The Truth of the Position. Indications are not lacking that the next phase of the European conflict will be of an even more titanic nature than anything that has yet been seen. With the approach of more favourable conditions climatical the principal protagonists, it may be taken for granted, will exert their utmostthe one to endeavour to force the Reps. of Mrs. Mary Ryan for the Grazing | conflict up to a decisive climax; for 11 months of in or about 26 Acres of the the other to delay a decision until such a moment as the resources at his command will have been appreciably augmented. The arrival of that time will mark not alone the crisis of the belligerent powers, but our crisis as well. Ours is a neutral country in so far as the struggle is concerned, but our neutrality of itself will not save us. As has been frequently stressed, we must depend solely on our own resources if we are to survive the frightful perils that surround us. Plainly, it is a position that needs unexampled efforts and sacrifices on the part of us all. That is the naked truth of the situation, and it certainly cannot be counted other than an uncomfortable truth. The grim fact to be recognised is that the nearer the present war draws to its inevitable climax, the greater our danger. Happily, up to the present we have escaped its worst consequences. Although our trade has been hit and our supplies cut off, and our rights as a neutral State have in some measure been violated (with, on occasion, loss of life or injury) our territory has not been invaded nor our national life seriously dislocated. However, it would be sheer folly to think that because nothing on a large scale has so far transpired it will never transpire here in Eire. The direct opposite is accurate. The longer the war drags on the greater the peril. There must, therefore, be a steady increase of the national effort. Every unit of our defence organisation, military and economic must be tuned up to the highest key of profficiency. Let every Irishman and Irishwoman bear well in mind that apathy or pro-

KILMACTHOMAS NOTES

LADY WATERFORD'S MISHAP. Wenderful tenacity and place were displayed by the Marchieners of Waterford when, whilst collecting for the District Nursing Fund at Bonmahon, the horse she was riding stumbled and she was unseated with such violence as caused her to sustain a fracture of the right arm and facial injuries. Regardless of these painful handicaps, her Ladyship remounted and rode the animal some eight miles to where her motor car was parked. Lady Waterford then drove the car with one hand to Curraghmore House, where she was immediately medically attended to, and, to the great joy of her hosts of friends and well-wishers, she is since making favourable progress towards com-

PLOUGHING JUDGES. Messrs. Laurence Veaie. Ballyshunock, Kilmaethomas (Hon. Sec. Newtown Ploughing Committee) and James Gough, Kilmoyee, Portlaw (member do.) were the judges at the Mount Pleasant Ploughing Match, which took place at Castlenalact, Co. Cork, on Saturday of last week, and their verdici on the work done was that it was of good standard, and in many cases equal to junior All-Ireland pitch. Last year's All-Ireland junior champion Mr. Thomas Phelan, Carroll's Cross, Kilmacthomas (also a member of the Newtown Ploughing Committee), partnered Mr. Richard Holohan, ex-T.D., Knocktopher, South Kilkenny, in judging the ploughing fixture at Cappagh, do., or Tuesday of this week, under the aegis of the Loughcullen Ploughing Committee.
