CORK v. WATERFORD CHAMPIONS AND MUNSTER FINALISTS TO MEET AT FULL STRENGTH.

Councillors Kenneally, Caulfield and Cosgrove.

Late Mr. Thomas Cullen.—A resolution of sympathy with the relatives of the late Mr. Thomas Cullen, The Glen, Waterford (a former member of the Board) was, on the proposition of Mr. Caulfield, seconded by Mr. Veale, passed in silence.

Mr. S. J. Moynihan, Co. Manager, who was unable to attend, wrote asking to have his name associated with the resolution.

Mr. Flynn, Secretary. on behalf of the officials of the Board, also asked to be associated with the resolution and said the late Mr. Cullen was a most useful member of the Board.

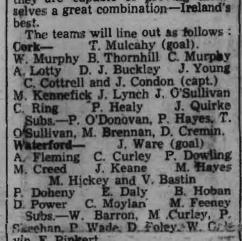

By GORM IS BAN.

All arrangements have been completed for the great invasion of the "Urbs Intacta" on next Sunday. Contrary to rumours and speculations both Cork and Waterford will field their very best teams. To rectify a long noticed weakness in their line of attack, the champions will make two changes. "Hitter" Healy of Ballingolis, and Jackie Sullivan, St. Finbarrs displace Ted Sullivan and Micka Brennan. On the Waterford side Willie Barron gives way to Vin Baston (injured before the Munster Final). All the displaced men are in the first line of the reserve list.

MOUNT SION WIN SENIOR HURLING FINAL.

Mount Sion, 3-7; Tallow, 1-5.
At the Gaelic Field, Dungarvan, on Sunday last, Mount Sion defeated Tallow in the final of the senior hurling championship by 3-7 to 1-5. Fast, clean hurling was witnessed in the first moiety and at the interval scores were level at witnessed in the first moiety and at the interval scores were level at 1-1 to 0-4. Mount Sion clearly proved their superiority in the second half and had a good lead piled up at the final whistle. Mt. Sion suffered a great draw-back mid-way through the first half when John Keane, their captain and centre half-back, had to retire due to a head injury. At this stage Tallow held the lead of three points. Andy Fleming then took up the centre-half position and with renewed determination were very soon on level terms with the Tallow men. After ten minutes of the second half Curran put Tallow who were two points in arrears to the fore again with a spectacular goal, but this lead was short-lived. Some very good individual hurling was witnessed on the Tallow team but they lacked the team work that was needed to beat an experienced side such as Mount. Sion. The City side held the championship from 1938 to 1940. In 1941 Dungarvan beat them in a hectic final at Lismore. Tallow took senior honours in 1936. Best for the winners on Sunday were Andy Fleming. O'Meara, Gailagher, Minogue, G'Connor and Walsh, while 'Pa' Sheehar, Hartigan, Curleys and Ronayne were brilliant on the losting side.

J. Colbert.
J. Colbert. sent his side into the offensive for Ryan to point. Play continued to be fast and both sides attacked without result. In quick succession Curley and Hartigan had points for Tallow. John Keane received a nasty head injury and had to retire. Mount Sion had then to make a number of positional changes and when the game was resumed they went on the offensive and Doyle levelled the scoring with a fast goal. There was no further score before the interval.

On resuming Mount Sion went ahead with a point from a free to which O'Meara soon added another minor. In a determined Tallow raid Curran had a spectacular poal for Tallow though he was hard pressed. Minogue quickly had the equaliser and from this to the end the City men held the upper hand and registered 2—4 while Tallow could only reply with a single point from a free per Curran.

OUR DAILY BREAD. The current year's wheat crop, unless the yield pans out better than is expected at the moment, will not Town Hall, Dungarvan, be sufficient to supply our requirements of bread and as we cannot bank on being able to import grain to make up the shortage, it may be recessary to introduce a proportion barely to the loaf The mixture of wheat and barley is already in use across-Channe; and we are told hat it produces a wholesome bread. That, of course, is the cardinal consiperation. The only alternative is rationing—a measure to be avoided at all costs because of the privation it would impose on the poorer sections of the community. There is, owever, no abundance of barley in the Twenty-Six Counties and if a substantial proportion of the crop is wanted for milling it means that there will be much less left to proide for the production of whiskey and beer and for the feeding of poultry and pigs Should this necessity arise it will be regrettable. for despite the fact that these things are mere luxuries compared with bread, the restricted output will have an adverse effect on trading concerns that give a great deal of employment. And it would, indeed, be difficult to name any trade or in-Admission: 2/6 dustry that does not suffer through the deficiency in tillage, coupled with the limited shipping space now ex-

By "AN RUNAIDHE." The Big Attraction. — The big attraction for Sunday is the Cork v. Waterford hurling game at the City field. Waterford have out the best change from that which played in the Munster final. Cork have four changes, but they only mean that they are taking no chances and be-neve they have made a definite im-provement in their line out. Most people will agree the advantage of home venue will be offset by this improvement. I forecast a Waterford will but with a narrow margin. This is of course subject to Keane and Fleming, etc., being able to turn out. At time of writing I hear that this is now definite. The challenge game. Stradbally v. Kiliessanty, will be another attraction to give the day a deided pull as an attraction At Camphire - By agreement nockanore meet the Army team Mc Dermott's in the J.F. champion ship, postponed from Sunday last. Knockanbre pleaded that they could of their players. The Army team sportingly agreed to play on Sunday next and now everything is all set for great gane.

Tourin v. Ballyduff.—At Lismore on Sunday next Tourin, by defeating Araglen in J.H. meet Ballyduff. Fresh from victory Tourin are favourites. Ballydu!! are putting out their best and I hear quite a few new faces will appear on their side. John Vaughan will ac' as referee. At Cappagh. - At long last the replay game, Finnish Rovers v. Cappo-ouin will take place on Sunday. Twice this game was fixed but due to comething or another it had to go back. Now we are going to have it decided. Last time there was very little between the teams and Sunnay's game pronises a very close contest. Declar Sullivan will be in enarge at the special request of both teams. That is a nice little tribute to the way Dec. handled the last

He was brought before Mr. Ml. Morrissey, T.D., P.C., and remanded to the Cahir District Court on Thursday 23rd. He was then removed in custody to Limerick jail. It was ascertained that the man is a deserter from the British Army and crossed the Border, working at various places until he arrived at Dungarvan. Guard Enright is to be heartily congratulated on his promptitude and courage in effecting single-handed the capture of such an unwelcome visitor to the locality.

KILMACTHOMAS NOTES.

To-morrow's (Sunday) Arch Attraction in Gaeldom.—Thanks to the great organising abilities and generosity of two eminent and worthily esteemed mid-Waterford men-the Very Rev. P. D. Cummins, O.S.A. (Prior), Cork, and his first cousing Dr. P. Kiely, do., both of whom were born in the parish of Stradbally-tomorrow will be an eventful day at Waterford city's Gaelic Grounds, where the capital senior hurling inter-county combinations who contributed the current year's memorable Munster final classic are to be seen in opposition again. Cork and Waterford are fit and ready for the fray, and a huge gathering is confidently anticipated. In the competition for the provincial title, 1943, Waterford ploughed through counties of the standing of Tipperary and Limerick on scores and at venues which admitted of no questioning. Taking on the Rebel County men at Cork in the ultimate they succumbed by two points, and were generally counted unlucky losers. Cork went on to win the All-Ireland Crown, inflicting the proverbial "father of a beating on Antrim at Croke Park.

As previously announced, the win-As previously announced, the winners of to-morrow's clash in the purely Celtic code will be presented with a set of suit-lengths, donated by with a set of suit-lengths, donated by Dr. P. In hurling circles throughout the country it is the chief topic of discussion and looked forward to with intense interest and speculation. Cork's wide range of supporters, while not unmindful of the task before the Patrick (Paddy) Dempsey has also team, are buoyant and confident with visions of the Cork team taking the leld at Waterford and returning with the suit-lengths. There is no getting away from the fact that the "Reds" rivals, the Deise representation (colours, blue and white) were never more determined on making amends for the reverse sustained in the Munster final a few short weeks since. and on the home ground to-morrow they hope to make good, supported by their many optimistic followers. laving regard to the hurling abilities of the representative sides and to their unmistakable winning attitude. it would be futile to advance an n on the result, but it can be stated definitely that the sporting public may rest assured of a great match. DISCUSSION AT CORK COUNTY COUNCIL. A! a meeting of Cork County Council on Thursday, the Chairman

The Council considered a letter from the Department of Local Covernment and Public Health relative to the resolution adopted by the Council in July last regarding their undertaxing to provide £200 on account of preliminary expenses con-nected with the proposed building of the Youghal Bridge.

The Chairman referred to the discussions which had taken place between Cork and Waterford County Councils on the subject of the new landge, and the decision later of Cork County Council to contribute £200 towards the preliminary expenses. The L.G.D. now wrote requesting to be informed f £200 was the total

After all the Ministry, who, he believed had national traffic, and national traffic contributed to its damage, and. therefore the Ministry could not escape responsibility in the matter. He suggested that the Cork County Council accept its share of the responsibility for the rebuilding of the bridge, but held the view that there should be a substantial national contribution towards it, and that they ask the Local Government Department what contribution they were prepared to pay.

Mr. Corry moved a motion on those lines, which Mr. Roycroft seconded and the Council agreed.

It is rumoured that Mr. Moss Connery, the well-known veteran Gael is putting up a If this is so, the game will be sure to be a thriller and should attract a big crowd to the popular Piltown venue.

PHILIP BARRON

FIRST GAELIC LEAGUER.

An article of great interest for Waterford people — especially those engaged in the task of the Irish language revival—appeared recently in a Dublin newspaper, dealing with the career of Philip Barson, who is termed as the first Gaelic Leaguer. Philip Barron was not merely an enthusiast who used his wealth to advance the Irish language. He was a highly educated gentleman with a sound literary taste, liberal interests, very interested in the political movements of his time, a doughty fighter for the emancipation of his Catholic fellow-countrymen, deeply absorbed in Irish history and Irish culture and a native Irish speaker. By birth, education, social standing and inclination, a man fitted for leadership, a Gaelic Catholic Parnell perhaps, had not the gigantic figure of O'Connell overshadowed him and the roaring political tempest of the time, roaring through the English language caused the Gael to lose his national breath. In Barron's time there was plenty of Irish spoken in Waterford, and under Dr. Abraham, afterwards Bishop of Waterford. Irish was generally taught in St. John's College in Waterford, and for a time no student in that college was allowed to enter on his theological studies until he had mastered the Irish language.

With wonder and vexation Barron complained that the national language and national history were utterly neglected in almost all the schools and colleges in Ireland. A Chair of Irish was established in Maynooth in 1828, but except for St John's. Waterford. it was not treated even as a "dead" language in any school or college in the land.

man on the Araglen team. Tourin v. Ballyduff.—By their victory on Sunday last, Tourin junior hurlers have qualified to meet Ballyduff in the Lismore group final at Lismore on next Sunday. The game is arousing considerable interest locally and a record attendance is expected to be present. According to reports from the Ballydust camp the team has been going all out in training for the past few weeks and may be expected to be in rare form on Sunday. Tourin, on the other hand, have had plenty of practice and experience from recent games, so that the forth-coming clash should be well worth
