Bishop's House, Waterford, Feb. 11th, 1945.

Very Rev. and Dear Fathers and Dear Brethren,—When Our Lord Jesus Christ ascended into Heaven, He left His visible representative on earth behind Him. This was the Catholic Church, which is His Mys-tical Body and Bride, a Divine Institution, the organ of the Holy Ghost until the end of time and the spiritual mother of us all. The Church continues in our midst the visible mission of Jesus Christ, Who handed over to her on His Ascension His own offices of teaching, sanctifying and governing the Faithful. "As the Father hath sent Me," He says to the Apostles, "I also send you." "You have not chosen Me, but

Matthew's Gospel how, before Our Lord ascended into heaven, He called His Apostles together and addressed them in the most solemn language, giving them His last and most special giving them His last and most special charge in the following words:

We should consider the force of the expression: "I, God, am with you," and then its bearing on the mission of the Aposties. The invariable meaning in Scripture language of the physics." "I God. am with you?" phrase: "I, God, am with you," is Here surely is a commission of more than ordinary difficulty to teach all men all things whatsoever Christ had taught themselves. They, simple fishermen, are to publish to the world the whole Revelation He had made known to them—not adding to it, nor taking from it, nor altering in any way the divine message. And, therefore, He promises "to be with them," to watch over and specially assist to watch over and specially assist them to secure the complete success of the Mission He had imposed on them. Our Lord had said on another occasion: "The Paraclete, the Holy Ghost, Whom the Father will send in My name, He will teach you all things and bring all things to your mind, whatsoever I shall have said to you."

From this divine commission given by Our Lord after His Resurrection from the dead and from other texts of Scripture, we gather that the work of the Catholic Church involves the following three main functions or

(1) To teach the revealed doctrines of faith and morals which were entrusted to her by Jesus Christ and

(2) To sanctify the Faithful by the offering of the Sacrifice of the Mass and by the administration of the Sacraments instituted by Christ.

(3 To rule the Faithful and guide them on the road that leads to their ness to the truth. Everyone that is of the truth, listens to my voice." (John 19, 37). "I am the light of the world: the man who follows me, walketh not in darkness, but shall have the light grace. All this He did as man and by neans of His human nature.

The Church might say to us what St. Paul said to the Galatians: "I am an Apostle or Messenger, not of men, neither by man, but by Jesus Christ and God the Father, who raised Him from the dead. And I give you to understand that the doctrine which I preach is not according to man, for neither did I receive it of man, nor did I learn it: but by the revelation of Jesus Christ." (Gal. I.).

The Church is thus the divinely appointed trustee of the legacy of divine truth and of the ministry of grace left by Jesus Christ and His Apostles.

We read in the last verses of St. Matthew's Gospel how, before Our God made Man, Jesus Christ. We ought try to grasp and realise this tremendous fact of the Incarnation of the Eternal Son, the truth expressed in the beginning of St. John's Gospel: "the Word was made Flesh and dwelt amongst us." For each one of us the Son of God was made man to enable us to reach the supernatural end for which we were made. For each one of us, He was born and laboured and taught and died, and for each one of us He has in store in the Catholic Church all that has been done by His Incarnation, Life, Death

During the 3 years of his public life, Jesus Christ was a Teacher. When Nicodemus came to Jesus by night, he acknowledged Our Lord to be a come to Jesus and say to him: "Master, we know that thou art a true speaker, and carest not for any man, but teachest the way of God in truth. Tell us therefore what dost thou think, is it lawful to give tribute to Cesar, or not?" (Mark 12, 14).

Now Our Lord before His Ascension into heaven handed over this function of teaching His revealed doctrine of faith and morals to the hurch, when He said: "Going, therefore, teach all nations." (Matth. 28, "I will ask the Father and He shall give you another Paraclete that shall give you another Paraclete that He may abide with you for ever, the Spirit of Truth." (John 14, 16).

From the Holy Scriptures we learn the that Our Lord Jesus Christ did establish a teaching Church, that He commanded all to hear and accept its doctrine, that it will be always a truthful teacher because He Himself and the Holy Spirit of Truth will abide with it for ever. abide with it for ever. " And I hold in veneration

For the love of Christ alone Holy Church as His creation And her doctrine as His own." Towards the end of the "Act of Faith" which is recited before Mass, there are indicated the general subject-matter and the motive of our belief, when we say: "I believe these and all other articles which the Holy Catholic Church proposes to our be-lief because Thou, my God, the in-fallible truth hast revealed them, and Thou hast commanded us to hear the Church which is the pillar and the ground of truth."

Our Catechism of Christian doc-trine asks the question: Where shall we find the truths God has taught? The truths God has taught are chieuy contained in the Apostles' Creed and the moral duties which God has revealed and imposed on us are chiefly contained in the Ten Commandments of God. We have thus the revealed doctrines of faith and morals.

We ought to try to say the "I believe in God" with reverence and with as full a realisation of the meaning of each article as is possible. When we recite the first article: "I believe in God," already we switch on, before our minds and imagination the picture of an infinite reality. God is an Infinite and Eternal Person and a Spirit who through sheer intensity of Being must exist always and be everywhere. How different from you and me, who are of yesterday and occupy such a tiny bit of space in this visible world! We are inclined to ume that the great fact is this ble universe which lies before us member how Our Lord emphasised remember how Our Lord emphasised the importance of observing the Commandments when the young man came and said to Him: "Master, what good must I do that I may have life everlasting? And Jesus said to the young man: If you wish to possess life everlasting, keep the Commandments." (Matth. 19, Id).

The punishment for defiance or neglect of the Commandments is the greatest imaginable, that is, exclusion from life everlasting.

In this department also, we must bear in mind that these Commandments are revealed to us by God and not discovered or formulated by man, though each Commandment on merit would be approved by human reason.

knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither doth anyone know the Father, but the Son and he to whom it shall please the Son to reveal Him." (Matth. 11, 25). "We speak what we know and we bear witness to what we have seen." (John 3, 11).

The Great One who came to teach us the truth, to enlighten the darkness of our minds, and to redeem us on the Cross is the Eternal Son of God made Man, Jesus Christ. We ought try to grasp and realise this tremendous fact of the Incarnation of the Eternal Son, the truth ex-

And every day at Mass we have the continued reminder of Our Lord's office of Redeemer in the words of consecration of the wine in the chalice which are the same words as Our Lord used at the Last Supper: "This is the chalice of my blood of the New and Eternal Testament, which shall be shed for you and for many unto the remission of sins."

fruits of redemption are applied to each of us automatically and that each of us is now born into this world automatically endowed with sanctifying grace in his soul. Each of us, should now alive, has to appropriate and make his own the fruits of Christ's death. These fruits are not forced on us. We are still born children of Adam and deprived of grace. We have to be made children of Jesus Christ by Baptism which is the means appointed by Our Lord to secure the benefits of redemption. "He that believeth," says Christ, "and is baptized shall be saved." (Mark 16).

Calvary.

Jesus Christ no longer treads this earth. He has left it and sits now at the right hand of the Father. The Catholic Church now dispenses to the Faithful the sacraments of grame instituted by the Redeemer. The Sacrifice of the Mass is likewise handed over to the Church to be her handed over to the Church to be her sacrifice and to be offered up by her to worship God and to secure for all the children of the Church the fruits of the Sacrifice of the Cross.

The Catholic Church is the living Body of which Jesus Christ, now glorious and immortal in Heaven, is the Founder and the invisible Head. We, the members of the Church, are united to our glorified Lord by faith and sanctifying grace. Our mind is made like to Christ's Mind by the obedience of Faith, and our whole being partakes of that same Sanctifying Grace which the Redeemer possesses in such fulness. "I," He says,
"am the vine; you are the branches:
he that ablocth in Me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, un-can you, unless you abide in Me." (John 15, 5). All the sanctifying activity of the Church through the Sacraments is directed towards the obtaining, the forected towards the obtaining, the fostering, the restoration if by chance it be lost, and the triumph of the Life of Christ—which is the life of Sanctifying Grace—within each one of us. Baptism infuses it, Confirmation strengthens it, Penance gives it back if we have lost it, while the Eucharist powers that life of personal helinourishes that life of personal holiness without which no man shall see

The Church has also received from her Founder the authority and the duty to lead and direct her members assume that the great fact is this visible universe which lies before us patent to the sight, ready to the touch and appealing to the senses in so unmistakeable a manner. But the Creed teaches us that the great original Fact is God, the Infinite and Eternal Spirit, who called this world of ours into different way.

It is necessary that God Himself should speak to us, that God Himself should teach us, and this information direct from the Infinite Mind of God to the finite Mind of Man is called this world of command. These twelve articles of the Creed contain the precious information sent us by God. This information came from above. Revelation and Faith are correlative terms like father and are correlative terms like father and four ignorance of the knowledge and our part are necessary on account of our ignorance of the knowledge and our part are necessary on account of our ignorance of the wounds of human nature left from Original Sin.

We are asked to believe, that is, to creep as true the heavenly information.

Our Lord has, let us say, canonised his principle of self-denial, which already existed, and incorporated it into the Catholic Religion. Without self-denial we shall gradually lose control of ourselves and then anything may

The glorified Head of our Church in Heaven to Whom we are united by faith and sanctifying grace as branches to the Vine, would have reason to be ashamed of the members of His Church if they lacked in His service that conviction, valour, resolution and loyalty of which we hear consecration of the wine in the chalice which are the same words as Our Lord used at the Last Supper:

Our Lord endured the Passion and Death on the Cross that you and I should be without spot or wrinkle, that we should be holy and without blemish. But this grand ideal of personal holiness, interior and exterior, in our thoughts, affections, and desires cannot be realised without overcoming ourselves in many things. Lent is the call of God and of His Church to thought, prayer, repentance and self-denial.

"Henry VIII started it" ....

It was the Merry Monarch who first put a duty of 4d. a gallon on whiskey. Ever since, each successive Chancellor of the Exchequer has made good his deficit by increasing this levy.

In the year 1852 it was 2/8, and five years later it was increased to 8/-. It remained about 10/- a gallon until 1910, when Lloyd George raised it to 14/9. At the end of the Great War it was 30/-, and in 1919 it jumped to 30/-. Then in 1920 the duty was increased to 72/6. It only remained for our own Minister of Finance to bring the duty on whiskey to its present level of 82/6 a gallon. Perhaps had Henry not started it, it might have been possible to-day to enjoy a glass of Velvet Cap for about 4d.

LATE MR. JOSEPH ALLEN, N.T.,

After a brief illness and at the early age of twenty-nine years, the death took place on Monday, 5th inst., at the County Hospital, Wexford, of Mr. Joseph Allen. The deceased was a native of Lismore and was son of SALEROOMS, CAPPOQUIN, at the hour of one o'clock p.m., the follow-log Premises.

He received his early education at the Christian Brothers' College, Lismore, and after a brilliant Intermediate course decided to enter the teaching profession. He spent two years at the Waterford Training College and with excellent qualifications was destined for a successful career as a teacher. He taught for some time at teacher, in the occupation of Luke OBrien, situate in the Barony of Decies-without-Drum, and County of Waterford, held under a Judicial Tenancy, subject to the annual rent of £54, in place of which the revised sum of £24 14s. 2d., as provided by Part III. of the Land Act, 1933, will be payable by the Purchaser to the Irish Land Commission, by two equal half-yearly payments of £12 7s. id. each, on the 1st day of May and 1st day of November in each year, in pursuance of the said Acts. The next payment, which will be due on the 1st day of May, 1945, shall be payable by the Purchaser. day of May, 1945, shall be payable by His premature death has removed a of the interests of any sub-tenants thereon and to any charge under any Public Works Act, or under the Shannon Electricity Act, 1925, and to any permanent improvement charge within the meaning of the Agricultural Credit Acts, 1927 to 1929 which may affect the same but discharged from all other claims or incumbrances of all persons whomsoever on such interest.

Is extended in their bereavement.

At the removal of the remains from Wexford on Twesday, the staff and pupils of the Christian Brothers' Schools formed a guard of honour and there was, in addition, a large attendance of the general public. At Cappoquin and Lismore, large numbers joined the funeral. The remains were received at the Cathedral Lismore, by Very Rev. Canon Walsh, were Mr. James Lenihan, youngest LISMORE NOTES.

Death of Mrs. T. J. O'Donnell.— With feelings of profound regret we record the death of Mr. J. T. O'Donnell, proprietor of the Dewonshire Arms Hotel, Lismore, which sad event occurred at his residence on Wednesday night, February 7th to the inexpressible grief of his wife, family and friends. Although deceased had been ailing for a considerable period he was able to go about up to a short time before the end which came rather unexpectedly. The late Mr. O'Donnell was also one of the most prominent merchants in the town and was a man of unimpeachable character. His upright and charitable disposition made him loved and respected by all who had the pleasure of knowing him. Genial and unassum ing, he was also a most exemplary Catholic and the embodiment of all that was characteristic of a true-hearted Gael and his demise has In his o evoked regret and sympathy throughout the district.
