PROPOSED CLOSING OF RAILWAY LINES

County Councillors voice Strong Protest

DEPUTY Sean Ormonde voiced a strong protest at the quarterly meeting of Waterford County Council against the recommendation of the Transport Commission to close the railway lines from Waterford to Mallow and Waterford to Tramore.

The matter arose when the Council read a resolution from the Transport Commission recommending the closing of the Waterford/Tramore line was concerned. Colr. Ormonde said that the implementation of the findings would have disastrous consequences. Although he believed that the Government would not take such steps, he felt that even the suggestion to do so was sufficient to warrant a protest and to convey that any curtailment of the railway services would be met with determined opposition.

THREE REASONS

There were three reasons, Colr. Ormonde continued, why there should be no reduction in the number of rail lines throughout the country. Such a reduction would (1) have a detrimental effect on the economy of the country; (2) would cause more unemployment; and (3) would deny certain sections of the community a means of transport to which there was no alternative.

Referring to the first, Colr. Ormonde said that many of our towns were dependent on the railways for distribution purposes. Any close down would have an adverse effect, as far as the farming community was concerned, a disastrous effect.

Secondly, nobody could hope that any more than 50 per cent of those who would be unemployed following any reductions, could be absorbed in other employment. Besides, if the Tramore line was closed down the huge seaside crowds would not be catered for during the summer season.

"NO UNNECESSARY ACTION"

"We, as representatives of the people, should make our presence felt to ensure that no unnecessary action is taken and we should protest vigorously against any implementation of the findings of the Transport Commission," said Colr. Ormonde.

MILK AND DAIRIES ACT, 1956

The Minister for Agriculture has made an Order bringing into operation as from the 15th August, 1957, Section 12 and part of Section 8 of the Milk and Dairies (Amendment) Act, 1956. The provisions of these Sections terminate the general exemption hitherto operating under Sections 20 and 30 of the Milk and Dairies Act, 1935, whereby persons who supply milk to creameries for pasteurisation for the liquid trade are not required to be registered as dairymen with the local sanitary authority and in place of that general exemption, empower the Minister to grant "special declaration" similar exemptions for temporary periods in relation to specific creameries.

"GREATEST MISTAKE"

Colr. M. Harty said the railways were the life-line of the farming community. He said the greatest mistake that CIE ever made was the provision of dual transport.

Colr. W. Dower said if the railways were closed down it would mean extra transport for the roads which he thought were already overcrowded. The heavy transport on roads which oftentimes were too narrow, was causing too many accidents, he said.

Colr. Heskin, supporting the resolution, said that now was the time for voluntary organisations such as the G.A.A. who made much use of the railways, to protest and not when it was too late.

The proposal was passed unanimously.

An Eight Feet County Road

The road linking Ballydurn Cross to the Carrick New Line link road and which was stated to be taken over at the time of the Grand Jury, as a county road, led to a long discussion, when Mr. O'Carroll, who lives on this road, asked the County Council to widen portion of the road to enable him to get in his combine harvester to service him and the other farmers living in this area.

During the discussion it was stated that Mr. O'Carroll pays £212 in rates while others using the road pay more.

Messrs. Harty and Moran advocated asking the Minister to transfer some of the £25,000 grant for main roads for such works.

Mr. Ormonde said that the £25,000 was a special grant to be used on main roads only. If the Council did not use the money for this purpose, it would go to some other county.

Mr. Foran—This is downright dictatorship. We should be allowed to use the money as we think fit.

Mr. Lynch said they should be honest with themselves and not hypocrites; the very people who wanted to spend more money on roads were those who would not strike a reasonable rate at the estimate meeting.

Mr. Keane proposed the £350 (the Engineer's estimate of the amount required) be provided to do this work.

Mr. Foran seconded. Mr. Lynch proposed and Mr. Dower seconded that the matter be deferred until money for this work is available.

A vote on the amendment resulted as follows: for—Messrs. Dower, Harty, Quirke, Barron, Flynn, Lynch and Chairman (7); Against—Messrs. Butler, Keane, Fahy, Foran, Ormonde, O'Riordan, Dowd, Heskin, Mountaine and Power (10).

The resolution that the £350 be provided was then put and carried on the same vote.

Mr. Keane asked the County Manager to see that the work is carried out at once in view of the hardship on the farmers of the area.

UNIVERSITY SCHOLARSHIPS

The three scholarships awarded by the Council to University College, Cork, were awarded to Mr. Quesly, St. Anthony's Nursing Home, Dungarvan; John P. McCarthy, Western Tee, do.; and Vincent Daly, Wolfe Tone Road, do.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOLARSHIP

The scholarship in the faculty of Agriculture awarded by the Council for which five candidates sat, was awarded to Lee P. Curran, Ballinamuck, with E. M. Brett, Crough, Colligan, in second place. In the event of Master Curran not availing of the scholarship it will revert to Master Brett.

Kilmacthomas, Kirossanty and Stradbally Notes

Duck, Geese and Grouse

Reports from all parts of the Mid-Waterford area show that the fowling of fowling-pieces have been doing pretty well since Monday of last week, when the season for above birds opened. Fowling will not forget to remember that the season for cock pheasants and partridge starts on November 1st next.

Big Hauls of Mackerel are still being made along the neighbouring seaboard. Last Saturday evening people on the dock at Knockmahon experienced an unusual spell of entertainment from a school of dolphins which came very close pursuing the mackerel which are ever so plentiful in front of the pier on the bank. Some of the dolphins were fully seven yards in length and they lived up to their reputation of being playful by providing a wonderful aquatic display of leaping, rolling and standing on their tails. Fishermen dislike the sight of dolphins as they ruin fishing but tourists like them as their presence proximate to the shore usually portends agreeable weather conditions.

Felicitations are most cordially extended to Mr. Rd. McGrath (son of Mr. and the late Mrs. P. McGrath, Rathgormack) and Miss Eileen Tobin (daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. M. Deo Grawn) on their marriage, which was solemnized recently at St. Teresa's R.C. Church, Boreham Wood, Middlesex, England, by the Rev. M. J. Murray, C.C., do. The bride who has been living at 64, Manor Waly, do., was given away by her brother, Mr. John Deo, and her brother, Mr. Joseph Deo, acted as best man. Two nieces of the bride, Miss Eileen Tobin and Miss Maureen Power, were the bridesmaids. The bride who radiated happiness, was attired in a white lace dress over taffeta and a white diamond-studded head-dress and a short veil. She bore a bouquet of red roses. The first-mentioned bridesmaid appeared in a pink satin dress with a blue sash, head-dress and gloves and her conferees wore a blue dress with head-dress and gloves. Both carried mixed flowers. The newly-wedded couple, who met at a dance in Mid-Waterford about three years ago, merit our warmest congratulations and best wishes for the future.

A Very Enjoyable Holiday in our midst was wound up during the week by most esteemed Mr. and Mrs. John Parle and family, who have returned safely to the home of their adoption in England. Mr. Parle is a highly popular gentleman Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fitzgerald, Ballynabanogue, with whom she and her spouse and children whiled away their happy break and all looked in the proverbial pink when they took their departure.

Married at Mount Melleray Abbey on a recent date were Mr. Pierce Kirwan, farmer, Ballagoola, Leamyrtrin (son of the late Mr. P. Kirwan, do.) and Miss Carmel Conery, The Bungalow, Shanacole, Kilsalebeg (daughter of Mrs. C. Conery and late Mr. T. Conery, do.). Very Rev. Fr. Power, P.P., Clashmore, and Kinsalebeg, performed the ceremony and imparted the Papal Blessing. The bride, who looked charming, was given away by her brother, Mr. John Conery. She wore a frock of nylon blue with head-dress of similar hue overspread by a silver veil and bore a bouquet of pink carnations and maidenhair fern. The bridesmaid, Miss Kathleen Conery (sister of the bride) was seen in a pink nylon frock with accessories to tone and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and maidenhair fern. Mr. Patrick Kirwan, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The honeymoon was spent on a tour of the southern seaboard.

Several Groups of children and adults are to be observed out of doors these days engaged at the profitable task of picking the blackberry crop, which, on both sides of the Mahon, is a pronouncedly prolific one. Collectors are selling their supplies to local buyers of the wild fruit (all of whom are paying the top current price).

Well-beloved Priest - All and sundry in his native parish of Newtown will learn with deep delight that His Holiness, the Pope, recently conferred on Very Rev. Fr. John G. Power, P.P., pastor of a populous parish in the Archdiocese of California, U.S.A., for the greater part of the past 33 years, the title Right Reverend Monsignor, appointing him domestic prelate to the Holy See.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Power (an extensive farmer who figured a true patriot in the Plan of Campaign movement against Landlordism over its pro-rental agents, emergency-men, etc.) of Carrigen, Kilmacthomas, and brother of Mr. James A. Power, do., Monsignor Power had a brilliant career as a student at St. Enda's College, Dublin (under the patronage of P. H. and Willie Pierce of Easter Week fame); at Mount Melleray Seminary and at St. John's College, Waterford. He served as Chaplain (with rank of Lieut.-Col.) to the section of the U.S.A. Army that subdued the Japanese in the Philippine Islands during World War 2.

Always a kindly priest, whom the people he ministers to hold in the highest regard, Monsignor Power has not alone earned their respect and love, but he retains that love and respect, a striking tribute to a beloved sagittary Pastor. Here's heartily congratulating him on the high honour he has from his Divine Master's Vicar on Earth.

LIPOBOAT ALERTED

At 7.15 p.m. on Saturday last Youghal Life-boat had its second call-out for the week under Commander Dick Hickey. The trawler 'Star of Meveag' with Commander Arbutnot and a party of five left Ballycotton for Youghal at 11.30 a.m. that morning and after coming through the Sound developed gearbox trouble. A thick fog set in with the result that the many distress signals sent out could not be seen from the Youghal shore. Mrs. Arbutnot contacted the coxswain of the Life-boat who proceeded to Moll Goggins corner and could barely discern the craft about 2 1/2 miles south of Youghal Lighthouse. The Lifeboat made contact with the craft and proceeded to tow her to Youghal and after over two hours could only make the Youghal Lighthouse when there was a strong ebb tide. Here the trawler was anchored and the Lifeboat proceeded to Youghal returning again at 1 a.m. and towed the craft into the harbour where she was moored. The Lifeboat returned to its station at 3.45 a.m.

WEDNESDAY

Blue dress on Wednesday afternoon, Dick Hickey, coxswain of the Youghal Lifeboat, received a phone call that a bather was in difficulties on the front Strand. After calling the crew and when about to launch, a further message was received that their services were not required. To check up on the second message, the Coxswain and Sec. Commander Arbutnot visited the scene and ascertained that the young girl of about 10 years using a motor tube as a float was taken out a considerable distance by a strong wind blowing off the land. Her plight was noticed by some men bathers, including two priests on holiday, who succeeded in bringing the girl to land suffering from shock, but little the worse of her experience.

LATE MISS MARGARET SULLIVAN

We regret to announce the sad and unexpected death of Miss Margaret Sullivan which took place last week at her residence, Ashe Street, Youghal. The deceased was a member of a well-known local family, being a daughter of Rev. John Aher, Gibraltar. The remains were removed to the Parish Church from where the funeral which was large and representative took place to North Abbey Cemetery on Saturday last at 3 p.m.

LATE MRS. ABINA WALSH

The funeral of the late Mrs. Abina Walsh, of Rock Cottage, Bohemen Road, Youghal, took place recently to North Abbey Cemetery and the large and representative cortege bore ample testimony of the high regard in which she was held in her native town.

The chief mourners were: Mrs. D. Fennessy, Patrick and Maurice Walsh (sons); Mrs. F. Dickinson, Mrs. C. Loughlin and Mrs. Peggy Collins (daughters); Bryan, Charles, William, Jas. Loughlin, Patrick Stuar and Wm. James Loughlin (grand-children); Miss N. Fennessy (sister); Mrs. P. Walsh, Mrs. M. Walsh (daughters-in-law); Messrs. F. Dickinson, C. Loughlin and Stan Collins (sons-in-law); Messrs. M. Whelan, Mrs. M. O'Connell and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. Twomey and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. Finn and family; Mrs. Lafford, Mr. and Mrs. Flynn; Mr. M. O'Mahony and family; Mr. E. Keyes and family; the Misses and Sean P. Daly; Mr. Mrs. and Miss T. O'Brien (relatives and immediate friends).

Very Rev. Canon Sheehan, P.P. and Rev. Fr. O'Connell, C.C., officiated at the graveside.

CHRISTIAN BROTHERS CENTENARY

The appeal for funds which is being made by the Youghal Christian Brothers Centenary Committee for the purpose of appropriately honoring the occasion in November next is still open and will remain so at least until the end of October. The Committee desire to publicly thank all those who up to the present have so generously contributed. At their usual meeting, Mr. P. J. O'Gorman, presiding, stated that though the medium of the Press, they would like to make known to past pupils and other friends of the Christian Brothers that a fund is being raised to honour the coming Centenary. He would like to thank the press for the publicity already given and added that it was the only means available to them to get in touch with the past pupils in Ireland and elsewhere. Continuing, he said there was no need to stress all that the Christian Brothers, this body of self sacrificing men, had achieved down the years, in the fields of education and Irish culture and he felt that past pupils everywhere only needed to be reminded of the fund raising campaign when their response would be generous.

YOUGHAL STUDENT FINED

Four Students, whose homes are in Youghal, were each fined a total of £2 at North Walsham (Norfolk) Magistrates Court. They were Denis Joseph Leyne, of Strand Street; Michael Paul Finn of 4, Water Street; Michael Francis Kelly, of 29, South Main St.; and Peter Gerard Power, of 89 North Main Street.

They were charged with nine other Irish students with taking and driving away a van without the owner's consent. They were also summoned with eight of the others with aiding and abetting, the thirteenth man, Kenneth Hastie, of Co. Antrim, in driving the van without a licence and when he was not insured against their party risks. They all pleaded guilty.

For the police, Chief Inspector Arthur Canham said the 13 students were working for West-wick frosted Products Ltd., near North Walsham. In the early hours of August 5th they became bored and decided as a lark to visit some women students camped about half a mile distant in a van without a licence and when he was not insured against their party risks. They all pleaded guilty.

Immediately after the accident the students informed the managing director of the firm, and rang the police to say what they had done. Since then they had done everything possible to try to assist the police in sorting out the matter. All had made statements admitting the offences and stated they regretted their action and realised how foolish they had been.

Announcing the fine, the Chairman, Mr. F. J. S. Daver, said that having taken everything into consideration the magistrates had decided to treat them very leniently.

ARTHRITIS POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE FORCES

The Positive forces of nature are constructive in form. These build up a healthy body to resist disease. These forces, however, are often offset by negative thought or negative action. If a careful study is made of disease it will often be found that it originated in negative thought. A negative thought may be described as a fear of disease.

We'll briefly touch on Infantile Paralysis, notice immediately that when it is known that there is a case of Infantile Paralysis in a district, people begin to ask "Will we get it here?" That is a thought form, negative in character. Once it gets into the mind, finds root there as it were, it effects the mind's harmony.

Now the subconscious mind is an automatic form of mind, it has no reason or intellect; what it performs is done automatically, one might say by universal decree, and it does not know how to behave itself. Yet, remember that the subconscious is part of the mind of man, obeying a fixed law from earliest times, in fact it is the animal mind, it is therefore, negative in character.

It is the subconscious mind which causes fear; fear causes poisons in the body tissues and poisons cause disease elements. Here then is a vicious circle of negative thought. Fear disease, fear anything for that matter and it is sure to visit you.

Some say that our present method of living may be the cause of arthritis, of cancer, and so on. But it has been found and I have been able to trace back cases, which showed a continuous fear of these conditions, later to suffer from them.

If, therefore, we would build harmony in the body, we must first harmonise the mind, for the mind is the powerhouse, and man has laboured for centuries to understand it. But he has still a long way to go. The subconscious is our problem, for it is from this part or plane of mind that disharmony arises, but we can counteract this negative thought force by positive constructive action.

P. MURPHY Main Street, Whitegate.

FROM NEW ZEALAND.

Two very charming New Zealand ladies, Jennifer Gore and Grace Kennedy, who were turning to London when they visited to Ballinacully during the week when they were very much impressed by the district and its people. Leaving New Zealand some months ago on the liner Arava their first port of call was San Francisco; next they motored across the American Continent to New York where they joined the Queen Elizabeth for Southampton. After touring Europe by car they crossed to Larn, next visiting Dublin, they left for the West coast to Kilarney, next visiting Cork, Waterford, Wicklow. They next left for England after which they intend touring the Continent before returning to London when they will again join the liner Orsola for the homebound journey to New Zealand in Jan.

LATE PATRICK PHELAN, COOLMEASOWN, BALLYMACCARRY

Sincere regret has been expressed over a wide area at the announcement of the death of one of the districts most esteemed residents in the person of Mr. Patrick Phelan which had occurred at the residence of his sister at Coolmeasown, held in high esteem as a progressive member of the farming community, deceased was one of the most unassuming of gentlemen whose kind and charitable disposition endeared him to the hearts of those who now deeply and justly grieve at his passing. The attendance at the funeral to Bennett's Church Cemetery was large and representative and testimony of the popularity of deceased and of the sympathy entertained for his relatives.

TO THE ALL-IRELAND FINAL

Hurling fans from the Ballinacully area wishing to visit Dublin for the All-Ireland hurling final, need have no worry as regards transport facilities. Ballinacully's leading sportsman Mr. T. P. Power, has now requisitioned a luxury bus for the occasion which it is hoped will meet with the many demands for seats.

HOME FROM THE SEA

One of the districts most popular gentlemen in the person of Mr. John Power, Lickoran, Ballinacully, is now enjoying a holiday at the parental home. A much travelled young man, Mr. Power is radio operator on one of the Orient's large luxury liners sailing round the world. Sailing the seas and visiting the world's many ports, Mr. Power's experience of the world and its peoples are varied. From the frozen wastes of the Torrid zone, from the land of the midnight sun to the Southern Hemisphere, New Zealand, Tasmania, a name recalling great Irishmen, to America's Golden Gate, past the Statue of Liberty to New York, home of many Irishmen; what memories they serve to Mr. Power, yes, London's busy airport, the Suez Canal. One very minor incident, but a very touching and unforgettable one holds pride of place in Mr. Power's heart, that of meeting his countryman, neighbour and pal of his school days, Mr. Maurice Barron, of Kilticooney, Ballinacully, in far away Sydney.

INTERVALS BETWEEN MILKINGS

This is perhaps the commonest cause of variation in the produce, the longer the interval between successive milkings the greater the yield and the lower the fat percentage. Thus the lower portion of fat in morning milk may be ascribed to the long interval which has usually elapsed since the previous milking. Where cows are milked at twelve hour intervals little variation occurs in the fat-content of the milk produced and producers should, accordingly endeavour as far as practicable to arrange to have the intervals between milkings as nearly equal as possible.

AGE OF COW

This factor exercises but a slight influence on the proportion of fat in milk. Investigations have shown that there is a tendency for the fat-content in milk to increase slightly from the first lactations to the third. Very little change occurs during the first lactations until the effect of old age become apparent, when a decline in the population of fat in the milk invariably occurs.

SEASONAL VARIATION

The quality of milk is to some extent subject to seasonal variation. Generally from October to March it is richer in fat than during the remainder of the year. In addition to the lower fat percentage which normally occurs during the period from April to September, an appreciable decrease also takes place when the cows are put out to pasture in early summer. At that period the yield usually increases and the quality is reduced temporarily. After a short interval, however, the fat-content reverts to its former level.

FIRST AND LAST MILK

The first milk from the udder is invariably low in fat-content, while the reverse is true for the last drawn, generally known as the "strippings." The higher

EFFECT OF FOOD

The quality of the milk may in certain circumstances be influenced by the nature of the food consumed. Recent experiments have shown that a shortage of good quality roughage (fibre) in the diet depresses the percentage of butter-fat. The decrease in fat which occurs, as referred to above, after the cows are put out to pasture in early summer is due to this cause. Young pasture is rich in protein but contains little roughage. A fall in fat percentage may be lessened if care is taken to change over gradually from indoor feeding to grazing. During the winter feeding period, also, a deficiency of butter-fat due to the diet may occur, particularly in the milk of high yielding cows fed on concentrates and only a little fodder. To avoid the risk of producing fat deficient milk in such cases, some extra roughage, preferably in the form of good quality hay, should be included in the ration.

INDIVIDUALITY OF COWS

It is sometimes found that, despite satisfactory feeding and management, certain cows produce milk which regularly falls below the standard prescribed under the Milk (Percentage of Milk-fat and Milk Solids) (No. 2) Regulations, 1936. Individual cows known to produce milk of consistently poor quality should be removed from the herd.

MISCELLANEOUS CAUSES OF VARIATION

A number of other less important factors may be responsible for variations in the quality of milk. Amongst these are change of milkers, sickness, fright or excitement of the animal during milking, oestrus or heat period, etc.

GENERAL

Milkings should, as far as practicable, take place at intervals as nearly equal as possible. The "strippings" should always be included in the bulked milk and care should be taken to mix the milk from the herd so as to balance up the low fat content which may possibly occur in milk of individual cows. Special attention must be given to feeding especially in late spring, since inadequate feeding is one of the chief causes of low solids-not-fat. Where the herd is carefully managed and where the foregoing points receive attention, the quality of the milk will not normally fall below the reasonable standard prescribed under the Milk (Percentage of Milk-fat and Milk Solids) (No. 2) Regulations, 1936. A cow's capacity to produce high quality milk is, however, inherited and this fact should be kept in view in any breeding programme.

Factors Influencing the Composition of milk

THE quality and composition of milk are subject to considerable variation according to the conditions under which the milk is produced. Consequently legislation has been enacted in most countries with a view to ensuring the quality of milk sold for human consumption is not below certain specific standards.

IN this country, under the Milk (Percentage of Milk-fat and Milk Solids) (No. 2) Regulations 1936, any article of food sold as whole milk must contain not less than three per cent of fat and not less than 8.5 per cent of solids-not-fat. It is illegal to sell milk the quality of which falls below these standards, irrespective of the cause. Even though the deficiency may be due to the incapacity of the cow to produce milk of the required standard, the seller is not absolved from liability. The percentage of fat is subject to greater variation than is the percentage of solids-not-fat and persons engaged in the production of milk should be conversant with the more important factors which may produce such variation so as to ensure that the quality of the milk produced does not fall below the prescribed standard. These factors are referred to below.

PERIOD OF LACTATION

The fat-content of milk usually tends to decrease slightly up to about the fourteenth week after the date of calving, but unless the majority of the cows in the herd calve about the same time the effect of this factor on the quality of the milk from the herd as a whole is very slight. Subsequently the percentage of fat shows an upward trend which continues to the end of the lactation.

The Inside Story

BY TOM TOBIN

The boy we forgot

Somewhere in London's White City Estate is a 12 years old boy who must think he is forgotten by this column.

What a weekly shilling can do

In Cork recently I met a young Irishman preparing to move in on London, Birmingham, Manchester, Liverpool and other centres where Irishmen and women have established their own colonies.

TO GAELTACHT.

I was interested in this movement and asked Paddy what it had done and what it hoped to do. This was his reply.

"We have our own radio programme giving prominence to Irish language and music. We spend as much money as the Government on Gaelic Scholarships and to a much better purpose. Instead of sending a very large number of children to the Gaeltacht in big groups for a month in the summer to pick up only a smattering of the language, Gael-Linn sends carefully chosen children from all over the 32 counties for three months. In the Gaeltacht each child attends school and is allowed only to mix and live with Gaelic children, thereby making the best use of their opportunity to learn their own language thoroughly."

Paddy pointed out that Gael-Linn had provided Dublin's only Gaelic theatre. "But most important of all," he told me, "Gael-Linn has brought Irish into the Cinema. In fact, Gael-Linn is the only organisation successfully making films in Ireland today, IN ANY LANGUAGE."

"Do you know," he said, "that Gael-Linn now distributes a new short film every month and that every film is seen by 750,000 people? This is an achievement for which the movement has been longing for over thirty years or so. It is a job the Government failed to do."

Paddy sails out of Cork on his mission this week. He will take with him the good wishes of every individual serving in the language revival movement, all of whom have placed their faith in Paddy.

"It is funny, however," he said, "that Gael-Linn now distributes a new short film every month and that every film is seen by 750,000 people? This is an achievement for which the movement has been longing for over thirty years or so. It is a job the Government failed to do."

HE DID—The occupants of some graves turned their humour on themselves. James Alberry, who died in 1889, has this carved on his stone:

He slept beneath the moon, He basked beneath the sun; He lived a life of going-to-do And died with nothing done.

ALL ABOUT WOMEN—Wives, it appears, are not always deeply mourned. In England there is this epitaph: Here lies my wife; here let her lie.

She's now at rest—and so am I The thought of eternal rest had strong appeal for one housewife who described herself as "A Tired Woman":

Don't mourn for me now; I don't mourn for me never—I'm going to do nothing for ever and ever.

A LITTLE TOO HOT—It is told that the following may be found on a tombstone in the U.S.

Beneath this plain pine board is lying The body of Joshua Hight. "Cheer up" the parson told him, dying.

"Your future's very bright." "Slowly the sick man raised his head. His weeping friends amazing, "Passon it's most too bright" he said, "For I can see it blazing."

SCOUT NOTES

TROOP MEETING—There were forty-eight scouts at the Annual Camp at Bunclody this year but a big number of them must have gone off on holiday again as they were not all present at the first meeting after camp which was held last Saturday night. The meeting was short and sweet. The SM read out the camp report which didn't sound too bad and in some respects was very good. Bunclody Camp 1957 will find its place among the best. At roll call we heard an unusual excuse from P.B. for his absent brother. He was tired! A 'Yes' or 'No' game followed but only the small fry took part as Burke's request. After the meeting the Melvin Team went through a song practice in preparation for their share at the Camp Fire at Larch Hill on Saturday night. These many patrol campfires which were held around the candle in the Wolf Patrol Tent in Bunclody seemed to have all the lads in singing form. As most of the leaders will go to Larch Hill for the coming week end Burke's request. After the meeting it was decided that no troop Meeting would be held next Saturday.

MELVIN COMPETITION—The first competition for the Sir Martin Melvin Trophy was held at the National Camping Site, Larch Hill in 1949. The Trophy was presented for competition between Troops through out Ireland for efficiency in the Scouting. First Diocesan competition are held to select the representative Troop from each Diocese and that Troop sends a Patrol of eight scouts to the final. In 1949 the 4th Waterford Team filled 2nd place with the 28th Dublin first. In 1950 the competition was held in Cork and was won by Dublin again with the 3rd Cork second and 4th Waterford third. Back to Larch Hill in 1951 where the 21st Cork were victors with Dublin second and 4th Waterford a close third. In 1952 we did not enter a team as we thought another Troop in the Diocese would do so. However, they did not and it was too late for us to get going when we found out the position. In 1953 perseverance gained the crown and the 4th Waterford got their first taste of victory in the competition after three bids. A competition was not held in 1954 as the Examiner Staff were in France so we were still holders. In 1956 we defended our title as All Ireland Champions' successfully when Dublin won the second Cork third. Then last year we threw away the Melvin Tro-

Can anyone 'help Squad, who seems to be spending a lot of his time in the New Line looking for Smiths house. Our wandering minstrel stumbled over the words of a song named 'P.B. in B.B.' and he does not know whether the name has something to do with the key or not and he's still searching for the air. For all things there's a Why and Wherefore. Like the "Stone outside Dan Murphy's Door." But what's on you must ask crystal Gazer. When Burke puts on his Blue Blazer.

We see guns in the hands of brave soldiers And hikers have bags on their shoulders. 'Tis easy to follow the play sir. Except when Burke appears in Blue Blazer.

Way out west they hang brilles on walls, As mementoes in long empty stalls. But can anyone venture to say, still searching for the air. How Burke decides on Blue Blazer

The gamblers play cards or 'back horses, They're at it for wins not for losses. But no odds can be found for a wagger, On when Burke'll come out in Blue Blazer.

There's just one little clue to the query, He's clean-shaved and hair-waved and cheery, And ere long he departs like a racer. That Burke in Badge and Blue Blazer.

Spirited Stickwork Expected

ALTHOUGH the book of form does not advertise the prospects of either Ballyduff or Erin's Own figuring in the ultimate reckoning for county honours, there clash in the second round of the championship at the Fraher Field, Dungarvan, on Sunday afternoon should provide hurling enthusiasts with an hour of spirited stickwork.

On the face of it the issue looks wide open. The veteran club has as if anything been the more prominent of late, but Ballyduff are dour battlers by tradition and they invariably produce a maximum championship effort. Win who will, it is unlikely that there will be more than a score or two between them.

Ballyduff have prepared earnestly for this encounter. Twelve months ago, they gave Mount Sion, admittedly under strength on that occasion, a whole of a game for three-quarters of the hour and only failed in the end through their inability to stay the full sixty minutes. Better armed now, the men from the border parish are confident of reaching the semi-final.

Veteran Mick Beecher is again entrusted with the leadership of the team and has at his command the Quirke brothers, Joe Daly, Donal Connors, Frank Corcoran, the Barrys, Pat Rafferty—who will travel specially from Rosslare for the game—and probably county selector Mick Feeney.

Erin's Own, the one-time lords of Deise hurling, are reputed to have strung together their best fifteen for several years. The old spirit, it is said, is again resurgent and their promising Sargent Cup performances indicated that Seamus Murphy, Charlie Ware, Kevin O'Connor, Russell, McBride and company are capable of holding their own with most sides. Both sides pursue a determined hard-hitting game. The city men are perhaps the most accomplished performers, but Ballyduff's tremendous spirit could tip the issue in their favour. One way or another, I expect a hard, relentless battle.

M.F. REPLAY
Ring and Stradbally minor footballers, the principals of an exciting, indecisive test last Monday evening, are billed to meet again following the hurling encounter.

Although the Gaelic champions were decidedly fortunate to earn a second chance, their strengthened side will probably start favourites to emerge on top on this occasion. Stradbally's stylish football is, of course, worthy of the utmost respect. Only certainty is that the issue will remain in the balance for every minute of the sixty.

MIKEY QUIRKE... determined Ballyduff attacker.

BILLY McGRATH... may return to the Erin's Own colours.

VILLAGERS COMPLETE DOUBLE CONVINCING FOOTBALL VICTORY OVER BLUES

Abbeyside, 4-7; Dungarvan 1-1
Abbeyside minors completed the double over neighbouring Dungarvan at the Fraher Field on Sunday last when their footballers—a side that really looked the part of potential champions—scored a decisive victory over the Old Boro representatives in the group semi-final.

And the Villagers, who also put paid to Dungarvan in the hurling competition certainly enhanced their prospects of bringing off a divisional minor double, a feat that was last achieved by Cappoquin in 1947, in the process.

Abbeyside, a strong compact combination, played copybook football in running up a first-half total of 4-4 to the losers 1-0. The Blues improved on the turnover when they managed to stay within a couple of points of the village boys but at no stage did they appear capable of seriously jeopardising the winners' big interval advantage.

This Abbeyside fifteen looked well up to the standard we associated with the Village teenagers in the golden years of their championship triumphs.

Strong in defence, where Organ, Kiely and Mansfield were pillars all, they had a first class mid-field combination in Hogan and Dalton and the attack—the pick of which were Keohan, Clancy and Kelleher—utilised a monopoly of the ball in a most workmanlike manner.

In a Dungarvan side that was somewhat disappointing, Goode, Quealy and Beresford battled like trojans to turn the tide.

Abbeyside—B. Beatty (goal), P. Organ, M. Kiely, T. Allen; D. Flynn, T. Mansfield, S. Mulcahy; P. Hogan and T. Dalton; J. Cullinan, S. Kelleher, P. Power, M. Enright, M. Keohan, O. Clancy.

Kill rout Dunhill in replay

DISAPPOINTING EXHIBITION FOOTBALL

Kill 2-7; Dunhill 0-2

Kill stepped up considerably on all previous form to terminate Dunhill's championship aspirations in a senior football replay that never lived up to expectations at the Sportsfield, Waterford, on Sunday last.

The winners, faster, fitter and a more workmanlike combination turned in a performance that was hard to reconcile with their lacklustre showing against the same opposition in an indecisive test two months ago.

Superior in almost every phase of the game and never seriously challenged, Kill's victory was every bit as warranted as their unexpected big winning margin would suggest. In fact, I'm told, the Mid-Waterford men are good enough to pose some awkward problems for champions Mount Sion when they clash in the county semi-final.

The game itself was most disappointing. Kill marched on in an uncertain manner and Dunhill scarcely raised a gallop. Accordingly, the encounter never attained the heights of a senior championship test.

HURLING CHALLENGE

Geraldines on top against Killeagh at Youghal

Geraldines 7-8; Killeagh 5-6

Geraldines, without an outing since they stopped Tourin in the opening round of the championship last May, heralded their return to the hurling final with a convincing victory over Killeagh in a fairly entertaining challenge test at the Cappoquin, Co. Youghal, on Sunday evening.

The hurling, though it never reached any exceptional heights, was fast and keen and scores were exchanged with a rapidity which helped to maintain the interest of a fair sized gathering throughout.

Killeagh opened in great style. Twelve points clear before the English men had raised a single flag, they failed for a time to score a brace of second quarter goals, brought Geraldines to within striking distance. At the interval the East Cork men led, 3-5 to 2-3. The winner hit the front within a minute of the resumption, then lost the advantage and forged ahead again in an exciting last quarter.

Although the opposition was scarcely of senior calibre, victory, nonetheless, gave Geraldines preparations for the forthcoming championship clash with Cappoquin, an auspicious send off.

The winners total was shared by: P. Ronayne (3-0), R. Ryan (2-0), T. Merrin (1-2), P. Kennelly (0-5), S. Riordan and J. Hallahan (1-0); and E. Scanlon (0-1).

Geraldines—L. Lee (goal), M. Hallahan, M. Keating, J. Hallahan, S. Riordan, B. Ronayne, W. Downing, W. Hallahan and P. Kennelly; R. Ryan, E. Scanlon, J. Longan; T. Merrin, P. Ronayne, J. O'Brien, Sub.—P. O'borne.

I.R.A. MEMORIAL

The cell and re-unite in aid of the above held in the Boat House, Cappoquin, on Sunday night, proved an outstanding success, both from a financial and entertainment point of view. It attracted a record attendance of young and old from all over West Waterford, East Cork and South Tipperary.

Music for the night was provided by Messrs. E. Flanagan, Jack Tobin, M. Conner, John O'Brien and E. Murray. Their lively Irish airs kept the dancers on the floor until the cell concluded with the National Anthem.

During the night exhibition dances were given by Master Mce, Hallahan (Sailor's Hornpipe and Triple Jig). His dancing has been described as "the poetry of motion." Reels and jigs were contributed by the Misses R. Barron and Helen Donovan (Hallahan School), while Miss Neville, Lismore, and Mr. Ned Christopher won rounds of applause for their songs.

Mr. T. Lincoln gave a lucid account of the progress that has been made in the work of erecting the memorial. He first read the Hon. Treasurer's (Mr. T. Kelleher's) report as regards the financial position which proved to be very sound.

In his statement, Mr. Lincoln stated that the money on hands will be sufficient to carry out the first step of the erection, namely, the building of the surrounding walls and background and the laying down of tarmac flooring and terracing of site. With the completion of that stage the next goal to be aimed at is the providing of limestone coping pedestals and steps, which from estimates given by several well-known firms, will prove very costly. Continuing, Mr. Lincoln said that when that work is completed the last and most important stage can then be aimed at, namely, the provision of a statue of the Blessed Mother, as the centre piece of the memorial. Estimates of the cost have been got from some of the best known Irish sculptors and range at about £500.

Mr. Lincoln stated that if the same amount of support is given as has been given up to this, that he has no doubt of the work of erecting a memorial to the Mother of God and of those who helped in the War of Independence will be completed in the coming year.

In conclusion, Mr. Lincoln thanked those who helped to make the cell and re-unite so successful, in particular the musicians, singers and dancers, the local papers for giving so much publicity to the night's entertainment, the ladies who helped in the tea room and the Committee of the Boat Club who facilitated them in every day.

A ham which was raffled was won by Mrs. Denis Aherne, Knockanore.

Gaelic Commentary

Enthusiasm and co-operation

Final fever, an epidemic the county has known but twice in over seventy years of championship striving, is rampant these days. The hour of reckoning draws night and the Deies is ablaze from end to end at the prospects of the county's gallant representatives hurling their way to another All-Ireland and a certain place among the immortals of the game.

Already the proud custodians of the Munster crown and by now a confident hurling machine, the wearers of Portlairge's white and blue calmly await their greatest trial. A gruelling course of preparation is in the throes of completion and the signs are—and I am accepting the spirit of enthusiasm with which every man completed the programme during the past week as a yardstick—that the fittest team ever to represent the county will cross camans with legendary Kilkenny on Sunday week.

When I paid a visit to the training headquarters at Fraher Field on Tuesday evening the players and mentors appeared every bit as enthusiastic about their work as they did when camp was originally pitched prior to the Limerick test last June.

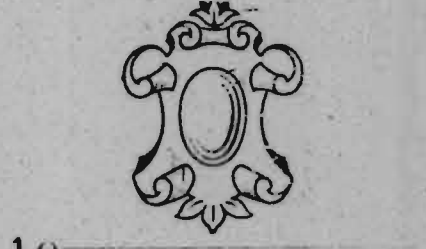

Hurling—about a dozen balls were employed in the process—formed a major part of the work-out, while testing sprints and the customary limbering up exercises were all part of the evening's programme. Despite the rigours involved, every man of the selection entered wholeheartedly into the fray, a fair indication of their determination to uphold the county's prestige on Final day.

Trainer John Keane was in charge of operation and the veteran Mount Sion man was aided and abetted by his fellow selectors and Secretary Declan Goode. All in all a grand spirit of co-operation prevailed.

Johnny O'Connor

Centre of attraction at the season was the injury-stricken Johnny O'Connor. This was O'Connor's first outing with the selection since his enforced rest during the Munster final six weeks ago, and believe me, the redoubtable Abbeyside man appeared none the worse of his unfortunate experience. In fact, he was literally flying and it seems a virtual certainty that he will be fit to take his place on Sunday week. Certainly, there can be no doubting his determination to fit himself for the rigours of the big occasion.

Goalman Dickie Roche, who was also in the "wars" against Galway in the semi-final, displayed his customary assurance between the posts and Seamus Power, Frank Walsh, Larry Guinan and Tom Cunningham—all recent casualties—went about their preparation in a manner that testified to their personal well-being.

Typical of the man was the action of John Kiely, who put in an earnest bout of personal training before the stipulated starting time. The great-hearted St. Garvan's man was aided out in his "overtime mission" by Billy Goode, a son of the County Secretary who was a substitute on the county minor team which met Limerick in the Munster championship.

The ticket problem

Undoubtedly the most sought-after man in the county during these anxious days of waiting is Secretary Declan Goode. Gonal Dec, one of the few active links with the '38 and '48 campaigns, has been assailed on all sides by a veritable deluge of applications. Many and varied are the yarns that have poured into the Goode homestead in support of a never-ending stream of requests ever since the county qualified for the final test.

Of this I am certain: if the eternal glamour for tickets is an indication the white and blue will more than hold its own in the Croke Park colour scheme on September 1st.

For what I can gather, C.F.E. have made elaborate arrangements to convey supporters to the capital. A train from Dungarvan will travel non-stop after Cappagh. The various other points of departure along the county lines will also be amply catered for while the Urbs intact itself will be the starting tape for several specials in addition to a fleet of buses. At various points throughout the county C.F.E. and private buses have been specially chartered for the occasion.

Team reception

Malahide will be the mecca of all Waterford men in the evening of the final. The Waterford Men's Association have completed all arrangements to entertain players, officials and supporters—the latter for the nominal contribution of one guinea—at the Grand Hotel.

The selectors sit in Council to-night and the county at large, it goes without saying, impatiently await the result of their deliberations. But that's another day's work.

A Kilkenny View

"The Kilkenny Journal" of last week and this to say about the game that has hit Ireland agoes: "Kilkenny cannot afford to take Waterford for granted... It is unlikely that changes will be made in the Kilkenny team. Indeed, everyone will voice the view that it is better to leave well enough alone... The injury to Sean Clohessy's knee is not making the progress one would like, but special treatment should see him fit for the final. Mick Brophy was also nursing an injury and did not field last Sunday..."

Kilkenny, incidentally, commenced serious collective training on last Monday evening.

The Referee

The referee for the final will be the 27-year old Stephen Gleeson of Limerick. Commercial traveller Stephen made his debut in the big game on the occasion of our Munster final triumph over Cork. A happy man? He is son of the famed Willie Gleeson.

Western Board Meet

The Western Board meets at Cappoquin to-night (Friday). Big item on the agenda is the hearing of Ballinamult's objection to Tallow Junior hurlers. Championship dates and venues will also be arranged.

Kilkenny team

Kilkenny hurling mentors passed a vote of confidence in the conquerors of champions Wexford when they met during the week. The team for the final is: O. Walsh, T. Walsh, J. Walsh, J. Maher, P. Buggy, M. Walsh, J. McGovern, M. Brophy and J. Sutton; D. Heaslip, M. Kenny, M. Kelly; D. Rockett, W. Dwyer, S. Clohessy.

BEST WISHES

CO. WATERFORD SOCIAL CLUB, LONDON

Friday, August 16th was a date to be remembered by Co. Waterford people residing in London. The occasion was the social and dance held by the Co. Waterford Social Club at the Crickwood Hotel, Crickwood, N.W.2, to the strains of Sean Kenny's Band. The dancers revelled in the music supplied.

The highlight of the evening was the arrival of Aid. T. A. Kyme, T.D., Waterford, who was introduced to all present by the Chairman, Mr. N. Noonan.

Aid Kyme stated in a brief address that he was delighted to be present among his kith and kin from the Deies. He paid tribute to the splendid work done by the County Waterford Social Club, particularly in the field of social welfare. He concluded by stating he wished them well in all their efforts in this respect.

Aid Kyme was accompanied by Councillor George Aldridge, of Chislewick, who has numerous connections with Co. Waterford.

Among those present we saw Peter Crotty of Dungarvan; Frank Rice, Lismore; Tom Griffin, Clashmore; Harry Coward of Dungarvan.

The Chairman, on behalf of all present sent best wishes to Waterford hurlers for the All-Ireland hurling final.

Must Meet Again

Champions Ring, bidding for their fourth minor football title on the trot, almost came a cropper in the face of a determined Stradbally challenge at the Fraher Field on Tuesday evening.

Close, dour and exciting passages alternately characterised an hour of swaying fortunes and at the end the issue was still in the melting pot. The football, though never great, was always keen and the general trend of the exchanges was in keeping with the final result.

The Gaelic side, which was powered by a galaxy of the inter-county men, has not encountered such an exacting hour in the division since they commenced their winning sequence back in 1954.

Stradbally, though inclined to over-use the ball on occasions, played some sparkling football. They matched the champions in every phase of the game and deservedly earned the right to fight another day.

The replay, which is billed for Sunday next, will again take place at the Fraher Field.

Hurling Challenge

Recollections of the epic fare that characterised their championship clash a year ago will, it goes without saying, attract many an outside hurling devotee to the challenge test of strength between Geraldines and St. Garvan's which is scheduled for the Fraher Field on Sunday evening (7.30).

The fact that this will in all probability be the final outing of both sides before they face their respective championship engagements considerably enhances the prospects of an exhibition of real competitive character.

Geraldines, with an eye on the forthcoming clash with Cappoquin, welcome the game as an opportunity to resolve a couple of outstanding team problems, while the Gars are no less anxious to determine their current standing in the championship race.

In all the circumstances it can be taken that both sides will field at near championship strength. The signs are that an interesting and instructive encounter will result.
