Minister Answers Questions

Minister for Agriculture at Dungarvan. In our previous issue we gave the address by the Minister for Agriculture, Mr. T. Walsh, when he attended a meeting of the Waterford County Committee of Agriculture at Dungarvan, on Thursday, October 25th. The Minister on arrival was welcomed by Mr. P. R. Power, Chairman of the Committee, and was addressed by Mr. Harry on the question of Land Rehabilitation in reference to the Western Bay.

Mr. Harry, speaking first in Irish and continuing in English, associated himself with the Chairman's welcome to the Minister and the officials and said first of all he would like to congratulate the Minister on the progress of the Land Reclamation scheme and also to congratulate the local official, Mr. Keane, on the progress of this work.

Dealing with the reclamation of the Western Bay, Mr. Harry read the following excerpt from the Topographical Dictionary of Ireland (1837): "The south-western recesses of the bay are separated from the rest by a bank called Cumniger Point, between which and the town a proposed causeway is proposed to throw up an embankment for the purpose of reclaiming the inner recesses of the bay. According to a survey made for this purpose by Mr. Keane, it is proposed to exclude the tides from the back strand by making a causeway 122 perches in length, with stone walls on each side of the churchyard on the east side of the churchyard, near Two-Mile-bridge, through the low grounds of Kilmoggin and the southern verge of the back strand, for the purpose of discharging into the outer bay the waters of the Bricey, and the tides that flow into it from the hills on the south, and, by constructing a lock at the western end of the canal, containing the navigation for sand and other boats to Ballyharroon, Kilmoggin and Two-Mile-bridge, as at present. The low parts of the Cumniger bank over which the waves are drifted in high tides by strong easterly and south-easterly winds, will be secured by an embankment of dry stone. The estimated expense of carrying these works into effect is £14,021 8s. 4d., and the quantity of land that would be thus reclaimed, 1,234 acres, of which, by an additional expenditure of £1,800 for draining and enclosing it, 1,007 acres would be fit for cultivation."

Continuing, Mr. Harry said the Minister will see from this that even in those days the people were interested in this scheme. The late Mr. Barry, B.E., prepared a later scheme, in which the people are more interested than ever in this scheme and he believed it would be a very economical one. Mr. Harry then gave figures of the total amount of land which would be reclaimed by this scheme and the advantage the scheme would be to land owners along the Bricey river, where at the moment some land is drained, but at full tide the water is being backed into the drains. We propose asking you to meet a deputation on this question and if Replying to Mr. Heskin on the question of subsidies, the Minister said that the price paid for milk was different in each county, but that those who wish to tone up their money must be prepared to give subsidies. On the price of milk, the Minister said the price for 1951 was 10d. The present price is 1/4 in summer and 1/6 in winter. The average test for 1951 is 1.84. The price paid at present is a pretty stiff increase in five years, but whether it is an economic price, but what is an economic price, but what will give them a legitimate profit. Continuing, the Minister said that in five creameries in Co. Waterford the price paid for milk was different in each county, but that those who wish to tone up their money must be prepared to give subsidies.

present figure for bushelling of wheat and oats, and asked the Minister to reduce the bushing done, wedged as it is to all the land adjoining the Bricey River. The Minister said he is meeting the department on this evening and will visit the Western Bay area. The Department are already considering the proposal from the Dutch engineers who inspected the bay.

Mr. Harry said there is deep concern among poultry exporters to the fact that about six weeks ago a rumour was current that crates purchased by exporters to the Dutch were being condemned for the export trade. The Minister assured Mr. Harry that such was not the case.

Mr. Heskin, dealing with milk production costs and what he honestly felt was the best method of production of price, said this matter was one of grave concern to the dairymen throughout the county. Mr. Heskin said that he himself well knows the hardships endured by that body of farmers and farm labourers. Referring to the Commission set up by the Department to go into this question, Mr. Heskin asked when is it likely that this report will be forthcoming. It may take two years. The Minister will admit that the man who keeps the dairy cow is the key to the success of the dairy industry. When in 1938 he was a member of the Dail he had hopes before the Dail showing that that time took 1/12 to produce. That figure must have gone up much higher since. He said he believed 1/8 a gallon should be the price of the dairyman. That, in his opinion, would be the price to meet the cost at the present time.

Mr. Heskin said that there is more slavery in dairy farming than in any other form of work. The previous Minister admitted that the price of milk was not engaged in dairy farming as it is pure slavery. Mr. Heskin then dealt with the importation of butter and contrasting the price of butter with the price, say, of the pint of beer, maintained that butter at 3/6 a lb. was the cheapest commodity for the family. The dairy farmers were looking for an increased price from the last Minister, we were told we were a Fianna Fiail ramp. He hoped the present Minister will not say we are a Fine Gap ramp.

Mr. Heskin next dealt with the question of the purchase of milking machines and asked the Minister to review the present position. He said that he was intimating to a farmer. No farmer will purchase a milking machine unless he has at least 10 or 12 cows, and he considered that should be surety enough. Instead the farmer who wants to purchase a machine at £180 must have two cows and two witnesses. Dealing with the labourers working on dairying farms, he said that they should have a wage at least equal to and better than the agricultural worker. He asked the Minister to give a price in relation to the cost of production and no more subsidies would be required.

Corn na nDeise

Ballygunner Schoolboys (under 14) had little difficulty in retaining the above Cup on Sunday last at the Gaelic Field, Dungarvan, when they readily accounted for the opposition forthcoming from the Tallow boys on the score of 9-4 to 0-1.

Although as the score suggests Ballygunner were by far the better team, Tallow, on the other hand were unlucky not to have reduced this deficit on a few occasions but their diminutive forward line were unable to avail of the chances offered.

Immediately after the game, Tom O'Faolain, M.A., addressing the teams in Irish, said of the five great Gaels responsible for the presentation of the Cup, two had recently passed to their eternal reward. They were Mr. M. Casey and Dr. D. T. McCarthy. Last year on the occasion of presentation of the Cup they both spoke to the young players of the county and gave them every advice on how to become good sportsmen and staunch Irishmen. He hoped they would live by that advice and be called on the large gathering to stand in silence for two minutes as a mark of respect to the memory of the two great Gaels who had done so much for their national games.

In the past year the championship has been a great success. Twelve teams had entered for it and the final of that day Ballygunner had emerged victorious. He congratulated them on their success and also the teachers for their work in preparing such a good spirit of teamwork. Tallow, he said, should not lose faith because they lost the final of that day. Their display had been a good one and for them the day will soon dawn when victory will be theirs.

Next year they would have a football championship for the schoolboys. He said that they were doing all their work through Irish and it was his wish that they speak the tongue of the Gael even on the playing field as well as in the school. Through speaking the language at play as well as at study, they could be sure that the young men of the county would grow up to become not only good Irishmen but good Irish speakers.

A Pear Mor, also speaking in Irish, then made the presentation amid the cheers of the huge gathering and in so doing, he said, that the winners Ballygunner, deserved their heartiest congratulations.
