ASSAULT ALLEGED

(Before Mr. F. J. MacCabe, D.J.) The above was held on Wednesday of this week. The principal case at hearing was one in which Mrs. Mary O'Reilly, of Stradbally, summoned a neighbour, Mrs. B. Finn and her son, James, for alleged assaults committed on the 6th and 8th July last.
In the case against the male defendant, complainant stated that defendant struck her with a hurley stick. Dr. R. Counahan, State Solr., Waterford, was for Mrs. O'Reilly and Mr. T. C. Williams, Solr., Dungarvan.

Outlining the case, Dr. Counahan stated that his client keeps a small pub in Stradbally which she has for many years. She also has a number of ducks and turkeys who may have given rise to the present charges.
Near her house is a field belonging to people name Hannigan but let for the people name to the defendants. his client go through the defendants with 2 gns, costs. The fine would have been heavier had the assault not long number of years and in all that

Complainant, in evidence, stated that she lived with her husband, who is an invalid, and family, including her daughter, Ita. She keeps ducks and turkeys. On the 6th July last, the fowl were missing and as a result of something the had been told she went to Finns' yard in search of the fowl where the female defendant's son prevented her from entering, with a shovel, which he held against her, and ordered her around to the front of the house. With that Mrs. Finn came on the scene and gave witness a slap into the face with her hand. Mrs. O'Reilly had given

He also took the sack from me after which I followed him and got the cabbages from him. Defendants kept greyhounds and they are constantly setting the hounds after my fowl. The field is rented to defendants for a good many years and we never had only trouble until about six weeks ago. Two days after being assaulted by James Finn he caught me in the field again. Cross-examined by Mr. Williams, complainant denied that she treated Hannigan's field as her property and she just let her fowl in there of their and there was never any objection. Witness had never been attacked previously whilst going for the fowl. Neither had she any words with Jas.

Finn before and never rebuked him for setting the hounds after the fowl.

The fact that the dialogue is in perfect English adds to the perfection of this produc-tion gives added pleasure to paramong the Saints of the Church, Don Bosco's life. Now the life of this years ago he was declared Patron o the Cinema by the Sacred Congre response to appeals from all over the world. The new film depicts the Saint's life from childhood, from the time when at the age of nine, he had a most wonderful vision in which Our Divine Lord and His Blessed Mother prepare for his great work among youth. The Saint is shown in con stant conflict with two great adver-saries, poverty and misfortune. With great faith in his early vision, and in all obstacles and the world to-day S.B.D.,

The anti-clerical Government of several Religious Orders, strangely enough suggested to Don Bosco that he should form a group of people to help him in his work, which was already providing such an asset to the State. Don Bosco took advantage of this suggestion and formed his Congregation in 1859 with 22 members and one school. He also formed an Order of Sisters to conduct a similar beneficial work on behalf of girls.
The Saint died in 1883, and all Europe and America mourned his loss. His canonization scenes in Rome in 1934, bring the film to a

Mr. C. Daly, Newport, Knockanore, was overcome by the heat and on the arrival of medical aid he was found to be suffering from sunstroke and ordered immediately to hospital. From reports to hand he is progressing as favourably as can be expected. His many friends wish him a very speedy recovery.

Road Reports.—With the past few weeks County Council workmen are busy repairing the road from Kilkinny Bridge to Glenawillin Cross, putting down the first layers of stone preparatory to steamrolling and tarring. Two dangerous turns in the vicinity have been removed and a very good job made of them. The road repairs are progressing as speedily as possible and when completed will be a big asset to the inhabitants of Moorehill and surrounding districts.
