Dungarvan District Court.

Breaches of Licensing Laws.

Local Clubs Fined.

Before Mr. O'Riain, D.J.
Ad Interim Transfer.—Mr. T. Williams, solicitor, acting for Mr. M. J. O'Connell, solicitor, Carrick-on-Suir, was granted an ad interim transfer of the licence held by her father, Wm. Lawlor.
Miss Lawlor deposed that she was one of the parties to whom the licence was transferred by deed of conveyance.

Tractor Prosecution.—Guard D. Begley, Dungarvan, summoned John Lynch, Ballyduff, for using a tractor, the tyres of which did not comply with the requirements of Article 94 of the Mechanically Propelled Vehicles Act. Defendant was also summoned for having no registration plate.
Guard Begley said the defendant was driving the tractor at Mitchell Street, but it was not doing any harm to the road.

Mr. T. C. Williams (for defendant) said Mr. Lynch had bands but they would not fit the wheels. He had tried to get rubber tyres but had not succeeded. He had ordered other bands but had not got them yet. As regards the registration plate, that was an oversight and he had got it now.

Drunk.—The following were summoned for being drunk—John Croft, 40 Canal Brugha Place (fined 5s.); Patrick Troy, no fixed abode (fined 2/6); Daniel Tierney, do. (fined 2s. 6d.); John Fortune, do. (fined 5s.); and D. Gallagher, do. (fined 5s.).
Guards Straine and Burke were the complainants.
Guard Begley charged William Attridge, Keating Street, with being drunk.

Mr. P. J. Morrissey (Messrs. Farrell and Morrissey) for the defendant.
Guard Begley deposed that the defendant had been fighting on the night in question. He was an old offender, who specialised in beating up the people.

Mr. Morrissey said he regretted what happened that night and he apologises for it.

Guard Begley—I'm sure he regrets it all right (laughter). He did not apologise to me.

Mr. Morrissey said Attridge met a friend who had been in England and they had a "bit of a celebration." He was involved in a row going home and got the worst of it. He was the sole supporter of a crippled father. He authorized him (Mr. Morrissey) to give an undertaking that anything like this would not happen again.

A penalty of £1 was imposed, the Justice remarking that if he did not behave himself he would find himself in jail.

Breach of the Licensing Laws.—Supt. P. O'Mahony charged the Committee of the Dungarvan Literary Club with a breach of the Licensing Laws on March 30th.

A number of members of the club were summoned for consuming liquor on the club premises after the legal hour.

Mr. T. C. Williams (J. F. Williams and Son) pleaded guilty on behalf of the defendants. He said that the club was founded in 1908 and was in continuous existence for 38 years, with the exception of two years. During all that period the club had been in court only once and that was in 1937, which showed that it was conducted very well. In the club was a steward to enforce discipline, but on this night he was absent owing to the death of a relative and one of the members was acting temporarily steward, with the result that discipline was not so strict. There was no rowdyism or drunkenness of any kind, and the Gardaí were given every facility when they arrived. He pleaded for leniency in view of the excellent record of the club.

Supt. O'Mahony agreed with what Mr. Williams had stated.
The Justice imposed a penalty of £2 on the committee and fined the members found consuming drink 2/6. There was a similar prosecution against the Dungarvan Club, Sexton Street, Abbeyside, for a licensing offence on the same night. A number of members of the club found consuming drink on the club's premises were also summoned.

Mr. T. C. Williams (acting for Mr. J. F. Kenny) for defendants, pleaded guilty on behalf of defendants.

Mr. Williams said the club was established 21 years ago and was really a continuation of the old Dungarvan Club, which was founded in the early part of the century. The members comprised the leading professional men in the town. It was the Club's 21st anniversary before the court. The committee were now taking very stringent measures that there would be no breach in the future. He would assure his Worship that there would be no repetition of the offence in the future and asked that he treat the case leniently.

It was stated that on the last occasion the committee of the club were prosecuted a fine of £2 was imposed. The Justice said that it was very wrong that the club should be before the court in such a short time. On the last occasion they were fined £3. On this occasion he would impose a fine of £3, hoping that it would serve as a warning to the club.

Bound to the Peace.—Margaret Costigan, Canal Brugha Place, summoned Mary Nagle, also of Canal

Brugha Place, for assault and using abusive language. She also applied to have the defendant bound to the peace.

Mr. P. J. Morrissey for the complainant.
Complainant stated that she and her husband and another person were in a certain public-house on the Square on May 14th. The husband of defendant was in the shop also but was not where they were. The defendant rushed into the shop and abused the shopkeeper and her (defendant's) husband put her out. Defendant came back again and struck witness and also attacked the woman of the shop again. Defendant said to her husband that it was "dirty filthy company he was in." Witness said to her "Excuse me, he's not in our company." The defendant hit witness on the mouth with her fist and cut her mouth. Witness had occasion to bind her to the peace before and so did other people.

Mr. Morrissey—Isn't it a fact that the people in this street made a petition to the Urban Council to shift her? Witness—Yes.

Mary Nagle, defendant, said that her husband had been in England and had come home on ten days leave and had some money, giving her some. He had been out all that day and she had sent a young fellow to know where he was and he told witness that he was in a public-house on the Square. Witness went to the public-house and told the owner not to give drink to her (witness's) husband and not to serve the complainant and her husband with drink paid for by her (witness's) husband. The complainant's husband caught witness by the shawl and hit her on the head with his knuckles. He threw her out and kicked her on the hip. Witness's shawl was pulled off her and when she got it she went to the barracks and made a complaint, but the Guards told her it was a matter for her solicitor.

Cross-examined by Mr. Morrissey—Were you bound to the peace on several occasions? I wasn't.

Mr. Morrissey—Were you bound to the peace by Margaret Attridge? No, I was not.

Mr. Morrissey—You deny that? I do.

Mr. Morrissey—Have you been up in court on several occasions? It's three years ago since I had a row with this woman.

To further questions, witness denied she used abusive language or hit the complainant.

The Justice said he would accept the evidence of the complainant and fined defendant £1 with £1 in costs. He ordered the defendant to enter into a bond to keep the peace for 12 months in her own bail of £5. He allowed one month to pay the costs.

Children's Court.—Three young children and their mothers from the Ballinacorney area were before the court charged with the larceny of young spruce trees.

The offence was admitted.
Supt. O'Mahony said that the children took the plants from a neighbouring farm and planted them in their own land.

The owner of the plants stated he was not looking for any compensation.

The P.O.A. was applied.
Supt. O'Mahony charged three boys and their parents on behalf of a charge of larceny of oranges from the fruit store, Cross Bridge Street, owned by Mr. J. Lynch, South Terrace.

Supt. O'Mahony, who prosecuted, said that one morning one of the workmen found the door of the store open and on going in saw that one of the windows had been tampered with. There was from six to ten dozen oranges missing.

In the case of one of the children it was stated that the father had no control over his sons, as every one of his family had been up in court before. There was nothing against any of the other boys.

Replying to the court, Mr. Lynch said the amount of loss he had suffered was between 10/- and 15/-, but he was prepared to let it go.

The Justice said that though Mr. Lynch was very decent about letting the compensation go, he should not be at any loss. He adjourned the cases to the next court on the undertaking that the parents pay 5/- each composition in the meantime. In the case of one of the boys, the Justice warned him and said that this was the last time he would be treated leniently. If he did not behave himself he would be sent away to an industrial school. The case against this boy was adjourned also.

It can now be officially stated that as from Sunday, June 2nd, the Sunday excursion trains from Cork to Youghal will start. A new innovation this season is that a train will leave Youghal on each Sunday from Cork at 12.30 returning from Cork at 4.30. This train, by the way will be useful for Gaels wishing to attend the Munster Championship match at Cork on the 16th June, and it is anticipated, will be very much availed of. The starting of the Sunday trains from Cork is a concession that will be very much appreciated. Last year's Sunday trains service did not start until the 8th July.

Mr. J. S. Troy's Successor
Welcomed at Dungarvan Court.

Mr. Eamonn O'Riain, the newly-appointed District Justice in place of Mr. J. S. Troy, who has retired, was welcomed at Dungarvan District Court on last Tuesday by Mr. T. C. Williams, senior solicitor; Supt. P. O'Mahony and Mr. P. O'Keefe, Court Clerk.

Mr. Williams said that he was privileged as senior solicitor to welcome Mr. J. S. Troy, who has retired, and pressed the hope that he would spend many years to administer justice in this court.

"I was not present at the last court," said Mr. Williams, "when Mr. Troy took his leave. I had no idea he was going. I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation of the magnificent manner in which he carried out his duties while he sat in this court and to express my gratitude for his kindness and generosity to me, particularly when I was suffering. He was always very kind and courteous and generous to me."

Addressing the newly-appointed District Justice, Mr. Williams said "I am glad to see you in the court, and I am sure you will find it very little in it. As far as the criminal part is concerned, you will find it very light."

Mr. P. O'Keefe, who spoke in Irish, also welcomed Mr. O'Riain and expressed hope that he would be with them for many years.

Mr. O'Riain replied in Irish and English. Speaking in English, he thanked them for their expressions of welcome and went on to say that he was in Dungarvan on a former occasion as Deputy District Justice and the impression he gathered then assured him that he would be very happy to be in the court.

"I want to refer," he continued, "to my predecessor, Mr. Sean Troy, who has so long presided, for over 32 years in this area. He set a difficult task to live up to the standard he set and, all I can say is that I will do my best. I intend to follow the same practice as Mr. Troy and have Irish spoken in this court. I ask everybody who is capable of doing so to transact their business in this court in the Irish language and, in particular, I ask the solicitors and the Gardaí. I am sure there is a large number of solicitors competent to do their work in Irish and, equally, a large number of the Gardaí, particularly the younger members. I ask them, as far as possible, to do the business of this court in the Irish language."

Cashmore Parish Council.—A special meeting of the Cashmore Parish Council will be held on Tuesday night next at 8 o'clock. In addition to the members of the council, the officers of the local Football, Hurling and Athletic Clubs are also asked to attend. Matters in connection with the local sports meeting will be discussed.—Hon. Sec.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES Act Prosecutions.
Mr. O'Connor, Main Street, Tallow, was fined 20/- on each of two charges and the weight confiscated, for using two unstandard weights, contrary to the Weights and Measures Act, at Tallow District Court.
A fine of £20 was imposed on the same defendant for wilful fraud in the use of a weighing machine. A further charge of using, as alleged, a false scale, was dismissed on the grounds that the defendant, Mr. Cronin, Parkdolia, was fined £1 for a similar offence.
Supt. Kelleher, Inspector under the Weights and Measures Act, prosecuted.

DUNGARVAN URBAN COUNCIL.
At the meeting of the Dungarvan Urban District Council on last Friday evening, Mr. T. McCarthy, chairman, presiding, Mr. M. Morrissey referred to the Manager's order regarding notices to the Mitchell St. tenants to connect with the main sewer and said there were three tenants at least who found it impossible to connect. He understood that at a previous meeting that the sewer had been extended to give them an opportunity to connect.
Mr. J. McGrath said that the sewer was within 100 feet of the tenants and that was sufficient.
Mr. Morrissey—But these people must go through private property. I was told by one of the tenants that the sewer was within 100 feet of the house and that it could go through his property but this tenant got no reply. I think the Manager should look into these cases before prosecuting the main sewer.
Manager—They are within 100 feet of the main sewer.
Mr. Morrissey—But there is the stumbling block that they cannot go through private property, and the council cannot do it either.
Manager—The solicitor can look into the legal aspect of it.
Mr. Clancy said that all the tenants were anxious to do it. Some of the officials had approached them in a very saucy way. He thought there were extenuating circumstances in these cases because these houses had been left without any main sewer. He thought the Manager should look into it. It was only a matter of extending the main sewer.
Chairman—In view of what has been said I'd ask the Manager to stay the prosecutions.
Manager—I'll ask the Acting Borough Surveyor to get an estimate.
RICE STREET NUISANCE.
Mr. Clancy referred to the sewer nuisance at Youghal Road and said he thought it was suggested to put a grating there at the end of Rice Street. He asked if anything had been done in the matter. They would have the same old stench there again coming on the summer.
Manager—The Acting Borough Surveyor said he understood that the landlady of the group of houses in that street was responsible for the nuisance as the connections with the sewer had not been made yet.
The Acting Clerk said that she had paid 2/- of a fine on the 11th of the COUNCIL WORKERS' BONUS.
Mr. Kyne referred to the Manager's order increasing the council workers' bonus from 9/- to 11/-, subject to sanction and asked why had it not been increased by 15/- as asked.
The Manager said that he doubted if the Department would sanction it.
Mr. Kyne said if the wages had been increased by 5/- they would still be in the town rate. Paying a smaller rate of wages would have the result of attracting the worst class of workmen.
PROSECUTION AGAINST TENANT.
Mr. Morrissey referred to the Manager's order regarding a house in Connolly Road and said he had a letter from the tenant, who was in England, stating that he was on the point of being deported and his wife got ill and he was not now in a position to come back until July 11th. He asked that the Manager stop proceedings in this case.
The Chairman said he had heard the same thing as Mr. Morrissey. The house being looked after by this tenant's mother-in-law.
The Manager said there had been a similar case before and it turned out to be untrue. Many people were looking for houses and he could not be lenient.
Mr. Kyne said he agreed with the Manager 100 per cent.
Mr. Morrissey said he was not to be taken as condoning such cases, but he was suggesting circumstances in this case.
Replying to the Manager, Mr. Morrissey said he would go as far as to get a medical certificate from this tenant.
Mr. Clancy said that with the department housing the Manager had a hard job and by letting off cases like this he was liable to be subjected to a lot of criticism. It was dangerous for the council to be interfering.
LIFEBUOYS.
Mr. Kyne referred to the complaint he made at the last meeting regarding damage to lifebuoys on the quay and asked the Acting Borough Surveyor what his opinion was of leaving them out in all weathers. He (Mr. Kyne) thought it would rot the ropes.
The Acting Borough Surveyor said the weather would cause a certain amount of damage, but it was essential to have them out in the open.
Mr. Kyne suggested having them in glass shelters or wooden shelters during the winter. The buoys would be useless if the ropes were left rot.
Acting Borough Surveyor—I'll take a note of it.
COUNCIL CONGRATULATED.
The Secretary (Mr. G. J. Dowling) of the Waterford County Council wrote stating that he had been directed by that board to thank the Urban Council and Davitt Commemoration Committee for the manner in which they had carried out the Davitt Commemoration celebrations.
FREE MILK ALLOCATION.
The Department wrote in reply to the council's request to increase the allocation in respect of free milk, that the allocation under this heading having already been made could not be increased.
ANNUAL MEETING.
The Annual Meeting of the council was fixed for June 24th.
WATER COMPLAINT.
Mr. Veale called attention to a complaint he had received from a lady in Abbeyside whose water supply had been cut off for the past three or four weeks because of some trouble in the main. She had made a deposit and it was unfair for her to pay if the fault was in the main.
The Acting Borough Surveyor said that if the fault was in the service it was not their responsibility.

Late Mrs. M. E. Prendergast, LAURAGH CAPPOQUIN.
The death took place at Dungarvan District Hospital on last Friday, May 24th, of Mrs. M. E. Prendergast, following a short illness. She was the wife of Mr. M. J. Prendergast, a well-known and respected member of the West Waterford farming community, to whom and to the rest of his family deep sympathy is being extended in their sad bereavement.
Mrs. Prendergast was a woman of very admirable character-traits, who was immensely popular with her neighbours and with all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance, and which was testified to by the exceedingly large cortege of mourners and sympathisers who attended at the removal of the remains and the burial. The remains were removed to St. Mary's Parish Church on last Friday evening and were received at the church gates by Very Rev. T. Canon O'Brien, P.P., V.F., assisted by Rev. J. Murphy, C.C., Ballinacorney.
Requiem Office was sung and High Mass celebrated on Saturday morning for the repose of her soul. The celebrants of the High Mass were Rev. J. Murphy, C.C.; deacon, Rev. J. Corbett, C.C., Dungarvan; sub-deacon, Rev. Fr. Slattery, C.C., Clashmore.

In the choir were—Very Rev. T. Canon O'Brien, P.P., V.F., Dungarvan; Very Rev. J. Gleeson, P.P., Aghlish; Rev. D. Power, C.C. do.; Rev. P. Farrell, C.C., Dungarvan; Rev. D. Power, C.C. do.

Following the celebration of the High Mass, the funeral took place to Fethard, where the remains were interred in the family burial plot in the presence of a large and representative gathering.

The chief mourners were—Michael Prendergast (husband); P. J. Anglim, Farranaleen (brother); Mrs. J. Foley, Johnstown, and M. T. Holohan, Ballyragget (sisters); John J. Foley, T. Holohan, W. Prendergast, Derrygrath; D. Prendergast, L. A. A. A. (brothers-in-law); Mrs. W. Burke, Croughatour; Miss K. Prendergast, Derrygrath (sisters-in-law); Mrs. A. T. Protection for Dungarvan Glue Factory. Mr. Lemass moved in the Dail on Wednesday, 22nd May, the Second Stage of the Imposition of Duties (Confirmation of Order) Bill, 1946, a measure which, he said, had relation to duties on the imports of glue, gelatine and size. A company was established and carrying on production in Dungarvan in 1941. During the war the country was dependent on this company for glue, gelatine and size. The situation had changed and imports were tending to resume.

It had been decided, therefore, to give protection by way of a Customs duty of 45 per cent., with a 30 per cent. preferential rate. The maintenance of the duty was conditional upon the company establishing the industry upon the most efficient basis, installing up-to-date plant and equipment, and placing its commodities on sale at prices comparable with those in Great Britain. Mr. D. Morrissey (F.G.) said he did not think the Minister had made any case for a tariff.

From our experience, giving such a tariff to a firm is, to say the least of it, putting temptation in their way to increase the price, he said. General R. Mulcahy (F.G.) asked the Minister to adopt some kind of a form that would give the House confidence that proposals of this kind had been fully examined. Mr. Lemass said that this company had been set up and one of its duties would be to take any articles produced and submit them for analytical examination and to publish a report of the examination if it was in the public interest to do so.

Whereas, in this instance, there was only one concern in the country, that concern must be prepared to work for reasonable profit, but if the profits proved excessive there must be a revision of the tariff. The Bill was passed and returned to the Dail.

HOUSING SCARCITY IN DUNGARVAN

"Sites Should Be Acquired"

U.D.C. DISCUSSION

Housing scarcity in Dungarvan was the subject of a long discussion at the meeting of the Urban District Council on last Friday night, at which the Manager, Mr. S. J. Moynihan, and the Acting Borough Surveyor, Mr. J. J. O'Rourke, attended.

Special attention was drawn to the need for the urgent provision of the better class of houses, it being pointed out there was a number of married families, who were prepared to pay rents of 10/- and 15/- per week, living in lodgings in the town.

Criticism of the inquiry held last March in connection with the Abbey-side housing scheme was directed against the Department.

At the outset the Chairman said that at the last meeting it was the wishes of the members of the council to have the Manager and the Acting Borough Surveyor present as the members would like to know when the housing schemes would start in the town, because, as they were all aware, there was a crying need for houses in the town. There was a good number of families in the town anxious to get houses, and would pay big rents for them. They must consider that there were three or four children and were living in lodgings in one room. They (members) would like to know if there was any possibility of providing houses for them.

The Manager said that they were awaiting the result of the inquiry, which he hoped would not be long, and no time would be lost in getting the preparations for the scheme sent to the Department. The landowners were entitled to appeal to the High Court, within three weeks of the Minister's order. If there was no appeal, the Council could enter into the owner's land after that time. Until the result of the inquiry came they could do nothing.

Mr. Kyne—Are you referring to Dungarvan?

Manager—I'm referring to the Abbey-side scheme.

Mr. Kyne—What about Dungarvan?

Manager—You have a big scheme of 78 houses for Abbey-side.

Mr. Kyne—That's right, but there are families in Dungarvan, five or six in number, as they might be possibly aware, who were living in one room. They were talking a lot about T.B. and hospitalisation, but it seemed to be all a joke.

The Manager said they had a scheme of 78 houses for Abbey-side and 16 five-roomed houses. The exact plans are not definitely decided on.

Mr. Scott, from the Department was with me to-day and we went into it a lot. He also intimated to me that the decision regarding the inquiry would be given in a short time. I had gone a long way in preparing the draft scheme, but the position of the very minute I hear the result of the inquiry I will proceed straight away with the developing work.

COST OF CLONNEL HOUSES.

Mr. Morrissey, T.D.—I wonder could the Manager give any idea of the cost of the 78 houses in Abbey-side?

Manager—I could not, I know that the Clonnel five-roomed house is estimated to cost £1,000.

Mr. Morrissey—And the 4-roomed house?

Acting Borough Surveyor—We propose to have 62 four-roomed houses and 16 five-roomed houses. The exact plans are not definitely decided on.

Mr. Scott, from the Department was with me to-day and we went into it a lot. He also intimated to me that the decision regarding the inquiry would be given in a short time. I had gone a long way in preparing the draft scheme, but the position of the very minute I hear the result of the inquiry I will proceed straight away with the developing work.

UNQUIRY DECISION 19008.

Chairman (Mr. T. McCarthy)—How long ago is it since the inquiry was held?

Acting Clerk—In March.

Chairman—And this is the middle of May? Wouldn't you say that we should have the result before this?

Acting Borough Surveyor—I think you'll have the decision shortly.

Mr. Scott suggested to me that the Department had to go into the pros and cons of the business and this took time.

Manager—At that time I estimated it would be three months before a decision would be given.

Mr. Kyne—The position was that they must be ahead with a scheme for Dungarvan. He had stated it before and he would say it again now that he doubted if they were doing all they should do.

The Managers said that they must consider the council's finances.

"HOUSES MUST BE PROVIDED"

Mr. Kyne said that whether they would have to put £1 or £2 as the rates they would have to provide houses. With the delay in getting the Abbey-side scheme going it looked to him that it would not be possible to build houses in Dungarvan for five years. There was no call to spend money on a Dungarvan scheme immediately, but they surely could get ahead with the preliminary work.

The Chairman said that people

vevor would the acquisition of sites cost much?

Acting Borough Surveyor—It depends on the owners. The council is aware that two sites are already recommended from Cathal Brugha Place to Kilrush and the top of Fair Lane to Voughal Road.

Mr. Kyne—That's for re-housing. But for an ordinary housing scheme?

Mr. Morrissey—Say 40 or 50 houses.

Manager—I'm not sure if sites can be acquired compulsorily.

Mr. Kyne—Is it suggested that we could not get sites, say, in Boreenatrash? I know they are private owners there, but we could know if we could get them or not.

Mr. Veale said that Boreenatrash could be acquired, but it was his intention to see a children's playground and houses there. It would be an ideal place.

SMALL DWELLINGS ACT.

Mr. Morrissey said that if they had not compulsory powers as regards sites for the better-class houses, they were at that rate, going to face high expenditure. He had in mind for a number of years people in town who were paying high rents for rooms—that if the Small Dwellings Act were adopted they would be able to put up £150 or so into a house and repay the balance back over a number of years. If, as he said, that Act were adopted it might get them out of the difficulty. A number of people had approached him about it. He would like to have the Manager's views on it. Personally, he thought it would be a good day's work to adopt that Act.

Mr. Veale said it had been successful in some towns, but not in certain districts. It might be a good thing if it were adopted.

Mr. Kyne—Before they would do that he would like to have more enlightenment on it. It had been done in some towns previously and they did not adopt it.

Mr. Kyne—Is it a pay as you can scheme?

Mr. Morrissey—Yes.

Mr. Kyne—I asked about it nine months ago.

Manager—That Act was never mentioned.

Mr. Kyne—I'm not well up in these Acts, but I do know that I asked that this scheme be introduced and nothing was done about it. It is the same way with Boreenatrash; nothing was done about it either. The position was that all the better-class people decided to go ahead with a scheme for Dungarvan when somebody else decided to stop it.

Mr. Kyne—To clear the air, things are not being done as we like them to be done. I believe the Abbey-side scheme is not being pushed ahead as it should be.

Manager—A Dungarvan scheme will be done.

Mr. Kyne—It will take another five years to have a Dungarvan scheme built.

Mr. Clancy—Do I understand from the Manager that we have no compulsory powers? That's something I never knew.

Manager—I'm not sure; but I'll find out.

Mr. Veale said he could not see why they couldn't go into the clearance areas to re-house at least 60 families in the town who wanted houses because they had no houses of their own.

Mr. Clancy—We have been told we have no compulsory powers at all.

Mr. Veale—I suggest that portion of Boreenatrash, be made a free ground and another part for housing.

Mr. Clancy—If we were to do that we would be breaking the law. We would be breaking the law if we were to do that.

Mr. Clancy—We have been told we have no compulsory powers at all.

Mr. Veale—I suggest that portion of Boreenatrash, be made a free ground and another part for housing.

Mr. Clancy—If we were to do that we would be breaking the law. We would be breaking the law if we were to do that.

BETTER-CLASS HOUSES NEEDED.

Mr. Kyne—I did and I say it again. Continuing, Mr. Clancy said he disagreed with that. They must consider the costs and also the people they were re-housing, and he thought they should be re-housing the houses for these people living in them and paying small rents. There was another class who were prepared to pay a dearer rent. There were 16 houses for this class of people and he did not know if it was in the Manager's mind to re-house them. He was sure he expected that they all read in the papers the statement in connection with the inquiry in October 1945 and in January, 1946, that it was all allocated and under licence. Last year he proposed a resolution, with these people in mind, and he would ask the Town Clerk to read it.

The resolution (as read by the Manager) was that a portion of the town should be reserved for the building of a housing scheme. The resolution also asked that the layout plans be submitted to the Council for their consideration. The resolution was proposed by Mr. Morrissey and seconded by Mr. Morrissey.

Mr. Kyne—it was passed unanimously.

Mr. Clancy—But nothing was done about it. At the last meeting a man came here about a house and was rather impatient, don't blame him. He is going from post to pillar with the past four or five years. His bodies were building houses and now the Manager says that it's not so.

Mr. Kyne—The Manager admitted they were built in Carrick.

Mr. Clancy—But under different circumstances. There is no use in forcing a scheme that has been built now.

"SITES SHOULD BE ACQUIRED"

Continuing, Mr. Clancy said he agreed that the council should acquire sites in Dungarvan. Young men would not go to live in Abbey-side. Something should be done for them in town. It would not cost any money to look for sites in town. They should be ready so that when timber and material are available and would be done down in price—which he thought would occur within 12 months—they could go ahead. One of the things they should do first is acquire sites. (To Acting Borough Surveyor)—If the cost of a house would be £1,000, what would the economic rent of that be with the one-third subsidy?

Acting Borough Surveyor—In Clonmel, for a five-roomed house, I think it is 18/-.

Mr. Clancy—What working man in Dungarvan would pay that?

Mr. Kyne—I know 40 who are prepared to go out of houses let at 7/- and leave them to other people.

Mr. Clancy—The people have in mind may pay a higher rent than they are paying but not that. Some like Mr. Kyne uses may pay it for a while but they would soon get tired of it. The question now was, are we doing all we could for these people who are looking for houses? The people in the slums are not looking for them.

Mr. Kyne—Some people are paying £1 a week for flats?

Mr. Clancy—And many are leaving other things unpaid for.

Mr. Kyne—The people have in mind may pay a higher rent than they are paying but not that. Some like Mr. Kyne uses may pay it for a while but they would soon get tired of it. The question now was, are we doing all we could for these people who are looking for houses? The people in the slums are not looking for them.

REPLYING TO THE CHAIRMAN.

Acting Borough Surveyor said that the cost to make provision for a bathroom without equipment would be £50 or £60.

Mr. Kyne thought that this figure was high for only what they might term, as it were, a scullery.

The Acting Borough Surveyor explained that making provision for a bathroom meant actually having to enlarge the house.

Mr. Clancy said that in connection with this matter he had a long discussion about it at the last meeting and they asked the Manager and Mr. O'Rourke to come to this meeting. Mr. Kyne had said that he doubted if the council was doing all it should do.

MANAGER'S ANSWERS.

Manager—I'm not sure; but I'll find out.

Mr. Veale said he could not see why they couldn't go into the clearance areas to re-house at least 60 families in the town who wanted houses because they had no houses of their own.

Mr. Clancy—We have been told we have no compulsory powers at all.

Mr. Veale—I suggest that portion of Boreenatrash, be made a free ground and another part for housing.

Mr. Clancy—If we were to do that we would be breaking the law. We would be breaking the law if we were to do that.

Mr. Clancy—We have been told we have no compulsory powers at all.

Mr. Veale—I suggest that portion of Boreenatrash, be made a free ground and another part for housing.

Mr. Clancy—If we were to do that we would be breaking the law. We would be breaking the law if we were to do that.

vevor would the acquisition of sites cost much?

Acting Borough Surveyor—It depends on the owners. The council is aware that two sites are already recommended from Cathal Brugha Place to Kilrush and the top of Fair Lane to Voughal Road.

Mr. Kyne—That's for re-housing. But for an ordinary housing scheme?

Mr. Morrissey—Say 40 or 50 houses.

Manager—I'm not sure if sites can be acquired compulsorily.

Mr. Kyne—Is it suggested that we could not get sites, say, in Boreenatrash? I know they are private owners there, but we could know if we could get them or not.

Mr. Veale said that Boreenatrash could be acquired, but it was his intention to see a children's playground and houses there. It would be an ideal place.

SMALL DWELLINGS ACT.

Mr. Morrissey said that if they had not compulsory powers as regards sites for the better-class houses, they were at that rate, going to face high expenditure. He had in mind for a number of years people in town who were paying high rents for rooms—that if the Small Dwellings Act were adopted they would be able to put up £150 or so into a house and repay the balance back over a number of years. If, as he said, that Act were adopted it might get them out of the difficulty. A number of people had approached him about it. He would like to have the Manager's views on it. Personally, he thought it would be a good day's work to adopt that Act.

Mr. Veale said it had been successful in some towns, but not in certain districts. It might be a good thing if it were adopted.

Mr. Kyne—Before they would do that he would like to have more enlightenment on it. It had been done in some towns previously and they did not adopt it.

Mr. Kyne—Is it a pay as you can scheme?

Mr. Morrissey—Yes.

Mr. Kyne—I asked about it nine months ago.

Manager—That Act was never mentioned.

Mr. Kyne—I'm not well up in these Acts, but I do know that I asked that this scheme be introduced and nothing was done about it. It is the same way with Boreenatrash; nothing was done about it either. The position was that all the better-class people decided to go ahead with a scheme for Dungarvan when somebody else decided to stop it.

Mr. Kyne—To clear the air, things are not being done as we like them to be done. I believe the Abbey-side scheme is not being pushed ahead as it should be.

Manager—A Dungarvan scheme will be done.

Mr. Kyne—It will take another five years to have a Dungarvan scheme built.

Mr. Clancy—Do I understand from the Manager that we have no compulsory powers? That's something I never knew.

Manager—I'm not sure; but I'll find out.

Mr. Veale said he could not see why they couldn't go into the clearance areas to re-house at least 60 families in the town who wanted houses because they had no houses of their own.

Mr. Clancy—We have been told we have no compulsory powers at all.

Mr. Veale—I suggest that portion of Boreenatrash, be made a free ground and another part for housing.

Mr. Clancy—If we were to do that we would be breaking the law. We would be breaking the law if we were to do that.

BETTER-CLASS HOUSES NEEDED.

Mr. Kyne—I did and I say it again. Continuing, Mr. Clancy said he disagreed with that. They must consider the costs and also the people they were re-housing, and he thought they should be re-housing the houses for these people living in them and paying small rents. There was another class who were prepared to pay a dearer rent. There were 16 houses for this class of people and he did not know if it was in the Manager's mind to re-house them. He was sure he expected that they all read in the papers the statement in connection with the inquiry in October 1945 and in January, 1946, that it was all allocated and under licence. Last year he proposed a resolution, with these people in mind, and he would ask the Town Clerk to read it.

The resolution (as read by the Manager) was that a portion of the town should be reserved for the building of a housing scheme. The resolution also asked that the layout plans be submitted to the Council for their consideration. The resolution was proposed by Mr. Morrissey and seconded by Mr. Morrissey.

Mr. Kyne—it was passed unanimously.

Mr. Clancy—But nothing was done about it. At the last meeting a man came here about a house and was rather impatient, don't blame him. He is going from post to pillar with the past four or five years. His bodies were building houses and now the Manager says that it's not so.

Mr. Kyne—The Manager admitted they were built in Carrick.

Mr. Clancy—But under different circumstances. There is no use in forcing a scheme that has been built now.

"SITES SHOULD BE ACQUIRED"

Continuing, Mr. Clancy said he agreed that the council should acquire sites in Dungarvan. Young men would not go to live in Abbey-side. Something should be done for them in town. It would not cost any money to look for sites in town. They should be ready so that when timber and material are available and would be done down in price—which he thought would occur within 12 months—they could go ahead. One of the things they should do first is acquire sites. (To Acting Borough Surveyor)—If the cost of a house would be £1,000, what would the economic rent of that be with the one-third subsidy?

Acting Borough Surveyor—In Clonmel, for a five-roomed house, I think it is 18/-.

Mr. Clancy—What working man in Dungarvan would pay that?

Mr. Kyne—I know 40 who are prepared to go out of houses let at 7/- and leave them to other people.

Mr. Clancy—The people have in mind may pay a higher rent than they are paying but not that. Some like Mr. Kyne uses may pay it for a while but they would soon get tired of it. The question now was, are we doing all we could for these people who are looking for houses? The people in the slums are not looking for them.

Mr. Kyne—Some people are paying £1 a week for flats?

Mr. Clancy—And many are leaving other things unpaid for.

Mr. Kyne—The people have in mind may pay a higher rent than they are paying but not that. Some like Mr. Kyne uses may pay it for a while but they would soon get tired of it. The question now was, are we doing all we could for these people who are looking for houses? The people in the slums are not looking for them.

REPLYING TO THE CHAIRMAN.

Acting Borough Surveyor said that the cost to make provision for a bathroom without equipment would be £50 or £60.

Mr. Kyne thought that this figure was high for only what they might term, as it were, a scullery.

The Acting Borough Surveyor explained that making provision for a bathroom meant actually having to enlarge the house.

Mr. Clancy said that in connection with this matter he had a long discussion about it at the last meeting and they asked the Manager and Mr. O'Rourke to come to this meeting. Mr. Kyne had said that he doubted if the council was doing all it should do.

MANAGER'S ANSWERS.

On Tuesday last week most, if not all, the residents of the town shared in the thrill which was occasioned by the arrival in the town about midday of a C.I.E. bus practically filled with passengers and carrying on its roof a very large consignment of luggage. Guesses of all kinds were hazarded as to the persons of the arrivals, many of which were of an elaborate nature, while many more, so to speak, mildly exaggerated. However, the passengers, while they partook of some refreshments, expressed themselves highly pleased with their reception.
