SILAGE MEANS EXTRA FODDER.

Grass when made into hay in an average summer is known to lose as much as 25 per cent. of its feeding value. The same grass if made into silage may lose as little as 10 per cent. of its original value. It costs no more in labour, and but little in capital expenditure, to turn grass or any other green crop-except the kale and cabbage types—into a succulent and palatable winter fodder that can be used to eke out hay and cake.

Ensiling need not, however, be considered as a substitute for hay making, although our climate might tempt some to adopt it as such. Rather should it be looked upon as a complementary method of storage and preservation.

As a broad rule it should be the early cuts and the late cuts for silage, the main cuts in mid-season going for hay.

The loss of leaf, especially in such crops as clovers, lucerne and vetches, is a serious worry in hay making, but every bit of leaf is saved and stored if the the crop is en-

Briefly, the types of silos in use to-day are: Small cylindrical concrete holding 15 to 20 tons, steel mesh lined with paper, wood, and, of course, some silage is still made efficiently in pit and stack.

The advantage of the tower lies in the lessessing of waste at the sides, but against this must be put the capital expenditure, hough there are means whereby cree can be obtained from the Government.

Steel mesh and paper lining make a re latively cheap semi permanent job, but the pit silo entails extra labour, and requires a well-drained soil. CLOSING OF DE LA SALLE COLLEGE.

DISCUSSED AT I.N.T.O. MEETING.

A committee meeting of the Waterford Branch of the I.N.T.O. was held in the Granville Hotel on Saturday, 20th inst., to review the position of the De La Salle College and to consider what further steps could be taken to preserve this great educational Institution as a Training Centre for primary teachers, which service It has so worthily performed for a period of fifty years.

The meeting of last Saturday was one of many meetings which the members of the above committee have convened in the past four months in connection with this all-important matter. The Primary Teachers of Ireland look upon the closing of this great teaching institution and centre of national culture as a great national culamity as well as a lowering of the prestige of Waterford itself.

The local members of the I.N.T.O. have been enlisting the support of His Worship the Mayor, Ald. James Aylward. Knowing that a request was sent to the Taoiseach p receive a deputation from the Corporation to discuss the proposed closing of De La Salle and to place the views of that body before him before a final decision is taken, three members of the committee. Messrs. Creagh, Ahearne and Fitzpatrick waited on the Mayor to learn from him what developments had taken place on this very vital question since the Taoiseach was requested to accord the Corporation an interview. The Mayor received the three members very courteously and acquainted them with what has transpired since their last meeting with him. The Mayor is keenly interested in the question and those who interviewed him were left in no doubt that in se far as lies in his power nothing will be left undone to keep the portals of De La Salle open. The members of the committee had under consideration what further steps could be taken to impress on the Government and the general public the great necessity, national and local, of preserving an Institution which has played so great a part in the rebirth of the riation.

Another side to the picture, writes a correspondent, is the possibility that much of Denmark's imported grain and animal feeding stuffs may now be diverted to the country, as Denmark will, during German occupation, come under the blockade.

WEST WATERFORD NEWS

LAST SUNDAY AT AGLISH.

A large crowd travelled from Clashmore to Aglish on Sunday last to see the local team engage their Knockanore neighbours in the first round of the junior football championship. Confidence reigned in the Clashmore camp. It was widely believed that Clashmore would go a long way in the championship this year. There were plenty of grounds for optimism as the inclusion of several leading players was meant to strengthen the side considerably. But the followers of the Clashmore team were disappointed and disillusioned. The team selected did their best but a superior side prevailed. Individual players on the Clashmore team were outstanding.

MATCH FOR ARDMORE

The decision of the Western Board to play the Knockanore v. Ardmore match in the second round of the junior football championship at Ardmore has met with general approval. It is only fitting that Ardmore Club, who are doing great work for the G.A.A. should at last get a championship fixture. It will be a great Gaelic day in historic Ardmore and a huge attendance is assured to witness the meeting of these old rivals. The local club, who are one of the most efficient and best organised in the county, can be relied upon to have all arrangements perfect. The match will also be a great encouragement to the G.A.A. in the historic parish of St. Declan.

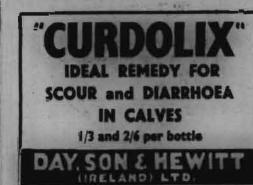

CLASHMORE PAROCHIAL CONCERT.

As briefly announced in these columns last week a grand Celebrity Concert and dramatic and Variety entertainment, in aid of Parochial Funds, will be held in Clashmore on Sunday night, May 5th. The organising committee are leaving nothing undone to ensure that the programme will be the best ever staged at Clashmore and a huge attendance is expected to the ever popular centre. Leading artistes will attend from Dungarvan, Youghal, Villiertown, etc., while the members of the Ardmore dramatic society will present a three Europe and Argentine supplied the bulk of | act play. The visitors were somewhat heftier than their rivals, and the latter were being frequently whistled up for minor infringements. It was a lively game, with Dungarvan on top, but the forwards were poor finishers. Dungarvan were defending the village-side citadel, and eventually came a Stradbally raid which looked like scoring, but was intercepted and cleared in the nick of time. The ball was soon back in the homesters lines, and the Dungarvan marksmen missed their objective repeatedly. Twenty minutes had elapsed before Dungarvan drew first blood-a point. End to end play ensued, and Stradbally seemed dangerous given a free in the Old Borough boys territory. Dungarvan goalie staved off a rasper, but Stradbally kept up the pressure and were soon rewarded with the hoisting of a white flag. A bombardment of the Stradbally goal followed, and a '50' was conceded. This was cleverly placed, and the forward who received the leather lashed it over the cross-bar.
