M. MOLONEY & Co. DUNGARVAN

IT WILL BE A GREAT DAY

It will be a great day for Dungarvan Brass and Reed Band... dressed in their new uniforms... the members of the county's oldest band, will lead the greatest parade Co. Waterford has seen, playing a specially arranged selection of the finest old Irish martial airs. It will be the occasion of the big parade that will open the Seventh National Festival of Traditional Music in Dungarvan next Sunday.

It will be a great occasion; an occasion the young will recall in their old age and one the old may never see again. The Old Boro will be gay and colourful, there will be an atmosphere of festivity and everywhere there will be entertainment at its best. This will be Ireland in all its culture presenting in colour and excitement, its music, song and dance... its industry, its way of life and its hope in the future. This will be an Irish display of the Irish... and one every Irishman and woman will be proud to live through. There will be no Shakespearean drama, no ballet, no Hollywood heroics.

The imitations of foreign culture and the imports of foreign studios will have no place here. This will be Ireland on show, the real Ireland, of the past, of the present and of the future. It will climax the efforts of the few... the few who have been criticised and obstructed, the few who have stood firm and fought on, in the interests of the noble cause they serve... to win back Ireland for the Irish through its native music, song and dance. Take a place among the crowds on Sunday and be proud of what you see. It will long remain a credit to Dungarvan and it will offer a new hope to the Ireland we have come so close to losing.

NATIONAL FESTIVAL OF TRADITIONAL MUSIC IN DUNGARVAN

A record

Everything points to a really successful festival this year. Already the number of entries received will reach well over the 500 mark but as entries include as many as three and more competitors, the number of those actually competing in the various competitions will be well over 1,000, if not more. Looking through the entries, it is interesting to see that the greatest number of entries came from Munster with the County Clare top of the list and Cork at the bottom. Waterford has a very big entry indeed and the list promises great things from Fleadh na nEise (Waterford Confined). Leinster is also well represented and Connaught and Ulster are equally good. Entries have been received from Scotland and various parts of England and it is expected there will be American representation among the competitors.

Already in Dungarvan, the town has taken on a real festival look with large scale scrolls crossing over most of the town's principal streets. Business people and householders alike have been busily engaged for the past week or so painting and decorating and never before did Dungarvan look so bright and gay.

The Guinness Trophy

The Guinness trophy for harp playing which is to be offered for the first time at the National Festival of Traditional Music, was presented to the members of the local Comhaltas Ceoiltoirí Eireann at a reception held in Dublin last week-end.

The new trophy, worth £150, forms a very beautiful replica of the O'Neill harp in solid silver mounted on a plaque of polished oak. Silver scrolls on the plaque are suitably inscribed and considerable speculation has been aroused among Irish harpists as to whose name will be first to be engraved on the new trophy.

At a reception held in Dublin's Four Courts' Hotel, harpists were present from several areas including Miss Sheila McCurtain who made the long journey specially from Cork.

Mr. Gerald Adams, late Works Manager of Messrs. Guinness, who was responsible for designing the trophy and for all the preliminary work in making it a reality saw his dream come true and it was handed over to him behind the staging of Ireland's Festival of National Music.

Mr. Patrick McDonagh, who succeeded Mr. Adams as Works Manager, was present representing Messrs. Guinness and stated in a well worded speech that this departure was something completely new for Guinness. They had never before presented a trophy for competition and this occasion was to be accepted as a gesture of good will from Ireland's largest firm to Ireland's culture and especially to Ireland's traditional music and the playing of the harp. Mr. McDonagh stated that the firm of Guinness was interested in all things Irish and as a matter of fact had prepared bottle labels in the Irish language which would be made available soon to the publicans who requested them.

P. S. O'Maunsell, Secretary of Comhaltas Ceoiltoirí Eireann expressed his thanks to Messrs. Guinness on behalf of the National Enthusiasts and said that he was very pleased that the directors of the nation's largest firm had shown such interest in Ireland's culture. This trophy, he said, bearing the O'Neill Harp would be a wonderful encouragement to harpists in all parts of Ireland and would lead to more and more interest in taking up the harp and restoring it to its former place of glory in Irish music.

The shield was presented to the Dungarvan representatives, Dr. Kevin McCann, Chairman; Mr. Jack Tobin, Mr. T. B. Boyle and Mr. L. Comerford, Joint Secretaries, who first approached Messrs. Guinness in the matter.

POTATO BLIGHT

Blight is one of those crop diseases which will always be with us. We can protect the potato crop from being ravaged by it but we can scarcely ever hope to be able to eliminate it. We rarely, in fact, succeed in getting good control on this disease. Those tubers which have such poor flavour and which show brown or rusty spots in the flesh are really blight infected. The disease is thus propagated by the crop seed year after year.

IMPORTANCE OF EARLY SPRAYING

To neglect the spraying of a potato crop is folly in the extreme. Whether in garden or field, such a crop could be reduced almost overnight to an evil smelling and rotten mass of foliage. Such extreme cases are rare fortunately. However, unless the young foliage is protected now by a film of spray it will not be possible to do so later on when the full canopy of leaves has been produced.

THE SPRAY MIXTURE

The preparation of the spray must be done properly to ensure adequate results. Take a 40-gallon wooden barrel and put 35 gallons of water into it. Dissolve 5 lbs. of pure bluestone in the water. Next dissolve 10 lbs. of clean washing soda in 2 or 3 gallons of water. Add the washing soda solution to the other solution slowly and with constant stirring. Add sufficient water to make up 40 gallons of spray mixture. The mixture should then be applied to the crop without delay using a spraying machine which is in really good order. Two to three barrels of spray will cover a statute acre according to the amount of tops in the crop.

OTHER TYPE SPRAY MIXTURES

For a first spraying, half of the above quantities of blue stone and washing soda (4 lbs. of 5 lbs. respectively in 40 gallons of water) suffices well enough, provided the foliage is adequately covered.

CULTIVATIONS

The final earthing up of the drills is a protection to the tubers. Bring the soil up to form a sharp topped ridge for main crops.

You can have a copy of the Department's Leaflet (No. 14) on this subject by writing to me for it to any one of this Committee's Instructors.

The Inside Story

THE Twenty-first Ordinary General Meeting of the Dickens Leather Co. Ltd. was held on Thursday, May 30th, at Lawlor's Hotel, Dungarvan.

KILMACTHOMAS NOTES

Bereavement—Many expressions of sincere sympathy have been tendered to Mr. S. Faulkner (blacksmith), Kilmacthomas and his sister, Miss Bridget Faulkner, do., on the death, last week, of their uncle, Mr. Hugh Faulkner, 33, Brown Street, Portlao (who had attained his late seventies and was a stonemason by trade), all that was mortal of whom was laid to rest in the cemetery adjoining St. Patrick's Church, do., on the Feast of St. Augustine, B.C., after Requiem Mass in the sacred edifice, where the coffin had lain overnight. Rev. W. J. Callan, C.C., Portlao, gave the final absolution at the graveside in the presence of a great gathering of mourners and sympathisers. Several spiritual bouquets were received. The late Mr. Faulkner was a general favourite.

Confirmation—His Lordship, Most Rev. Dr. Cohan, Bishop of Waterford and Lismore, will pay his bi-annual visit to the parish of Stradbally and Ballylansan on next Tuesday week, 18th inst., to administer the Sacrament of Confirmation.

The Parish of Newtown and Kill will have His Lordship on the last Thursday of this month when groups of children drawn from the Mercy Convent School, Kilmacthomas; Currabaha National School; Newtown N.S., Kill N.S. and Knockmahon N.S., respectively, will be confirmed by the well-beloved Prelate in the Parish Church, Newtown.

A Civic Guard recently raised to sergeant rank is due to take up duty at Leamybrien Garda Station on the next day, but one—Monday, 10th inst. He is Co. Kerry-born Sergt. M. Walsh who is posted in Tallow since 1954.

The Members of the Bonmahon Unit of the Coast Life-Saving Service carried out their customary quarterly programme of full-scale exercises on a recent date under the direction and supervision of Supt. Jeffers Cork (southern area official under the Department of Industry and Commerce) who expressed satisfaction at the manner in which the various tests were performed. The trials took place at the local training centre, headed by the left bank of the Mahon, an ideal site for the enactment of a programme that, to onlookers, proved highly interesting in its every phase.

Major David Dawney, of the Whitfield Court, Waterford, family of the name, has just taken up the duties of his new appointment as Clerk of the Royal Ascot Race Course. He is a cousin of Major Lord Wm. Beresford, Woodhouse, Stradbally.

In occupation of a responsible and remunerative position in Dublin is Miss Anne Duggan, who is in radiant health and spirits holidaying at her birthplace these days. A charmingly-mannered young lady, she is daughter of Mrs. and the late James Duggan, Whitestown, Kilmacthomas, and sister of Rev. Fr. Michael Duggan, of the Foreign Missions.

Late Mr. Patrick J. Butler Whitestown, Clonsilla, Powers—This well and popularly known member of the farming community was a neighbour noted for his kindness, charity and amiability of disposition, and his demise in the fullness of his years occasioned deep regret and sympathy with his sister, brothers and nieces and nephews is widespread and sincere.

A cortege of imposing dimensions accompanied the removal of the remains from the residence on Tuesday evening of last week to the Parish Church, Clonsilla, where the coffin was received and blessed by Very Rev. L. Vereker, P.P., do.

Subsequently to the celebration of Solemn Requiem Office and High Mass the next day interment was made in the family burial ground in the adjoining cemetery, and all of the priests present at the obsequies again officiated at the graveside.

—May he rest in peace

Deservedly Held in the highest regard is Mr. D. J. Coghlan, Rossmire House, Kilmacthomas, who has been elected Chairman of Macra na Feirme. He has been representing Co. Waterford at National level for the past year; has been associated with the organisation since its inception and also plays a leading part in the NFA activities.

Watch those windows

Keen interest will be focussed on the shop windows of Dungarvan and Abbeyside this weekend. Their displays will be eligible for the special prizes put up by the National Festival Committee. The prizes of three guineas will be awarded for the best of the Dungarvan displays and one prize of three guineas for the best in Abbeyside.

A treat to our town's reputation

The London visitors arrived in Dungarvan by car. It was their first time in Ireland and they were really enjoying themselves. Arriving on Dungarvan Square, they pulled in among the many parked cars. But, before the driver, a prominent journalist in London, could open the door, a young man, wearing a heavy overcoat and a beard that was the fruit of sheer laziness, actually dashed towards the door of the car demanding, not a copper but "a bob."

They made news

In last week's column I forgot to include my little piece about the doings of Dungarvan Harrier Hunt Club, one of the most enterprising and certainly that of little bit of originality that will stand out above everything else.

TOO MUCH OF IT.

I agree wholeheartedly. There is too much of it going on in Dungarvan and the week end will see it at its peak.

CLEAN IT UP

The Garda cannot be on the streets of the town all the time. They have plenty to do elsewhere but it would be no harm if we had an all out campaign against this awful nuisance. . . . something that seriously threatens the future of Ireland as a holiday centre, and particularly the Old Boro town of Dungarvan.

CALL A GARDA AND SEE THAT OFFENDERS ARE REMOVED.

They can ruin the reputation of your town.

Councillor Kelly gets a letter

Cdr. Nicholas Kelly has received a letter. It is from the office of Mr. Eamonn de Valera, An Taoiseach. It is a most interesting letter and one I feel I should refer to in this column.

De on guard

The following item appeared in a well known newspaper in the columns of a famous writer. It needs no comment. Perhaps I might mention that we have our little Stalins here in Ireland too — Be on guard . . . It may be your turn next.

Put a stop to it

And while I am referring to the Square, I might mention that some motorists handle their cars like wheelbarrows. They stop them in the most awkward place and go off leaving them there. Anyone on the Square last Thursday will have seen the chaos caused by this careless parking. My suggestion to the Garda is — put a stop to it — IMMEDIATELY. This kind of obstruction is getting out of hand. Let's face it too—we need traffic by-laws. The Council should adopt them if they have the will.

A MEMORY OF A GRAND OLD BAND

This is a photograph of Dungarvan Brass and Reed Band. It was not taken yesterday or the day before. It was taken some years ago and will bring back memories to many. The late Mr. Michael Clancy is seated in front with another old handsman, Mr. Pierce Attridge. Mr. Liam O'Mahony, Mr. Tommy Costin, Mr. J. Walsh, Mr. Matt Walsh, and Mr. Paddy Walsh are among the old friends at the back. Missing due to illness was Mr. M. Hennebery. The young men in the picture were at the time, "the new boys." They were: B. J. Creed, E. McCarthy, O. Vesle, J. Dwyer, V. Walsh, J. Regan, F. Kennelly, J. Regan and B. Walsh. To-day, there are many changes but the band still has the capable guidance of Rev. P. Farrell, C.C., who may well take pride in his efforts of many years. For him and for the band, Sunday next will be a great day indeed. It will be a day of satisfaction for the band's new conductor, Mr. Smith. The new life he has added to the grand old band of Dungarvan will be the reward for the patience and perseverance of many months work. May they enjoy every success.

HE IS MISSED

For some weeks past we have missed those interesting notes from the Touraneena-Ballinacorney side which come from the pen of Mr. Paul I. Power, F.G. On making inquiries I learned with regret that Todd had been ill but is making a good come-back.

MAN BEHIND THE SCENES

Man behind the scenes in the show was Mr. Paul I. Power, who was his work. He used the camera and projector and made a very fine job of both. It is but two years or less since I first met Mr. Power using a movie camera. At that time he knew little or nothing about one and together we worked out certain angles and certain exposure in the hope of recording something worthwhile.

Talking to Colr. Tom Gallagher, Mayor of Waterford, he told me he had called in to see Todd and to wish him well. This column expresses the views of readers everywhere when we express the wish that his recovery to good health will be speedy and permanent, and may his columns be read again within the near future.

FROM LONDON BEST WISHES

Here under is a copy of a letter just received by the Hon. Secretaries of Fleadh Cheoil: A Chra.

Out and about again

It is good to see Mr. Jerry O'Mahony, B.E., acting County Engineer back on duty again. Mr. O'Mahony was on the sick list for some time and was greatly missed by his associates and friends throughout the county. We wish him every good wish and trust that he will regain his usual good health within a very short time.

They forgot about them

The Co. Council out down white-lines along the Square as well as at other parts of the town some considerable time back. Then they forgot about them. There should be no need to point out that they have worn away and are in need of renewal. Why wait for the height of the tourist season to do these things?

Be on guard

A local union Stalin decided that he must pay £2 as a penalty for not joining before. When he protested, the demand was increased to £5. When he refused to pay, his boss was told to kick him out. So he kicked him out. So he kicked him out. So he kicked him out.

And while I am referring to the Square, I might mention that some motorists handle their cars like wheelbarrows. They stop them in the most awkward place and go off leaving them there. Anyone on the Square last Thursday will have seen the chaos caused by this careless parking. My suggestion to the Garda is — put a stop to it — IMMEDIATELY. This kind of obstruction is getting out of hand. Let's face it too—we need traffic by-laws. The Council should adopt them if they have the will.

WATERFORD CONFOUND FOOTBALL WORLD

Kingdom sensationnally humbled in glorious finish

Waterford - - - 2-5; Kerry - - - - 0-10

WATERFORD senior footballers—mighty battlers and right enthusiastic ballplayers all—must have accomplished the greatest feat in the history of football in the Decies when they sensationnally humbled the might of storied Kerry in the opening round of the Munster championship at the sun-drenched Waterford Gaelic Field on Sunday last.

Every man of the team, from towering goalkeeper Jer McCarthy to wee Tommy Power at top of the left, was a hero. They pulled out all the stops and in the process hammered out a victory that will redound to the County's everlasting credit.

Make no mistake about it, posterity will set "the day we beat Kerry" apart as the criterion by which all future achievements of our football men will be measured.

The sparse attendance, estimated at 4,000 odd, got little inkling of what was to come during a dull first half. At the interval Kerry led by six points to two and appeared to be playing well within themselves, or so we thought as we basked in the brilliant sunshine and waited the inevitable Kingdom second half effort.

Worked wonders

Fourteen minutes after the resumption, by which time Kerry had tagged on two further minors, Noel Power crashed home a goal that was to be the forerunner of an additional 1-3. That score worked wonders on the crowd, who, as distinct from the footballers, had been assigned to a Kingdom victory before a ball was kicked.

Now despondency gave way to elation among the Deise folk. Timmons cut the lead still further with a point, and after another exchange of minors, the Kilmossanty man was there to bundle Tim Barrett over the line for the equaliser.

In vain the Kingdom men sought to regain the initiative. Waterford had applied the green light; this was their game and their game it was when Tom Cunningham ranged up field to shoot the winner from 30 yards out.

And so the football men of the Decies, the cinderella county of the game in Munster, gallantly and meritoriously won the right to a final date with the survivors of the Cork-Kerry penultimate encounter.

This will be our first Munster final appearance since 1946, when, after beating Tipperary, we came a cropper against a great Kerry side then then their 15th All-Ireland triumph, at Tralee. Waterford's only previous success in the competition was realised way back in the nineties. The hopes of Dungarvan it was who conquered all in the South and only failed to Dublin Geraldines at the final hurdle.

Waterford's sensational victory—one that was as merited as it was unexpected—emphasised again the glorious uncertainty of the games of the Gael. It ends the almost monotonous succession of Cork-Kerry finals and will be toasted far and wide as a measure of reward for the perseverance the wearers of the white and blue have displayed against adversity over the years. As already stated, every man of this gallant Waterford side played his heart out. For three quarters of the hour they were in arrears but they continued to play away courageously and in the end they mastered the Kingdom at the game that has won the sons of Kerry a niche all of their own in the football hall of fame.

Fanatical zeal

Every man played with almost fanatical zeal. They spared nothing, neither themselves nor their opponents and they won because of their ability to last the gruelling pace when several of the Kerry men were blatantly exhausted.

When the long whistle echoed over the sun-drenched Sportsfield, the very temple of Waterford hurling, so to speak, depicted an amazing scene as delicious Deise folk veritably descended on the scene of occasion to cheer the conquering heroes. This really was a day of days for Waterford football.

Not unnaturally, Kerry men were dumfounded at the completely unexpected turn of events. What a contrast the dismay of the green and gold was to the feverish elation that reigned in the Waterford camp. But then, what an embarrassing experience it must have been for a Kingdom team to taste defeat at the hands of "lowly" Waterford.

Waterford's rugged style, their tenacity of purpose and their refusal to accept the inevitable confounded the visitors. This was particularly so in the closing stages when the great Kerry defence was at sixes and sevens. Of the two Kerry were undoubtedly the more polished, but Waterford were far and away the more direct. The Deise men believed in making the ball do the work and that policy paid more dividends in the final analysis.

Epic finish

The football was never great and the opening half exchanges were often uninspiring—but by goodness, what excitement was crammed into that breath-taking last quarter.

Bouquets there are aplenty for the Waterford men—for men like Tom Cunningham, whose last minute winner and all-round performance made him the toast of the evening; lion-hearted Jimmy Whyte whose transfer from full-forward to mid-field utterly smashed the losers early standard in that most crucial of sectors; that most unyielding of rearguards, comprised of Mick Prendergast, Matty Lonergan and Con Crowley; tenacious Seamus Power, a midfielder in the same impressive mould as partner Whyte; the vital scorers, Jim Timmons, Noel Power and Billy Kirwan; half-backs Mick O'Connor and Jimmy Power who so capably handled Lyne and Sheehy, goalkeeper McCarthy who kept his net intact and Georgie Whyte and Tommy Power who were always in the thick of the fray.

Right full-back Jerome O'Shea and John Dowling alone in the Kerry rearguard maintained their customary steadiness when Waterford turned on the pressure and Ned Fitzgerald, an exceptionally accurate kicker, was the only forward to emerge with any credit. Midfielders O'Connell and Long opened confidently but faded when the arrival of Whyte and were completely subdued in the second period.

Kerry took the lead in the first minute when T. Collins pointed which was followed by two more from D. McAuliffe and N. Fitzgerald before Kirwan replied with a point in the 14th minute.

Points from frees by N. Fitzgerald, T. Lyne and P. Fitzgerald were followed by one from Noel Power, leaving the interval score 0-6 to 0-2 in favour of Kerry. Four minutes after the re-start Lyne pointed from a free, followed by another from N. Fitzgerald (free) before Noel Power crashed home Water-

On the turnover, a grand point by veteran Keating put Geraldines ahead. Mernin supplemented the advantage with a further minor. Excitement rose when Downing and Lennon exchanged points, but the homesters cut the arrears to a single score but Geraldines, the stronger finishers, tagged on a further point prior to the long whistle.

The exchanges were hard and fast, the customary pattern of battle between these neighbours and the football tended to reach championship heights at times.

Clashmore had the better of the initial exchanges, but visitors pegged them back in an exciting second quarter. The teams were all square at the interval, 0-2 each.

Western Leagues Provide Absorbing Fare

The junior hurling and football leagues inaugurated by the Western Board have made considerable progress on all fronts since both competitions started over a week ago.

All the fancied sides collected full points from their initial engagements. Several of the reputedly weaker teams, too, displayed encouraging form, good enough to suggest exciting finisher and exhilarating exchanges in all sections of both codes.

The competitions are certainly filling a much-needed want among the junior, particularly the clubs that have already lost interest in the destination of the championship.

CLASHMORE'S EFFORT

Perhaps the outstanding feat to date was that of Clashmore hurlers, newcomers to the purely Celtic code, who were a trifle unfortunate not to have earned a sensational division of points with Brickey Rangers at Aglish on Friday evening.

The losers hurled with dash and abandon and matched their more experienced rivals in finesse and fieldcraft. It is doubtful if their more ardent followers anticipated such a creditable showing from a team that has been traditionally identified with the big ball game.

Big men on the Clashmore side were Jim Cullen, Mossy Hallahan, Redmond McGrath, Eddie Cunningham, Billy Allen and goalkeeper Tom Bagge.

The Brickeys, two points up after less than ten minutes, may have tended to rest on their laurels for a time, but they were desperately hard put to regain the lead which the losers had enjoyed from midway through the opening half until well into the last quarter.

Architects of the comeback were Pat Spratt, Mick Walsh, Patsy Donnelly, Richie Whelan and veteran Stephen Curran. Clashmore led at the interval by 1-3 to 0-2. On the turnover, they added a further four points against three goals and three points by the Rangers.

Brickey Rangers—J. Curran (goal), S. Curran, L. Crotty, J. O'Donoghue; U. Curran, J. Walsh, P. Killigrew; M. Walsh, P. Spratt, R. Whelan, P. Donnelly, M. Baker, F. Donnelly, F. Ryan, P. Buckley.

Clashmore—T. Bagge (goal), J. McGrath, S. Hennessy, J. Lennon, R. McGrath, E. Mooney, J. Morrissey, M. Hallahan, J. Cullen, D. Curran, E. Cunningham, T. Mansfield, T. McGrath, P. J. McGrath, W. Allen.

GERALDINES VICTORY Geraldines second string made a successful journey to Clashmore on Tuesday evening when they collected the maximum points after an exciting tussle with the homesters in the opening round of the football tourney.

The exchanges were hard and fast, the customary pattern of battle between these neighbours and the football tended to reach championship heights at times.

Clashmore had the better of the initial exchanges, but visitors pegged them back in an exciting second quarter. The teams were all square at the interval, 0-2 each.

the constructive ball play of Ronayne, Downing, Crotty, Kiely and Mernin.

Clashmore, too, were exceptionally well served in defence. Ormonde Dee and Hennessy formed a dour rear line, Redmond McGrath was a tremendous centre half, while Bagge, Lennon, Baker and the McGraths, battled valiantly to save the day.

The respective goalkeepers, the winners "Pack" Foley and Jim McGrath in the Clashmore citadel, capably dealt with all that came their way.

Geraldines: P. Foley (goal); D. O'Neill, G. O'Neill, G. Mernin, J. Davis, J. Longan, B. Downing and E. Crotty (capt.). V. Freeman, T. Mernin, P. Kiely, M. Keating, P. Ronayne, E. Mernin, J. Merrigan, Sub.—T. Meahan.

BRICKEYS ON TOP

Brickey Rangers, with grand advantage, experienced little difficulty in overcoming a very depleted Finisk Rovers at Busy Park on Tuesday evening week.

The losers who had trouble mustering a full fifteen, never touched the form they displayed in tournament engagements last week. This was their first competitive fixture of the season and not unnaturally in the circumstances the teamwork and fieldcraft were of a very sub-standard calibre.

Brickeys looked a pretty useful bunch. Their forwards made excellent use of the leather, their virtual property for the hour and the defence, rarely exerted, curbed the scoring activities of a Rovers attack that had little opportunity to display its paces.

However, the losers can improve considerably on this performance. They were decisively understrength and their play was not helped by a series of late arrivals. In the championship they will be an entirely different proposition.

STRADBALLY CONFIRM

Stradbally confirmed their championship victory over the Pike when they clashed at Leanybrien on Tuesday evening week. But the score is no way indicative of the battle the losers put up.

Most certainly the Reds deserved the spoils, yet all four of their goals—the crucial scores—were the result of defensive blunders.

The Pike opened in great style, they matched the losers in every phase of the game until the first of the decisive minutes took a lot of the wind out of their sails. Although the winners were clearly the superior side, the Pike battled doggedly to the very end.

Glen Rovers and Tallow, as a result of convincing victories over Tourin and Shamrocks respectively, face the second round of the hurling competitions with full points.

The Glen conquered a strong Tourin fifteen at Lismore two weeks ago and the Bridestriders on the home sod were equally convincing winners over the neighbours.

OLD PARISH WIN

Although compelled to field without a leg's man than Tommy Power, Old Parish footballers were rarely out of second gear to master a disappointing Emmets at Dungarvan. No doubt about it, but the Shocks will be a force in the premier competition again this year.

Their championship rivals, St. Garvan's were denied the opportunity of parading their prowess on Wednesday evening week. Put to a mix-up, their league fixture with Ring scheduled for the Gaelic field fell through. Waterford hurlers, preparing for the Munster championship, had the venue already taken over.

Tourin, a team that should be something of a force in the championship, proved too strong for the homesters at Lismore on Tuesday evening week. The battle for survival in Group 2 promises to be one of the most absorbing of the entire league, with Tourin and Ballyduff senior teams of a year ago, along with Cappoquin attempting to reach the epnultimate stage.

FORTHCOMING TIES By the end of the current week most second round fixtures will be completed.

The Mission being presently conducted in Aglish, has caused the postponement of the Affane-Clashmore hurling tie which was arranged for Aglish on Friday evening.

Due to the same cause the Geraldines-Finisk Rovers football encounter has been put back to Sunday next. This game will take place at Aglish.
