Mr. Michael McGrath, St. Thomas Terrace.

Mrs. Cummins, Island, Stradbally.

The ofth took place at the Cottage (April 23th) of Mrs. Cummins (nec Wall, Colligan), wife of Mr. James Cummins Island, Stradbally, after an illness of some months duration and at a comparatively early age. The happy postessor of a fine, generous nature, the late Mrs. Cummins was esteemed for her many virtues, which were rooted in benevolence and were legich. A great wave of sympathy goes out to her sorrowing husband, who is left with a young family to mourn per loss. The deceased's husband is brother of Very Rev. P. D. Cummins, Prior, O.S.A., Cork.

The Killadangan reservoir is too low to supply a large section of the town, and the pressure is inadequate to secure a satisfactory delivery. REPORTS OF BOROUGH SURVEYOR.

The following reports were read from Mr. Bowen B.E., Borough Surveyor:

Killadangan Water Works.—

During the past quarter some work has been carried out on the Killadangan Water Works with a view to improvement of the supply from that source. Generally the site has been cleared of bushes and under-growth the sewer discharge on the foreshore at this point, and more especially on on account of the proximity of the new swimming pool. The sewer should be extended to low water in a 12" pipe laid on and surrounded by concrete with manhole and cover at the Quay. The cost would be about £75. From the Tannery on Cody's Quay, adjoining above, large quantities of foul liquid are discharged on the foreshore. This should not be allowed and the owners should be requested to arrange for discharge at low water mark, to your approval. A sewer exists near the south end of the Promenade, which is taken to low water level, but a mainhole near the Quay wall is not satisfactory. This should be raised and flitted with the seed, etc. when he went to till same he found it had already been tilled. He asked what he is to do with the seed, etc. Supplied by the Council. Mr. Dwyer said it was most unfair, apparently some one tilled more than their right. He thought the plots should be measured. Mr. Bowen—The place is already surveyed twice. Mr. Dwyer—It's not the fault of the measuring, it's the fault of some plotholders. Clerk—There are two or three similar complaints. Chairman—If O'Neill was granted 74 he is entitled to it. maid, and Mr. Matthew Gough (brother of the groom), acted as best man. The bride was attired in a blue coat with freek and hat to match, and the brides maid wore a marcon cusemble with hat and shoes to match. The reception was held at the home of the bride, following which the happy couple left for Dublin on their honeymoon. The bridegroom is a familiar foure in the agricultural life of the district, and formerly functioned as hon. secretary to the local branch of the Irish Farmers' Association. He and his estimable life-partner received a big array of costly and useful presents to mark the auspicious occasion. We warmly wish Mr. and Mrs. Gough length of years in full enjoyment of the graces and blessigns of connubial bliss.
