G. A. A. COUNTY SENIOR HURLING CHAMPIONSHIP

Champions Swamped by a Hard-Hitting Dungarvan Fifteen

At the Gaelic Field, Waterford on Sunday last, the Gaels of the City were thrilled by watching Portlaoighaire, last year's hurling champions, being completely swamped by the fastest and cleverest team Dungarvan has had for many years. From the whistle to half-time the game was packed with thrills and the hurling was of the highest inter-county standard. Portlaoighaire, famous for their first-time hitting throughout the County were met and beaten at their own game. The "Blues" seemed to have made up their minds that victory was to be had by dash and speed, and from the first they set a wonderful pace. The first ten minutes saw Portlaoighaire in 1 goal and two points before the Old Borough lads could find their feet. A quick change in the Dungarvan defence soon made matters right at that end for the "Blues," and then their half backs and centre-field began the first of their spectacular raids. From the defence they went to attack and the forwards showed their worth by raising the white flag twice in as many minutes. With the Portlaoighaire mid-field well held by Ryan and Barron, Dungarvan forced the pace and soon had the ball among their forwards. Halpin, Good and Dwyer fought hard for a score and with the goal at their mercy the whistle went for a goal. From the free twenty yards out, Good sent the ball all the way to raise the green flag for Dungarvan. The score being level the crowd cheered as both sides strained to get the lead. Portlaoighaire from a free 50 yards out scored a point to lead again. From the puck-out Dungarvan took the ball right through in a whirlwind dash in which all the forwards played their part to force a major score. Johnny Murphy, who had been in the van of each raid got a severe injury to the head in this fight and had to retire. Inside ten minutes Dungarvan had raised the white flag twice and half time found the score Dungarvan 3-4; Portlaoighaire 1-3.

On resuming Dungarvan had the advantage of the wind and quickly passed the play into the Portlaoighaire half. With the wings spread out on goal and side lines they began a fierce onslaught from mid-field. Mountain, Moylan and Daly lined across the field at half back made the Dungarvan goal safe, while Ryan and Barron moved up to keep the play well in the Portlaoighaire half. The Dungarvan forwards made their names in Co. Hurling with their first-time accurate hitting. Portlaoighaire gave a wonderful display of defence. Time and again the ball seemed in the net only to be chased away by this famous inter-county full. But Portlaoighaire could not hold out against such an onslaught. Time and again the net fell as each forward got his score. A last minute effort by Portlaoighaire resulted in a goal which was disallowed by the umpires as the forward was within the prohibited area. Mick Hickey during the last ten minutes made valiant efforts to stem the tide of defeat by moving out to midfield in an effort to force a score.

Dungarvan centre-field still held the mastery and although some spectacular duels between Hickey and Barron gave a much-needed rest to the Portlaoighaire defence it was only a flash in the pan, and when the long whistle sounded Dungarvan were pressing around the posts for another score.

The final whistle found Dungarvan winners 8-5 to 2-3.

Members of the Senior Selection Committee who attended the match had a great chance of sizing up form as both teams were at full strength and included all the inter-county possibles and probabilities in each club.

SUDDEN DEATH IN CAPPOQUIN

An unmarried woman named Katie Quinn, aged 55 years, died suddenly at her residence in Barrack Street, Cappoquin, on Whit Monday evening.

Although she had been ailing for some considerable time past, and had undergone a rather serious operation for an internal ailment some time ago, her general condition gave no outward indication that death was imminent, so that her sudden and unexpected end proved a great shock to her brother and local friends on Monday evening.

Sgt. J. Browne, and the local Guards having investigated the circumstances of her death, duly reported the matter to Dr. McCarthy, Carroneer, Dungarvan, but they were notified on Tuesday that owing to the fact that she had been under medical care for some time past, he did not consider an inquest necessary. Deceased was a member of one of the oldest families in Cappoquin, and was of a quiet and retiring nature, and a devout and exemplary Catholic, and her tragic passing has occasioned much regret.

On Tuesday evening the remains were removed from her late residence to St. Mary's Catholic Church, being followed by a large concourse of the townspeople, and after Requiem Mass for the repose of her soul on Wednesday, the funeral took place to Affane cemetery where there was another large attendance of the general public.—R.I.P.

DUNGARVAN DISTRICT COURT.

HEAVY FINE IN MOTOR COLLISION CASE

STRAINED RELATIONS IN BOREENATRAW

At the Dungarvan District Court, held on Wednesday before Mr. S. J. Troy, D.J.,

The adjourned cases and cross-cases between Mrs. Annie Kieley v. Mrs. Nagle and Mrs. Daly; Wm. Mulcahy v. John Kieley, came up for hearing.

The cases arose out of alleged assault and counter-assault and abusive language in November last, were adjourned on one reason or another a number of times.

Further summonses and cross-summaries were issued by Mrs. Kieley against Mrs. Nagle and Wm. Mulcahy and Wm. Mulcahy against John Kieley in respect of assaults and abusive language on May 14th last.

Mr. L. F. Lanigan, solr., appeared for the Kieleys.

Mr. A. R. Farrell, solr., appeared for Mulcahy, Nagle, Daly, etc.

Mrs. Kieley, replying to Mr. Lanigan, said that on the 14th May, she was at home. The Mulcahys and Nagles had some trouble in Mulcahy's house. When that finished they came to witness's door and Mulcahy tried to break it in. Mrs. Nagle was there and said she would be satisfied when she had witness in hospital.

On the following Monday Mrs. Nagle caught her by the hair and knocked and kicked her in the lane.

To Mr. Farrell—She did not issue any summonses in respect of the assault on the Monday. When Guard McGee came to Mulcahy there might be blood on Mulcahy's shirt. Her husband did not beat Mulcahy up. She would swear Mrs. Mulcahy and Mrs. Nagle had drunk taken on 14th. Her husband is in Court.

Guard O'Dea said on May 14th he saw Garrett Moylan and Mulcahy on the street and thought it necessary to put them off the street. Later that evening as a result of a complaint he went to Mulcahy's house, and Mulcahy said he had been assaulted by John Kieley who struck him with a stone.

Guard McGee said that on the evening of Saturday 17th May he went to Strand Street as a result of a message from Mrs. Kieley who reported they were trying to break in the door. He went to Mulcahy's house and saw that he was cut. He said he was assaulted by Kieley, but Kieley denied striking Mulcahy.

To Mr. Farrell—Kieley is the man who got jail for assaulting a Guard and for tearing his uniform.

Guard Straine said Mrs. Kieley called him as he was passing and showed him black marks on her ankles.

James Connors, gave evidence of seeing Mulcahy and Mrs. Nagle trying to break in Mrs. Kieley's door.

To Mr. Lanigan—He was not summoned as a witness by Mrs. Kieley.

Mr. Farrell—Will you be afraid to walk down the lane after giving evidence here?

Witness—I will not; I am not afraid of anyone.

Thomas Connors, a brother of the last witness said he called the Guards as he saw Mulcahy and Mrs. Nagle at Kieley's door trying to break it in.

To Mr. Farrell—They were saying they wanted to get satisfaction.

John Kieley said on the 14th May he finished working at the "Lady Belle" about 7 p.m. When he went home he did not see Mulcahy at all, and was washing himself when Guard McGee called and asked him if he had struck Mulcahy.

To Mr. Farrell—Mulcahy said to the Guard that witness struck him with a stone and the summons is for striking him with a fist. Witness did not strike him at all.

Wm. Mulcahy (the first of the defendants) said he had some drink that day and when going down the lane he was saying to his wife that it was a terror he was arguing and fighting like this. Kieley ran across and struck him.

To Mr. Lanigan—Kieley struck him with a stone in the lane. It would not be right to say that witness had so much drink that he did not know what struck him. Witness was never in Court before or in jail. He did not fall on the floor that evening. He was 8 years in the lane and never before had a word with anyone.

Mrs. Daly, Mrs. Mulcahy and Mrs. Nagle having given evidence denying any assault on Mrs. Kieley.

The Justice said he would adjourn all the cases for 3 months, and if there was any complaint from the Gaels of any one case, all the parties would be sorry as well as being bound to the peace.

THE DEFENSE OF OUR MINOR HURLERS BY KERRY IN KILLARNEY LAST SUNDAY IS MORE THAN A SURPRISE. IT IS A SHOCK AND A SEVERE BLOW TO OUR PRIDE AND, IF THE TRUTH BE TOLD, A HUMILIATION. THERE WAS NO ROOM FOR DOUBT ABOUT THE MERIT OF KERRY'S VICTORY. THEY BEAT OUR YOUNG HOPFULS FAIRLY AND SQUARELY IN EVERY PHASE OF THE GAME. THEY WERE SPEEDIER, FASTER TO PULL, HARDER HITTERS AND MORE ACCURATE SHOOTERS. ABOVE ALL THEY PUT FIRE AND A CONFIDENCE INTO THEIR PLAY. THE DETAIL LADS, IN APPEARANCE, HEIGHT AND WEIGHT, LOOKED IMPRESSIVE ENOUGH, BUT THEIR DISPLAY BELIED THEIR LOOKS. THEY WERE BIG ENOUGH, IN ALL CONSEQUENCE, BUT THEY WERE NOT GOOD ENOUGH. THEY LACKED MANY THINGS, BUT CHIEFLY GRIT. THEY HAD LITTLE ANTICIPATION AND LESS SENSE OF POSITION. THEIR MOVES SEEMED TO BE "THEY ALSO SERVE WHO ONLY STAND AND WAIT." OUR SUPER-CONFIDENT YOUTHS CAUGHT A TARTAR AND NO MISTAKE. LAST YEAR'S TRALESE LESSON SEEMED TO HAVE BEEN LOST ON THEM.

Drunks

Sergt. Russell, prosecuted James Grapp, for being drunk. Fined 2/6.

Guard Begley, prosecuted Thomas Elyan, for a like offence. A similar fine was imposed.

Wandering Animals

Guard Enright, charged D.J. Wade, and Pats. McCarthy, for allowing animals to wander on the public thoroughfare.

A fine of 2/- in each case was imposed.

School Attendance

A few cases under the School Attendance Act were disposed of. Guard Regan, School Attendance Officer, was complainant.

Collision At Abbeyside

Superintendent Walsh, charged Wm. Deaneley, Slate Quarries, Carrick-on-Str., under Sections 30 and 31 of the Road Traffic Act.

The case was the sequel to a collision which occurred at Sexton Street, Abbeyside on Sunday May 8th at 9.45 p.m.

Mr. A. R. Farrell, solr., appeared for defendant.

Mrs. J. J. Crotty, Abbeyside, said that on the evening in question she drove to the house of an employee shortly before 10 p.m. She left the car stationary at the kerb with one dipped and one dimmed light on. She was speaking to Mr. Alan at his door when she saw a small car approach, it swerved and went straight into the car. She immediately pushed her car back about 6 feet. When the defendant got out she asked witness what she was doing at the wrong side of the road. Witness suggested sending for Guard Straine who lived in the same street. It was perfectly bright at the time the street lamps were on.

Witness replying to Mr. Farrell, solr., said if she was in a car and met a car with only one light she would either crawl or stop altogether. When defendant got out he asked her why she was on the wrong side of the road. He did not say he was pulling up. The visible damage to the car, was bumper to the door.

Mr. T. Allen, corroborated the evidence of the last witness.

Guards Straine, Farrell and O'Dea, and Sergt. Russell, also gave evidence.

Dr. Cusack said he was called to examine the defendant about 10.20 p.m. on May 8th to put him through the usual tests, and formed the opinion that he was under the influence of alcohol and not in a position to drive a car. He put him through the usual tests, standing with feet together and eyes closed; walking a straight line; putting his finger on his nose; making a bee-line for the door; picking a pin off the floor, etc. He did all the tests reasonably well with the exception of going to the door.

Witness was examined at length by Mr. Farrell.

Defendant, in evidence detailed his movements on that day, since he left Carrick at about 3 p.m. On his way to Dungarvan he visited Crotty's Lake and when he came to the Pike he stopped there as there was a football match on. He had 2 bottles of ale. When he came to Dungarvan where he was to visit a Mr. Farrell who lives in the street where the collision occurred. He had 2 more bottles of ale while replying the car, the points of which had got dry. The cause of the accident was drinking by the powerful

THE GENERAL ELECTION

Rival Meetings In Lismore

(From our Cappoquin Correspondent.)

Last Wednesday being Fair Day in Lismore, both the Fine Gael and Fianna Fail Parties availed of the presence of the farmers and labourers in the town to hold election meetings in support of their respective claims, so that the people were treated to a regular spate of oratory from no less than eight speakers, four of whom advocated one policy, and the other four advocating an entirely different policy.

One striking feature of the entire proceedings was the splendid order and good humour displayed at both meetings, which were attended by practically the same crowd, and the friendly spirit which prevailed amongst the opposing candidates was reflected by the fact that previous to the Fine Gael meeting, which was held first, Mrs. Redmond, Fine Gael candidate and Mr. Sean Goulding, Fianna Fail candidate, were seen having a most friendly conversation in the porch of the Devonshire Arms Hotel which made many of the public ask themselves, "Why should we fall out with each other over this election?"

The Fine Gael meeting was addressed from a motor car opposite the M. and L. Bank in West Street, and while there was not much enthusiasm amongst the large crowd, the proceedings proved most orderly and peaceful from start to finish, and the various speakers were cordially received and patiently listened to, Mr. P. J. Little, Fianna Fail candidate, being a most attentive listener to the various speeches.

Mr. J. W. O'Gorman, solr., Lismore, presided, and after a brief but spirited opening address, introduced Mrs. Redmond, who said that she was the United Irish Party, for which her late husband and also his late father, John Redmond, had always stood, (applause).

Referring to the recent Agreement between this country and England, she said that while they all welcomed it as a boon to the farming community, her party held that it had come too late, as it should have been made six years ago before the farmers had been reduced to the stage of poverty in which they found themselves at present, through the mismanagement and extravagance of Mr. de Valera's Government.

G.A.A. NOTES & NOTIONS

Not more than 6 of our lads were up for inter-county minis. It is no exaggeration to say that young Healy's steady goal-keeping saved the Deise side from utter rout. The defence on the whole was good. Lawlor, who came on as a sub, was the best back of view, while Crowe and O'Leary did not spare their selves in stemming the fierce Kerry raids. The full-back line was shaky though, Foley, apart from the mistake of crowding the goal, showed up well. The rest of the side were very moderate indeed. The worth of the Deise forwards may be judged from their performances in the three quarters they failed to register a single score. After the first quarter, when the Kerry backs got their measure, they faded out of the scoring news entirely and never looked like coming back. Galvin tried hard at mid-field, but his earnestness was wasted owing to feeble forward work. The Kingdom lads were by no means flattered to win by 3 goals 3 points to 2 goals 1 point, and if the same teams met again, I believe the margin in their favour would be much greater.

Our Senior Footballers are quietly fazed to beat Tipperary in the Munster Football Championships in Dungarvan next Sunday. It is the best combination in a generation to don the Portlaoighaire lights of the other car. He is driving since 1932 and never had an accident.

Mr. Conaghan, who accompanied defendant in the car also gave evidence.

The Justice said he had no doubt defendant had some drink taken. His inclination in these cases is to give jail, but taking into account the defendant is driving since 1932 without having an accident, he would only impose a fine of £5 with £22s. doctor's fees and would send him from driving for 12 months.

If the Fine Gael Party were returned to power at this election, she promised that they would introduce a measure of de-rating for the farmers which would help them to recoup some of the losses which they had sustained since the Fianna Fail Party had come into power. The Fianna Fail Party now said that this would cost 1 1/2 millions of money, and more than the country could afford, but the Fine Gael Party would find the money by reducing the enormous cost of the Civil Service and the thousands of unnecessary inspectors who were now such a crushing burden on the taxpayers (applause).

She referred to the new Shops Act, which she said was bound to inflict untold hardships and loss on the shopkeepers in every town, and said although the clauses relating to Sunday closing had been temporarily suspended, but not repealed, as an "Election Stunt," it would be found that they would be rigorously enforced if the Fianna Fail Government got back to power in this election, just the same as the price of flour and bread had been reduced during the former election, but immediately increased when that Government was returned to office.

The prosperity of the town traders depended on the prosperity of the farmers, while the labourers were also dependent on the same prosperity, and she now appealed to all her hearers to vote solidly for the Fine Gael Party, which was pledged to bring happiness and prosperity to the farmers, labourers, shopkeepers and all classes in the country. (applause).

Mr. W. J. Broderick, Chairman, Cork Co. Council, the new Fine Gael Candidate for Co. Waterford, who was very well received, in the course of a powerful and well-reasoned speech, referred to the rosate promises made by Mr. de Valera at the last election, not one of which he had fulfilled. The Fianna Fail Government had attained power on the promise of a reduction of taxation by not less than £2,000,000, but instead of that they had increased taxation by over £4,000,000. They had promised to relieve unemployment and to stop emigration, but the figures in both cases had since gone up by thousands, which proved what little faith the people should have in any promises made by that Party. He would like to know if they still stood over the policy of self-sufficiency, which had now been repudiated by Mr. Lemass? (hear, hear).

Mr. Nicholas Wall, in the course of an able and convincing speech, dealt with a variety of subjects, including De-rating, the cost of the Forts taken over from the British, the poverty of the farmers and labourers, the price of bread, the Shops Act, and other matters, and asked the people to vote for the Fine Gael candidates at this election, and showed that the people of the County Waterford were determined to have a sane and stable Government in charge of their destinies in future, (hear, hear).

Mr. Broderick then proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. O'Gorman for presiding, and this was seconded by Mrs. Redmond, who warmly thanked all for the kind and patient hearing which they had given to the various speakers, and she hoped they would give the speakers at the Fianna Fail meeting the same order and enthusiastic greeting, as she understood that they were holding a meeting after this meeting had been delayed owing to the length of the speeches at this meeting, (applause).

The entire crowd then moved down to the Monument, opposite the Courthouse, where the Fianna Fail meeting was held, the proceedings being presided over by Mr. Sean Goulding, Lismore, one of the Fianna Fail candidates.

The Chairman, Mr. P. J. Little, Mr. M. Morrissey, Dungarvan, and Mr. Michael O'Ryan, Ballymacarbry, delivered vigorous speeches mainly rebutting all the arguments used at the Fine Gael meeting. Mr. Morrissey's address being particularly effective, as he said that Mr. de Valera and his Government had fulfilled all the promises they had made at the last election and had done everything in their power to improve the lot of the farmers and labourers and all other classes in the country, so that no other Government should be returned to power now, except Mr. de Valera's Government which had given the people such loyal and patriotic service during the past 6 years (applause).

Mr. Michael O'Ryan, also addressed the meeting.

INCH NOTES

Death of Mrs. Edmond Joyce, Ballyknock.

Although not in very good health for some time back, the death of Mrs. Joyce of Ballyknock was altogether unexpected and came as a terrible shock to her family and many friends.

The greatest sympathy is felt for the bereaved husband and family and people came from far and near during the obsequies to condole with them in their great sorrow. The interment took place on Friday at the family burial ground at Clonmuck, and though the day was extremely wet, and the journey a long one, a large concourse of people attended and practically all of them went the whole distance.

Death of Miss H. Donovan. The death of Miss Hannee Donovan, which took place on June 1st at the residence of her nephew, Mr. John O'Brien, Park, closed the earthly career of one whose whole life was spent in quiet preparation for the great hereafter.

Death of Mrs. Wm. O'Mahoney. The death of Mrs. Wm. O'Mahoney, formerly of Youghal Park, which took place in Youghal on Saturday, June 4th, is regretted by her relatives and many friends.

In 'B' grade hurling there is a very interesting fixture set for the Youghal Club grounds on Sunday week, June 19th, the clubs concerned being Kilmacross and Castlemartyr, whose 'A' team have won seven consecutive years of their display in their many clashes in the great Inch tournament, which is still unfinished.

Lack Hurling Club. At a specially convened meeting of the above held on Sunday last, presided over by Rev. Fr. Brew, C.C., and attended by practically all the club members, the Rev. President referred to the loss the Joyce family had sustained during the week, and said that all felt very deeply for Paddy Joyce who was one of their most valued members.

G.A.A. News. The Youghal 'B' grade team travelled to Kilmacross on Sunday and had an interesting match with the newly-formed 'B' team from the latter club.

Knockanore v. Inch. This was a challenge match in aid of Glendine Parochial funds, and was played in Knockanore territory. Neither team was at full strength. The Inch team being minus the services of O'Leary and Hennessy, who are amongst the leading players in the team.

Waterford Athletic and Cycling Club. At the usual monthly meeting of the above, a vote of sympathy was passed to the relatives of the late Mr. Peter Wells, Ballymish, Bective. BOWL-PLAYING

Final Of Cappoquin Tournament

"THE RICHIE RYAN CUP"

Some months ago Mr. Richie Ryan, Cork, the well-known Turf Accountant, who has an important office in Cappoquin very kindly presented a valuable Silver Cup to the young men of Cappoquin for the purpose of running off a Bowl-playing Tournament amongst them.

Mr. Ryan's great generosity and sportsmanship were very much appreciated at the time, and Mr. Jack McCarthy, B.A., an enthusiastic local sportsman, at once took the necessary steps to get the Tournament started, and received the greatest support from all the followers of the game in the town, no less than 41 of whom promptly entered for the contest.

At the start of the Tournament, O'Shea had received 5 bowls of odds, Curran 6 bowls, and Ahearne 9 bowls, so that O'Shea was virtual scratchman in the final, and was conceding a bowl of odds to Curran and Ahearne.

The weather was beautifully fine for the event, and the road was in excellent condition, but it must be said that neither of the finalists displayed the same good form as he had shown in the earlier rounds, and the bowling, on the whole, was rather disappointing.

Mr. J. McCarthy, B.A., said as the Tournament was now concluded, he wished to thank all those who had so ably assisted him in carrying out all the arrangements, and making the event such a great success.

Mr. James Ahearne, the winner of the Cup, suitably thanked Mr. McCarthy for the admirable manner in which the Tournament had been conducted by him, and he joined with him in conveying the best wishes of the competitors to Mr. Richie Ryan for his decency in presenting them with such a grand cup, which he hoped would be the means of promoting further Tournaments like this for many years to come.

The Annual Corpus Christi Procession will be held through the streets in Lisafree on Sunday 19th June. Already the inhabitants of the town are busy transferring their house fronts to various hues.

A special altar is being erected, where Bonaparte's name shall be the entire congregation. The monthly meeting of the Ardmore A. F. Club, which was held on Saturday evening last, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Close of the Mission

On last Sunday evening the fortnight's Mission which had been conducted in the parish of Newtown and Kill by two distinguished priests of the Redemptorist Order, Limerick, was brought to a close amidst scenes of the greatest devotion and impressiveness. Two preachers who had charge of the Mission were the Very Rev. Fr. Tracey and Very Rev. Thomas O'Connor, and the visit of the latter to the parish created considerable interest by reason of the fact that he is a native of the Diocese, being worthy son of the late Mr. Mrs. James O'Connor, Limerick. Following a brilliant Collegiate career, Fr. O'Connor received his Ordination five years ago. A preacher of great eloquence and impressiveness, he had in Fr. Tracey, as a colleague, a veteran and saintly preacher, who has had a wonderful experience on Missionary work in various parts, so that the people of Newtown and Kill were extremely fortunate in having two such eminent Fathers amongst them during the past fortnight. The various exercises of the Mission were magnificently attended by young and old of the faithful of the parish all through the fortnight, large numbers being present at the morning Masses and lectures, while the attendances at the evening devotions and sermons constituted a record, and the local clergy—Very Rev. Fr. Tracey, P.P., Rev. M. Power, C.C., and Rev. J. Hally, C.C.—as well as the Missionaries have good reason to be proud of the stupendous success of the Mission. The beautiful Church at Kill was thronged beyond its capacity for the closing ceremony at 7 p.m. The Rosary was recited by Fr. Power, C.C., after which the congregation listened to the singing of the hymn "To Jesus Heart All Burning."

Death of Miss M. B. Murphy
 Fortified by the rites of the Mother Church of which she was a notably experienced member, Miss Mary Bridget Murphy, Bonmahon, passed peacefully and resignedly away into her eternal reward at a Dublin hospital on the 4th inst. after a brief illness and at a comparatively young age. A charmingly-named lady, she was held in the highest esteem by a very large circle of firm friendships. On Sunday evening the remains reached St. Anne's Church, Ballyvaughan, where they were met by Rev. P. Walsh, C.C., who recited the prayers for the soul.

Impressive Religious Ceremony
 At Knockanore
 CONSECRATION OF CHILDREN OF MARY
 (From Our Cappoquin Correspondent)

On the Feast of Ascension Thursday the Catholics of Knockanore, witnessed a most impressive and interesting religious ceremony, which was unique in the history of the parish, when 24 girls were solemnly consecrated as Children of Mary.

The inspiring event was preceded by an 8-days' Retreat which was conducted by the Rev. Father Morrissey, Adm. Knockanore, who, on this occasion, warmly congratulated these happy girls on their great Catholic fervour and also for their regular and devout attendance during the Retreat. In a short, but powerful discourse, he reminded the people of the great honour of being consecrated as a Child of Mary, and also of the dignity and pride which such a title should inspire, and the great blessing which it would bring by invoking the special protection of Mary, the Mother of God.

After the ceremony there was a procession of the newly-consecrated members, headed by a large blue banner, on which were embroidered three large white lilies, with the inscription: "Queen of Peace, Pray for us."

The splendid banner was the work of Miss Mary Monthyne, Knockanore, who is also responsible for a special set of hand-embroidered banners for the local Sacred Heart Confraternity. These are certainly well worthy of inspection, and can be seen in the Knockanore Catholic Church on the second Sunday of each month. What specially strikes a visitor to this grand Church are the artistic flower-decorations on the three new altars, the altar of the Blessed Virgin being a veritable work of art on this impressive occasion. A large new statue of St. Joseph, which has been recently erected, is one of the most chaste and beautiful to be seen in any Church, and the good Catholics of Knockanore are justly proud of their beautiful Church, which is the admiration of all visitors from outside parishes, while the well-kept cemetery which surrounds it is also a credit to the parishioners, and more especially to the untiring zeal and enterprise of the Rev. Father Morrissey, who has carried out wonderful improvements both in the Church and its surroundings during his comparatively short period as Adm. of this important parish.

Shops Act
 Dr. O'Farrell wrote with reference to Section 57 of the Shops (Conditions of Employment) Act 1933, recommending that the Sanitary Sub-Officer be appointed to enforce the provisions of Part 6 of the Act in the Urban District.

Compensation
 The Department wrote stating that provided the Council are satisfied that the land required in connection with the Water Supply Scheme could not be acquired on more advantageous terms, no objection will be raised to the Council's proposal to pay £140 for the 2½ acres in question. Also noting that a sum of £155 is being paid in lieu of a water tower.

The Election
 Mr. T. A. Colbert, Returning Officer, was granted the Hall for a polling booth on election day, June 17th.

Imported Labour
 Arising out of the report of the Clerk of Works on the Housing Scheme as to the number of men employed during the preceding week, Mr. Byrne said that the number employed on such a big scheme was very small, and worse than that there is imported labour employed, while there is local labour unemployed.

Chairman—Are there many men imported?
 Mr. Byrne said there are at least 500 men.

Tiles Missing
 Mr. Mansfield said the tenant of No. 14 Loughmore, reported that two tiles were blown off the house.

Boundary Fence Damaged
 Mr. A. Ballot, writing stating that in the course of laying the sewer pipes at the rear of his houses in Shandon the contractor uprooted and destroyed part of a boundary hedge between his and adjoining property and filled in the gap with an unsightly collection of rubbish, causing the privacy previously enjoyed by his tenants to be invaded by children, fowl, etc. One of the houses recently became vacant and was only let again on condition that the damage was repaired, which can only be done by building a wall. He asked the Council to compensate him by sharing the cost of this wall.

Sympathy
 A resolution of sympathy was passed with Mr. J. Lannon, Thompson's Lane, on the death of his wife.

Flax Growing in Eire

Moving an estimate for the Department of Agriculture before the dissolution of the Dáil. Dr. Ryan said that schemes of loans for the improvement of flax cutch mills were initiated in 1937-'38, but only three were approved that year. There was an undoubted need for substantial improvement of rutching facilities and the scheme might be availed of to a greater extent this year. In that regard the provision of £1,000 had been made.

Obituary—Rev. P. Hallinan, C.C. We regret to announce the death of Rev. Patrick Hallinan, C.C., which occurred at Maypark, Waterford, on Thursday 2nd inst.—R.I.P.

A native of Newcastle, the late Father Hallinan was son of the late Mr. Frank Hallinan and Mrs. Hallinan, Middlequarter, and was brother of Mr. Edmund Hallinan, N.T., Castlegrace, Clogheen; Messrs. Thomas and Frank Hallinan, Dublin; and of Mrs. Kearney, Four-Mile-Water, Mrs. McNulty, N.T., Mayo and Mrs. McGrath, Crouv, Newcastle. He had been in failing health for some time past, and passed peacefully away to his eternal reward. A most zealous priest, kindly and amiable, the news of his death was learned with sincere regret, and deep sympathy is extended to his sorrowing brothers and sisters, and relatives in the bereavement.

Father Hallinan was ordained 24 years ago in Thurles Cathedral. His first mission was Glasgow and on being recalled to his native diocese, he spent most of his time in Waterford city. He subsequently ministered in Kilsheelan and Tallow.

The remains were removed to Newcastle Church on Friday evening. Office and High Mass was celebrated on Saturday at 10.30 (old time), after which interment took place in the adjoining cemetery.

Over fifty priests attended at the High Mass, which was celebrated by Rev. P. Shine, C.C., (cousin of deceased), Rev. Fr. Davin, (nephew) was deacon and Rev. Fr. Morrissey (brother-in-law), sub-deacon.

Numerous telegrams and messages of sympathy were received by the relatives, including messages from all the Religious Communities in Waterford and South Tipperary.

TALLOW NEWS

G.A.A.—Erin's Own Draw With Tallow in Senior Hurling Friendly.

Tallow, 3-3; Erin's Own, 2-6.

There was a very good attendance at Tallow on Sunday to witness a very well contested game between the above teams. Some great hurling was seen, both sides giving of their best. Tallow playing with the breeze were first to attack, Charlie Ware cleared and sent Erin's Own away. N. Farley had a try for a score, but Fitzgerald lashed away. Pa Sheehan led a Tallow burst which resulted in Tallow sending over the bar. Fanning and Ryan scored in turn. M. Wyse and McGrath next headed a strong Erin's Own attack. Burke clearing. Daly sending down a long drive for Doyle to send all the way to the net. From the puck-out Erin's Own got going, the forwards racing in, but Curley cleared at the expense of a "70" which McCarthy cleared. Both sides were now playing a grand game, the ball travelling from end to end without a score, but Tallow at length made a more determined attack on their opponents posts for Jim Ware to clear. The clearance fell short for W. Sheehan to goal. Pa Sheehan shortly afterwards pointed from a "70".

Following the puck-out Erin's Own again pressed and succeeded in raising the white flag. Again they strove hard for a goal, but had to be content with a point. Tallow led at half-time by 2-2 to 0-2.

On resuming, Erin's Own with the wind hemmed Tallow in their own half. A point by Wyse was followed by two scores from Farley and McGrath. Tallow then seized an opening increasing their lead by a point per Condon. S. Wyse almost immediately reducing the lead by raising the green flag. Tallow again pressed and C. Ware saved from McNamara, but Tallow again returned for J. Burke to drive a ground ball to the net following which Jim Ware brought off a brilliant save from Mulcahy.

Erin's Own, now got moving, but Curley was safe in goal, and Hartigan cleared a dangerous ball. Erin's Own were not to be denied and came back to register a goal. Some thrilling hurling was witnessed at this stage with Tallow holding on to their slender lead of one point. Erin's Own going all out at this stage and M. Wyse getting possession shot the equaliser. Tallow were pressing once more when the final whistle sounded leaving the teams level.

Teams:—
Erin's Own—J. Ware, L. Ryan, C. Fanning, C. Moloney, J. Ware, J. Doyle, M. Wyse, J. McGrath, N. Farley, J. Manning, P. Hannigan, M. Parle, S. Wyse, P. Fanning.
Tallow—M. Curley, L. McCarthy, F. Fitzgerald, C. Curley, P. McNamara, M. McCarthy, J. Daly, P. Sheehan, M. Mulcahy, W. Sheehan, D. Doyle, J. Burke, E. Condon, J. Hartigan, N. Condon.

Conna Castle

On a rocky eminence in the heart of the Bride Valley, stands gaunt and bare against the skyline the ruins of Conna Castle, Co. Cork.

From its commanding position, one may see from its battlements, looking westwards the meandering river Bride, as it twists and turns through the grassy plains of Castlelyons, skirting Rathcornea village and onwards to its source (by Glenville) in the Nagle Mountains.

Eastwards one sees it, as it flows beside Mogeela Castle and beneath Lisfinney Castle, through ancient Tallow, to its confluence with the Blackwater in the wooded vale of Camphire. Not many vistas in Eire can surpass in variety and charm the panorama that unfolds itself for him who climbs the spiral staircase.

The castle is a Norman construction with all the characteristics of those early times.

It is a long way from Conna to Caen in Normandy, but in Conna, as in Caen stands unwrinkled by time the immortal work of those master builders.

It is interesting to note that in the flooring of the castle, huge blocks of granite weighing approximately ten tons were used, and similar blocks are to be found in the upper floors, even in the topmost which stands eighty-five feet from the ground level.

The castle was originally built by the Earl of Desmond for his eldest son named Thomas, who did not enjoy it very long, as both castle and estate adjoining, were declared forfeit at the Reformation, Sir Walter Raleigh being the minion of Elizabeth, claiming them as his own.

It was in the castle that pathetic Irish History was born, viz., "The Sugaun Earl" or the Earl with an Earl-don. Retribution followed quickly on the heels of Rape and plunder, when Raleigh lay waiting death in the tower of London, where prior to his death he sought the estate and castle to Stafford, who in turn was betrayed by Boyle and was later be-headed on Tower Hill, London.

While tragedy looms darkly over Conna castle, and the lovely grounds where it stands, yet it is beneath the walls of this tragic castle, one of the most delightful entertainments ever held in the county of Cork was staged last summer in aid of the Conna Church Fund.

Memories of that pleasant day are still with us, and it is a pleasure to note that a similar Fete will be held on June 26th 1938, when we may again be privileged to behold the multicoloured windows of the Castle, and the Trouserers and Troubadours of the 20th century singing and dancing within the shady groves of the castle grounds. The worthy cause for which the Fete has been organized should commend itself, and it is earnestly hoped that the large numbers who so enjoyed the scenic beauty and delightful programme presented last year will again be present on the 26th inst.

DECLINE OF RURAL POPULATION.

A discussion on the decline of rural population in Ireland and on the remedies for this great social ill was broadcast by members of An Rioghacht (The League of the Kingship of Christ).

A discussion on the decline of rural population in Ireland and on the remedies for this great social ill was broadcast by members of An Rioghacht (The League of the Kingship of Christ).

Mr. Senior objected that there had in fact been an increase in the population of Dublin in the last ten years by 15 per cent. The Chairman agreed, but attributed the increase mainly to influx from the country. This influx to the towns is a serious danger of universal import. Mussolini says regarding it: "The city shows a marvellous increase due, not to its own vital force, but to accretion from outside, but the more the city grows the more sterile its people become. While the Metropolis attracts to itself the rural population these latter lose their fertility and become as sterile as the city population in which they are merged and when the country is deserted the city itself is near its doom. This is the off-repeated process recorded in the history of the decay of nations."

Mr. Fitzpatrick pointed out that the rush from the countryside did not end at the towns. Emigration, which set in after the Famine, and which lost to the twenty-six counties about three million people in the last hundred years was still going on. Thirty thousand people—the majority of them rural—left the twenty-six counties last year.

Mr. Riordan contended that though the draining of the life blood of the Irish Nation dates back to the Famine, that catastrophe was not the real cause of the decline of our population, from 8 1/2 millions in 1846 to less than half that figure at the present day.

In the year 1846 Ireland's population foodstuffs to the value of £4,000,000, sufficient to feed twice the population. There was no need for anyone to starve, but the food was exported to enable the rack rents to be paid. Evictions and Clearances followed.

A theory held in some quarters that the standard of living must fall with an increase in population was referred to by Mr. Senior. This was endorsed by Mr. Fitzpatrick to be fallacious. The wealth of a country comprises its natural resources and its people to develop them. In a country so undeveloped as Ireland, there is room for three or four times the present population without detriment to the standard of living.

Mr. Phillips was of opinion that the cause of the flight from the country was social as well as economic. The young people, with eyes on the great world outside, found the country dull and monotonous. The farm labourer is the worst paid worker in any industry. Mr. Fitzpatrick objected that the cause was solely economic. If the people were given an opportunity of making a living in the place in which they were born, they would remain there and find plenty of scope for natural enjoyment. As Mr. Riordan had mentioned, Ireland once famous for numerous families and early marriages now held the distinction—owing to economic pressure on the rural community—of the lowest marriage rate in the world.

Mr. Fitzpatrick adds, sufficient productive work waiting to be done in the country in the way of forestry, afforestation, etc., to absorb the whole of the rural unemployed for over 10 years to come. The future of Ireland depends on the building up of a same economy aiming at a rapid increase in the number of rural homesteads. All other developments, industrial or commercial, must be subordinated to that, given a chance to make a living in their homeland, the rural community will marry much earlier than at present. Mr. Senior agreed, and said that with the advance of scientific knowledge and agricultural production had practically doubled since the Famine years. A man can feed and clothe a family on 25 acres. Questioned as to the money to finance these schemes of social reconstruction, Mr. Fitzpatrick pointed out that other countries had found a solution, and that if Ireland does not, and that speedily, the Nation is doomed. At present it is but a "depressed area" in the British economic system.

Closing the discussion, Mr. McCarthy said that, in fact, the extinction of the very source of life is fast approaching. Instead of trying to preserve and strengthen it, we have persistently oriented every part of our national being in the opposite direction—following a "conscious economic life" in the cities which drains all strength from the rural parts. The means to combat this suicidal process are to

YOUGHAL URBAN COUNCIL

Present—Messrs. P. J. O'Gorman, P.C., Chairman, E. D. Condon, R. Power, T. Beaumang, D. McCarthy, M. D. Broderick, J. Whelan, T. K. Keane, solr., J. Daly, B.E.

Back Again

The Chairman said they were all glad to see their old friend, Mr. McCarthy, back again after his recent illness.

On the proposition of Mr. Broderick, seconded by Mr. Power, that Mr. McCarthy's resignation for over 6 months was unanimously accepted.

Mr. McCarthy thanked the Chairman and members for their kind remarks.

Labour and Wages

On the proposition of Mr. Broderick, seconded by Mr. McCarthy, a cheque for £103 2s. 9d., labour and wages for the week was passed.

Area Exemption Order

Mr. Whelan, proposed that they apply for an area exemption order in accordance with the provisions of Part VI of the Act as regards Sunday Trading, the area to comprise Youghal, Redbank, Clonau and Summerfield.

Mr. Broderick, seconded.

Mr. Power said with all respect to the Department, if those responsible for that department had realised the terrible position of the unfortunate shopkeepers in towns, they would have hastened before passing it.

The Chairman agreed. There would have to be considerable modifications in it, otherwise many people would be ruined. Legitimate trade in that country and business was being strangled every day at the mercy of the Government.

Mr. Power—If those Acts were carried out in full there would not be a dog's life for anyone.

Mr. Daly—Dublin is Ireland now and they never bother about the rural areas at all.

Mr. Whelan—They are legislating for Dublin mainly.

The Chairman—And fine jobs they all have.

The proposition was passed unanimously.

Relief Schemes

A letter was read from the Local Government Department regarding the Unemployment Relief Schemes.

Mr. Broderick said it was, to say the least of it, a strange state of affairs, that while the powers that be were tinkering with small schemes for the relief of the widespread unemployment prevailing locally, they were holding up the project for the extension of the local Mental Hospital, which, it is stated, would cost work for a large number of unfortunate men, many of them with large families dependent on them. The money had been passed for the work, the necessary land purchased and paid for. It was certainly a most mysterious state of affairs. Something should be done to get at the bottom of it.

The Chairman said that the holding up of the project was a complete puzzle. The money was available and he supposed the plans were prepared. Why was there nothing practical done to get things going?

Mr. Broderick said it was, before them for a period of 4 years and not a sod turned yet. Some decision should be come to without any further delay.

Mr. Whelan proposed that they call on the Minister responsible to get the money released with the object of having the work started and relieve the awful unemployment existing in the place.

This was agreed by Mr. Condon and passed unanimously.

Sympathy

The Chairman said the town had suffered several severe losses by the death of esteemed residents including Mr. J. McNally, late Town Superintendent, Miss D. Fitzgibbon, Mr. M. Sheehan and Miss Kirk, Ballyvergin. He proposed votes of sympathy with the bereaved families and friends.

Mr. Whelan, seconded.

The other members and the Clerk having associated themselves with the proposition, it was passed in silence.

Hand. Other countries besides ours have felt the need for action in similar circumstances and have developed a financial technique to render them possible. We, also, appear to need a national economic system aligned in a direction favourable to our rural population. At present a system of this sort seems impossible. Our currency is identical with English currency, and the English economic system is very definitely biased against rural life. Amongst other principles of social policy, our Constitution directs that in what pertains to the control of credit the constant and predominant aim shall be the welfare of the people as a whole. That article is quite clearly in accordance with the statement, made in the Encyclical QUADRAGESIMO ANNO, that economic domination "is more powerfully exercised by those who, because they hold and control money, also govern credit; and that reason, why, so to speak, the life-blood of the entire economic body, and grasping in their hands, as it were, the very seat of production, so that no one can breathe against their will." The English people have sacrificed their own economic interests to the Moloch of urban commerce. Shall we in Ireland follow suit? Shall we hang ourselves by the same gilded noose? I would be a pessimist indeed if I thought so. A bold peasantry makes a stable nation—and a bold peasantry, when once destroyed, can never be supplied.

ARDMORE'S ANTIQUITIES

THE RIVER BLACKWATER

By P. J. O'Brien

The interesting ecclesiastical remains of Ardmore consist of a Round Tower, in almost perfect preservation, an Oratory, a Cathedral, and a Holy Well—nearly all bearing the name of St. Declan, who founded a Monastery here in the early part of the 5th century, from which the light of Christianity radiated into all the contiguous districts, and this retired hamlet became a sanctuary for religion and letters. Declan died in 450 and from this time until the middle of the 12th century Ardmore continued to bear an Episcopal See, when the learned Engage, author of the "Life of St. Cuthbert," is noted as the last Bishop, his name appears amongst the Prelates assembled at the Council of Kells, and after that we hear no more of him.

The Oratory, which is rude and primitive, is the earliest ancient, and probably of the same date as the Saint. Like all ancient Churches of Ireland, this building is of small dimensions, being only 15 feet and four inches by 8 feet 6 inches in the clear, its height is 5 feet 6 inches in the clear. The Round Tower is about 13 feet in diameter at the base, and 97 feet in height, with a conical cap somewhat thrown out of the perpendicular by lightning. The Cathedral consists of a chancel and nave connected by an arch of great beauty. On the lower part of the northern wall of the chancel is masonry of cyclopean character, leading up to the remote date of Declan's immediate successors in the 6th and 7th century, but the nave is romanesque and belongs to the 11th century. The chief beauty of design is lavished on the east gable, which presents a series of sculptured representations of elaborate execution.

St. Declan's well is situated on a precipitous rock overhanging the sea, and is much frequented by visitors on the Saint's day 24th July, and it is expected that the coming celebration here in the next month that the number of visitors on former occasions will be doubled this year.

St. Declan's Stone, lying among the rocks on the beach is a boulder stone of considerable size, beneath which penitents creep on the patron day in hope of receiving health or spiritual benefits.

The River Blackwater

The portion of the river navigable for steamers is about 17 miles. At a short distance above the town of Youghal, where the tide-way narrows somewhat, yet is still an English mile from the shore, part of the County Waterford and the County of Cork and Waterford. It was commenced in December 1879, the contractor an English firm—the Stocton Forge Company. It takes the place of a wooden bridge erected here in 1826 from a design by Nimmo. The new bridge consists of 60 feet of five spans, and 661 feet of five large spans, and one swing bridge. The swing span is supported on 6 feet cylinders, and gives two openings of 50 feet on each side of the pier for vessels to go through. Some of the supporting cylinders are sunk 52 feet below the bed of the river. On crossing from the bridge the precipitous heights of Rhyncroft shuts the river on the left. On its summit are the ruins of a preceptory of the Knights Templars, said to have been founded in 1183 by Raymond Le-Gros, a companion of Strongbow, together with numerous ruins of a castle, etc., attributed to the ancient inhabitants. Higher up in Springmount, on the eastern bank, the pretty seats of Ardsallagh and Harbour View, the remains of the Geraldine Castle of Templemichael—deduced to its present condition by Cromwell's cannon.

A monastery was founded here in 521 by St. Fanchan. According to the authority of the Carew MSS. Raymond Le-Gros the noblest of the band of adventurers, who attempted the conquest of Ireland was buried in this Abbey in 1186. The Abbey and its grounds formed a portion of the demesne of Ballinacorney, the residence of the Hon. Holyrood Smith. The scenery about Ballinacorney is singular beauty, and is not excelled by any in Wicklow, to which it bears a strong resemblance in the shape of the mountains and luxuriant woods clothing their sides.

The river now expands into considerable basin called the Broad of Clashmore. The village of Clashmore, the former property of the Earl of Huntington, is of considerable antiquity, an Abbey of Cans Regular was founded here in the 12th century by Cona Meehan and continued in existence until the general dissolution. About four miles to the south of the river lies the ancient parish of Ardsallagh, containing in 1847 three thousand two hundred and fifty-seven inhabitants. This parish is situated on the eastern bank of the County Waterford and comprises 7,864 statute acres, and the description of it in 1847 in Lewis's Topographical Dictionary of Ireland is as follows:—"The aspect is, in part mountainous and portion of the surface is unclaimable, affording a plentiful supply of turf. The soil is for the most part poor and stony, but excepting the waste, the land is wholly in tillage, though only differently cultivated. The living is in a rectory in the diocese of Cloyne and in the patronage of the Crown; the title rectory was 1450. The Church at Ardsallagh is a small plain building of one story. There is no glebe house, the glebe comprises five acres close to the church. The Roman Catholic Church at Inch is a small thatched building."

This district must have changed very much since Lewis wrote this book, taking into account that the farmers in this district are very far advanced in agricultural science and general intelligence, and it can be said that the youth of the parish are very well advanced in modern education and national pastimes including hurling, football, tug-o-war and bowling, thanks to the energetic priest

Undefeated Civil Bills

There were a number of undefeated civil bills in which Messrs. T. K. Keane and J. N. R. Macnamara, solrs., appeared for the plaintiffs.

Decrees or adjournments being granted in all.

Licensing Case

Supt. Kelly, Millerton, charged Mrs. M. Keen, victualler, with a breach of the Licensing Act and 4 local men were charged with being on the premises.

Mr. T. K. Keane, for defendant.

Sergt. Lupton, stated he found the four men on the premises after hours on 25th April. Two of the men said they were invited and the others said they represented themselves as travellers. There was no sign of drink in the room where he found them, but there were signs in the bar. The licensee said the men came in for a drink.

Cross-examined by Mr. Keane, witness said the licensee made no attempt to deceive him.

Mr. Keane said they pleaded guilty. The lady was inexperienced in the business, her husband having died recently and she was trying to carry on. There was nothing against the house before.

The Superintendent said he wasn't pressing the case.

A fine of 10/-, not to be recorded was imposed and the other defendants were each fined 5/-.

Motor Offence

Guard Fottrell, charged Richard Barry, Market Lane, Cork, under Section 17 of the Road Traffic Act, with entering a stationary car without permission.

Complainant said he found the man sitting in the car at 3.40 a.m. on the morning in question. He gave a wrong name and address at first and said that he had missed the train home and thought he could get a lift.

Evidence having been given that the owner of the car didn't know him and gave him no permission to enter the car. He was fined 17/- and 3/- expenses.

Infanticide

Bridget Dinan, Maulane, Rathcornea, was charged in custody on remand with infanticide.

Supt. Kelly, prosecuted.

Sergt. J. J. O'Keefe, Rathcornea, deposed that he had already made a deposition on the case. He had not yet completed investigations and he applied to have the accused remanded in custody to next Fermoy District Court.

The application was granted.

Game Preservation Order

The Minister for Justice has made an Order prohibiting the killing or taking of the following classes of game birds in the protection periods mentioned, which are in addition to the ordinary close season:—
Partridge—December 1 to January 31.
Protection Area—the whole county except Cork; October 1 to January 31.
Co. Cork; Pheasant—October 1 to January 31—Co. Cork; Grouse—August 12 to December 9—Bandon, Bantry and Dunmanway.

and teacher, the latter who was reputed as the leading Gaelic teacher in the County. The river Toorclog flows through the centre of the parish which is renowned for salmon and trout fishing, which is an encouragement to anglers from Cork and other places to come and enjoy a day's sport by the picturesque village of Inch where they will be catered for by the proprietor of Godsell's Hotel.

About seven miles further up the river are the moss-grown ruins of old Strancally Castle, one of the chief fortresses of the original lords of the soil—the Desmonds—seated on a bold cliff overhanging the river, here particularly deep. In this massive rock is a cave or chamber communicating with the water, known as "the murdering hole," as thus tradition says some cruel Desmond used to dispose of the bodies of his victims.

Strancally was taken by assault in 1579 by the English forces under the Earl of Ormond, and was forthwith blown up by gunpowder. A little further up near the junction of the Bride with the Blackwater, is Strancally's new castle, and Headborough House. The former is a fine cascaded building containing towers and battlements. It is buried in most lovely woods, through which its architectural features are seen to very great advantage.

A little above the mouth of the Bride is Camphire and nearly opposite, on the eastern bank, is the small village of Villiers town, where the Earl of Grandison vainly tried to establish the linen manufactory. Higher up is Drummahaire, the seat of the Villiers Stuarts, not less attractive for the beauty of its scenery than from the number of its historical associations. This demesne skirts the Blackwater for three miles on the right-hand side as we approach the town of Cappoquin.

The mansion which is built on a perpendicular cliff overhanging the river is an ancient pile in good repair, and masks from sight the remains of a castle belonging to the Fitzgeralds of the Decies, who were descended from Sir Gerald Desmond son of the Earl of Desmond. In this castle was born, Catherine the old Countess of Desmond, who, at the age of 140 years presented herself at the English Court to petition James I. for her betrothal to which the attainder of the last Earl of Desmond had deprived her. The county (Waterford) at Afane above Drummahaire, having been brought from the Canary Islands by Sir Walter Raleigh and the Countess's death is said to have taken place in consequence of a fall from a high branch of a favourite cherry tree. POTATO CROP

EARLY APPEARANCE OF BLIGHT.

Cases of Potato Blight have been reported in the South and West of Ireland.

An early attack of blight might have very serious consequences this season as growth has been somewhat retarded by the prolonged spell of dry weather. Immediate preparations for spraying should, therefore, be made. The important point is to spray BEFORE the crop is attacked, and to make further applications of spray as

REMARKABLE SCENES IN WATERFORD

Remarkable scenes occurred on the morning last, on the occasion of the opening of the Great Sale of Clothing, Bedsteads, Bedding, Furniture, in the big firm consequent on the dissolution of the partnership and the closing of premises. Long before the doors opened, the streets were crowded with people, and the doors opened, the Streets were so packed that they had to be admitted in turn by a queue.

It is really only a two-days sale, management wish to give a denial. It would be utterly to sell out the stocks of these in two days, in fact it will take days before all the stocks are fresh bargains will be brought every day. There were many people appointed on the opening of the sale, through not being able to get in, and we apologise to all our many good friends and the past. We assure them we will do our best and should they decide this week end again, they will find very useful bargains, travelling expenses, bus or paid.
