DANCE LICENSE
Mr. Farrell, Solr., (Messrs. Farrell and Morrissey) was granted, on behalf of Patrick Crotty, Kibrien, a Dance License for Kibrien Hall on Sunday night, Sept. 15th.

EXTENSION OF HOURS
Mr. King, Solr., (Messrs. J. F. Williams & Son) was granted an extension of hours, on behalf of Mrs. Nora Monahan, Ocean View Hotel for the night of 23rd Sept. and on behalf of the Devonshire Arms Hotel on 19th September.

BEGGING
A sentence of 14 days in prison, suspended if the defendant remained out of Dungarvan for 6 months, was imposed on a woman named Bridget O'Neill, no fixed abode, when charged by Guard Begley.

LIGHTS ON VEHICLES
Guard Farrell v. John Maher, Ballinacoury, no light or reflector, 5/- Same v. Pk. Tobin, Ballyrande, do, 3/6.

COLLISION AT LEAMYBRIEN
A collision at the junction of the Leamybrien/Carrick-on-Suir road between a motor cycle, ridden by Thomas Ryan, Gortna-rough, Leamybrien, and a motor car, driven by a lady, which resulted in the car being seriously damaged and the lady injured, resulted in a fine of 10/- being imposed under Section 50 of the Road Traffic Act (careless driving). The defendant was charged by Superintendent Flanagan under Section 51 (dangerous driving) which he agreed to at the request of Mr. Farrell, Solr., for the defendant, to accept a plea of guilty under Section 50.

NEIGHBOURS DIFFER
Mrs. Mary McGuire, 13 Cathal Brugha Place, summoned Mrs. Mary Nagle, 14 Cathal Brugha Place, with unwelcome accus- ing and beating complainant's children on 22nd and 23rd August.

Mr. A. R. Farrell, Solr., for Mrs. McGuire.
Mr. M. J. Lavan, Solr., for Mrs. Nagle.
Mrs. McGuire having given evidence also her 9 year-old son and having been cross-examined by Mr. Lavan.
The Justice told Mr. Lavan that if his client will give an undertaking not to again inter- fere with complainant's children and pay £2-2-0 costs he would dismiss the case.
Mr. Lavan having given the undertaking on behalf of his client, the Justice adjourned the case for 2 months to allow the costs to be paid.

LICENSING CASES
Four local publicans were charged with breaches of the licensing law and fines of from £2 to 10/- were imposed on the publicans. A total of 45 persons summoned for being found on the premises were each fined 2/6.

POACHING OFF HELVICK

A Co. Cork owned fishing trawler, while on her way from Scotland to Schull, had a narrow escape from colliding with foreign trawlers off the Dungarvan coast.

The trawler, the Brightomy, owned by Mr. J. O'Driscoll of Sherkin Island, is fitted with a 95 h.p. diesel engine. The incident occurred in the early hours of Sunday morning last.

A member of the crew told a reporter: "Our first fright came about a mile outside Dungarvan Harbour. It was two o'clock in the morning and I was at the wheel. Without warning I found myself among several trawlers which were fishing close inshore and carried no lights."

These trawlers were well inside the three-mile limit and were poaching for ground fish.

For the rest of the journey to Schull the crew kept a sharp-look-out for foreign vessels. They had three or four similar ex- periences before dawn broke.

AER LINGUS—AUGUST TRAFFIC
August was the busiest month in the history of Dublin Airport. More than 94,000 passengers were handled—an increase of almost 10% over the figure for August, 1956—and 107 aircraft landed or took-off from the air- port each day. Opened in 1949, Dublin Airport handled just 10,600 passengers during its en- tire first year of operations. Aer Lingus traffic accounted for over 84,550 of the passengers and the company operated 91 flights daily during the month.

We have received the following from Messrs. Thos. Flynn, president, and Martin Power, chairman, of the above association:

TO THE EDITOR
Dungarvan Observer

Dear Friend,

At this time a year ago, a committee was busy making arrangements for something never before attempted in the history of the County Waterford Association—"A Dinner Dance." Letters were sent to all County Waterford people and their friends, asking them to patronize the affair. The response to that appeal was so tremendous and the dinner dance was such a wonderful success, that the As- sociation unanimously agreed to make it an annual affair.

Preparations are already in progress for our second annual Dinner Dance. It will be held at Gaelic Park, 24th Street and Broadway, New York on Satur- day night, October 19th at 8.30 o'clock. Tickets will cost $4.50 each, which will include a roast beef dinner and a bottle of liquor and set-up on each table. There will be ten seats to a table but smaller groups will be accommodated. Tickets must be purchased before October 11th.

The committee is leaving nothing undone in preparing for this great occasion. But re- member, its greatness and suc- cess depends entirely on your support.

So, come on out and meet the many old friends who will be there, looking forward to seeing you and make Saturday night, October 19th, a real "County Waterford Night."

STRAND LAWN TENNIS CLUB Annual Singles Handicap Tournament

CHANGEBLE weather made progress difficult this year in the Club's Annual Cup Tourna- ment, but competition was keen and many of the games were closely contested and well worth watching. But youth took the lead this year with two young victors, who showed great skill and mastery of the game.

In the Junior Club also re- sults were good, and great promise is shown. Mr. J. O'Riordan (vice-chairman) presented the cups and silver medals to the Junior finalists.

The Chairman, Mr. M. Kieley, will present the cup to the Senior Finalists at the Club's Annual Dinner which will be held at the Devonshire Arms Hotel on Thursday 19th Sept. This will close a very enjoy- able and successful season of tennis.

The results of those who en- tered for the tournament were as follows:

Fishing Boat For Helvick

We received the following too late for inclusion in last week's issue:

W. Keneally Esq., T.D., 39 Johnstown, Waterford.

Dear Deputy Keneally,

With further reference to your representations regarding the allocation of a fishing boat under the Gaelic Boat Scheme to Helvick, I am desired by Mr. Egan Childers, Minister for Lands, to confirm that he has now had the fishing boat "Ard Mor" allocated to Mr. N. Whelan, Helvick, under the conditions governing the scheme.

Yours faithfully,

Abbeyside's great day

It was truly a great day in Abbeyside last Sunday when the local committee led by Mr. Joe Organ staged the Pattern in all its fun and sport. Excellent weather favoured the occasion and attracted the crowds in big numbers. Later in the day rough seas blown up by a strong wind made conditions unpleasant for competitors and spectators.

The day's programme opened up with a fancy dress parade in which many ways of life were portrayed by the young and enthusiastic competitors. And out in front leading the parade around the Village were the Dungarvan Brass and Reed Band and the Boys Scouts Pipe Band.

It was as fine a turn-out as one could wish to see and certainly made a lasting impression. While we were waiting for the parade to get under way the Mayor of Waterford, Cdr. Denis Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Fitzpatrick and their children arrived and were welcomed to the Village by many old friends.

It was Aid. Tom Kyme, T.D., who opened the pattern in his own parish. He paid tribute to those behind its revival and spoke well of the important role such an event plays not only in the life of the area but in the life of the nation as a whole.

OLD HAUNTS The Mayor spoke on similar lines and recalled that many years ago, Dungarvan and Abbeyside were favourite old haunts of his when he spent his summer holidays as a schoolboy in the area.

And then we had the fun with the various races, egg and spoon, three-legged, sack-race and others. What struck me about the whole thing was the excellent manner in which the stewards kept things in order. The platform on the old school-side of the Pond added greatly to the success of the event.

The step-dancing was most enjoyable and a very special word of praise is due to Jack Tobin and Mick Conroy for the excellence of their fine old Irish dance music. They stuck to their guns the day through and quite a big number of those present found their greatest enjoyment at the foot of that platform listening to the music and watching the youthful dances.

BOAT RACES

Unfortunately, the outdoor motor-boat racing was most disappointing. Only four boats turned up and rough seas made the going more difficult for them. Butch Kieley had to pull in with engine trouble early in the race. Gusto O'Shea and John Keohan were caught unscorped at the start and found the seas too rough for them. Sev. Bowman and Paddy Kenneally (junior) in their Comet developed engine trouble early in the race but kept on going and made a really sporting try. They didn't win but they certainly deserved every praise for the gallant manner in which they stuck it out under exceptionally trying conditions. Race was won by old veteran of the course, Paddy Kennally, of the Cunmarr ferry with his son, Tom. They were using a boat owned by Mr. Charlie O'Doherty, Park Terrace, a fast little craft which proved every bit a match for the rough seas. It was a quiet race, it was a disappointment but it certainly showed that excitement there could be in Dungarvan Harbour with ten or twelve boats taking part. It puzzles me is why so many local boat owners prefer to let their craft tied up at Dungarvan Quay. It is a pity we haven't a better sporting spirit in the area. Dungarvan and Abbeyside would gain much by it.

ROUGH SEAS It was too rough for the sailing boats and their race had to be called off. We didn't have the rowing boat-race either but the breezy-pole certainly provided plenty of good fun and just as much action. The duck race proved a flop due to the fact it seemed we had a dead duck on our hands. He didn't know what to make of the whole thing and when he eventually hit the water he looked around, sized up the situation and hit out as fast as he could but he was not fast enough and was captured by one of the McCarthy brothers.

However, it was a really enjoyable day and those responsible may feel justly satisfied in their efforts. I might mention that a tribute is due to both bands for their performance on the occasion. The Brass and Reed Band under the direction of Mr. Michael Henneby played an exceptionally fine selection of music while the Abbeyside Pipe Band scored as usual with their martial airs.

AT HALF MAST Among the large gathering there that day, I saw Nano Managhan at her stall selling her famous sugar-sticks and I recalled a photo I took at last year's pattern in which she stood with Johnson Burke, a member of the committee on the occasion. But he was missing last Sunday and prior to the commencement of the programme, those present stood in silence for two minutes as the Tricolour fluttered at half-mast in the strong sea-breeze—a tribute to the memory of one who will not be back.

CAPPOQUIN NEWS

JUVENILE LABOUR Never did small boys work so hard as the many who spent long days picking blackberries in order to "raise the wind" for the expenses of the trip to Dublin on Sunday. That the boys raised the "necessary" was obvious from the large number who went to see the great game and give much vocal support to the Waeferford team.

FROM LONDON FOR THE SAME Learning that he had drawn a stand ticket for last Sunday's game when a club's allocation was raffled Jim Regan flew from London to see the big game.

COTTAGE PRIZES Prizes for well-kept cottages and gardens have been awarded to the following from this district: Messrs. M. Flynn, Ballinacree; Patrick Barron, Dromore; and Mee. Kieley, Coolamuttan.

CUMANN STAIRE AGUS BEALOIDEASA IAR-DHEISE The above cumann for the study and popularising of local history and folklore which was founded in Cappoquin last year will be extended this year to include Iar Dheise (West-Waterford) and will be known as "Cumann Staire agus Bealoideasa Iar-Dheise".

From my good friend Donal Moloney, a member of our Urban Council who has been on the sick list for some time past I have the following few words: "Again, many thanks Tom, for your kind few words of tribute to my past efforts to focus local attention on the great importance of tourism. I am glad to see my fellow councillors are beginning to realise what an asset tourism could be to the town. They should take careful note of the development work being carried out at Arklow, costing thousands of pounds, for which very considerable Government grants are being paid. Every citizen in the Old Boro should become tourist minded. Affairs like the Abbeyside Pattern should be on the programme of Bord Failte, Dungarvan and Abbeyside could offer many attractions to the tourists and before brushing away the idea, people should bear in mind that more tourists in an area mean more money. This is an industry every person should take a personal interest in. I am hoping to visit the old place at the end of the month and I hope to get in for a meeting to the Council. I cannot resume work until the end of the year."

DR. MCCANN IN THE PICTURE I would be interested to learn that the Gael-Linn film of the Traditional Music Festival is being shown up here (Dublin). Doctor Kevin McCann and several of our townsfolk play a prominent role.

FROM WATERFORD Liam Gallagher of 36 Roanmore Terrace, Waterford, has sent me the following piece which I consider worthy of publication. (Air—The Boy From Killan)

Though we have lost the crown, no one can keep us down, We will be on the march soon again; And will show one and all that we can take a fall, And arise and still fight on like men.

POPULAR GAEL ON HOLIDAYS Some on holidays from England Mr. James Ahern who has had a warm welcome from his many old friends in the town. James was a brilliant hurler and played for years with the home team. Since going to England he has done much for the promotion of Irish games and was for a period Chairman of the Lancashire County Board. We wish him an enjoyable holiday in his native town.

WELL-EARNED HOLIDAY Mr. Jack Griffin, the well-known "taxi man", left on Tuesday for a fortnight's holiday in England. This is his first break from work in a period of four years and his many friends here hope he has an enjoyable time Cross-Channel.

ADULT CLASSES Classes in Domestic Economy and Woodwork will commence at the Vocational School on next Monday night, 16th Inst., at 7.30. In view of the popularity of these classes early enrolment is advisable.

LAST SUNDAY'S GAME Sole talking point locally—it has displaced the All-Ireland Final as a subject of discussion—is last Sunday's hurling game against the Geraldines. The ugly incidents which occurred during the long hold-up in the game will be long remembered. It is not our place to appon name and we feel sure the Association officials who were present, ever jealous of the high ideals of the G.A.A., will conduct a thorough investigation into the affair and take the necessary steps to ensure that there will be no repetition of these undesirable scenes.

ON COUNTY PANEL We learn that Francis O'Donoghue, who gave a brilliant display of goalkeeping in Sunday's game, has been included in the panel of players from which the team to represent the county in Sunday's Oireachtas Knock game against Wexford will be chosen.

TALLOW NOTES TALLOW HORSE FAIR The annual horse fair held in Tallow on Tuesday, Sept. 3rd, was not as large as on previous years. There was a good demand for hunters and flesh horses but gone was the glamour association with this once famous fair which brought members of the travelling fraternity from the four corners of Ireland converging on Tallow a week previous to the fair and which was a feature of the day when the horse fair proper was over. The horse is slowly but surely losing its place in Irish life whether it is for good or bad remains to be seen. There is one thing certain—the horse "man's best friend" is on the way out and for the older generation it is a saddening thought. The following are of the prices received: Mr. John McCarthy, Knockanuck, Tallow, sold the well-known point-to-point "Tinton Castle" to Mr. McCurtain, Belfast, for £200; Mr. R. Darling Castletons, sold a hunter by Dukes Quest out of Connet Rhu to Mr. Nevin, Belfast for £350; T. O'Connell, Scar, Knockanore, sold a three-year-old mare for £120; Mr. M. Walsh, Kibeg, Tallow, sold a hunter to an English buyer for £66 as did Mr. C. Higgins, Kibeg, Tallow; Mr. T. O'Connell, Knockanore, disposed of a hunter for £110. Best horses made from £25 to £50 there was a good attendance of buyers from England and Northern Counties.

ARCH DANCE There was a good attendance at the dance in the Arch on Horse Fair night. Music was by the Regal Dance Orchestra, Buntry, and was well up to the standard set by the famous combination.

PASSING OF OLD RESIDENT We announce with much regret the death, which occurred on Monday after a long illness and at a ripe old age, of Mrs. A. Kenny, Main St. The deceased lady (nee Byrne) was a native of Lismore and a member of an old and widely-connected family. She was widow of the late Mr. M. Kenny, a prominent figure in local affairs and a member of the County Council. During her long period of residence in Cappoquin she made many friends who now mourn her passing. To her sons, grandchildren and other relatives much sympathy is extended in their bereavement. There was a large and representative attendance when the remains were removed to St. Mary's Church on Monday evening and the funeral to St. Declan's cemetery on Wednesday. The service was largely attended. Those immediately bereaved included: Gerald and Michael (sons); Michael and Marie (grandchildren); Mr. M. Kenny (daughter-in-law). (Undertaking by A. Walsh and Sons, Cappoquin.)

LOCAL LADY RECEIVED At a "clothing ceremony" held at the Convent, Mount Oliver, Dundalk, on Thursday, 5th inst. Miss Mary Gwynne, Modugno (Sister Mary Gwynne) was received into the Franciscan Order.

SHAMROCK DEFEATED BY LISMORE IN REPLAY Shamrocks Junior Hurling team were defeated by Lismore in the replay of the drawn game for the semi-final of the Lismore group junior hurling championship (Western Div.) at Cappoquin on Sunday. The standard of hurling was poor.

ST. CATERINES WIN OVER KILLEAGH St. Catherine's, Ballynoe, defeated Killeagh in the final of the 'A' grade of the Junior H. Championship of East Cork at Midleton on Sunday last.

DEATH OF MR. WILLIAM FOLEY, BALLYDUFF The death occurred with tragic suddenness at the residence of Mrs. J. Kearney, Door Araglen, here, hope he has an enjoyable time Cross-Channel.

ADULT CLASSES Classes in Domestic Economy and Woodwork will commence at the Vocational School on next Monday night, 16th Inst., at 7.30. In view of the popularity of these classes early enrolment is advisable.

FROM ST. ALBANS

I have had several letters from readers in connection with the final. From Paddy Bagge, formerly of Clashmore, now living in St. Albans, Herts., England, I had the following view: "I can't express my feelings about Sunday. I was sitting by the radio in a Kilkenny man's house here. I had tears in my eyes when that final whistle sounded. It was certainly very hard luck on Waterford. I felt sorry for John Kieley more than any other player. What a great player he is. Good luck to Waterford in the future and good luck to you, I always enjoy your column."

HE MISSED THE FINAL His legion of friends throughout the county will be sorry to learn of the serious illness of Mr. Paddy Lynch of this newspaper. Paddy had been looking forward to Sept. 1st and the All-Ireland Hurling Final at Croke Park, featuring Waterford and Kilkenny but a couple of days before the big event, he went down sick and has been under treatment since. Here's wishing him a speedy recovery.

OUT ON HIS OWN I see that Mr. Willie Hughes, most of his friends will know him as Scottie, has gone into business for himself. . . . And every good luck to him. Scottie has set up shop in Mary Street where he is turning out the best of confectionery and such things. A very popular personality with the courage to make a bold bid in the face of heavy competition, he deserves every support and encouragement but knowing what Scottie can do in a bakehouse, I have no doubts that he will make a lasting success of his efforts with any fair break. As I've said every good luck to him.

THE SILENT CLIPPER Something else which caught my eye during the week was the step forward made by local hairdresser, Tommy O'Connor. He has installed a beauty of an electric hair clipper, what I might call "the silent clipper." I watched a lot of his clients took upon "the yoke" with certain doubt but they were more than relieved to find it never once got in their hair. In fact, all checked and checked again to make sure Tommy was not having a fast one on them when he signified the end of the line. Having tried it, I had to agree this was the best investment he ever made. It is amazingly quick and the best part of it is you never feel "the yoke" at work. And note this, as it cuts a built-in blower blows the falling hair out of the way.

TALK OF A COMBINE HARVESTER, you should see this one.

LISTENING IN Had a letter by air-mail during the week from my old friend in New York, Mr. Jack Lyons. It is all about that All-Ireland Final that seems to go on and on and on. Jack tells me he listened in out there to Michael O'Hehir and the reception was exceptionally good. In fact, it was so good and the excitement so much that he is still not in the better of it. And now all he wants to know is how we lost that game by one point. They will be shipping an official film of the game out to the States one of those days. In fact, it may well be out here by now, and maybe then, Jack and all the other Waterford exiles who listened in and were left wondering, may be able to find the answer. However, as I've said before, it was a game to remember and even if Waterford lost the crown they brought home the honours of the day. I forget to mention last week that while I was on the centre photographing the historic scene, I met Dungarvan Paddy Curran of Glenmore, home from New York with the Flight of the Gulls for the final.

TO NEW YORK? Paddy had his own movie camera and was making his own record. With him was Mr. Patrick J. Grimes, big name in the organisation of Irish trips and tours and publisher of the IRISH ECHO of New York. And right out there on that pitch we made a deal for the publication of a series of my photos on the final. Little did I think at the time that it would prove such a memorable final. I might add here too, though I cannot disclose much more at the present time, there are serious talks going on in high places which are likely to end up with the Waterford and Kilkenny teams making a trip to the Polo Grounds in New York. Take it from me, there is a lot more to it than just idle talk. However, time will tell.

Hurlers at Ross

The county hurlers will make their first appearance since their unlucky final defeat at New Ross on Sunday next. They are pitted against Wexford, the holders, in the final of the semi-final and will almost certainly be battling for another title at Kilkenny, for the champions hold a similar engagement with lowly Clare in the second semi-final. This is a vital encounter for the Decies men. Waterford must win for the sake of prestige and team morale. A defeat at this stage, unthinkable though it may be, could do incalculable damage. On form, of course, the very experimental Wexford selectors should be well within the capabilities of our men.

Football League

Arrangements for the National Football League competition have now been completed. Waterford are again placed in the "selling plate" along with Tipperary, Limerick, Clare and Kilkenny. The opening engagement, a home fixture with Kilkenny, takes place on October 22nd and the pre-Christmas programme will be completed with a visit from Tipperary and an away encounter with Clare. The grouping—still very much a ribot point—dates and venues for the hurling competitions will be announced in due course.

With the Stars

Waterford hurlers, by all accounts, had a rather tedious experience during the "shooting" of scenes for the much-published "Roses" in Croke Park on Saturday last. The team took a dozen efforts to complete satisfactorily some of the scenes. The result was a rather drawn out process. All the Waterford players, with the exception of John Kieley who was unable to make the journey, took part in the filming. Kilkenny also mustered a near full-strength gathering.

Another Postponement

The Mount Sion-Dunhill senior hurling match, which was arranged for Dunhill on Sunday last, was again postponed to the eleventh hour. A fourth re-arrangement is expected immediately.

Cappoquin's Victory

Cappoquin have won their way to the semi-final of the senior hurling championship for the second year in succession. But their two-points—3-4 to 0-13—victory over Geraldines was scarcely in keeping with the trend of play at the Fraher Field on Sunday last. Terrifically, at least, the losers did enough to merit a share of the spoils. The hurling did not measure up to expectations, a circumstance that was probably contrived by the dour, rugged nature of the exchanges. This was certainly "needle" affair. It followed the customary pattern of Geraldines-Cappoquin encounters. And there was more to it than met the ordinary eye. But, enough said for the present.

I'm told Old Parish enhanced their championship prospects when winning well in Ballinacourty in the junior football championship on Sunday evening. The "Shocks" continue to improve with every outing. They face championship favourites, Strabally, on Sunday next, and on current form are good enough to seriously dispute the dominance of the form book.

Up in Cappoquin, Lismore had an unexpectedly easy passage to the group final. Opposing Shamrocks never touched the form they displayed in the drawn encounter. Lismore's twelve scores against the losers' five tell the story of a rather disappointing reply. The winners met Tallow in the group final on September 22nd.

Ring minor footballers strengthened their seemingly perpetual hold on the divisional championship with a clear-cut victory over Abbeyside in the remaining game of the week-end. The Gaelic boys appear all set for yet another title.

CAPPOQUIN OUST GERALDINES IN ROBUST GAME

CAPPOQUIN-3-6, GERALDINES-0-13

THREE goals during the opening quarter of an hour of their clash with Geraldines at the Fraher Field, Dungarvan, on Sunday last, as good as took Cappoquin, the defeated finalists of twelve months ago, to the last but one hurdle in the race for the senior hurling championship. But the winners certainly farmed the fortunes of war during a tempestuous second half that saw the losers, though reduced to fourteen men, battle their way to within a single score of victory.

When Geraldines, in arrears by 3-3 to 0-7 at the interval, slashed the margin within ten minutes of the resumption it looked odds-on for a surprise exit for the Sargent Cup winners. The Aglish men were going great guns and gaining strength with every passing minute. Then a flare up in the losers' half which culminated in a defender being sent to the line and a further incident in which a second defender incurred a dislocated knee-cap—apparently the latter went unnoticed by referee Power—provoked a mass exodus of spectators onto the playing area.

When order was eventually restored after a hold-up of fully a quarter of an hour Cappoquin immediately tagged on a further minor. Again Geraldines took up the challenge. They pummeled the Cornerstone citadel and shot a couple of hard earned points, but Cappoquin held on to their slender advantage. At the end they were two points to the good.

The hurling was rough and tough from first to last. Consequently the standard of performances suffered, but the game certainly lacked nothing in the way of excitement, particularly in the final period when the losers threw everything into a fighting finishing effort. As in the big ball championship, their effort, again thwarted on at least one occasion by the woodwork, just fell short of the target.

Cappoquin did not look a good side on the day's play and can scarcely await a tilt at Mount Sion—their probable semi-final rivals—with any degree of confidence.

In point of fact it was the losers who called the tune after the opening quarter. But it is their eagerness to make assurance doubly sure they probably beat themselves. Early in the first half an attempt to goal a twenty-one yards free was beaten off and again five minutes from

TOURANEENA NOTES

THE LATE MR. J. FRAHER
The death took place at an advanced age at his residence Ballymacarby on Friday last week, of one of the district's most popular residents in the person of Mr. James Fraher. Member of one of Co. Waterford's well-known and widely connected families, deceased gentleman during the greater part of his life and up to his retirement some years ago enjoyed popularity as a creamer worker in the area. In this position his zeal and devotion to his ordinary daily routine marked him as a worker of outstanding ability thus earning for him the confidence of employer and co-worker. Actively associated with all forms of life in the area, his popular figure always greeted any Gaelic arena in which Ballymacarby were billed to play, and down the years he always watched with keen interest the ebb and flow in the tide of fortune of the local hurling fifteen. A quiet and inoffensive gentleman, as his years lengthened his popularity grew in the Nice Valley principally due to his straightforwardness in all matters, and frank simplicity in his dealings with his fellow men. A kind and loving father, one of his main interests in life was the welfare and well-being of his devoted family to whom his passing is an irreparable loss. The remains were removed to Fourmiletter Church on Saturday evening last when the large general cortege testified to the popularity of deceased. On Sunday following 11 o'clock Mass took place in the adjoining cemetery. Rev. Father Brackley, C.C., officiated at the grave.

POPULAR PRIEST
A much beloved and popular young priest of the Fourmiletter area, Rev. T. Conlon, son of Mr. James and the late Mrs. Corbett, is now enjoying a well merited holiday at the parental home. Father Conlon has been ministering in California since his ordination some years ago.

Old Parish beat Ballinacourty

The once-mighty men of Wexford are in the throes of team-building, the obvious sequel to their recent fall from power, whereas Waterford mentors have named thirteen of the side which did duty in the All-Ireland final a fortnight ago. Hence, the popular belief that Waterford will prove too well-armed for the very experimental Slaney selection.

The preference of Cappoquin's O'Donoghue to Dickie Roche between the posts is Waterford's only real departure from custom, for Mick Lacey, who returns to the team in place of Johnny O'Connor, was a regular choice up to the final game of the championship.

Seamus Power reverts again to mid-field, where he finished the All-Ireland final, and there is another switch of positions between Frankie Walsh and Larry Guinan, now at left half and right full-forward respectively.

Waterford mentors have overhauled their team fore and aft.

Old Parish 1-5, Ballinacourty 0-2
OLD PARISH Junior Footballers completely annihilated their opponents in the championship when scoring a six-point victory over Ballinacourty at Dungarvan on Sunday evening last.

LOCAL HAPPS.

ST. LAURENCE'S PARISH HALL, BALLINROAD
On Tuesday night, 3rd Sept., the Non-Stop Draw in aid of the above hall was opened by the Rev. President, Rev. Fr. Walsh, C.C., who extended a hearty cordial welcome to all present, and thanked the members of the committee for the hard work they had put into the building of the hall and expressed the hope that the hall will brighten the lives and help to bring about a happy and contented life between everybody in the parish. The Rev. President thanked the donor of the site, Mr. G. Morrissey. He then introduced Mr. Ed. Keyes and thanked him for his help in the way he had made every thing so easy for all concerned and for which the committee are very grateful. Mr. Keyes then addressed those present and appealed to the promoter to carry on the good work until the end of the draw which he was sure would be a great success.

Result of Draw—Mrs. W. Stack, Main St., Dungarvan—£5; Mrs. J. Morrissey, Cappoquin—£2; Mrs. Margt. Murray, Ballinacourty—£1; Miss Kitty Curran, Kilsara—£1. Promoter's Prize Miss Margt. Power, Ring View, Kilmartin—£1.

Waterford hurlers face Wexford at Ross

NEW ROSS is certain to house a big Waterford contingent on Sunday when the county senior hurlers step out in pursuit of the Oireachtas Cup. Although opposing Wexford are holders of the beautiful trophy, recent happenings in the world of hurling and particularly their respective championship efforts against Kilkenny greatly enhance the prospects of Portlairge qualifying for the final of a competition in which we last participated back in 1948.

Goalman Nolan is one of a half-dozen promoted juniors, and he will have fellow debutants in the last line of defence, at mid-field, right and left half forward and in the left corner of attack.

Missing from the Model County line-out on Sunday will be such long-term regulars as Bobbie and Nick Rackard, Art Foley, Podge Kehoe, Seamus Ahearne, Ned Wheeler—the mid-fielders are temporarily out of commission—and Tom Ryan, who captained the team in the Leinster final.

Waterford are certainly the form side. They lost no stature in their unlucky All-Ireland defeat and the consequent changes in policy would appear to be to the overall benefit of the team.

I like the Waterford defence and mid-field. Forward play, however, has not been over-impressive of late. Against Kilkenny Donal Whelan, John Kieley and Tom Cheasty achieved mighty results, but it is scarcely fair to expect them to continue to reap such a rich harvest in scores without adequate support from their attacking colleagues.

Nevertheless, this fifteen is a step above the average Lismore sides of recent years. And their non-stop purposeful hurling, stamped them as a team that could cause Tallow a lot of trouble in the group decider a fortnight hence.

Bransfield was probably the big man of this Lismore victory, and he was ably supported by Ron O'Donnell, Mick Brodieck, Mick Behgan, Billy Linnon and veteran cut-throat Peter Kerins.

Full-forward McGrath, John McMurphy, the Gearys and Tobin were the back of the losers who lacked the service of Tom Roche, one of the architects of last year's comeback in the inter-county encounter.
