HITLER AND MEMEL

Following on the sensational German occupation of Austria and Sudetanland, the state of affairs in Memel, Lithuania, would lead one to believe that Her Hitler is about to add new territory to the German Reich. In the recent elections in this area, twenty-five of the twenty-nine candidates elected, proved to be Nazis, for the area has a large German population, whose sympathies are definitely pro-Nazi.

Memel has had a rather chequered history. Before the Great War it was German but after 1918 the League of Nations took over control. Poland and Lithuania had at the same time left the new Soviet Russia and become independent Republics, and for all their inexperience in international affairs, they were wise enough to realise that additional territory was to be had in those troubled days for the asking, or rather for the grabbing. Therefore when the Poles claimed and occupied Vlna, which the Lithuanians protested, was the ancient capital of Lithuania, the latter in their turn claimed and occupied the Memel district, presumably with the blessing of the League of Nations, which did not interfere.

The Germans of the Memel district have enjoyed local autonomy to a large extent during the past few years, but they are clamouring for incorporation in Greater Germany, and Lithuanian statesmen are working, since the submission of Czechoslovakia to the dictates of the Fuehrer. The Memel Germans have their own Nazi leader, Dr. Neumann, and the German greeting of the upraised palm is everywhere in evidence.

The area of the Memel district is about the same as that of County Wicklow, and the population is 150,000. One might be pardoned for considering this small area poor game for the Fuehrer, but the latter probably considers that every little counts.

At the moment he has many "trons in the fire" and he will probably allow the Memel district to remain Lithuanian until such time as the Lithuanians, demoralised by waiting for the crash to come, will suffer anything to appease Germany. This strategy was eminently successful in his dealings with Czechoslovakia, and there is no reason why it should not be successful again. "Taking one consideration with another the Fuehrer's plot is a very snappy one."

The Cost Of Living

Foreigners who visit our shores year after year always admire our scenery. They speak warmly of the hospitality of the Irish people and are full of admiration for our efforts to be an independent and self-sufficient nation, yet they always add at the end, "It's a very expensive country in which to live." Then they give lists of prices of commodities which are current in their own countries, which, if they are correct, certainly seem to indicate that, even if our standard of living is not the highest in the world, we certainly pay more for it than does any other country in the world.

If these foreigners give correct figures, and there is no reason to suspect anything to the contrary, we in Ireland should give this matter serious thought. In a small country in which unemployment and poverty are rife, it is necessary that the price of such a vital commodity as food should be as cheap as possible. Yet here in Ireland foodstuffs such as milk, butter, eggs, sugar and bread are sold at exorbitant prices which sweep away ruthlessly the scanty wages of the poorly-paid worker and the shivering lips of the unemployed. One could understand this state of affairs if the farmer who produces the foodstuffs were being paid a high price for his goods, but all a matter of fact he is very poorly paid. His wages are very low. There is no need to give a list of prices to illustrate the purpose of this article. Let the reader ask the produce what he receives for his goods and then ask the consumer what he pays for them. Then he may, if he wishes, find the difference between the price, and wonder why he suffers it.

Sometimes, somehow, a number of people are listening on the street of the farmer and the stillings of the working man, and this country cannot afford to neglect seriously such as these, who support the farmer from making a decent living on the land, and take butter, milk, and eggs from the poor man's table. There can be no solution of our economic worries until a solution has been found for this dire problem.

What Price Democracy?

Since the birth of the totalitarian or Fascist state in 1923, when Benito Mussolini marched on Rome with his Blackshirt legions, and began to guide the destiny of Italy, it has been the fashion to decry nationalism or fervent love of one's country as foolish, wicked and subversive of the dignity of man. Hitler and his Nazis when they came into world prominence were subjected to and are being subjected to a veritable tirade every week from British Sunday newspapers whose object would appear to be the destruction of nationalism in the hearts of the British people.

The writer is not a supporter of the policy of Adolf Hitler or that of Benito Mussolini in their cruel ruthless exterminating and outlawing of Jews and non-Aryans. He does not approve of their worship of a Fascist megalomaniac as if it were man's final end and the consummation of all his hopes and aspirations. But he does admire and approve of the fine patriotic spirit and the self-sacrificing nationalistic enthusiasm with which these two men have fired the minds and hearts of the young people of Germany and Italy.

So, in their hearts, do many people in this country admire them, but they are either afraid or ashamed to say so, for if anybody to-day evinces the slightest interest in or enthusiasm for nationalism or loves his country fervently, he is at once dubbed "a Fascist megalomaniac" or "a puppet of the man behind the curtain." It is a very short-sighted one. It assumes that man is perfect, that wishes and ideas of every individual are so upright and idealistic that he may be allowed to hold them and put them into practice, and the results of this are, of course, what one would expect. And these are the results.

The divorce courts are full. Why is divorce allowed? Because husbands and wives are tired of each other, or wish to marry different women and men. Should they be allowed to do so? Oh, yes! In a democratic country one must be allowed to do as one likes, say the democrats. Birth-rates are declining. Why? Because, of course, in a democratic country one does as one likes, and one can be as selfish and as subversive of man's dignity as one likes, and at the same time, of course Fascists must be decry for subverting in their own way. If anybody challenges the above facts, let him look at the birth-rate of Great Britain of the United States and of France.

These are the tangible and visible results. There are other results, however, which are more insidious and which are growing more serious every day. For one thing, the peoples of the democratic countries are losing their respect for discipline, religious or otherwise. It is considered bad form in the countries to mention religion in public, and the big daily and Sunday newspapers do their best to omit the word "God" from their columns. They do not wish to embarrass their readers, who are trying to delete the word from their vocabulary. Again for practical purposes this read, the big British French and American newspapers. And the democratic countries' attitude towards temporal discipline is best exemplified by the attitude of the French workers towards the recent crisis, until strong measures were taken by Premier Daladier, or by the disgusting cynicism of American politicians and the public life under President Roosevelt. These two men have been called Fascists for endorsing to preserve their countries' integrity. The British Army which cannot find recruits begins to use such propaganda as "British sergeant majors are better men," and "Enjoy a home life in the army" and found that its effects were practically nil. In view of the critical state of international affairs, conscription may now have to be introduced, and already Mr. Chamberlain is being termed a Fascist. Need one say any more?

The strange part of it is that these so-called democratic countries suffer themselves from the vices which they decry as being bad and wicked: the Fascist system. The United States, the home of the free and the brave, sits firmly on the neck of its twelve million negroes. France has a Foreign Legion for the sole purpose of holding in check and disciplining "immoral subjects." And Great Britain? Well let the reader go to Belfast on the gloomiest and immoral twelfth of July. He wishes to see democracy at its noblest and best, or to discover what a government "of the people, by the people, for the people" would be in India if the Indian people were allowed to vote on an equal basis with their own country. Again to quote Hitler's brief for Fascism, it has many faults, and it is at best: a corrective system, which is too rigorous and of too violent nature to last. But that is not why we should believe everything that the daily newspapers and magazines tell us. These schoolmasters are playing a dangerous game of their own. In pondering the thoughts of a people who see themselves being left behind in a world rife for power, instead of being nations who have secured instead of us, we should do our best to repair

RE-AFFORESTATION

One of the foremost topics of conversation in Ireland to-day is the question of afforestation and it is gratifying this problem is at last meeting with the attention which it deserves. The popularity of mass re-afforestation is ensured by the enthusiasm of people of all shades of opinion for trees and still more trees. Hundreds of years ago, Ireland was covered with forests. These in time disappeared as the land was brought under cultivation but in later centuries there came another grim factor in the disappearance of our woods. The British armies of occupation found it useful to clear a great number of the woods which were the hiding-places of men of doubtful loyalty to English rule. Since that time, our countryside has become almost completely denuded of trees, and it was not until lately that the interest of the people in re-afforestation was aroused.

The wealth which is inherent in a well-wooded country is enormous. In Finland, where the whole northern part of the country is bleak, desolate and unsuitable for cultivation, one would imagine that the southern part, which is the productive part would be intensively cultivated. It comes as a surprise therefore to find that the major part of South Finland is covered with forests. Or take the case of the Landes district in France. Once a sandy water-logged waste, it is now covered with trees, the revenue from which has greatly enriched the population of the district and the whole of France. Again one of the reasons why Germany coveted Austria was because of the latter's rich supply of forests.

Now let us look at the other side of the matter. Year after year we hear of floods in America and China, and we often read of the deserts of the Middle-West States of North America which are nearly springing over wider areas. All these conditions are due to the ruthless clearing away of forests by early settlers, and by land-hungry farmers in the case of China, Libya, the desert land of Northern Africa, to which Mussolini is sending Italian settlers, was in Roman times a flourishing country with prosperous cities and a dense population, and it was not until the invading Arabs denuded it of its forests that it became a desert. Now Mussolini's Italian settlers are everywhere planting trees so that the country may become productive again.

We all these examples before us, we cannot afford to neglect forestry. Rather we should be as anxious as possible that all our waste land be rapidly planted with young trees, which will later conserve and at the same time form part of our national wealth, besides rendering the country more pleasing to the eye. If all our hill-sides were wooded as are those in the Blackwater district around Lismore, we would be compelled to turn tourists away from our shores.

IRISH SEED POTATOES

DISEASE-FREE VARIETIES DISPLAYED AT SMITHFIELD SHOW

The Eire Department of Agriculture, the Northern Irish Ministry of Commerce, and Sir Joselyn A. R. Gore-Booth of Lissdell, Sligo, are exhibiting Irish seed potatoes, under Messrs. Philip Pierce and Co. Ltd., Wexford, are displaying Agricultural implements and machinery at the five-day Smithfield Show which opened at the Royal Agricultural Hall, Lislington, on Monday.

Dr. W. D. Davison, the popular Chief Potatoes Inspector of the Department, and his assistants, are in charge of the Eire display. Dr. Davison is a familiar figure at the show since the Department began some years ago.

The Eire stand occupies a space 40 per cent. bigger than last year. Twenty-seven varieties of disease-free seeds are displayed; and attractive posters emphasise the merits of Athlone bog soil.

From Tuesday to Friday of last week the high display was at the big annual Birmingham Fat Stock Show. They experienced a record demand which, Dr. Davison pointed out to me, was all the more remarkable because trade is very depressed in England at present.

There were numerous inquiries from merchants and farmers at the Eire stand on Monday, but the big purchases are made on a retail basis on the second and third days of the show, which was visited by King George on Wednesday.

Franking varieties.

"Arran Pilots are still the most popular variety here," Dr. Davison said, "and in spite of the good prices, they are selling well." King Edward (a maincrop) and Eclipse (an early) were next in favour. "I think there are more promising new varieties on the market now than at any time within the past forty years," Dr. Davison went on, "but despite the encouragement to the breeding of the new varieties given by the Ministry of Agriculture here in England and by the Irish and Scottish Departments of Agriculture, something goes 90 per cent. of the potato fields in Great Britain are still planted with varieties which have been on the market for twenty years or more."

"A number of buyers at this stand last year all reported very favourably on the deliveries they received. Several of them remarked that if our present high standard of quality was maintained we could sell all the seed we were likely to grow. But I informed them that it was our intention to improve on our present good standard."

CASUALTIES IN PALESTINE.

There was no less in the fighting in Palestine during Xmas, three Arabs and one Jew being killed, and many wounded during the week-end. Mr. Louis Le Rossignol, a leading British resident, has disappeared.

The damages which have been done to our country by a certain democratic power in the past, and develop a national consciousness of their own.

IRELAND'S DECLINING POPULATION.

A country has one of the lowest marriage rates in the world. The age at which her people marry is one of the highest in the world. About thirty-eight per cent. of the people born in it live abroad. There is a huge unemployment problem. Add together these four "independent and closely connected facts and you find that the result is a rapidly declining population. The outstanding example of countries such as that mentioned above is Ireland, for all the conditions outlined above, together with their result, obtain here, and this state of affairs continues year after year with no sign of abatement.

The marriage rate is low because of unemployment, because the standard of living grows higher and higher, and because our young people emigrate. The age at which the people of Ireland marry is high for the same reasons, and because there is so little money to be spared that our naturally cautious people do not wish to support families on the small sums of money which they receive each week as wages.

Unemployment and emigration flourish because since people do not marry, there is a lesser population with which to supply food, clothes, manufactured goods. Let us take the case of one man, as an example. He decides that he will not marry, and one young girl emigrates, because she has no prospects at home. The family of four goes to six children which might have been three never materializes; and therefore there are on an average six people less to buy food, clothes and manufactured goods. And yet many people think that emigration is a practical solution of the unemployment problem, never perceiving that the absence of one man from the country means the unemployment of another.

The whole problem is a nightmare one, a veritable vicious circle affair. Formerly it was possible to lay the blame for it on the bad management and misalliances of an alien government, and to a certain extent this is still true, but now, under a native government, every reform should be made to diminish the state of affairs. Otherwise an Irishman in Ireland will soon be as rare a sight "as an Indian on the shores of Manhattan."

THE GALLANT I.R.A.

The men of the Irish Republican Army, many of whom I had the honour of meeting personally, are the stout, chivalrous and virtuous young men the country can hope to produce; they are the glory of Ireland, their only crime is that they love their own green Isle far better than any foreign land.

Extract from "Atrocities in Ireland," Published 1920 by The Rev. M. D. Forrest, M.S.

All those leaped forth at freedom's call, by river, town and glen. Their life-work re-echoed loud when Ireland needed men. Each for the Old Land did his part although they lost the day, God bless each true and faithful heart. The gallant I.R.A.

Some faced the firing-squad like men, some at the battle-belt. For Ireland's good old cause again, with down before they'd yield. And some upon the scaffold high, life's forfeit there did pay. They thought the world, how men should die, the fearless I.R.A.

And some the flocks of our land in dingy towns away. Some on the sea, a broken strand, beyond the ocean's spray. But if the roll should come again, why then in war array. They'll not the ranks of fighting men, the gallant I.R.A.

When we forget the boys who died they may forget us too. Both Tans and traitors they defied, and stood up straight and true. Some future day they'll win the fight, God send it soon we pray. For Justice, Honour, Truth, and Right, they stand the I.R.A.

M. Walsh, Ballymore, Kilsenny. Peirse, Mac Swiney, Liam Mellows. Scully Barry, Cathal Brugha, Sean Keating, Dinny Lacey, Liam Lynch. Sean Treacy and many others were members of that valiant army. Men of pure lives, and high principles, whose like will never see again in this Old Land of ours and they died for the complete independence of Ireland. Shall we betray them?

TALLOW NEWS

ST. STEPHEN'S NIGHT DANCE
Approximately 350 couples patronised the Social Re-union and Dance which took place at the Cinema Hall, Tallow, on St. Stephen's night, all of whom thoroughly enjoyed the programme of music provided by Eddie Hickman and his Midnight Revelers, Cork who were specially engaged for this occasion. Dancing began at ten o'clock and continued merrily until 4 a.m. in the morning and with a short interval for the various supper parties. Closing-down time came all too soon for the majority of those who had so enjoyed themselves throughout the night and the Committee are to be commended on serving up such a topping "Bill of Fare" for their many patrons. A repeat dance is being arranged for an early date.

CONGRESS PARS

The Congress in Ennisclorthy on January 4 will be in the constituency of the Minister for Agriculture, and as on former occasions at this great gathering of farmers, Dr. Ryan, T.D., is expected to make an important statement on the present position and future prospects of the great agricultural industry.

For the first time the founder of Muintra na Tire, Rev. J. M. Hayes, C.C., Tipperary, will address Congress under the title of "Whither Rural Ireland." The practical interest Fr. Hayes takes in all matters pertaining to the land and in the tillers of the soil is well known throughout the country, and his lecture should be the "hit-bit" of Congress.

Special cheap fares will be available by bus and train for delegates, and already hotel proprietors and others are making elaborate preparations to cater for the great influx of visitors from all parts of the West to Ennisclorthy for the great re-union of dairy farmers on January 4.

A SERVICEABLE GARDEN GUIDE

To those who wish to keep in touch with the latest developments in flowers and vegetables raised from seed, we heartily commend Sutton's Amateurs' Guide in Horticulture, a copy of which for 1938 has just reached us. The current edition is the sixty-fourth consecutive issue.

Fully half the book is required to describe and illustrate the immense number of flowers now available. In addition to the many sorts which have already become established favourites, a number of attractive novelties are now offered by Messrs. Sutton for the first time. Among these are two new Sweet Peas; two further varieties (in Apricot and Scarlet and Gold) of the Triumph strain of Antirrhinums; Sunset Crimson Godetia, of which there is a striking illustration in colours.

We understand that regular customers of the Royal Seed Establishment will shortly receive a copy of "The Guide," and others interested in gardening may obtain the book on application to Sutton and Sons, Ltd., Reading.

3,976,000 TONS OF STRAW

It is estimated that the combined production of wheat, barley and oat straw in England and Wales this season was 3,976,000 tons, compared with 3,429,000 tons in 1937. The acreage under each of the three crops was larger in 1938 than in the preceding year.

A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER.

Manchester's Health.
A hundred years ago the average at which people died in Manchester was 20 and in Liverpool it was 17. These surprising statistics were given by Sir Cyril Entwistle, K.C., M.P., at the annual dinner in Manchester of the Northern branch of the Society of Medical Officers of Health. In 1937, he said, only in rare instances was there a sewage or scavenging service. Since then the death rate had been halved.

EAST CORK JOTTINGS.

BLACK AND WHITE.

The Inch hurling team which for the past two years went into the divisional final, the team beating them was the Championship.

Tween the uprights Edmond Walsh, black and white the shirt he's wearing. He's a bit of himself, but he's kept his post on carling.

On his right O'Mahony scans the field for signs of danger. Tall and broad-shouldered is he: One to whom fear is a stranger.

Chorus
Here is to the Black and White. Here is to our lads so daring,
Stout and fearless, gay and bright: Never once for danger carling.

Like a sea-lashed, wind-swept rock. Paddy Power is calm and steady,
While a counter move to block Johnny Collins is quite ready.

Joyce goes charging down the field. Who to those who would impede him,
Jimmy Power the ash one would, he is always where we need him.

Sturdy as an oaken tree is "Pa" Treacey never quailing,
Let his feet be one or three—he knows no such word as "falling."

In the middle of the green where the blows are fastest falling,
Leary dominates the scene: Never once for quarter calling.

Swift as e'er was lightning struck, yonder is Mick Collins heing,
Ere the goalie well can speak, Mick has got the green flag flying.

Bursting, rushing through the field, round about him hurleys flashing,
Never will Kenney yield, to the front he's always dashing.

A stylish hurler—Hennessey can strike a ball with great precision,
Should the slightest opening be—he will win the steward's decision.

Callaghan's a tackler sound, in the scrum he seems to revel,
Walsh picks smartly off the ground if there's need the scores to level.

Right within the scoring space, all defensive tactics braving,
Rising like, and limb, and face for to set the flags a-swinging.

Joseph Collins smartly draws—to the "square" the ball is winging,
Power without an instant's pause, through the net he sends it singing.

D. O'Callaghan, Inch.

Wholesale and Retail Butter Prices.

The Minister for Agriculture has made an Order under the Dairy Produce (Price Stabilisation) Act, 1935, increasing as from the 10th December, 1938, the present minimum prices of creamery butter in Eire to 147/- per cwt. for lots of not less than 20 cwt., and 151/- per cwt. for lots of less than 20 cwt. The change represents an increase of 9/- per cwt. (approximately 1d. per lb. in the present price of creamery butter).

WEST WATERFORD NEWS.

Whist Drive in Clashmore. As will be seen from the advertisement columns of this paper, a whist drive, in aid of paralytic funds, will be held in Clashmore on Sunday night, January 15th, 1934, commencing at 8 o'clock.

On Christmas eve the Austrian Catholic refugees at Ardmore gave an entertainment to the local school children. The programme included a "puppet show," Austrian songs, dances, etc. Prizes and presents were also given to the children.

The refugees are quite happy at Ardmore and spend their time assisting at local work and studying the English language. Speaking of the recent hard weather, one of them said that the German winter is much colder.

On Christmas Day there was a welcome change in the hard conditions which had prevailed during the previous week. It is hoped that the mild weather will continue and give farmers an opportunity of working the land.

The West Waterford pack have had some excellent sport during the past few weeks, foxes were plentiful and large fields turned out.

Crough-Thurs. Dec. 28th—Following a short spin from Fenlon's covert to Knockan, a strong fog was found in Power's bog, near Fenlon's Cross. He ran at a fast pace over the Clonmel road on to Lagg and from there to Knockbeg.

Moorehill—Monday, 27th Dec.—From Fountain a fox ran down over the road by Fountain Church and sped in parallel to the River Bride, on to Bride's bridge, and over the road to Strankilly.

At Clashmore, on Dec. 27th, there was a small field, as it was on the previous day the meet was to have been held. Finding in John Curran's bog at Ballinmullins, the field ran up through Ballindrum, across Ballycurrane and Lickbeg, and on to the Splink.

THE SPORTSFIELD.

The year which is now rapidly drawing to a close is the first one which has passed in Cappoquin for a long time without having a solitary hurling or football match played in the Sportsfield here.

The members of the local hurling and football club duly affiliated the club with the Western Division Board early this year in the hope that the usual matches would be played here during the summer season, but owing to the unfortunate "crux" which has arisen over the Sportsfield, no match was possible.

The absence of Gaelic matches of any kind must have meant a serious financial loss to the traders of the town who usually plied a busy trade on the occasion of important matches owing to the large crowds attracted to the town, and this is a loss which we feel the town traders can ill afford to bear for another year in succession.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Xmas, 1936, was one of the most seasonable experienced for a number of years. Six days of heavy frost, accompanied by some snow showers, gave the countryside the "white mantle" look associated from the distant past with the great Feast of the Nativity. The days preceding the Feast were busy ones for the traders of the town, and an appreciable volume of business was done. There was a total absence of inebriates around the town, and good humour, interspersed with the wishing of the age-worn complimentary greetings which never grow old, were to be heard on all sides.

In the Churches—
There was a wonderful religious fervour at the Midnight Mass at the Parish Church when vast numbers approached the altar rails. The spacious edifice was taxed to its utmost capacity by the huge congregation present. Very Rev. Canon T. O'Brien, P.P., V.F., was celebrant of the Mass. An augmented choir supplied the sacred music, Miss Boyle presiding at the organ. Canon O'Brien, addressing the congregation, dealt eloquently with the great Feast they were celebrating. Masses were also celebrated at 8, 9, and 10 o'clock, and at 11 o'clock there was Solemn High Mass, at which the Very Rev. Canon O'Brien officiated, assisted by the other priests of the parish.

At St. Augustines—
At the midnight High Mass at St. Augustines there was a record congregation. Every inch of the Church was packed. The celebrant was Very Rev. Fr. Donegan, Prior O.S.A., deacon Rev. Fr. P. Foley, O.S.A., sub-deacon Rev. Father Coffey, O.S.A. Mrs. O'Hara A. L. C. M. presided at the organ and a special choir rendered the sacred music. The singing of "Adeste" and the "Chorus of Angels" was a treat to hear.

At Abbeyside—
At Abbeyside Parish Church there was Midnight Mass which was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Donovan, C.C. St. John's College, Waterford. The music was rendered by a special choir under Mrs. H. Foley, organist. There was a very large congregation present, the vast majority of whom approached the Holy Table.
Very Rev. N. Dunphy, P.P. wished the congregation a Holy and Happy Christmas.

St. Stephen's Day—
Was availed of by a number of "Wren-Boys" who were early astir.
Coursing meetings at Talow and Kilkenny were the chief attractions for local sportsmen. At night several dances were which were well attended.

Dungarvan Foot Beagles—
Meet at Dr. Hally's Bridge on Sunday next at one o'clock and will hunt to Walsh's Cross on dry land.

Xmas in the Post Office—
Despite the unprecedented volume of Xmas business transacted in the Dungarvan Post Office during last week, the work was got through without the slightest hitch, which is a tribute to the Postmaster and his efficient staff both indoor and outdoor, for which they deserve the best thanks of the community as a whole.

Successful Dance—
Dungarvan Foot Beagle Dance held at the Town Hall on St. Stephen's Night was a great success. As usual patrons attended from far outside the District and it speaks for the popularity of the dance that notwithstanding the rival dances in the area when dancing was in full swing over 120 couples were present. The music by "John Walsh and his Boys" was most up to date and popular and was kept going with great gusto from the start. The Dance on St. Stephen's Night was an innovation, as it is very many years since a similar function was held on that night and the committee in charge ran a risk in the circumstances, and are therefore to be complimented on the very successful result.

The New Gosoon—
East Waterford audiences will have an opportunity at an early date to enjoy a performance of Shiels well-known play "The New Gosoon" performed by the Grangemockler Amateur Dramatic Society, under the direction of Rev. James Harty, C.C. When Fr. Harty went to Grangemockler from Kiltrossa in 1937 he took with him to that parish his organising ability and zeal for providing healthy recreation for the parishioners. Half a dozen plays have been performed to large audiences by the Grangemockler players during the past year.

The Pike Hall—
Come by motor, come by bike, Come, in any case to the Pike. Be with the many, not with the few. Everyone else will be there with you. Those who know it often declare, That a better function they've seen ne'er You'll say the same and that's not all. For you'll love the comfort of the Pike Hall.

COUNTY HOME TREAT.
The annual Treat for the inmates of St. Joseph's County Home will be held as usual after Christmas. The Legion of Mary take this opportunity of thanking all subscribers and all those who so generously sent cakes, breads, fruit, sweets, etc. It is confidently hoped that an earnest appeal for their co-operation in the present undertaking on behalf of our less fortunate fellow-creatures will evoke the same wholehearted response.

the extended scale of salary was read. On the proposal of Rev. Fr. Walsh, seconded by An Fear Mor, the application was granted.

ELECTRIC COOKER.
At the previous meeting the Committee desired particulars for the hire, instead of purchase, of an electric cooker having two ovens for baking.
The sales manager of the E.S.B. wrote stating that there are no facilities for the hire of these models, nor can any discount be allowed on their purchase. The standard single oven apparatus only can be hired, as at Taramore, which is rented at 7s. per two months.
It was decided to hire a single oven cooker, to replace the old cooker in the Dungarvan School.

APPOINTMENT OF ARCHITECT.
Mr. D. S. Doyle, A.R.I.B.A., was appointed architect for the new Technical School at Kilmacthomas, on the proposal of An Fear Mor, seconded by Rev. Fr. Walsh.

HOURLY MEETING.
The notice of motion, "That future meetings of the Committee be held at 5 p.m., instead of 4 p.m." was passed.

"A WANDERER IN EUROPE TO-DAY."
It was agreed that Dr. Starke's lecture, "A Wanderer in Europe To-day," be given at 8.30 p.m., at Dungarvan Technical School, on Friday, 3rd February. Very Rev. Canon T. O'Brien will act as chairman.

EXPENSES.
Sean O'Ceallaigh, engineering instructor, Dungarvan, requests the Committee to reconsider the amount of expenses passed to him at the last meeting, in connection with his proposed attendance at the Industrial Gases School of Welding, Dublin, during one week of the Xmas holidays.
The fee of £4/6 payable to the Company covers tuition, cost of materials and gas, with use of stove for preheating motor car parts prior to welding. The hours of attendance at the course are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

A DISCUSSION ON UNEMPLOYMENT BY Members of An Rioghacht.

A recent discussion on Unemployment by members of An Rioghacht was broadcast from Radio Eireann under the Chairmanship of Mr. W. F. Phillips. The other members were: Messrs. H. O'Neill and B. Riordan.

Opening the discussion Mr. Phillips said that all of remedies for unemployment, e.g. Unemployment Insurance, Special schemes of work, Domes, etc. had been tried, and still the fact remained we had ninety-two thousand citizens signing up at the labour exchanges at the present time. And it would be much higher but for the recent emigration to England.

Mr. Phillips agreed and said the unemployment problem would never be solved unless we got a right outlook in the matter. That is, the Christian outlook—the best exposition of which is in the Pappal Encyclical.

Mr. Riordan said that he did not see why we should have to appeal to such principles as we know it today. Continuing, he said through their own deficiencies. He believed in reasonable competition and thought a certain amount of unemployment could be avoided.

Mr. O'Neill pointed out that poverty in the Gospel sense does not imply destitution, as we know it today. Continuing, he said that there seemed to be always plenty of money for war but little for constructive purposes. He stressed that unemployment was a scourge just like war or pestilence; and that all the wealth and intelligence of the nation should be conscripted to fight it.

Mr. O'Neill replied that schemes which were of benefit to the community at large were not always of immediate interest to a business man, but the State had a very definite obligation in Social Justice to provide conditions under which its people could get work, and any scheme which could cure unemployment would automatically solve a number of other problems.

to the State Development Commission whenever they wanted it. The very existence of unemployment is a proof that the obvious thing to do is to issue enough money—for productive schemes of work—to absorb all the unemployment. He would make the unemployment figures a test for the issuing of money.

At the time we are undertaking productive works which will add to the wealth of the country. This increased wealth must be reflected in an increased issue of money. He would suggest that wages under the scheme would be about level with the local rate of pay for farmwork. More than half the unemployed are in the rural parts. The majority of farm workers are idle during considerable periods of the year and could easily be spared for work on the schemes then.

The plan means an immediate increase in the national pay roll, an increased demand for goods and services, increased economic activity—a better standard of living all round.

Liberalistic ideas have been followed for nearly two centuries, and have produced misery and chaos. Christian ideas, so far, have had little but lip service. The late G. Chesterton said, "Christianity has not been tried and found wanting—it has been found difficult—and not tried."

Closing the discussion Mr. Phillips said we must not let our young people grow up with their hopes fixed on the Dole or the emigrant ship. We needed their energies and abilities, and they wanted nothing but the chance to work. Unemployment has got to stop. We have a fertile soil, willing hands, hungry mouths. Mr. O'Neill says we need intelligent organization and a national monetary policy.

Report on Agricultural Conditions in November '38

Weather and Work—During November rain fell almost continuously, accompanied at times by high winds which in some cases reached the force of gales. Rivers in many instances overflowed their banks and flooded wide areas of lowlands.

Feeding prospects for wintering stock—Grain for this year's harvest was not so plentiful as in recent years, partly owing to the decrease in the acreage of oats and barley sown and partly to the waste which occurred in harvesting under the weather conditions which prevailed.

The bulk of the wheat crop was suitable for milling into flour, but the bushel weight was not quite up to the standard of last year. The total production of the crop was about the same as last year and most of the grain had been sold off the farms at the close of the month.

Only a comparatively small portion of the crop had been cut at the close of the month. The yield proved variable and the best estimate that could be formed from the results of such scrutchings as had been completed was that the final yield would be around 31 stones to the statute acre.

Due to the unfavourable weather conditions the lifting of the crop was rendered difficult and the work was not finished at the end of the month. The yield is anticipated to be up to average, although below that obtained last year.

Due to the unfavourable weather conditions the lifting of the crop was rendered difficult and the work was not finished at the end of the month. The yield is anticipated to be up to average, although below that obtained last year.

Cattle stocks were reported to be in good health and in fair condition having regard to the inclement nature of the weather. The various provincial markets were well supplied with cattle of all descriptions. Demand was good and prices firm.

The number of pigs offered for sale at the various marketing centres in November was about the same as that for the preceding month. Pigs suitable for the bacon curing industry realised prices ranging from 6/3 to 6/6 per cwt. dead weight, or approximately 46/- to 48/- per cwt. on the live weight basis.

WEST WATERFORD NEWS

Greetings—To the Editor, staff and all the readers of this paper we wish a very happy and prosperous New Year.

The annual Christmas season dance was held in St. Declan's Parochial Hall, Ardmore, on St. Stephen's night, and was a very enjoyable event. Splendid music was supplied by Miss S. Hickey's Band (Youghal); the floor was in excellent order and carnival effects added to the picturesque of the scene.

For Stubbom Colds
A wonderful relief from a cold or flu. Vapour-rub in boiling water and inhale the steaming vapour for several minutes. This quickly clears the head of mucus, loosens phlegm, relieves coughing, eases the breathing. At bedtime rub Vapour-rub on throat, chest, and back. This has a double action: (1) through the skin like a poultice and (2) the heat of your body releases the medicated vapour that you breathe in for hours while you sleep. By morning the worst of the cold is over.
