feeding. In the very early stages of the growth the little animal is nourished in the womb by the blood of its mother, and although nature in its solicitude for the well-being of the unborn young provides for its nourishment from the tissues of the mother even in adverse circumstances, still it is correct to say that the strength and vigour and disease-resisting power of the newly-born pig depends on the nourishment of its mother during the pre-natal stage of the bonham's existence.

Whole-Time Dentist At the last meeting of the Co. Board of Health, a letter was read from Dr. O'Farrell, County M.O.H., recommending the appointment of a whole-time dentist in accordance with suggestions already outlined. An order was made that the Department be asked to suggest a scale of salary travelling allowance, age limits, etc., applicable to the post.

INCH NOTES

The Hurling Final—By the time these notes are in print all the arrangements for the meeting of the tournament finalists will have been completed. The committee are working very hard, and can be relied on to do things well and give careful attention to every detail conducive to a satisfactory conclusion of this wonderfully successful tournament which has attracted more attention and done more to popularise hurling in the district than anything of the kind has ever done before.

It is expected that the crowd on Sunday will be a record one. In Gaelic circles in East and North-East Cork and West Waterford as well, it is the chief part where ever the young men come together. The interest in the fixture is greater and more widespread than many an important championship final has ever aroused. The match will start punctually at 3.30 summer time, and as there is bound to be some congestion at the entrance, it is desirable that patrons would be in the grounds as soon after 2.30 p.m. as they possibly can. By so doing they will be facilitating the stewards and making things easier for themselves.

What Are The Chances Of The Teams? Quite frankly I don't know. I have seen them both make a poor showing in other fields, and considering the sparkling games they have played at Inch, I was amazed, but I have since discovered that it was the ground, and not the players that was at fault. A hurler cannot be at his best in a bumpy field. Both teams play well here—the field is good and the sod soft and springy. With the training the teams have undergone, I am sure they will be at their best on Sunday, and the pace a cracker. Kilkronat have usually the best of the opening stages, and generally lead at half time. They appear, however, to have contracted the habit of using the interval to make changes in the placing of their men, and the result often is that in the beginning of the second half they are sometimes disorganised. A condition their opponents are quick to take advantage of. Castlemartyr are great finishers, and I have often seen them when they looked all over a beaten team make a marvellous recovery in the closing stages and pull a match almost "out of the fire." The orders may be reversed on Sunday, but one thing can be taken for granted, both sides are confident of winning and will leave no stone unturned to justify that confidence.

Inch Tournament Final—May 29th. Castlemartyr v. Kilkronat—We're all going to Inch on next Sunday boys. We'll have a good time just for one day, boys. The match we will see, what a match it will be! We'll have something to talk of on Monday boys. The tournament final is on you know, and the players the old colours will not you know. The red and the green, will in conflict be seen. As they were in the days that are gone, you know.

Castlemartyr are coming in strength, my boys. On winning they fully are bent my boys. Every muscle they'll strain so the verdict they'll gain. In the now-famous Inch tournament, my boys. The wades and O'Briens will all be there. Dineen and Ted Murray—a dashing pair. Four times have they fought the stout men of the north. For the medals they all now aspire to wear. Kilkronat are trained to the ounce my boys. They say their opponents they'll trounce my boys. That they'll win as they like, and the balls that they'll strike, Will go straight through the posts with a bounce my boys. The Mahonys are in good trim they say, and Barron is full up of "vim" they say. While Hurley and Drake will not make a mistake, And Buckley the uprights can skim, they say.

Oh, the game will be packed up with thrills my boys, And there will be plenty of "spills" my boys. Will ring out o'er the valleys and hills my boys. Oh, 'twill be well worth going miles to see, And great the excitement will surely be, When the whistle's shrill call will finish it all. And herald the shouts of victory. DANIEL O'CALLAGHAN, Inch.

EAST CORK JOTTINGS

Killeagh—Transfer of Civic Guard—After spending several years in the Killeagh station, Guard Smith has been transferred to Coachford, where he has now taken up duty. He was a very efficient officer, who always did his work well, without being over officious. Just before leaving Killeagh he had the chief part in a difficult case, which he handled with discretion and tact.

A native of Cavan, and a man of fine physique, he was a near relation of Jim Smith, the famous Cavan footballer. He carries with him in his new sphere the good wishes of his many friends in Killeagh, who are pleased with his advancement, for such of course, it is, as Coachford is quite an important station.

Killeagh Half-Yearly Horse Fair—The Killeagh half-yearly horse fair will be held on May 31st and promises to be even more successful than any of the fairs previously held in this most centrally situated venue. At a recent meeting of the committee, correspondence was read from leading continental and cross-Channel buyers seeking information as to the number of animals likely to be on show at the fair, and promising support in the event of getting satisfactory assurances. The information sought was given, and was of a most reassuring character, so much so that the presence of those buyers or their agents at Killeagh on the 31st, is now a certainty. All the home buyers too, will be there, and with the changed conditions regarding the market in operation, the Killeagh people have good reason for optimism regarding the prospects of the fair.

Killeagh Cattle, Sheep and Pig Fair—Will as usual be held on the last Monday of the month which happens this time to fall on the 30th inst., the day before the horse fair. This is one of the most important fairs of its kind in the country, being always well stocked and having the best and most convenient facilities for transport. The leading cattle buyers from Cork, Waterford, Limerick and Tipperary always attend, and as is customary where there is keen competition, the prices are the best obtainable.

WHEN WE'VE DONE OUR BEST On life's stairway as we travel, "stepping on" by slow degrees, What a growing mass of problems perhaps on our path appears. It may be that failure greets us as we try each step to scale; Disappointment may confront us and confine us in its pale. With the world's eyes upon us, they in scorn will survey, All our futile acts of labour, all our efforts on the way. They could see our vain endeavours, all could tell us what's the toll; None could see how hard we laboured, tried so hard to reach that goal. None could see how we've surmounted difficulties with a zest, 'Cause success won't crown our efforts, they can't see we've done our best. But what of the world's censure, we won't try that to refute. What means general opinion, 'tis an endless dispute. Let us still keep struggling onward, not look back with vain regret. At the trials we've encountered, they are worth the winning yet. If we find our ideals shattered, and the object we've in view, Disappear from sight forever, there is something else to do. There is always something waiting, honest labour reaps its own. And the harvest that we gather, it depends what seeds we've sown. If things are not as we hoped for, do we falter like the rest— Isn't there some compensation when we know we've done our best? We will still keep struggling onward, yet that onward course pursue, And the thing that's fraught with honour, love and kindness we will do. By our deeds and words imprinting in each heart a memory-land. That the storm of time won't shatter, but each tie will firmer bind. This at most is life's great battle, and its perils we must brave. And like all true, valiant soldiers, trials we aside must wave. Now, we're nearer, getting nearer, and this last step to be trod, Is the one—the great division—lies between ourselves and God. Do we find our courage failing? do we fear this last great test? Now, we know that God, He knows it—that we tried to do our best. Tallow. M. O'CONNELL.

WHEN WE'D ONE OUR BEST

As steady as we travel, "stepping" by slow degrees, growing mass of problems perhaps our path appears. We that failure greets us as we try step by step to scale; excitement may confront us and console us in its pale.

The world's eyes upon us, they in turn will survey. Futile acts of labour, all our efforts the way.

Could see our vain endeavours, all told us what's the toll; could see how hard we laboured, and so hard to reach that goal.

There was a good attendance, weather conditions being ideal. The pitch under the control of the local Gaels was in perfect order. Knocknore, a newly-formed club, showed splendid form and will prove a team to be reckoned with in the Championships.

Ballyduff were below full strength and were only a shadow of last year's team, still they played a plucky game, being applauded on several occasions for spectacular play. The teams lined out for the whistle of J. Cunningham of Tallow.

Knocknore were much stronger than their opponents who contracted this advantage by better combination especially in their attacks. Knocknore were first to score when O'Neill pointed, this was soon followed by a like score by Barry. Ballyduff then got going, but Donovan cleared. Flynn and Daly worked hard to get a score and just failed to find the posts. Baldwin put Knocknore again attacking. Pierce clearing, Revin's sent back and forced a "50" Knocknore charged in for the kick and raised the green flag and keeping up the pressure added another goal and a point leaving the half-time score at—Knocknore 3-3, Ballyduff—Nil.

On the change over Ballyduff were first away the attack being successfully countered. Knocknore bringing the play to their opponents end forced a "50". This was returned and Ballyduff took up the offensive. Flynn getting away opened the score for Ballyduff with a point. Play then was exceptionally good and some very nice football was witnessed and again Ballyduff pointed. Both sides had free in turn, Ballyduff making some great efforts to bring off a score, but failed in their attempts. They however, succeeded in preventing Knocknore adding to their laurels, and the final whistle sounding the score was—Knocknore—3-3; Ballyduff, 0-2.

Tallow Pipe Band played the teams on to the field, and discoursed some choice items during the interval.

Deaths of Mrs. T. O'Connor, Ballinacorney—The death of the much esteemed lady, occasioned the greatest sympathy to be extended to her family and immediate relatives, by her many neighbours and friends in West Waterford and East Cork. Evidence of the esteem in which she was held, and her family are held, was shown by the large and representative attendance which was present at her funeral, which took place from her late residence to Killcavan cemetery, where the interment took place in the presence of an extremely large number of relatives and sympathisers.

Prior to the funeral Requiem Masses were offered for the repose of deceased's soul by Rev. M. Morrissey, Adm., Knocknore, and Rev. Fr. Hickey, C.C., Glendine, who also attended the funeral and recited the last prayers at the graveside.—R.I.P.

The chief mourners present were—Messrs. John and Michael O'Connor (sons); Mrs. K. Cahill, Lismore (daughter); Mr. D. Moloney, Bishopstown, Mr. Wm. Moloney, Ballyphilip (brothers); Mrs. Coghlan, Breeda; Mrs. Cashman, Ballymacoda; Mrs. J. O'Driscoll, Knock-

TALLOW NEWS.

Death of Mrs. N. Barry, Killcavan—Relict of the late Mr. R. Barry, the death has taken place of the above much esteemed lady, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. William Higgins, Killcavan.

Proof of the esteem in which deceased and her family were held was forthcoming by the large concourse of people who were present at the removal of the remains to Ballynec Catholic Church where they lay overnight.

Requiem Masses were celebrated for the repose of the soul of deceased by Very Rev. M. Aherm P.P., Rev. M. Harrington, C.C., Rev. Fr. Twomey, C.C., who also officiated at the interment which took place at Britway cemetery, in the presence of an exceedingly large attendance of relatives and sympathisers.—R.I.P.

The chief mourners present were—Mrs. W. Higgins, (daughter); Mr. Wm. Higgins (son-in-law); Miss Nora May Higgins (granddaughter); Mr. James and John Lane, Moonagovon (nephews); Mrs. Flavin, Filowen, Youghal (niece); Messrs. Lane Bros., Clondulane (nephews); Mr. and Mrs. W. Barry and family, Lisnabrin; Mrs. W. Casey, and family, Killcavan; Mr. James Higgins, Britway; Mr. T. Flynn, Ballinavella; Mr. T. Ducey, Ballinavella; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Budds, Kinsalebeg; Miss B. Budds, Tallow; Mrs. M. Beecher, Tallow; Messrs. Thomas, M. Beecher and Michael Higgins, Britway; Mrs. O'Halloran, Leamlara; Messrs. Patrick and John Spillane, Curraglass; Mrs. Gallagher, Curraglass; Mr. D. O'Keefe, Lisnabrin; Misses M. and C. Sheehan, do.; etc., etc.

Meeting of Tallow H. & F. Club—Congratulations Extended to Mr. Frank Ryan—Mr. T. Burke, Chairman, presided at the weekly meeting of the above which was held at the Cinema Hall. Correspondence was read by the Hon. Sec., and routine business was transacted.

Addressing the meeting the Chairman said that they should not let the occasion pass without referring to the success which attended their Vice-Chairman, Mr. Frank Ryan's efforts at the Feis Ceoil, recently in Dublin. He proposed that a vote of congratulation should be extended to Mr. Ryan and this was passed with acclamation. The Chairman continuing, said he felt certain that all present would join with him in extending to "Frank" their best wishes for a continuation of the success which he had achieved.

The Secretary was instructed to convey the vote in writing and insert same in the minutes. The meeting then concluded.

RAPID TRADE INCREASE

Leather Company's Successful Year—Mr. Kennedy O'Brien, Chairman, presided at the second ordinary general meeting of the Dickens Leather Co., Ltd., held at 4-5 Westmoreland St., Dublin. The other directors present were Mr. R. Dickens, Managing Director; Mr. P. J. Moloney, and Dr. M. Casey.

Moving the adoption of the report and statement of accounts the Chairman said that the company's trading results during the past year had been most satisfactory in every respect. The value of the sales was nearly four times that of the previous trading period, and there had been a very satisfactory profit of £3,567.

SHEEP SKIN—For some time past they had made use of native sheep pelts as part of their raw material and they had been found very satisfactory for many of the lines manufactured by the Company and were considered more suitable than pelts heretofore imported.

The employees of the Company had adapted themselves very quickly to the training facilities afforded them, and as a result the Company had for some time past been able to produce lining and upper leathers at least equal in quality and finish to similar leathers manufactured in other countries.

A dividend of 64 per cent. on the cumulative preference share capital was declared.

At the last meeting of the Board of Health, a letter was read from Mr. P. O'Connor, Vicar, Tallow, applying for £3 10s. compensation for sheep drowned in drain of sewer at Tallow.

The Secretary stated that he had referred the matter to the Board's Solicitor who reported as follows:—I am in receipt of your letter of the 5th inst., enclosing claim of P. O'Connor, Vicar, Tallow for £3 10s.

Under paragraph 14 of the contract the Board are indemnified against all accidents arising out of or in connection with the contract and should accordingly disclaim liability in respect of Mr. O'Connor's claim which is herewith returned. The matter was referred to Contractor.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

At Youghal Court (before Mr. G. P. Farrell, D.J.) Patrick Shanahan, Gortcororan, farmer, was charged with the manslaughter of James Cashman, Ballymacoda, motor mechanic on 3rd April last.

Mr. D. Casey, State Solr., Mitchelstown, prosecuted, and Mr. Wm. R. Hodnett, solr., Youghal, defended.

Mr. Casey, having opened the case at length, John O'Driscoll, Ballyskibbole, farmer, deposed that on the night in question he was cycling from the direction of Lady'sbridge to Ballymacoda. On reaching a point near Mrs. Walsh's Cottage (as shown on sketch map produced) on the Ballymacoda side of Ballyland he saw 2 bicycles lying on the road and the accused standing and the deceased lying in the grass margin, on witness's near side. Cashman was then unconscious.

At Shanahan's request he went and reported the matter to deceased's brother Thomas, at Ballymacoda. A few minutes later he returned to the scene with Thomas Cashman in Mrs. Cashman's motor car, and they removed deceased to the house of his employer, Mrs. Cashman at Ballymacoda. Neither bicycle on the ground was lighted. Both deceased and accused appeared to be sober.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hodnett—He rode deceased's bicycle when going for the brother. He noticed the handlebars were quite loose, so that he had difficulty in keeping it straight.

To Mr. Casey—Isn't it quiet common for a handle bar to get loose in such circumstances?

Mr. Hodnett—That is hypothetical. The Justice—That is mere inference. To the Court—He didn't notice that either bicycle had a lamp.

George Cashell, Killredan, Ballymacoda, N.T., deposed that on the day in question deceased and he cycled to Duncarvan to a hurling match, Cork v. Waterford. The Cork team took them and their bicycles back as far as Killiney, where they arrived between 9.15 and 9.30. About 10 o'clock they left Killiney on their bicycles. Witness had an electric lamp. Cashman had no lamp.

At John McGrath's Cross, half a mile from Ballymacoda, they parted, deceased continuing cycling towards Ballymacoda. It was then about 10.30. Deceased was perfectly sober and never in better form in his life.

To the Court—The night was rather dark. Thomas Cashman, brother of deceased, motor mechanic, in the employment of Mrs. Cashman, deposed that his brother was aged 28 and also employed by Mrs. Cashman. He last saw him alive on 2nd April and he appeared in his usual health. About 11 p.m. on 3rd April, John O'Driscoll called on him. He took Mrs. Cashman's car and they drove to the scene of the accident. On arrival he saw his brother James lying on the grass and the accused trying to support him. He was on his hands and knees, and took him to the cottage of Mrs. Ballymacoda and Dr. Kennedy, Youghal, attended him, and on the doctor's directions he was taken to the Cottage Hospital, Youghal, where he died on the 5th.

Patrick Shanahan, brother of the brother and brother of the brother, deposed that he was in the middle of the road on the night of 3rd April, when he saw the deceased and the accused trying to support him. He was on his hands and knees, and took him to the cottage of Mrs. Ballymacoda and Dr. Kennedy, Youghal, attended him, and on the doctor's directions he was taken to the Cottage Hospital, Youghal, where he died on the 5th.

Dr. T. E. Beardsley, deposed he was in charge of Youghal Cottage Hospital. The deceased was admitted to the hospital on Monday night 4th April, unconscious and suffering from head injuries. Witness treated him for those injuries. He died at 8.45 p.m. next day. On the following day a post-mortem examination of the body. The deceased had a bruise on the left eye, slight abrasions on fingers of both hands. The post-mortem revealed that there was a fracture of the left temporal region, extending into the base of the skull. There was laceration of the corresponding portion of the brain on the opposite side. The cause of death was laceration of the brain. It could have been caused by a fall off a bicycle. The skull was rather thin in his opinion.

Mr. Hodnett—And therefore, such a skull would be more easily fractured than the head were on the left only. Sergt. Eddie, Killeagh, deposed that on the night of 3rd April, he investigated the death of James Cashman. When starting out he told him he was coming to the station and he made a statement, which he signed after being read over to him. (Statement described how he saw the deceased coming towards him. When deceased was passing, he felt a slight thump on the arm. Heeding the fall he turned back to deceased's assistance. O'Driscoll came along and he sent him to call Thomas Cashman, Ballymacoda. Neither of them had a lamp.)

The accused then took witness to the scene of the accident and he made the sketch handed in. The accident happened on the Ballymacoda-Lady'sbridge road, 250 yards on the Ballymacoda side of Mary Walsh's cottage. Metalling at the point was 16 feet wide with a grass margin 4ft. wide on each side. The road was of tar macadam. There was a view of about a quarter of a mile on each side of the road. That night he examined Shanahan's bicycle, and on the following day deceased's bicycle. Neither showed any marks of impact.

To Mr. Hodnett—He knew the accused 7 years. He was a farmer and his character was excellent. He had a wife and 4 young children. He was absolutely a quiet inoffensive man, sober and industrious. Both deceased and the accused were friendly to his knowledge. He gave witness every assistance possible in his investigations.

To the Court—The road was straight at the scene. There was a slight hollow at the actual point. The road was otherwise level.

Mr. Hodnett said he need hardly say no one regretted the terrible occurrence more than his client. It was one of those road accidents which he supposed might not happen in a million cases. There had been no real collision only a brushing of sleeve against sleeve, as a result of which deceased was thrown on the road and possibly owing to his having an abnormal type of skull, as described by the doctor, his death took place. He said with confidence that that was a case of "homocide by misadventure." There was nothing approaching criminal negligence. Having reviewed the evidence, emphasising the condition of the handle bars of deceased's machine, Mr. Hodnett dealt with the legal aspect of the case and appealed with confidence to the Court to refuse informations.

The Justice said he didn't feel justified in sending the case for trial and accordingly refused informations. He wished to express his sincere sympathy with the relatives of the deceased. He wished the public to note that he would keep that case in mind with dealing with charges of "no lights" in future.

MASTER BAKERS' GUILD

Meeting in Clonmel

The present was an age in which the value of trade organisations was fully realised, and unless they, as bakers carrying on a trade as old as their country, supported the Irish Guild of Master Bakers, they would not be able to cope properly with the many difficulties facing the trade, including recent Government Regulations, said Councillor E. V. White, Mayor, in welcoming delegates to a meeting of the Guild in Clonmel.

Mr. V. Halligan, Dublin, President, said that it was a very great pleasure to him to have the honour of presiding at that, their first meeting of the Guild Executive Council in the City of Clonmel. He thought it a happy augury for the success of the Guild that its first Executive Council meeting outside Dublin should be held in the County of Tipperary, the County of broad acres, and of citizens big and generous in their outlook and ideals. The aim of their Guild since its inception had been to help all those in the Bakery Trade, and in doing so it is extending its activities and proving its usefulness in every county in Eire. The Guild was not antagonistic to any organisation in the Trade, on the contrary, it welcomed the assistance of, and offered co-operation to all. They were aware, through their Journal, of the activities since the formation of the Guild.

Their Government had made very many drastic orders which gravely affected the Trade in general. These, together with, in some cases, ill-considered methods of trading, all combine to make their task anything but an easy one. But counting on the loyal co-operation of each and every individual member, and of the determination to give of his best to the Guild, they had absolute confidence that they would succeed.

It was surely most encouraging to them to hear on all sides, the opinion expressed, that the only hope for the future was in the revival of the System of Guilds, remodelled to suit present day conditions, particularly if Christian standards were to be upheld in this country.

Mr. M. J. O'Connor, Secretary, read correspondence from the Department of Industry and Commerce regarding the Advisory Committee for Master Bakers in Eire which had been proposed by the Guild, and also applications for licences for shift work in certain bakeries.

A report was read from the Guild's legal adviser as to the new Shops Acts and their operations as regards bakers and confectioners.

It was decided to hold a further meeting in Carrick-on-Suir on the 26th May.

Sympathy—The sad and unexpected death of Mrs. Hanney, wife of Mr. Stephen Hanney, Villierstown, which occurred on Sunday night, May 15th, caused the deepest sorrow in Cappoquin, where the deceased lady had always been held in the highest respect.

Mr. Stephen Hanney, her bereaved husband, is a member of one of the oldest and most esteemed families in Villierstown, and is one of the finest sportsmen in West Waterford, and a splendid judge of greyhounds.

Well-known and extremely popular in all sporting circles in Cappoquin and the surrounding districts, he has now the deepest sympathy of all classes in his sad bereavement, which, coming so soon after the recent death of Mrs. M. Moore, has robbed Villierstown of two of its most prominent and beloved inhabitants within a few weeks.—R.I.P.

Mr. Morrissey: I should be very glad if any one would produce proof of a case of that kind.

Mr. Morrissey: I shall go into that again. I was approached as I was leaving the town on that point. I am quite prepared to accept the Parliamentary Secretary's word but I was given to understand by these men that they had that given on the matter. I should like if the minor relief schemes were continued on a greater scale and that the Parliamentary Secretary would take into consideration the case of people living in the mountainous districts that I have mentioned. I think it would be a great service to these people, if they were allowed to register or were considered as unemployed for the purpose of having these schemes carried out in the mountainous areas.

PUBLIC WORKS

Mr. Michael Morrissey, T.D., speaking in An Dail on Tuesday, on a debate on the Estimate for the Office of Public Works said—

I wish to raise just a few points on this Vote. Splendid work is being done by the Board of Works all over the country through the medium of these minor relief schemes. These schemes are very much appreciated by the different sections of the community whom they serve and benefit. For instance, the repair of old boreens and the widening of by-roads leading into farms and farmers' houses are to my mind, very useful works and should be continued, and if possible intensified. There is one matter in this connection that I should like to suggest to the Parliamentary Secretary, that is, the advisability of the Board of Works seeking compulsory powers for the acquisition of land from the owners where-ever necessary. I know of a few cases in Waterford where owing to jealousy of neighbours, or for some other petty reason, the owners of certain land will not give the necessary permission for the work to proceed. I know of a number of desirable schemes in the constituency that have been held up for that reason. I believe myself that if compulsory powers were in the hands of the Board of Works, the knowledge that the Board of Works had such powers, would in itself, break down their being forced fully to create these powers, by sufficient to break down most of the opposition of the kind I mention. I think therefore, that either the Board of Works or the local authority should be given these powers.

Another point which I should like to raise has reference to the withdrawal of minor relief schemes from areas where there is not a sufficient number of registered unemployed. This applies in particular to mountainous districts. With very few exceptions, the population of these districts consists of very small holders who are in very poor circumstances. For various reasons these people do not register as unemployed at the Exchange. For instance, they may live six or seven miles away from the nearest Guards Barracks and, because of the small amount of unemployment assistance they could get, they do not bother to register. There is no doubt that those people in a sense are no better off financially than the ordinary labouring man and I would suggest to the Parliamentary Secretary that those people should be considered in all future minor relief schemes. They should be considered as unemployed for the purpose of enabling these very necessary schemes to be carried out in the areas in which they live. If the Parliamentary Secretary would adopt that suggestion it would be a great benefit financially to those people and it would assist them considerably in tiding over the lean winter months when there is no income whatsoever coming into their pockets. As I have said before they are in the unfortunate position that they are no better off than the ordinary labouring man whereas at the same time they have much greater overhead charges such as rent and rates. I think that that is a point that should be considered by the Parliamentary Secretary.

The only other matter to which I should like to refer is the desirability of employing men on minor relief schemes for at least six days of the week. This question has been raised by a number of Deputies, and I am aware of a number of cases in Waterford where last year men were in receipt of say, the maximum amount of unemployment assistance. They were then employed for two or three days on minor relief schemes and by reason of that fact they received less than they would have received if they were drawing unemployment assistance.

Mr. Flinn: I have the Deputy know of any single case in which that occurs?

Mr. Morrissey: I know that a deputation came to me in Dungarvan last year in which there were five or six men who stated that that was a fact in Waterford. Mr. Flinn: It was not true. There is not a single case of that kind so far as I am aware.

Mr. Morrissey: Would the Parliamentary Secretary

Mr. Flinn: I should be very glad if any one would produce proof of a case of that kind.

Mr. Morrissey: I shall go into that again. I was approached as I was leaving the town on that point. I am quite prepared to accept the Parliamentary Secretary's word but I was given to understand by these men that they had that given on the matter. I should like if the minor relief schemes were continued on a greater scale and that the Parliamentary Secretary would take into consideration the case of people living in the mountainous districts that I have mentioned. I think it would be a great service to these people, if they were allowed to register or were considered as unemployed for the purpose of having these schemes carried out in the mountainous areas.

NOTICE TO PERSONS CARRYING ON SLAUGHTER-HOUSES OR KNACKERS' YARDS

Notice is hereby given that the Minister for Local Government and Public Health has issued an Order under Section 4 of the Slaughter of Animals Act, 1935, conferring power on the Commissioner acting for Waterford Board of Public Health to regulate the Slaughter of Animals in the Waterford County Health District and that said Order will take effect on and from the 1st June, 1938.

The effect of the Order will be that on the date mentioned the Slaughter of Animals Act, 1935, will come into force in the County Health District. The Act provides for the proper treatment of animals in slaughter-houses, the humane slaughter of such animals by means of approved instruments and the licensing by the Sanitary Authority of persons using such instruments.

Full particulars as to approved instruments can be obtained on application at my Office, County Home, Dungarvan.

Persons carrying on Slaughter-houses or Knackers' Yards in the County Health District as well as persons engaged in the occupation of slaughter of cattle, sheep, goats, pigs, horses, asses or mules, must obtain a licence from the said Commissioner, forms of application for which can be obtained at my Office.

The act provides severe penalties for any person who slaughters any animal to which it applies without being the holder of a Slaughter Licence.

Every application for a licence must be accompanied by a fee of five shillings.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS AND BUILDERS

The Commissioner administering the affairs of the Waterford Board of Public Health will at a meeting to be held at the Secretary's Office, County Home, Dungarvan, on Wednesday, the 8th June, consider tenders for the erection of 56 Cottages in the Non-Municipal Towns and Villages in the County Health District.

The sites are arranged in Groups as follows and Contractors may tender for any number of Groups, but not for a smaller number of Cottages than that included in any one group:—

Group No.	Town or Village	Number of Cottages to be erected.
2	Lismore and Cappoquin	20
3	Tallow	12
4	Adrone	6
7	Bonnahon and Stradbally	4
8	Passage East	14
10	Dunmore	2

Lists giving further particulars can be obtained on application at my office, Co. Home, Dungarvan, where copies of Plans and Specification can also be obtained on payment of a deposit of £3 in respect of each Group for which plans are required. Such deposits will be returned on the receipt of a bona fide tender and the return of all documents.

The provisions of Section 8 of the Housing (Financial and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1932, will apply to the contracts.

Tenders on the official form (to be had on application) containing the names of two solvent sureties or of a Guarantee Society willing to join the person tendering in a bond in the sum required must be lodged with me not later than 12 o'clock (noon) on the 8th June, 1938.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By Order,
MICHAEL O'FLOINN, Runaidhe.

WIREWORMS AND SUGAR BEET

Drilling Wheat Between the Rows

Mr. F. R. Petherbridge, M.A., School of Agriculture, Cambridge, writing in the Journal of the English Ministry of Agriculture, states that observation over a number of years supports the opinion that the wireworm is the most destructive insect pest of sugar beet. The most severe damage is usually found on land that has been recently broken up from grass. The reason for this is that wireworms normally inhabit grass land and occur in much greater numbers there than elsewhere. Records show that the worst attacks occurred on crops grown in the first two seasons after the ploughing up of old grass land, but bad attacks have been encountered in crops grown in the third and fourth years after old grass. This is because the wireworms live for four or five years in the soil before they are fully fed. The worst damage is done when the seedlings are very young and readily destroyed by the feedings of the wireworms on the stems just below ground. When a second drilling is made the plants from this are occasionally badly attacked, but often a sufficient number of plants remain to make a satisfactory crop. Plants may be killed after sowing, when considerable sapping and consequent loss of crop is brought about. Gapping as a result of wireworm injury is very widespread. Observations suggest that wireworm damage is much worse in clean fields containing a number of grass weeds or rotting turfs.

Experimental

In 1936 a number of preliminary experiments that aimed at establishing the first fields were carried out on various farms in the eastern counties, and in these the best results were obtained by drilling wheat between the rows of beet. The experiments were not designed to kill the wireworms.

In 1937 experiments were carried out to test the value of drilling wheat between the rows of beet, combined with extra seeding. In March and April a number of fields were visited and examined for wireworm by digging with a fork. Six fields were selected as they appeared to offer promise of a wireworm attack, and experiments were carried out in these. At five centres the wireworm attack was insufficient or too irregular in distribution to be of use in determining the value of this method, but at the sixth centre there was a general attack of wireworms and very satisfactory results were obtained.

LATE MR. WM. DALTON, BALLYDONAGH

The death of Mr. Willie Dalton occurred at his residence, Ballymacarbery, removes a man of great stature to his country. He was a member of the Tan and Civil Wars.

He took part in many engagements of the West Waterford Column. He was taken prisoner the civil war period and served imprisonment at the Curragh and in the County Jail, Dungarvan. He was later associated with the Old I.R.A. Men's Association, and worked unceasingly in his interest. Secretary of the Battalion Area a considerable amount of work did voluntary, he did more than part in asserting the claims of the entitled to Service Pensions.

His health was undermined by hardships he experienced during troubled times and he passed away mourned by those who knew a fearless fighter in the cause of Independence.

An impressive tribute to his was paid at the interment which place to the family burial ground in the town of Dungarvan, the tricolour, was borne to the shoulders of his old comrade the 7th Battalion. Mr. Little T. Morrissey, T.D., and several well known figures in the Republican movement included in the attendance.

The casket was delivered by Whelan, Dungarvan and a deacon Rosary in Irish was recited by O'Ryan, Knockyishan.

DEATH
KEATING—May 28th at his residence, Monans Abbeyside, Michael Keating, deeply regretted by his sorrowing parents—R.I.P. Requiem Mass will be celebrated at the Parish Church, Dungarvan, on this Friday evening at 5 p.m. Burial on Saturday at 1 p.m.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

FEAST OF ST. RITA—Sunday last the Feast of St. Rita was observed in Dungarvan with due reverence, at the Augustinian Church after the 8 o'clock Mass, the blessing of the Roses took place. Solemn High Mass was celebrated at 11.30 a.m. the celebrant being Very Rev. P. Donegan, Prior; deacon, Rev. Fr. Coffey, sub-deacon, Rev. Fr. Madden. On Sunday evening the Triduum in honour of the Saint was concluded and a panegyric of the Saint was preached by Rev. Fr. Madden. Fr. Coffey, imparted Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, after which the blessing of the Roses concluded the ceremonies. St. Rita's Shrine was beautifully dressed during the Triduum and was visited by large numbers.

HAIRDRESSING—At the Eugene Demonstration held in Waterford, on Thursday May 19th models were presented by the various hairdressers in the city. Miss H. Mullins, Main Street, Dungarvan, presented Miss J. Moloney, who had a double back halo with big soft curls at the back, over a delightful blue evening frock. Miss Moloney looked charming. Other models equally charming presented by Miss Mullins were Miss G. Curran, who had a double crown halo with big soft waves, and Miss N. Norris, who had a big soft wave with roll curls at the back. All three styles were the only ones of their type at the demonstration and were described as something really new, on which Miss Mullins and her models were very highly praised.

DUNGARVAN EXCURSION CLUB—The Committee in charge of this year's outing to Killee, Co. Clare, on Whit-Sunday were compelled at a recent meeting to cease accepting any further additional reservations for seats and those whose reservations have been guaranteed are advised to make final arrangements with the Club President or the Collector at once as the Register of Members is now complete. Miss Mary Clancy, Club Vice-President and Mr. M. Brennan, Hon. Treas., are having a busy time putting the final touches to the extensive arrangements which they are making for the thorough enjoyment of the Travellers.

CUSHAM HURLING CLUB DRAW—The draw in aid of the funds of the Cusham Hurling Club, took place during the week, the winning ticket number 40 being held by Mr. D. Greany, Garabane.

DUNGARVAN COURSING CLUB—A special meeting of the above was held on Saturday 21st May. It was decided to hold the Annual General Meeting in the Town Hall, Dungarvan, on Saturday June 4th at 9 p.m. (S.T.). It is important that all members and intending members should attend. The agenda will embrace: Secretary's report and statement of accounts; election of Officers for the ensuing year, etc., etc.

DENTAL—The representatives of the late Mr. R. E. Bowen, L.D.S.I., Dental Surgeon, wish to announce that the practice is being carried on under the management of Mr. A. Wiley, L.D.S.I., at 21 Church Street, Dungarvan, and the Mall, Lismore.

£10,000,000 LOAN OVER-SUBSCRIBED—The subscription lists of the £10,000,000 Financial Agreement Loan were closed on Wednesday at the Bank of Ireland at 3 p.m. by direction of the Minister for Finance. Country applications received by first post on Thursday were considered. The total amount offered has been over-subscribed.

LATE MR. WM. DALTON, BALLYDONAGH—The death of Mr. Willie Dalton, which occurred at his residence Ballydonagh, Ballymacarbery, removes a man who rendered stalwart service to his country during the Tan and Civil Wars. He took part in many engagements as a member of the West Waterford Flying Column. He was taken prisoner during the civil war period and served terms of imprisonment at the Curragh and other prisons. He was later associated with the Old I.R.A. Men's Association, where he worked unceasingly in their interests. As Secretary of the Battalion Area, he had a considerable amount of work which he did voluntarily, he did more than a man's part in asserting the claims of comrades entitled to Service Pensions.

FOOTPATHS—A new scheme has been started by the Waterford County Council to provide concrete footpaths for the side streets of the town of Lismore. This has been greatly welcomed by the residents of the streets, and under the able supervision of Mr. J. O'Sullivan, the work is progressing very favourably. Besides conveniencing the people it will also supply the missing link which has heretofore been commented on.

NOTICE—Mrs. Mary O'Neill, 4 Western Terrace, Dungarvan, wishes to notify the public that she will not be responsible for debts contracted by any person without written authorisation.

BUTTERMAKING SUCCESS—At the Royal Ulster Agricultural Society's Show which opened at Balmoral, on Wednesday, The Knocknagall Co-Operative Ltd., secured 1st Prize for Pyramid Box unsalted Butter (not less than 25 lbs.). The securing of this much coveted prize in the face of such keen competition from creameries from the four provinces of Ireland is an achievement which redounds to the credit of Mr. Callanan, the capable Manager, and his butter-making staff.

TOURANEENA L. S. A.—At a meeting of the Touraneena Land Settlement Association held recently, the following resolution was passed:—"That we, the members of this Association strongly protest against the delay in dividing the land in this area, and maintain that the claims of the Old I.R.A. men should receive more prompt attention from the Department responsible. We also consider it an injustice to see large tracts of land lying dormant, while men capable of working it are forced to emigrate for a livelihood."

A CLERICAL CHANGE—Most Rev. Dr. Kinane, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, has just made the following clerical change:—Rev. M. Power, C.C., Ballynaneen, to be C.C., Clashmore, and Rev. P. Walsh, C.C., Clashmore, to be C.C., Ballynaneen. Fr. Power, who is a native of Waterford City has ministered in the parish of Strahally and Ballynaneen over the past twelve months and was a warm favourite of young and old therein. The prayers and good wishes of all accompany him to Clashmore.

G. A. A.—The following members of the Dungarvan Minor Hurling Team are requested to be on the Square on Sunday next June 5th not later than 1.30 p.m. to meet bus and travel to Lismore for Championship match with St. Carthage's. Each player is requested to be in possession of a hurley. J. Hourigan, M. Wade, C. Condon, A. Lawn, Jas. Finn, Jerry Flynn, Joe Harrington, J. Power, P. Hickey, T. Kiely, T. Sweeney, E. Sweeney, M. Keane, M. Lynch, P. Cahill, P. Nagle, K. Finn, L. Kelly, S. McCarthy, P. J. McGrath, Two-Mile-Brige; D. Mahony and S. Madden.

MINOR FOOTBALL MATCH—At the Gaelic Field, Dungarvan, on Thursday evening, St. Carthage's defeated the Pike in the Minor Football Championship (first round), before a small gathering of spectators. The Pike were first to attack, but missed several grand chances of scoring. The half-time score was—Lismore 1-1; Pike 0-0. Lismore kept up the pressure for most of the second half, but there was no further score. The final scores stood—St. Carthage's 1-1; The Pike 0-0. For the losers Power, McGuire, Flynn and Hayes played a great game, while Moore was the outstanding man on the winning team.

GOOD PRICES AT GREYHOUND SALES—At the Greyhound Sales, held by Messrs. Davin, at Harold's Cross, on Wednesday, prices showed an upward trend following the removing of import duties on greyhounds entering England. Miss May Hartly, secured top price of 255 guineas for Highland Buzzer, an 1936 puppy by White Sandhills—Fordsons Gift, while Mr. T. F. Lynch, sold a 1937 puppy for 40 guineas.

RECENT WILL—Mr. John Hill, of Kilmacthomas, Co. Waterford, merchant, who died on January 7th last, left personal estate in England and Ireland, valued at £5,085 12s. 7d. He left his residence and effects and his business to his son Archelaus Boyle Hill, £400 to his son, John George, £200 to his daughter, Margaret Rachel, £200 to his grand-daughter, Margaret Alice, and the residue to his son Archelaus Boyle Hill. Probate has been granted to his son, A. B. Hill.

DEATH OF MR. M. KEATING—We regret to announce the death which took place on Thursday morning of Mr. Michael Keating, Monang, Abbeyside, after a rather protracted illness. The deceased young man who was a general favourite with all who had the pleasure of knowing him was a sportsman to his fingertips and his passing in the early twenties has occasioned widespread regret. To his bereaved parents the deepest sympathy is extended.—R.I.P.

DUNGARVAN DISTRICT COURT—The report of the Dungarvan District Court held on Wednesday last is unavoidably held over to next issue, when a full report of same will appear.

NOTICE—Mrs. Mary O'Neill, 4 Western Terrace, Dungarvan, wishes to notify the public that she will not be responsible for debts contracted by any person without written authorisation.

YOUGHAL URBAN COUNCIL

Present—Messrs. P. J. O'Gorman, P.C., Chairman, R. Power, J. Daly, B.E., R. Savage, P.C., T. K. Keane, J. Whelan, T. Beaumont, E. P. Lynch, M. Ahern.

Wages, Etc. On the proposition of Mr. Savage, seconded by Mr. Power, a cheque for £87 10s. 11d. wages, etc., for week was passed.

Gaelic Social Club The application of the Gaelic Social Club for the use of the Town Hall on 29th to hold a céilidhe was granted.

Rent Defaulters Letters were read from some of the Council's tenants asking for further changes to make good their arrears. Mr. Savage said they should try and be humane in their treatment of those poor people.

The Chairman said he thought they were one of the most humane boards in the country, leaving their tenants run in arrears, in one case over 50 weeks. Would a private individual allow the like?

Summer Season During a discussion on the preparation of the place for the summer, it was stated that some of the young trees at McCurtainstown had been deliberately damaged.

Mr. Whelan—There's a spirit for you!

Water Supply The Water Curator reported that the height of water in the town reservoir was 16 feet. The small reduction was due to the fact that he had carried out a series of tests as instructed. The meter at the Mental Hospital registered 139,000 gallons for the past 2 weeks.

The Chairman said he had been informed by the Town Surveyor that there was 90,000 gallons wasted in the night. That was a shocking state of things, equivalent to over 40 gallons per head of the population. There must be something very wrong somewhere, or a large number of leaks. In spite of that they had left it in the town reservoir.

Mr. Daly—There must be terrible waste somewhere. The Clerk said there was great wastage from leaks and taps left running. It was unanimously decided to procure a "detector," and to take strong action against anyone found wasting water.

Unemployment Grants The Local Government wrote regarding the proposal of the Council to carry out improvements to a pipe line of the water supply. Those proposals would be duly considered on receipt of the necessary details. Until then it would not be possible to decide whether the proposed work would qualify for any contribution from the Employment Funds applicable to public health works. It should, however, be clearly understood, that no proposal to divert the road allocation would be entertained unless the Council was prepared to undertake a special employment scheme on the conditions governing that allocation, the amount which it was stated would be made available would be withdrawn.

Housing Sites The Local Government also wrote regarding the claim of the Council for a grant from the vote of Employment Schemes towards the development of a housing site at MacCurtainstown, requesting them to furnish a lay-out of the site together with detailed estimates of the cost of the proposed works. It should also be stated whether the Council intended to proceed with the erection of houses on that site immediately. Information should be furnished as to the time in which the works could be completed and as to the unskilled labour connected with the works.

Shops Act, Etc. The Clerk submitted a letter from the Local Government, Department, a copy of the New Shops Act, etc. The first thing to be done was to terminate the employment of the present Inspector of the Half-Holiday Act, and to appoint another to see that the provisions of the new Act were complied with. Mr. Power—A very necessary proceeding.

The Chairman—The members of the Council should peruse the Act carefully. It was going to lean very heavily on some small traders—it would cripple them.

The Clerk—The enforcement of Part 6 is your funeral.

Mr. Whelan—The interference with business was going too far.

The Chairman—They should travel more slowly, with bad times and more regulations and restrictions. Mr. Power said he would like to see some of those legislators in the position of the shopkeepers. They would not be such acrobats.

After further discussion the matter was postponed to a further meeting.

Meat and Milk The Co. M.O.H., forwarded copies of the Vet. Inspector's report on his inspection of meat and milk for the month. They were pronounced satisfactory.

New Housing Scheme Mr. Power—Is there anything from the Local Government regarding the new Scheme of Housing. The Clerk—They are rushing it as fast as they can.

The Chairman inquired of the latest scheme of 28 houses was yet completed. The Clerk—Not yet, but it will soon be finished.

Knockaverry Water Main In accordance with notice, Mr. Keane, proposed that they lay a new 3-inch water main at Knockaverry, in lieu of the present 1 inch. A letter was read from Messrs. Hod-

THE IRISH EGG TRADE

HOW TO MAKE IT MORE PROFITABLE

The soil and climate of this country are exceptionally suitable for the production of eggs of the highest quality. The free range system of poultry-keeping practised in the country and the consequently healthy condition of our poultry assist further in the production of eggs of outstanding quality, and it is in fact acknowledged that a fresh Irish egg is unsurpassable for quality, flavour and nutritive properties.

On the export market fresh Irish eggs invariably command a price in excess of any other stamped eggs and second only to non-stamped eggs. Unfortunately, many of our eggs on the home and export market cannot be regarded as fresh and thus command comparatively low prices. The resulting loss amounts to thousands of pounds annually besides injuring the reputation of Irish eggs in general.

How is this loss to be avoided? No elaborate or costly measures are necessary. All that is required is that producers and others engaged in the egg industry should make certain that eggs are marketed in fresh and clean condition without being washed.

Special attention is called to the harmful effects of washing or stepping dirty eggs. This practice, which is unfortunately very common, removes the dirt at the expense of the keeping quality of the eggs. Washing removes the protective covering from the shell, thus facilitating the entry of germs which cause rapid deterioration of the egg. There are good grounds for believing that this practice of washing dirty eggs is largely responsible for the unduly high proportion of stale and bad eggs found in consignments examined by Inspectors of the Department. An even more serious cause of the unsatisfactory condition in which so many of our eggs reach consumers is the practice of holding supplies too long. No producer would himself buy eggs which are three or four weeks old, yet many producers act as though the consumer is willing to do so. A fresh egg is an appetising and nourishing food, always assured of a ready sale, whereas a stale or bad egg tends to lower both the demand and the price. If we can convince the purchasing public that our eggs are always fresh, a higher price and a wider demand will inevitably be assured.

Eggs should be kept longer than three days after being laid. During that time they should be stored in a clean, dry container, in a cool, dry room, free from odour. They should not be kept in a warm kitchen or in any room roofed with galvanised iron. Heat accelerates decomposition and causes rapid evaporation resulting in the formation of a large air space at the end of the egg. An egg so affected is regarded as a stale egg. Attention to the following precautions will effect an immediate and permanent improvement in egg prices:

- (1) Provide clean nests and keep the approaches clean.
(2) Renew nesting material frequently.
(3) Collect the eggs from the nests several times daily and especially 2 1/2 to 3 hours before they are laid.
(4) Keep broody hens off the nests.
(5) Remove any dirt from the eggs immediately after collection from the nests by rubbing them with a clean, damp (but not wet) cloth. DO NOT WASH EGGS.
(6) Place the eggs in a clean, dry container and store in a cool, dry place free from draughts and away from anything having a pronounced odour.
(7) Do not market eggs which have been laid on grass or in hedges or fences.
(8) Keep the small eggs for your own use.
(9) Market eggs at least twice a week.

nett, to the Council, stating that the project was in order. After some discussion it was decided to ask the Town Surveyor for an estimate of the cost and to instruct the Water Curator to inquire into the condition of the present supply.

Poor Rate Estimate The Clerk submitted the Poor Rate estimate for the coming year—6/10, as compared with 7/- last year.

Mr. Whelan proposing the adoption of the estimate complimented the Clerk on the result. This was seconded by Mr. Power and passed unanimously.

Acknowledgments Letters of acknowledgment of vote of sympathy were read from Messrs. B. Stone, Youghal, J. Walsh, Lyreacarrig, Trilow and E. O'Malley, Kyle.

The total sum payable in respect of Poor Rate by the occupier of agricultural land, the rateable valuation of which does not exceed £20, will be reduced by a sum equal to 7.6 Pence in the £ 3/4 said land. A similar allowance will be made on the first £20 of agricultural land exceeding £20 valuation.

On the part of the valuation of agricultural land above £20 a reduction will be given at the Primary Allowance Rate of 7.6 Pence in the £ on an amount not exceeding £12 10s. 0d. valuation in respect of employment of each male person (17 to 70 years of age) in the period 1st January to 31st December, 1937, where claims have been lodged on or before 31st March, 1938, and admitted.

The balance of the sum allocated to the County for the purpose will go to reduce the rates by a sum equal to 40.17 Pence in the £ on the part of the valuation above £20 that does not otherwise get relief.

The Rate Books are deposited for the inspection of any Ratepayer in the Office of the County Council, and will be there open for such inspection between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. (Saturdays 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.) during the fourteen days next ensuing the date hereof, exclusive of Sundays and Bank Holidays. Signed this 21st day of May, 1938.

J. H. O'SULLIVAN, Secretary to the Council.

At the last meeting of the Board of Health, a letter was read from the Secretary, Central Midwives Board, forwarding certified copy of Financial Statement and stating that the proportion payable by Board is £11 3s. 3d. Also forwarding copy of Department's letter approving of the balance for apportionment.

An order was made that the amount be paid. The matter was referred to the County Engineer for report.

JUNIOR FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP AT DUNGARVAN

Stradbally, 3-8; Brickey Rangers, Nil. On Sunday last at the Gaelic Field, Dungarvan, under ideal weather conditions, in the first round of the Junior football championship, Stradbally had a comfortable win over Brickey Rangers.

For most of the hour Stradbally had the opposing lines under heavy pressure and the game was never in doubt. Stradbally led by 7 points to nil at half-time.

Prior to the championship match the Pike junior football team played a Dungarvan selection. Final score—Dungarvan 3-2; The Pike 0-1.

THE FIG THAT WEIGHS

NOT LESS THAN 1 cwt. 1 qr. 9 lbs. AND NOT MORE THAN 1 cwt. 2 qrs. 7 lbs. (D.W.)

It pays to produce the best from every point of view and it really takes no more trouble to turn out the best than to produce the bad

Attention to housing and feeding and the securing in the first instance of a good strain of pigs will set the farmer on the right road to the production of the pig that pays best.
