WATERFORD HAILS THE HEROES Gallant Hurlers Triumphant Home-Coming

"We have not merited such a reception. We take it, not as a welcome to a defeated team, but as an encouragement to us to strive even harder in the months ahead to bring about the realisation of the efforts to return the McCarthy Cup to Waterford," said Chairman Pat Fanning when the Mayor, Mr. Denis Fitzpatrick, accorded the county hurlers a civic reception on their arrival home on Monday night.

And what a home-coming it was. Bonfire, sash and the martial airs of the St. Patrick's Brass and Reed and the Erin's Hope File and Drum Bands rent the sky as the heroes entered the city boundary on the Kilkenny side of the river. Had they borne the McCarthy Cup the welcome could not have been better.

"The reception was worthy of champions," said Chairman Fanning. And that it certainly was. True enough the McCarthy Cup was conspicuous only by its absence, but to the cheering thousands who hailed the home-coming heroes the absence of the Blue Riband did not make any appreciable difference.

This was Waterford's hour. Beaten they might have been, but their's was a glorious failure and to every man jack who lined the route from the borough boundary to the City Hall it was the victory of Waterford as much as the efforts of Kilkenny that denied the wearers of the white and blue a resounding victory.

Despite a heavy drizzle the crowds began to congregate half an hour before the scheduled time of arrival. The main congregation centred along the Bridge and around the North Station.

Shortly before the team arrived a Ford car flying a black and amber flag same sweeping over the Bridge. The vehicle had not sooner reached the Waterford side of the river when a group of twelve supporters carrying a flag with the letters "W.F." on it and to the cheers of the onlookers they tore down the flag and threw it into the river.

As the crowds lined the Quay and took up positions in front of the City Hall, a full quota of Cardinal's men were busy controlling and directing the traffic.

At the various corners, which had been prepared in anticipation of victory, were set the various flags. The arrival was signalled with thunderous cheering. The members of the team and officials then mounted an open bus driven by Mr. J. R. O'Connell, which was followed by a large cortege of representatives of every section of the community, were removed to Ballinacorney on Sunday evening and returned following the celebration of Requiem Mass, took place in the adjoining cemetery on Monday in the presence of a most large gathering of mourners and friends.

Healed by the two city buses the lorry slowly made its way through the cheering throngs of thousands who lined the route, till the procession reached a resounding climax at the City Hall. Here the heroes dismounted and managed to negotiate a passage to the hall's side-chambers. All the while the cheering raged on a crescendo.

Up in the Committee Room of the City Hall the gallant hurlers were given a civic reception. Outside the deafening roar continued and every now and again a group lustily sang out Waterford and this was again followed by a rousing cheer. Then they burst into song. Philosophically they chanted "Pick up your troubles in your old kit bag and smile, smile, smile." And smile they did when a group with a sense of humour broke into "Oh, oh, what a referee."

Subsequently, the members of the team and John Keane were presented at the window of the Committee Room by the Mayor. Afterwards many retired to the Cell Mor in the Olympic Ballroom. Among the large attendance were members of the team and Board officials.

The Mayor, Mr. D. Fitzpatrick, stated that the Waterford team had conducted themselves like sportsmen and gentlemen. It would not be fair to mention any particular member of the team. Waterford had not for individual glory. He wished to pay tribute, however, to the captain, Phil Grimes, who, by the manner in which he kept the team together proved himself worthy of leading the side.

rick, stated that the Waterford team had conducted themselves like sportsmen and gentlemen. It would not be fair to mention any particular member of the team. Waterford had not for individual glory. He wished to pay tribute, however, to the captain, Phil Grimes, who, by the manner in which he kept the team together proved himself worthy of leading the side.

PRaise for Trainer

Tributes were also paid by the Mayor to trainer John Keane, whom he said, was loved, honored and respected by all in Waterford, both inside and outside the ranks of the G.A.A. Pat Fanning, chairman of the Waterford County Board, who had put Waterford in the All-Ireland final.

It was a pity, he said, they did not get more important games in Waterford. He felt that if they did they would fare even better. He offered congratulations to the Kilkenny team who were worthy winners and had come from behind in the last five minutes. There was no feeling of bitterness between them and their neighbours.

GLORIOUS IN DEFEAT

Very Rev. T. B. Canon Walsh, P.P., St. Mary's, Clonmel, representing the Bishop of Waterford, Most Rev. Dr. Daniel Cohanlan, said: "You have covered yourself with glory. Great was the victory of Kilkenny but glorious was the untimely defeat of Waterford."

He added that the Kilkenny was not only interested in the spiritual requirement of his diocese but in the temporal interests of his flock. He was interested in any movements which were helpful to the economic and industrial life of the diocese and arising out of that in everything that helped the youth of the County.

Having referred to the magnificent part played by the bishop Croke in the formation of the G.A.A., Canon Walsh referred to the fact that the clergy of this country had always been closely associated with the G.A.A.

The team, he said, had shown great skill and ability. They had given a magnificent illustration of most excellent sportsmanship and were a credit to Waterford and Ireland. Both sides were to be congratulated on the way they played the ball and not the man. It was a clean wholesome match and every man on the team played his part very well to win the admiration of the best critics of football in Ireland.

MAJESTIC MASTERS

Having a tribute to Waterford's trainer, John Keane, Canon Walsh said he was the only man to master Mick Maoney.

"We have here," he said, "the makings of another All-Ireland team, of another and another. The cup was taken from their lips by one flick of the wrist. Yet, the team is, in the opinion of many, a better side than Kilkenny."

Concluding, he said that the G.A.A. was an association blessed by the Bishops. The ball of the final on August 24th played in by a Bishop, and Faith of Our Fathers was sung. The playing fields that brought victory to Ireland were those of the G.A.A. All hoped that they would attain the legitimate aspirations of the people of Ireland and that the Green and Gold would fly from Antrim to Cork, from Donegal to Wexford.

WHERE THE HEART IS

Mr. Pat Fanning, chairman of the Waterford County Board, thanked the Mayor and people of Waterford for their magnificent reception. This grand spontaneous gesture showed them where the heart of Waterford lay, he said.

"We have not merited such a reception. We take it, not as a welcome to a defeated team but as an encouragement to us to strive even harder in the months ahead to bring about the realisation of the efforts to return the McCarthy Cup to Waterford."

They still held, he said, that there was no particular virtue in defeat. They were proud of their loss for the manner in which they had approached their task. Waterford had a hurling tradition of effort in the face of great odds.

The Waterford team, Mr. Fanning said, were disappointed. They might have won by six points but had lost by one.

Mr. T. Lynch, T.D., congratulated the team and said Waterford was proud of them. When he was Mayor in 1948, he had the good luck to welcome home the successful Waterford All-Ireland team. On that occasion he had told them that hurling tradition had been laid in Waterford in the last twenty years.

Mr. T. Gallagher said that at Croke Park on Sunday he felt proud he was a Waterford man. The men from the Decies, he said, were beaten by a fluke point. If the game were played over again he had not the slightest doubt that Waterford would win. The better team had lost.

Mr. T. A. K. K. T.D., congratulated the team and officials on behalf of the Corporation and on behalf of the Dungarvan Urban Council of which he was chairman. Mr. Fanning had said there was no merit in defeat. He did not agree. Professionals were paid on results, but the G.A.A. was an amateur association and the proper spirit in playing the game was the important factor, not the winning or losing. Kilkenny were a great team, he said, otherwise they could not have beaten Waterford. He felt confident that Waterford would be involved in next year's All-Ireland final.

Mr. P. Kenneally, treasurer of the Waterford Co. Board, said that never before had such a united force gone out from the Decies. They had had a great driving force behind them to bring honour to their county. When the first pang of disappointment had passed, the players decided that next year they would make amends.

Other speakers were: Ald. F. J. Jones, Mr. M. C. Cullen and Col. S. Furlong.

The attendance included the City Mayor (Mr. Liam Raferty), Rev. R. Keane (Bishop's Secretary), Rev. T. Fitzgerald (St. John's College), Rev. Bro. Collins (former Superior Mount Sion C.B.S.), Rev. Bro. Keane, Ald. W. Kenneally, T.D.; Col. P. O'Connell, Col. John Griffin, Mr. V. J. White (chairman, Waterford Old I.R.A.), Col. W. Carroll, and Mr. Declan Goode (secretary, Waterford County Board).

Late Mr. Laurence 'Sonny' Cliffe

Burgery, Dungarvan.
The sincerest sympathy of the whole populace went out to Mrs. Cliffe when news of the death of her husband, Sonny, was received in Dungarvan on Saturday night last.

The deceased, who died in the Bon Secours Hospital, Cork, following an operation, was a most popular young man, not only with his colleagues in the Dungarvan Co-operative Societies to which he was attached for years, but also with every one he came in contact with. The funeral, followed by a large cortege of representatives of every section of the community, were removed to Ballinacorney on Sunday evening and returned following the celebration of Requiem Mass, took place in the adjoining cemetery on Monday in the presence of a most large gathering of mourners and friends.

Centenary Lourdes

A Special Christmas Card
A few weeks after the close of the coming Christmas season - on February 11, 1958 - the celebration of the Centenary of the coming of Our Blessed Lady to Lourdes will commence all over the world. To mark this great event a special Christmas card has been issued by Brian O'Higgins in his Sixtieth series. It is printed in six beautifully blended colours. On the front there is a picture of the first Apparition with St. Bernadette kneeling in awe before the radiant Heavenly Visitor. Inside there is a verse greeting by Brian O'Higgins, illustrated by a picture of St. Bernadette. At foot of the card from right to left is shown a line of upraised hands holding lighted candles representing the processions of one hundred years to the Grotto of Grace; and on the back, in a border of Irish tracery, is given a brief account of the Apparitions. All who have been to Lourdes, all who hope to go there in 1958, all who love the very name of it because of its association with God's Holy Mother, will want to keep this card as a souvenir of the Centenary, will want to send copies to friends far away from Ireland. This special Lourdes Christmas Card can be had all in English or all in Irish. There are scores of other Brian O'Higgins new designs on sale at One Penny to Sixpence each. If for any reason they cannot be got in local shops, a free descriptive List will be sent by post on application to Brian O'Higgins, 56 Parnell Square, Dublin.

The Inside Story

An Epic

The All-Ireland Final of 1957 is now a memory. But what a memory it is... Waterford lost to a never-say-die Kilkenny fifteen in a game that is seen only once in a lifetime. And they lost by the minimum margin the crown of glory that is rightfully theirs.

I'm not going to hold an inquest now. It has been done over and over again throughout the country. Waterford lost and that is the final and most heartbreaking outcome of an epic.

How it happened is history. It should never have happened. Read back on the column I wrote last week. I made it very clear that the last 10 minutes would tell the tale.

This was how I put it—"It should be a lively, exciting hour's hurling. I have every hope of a Waterford victory even though it may be a close one. Either that or we will see a clear-cut decision apparent from the last ten minutes. But it is here the real danger will be found. It may be hard on Kilkenny to match Waterford's speed for the full hour, but they will do so at least for a quarter in the first half and the same in the second. To hold them off will be the real test and those last ten minutes will be valuable."

How valuable they proved to Kilkenny remains a fact that will long sadden the heart of every Waterford follower. The opening fifteen minutes showed Waterford groping in the dark. When they settled down they showed the style that brought them to Croke Park but even then it was obvious all was not well among our line out. However, we were a point ahead and I really felt that having achieved so much we were now on the road to a glorious victory.

HAD WE WON—WHAT THEN?

The second half saw our boys battling through in a blaze of excitement that thrilled the hearts of those 70,594 spectators. But we missed Mick Lacey and we missed the spirit that made the Munster final the memorable game it was.

Johnny O'Connor tried but failed. Now he is being criticised and blamed for a good deal of the failure. The question is—Are the critics wronging him? My opinion is, he was hoping against hope and it is difficult, and very difficult, to know exactly how he felt in that trying hour. I keep on wondering what the critics would have said had Waterford won.

Dick Roche fell well below form. He failed his team in its most desperate moments, but he failed in a gallant attempt. Dick found the occasion too much for him and I was really sorry for the plight he was in. What happened could have happened the best and when all is said and done, he is young and without the experience and the craft of his opponent at the other end, Ollie Walsh, one of the greatest goalies Ireland has ever known. Most of us were quick to recall the couple of bad misses our goalie made but all too few recall the many outstanding saves to his credit.

Who can ever forget the brilliance of Duck Whelan... the man so many had taken for granted. Certainly he stumbled about in the first half but he was not the only one. However, he more than made up for it and to his honour was there to fill the gap when needed. Donal Whelan of Abbeyside may well feel heartbroken at the outcome of this final. No player earned a champion's medal as much as he did on Croke Park.

"JOHN KIELY TRULY GREAT"

I am not altogether correct in saying that I should make it clear that John Kiely was a distinction that is gained only by the great. And John Kiely was truly great. I saw him take punishment as only a great sportsman could. I saw him play as only he could and it was not his fault under any circumstances that Waterford failed to bring it off. The won the right to that medal and it was a tragedy that a referee's "intimely blast" should deprive him of it.

What a sore point it turned out to be. Kilkenny levelled off, having battled a terrific last seven or eight minutes. With time ticking away, they pulled out in the lead by one point and then came our chance at that free by Phil Cocks. But it fell short and Ollie Walsh cleared.

Looking after all boat racing events will be the chairman, Joe Organ, his brother, Pats and Michael O'Brien... three was part of it. Yes, a number of us saw the ball among the black and amber caps and though we waited, it never came back on the field of play. I saw Austin Flynn anxiously calling for it and others too out there on the field. But it was a fresh ball that soared towards the Kilkenny goalmouth. And without allowing for lost time, the referee blew final time, with Waterford well on the way to levelling off.

WE RESTED ON OUR OARS

We were dazed. We were dumbfounded. We left the field silent and heartbroken. We had won the game yet we had lost it and now we were at a loss to understand it all. It had been a hectic hour. It had been a game we prayed to finish. It was exciting all the way but it was painful. It was also breathtaking and exhilarating. It was the kind of a game that defies description. The best one could say is it was a game few can forget. It was no classic in the sense of the word but it will always remain a classic example of what happens when you rest on your oars. And we have to face it, that is just what happened at Croke Park last Sunday. Too many of our players depended too much on their colleagues to hold off the might of a desperate Kilkenny drive in those last ten minutes. Had every player of our fifteen played his part, the All-Ireland crown would be ours today, not by a margin of a point but by six points. Yes, there is no good in denying it. We rested on our oars too soon... and Kilkenny have reaped the benefits.

They earned their victory though and they are to be admired. They never gave up and availed of every chance that came their way. While we lost, I would not have missed that final for a fortune. It is a game that will be recalled in glory when the generations that witnessed it have passed on to a land eternal.

A DISGRACEFUL SERVICE

It seems to me that some of us spoke too soon when we praised C.I.E. for the excellent service they provided in transporting followers from Waterford to the semi-final between Waterford and Galway at Croke Park.

The service we were handed out last Sunday deserves anything but praise. I think it was absolutely disgraceful. The best part of a thousand people bought tickets at Dungarvan station, as did many more further up the line. Where the Dungarvan train was concerned, there was not sufficient accommodation.

Worse still, many of the carriages were only fit to be smashed into kindling. They were pre-historic. I am sorry I suggested to readers of this column to support C.I.E. transport. They do not deserve support. They adopt methods that are nothing but shoddy. As an attraction they offer "all that glitters" but when you buy you find that "all is not gold."

What a mad rush we experienced at Kingsbridge that night in our efforts to get aboard the skeleton carriages resurrected from the graveyards of C.I.E. All I can say now is NEVER AGAIN AND I REALLY MEAN NEVER AGAIN.

ABBEYSIDE'S BIG DAY

Big event of the weekend will be the Abbeyside Regatta and Annual Sports. Timed to commence at 2 p.m. sharp with a fancy dress parade, we should enjoy a really lively programme.

The parade will include the Abbeyside Boy Scouts Pipe Band and Dungarvan Brass and Reed Band and will move off at 2 o'clock. I understand that a very big number of contestants will be on parade and already there is more than mild excitement in preparation for this annual display of traditional finery.

Chairman Joe Organ told me yesterday that everything is in order for the sports programme. Several important improvements have been made including the re-arrangement of the outdoor motor boat race and all boat races. They will start outside Moloney's Stores out in the quay and will end at a point just outside Mr. McCarthy's house at Strandside. This means that spectators will have a wonderful view of the races. And what excitement there should be in these events.

Jack Bulfin, John Hayes and Nicholas Kelly will be giving their full attention to the fancy dress parade. The entrants will be judged by Col. Denis Fitzpatrick, Mayor of Waterford, who will be officially visiting this side of the county for the first time. He will receive a hearty welcome indeed for he has long since been one of our best known sportsmen and was, in his day, as fine a boxer as one could wish to see.

The parade will form up at Strandside below Jim Nolan's place and head up Sexton Street, out the New Line, down Murphy Place and over to the Pond where the stage will be rigged up on the school side this year. There will be plenty of Irish step-dancing, which will be organised by Richie Walsh.

Looking after all boat racing events will be the chairman, Joe Organ, his brother, Pats and Michael O'Brien... three

Kilmaethomas, Kilrossanty and Stradbally Notes

Following a few week's holidaying in her native Kilmaethomas, Miss Margaret (Maggie) O'Mahony returned last week-end to the U.S.A. Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edmond O'Mahony, Old Road, Kilmaethomas, Miss O'Mahony's visit marked her first homecoming since she emigrated in 1919, and her many old Mahonside friends and well-wishers were ever so glad to renew happy acquaintances with her and to find her in radiant health and spirits. She brought back with her to the land of her adoption not a few pleasant memories of her sojourn at this side.

A Great Wave of sincere sympathy goes out to amiable Mrs. P. Tobin, Coolbrid, Kilmaethomas in her heavy tribulation occasioned by the death, last week (as a result of an accident), of her brother, Mr. John Cleary, a native of Stradbally, who was domiciled in Plymouth, a lovable character, his tragic demise in his manhood's prime is deeply regretted by all who knew him on both sides of the Channel (Peace to his soul).

Sympathy, in full measure, is extended to highly respected Mr. Thomas King, Manager, National Bank, Kilmaethomas, on the death last week-end, of his brother, Mr. Martin (Sonnie) King, Ardara, Drumcree, Co. Galway. The sad event occurred at the Regional Hospital, Galway, after a comparatively short illness and at a moderately advanced age, and is deeply regretted by his surviving wife, family, brothers and sisters.

Prayed For at both Masses in St. Anne's Church, Ballylaheen, on Sunday last, was Mrs. Bridget Behan (nee Power), who died recently in America and who was a native of Ballinard, Bonmahon.

"Una Is Going Back Again"—Under this caption the latest number of "The Sunday Press" stated: "Just back from a pilgrimage to Lourdes, 24-year-old nurse Una Kent is already planning another pilgrimage next year to leave at Our Lady's grotto a little gift—a box of drugs."

"They are drugs which she had to receive every day before her pilgrimage, Una had T.B. peritonitis and after seven operations had proved unsuccessful, doctors gave up hope."

"It was not expected that she would survive the journey and arrangements were made to have her buried at Lourdes, in accordance with her own wish."

"Una was unconscious when she was taken to the Grotto. She was assigned to die and had not prayed to be cured. During the blessing of the sick ceremony she felt better."

"She discarded her stretcher and walked off the plane when it arrived back in Dublin, as was announced exclusively in 'The Sunday Press' and after seven operations had proved unsuccessful, doctors gave up hope."

"Una, a native of Kilmaethomas, Co. Waterford, is now staying with friends in Dublin."

N.T.'s who recently retired from the service included Mellow (Co. Cork) born Mrs. M. Coffey (nee Walsh) and Abbeyside (Dungarvan) born Mr. Thomas Cocks, the principal teachers for a considerable number of years of Ballinard (Bonmahon) N.S. and Ballylaheen N.S., respectively. Both taught with conspicuous success and they took an individual interest in all their pupils. Mrs. Coffey is domiciled in Bonmahon and Mr. Cocks in Stradbally. Always the kindly teachers whom the people held in the highest regard, they retain the affection and respect of all whom they taught, a striking tribute to both. May they have great length of years of happiness in retirement.

Incidentally, the two National schools named as the preceding paragraph have been dispensed with and are replaced by St. Anne's N.S., Seafield, a recently-built modern structure sited about midway between the two. There was a large number of parents and children present at the opening and blessing of the new school on Monday morning of the current week when Holy Mass was said in the building by the Rev. M. J. Russell, C.C., Ballylaheen. Afterwards the Principal, Mr. Sean Prendergast, N.T., and C.B.S., Dungarvan, gave a shiller. So we expect to see a large crowd present on Sunday, if the first pupils of the school and graded the various age groups in appropriate classes.

Shamrocks meet Lismore on Sunday in the replay of the semi-final of the Leinster group. The replay day morning of the current week has aroused considerable interest in the locality. Shamrocks have had the building by the Rev. M. J. Russell, put in some careful training for the encounter and a good game is anticipated. The drawn game was a shiller. So we expect to see a large crowd present on Sunday, if the first pupils of the school and graded the various age groups in appropriate classes.

men who see to things in proper style. For the outboard motor boats there will be three lots of the course, for the sailing boats there will be two, and for the rowing boats, one only.

The grassy pole, duck race and various other events such as the Tilt the Bucket and Throwing the Sheaf, should provide plenty of entertainment indeed.

As I've stated, a very good programme has been prepared and granted fine weather, Sunday next should really be a day to remember in Abbeyside. If you can manage it, take my advice and be there. You will get a good day's fun out of it.

SPACE PROBLEMS

Owing to matters outside our control, we have to cut down on space this week. A big number of items of news, views and interviews had to be held over. However, they will appear later.

TALLOW NOTES

DEATH OF MR. MICHAEL MCCARTHY

We regret to record the death of Mr. Michael McCarthy, Chapel St., Tallow, which sad event occurred at Lonsdale Hospital on Tuesday, August 27th. Member of a very old and highly respected Tallow family, he was son of the late Andrew McCarthy, a well-known building contractor. A mason by trade, the late Mr. McCarthy was known over a wide part of Munster, where he worked on various building schemes. He was deservedly popular and his death is deeply and deservedly regretted. To his bereaved widow, brothers and other relatives we tender our deepest sympathy. May his soul rest in peace. The remains were removed to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Tallow, and the interment took place in the adjoining cemetery in the presence of a very large and representative gathering of sympathisers. Very Rev. Canon W. Flynn, P.P., officiated. Chief mourners were Mrs. B. McCarthy, widow; Messrs. T. McCarthy, Cork; Andrew McCarthy, London; I. McCarthy, Convent St., Tallow (brothers); Mrs. Crowley and Nurse McCarthy, Athlone; Conna (sisters), John, Christopher, Andrew, Jer O'Connell, Cork; Andrew Gowley, Andrew, Michael, Andrew, Edward and Thomas McCarthy, Tallow; Mrs. Sowley, St. Luke's, Cork; Kathleen, Bridget and Margaret McCarthy, London; Beatrice McCarthy, Tallow (nieces); Mr. C. O'Connell, Cork; Fr. Aquinas, O.P., Australia; Mrs. I. McCarthy, Tallow; Mrs. A. McCarthy, London; Miss N. Smith, Sapperton, Tallow; Mrs. Dunlea, Convent of the Sacred Heart, Convent St., Tallow; Pat and Timothy Kelleher, Convent St.; Serg. Kelleher, G.S., Dungarvan; Serg. Tully, G.S. Rev. Fr. Malachy, O.O.C., Dublin; Misses Tully, Tallow; the Meaney family, Carrick-on-Suir; Mr. Bob Smith, Mullora Park, Youghal; Mrs. Ronayne and family, The Square, Tallow; Mrs. Cottrell, Chapel St.; Mrs. M. I. O'Brien, The Garage, Tallow; Mrs. Mary and M. O'Connell, Clashmore, Mr. W. O'Sullivan, Kiltwatermore; Misses, P. and O. O'Sullivan do. Mrs. E. Malone and Mr. T. Malone, Ballinaha, Tallow; Mrs. C. O'Brien, Sapperton, Tallow (cousins and relatives).

FORTY YEARS A PRIEST

Tributes to the Rev. Fr. John Holohan after forty years service as a Catholic priest were paid by a large number of parishioners of Sacred Heart Church, Waterville, U.S.A. Fr. Holohan's mother was a native of Tallow. Among the presents presented to him on the occasion was a purse of money for a trip to Ireland. Fr. Holohan received his early education at Mount Mellary and was ordained to the priesthood by Most Rev. Dr. Louis Walsh, Bishop of Portland, on June 21st, 1917. He will make the trip to Ireland later this year.

TALLOW FAIR

Tallow monthly cattle, sheep and pig fair, held on Friday, August 30th, was well stocked and cattle were in keen demand at improved prices; sheep also sold well. Details—1½ to 2-year-old cattle made from £30 to £45; 2 to 3 years £45 to £65, according to quality; sheep £6-10 to £9. There was a good attendance of buyers.

ALL-IRELAND FINAL

A good number from Tallow and district travelled to Dublin on Sunday last for the All-Ireland Hurling Final. They were sorely disappointed at the narrow defeat of Waterford. The general opinion was that they should have won.

WON PRIZES ON BEST COTTAGE GARDEN

We wish to congratulate the following on winning prizes for the best cottage gardens—Class 1: James O'Sullivan, Ballyfad Upper, and W. O'Keeffe, Ballygally, Glenacra, Class 2: James Flynn, Stranally, Knocknass, and Matt Tobin, N.S., Seafield, Knocknass, Tallow.

SHAMROCKS MEET LISMORE ON SUNDAY

Shamrocks meet Lismore on Sunday in the replay of the semi-final of the Leinster group. The replay day morning of the current week has aroused considerable interest in the locality. Shamrocks have had the building by the Rev. M. J. Russell, put in some careful training for the encounter and a good game is anticipated. The drawn game was a shiller. So we expect to see a large crowd present on Sunday, if the first pupils of the school and graded the various age groups in appropriate classes.

Hurlers lost no standing in gallant defeat

THE Record Book will disclose that defeat was the portion of Waterford's gallant hurling men when referee Gleeson ended the 1957 All-Ireland final. And literally speaking so it was. But, though a single puck of the ball denied them the victory—and the cherished Celtic crosses—they well deserved on the run of play, these hurlers of ours left Croke Park on Sunday last as real champions in the eyes of the 70,000 odd who were privileged to witness a decider that posterity must accord an honoured place among the all-time greats of our incomparable iomanocht.

This was a glorious performance by the vanquished Deise heroes. They matched victorious Kilkenny in every phase of the game; they ruled the roost for long periods, and their every effort over the heart-racking hour rounded to the county's eminent hurling name. Well may we recall Waterford's contribution to the epic with swelling chest.

Leaving the scene of combat I overheard a jubilant Kilkenny man to assert that it was a dream final. And that it was; not, perhaps, from the point of classical stickwork, but certainly in the fluctuating trend of the exchanges and the immense demands it made on the durability and inner fortitude of victors and vanquished alike.

From first to last it was a full-blooded struggle, hall-marked by bouts of sheer brilliance and adorned by all the outstanding characteristics that have stamped the purely Celtic code as the greatest ball game in the land of the living.

This was hurling above par, an exacting test of the refinements of the complete caman welder, and the gallant men of Waterford and Kilkenny—the inheritors of a rivalry that dates back to the dawn of the Association—emerged from the mill with reputations enhanced.

The traditional rivalry which has been a feature of every meeting between the counties down the years, inspired almost every man on view to produce a maximum effort. The hurling, too, was as tough as it was unrelenting, but it was all characterised by an exemplary model of right good sportsmanship. In short, this was an exhibition worthy of the great occasion.

The pity was that in a struggle of the character there had to be a losing side. But if the Deise bid for hurling renown fell short of the target, they too were accorded much distinction in the post-mortems which raged with the gusto one expects when so little divides the contestants. Again I say this was a glorious failure.

Waterford, of course, should have won. Their hurling bore the unmistakable stamp of authority and the wearers of the white and blue it was who left the greatest individual imprint on the hour. Hence the universally-held conviction that we should have prevailed by at least five or six points. This was a game Waterford would win nine times out of ten.

Although the Waterford defence conceded 4-10 during the course of the hour, it is to the regard of Tom Cunningham, Austin Flynn and John Barron I turn to establish an order of merit. The Dungarvan man mastered Cleohesy with surprising ease; Austin Flynn again looked the complete full-back, and John Barron shattered the reputation of his immediate opponent, the hard-hitting Dick Rockett.

Indeed the fair-haired De La Salle stalwart was my man of the match. Simply magnificent in everything he set out to accomplish. I will long cherish the non-chalant assurance with which he emerged to clear upfield when the winners were on the rampage in the early stages.

Mick O'Connor and Martin Og Morrissey hurled consistency well in the half-line of defence, and captain Philly Grimes, though left to fight a lone struggle for a long time, battled with great heart at midfield.

In the opening half Seamus Power seemed "lost" at left half-back, but the great-hearted Mount Sion turned in a thundering performance from the time of his arrival at midfield. It was no fault of his that victory escaped us.

Tom Cheasty put in his usual hard hour's work at centre-forward, but it was veteran Johnny Kiely and Donal Whelan who carried the main threat in the Waterford attack.

The St. Gerard's man, surely the greatest servant Waterford hurling has had for years, turned in a vintage performance at full-forward. He drew out Walsh, he flicked over a couple of typical points, he forged a great understanding with Whelan and he combined with the corner-forward in giving the great Ollie Walsh as anxious an hour as he is ever likely to encounter. What a pity men like Kiely have not the gift of perpetual youth; what a travesty it will be should he fall to win an All-Ireland medal on the field of combat.

Donal Whelan, to the left of the Gars man, hurled the game of his career. Superbly fit, the dashing Whelan was Waterford's most prolific score-getter. He pulled fast, outmanoeuvred Tom Walsh time and again, and displayed an uncanny understanding of Kiely's intentions. Come to think of it, this was just about the finest exhibition of corner-forward play I have seen this year.

Between the posts Dickie Roche was obviously unsettled and had a far from happy hour, though it was not for the want of effort that he failed to keep his net intact. Mick Flannelly, Larry Guinan and Frankie Walsh battled manfully without achieving anything of exceptional note, but a very subdued Johnny O'Connor just wasn't in it at any stage.

Waterford broke from the throw-in and a very sprightly John Kiely set the pattern with a sailing point in the opening minute. The winners first foray upfield, instigated by Brophy, was beaten off by centre-half Martin Og. Again Waterford surged into the attack and again the white flag was raised when the inimitable Grimes had the first of his half dozen points, from a placed ball.

Seconds later a shot from Donal Whelan had Ollie Walsh beaten all ends up, but the leather rebounded off an upright. Maher cleared upfield and following a needless foul Kenny had Kilkenny's opening point from the resulting free.

John Barron foiled a grand effort by Denis Heaslip and almost immediately Rockett was again off the mark. At this stage a rampant Brophy and Sutton were in complete control of midfield, but the Kilkenny forwards found it tough going against a hard-hitting Deise rearguard.

Then Kenny fired in a low shot from far out and Rockett was on the spot to finish the leather to the net—about his lone contribution to the victory effort. Heaslip added a point and the unerring Kenny made it 1-4 to 0-1 at the end of the first quarter.

Phil Grimes pointed a Waterford 70; Cleohesy, who was scarcely in the picture up to then, negatived, and Johnny Kiely really signalled the Waterford recovery with a peach of a point in the 22nd minute. Two minutes later Grimes pointed a free. Then came Waterford's opening goal. Donal Whelan and John Kiely upset goalkeeper Walsh and Larry Guinan was on the spot to crash the leather to the net.

To the consternation of Waterford folk, referee Gleeson, after consultations with his umpires, disallowed the goal and awarded a free in. And captain Grimes duly obliged by blasting the ball past the bewildered Ollie Walsh. Almost immediately Cheasty passed to Donal Whelan who raced through for a great point and the lead.

At the interval Waterford led by 18 to 15.

Within three minutes of the resumption Kiely had placed Donal Whelan for a glorious goal. Grimes again tagged on a point, but Kilkenny, undaunted, struck back for a goal by Billy Dwyer that might have been prevented.

Mickey Kelly again reduced the arrears to danger level two minutes later, but Waterford's position was almost immediately strengthened by another great goal by Donal Whelan, the leather again travelling via Kiely who had received from Grimes. Frank Walsh and Mick Kenny exchanged points, the latter from a placed ball, and Whelan, hurling with tremendous vigour at this stage, and the irrespressible Cheasty again raised vivid favours. On the three-quarters stage Willie Walsh replaced the injured Sutton on the Kilkenny team.

Kilkenny's fight back commenced in the 17th minute when McGovern and Cleohesy combined to lay on a goal for full-forward Dwyer.

Grimes answered with a Waterford point and the Deise captain and Kenny again exchanged minors in the 20th and 22nd minutes. The centre-forward was back on the mark a minute later when Kelly and Cleohesy worked up field to place him for the crucial goal, which was shot home from almost forty yards out.

Cleohesy it was who put the cat among the pigeons with a golden point in the 25th minute. The closing stages were charged with drama. The ball travelled from end to end. Spectators were beside themselves with anxiety, but Kilkenny it was who claimed the last score—a point per Mickey Kelly which Dickie Roche got his stick to but could not stop.

Waterford hurled their way upfield with tremendous heart. Walsh picked a Grimes free out of a forest of hurleys; McGovern cleared downfield, Kenny shot wide and a spectator, for reasons best known to himself, held on to the ball and in the process, may be subconsciously, provoked controversy that posterity will record in the same breath as Waterford's gallant failure. The long whistle followed the puck out after fully a delay of one minute.

Kilkenny—O. Walsh; T. Walsh, J. Walsh, J. Maher, P. Buggy, M. Walsh, J. McGovern, M. Brophy, J. Sutton, D. Heaslip, M. Kenny, M. Kelly; R. Rockett, P. Dwyer, S. Cleohesy. Sub—W. Walsh for Sutton.

Waterford—R. Roche; T. Cunningham, A. Flynn, J. Barron, M. O'Connor, M. Og Morrissey, S. Power; J. O'Connor, P. Grimes, M. Flannelly, T. Cheasty, L. Guinan; F. Walsh, J. Kiely, D. Whelan.

Referee—S. Gleeson (Limerick).

Shamrocks v. Lismore
If the hurling fever which rages within the boundaries of the rival camps is a criterion, the Sportfield, Cappoquin, should house a bumper audience when Shamrocks and Lismore—the protagonists of a drawn thriller four weeks ago—again cross cannons in the area semi-final of the junior championship on Sunday afternoon.

Although the Dungarvan clash of Geraldines and Cappoquin will militate against the outside attendance, it almost goes without saying that every Shamrock and Lismore supporter worthy of the name will head for the Comerstone venue.

Last time out the dashing Shamrocks confounded friends and foes alike. Scarcely conceded a chance, they turned in a spirited performance after a near-disastrous opening and were only thwarted by a late point in a finish of swaying fortunes.

Shamrocks showing on that occasion was a revelation. Perhaps a trifle unfortunate not to have shaded the decision, they will in all probability be all the better for the experience. Heated, too, by their display in the indecisive encounter, the Moorhill men have prepared earnestly in the interim and the overall effectiveness of the team should benefit accordingly.

Lismore folk are also reputed to be in great heart currently. Although they almost came a cropper in the drawn encounter, Jim Crowley and his colleagues still have hopes of a county championship. Tradition and experience weigh heavily in their favour, while the tendency to hurl the ball irrespective of the circumstances enervates the prospects of an early revival in the fortunes of this once famous stronghold of the game.

Ordinarily, the greater consistency of Lismore would probably merit the vote, but I have a hunch that the Gears, Allen, Roberts, Murphy and McGrath—if they display but reasonable improvement on their form in the drawn encounter—will hurl their way to the group decider. And what a game that would be for their Hideside neighbours, Tallow, are already in the final.

It is unlikely, though, that they will have much to spare at the end. Indeed a Lismore victory is not at all unlikely.

A GERALDINES CAPPOQUIN THRILLER EXPECTED

WHEN one considers the trend Geraldines-Cappoquin rivalry has taken over the years it is easy to understand the wonderful interest their meeting in the second round of the senior hurling championship at the Fraher Field on Sunday afternoon has worked up among even followers far removed from the confines of the rival camps.

DEATH OF MR. PATRICK FITZGERALD, ARDMORE

We regret to record the death of Mr. Patrick Fitzgerald, Bawncomera Kinsalebeg. The deceased was a well known and highly respected member of the agricultural community and his passing has occasioned widespread sorrow. To his bereaved wife, family and other relatives much sympathy is extended in their loss.

SAFETY CERTIFICATES PRESENTED

On the occasion of a successful I.C.A. dance at Ardmore, Very Rev. W. Cahill, P.P., presented water safety certificates to a number of local young people. In the course of a brief address, Fr. Cahill complimented the recipients and stressed the importance of the work.

Mr. R. Gallagher, Secretary of the Irish Red Cross, Waterford, also spoke and expressed his appreciation of the work of the Ardmore Guild of the I.C.A. in sponsoring Water Safety Week there and impressed on the certificate holders the necessity of practising and renewing the exercise year after year in order to retain the skill and knowledge attained by them.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

The following letter has been addressed to the E.S.B. by Mr. C. Curran, M.C.C.—
I would be grateful for definite information from the E.S.B. as to when it is proposed to introduce the Rural Electrification Scheme to the Aglish-Cashmore area, and to point out that great dissatisfaction exists because of the fact that it claims of the area have, apparently, been entirely overlooked.

Failing a satisfactory reply, it is my intention to appeal direct to the Minister and to place certain facts before him.

I also wish to point out that it is the general opinion that the manner in which the official canvass was carried out left a lot to be desired and was, in fact, an example of gross inefficiency.

TOURANEENA NOTES

GRAND PERFORMANCE BY COOLNASMEAR DRAMATIC CLASS

The grand performance by members of the Coolnasmear I.C.A. in two well-known one-act plays played with great success at Coolnasmear on Sunday night, August 25th, attracted a capacity-packed hall, which is in itself ample testimony of the popularity of the Society whenever they appear before the footlights. Living up to their high reputation, their production easily eclipsed past performances and repeat performances are eagerly looked forward to at the various centres. The one-act play, "The Proposal," had the audience in jubilant mood, and Carmel Curran as Richard Doran was to the fore in characteristic form, while no less commendable was that very charming lady, Madge O'Brien, as Nellie. May Murray as Barney Bradley was outstanding and was given a magnificent reception. Miss Joan Beresford distinguished herself in the role of Mr. Doran, which she filled admirably. During the interval accordion selections from such talented players as Mrs. Power and Miss Stata Whelan was well worthy of the applause received. Vocal selections from such popular ladies as Kitty and Breda Power received much merited applause. Next there was a grand exhibition of step-dancing by that ever-popular Bridie Tobin, followed by her beautiful rendering of "The Star of Donegal," which won for her rounds of applause. The variety concert concluded with a two-hand reel, danced by Kitty and Breda Power, and a duet, "Molly Bawn and Brian Og" from Bridie Tobin and Breda Power.

The second part of the programme comprising the play "The Lough Water" was the highlight of the evening and those taking part gave a performance that exceeded the expectation of the producer, Mr. Brennan, N.T. to whom very special tribute is paid as it was mainly due to his untiring and unselfish work that the efforts of the Society were favoured with such a high degree of success. The cast were as follows—Mike Doran (Breda Power), Dr. Lyons (Madge O'Brien), Mr. Kelleher (Cath O'Brien), Mr. Gallagher (Mary Power), Strolling Moll (Joan Beresford), Mrs. Connors (Mrs. K. Whelan), Tom Connors (May Murray), Miss Carey (Peggy Power), and Mr. Carey (Stata Whelan). The task of M.C. was entrusted to the very popular C.C. Rev. Father Walsh. The programme concluded with the playing of the National Anthem.

CHAMPIONS ALL THE WAY

By their decisive win over Kilkenny in the final of the Cup and Medal Tournament played at Dungarvan, the Brickley Ladies have established the fact that they are champions beyond all doubt. During recent weeks they defeated Ballinacully in the County Final.

POPULAR REFEREE

The popularity of Waterford's inter-county hurler, Mr. Brennan, was the subject of a letter to the Editor of the Observer.

POPULAR COLLIGAN GENTLEMAN

Many expressions of sympathy have been tendered to that very popular Colligan gentleman, Mr. William Brown, on his recent bereavement occasioned by the death of his brother-in-law, Mr. W. O'Donnell.

IT'S ALL OVER

The All-Ireland final is now past history and the large numbers who made the journey from Ballinacully were, to say the least of it, disappointed when they saw the cup of victory being dashed as it were from the lips of a Waterford team that seemed all set for victory.

LATE MR. LAWRENCE CLIFFE, THE BURGERY, DUNGARVAN

The people of Touraneena and district were deeply grieved on Sunday last to hear of the passing in the prime of life of Mr. Lawrence Cliffe, the Burgery, Dungarvan, which event occurred at the Bon Secours Hospital, Cork, after a short illness. Born at Corrigun, Ballinacully, some 48 years ago, deceased was one of the most unassuming and kindest of gentlemen, who commanded the respect and esteem of all classes. A sincere, kind-hearted and sympathetic young man, his popularity lay in his straightforwardness and fairness in all matters where great or of a trivial nature. For many years he was an esteemed and valued employee of the Dungarvan Co-op. Creamery, a position he filled with the greatest ability and which merited for him the greatest confidence of employer and employee. To his bereaved relatives deepest sympathy is extended. The remains were removed to Ballinacully Church on Sunday evening amidst every manifestation of regret and sorrow.

THE LATE MRS. MARGARET HICKEY, LACKENDARRA

We deeply regret to record the death which took place at her residence, Lackendarra, Ballinacully, at an advanced age of Mrs. Margaret Hickey, member of one of the district's most esteemed families and a relic of the late Mr. Patrick Hickey. Deceased lady enjoyed popularity as a member of the agricultural community, where her kind and charitable disposition made for her many kind, appreciative and lasting friendships. One of the old stock of the district, her failing health in past years did not enable her to participate freely in her business, yet she took a deep interest in all matters, and her passing is deeply and deservedly regretted by her very intimate friends who always appreciated her for her real worth. The remains were removed to St. Mary's Church, Touraneena on Thursday evening last, and following Requiem Mass, interment took place in adjoining cemetery on Friday.
