Rock, the party motored to Rockwell College, where they were shown around the grounds. All participated in the long climb to the clock tower, where a fine view of the surrounding countryside was beheld, including the Glen of Aherlow. A rest was taken on the banks of the calm and peaceful lake, and then followed a walk through the woods, and back to the college. The party then returned to Cashel for tea, which was followed behalf of the band members by Mr. T. Costin, who said they were very grateful to Rev. Fr. Farrell, C.C., for providing such a perfect day's outing, and added that he hoped they would all have the pleasure of such an an-nual event in future. Mr. M. Walsh associated himself with Mr. Costin's remarks and added that from every point of view the day's outing had proved an outstanding success, and all were very grateful to Fr. Farrel! who went all out to make it a success Rev. Fr. Farrell suitably replied, and stated that he felt sure all were very sorry that Mr. Clancy, the bandmaster, was unable to be present, but all would join with him, he said, in hoping to have him with them on their next excursion. Fr. Farrell said ne was glad to know that the members appreciated his work, and expressed his satisfaction at the grand spirit of co-operation shown by the members of the band. Continuing, Fr. Farrell said that the people of the town who gave them cars for the occasion, and who were responsible for the success of the excursion defor the success of the excursion, de-served their greatest thanks, and all would greatly appreciate what they had done. He again thanked all for their great co-operation, and said he hoped that they would be enabled to hold such an event annually. Rev. Fr. COTTAGE SCHEME A report on the present position of the cottage scheme was read by the County Secretary. In the report it was stated that tenders had been received for the building of 127 cottages and were sent to the Department for consideration. One of the contractors was not prepared to carry out the building of the cottages owing to the lack of skilled labour. The other contractor stated that he was not prepared to carry out the building of the cottages owing to the increase of price in materials. The Department had not yet dealt with

The County Secretary then read a list of the cottages proposed to be built in different townlands throughout the county. He added that no information had been yet received as regards the Lismore inquiry.

The Chairman said that he suggested some time ago that the cottages be built by direct labour. He still maintained that they could be built under that system. If they did to give the teams and the public a chance of hearing the All-Ireland Hurling Final broadcast.
