who could be spared from the all-absorbing task of transporting corn from the harvest fields to haggards were busily engaged in attending to the turf, which, if prevailing weather conditions continue, will be saved in fairly good quantities.

Death in Exile.—The news has just took place recently, at the home of her adoption in U.S.A., of Mrs. Margaret Moloney, at a moderately advanced age. The deceased lady (nee Hanney) was a native of Glenahore, Ballymacarbery, from where she emigrated several years ago. To her bereaved relations here we extend our sincere sympathy in their sorrow. May she rest in peace.

Threshing Operations.—Threshing operations are now in full swing in the district. The sweet, deep hum.

Illustrative of the earnest ness of endeavour to achieve the best results is the report which has been vouched for that in one particular haggard 160 barrels of corn were threshed in the day and put on the the lofts while in many others the century was exceeded, surely a highly creditable illustration of achievement by the united forces of the farmer, mill owner and employers, plus the labourers and voluntary workers.

Irish Chassis.—Nice to note that Mr. Michael Cullen's Irish classes at the Kill, Ballylaneen and Strackally centres, respectively, are going strong. Irish language, cancing and singing are taught, and progress is the keynote at each central. Mr. Culien is to be complimented on his carnest painstaking interest in the fine roll of pupils he is instructing
