Colligan Overcome Ardmore Colligan Rockies, as expected, advanced to the divisional junior hurling semi-final at the expense of Ardmore at Cappoquin on Sunday las. The Rockies, the holders of the divisional title, used their greater experience to good effect and enjoyed a better of matters throughout. Ardmore for comparative newcomers gave a good account of themselves. The winners meet Bricket Rangers for the right to take on the survivors of the Ballyduff-Shamrocks test in the divisional final.

TOURANEENA NOTES

DEATH OF MR. J. GRIFFIN The news of the death of Mr. Shawn Griffin (Jr.), Tourin, which occurred unexpectedly at his home on Saturday, came as a great shock to his relatives and friends, and has caused widespread grief. He was in his thirty-third year and was a young man of a retiring disposition who was held in affectionate regard throughout the district. To his bereaved parents, brothers and sisters, sympathy is extended, in the great loss they have sustained. Public sympathy on his passing was shown by the very large attendance at the removal of the remains to the parish church on Saturday evening and at the funeral to St. Declan's cemetery on Monday. Rev. M. O'Meara, C.C., and Very Rev. W. Canon Flynn, P.P., Tallow, officiated at the graveside.

The chief mourners included: Mr. and Mrs. John Griffin (parents); William, James and Patrick (brothers); Mrs. Sheedy Farney, Mrs. Collins, Oregon, U.S.A. and Mrs. Griffin (sisters); Thomas Griffin, Camphire (uncle); Griffin and Brown families, Knockanore (cousins).

Funeral arrangements were made by M. J. Noonan "The Toby Jug," Cappoquin. (Tel. 27)

Late Mr. P. Whelan M.A., Ex-N.T. It is with very deep regret that we record the death of Mr. Patrick Whelan, M.A., N.T., while holidaying at Inchynoddy, Cloonakilly, last week. The deceased, who had taught for nearly fifty years in Bandon, was a native of Kilmarehan.

For a long period he was principal of St. Patrick's Boys National School, Bandon, his reputation as an educationalist being widespread. Prominently associated with cultural, social and sporting life of the town, he was universally esteemed. Since retiring from the principalship of St. Patrick's School, he taught at the Bishop Ward Secondary School, Dagenham, Essex.

The remains were removed to Clonakilly Church on Monday evening week and on the following morning High Mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul. On Wednesday the funeral took place to Kilgobnet Church and interment was made in the adjoining cemetery.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved wife, sons, daughters and other relatives of the late Mr. Whelan, who was a member of an old and highly respected Kilmarehan family. The immediate family mourners were: Mrs. Whelan (widow); Patrick and Kevin (sons); Betty, Peggy and Patricia (daughters).

THE BAND STORY With the passing of the great second band, many people throughout the district will never again be heard in the Village, Such was not to be. Young lads eager to carry on the tradition got together and decided to ask help and advice from the remaining members of the number 2 band. Not alone was their case heard, but some of the stout-hearted older musicians joined up again and so the notes of the File and the rat-tat-tat of Drums were a feature of the village life once more. Men like M. Feehey and J. Sullivan fell in with the youngsters who received invaluable help and guidance from Mick Murphy. We now give you the personnel of band No. 3:—

Leading side drummer was Dick Feehey; he had, as assistants, Pat Feehey, Moss Keefe, and Laurence Farrell. Base drummer Joe Collins was flanked by Bill Beecher (cymbals) and Mick Keefe (triangle). Two tenor drums were added with Willie Farrell and Con O'Brien in charge. The file men included Mick Feehey, Mick Murphy, Jim Sullivan, Art Harris, John and David Pierce, Tom Feehey, John Fleming, Mick Hickey, Mick Morrissey, Tom Neill, Jer. Hickey and Pat Kearney.

This band-rendered music at Processions of the Blessed Sacrament and at all local matches and sportsmeetings. Then the inevitable happened. Emigration and deaths took their toll. The band fell away and now we never hear the sound of file and drum in the village. What are the chances of revival? We have our drums, many of the hired band members are still with us, a magnificent hall is available for practice, so all we need is that someone would take the lead and the success of Ballyduff No. 4 band is assured.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR CUMANN NA DEISEACH. ATHA CLIATH A Chara, For the benefit of those who have purchased tickets for the Dinner to be held in the Grand Hotel, Malahide, on Sunday next, 6th instant, the following are details of bus transport facilities to and from Malahide:— (a) The Malahide bus departs from Eden Quay (near the Custom House). I am to add that as all the tickets for the reception have been disposed of no further applications can be considered. Dismissed, P. J. RHEINISCH, Rinal Olinigh.

BETTER balanced and considerably more experienced, Abbeyside, the reigning divisional title-holders, decisively survived the challenge of Dunganvan in a thrilling and at times tempestuous minor hurling battle at the Gaelic Field on Sunday morning. The winners, who led by 3-2 to 2-1 at the interval, were in possession of a clear eight points lead when a scuffle in the Old Boro goalmouth led to a mass invasion of the pitch. Less than a minute of the hour remained to be played, but it took a considerable time before any semblance of order was restored. For a time an ugly scene seemed imminent. Fortunately, however, there was no serious injuries. With a section of the crowd still in the village, what are the chances of revival? We have our drums, many of the hired band members are still with us, a magnificent hall is available for practice, so all we need is that someone would take the lead and the success of Ballyduff No. 4 band is assured.

NOTICE Landowners along the Ballymacnaghe stream are requested to attend a meeting at the Monument (Pike) on Friday night, Sept. 4th, at 8.30 p.m. to discuss the cleaning of the stream.

DUNGARVAN URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL WATER SUPPLY Because of the prolonged spell of dry weather extending over the past few months, the level of water at Deelish Reservoir is dropping at a very noticeable rate. Consumers are asked, therefore, to see that all taps and fittings are in good order and to use the strictest economy in the use of water for domestic and other purposes and to reduce the consumption of water for non-domestic purposes to a minimum. Non-essential use such as garden watering and car washing is expressly forbidden. Failure to comply with these restrictions will result in the supply being cut off from the consumer concerned.

KILROSSANTY THROUGH TO SEMI-FINAL

Kilrossanty 2-5; Kill 1-4 Kilrossanty, playing with traditional dash and making light of the fact that they were a man short for most of the second half, battled their way past Kill and into the semi-final of the senior football championship at the City Sportsfield on Sunday last. The Comeragh men, who must be odds-on to regain the championship as a result, ended a hard and interesting hour's football full value for their four points victory over last year's beaten finalists. They played the more effective brand of football and refused to panic when a lesser side would have cracked up completely. Kill had chances aplenty over the hour, but they never functioned with the ease or smoothness of the well-balanced Comeragh men. Kill forced an early lead. Kilrossanty battled back and were on terms at the break. In the early minutes of the second half the winners hit the front. When Kill levelled up, and Kilrossanty lost a man it looked odds-on a victory for the '58 finalists. But the green and gold, finding new reserves of energy, struck again with deadly effectiveness and ended the hour convincing winners. As a result they have earned the right to meet the winners of the Mount Sion - Gaultier tie in the semi-final round. On Sunday Kilrossanty were exceptionally well-served by a resurgent east in the old Comeragh mood. O'Connell kept a good goal and he was trotted by strong unyielding defenders in Gough, Maher and Baldwin. Mick Prendergast signalled his return to centre-half with a marvellous display. Begley and M. Kirwan, who also had a spell in attack, were always in the thick of matters on the flanks. At mid-field Jim Timmons gave another lordly display, while Ben Prendergast and Jimmy Power most often took the eye in an attack that did not always enjoy the best of good luck. There was a striking example in the opening half when a glorious Timmons-Ben Prendergast move which ended with Power finishing to the net was disallowed on an infringement of the parallelism rule. The losers, who were well in the game until the final quarter, were well served by Tom Whelan, Paddy Fitzgerald, Monty Guiry, Paddy Finnucane and Tom McGrath.

O'Connell kept a good goal and he was trotted by strong unyielding defenders in Gough, Maher and Baldwin. Mick Prendergast signalled his return to centre-half with a marvellous display. Begley and M. Kirwan, who also had a spell in attack, were always in the thick of matters on the flanks. At mid-field Jim Timmons gave another lordly display, while Ben Prendergast and Jimmy Power most often took the eye in an attack that did not always enjoy the best of good luck. There was a striking example in the opening half when a glorious Timmons-Ben Prendergast move which ended with

WAR ON WARBLES

Introducing the Estimate for the Department of Agriculture for the current year, the Minister for Agriculture referred to the trials being carried out by the Department Veterinary Research Laboratory in regard to the internal treatment of cattle against warbles.

Flight from the land will cease when we accept in principle, and implement, three main essentials in regard to agriculture — 1. That it is accepted as a single industry on the foundation of which the economic life is based with the same business principles as are applied to the commercial industries.

He then went on to examine the situation in European countries and made particular reference to subsidies in Britain which tend to depress food prices below their economic value. Also that it is important to recognise that even with fewer people being employed directly on the land, agriculture is expanding its employment potential in other directions, such as in the production of farm machinery and chemicals etc.

Continuing, Dr. Greene said that no one would doubt that we are moving rapidly towards greater world integration and stability and that the immediate aspiration, of Western European countries is to reach a sense of common purpose amongst their own community. The common denominator is economic, but it is pointed out that of the roughly 12 million acres of farming land, 54% of it comprises holdings of less than 30 acres, 20% between 30 and 50 acres, and 17% between 50 and 100 acres. Only 7% of the total farms is over 100 acres, and 2% over 200 acres.

Referring to the agricultural pattern in this country, the President of the N.F.A. pointed out that of the roughly 12 million acres of farming land, 54% of it comprises holdings of less than 30 acres, 20% between 30 and 50 acres, and 17% between 50 and 100 acres. Only 7% of the total farms is over 100 acres, and 2% over 200 acres.

With this background picture in view, Dr. Greene said "The vast bulk of our trade is with Britain and will continue to be with Britain. If that is so, let us be adult about it and set about achieving for these islands a unity of purpose amongst ourselves for our mutual benefit and with a common policy towards Europe and the rest of the world. If such were to be achieved, not only might it solve to our common advantage, economic problems, but would also be a significant step towards a solution to the problem of partition and emigration."

FREE-TO TRADE

We give hereunder a summary of the address by the President of the N.F.A., Dr. J. N. Greene, to the International Congress entitled "Free-to Trade" at Shannon Airport on Monday, 31st August, 1959.

"Our most immediate need is a well-informed public opinion which will direct the affairs of our nation in a manner that can achieve this country a fair share of the increasing world prosperity" said Dr. J. N. Greene President of the N.F.A. He was addressing an international Conference entitled "Free-to Trade". The Conference, which took place at Shannon Airport on Monday, August 31st was organised jointly by the Irish Exporters Association and the Irish Sales Managers Association, and was opened by the Minister for Industry and Commerce, Mr. Jack Lynch.

Sunday week, September 13, will be a big day in the annals of the Presentation Sisters of Dungarvan. For on that day the well-loved community of teaching nuns will celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of their Order's House in Dungarvan.

CEREMONIES

The historic occasion will be marked by special commemorative ceremonies beginning with Mass at St. Mary's Parish Church, Dungarvan, for the living and deceased members of the Community, their pupils (past and present), friends and benefactors.

His Lordship, Most Rev. Dr. Cahalan Bishop of Waterford and Lismore will preside.

A special address will be delivered by Very Rev. Fr. Martin Lydon, Order Descalced Carmelites, who is Director of Foreign Missions and a well-known conductor of Retreats and Missions.

By special permission, the Papal Blessing will be imparted to the congregation.

FOUNDED IN 1809

St. Joseph's Presentation Convent, Dungarvan, was founded on 13th September, 1809. This was at the dawn of the 19th century which had not yet dispelled the darkness of the Penal Laws—there was no Catholic girls' school in the town of Dungarvan. The Presentation Nuns had been established in Waterford City in 1798 and the Christian Brothers in the year 1802. The Brothers had opened a school for boys in Dungarvan in 1810 and the undertaking met with such success that the sisters began to ask why could not a similar school be established for girls.

COLOSSAL SACRIFICE

Four pious and charitable young ladies of Dungarvan took up the challenge; they met together and decided to devote their means and talents and to dedicate their lives to the instruction of poor girls. In order to carry out this noble work, they rented a house in Jail Lane and in 1809, founded the first Post-Reformation Girls' Catholic School in Dungarvan.

It is difficult at the present day to realise the colossal sacrifice involved in such an undertaking—one hundred and fifty years ago—when Ireland was just emerging from the misery and oppression of the Penal Laws.

CALL TO RELIGIOUS TO TAKE OVER

The success of their work far surpassed the noble pioneer's most sanguine hopes, but in order to consolidate and perpetuate their undertaking, they wisely decided that it should be entrusted to the direction of a Religious Community. The parish priest of Dungarvan at the time, Very Rev. Fr. Walsh, was approached, and he in turn made a successful appeal to the Bishop of the Diocese, then Most Rev. Dr. John Power, for the establishment of a branch of the Presentation Order in Dungarvan.

WATERFORD NUNS ARRIVE

On September 12th, 1809, two saintly and capable members of the Waterford City Community of the Presentation Order—Mother Joseph Sullivan and Mother Peter Ronayne—arrived in Dungarvan to establish a branch in the Old Boro' town. The four young ladies were immediately received as Postulants and on the following day—13th September, 1809—the first Presentation Community in Dungarvan took up residence in a private house in Church Street, pending the erection of the Convent and Schools.

Two of the postulants were sent to Waterford to be trained at the Mother House of the Diocese, while the remaining two made their Novitiate in Dungarvan.

Three other young ladies of the parish soon joined the new community: Ann Draper, Mary Fennell (1810), and Bridget Fennell (1812).

When Mary McGrath (as Mother M. Teresa) and Mary Collins (called in religion Sister M. Evangelist) returned from Waterford City as professed Sisters in 1813, the two foundresses left Dungarvan and set out to establish another branch of the Order in Clonmel.

A GENEROUS DONATION In the meantime, Mr. Pierce Barron of Faha, had generously donated the sum of £1,000 towards the erection of a Convent in Church Street, Dungarvan.

This building, which was completed in 1822, was the home of the Dungarvan Presentation Sisters for thirty-six years, and there they carried on their arduous task of educating young girls, and of instructing poor women in the essential duties of their Religion.

LATE MRS. M. FITZGERALD

THE FAIR

Tallow monthly fair, held on Friday, August 28th, was not as large as previous fairs. Demand was good and nearly all stocks on offer cleared early.

TALLOW NEWS

Tallow Tennis Club held their annual tournament recently and was played under ideal weather conditions. All games were closely contested. Mr. Ned Power, the Waterford star goalie, proved a worthy winner when he beat Mr. Coa Ryan, in the final.

Ned Power played immaculate tennis, but was seen as his very best in the semi-final against Mr. P. J. Collins, Collins looked more than a handful for him when he led three five games to three in the final set. But Power came back to win 9-7. The match which took more than two hours to play, proved a treat to watch.

At the conclusion of the final the cup was presented to Mr. Power by the Chairman of the Club, Mr. Kevin Ryan.

MACRA NA FEIRME

Tallow Macra na Feirme members, following a successful summer season at Macra Stacks, judging competitions throughout the county, are now turning their minds to their most important social event of the year. viz. their 11th annual dance in the Arch Ballroom, on October 17th. An old favourite of dance fans in Tallow Macra circles will again be on the band stand—the well known Johnny McMahon dance orchestra.

KNOCKANORE MAN'S APPOINTMENT

We wish to congratulate Mr. Noel Montayne, Stranacally, Knockanore, on his appointment as Architectural Assistant in the Board of Works, Dublin. The examination for the position was held in Dublin. He received his early education at Knockanore National School and Liscrope C.B.S., from which he passed with honours. He received his Architectural training at the Cork School of Art. Noel was chairman of the local branch of the Castle League and also played hurling with Shamrocks and Lismore Junior hurling teams. He was also a member of Knockanore Urvanite Society. He is only son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Montayne, and an extremely popular young man.

GOOD WIN AT YOUGHAL

Mr. Charlie Daly, The Square, Tallow, had good win with his dog "Tallow Champion" by Rustie Champness—Deepark Tass, at Yougal Geyseround Track on Tuesday, August 25th.

We wish to congratulate this popular owner on his success.

ON HOLIDAY

Mr. and Mrs. D. Davis and family are at present on a holiday from England. Mr. Davis is son of Mr. and Mrs. Denker Davis, Barrack Street, Tallow.

RETURNS FROM U.S.

Rev. Fr. Michael O'Brien, Stranacally, Knockanore, returned thirteen years ago to work in the African Missions. While on vacation in America recently he visited Manyknoll and the Paulist Information Centre in the never-ending quest for ways and means to bring about conversions among the natives of Africa. During his stay in America Fr. O'Brien resided with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Feilly of St. Nicholas Talente Parish.

Before leaving the States Fr. O'Brien was feted at a social given in his honour by members and friends of the Catholic Affairs Society and the Knights of Columbus.

POPULAR CLASHMORE MAN'S DEATH

We regret to announce the death, which occurred unexpectedly and at a comparatively early age, of Mr. Thomas Kieley, Lickelleg, Clashmore. A well-known member of the agricultural community, deceased was a very popular figure and was brother of Very Rev. John Canon Kieley, P.P., Postlaw, and former President St. John's College, Waterford. His demise has occasioned deep and widespread regret and sympathy is extended to his bereaved sons, brothers, sisters and other relatives.

The remains were removed to Clashmore Parish Church and the accompanying cortege was one of the largest and most representative ever seen in the area and included mourners from different parts of County Waterford, East Cork and South Tipperary.

Solemn Office and Requiem High Mass for the eternal repose of his soul were offered up in Clashmore Parish Church.

Very Rev. J. Canon Kieley, was celebrant; Rev. M. O'Donovan, C.C., Tramore, was deacon, and Rev. P. Flavin, C.C., Ardmore, was sub-deacon.

In the choir were: Very Rev. W. Cahill, P.P., Ardmore; Rev. M. Power, B.A., C.C., Clashmore; Rev. P. Dwyer, C.C., Newcastle; Rev. M. Cunningham, C.C., Waterford; Rev. W. Hynes, C.C., Callinacra; Rev. S. Brennan, Australia; Rev. R. Keane, Bishop's Secretary; Rev. J. Power, C.C., Ring; Rev. T. Fitzgerald, St. John's College, Waterford; Rev. P. Quinlan, C.C., Portlaw; Rev. D. Slattery, C.C., Aglish; Rev. Fr. Butler, O.S.A.; Rev. Fr. Hickey, O.S.A., Dungarvan.

Subsequently the interment took place in the adjoining cemetery. The attendees included members of public bodies and representatives of the N.E.A., F.F., etc.

The immediate chief mourners were: James Kieley, B.Agr.Sc., and John Kieley (sons); Very Rev. J. Canon Kieley and William Kieley (brothers); Mrs. Mansfield (sister).

SYMPATHY

West Waterford Comhairle Comairte F.F. and Clashmore Comhairle Comairte F.F. tendered sympathy to the family of the late Mr. Kieley.

LATE MR. S. LENNON

The death occurred recently, at an early age, of Mrs. Sheila Lennon (nee Mansfield), Monaghan, Aglish. The deceased, who leaves a husband and two young children to mourn her loss, was of a quiet and unassuming disposition and very popular with all sections of the community.

The funeral to Old Parish was of large and representative proportions.

Very Rev. Fr. McDonald, P.P., Street (2 Masses); Rev. Fr. Power, C.C., officiated.

ON HOLIDAYS

On a holiday in this area recently has been Very Rev. Fr. Healy, O.P., Prior, Newbridge. On Sunday last Fr. Healy celebrated 21 o'clock Mass in Clashmore Parish Church.

Mr. Patrick Fitzgerald, headmaster, Vocational School, Macroom, who was accompanied by his wife and family, has spent a holiday in his native Clashmore.

by chance...

Some of the world's treasures come to us by chance. Ambergris, a product which we owe to the whale, is usually found floating on the sea or washed up on the seashore. It was highly prized by the ancients who used it in the preparation of medicine and attributed magical properties to it. To-day it is still worth its weight in gold as it is a valuable ingredient in the manufacture of high-class perfumes. So, if by chance, you happen to find a lump of grey, fatty substance, streaked with amber, when you stroll along the seashore treat it with respect—it may be ambergris. Why not buy a chance in the Cambridgebridge Sweepstake? You might be one of the many winners of £50,000.

The hurling pinnacle was reached in '48

THE HEROES OF '48

THE defeats and disappointments, the struggle against odds and the triumphs and achievements which punctuate the story of Waterford hurling are charged with nostalgic memories. It is a story that had its origin in the days when the Association was still young and reached its pinnacle on a September Sunday in 1948 when years of fruitless striving was crowned with complete and final victory.

Waterford may not figure very prominently in the distribution of championship honours, but the county has ever been the fore-front in the advancement of Gaelic culture in all its forms.

It was the appropriately named Thomas Francis Moaghers, skipped by legendary Tom King, who pioneered the trail that was blazed in later years by the Ware-powered Erin's Own, a club side that grew up in the City of the Decies to meet and match the great teams of their day.

By the late twenties Waterford was really hurling conscious and almost ready to take its place alongside "the counties of the game."

The white and blue jerseyed Portlargo men had in those days the distinction of capturing the All-Ireland minor crown the very first year it was competed for.

With the rise of Mount Sion during the thirties the game got a great shot in the arm. On the home front the up-and-coming Monastery men threw down the gauntlet to their fellow city men from Erin's Own. On the inter-county circuit, and with the support of Dungarvan, Pookaw, Talow and Lismore, they combined to measure up to the best Munster standards. Waterford was on the march.

Those were the days of the evergreen Wares, Mick Hickey, John Keane, Christy Moylan, Willie Barron, the Goodes, Vinny Bastin, Mick Hayes and Andy Fleming when Waterford made two Croke Park appearances on Final Day within the decade and were only deprived of further honours by downright bad luck.

There was that brief moment of triumph when the Munster crown was won for the first time at Clare's expense in 1938 and the heart-breaking defeat that followed at the hands of Dublin in the subsequent All-Ireland final. There was, too, an unlucky failure to a great Cork team in the provincial final of '43, and there was at last that supreme day when the white and blue bedecked the McCarthy Cup on September 5th, 1948.

Waterford were rank outsiders when the '48 championship race got under way. Against Clare in the opening round Jim Ware and company were far from impressive, making hard work of a two-points victory. When drawn against champions Cork in the Munster final few gave them even an outside chance of victory. But win they did in a sensational match, and again when pitted against Galway in the All-Ireland semi-final.

Back in Croke Park on September 5th the gallant Decies standard bearers achieved everlasting fame by stopping the men from Dublin town and taking to the county its first-ever senior championship. The tide had turned at last. And Portlargo rejoiced at a great dual triumph, for Mick Flannely and his brilliant bunch of teenagers outpointed redoubtable Kilkenny in the under eighteen decider.

We contribute to an epic

THE Record Book will disclose that defeat was the portion of Waterford's gallant hurling men when referee Gleeson ended the 1957 All-Ireland final. And literally speaking so it was. But, though a single puck of the ball denied them victory they so well-deserved on the run of play, these hurlers of ours left Croke Park as real champions in the eyes of the 70,000 odd who were privileged to witness a decider that posterity must accord an honoured place among the all-time greats of our incomparable iomanocht.

again off the mark. At this stage a rampant Brophy and Sutton were in complete control of midfield, but the Kilkenny forwards found it tough going against a hard-hitting Decies rearguard.

Then Kenny fired in a low shot from far out and Rockett was on the spot to finish the leather to the net—about his lone contribution to the victory effort. Heaslip added a point and the unerring Kenny made it 1-4 to 0-2 at the end of the first quarter.

Phil Grimes pointed a Waterford 70; Clohesy, who was scarily in the picture up to then negatived, and Johnny Kiely really signalled the Waterford recovery with a peach of a point in the 22nd minute. Two minutes later Grimes pointed a free. Then came Waterford's opening goal. Donal Whelan and John Kiely upset goalkeeper Walsh and Larry Guinan was on the spot to finish the leather to the net.

To the consternation of Waterford folk, referee Gleeson after consultations with his umpires, disallowed the goal and awarded a free in. And captain Grimes duly obliged by blasting the ball past the bewildered Ollie Walsh. Almost immediately Cheesty passed to Donal Whelan who raced through for a great point and the lead.

At the interval Waterford led by 16 to 15.

Within three minutes of the resumption Kiely had placed Donal Whelan for a glorious goal. Grimes again tagged on a point, but Kilkenny, undaunted, struck back for a goal by Billy Dwyer that might have been prevented.

Mickey Kelly again reduced the arrears to danger level two minutes later, but Waterford's position was almost immediately strengthened by another great goal by Donal Whelan, the leather again travelling via Kiely who had received from Grimes. Frank Walsh and Mick Kenny exchanged points, the latter from a placed ball, and Whelan, hurrying with tremendous vigour at this stage, and the irrepressible Cheesty again raised white favours. On the three-quarters stage Willie Walsh replaced the injured Sutton on the Kilkenny team.

KILKENNY CONFIDENT

AS OTHERS SEE IT

THE City Gaelic Field, where the County Hurlers have been putting it in nightly under the direction of trainer John Keane since they pitched camp over three weeks ago, has been visited by a host of hurling commentators and authorities all anxious to get a stant on Sunday's intriguing final.

Their observations, comments and views on the big day and the manner in which our men have prepared for it combine to make a most interesting study.

While those outside the Kilkenny camp appear to be more impressed by Waterford's credentials, Ossory mentors, players and supporters remain supremely confident of their ability to repeat their victory of '57.

The old Cork football star, Eamon Young, who visited the Decies headquarters last week, regards the players as the happiest and most relaxed bunch he ever saw in training. He gave it as his opinion "for what it's worth" that this would be Waterford's year.

"Fear Cluin" of the Sunday Press was impressed by what he witnessed during a visit to the Urris Infanta and, like Young, was quick to notice the happy spirit prevailing.

Con Murphy, the Cork secretary, and one of hurling's outstanding full-backs in his day, had this to say: "On form Waterford should win, but I'm always afraid of the Kilkenny bogey over Waterford. I am satisfied that the game will produce good, clean hurling from start to finish."

The old Limerick great and present County secretary, Jackie O'Connell said "it would be an open affair and anybody's game. I expect it will be a great game and touch and go until the end."

Almost to a man Kilkenny folk await the game with unshakeable confidence. "We beat them before, we can do it again" sums up the average Norester's approach to the game. And their confidence is bolstered by the fact that they have mastered Waterford's best in four "needle" encounters over the past couple of years.

County secretary Paddy Grace who won an All-Ireland medal in 1947, put it like this: "Waterford are not as good as their record would seem to indicate. If Tipperary had played with the wind in the opening half that high score would have been the other way around. And the Cork team, not a patch on previous Tipperary, proved it."

Incidentally Paddy conveniently forgot to mention that he did not see the Waterford-Tipperary game.

Alderman Willie Murphy, one of the Ossory county's selectors, believes that they have the Indian sign on our men. "We are to Waterford," he said, "what Tipperary are to Kilkenny—a bogey team."

Johnny McGovern, a great defender by any standards, shared in the general air of confidence. His "we beat them in the National League when they were in the running for a trip to America and though they are a better side than in 1957 we'll still beat them" is typical of the frame of mind in which Kilkenny people approach the showdown.

Seconds later a shot from Donal Whelan had Ollie Walsh beaten all ends up, but the leather rebounded off an upright. Maher cleared upfield and following a needless foul Kenny had Kilkenny's opening point from the resulting free.

John Barron trilled a grand effort by Denis Heaslip and almost immediately Rockett was

The Bishop's Good Luck Message

His Lordship, the Most Reverend Dr. Cohanlan has sent the following good luck message to the County Chairman, Paddy O'Fainnin:

"I write to ask you to be good enough to convey to each member of the Waterford senior hurling team and to all associated with them my sincere good wishes. It is a source of great joy to me that the young men of Waterford County and City have qualified to play in the All-Ireland Hurling Final at Croke Park on Sunday next, September 6th.

"I appreciate the enormous amount of effort and energy that has gone into the preparations for this great occasion, not only on the part of the members of the team, but on the part of many others who have given their time and services so generously and I am especially proud of the fine Christian and manly spirit that inspires the players.

"To each and all I send warmest good wishes for a most successful All-Ireland Final at Croke Park on Sunday, September 6th, 1959."
