WEDDING: MOYNIHAN - COBBLE
The wedding took place, with Nuptial Mass and Benediction at Ballyman Church, Dublin, between Garda Patrick Corrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Corrie, Drogheda, and Miss Eileen Moyne, eldest daughter of Mr. M. Moyne and the late Garda Patrick Moynehan, Parks Road, Lismore.

Rev. Fr. D. Sullivan, Ballyman officiated and celebrated the Nuptial Mass. The bride looked charming in a ballerina-length frock of fancy French lace over white satin, with shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle, held in place by a coronet of nylon leaves and pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses, carnations and maidenhair fern. Bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Moynehan (sister of the bride), who wore a ballerina-length frock of light blue net over light blue satin with matching floral headpiece. She carried a bouquet of mixed sweet-peas.

The bride was given away by her brother Mr. Sean Moynehan, N.T. Best man was Mr. M. Corrie, brother of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Collins-town Airport Reception Rooms, after which the happy couple left by air for London on their honeymoon.

SUCCEUMB TO LEINSTER

The heavy rain of Saturday and Sunday made a sodden pitch and heavy sod for the inter-provincial semi-final camogie game Munster v. Leinster for the Gael Linn Cup at Dungarvan on Sunday afternoon.

In a hard-fought game, played at times in torrential showers, Leinster qualified to meet Ulster in the cup final, by defeating a Munster team 7-3 to 4-3. Leinster attacked hard in the opening stages and led 4-2 to 0-3 at half-time. Following some determined Munster attacks in the second half the southern team took the lead, with Josie McNamara, Linda Coughlan, Pat Doyle and Kathleen Downes prominent for the side in some exciting exchanges, when the score changed hands several times, the Leinster side finally edged ahead to win the game 7-3 to 4-3, following which the blessed Sacrament will be exposed on the Altar of Adoration until the conclusion of the Forty Hours on Tuesday morning.

KEEPING FROM FIT

Health Section a Veil of Secrecy

THE outbreak of Para-typhoid in Abbey-side and the general working of the Public Health Section in the county were the subjects of some pointed remarks at a meeting of the Board of Public Assistance in Dungarvan on Monday last.

During the course of a discussion, the Chairman, Mr. Charles Curran, alleged that the Public Health Section was wrapped in a veil of secrecy and should be shaken up. Mr. Curran stated that on the occasion of the previous meeting he had requested the County Medical Officer to report on the outbreak and on what steps the authorities had taken to prevent a recurrence. Before the meeting was a press release issued by the County Medical Officer. Mr. Lannon—When the first outbreak occurred I asked what precautions had been taken, and if milk was tested. Mr. Curran—in common courtesy, he should have submitted a full report to us. The report is a notice issued to the Press which we saw during the week. What precautions have been made to prevent a recurrence? There are so many rumours going around that it is absolutely necessary to have the matter clarified. I am not satisfied it was treated as it should have been last year and that proper steps are not being taken to prevent a recurrence. I am requesting the County Medical Officer to attend the next meeting.

Mr. Curran—I want an open discussion on the matter. The outbreak has done tremendous harm to the business of the town. Mr. Walsh—I request a special joint meeting of the County Council and Board of Assistance to deal specially with this important subject. I would like to have the Co. Manager and Co. Medical Officer of Health present. Colr. T. Gallagher—Was anything done last year to prevent a recurrence? Mr. Curran—There is a veil of secrecy over this section. I made a complaint about a doctor which I received 3 months ago and I've heard nothing since about it. Mr. Lannon—The minds of people should be cleared and an official report made. It was decided to hold the joint meeting on Monday next.

County Committee of Agriculture

At Saturday's meeting of the County Committee of Agriculture, held in Dungarvan, an acknowledgement was received from the Minister of Agriculture regarding payments under the Bovine T.B. Eradication Scheme. At the previous meeting Mr. D. Heskin questioned whether the headage grant of £15 per cow was payable by the Department under the Scheme was sufficient.

and proposed that the Department should base the amount of the grant payable to farmers on the ruling price obtaining at the canneries during the season. This was seconded by Mr. Quirk and passed. Mr. W. Foran—Why did the Department change horses in mid-stream; why did they not bring the old scheme to a successful conclusion. Mr. C. Curran (vice-chairman) who presided, said the new scheme was more attractive for the southern dairying area.

Mr. W. Foran—it is rather debatable whether the new scheme is more attractive. Mr. Quirk—We passed a resolution approving of the new scheme. Mr. Norman Walsh said the Minister was entitled to the support of every committee, he was engaged in a momentous scheme. They were losing £10 or £12 per head for the reactors but that was not the intention of the Minister who acted in good faith. Their duty was to help the Minister in this matter and not to oppose him at all.

They should request, he said, that the price paid for reactors bears some relation to that given for replacements in the five Munster counties and Killarney. The man who sold reactors now lost between £10 and £12 a head. Farmers who sold before October 1st caught the ball in the hop and made hay while the sun shone. Farmers who came under the new scheme missed the bus. Mr. W. Foran—I demand an explanation from the Department as to why they changed their minds.

Mr. Curran—There was a demand from every agricultural organisation in the dairying counties and the Minister acceded to it. The new scheme was welcomed by the organisations. Mr. Walsh—The price of the reactor cow should not be depressed as a result of the change over. If we bring this matter to the notice of the Minister he will take appropriate action. We cannot afford to say anything destructive about the scheme. On the suggestion of Mr. Walsh, it was agreed to request the Minister to ensure that the price for reactors under the new scheme brought in line with that under the old one.

Members were informed by Mr. P. Conroy, C.A.O., that a letter had been received from the Department of Lands (Forestry Branch) in which it was stated that the Minister regretted he could not alter the present method of payment of private planting grant. The committee had asked the Minister to reconsider their resolution to apportion the grant for forest tree planting on the basis of £15 per acre at the time of planting and £5 at the time of the establishment period of 5 years.

Mr. W. Foran said he thought the Minister was encouraging vested interests in private planting in this country. The small man, he said, did not get a fair crack of the whip.

BIG CROWDS ATTEND CONVENT SHOW

A packed Friary Hall for each performance on Sunday afternoon (matinee), Sunday night, Monday and Wednesday, when the show was in aid of the local C.E.M.S., testifying to the unqualified success of the Operetta "The Enchanted Glen" and the Tableau "As Stars," which were presented by the pupils of St. Joseph's Presentation Convent School, Dungarvan.

Beautiful costumes, splendid stage settings and admirable use of stage-lighting, contributed with the delightful pageantry and haunting music to make an entrancing and delightful performance, which for a few too brief hours, brought the wonder of fairyland on stage before charmed audiences.

THE DAWN OF TIME
In the religious tableaux "They Shall Shine As Stars," when the curtain opens, two groups of verse-speakers, each enclosed in a "star," kneel against a background of clouds through which "sun" and "stars" are shining. The narrators take us back in spirit to the Dawn of the World, when the Almighty Creator willed that light should be made and set the glorious wealth of stars in the firmament, "to lift the heart of man."

In the next verses were told of Eve's groping for the true light before Christianity's dawn. Then St. Patrick came and brought the radiance of "Mary and Her Son" to shine for ever in our land. The Golden Years passed, and dark days of persecution followed, during which the Powers of Evil strove to dim our "stars" of Faith and Learning, and mysterious shadows "spread over all this Isle."

GIVE US LIGHT AND LIFE
Dark Rosaleen and her children, in this tableau, in their anguish raised their eyes to Mary our Glorious Morning Star and pleaded for "light and life." Their cries were heard and Erin and belle of Parisian society, returned from France to waken her "sad, grey Mother" to laughter and "radiance in Christ."

IN DUNGARVAN'S STORED STREETS
In stirring verse, the narrators in this tableau, unfold the story of Mother Nagle and her "daughter stars" until they led us to Dungarvan's storied streets at the dawn of the Nineteenth century. Faith's lamp was then burning dimly here and leaden clouds obscured the light of Learning. The prayers of holy souls pierced those clouds, and suddenly, four brilliant "stars" arose to light the way—the four valiant women who soon dispelled the gloom of ignorance, whose radiant faces since never been blurred—the Dungarvan ladies Mary McGrath, Margaret McGrath, Mary Collins and Sarah Hearn, the four pioneer nuns who were the founders of the Dungarvan branch of the Presentation Order.

THE TRUE LIGHT
In the last, most moving verse of all the narrations, the speakers convey to the audience that there is and ever will be true light in this world of ours—as long as Mary's nuns continue to lead their dedicated lives which are echoes of Her own glorious God-filled life. What a consolation to be reminded of that at the present time, when—more than ever before—the powers of evil strive, with all their might, to dim, and to extinguish all our "stars."

Right through the poetic narrative, spoken so beautifully by the young performers—like a golden thread, ran the theme of "light." Then as a grand finale came the triumphant chanting of the Heaven-inspired promise from Holy Writ—"They that instruct others unto justice shall shine as stars, for all eternity."

THE CAST
Members of the cast of the tableaux were: St. Patrick: Margaret Daly; Faith, M. Dalton; Hope, Joan Keane; Charity, Margot Power; Learning, Phyllis Quailly; Light, Roisin O'Meara; Historian, Peggy Murphy; Announcer, Fiona Browne; Nano Nagle, Kay Dromey; Dark Rosaleen, Mary O'Dea; The Four Pioneer Nuns in Dungarvan, Mary McGrath, Ann Reynolds, Margot Noonan, Margaret McGrath - Cora Noonan, Mary Collins - Breda Noonan, Sarah Hearn - Mary Hannon.

VERSE SPEAKERS

In the charming Operetta "The Enchanted Glen," which presented a picture of charm, colour and merriment to delight everyone, the action takes place in three scenes presented against splendid backgrounds and lighting.

The Operetta opens with a scene outside Dame Grumpus's Cottage, where Dame Grumpus (played by Kathleen Noonan), with a tongue which is the ter-

CHIPBOARD FACTORY AGAIN DISCUSSED

He believed that as negotiations were proceeding a further discussion on the matter would serve no useful purpose, stated Mr. Charles Curran, vice-chairman, who presided, at the monthly meeting of the County Waterford Committee of Agriculture held in Dungarvan on Saturday last.

At the previous meeting Messrs. J. Quirk, H. Dowd, N. Walsh, D. Montayne and D. Heskin strongly recommended the establishment of a chipboard factory in Lismore and deplored the suggestion of selecting Waterford as the site.

It was then proposed by Mr. J. Quirk and seconded by the chairman, Mr. M. Harty: "That this committee strongly protests against the decision to establish a chip-board factory in Waterford city rather than in Lismore which is the centre of forestry in County Waterford, and that we call on the Minister for Industry and Commerce to receive a deputation of the five members of this committee from West Waterford with the promoters of the chip-board industry on this matter."

At Saturday's meeting Mr. P. Conroy, C.A.O., read a letter from the Minister in which it was stated that the decision as to where the new factory would be sited was a matter for the promoters and that it was impossible for him to intervene in the matter.

Mr. J. Quirk—Doesn't the Department give a grant to start all industries. Mr. Curran—The Department will give a substantial grant. Mr. Quirk—They should have some say in the site where they are dealing with public money. Mr. Dowd said he proposed to have an interview with the promoters of the scheme. Mr. Curran—Any further discussion will not serve any useful purpose at this stage. It is a private company and the directors are local people. Mr. Foran said that a chip-board factory was going to be established through local enterprise. They had a call from local bodies that the factory be established in Lismore and the Department was side-tracking the matter.

Mr. Quirk—it would be better to let the matter drop as negotiations are taking place. Mr. Curran—About £250,000 is being put into it by private enterprise. The discussion ended.

Meat and Bone Meal

In view of the recent publicity regarding deaths in pigs, stated to have been fed on a diet containing meat and bone meal of high oil content which had turned rancid, it is desirable to clarify the position in regard to the use of meat and bone meal as an animal feeding stuff.

As compound feeding stuffs manufactured for sale have to be stored for fairly long periods, it is a condition of licences granted by the Minister for their manufacture that meat and bone meal included in them may not contain more than 10% of oil. This condition is intended to ensure that compound feeding stuffs containing meat and bone meal remain stable for use even after prolonged storage.

The direct sale of meat and bone meal to farmers is controlled by the Fertilisers, Feeding Stuffs and Mineral Mixtures Act, 1955, and the regulations made under the Act. Sellers of meat and bone meal are required to supply to the purchaser a statement showing, among other things, the percentage of oil included in the meal.

There are ample supplies of good quality meat and bone meal both with a high and a low oil content, so that farmers can readily procure the type of meal they require. If lengthy storage is intended meal of a low oil content should be procured.

AN EYE TO THE PAST

(ARTICLE NO. 10)

AFFANE

Near Cappoquin and east of the Blackwater is the parish and townland of Affane. The place takes its name from two Irish words which mean "Middle Ford"—a reference to a crossing place of the Blackwater, where the present townland meets the river and where people crossed the river long ago.

It is an historic place. In the Middle Ages a town existed here near the old cemetery, where the ruins of the Protestant Church stand. The town was large enough to be ranked in importance with Dungarvan, Clonmel and Carrick-on-Suir and is mentioned in one document I have seen as a "city." Now there is nothing on the site but quiet fields and trees, the last of the glory of old Affane.

In 1564 the celebrated battle took place in Affane which was described in this series already. The protagonists were the rivals Earls of Desmond and Ormond. Towards the end of the 16th century the lands of Affane were granted to Sir Walter Raleigh, the English adventurer, and shall we say, pirate. Here he is supposed to have planted the first cherry trees in Ireland.

Later on still a celebrated character lived in Affane—Valentine Greatrakes—who claimed to cure people of scrofula by "faith-healing," by a kind of auto-suggestion. Greatrakes was even invited to try his skill on that merry monarch, Charles II, who suffered from headaches. He is said to have failed with his royal patient. Greatrakes died in London and he was buried in old Affane graveyard, according to tradition.

In Old Affane, too, lived the Power family, who came originally from Mogeha in Modeligo parish. They owned, also the estate of Bellville, near which they called "Bettyville." This name was shortened to "Bellville" later. The last of the Powers of Old Affane died a few years ago. The Bellville property was sold out a hundred years before that.

Affane parish glories in beautiful place-names; there is "Sunlawn" and Crinaughtane, which means the "Wheat-land." This is the land by the Blackwater under the shadow of Knockmelmore has seen days of glory which are gone for ever.

NEW BOOK ON IRISH ANGLING

After fishing for forty years in most parts of Ireland from Counties Cork to Donegal, from Dublin to Mayo, Dr. Luce, who is a Senior Fellow at Trinity College Dublin and Bentley Professor of Metaphysics, has written this highly original book about angling and the thoughts that come to anglers and others. This book is chiefly concerned with fly fishing for salmon, sea trout and brown trout; but Dr. Luce had a good deal to say, too about spinning and adapting and trolling and, incidentally, about boatcraft.

He begins with an account of a remarkable round-the-clock race of trout he met twenty years ago on the old King's River near Dublin, then goes on to salmon angling for spring fish in the Liffey, and gives an intimate picture of the Maldives, the famous pool in Navan.

The scene shifts to the West of Ireland where Dr. Luce gives vivid pictures of battle with big brown trout in the Finny, that curious river that links Nafoeey to Upper Lough Mask. An account of angling in mountain tarns in the West country creates, as an inset, a discussion of W. B. Yeats as an angler and of his poem "The Fisherman."

There is a chapter on the gillie as the angler's friend, followed by two chapters on the great limestone lakes of the west, Corrib, Mask and Conn, which pay tribute to the gallant attempts of the Island Fisheries Trust to improve the angling in these lakes.

The high light of the book, perhaps, is the chapter on angling for summer salmon and sea trout on the small spate rivers of the west which have for the author a peculiar charm because of their romantic setting and variety of incident. The next chapter discusses the charge of cruelty which is sometimes levelled at angling.

"Surely one of the best books to come out of Ireland for many years!" (Mr. Henry Williamson.)

FARM REALISES £2,100. An eighty-acre tillage and dairy farm at Dunabratton, Anestown, the property of Mrs. K. Lomenag, has been purchased by Mr. Sean Kavanagh, Ballylameen. Kill, for the sum of £2,100.

WHY THE DELAY?

Kilmacthomas Death Again Discussed

The circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Stina Kelly, of Ballyboy, Kilmacthomas, which were the subject of a special report by the Minister for Agriculture, on Monday...

Mr. Tom Lannon gave notice of his intention to propose a resolution at the next meeting of a sworn enquiry...

Mr. J. A. Wynne (secretary) said that Dr. Corrigan's views on the Minister's report had been admitted...

Mr. Tom Lannon said it was plain that there had been some of someone's part.

Dr. Corrigan stated that this case of surgical case happened almost every day and arrangements for admission were constantly being made.

Mr. Lannon said they were discussing why this patient was not taken to hospital when she should have been.

Mr. Charles Curran (chairman)—There was neglect on the part of two doctors, Dr. Corrigan was not one of them.

Mr. Norman Walsh—if the woman had been removed immediately to hospital, would her life have been spared?

Dr. Corrigan—it would not have made the slightest difference.

Mr. Walsh—you are quite prepared to stand over it?

Dr. Corrigan—Yes.

Mr. Curran—the Minister went into the matter very thoroughly. He stated there was dereliction of duty on the part of two doctors.

Dr. Corrigan—I am still able to learn out the facts as they stand.

Mr. Curran—the nurse conveyed a message to a doctor and he did not act on it immediately.

Dr. Corrigan—it was a message to be acted on the following day.

Mr. Lannon—the ambulance was not sent when it should have been sent.

Dr. Corrigan—Cases come into hospital. If anything serious happens to them in the meantime should an ambulance have been sent?

Replying to Mr. Lannon, he stated it was 23 hours before the ambulance came.

"The doctor would not have acted in the case immediately in any case," he added.

Mr. Curran—I would be the last in the world to write anyone. According to the Minister's observations there was a dereliction of duty.

Mr. Lannon—Did the doctor in Bonmahon regard this as a serious case?

Mr. Curran—it was absolutely imperative that she should be removed immediately.

To Dr. Corrigan he stated "You are completely blameless in the matter. You should not justify a dereliction of duty on the part of anyone."

Dr. Corrigan—I am not trying to justify it. I have stated facts in my report.

Mr. Lannon said it was really a case in which they should ask the Minister to call a sworn enquiry. The people must be protected.

Mr. Curran—There is another matter which was not referred to. It was completely wrong to have two male attendants in the ambulance with the woman.

Dr. Corrigan—in this instance was only a matter of seeing people to carry a stretcher.

Mr. Lannon—Adjourn the matter and have the County Manager at the next meeting.

Mr. Curran—Will anything be done by that?

Mr. Lannon—if not, I propose we have a sworn enquiry.

Colr. W. Carroll—we should adjourn the discussion until the County Manager is present. He should be here during a discussion on such an important matter.

Mr. Gallagher—I understand that the doctors involved are outside our jurisdiction.

Mr. J. A. Wynne—The two of them are now outside the Board.

THEY BOUGHT A HOUSE WITH THEIR WINNINGS

A young couple in Wales have just won enough money to buy a house, and so they say it is conclusive proof of the legend of the 300 years old Wishing Cork Tree. Another couple had a piece of Lucky Cork sent them by a relative and got a new house two days afterwards.

A lady in Doncaster sent for a piece and won £3,000 on a penny points pool. A wife gave her doubting husband a piece of Lucky Cork for his birthday and two weeks later he won £1,500. A mother sent each of her sons a piece and one of them won £4,003 in a sweepstake. If you would like further particulars, send stamped addressed envelope to Wishing Cork Tree, Combe-in-Telmehead.

CERTINA

At the risk of being termed second hand, the information herewith tendered for all and sundry that the hurling men of Waterford and Kilkenny, whose deeds had Croke Park in a state of hysteria...

The fact is that this third chapter in the rivalry that presently exists between the standard-bearers of Ossory and Decies has been capably marked by every hurling devotee worthy of the name...

On the last occasion the Blue Riband was the prize. Now vital points and a probable place in the league final are at stake.

Certainly Sunday's clash, which is arousing as much interest as if it were a championship fixture, will pack even the spacious confines of Nowlan Park, one of the best laid out provincial centres in the country.

The pity is that we will have to forgo the services of John Barron, who is temporary out of bounds, and Phil Grimes, still nursing a hand injury, for the occasion.

Kilkenny—and it is a big feather in their cap that they will be playing on the very ground in which they prepared for the All-Ireland—have named a most formidable looking fifteen to do duty and seek vengeance, as they confidently expect, for the eight-points beating we meted out to them on October 4th.

Waterford mentors have not yet shown their hand, a wise policy in the present circumstances. Apart, however, from the fact that the allocation of the left full-back berth appears to be a loss up between Freddie O'Brien and Joe Coady, the probable moves are fairly obvious.

On the day's play the home-takers undoubtedly deserved to take the points, though the result would almost certainly have been a matter of conjecture had not a couple of seemingly genuine Waterford points been waved wide at vital periods.

One particularly good effort, kicked from a thirty yards free by Paddy Walsh, looked to be a point all over the world.

It would, however, have been less than justice had the better equipped home-takers, as they were in danger of, when Waterford hit the front just on the resumption of the second half.

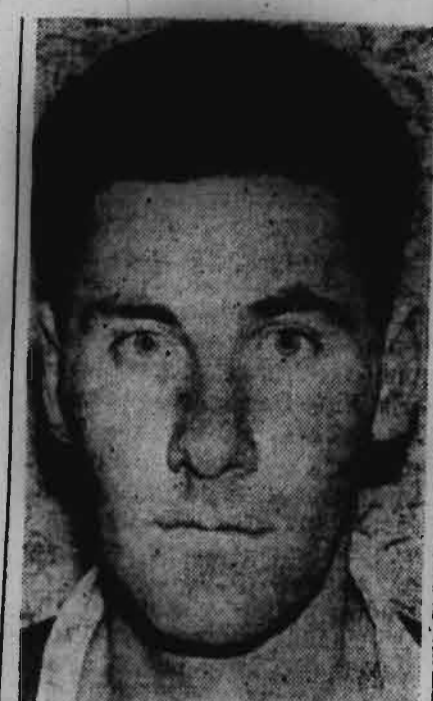

Colligan through Colligan Rockies 3-8; Brickey Rangers, 3-5.

The despatch of four players to the sideling was far and away the most notable feature to emerge from this dear, hard fought divisional final at Cappoquin on Sunday last.

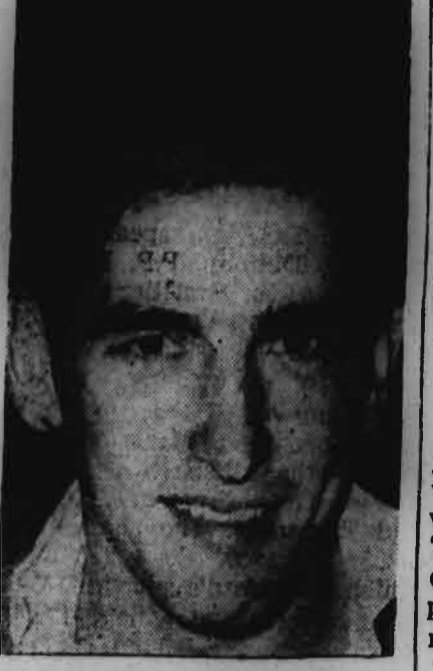

Conditions were, to say the least, most unhurling-like, and, not surprisingly in such circumstances, the standard of performance never attained anything other than a fair-to-moderate pitch.

In the end Rockies, the reigning divisional kingpins, just about deserved to prevail if only because of the fact that they made the most of considerably fewer scoring opportunities.

Over the hour Brickeys forced the pace. They dominated the first-half exchanges, yet could only show a mere goal advantage at the half-way break. On the turnover the holders made ground in remarkable time and proceeded to hammer out a victory that becomes a good deal more impressive looking when one bears with the fact that they were dealt a cruel blow with the departure of Mickey Walsh, pro-

DONAL WHELAN

MARTIN O'G MORRISSEY

Clare, backed by a strong breeze and playing downhill, kicked a veritable bag of wiles in the opening period, a fact that could be attributed as much to the hard tackling of the Decies regular as it could to their own lack of shooting power.

Their interval lead of 0-3 to 0-1 did not look an at all adequate margin. But the Dalcaisians played their most workmanlike football during the final half an hour and urged on by the enthusiastic home following finished much the stronger side.

They had in Jones a most capable goalkeeper and outfield they owed much to Sean Luddy, Tom Mangan, Frank Kennedy, Martin Queally and J. O'Neill.

Scamus Power and Tom Cunningham, displaying the results of their hurling training, were the outstanding men on a Waterford side in which Miell Prendergast, Paddy Walsh, Tom Power and Tom McGrath were also to be found.

Scorers for Waterford were: Pat Sweeney (1-0), Tom McGrath (0-1).

Waterford—D. Corcoran, W. Smith, S. Roche, M. Prendergast, T. Walsh, S. Power, T. Cunningham, M. White, P. Walsh, R. Ryan, M. Guiry, T. Power, N. Dalton, T. McGrath, P. Sweeney.

Subsequent to the final whistle referee Peter O'Kelly Lynch, who ruled the proceeding with an iron hand, was the subject of an attack by a section of the attendance obviously in disagreement with some of his decisions.

The winners, who played a brand of hurling that was as uncompromising as it was untechnical, had men of exceptional merit in Paddy Fitzgerald, who maintained a first-class ability, Nick Quill, a defender and attacker in turn, Cyril Power, Christy Dower, Eddie Brett, Tom Byrnes and Jimmy Tobin.

The Sprats brothers were the outstanding men on a Brickey represented by Mick Walsh and Patsy Donnelly.

Colligan, by virtue of their victory go on to contest the divisional decider for the third successive year.

HURLING RIVALRY PREPARE

Mount Sion and Cappoquin, the big two of Waterford hurling at the moment, are in special training for their eagerly awaited meeting in the championship semi-final on Sunday week.

Erin's Own and Dunhill are the contestants in the second semi-final which takes place on Sunday, November 15th.

EASY FOR VALLEY ROVERS

Valley Rovers, 4-9; Cappoquin 0-1. The scoreline tells the story of Valley Rovers' clear-cut and most convincing victory over a disappointing Cappoquin side in the junior football championship at Ballymacarby on Sunday last.

Throughout an hour that yielded little football of any worthwhile note, the winners were in complete command. They scored almost at will, disdaintfully containing every Cappoquin challenge and eventually ran out the most decisive of winners.

It is, however, rather difficult to assess Rovers' real merit on the basis of this performance. The opposition was most disappointing, yet there is no gainsaying the fact that the divisional titleholders did shape well. They cannot reasonably expect to see them again encountering such palpitably sub-standard opposition in the remaining stages of the competition.

The winners take on Ballyduff in the divisional semi-final in a fortnight's time.

NEWS FROM AGLISH

ANNUAL DANCE As will be seen from the announcement in our advertising columns elsewhere in this issue, the annual hunt dances sponsored by Aglish Harriers will be held in the Boathouse, Cappoquin on Sunday night, November 8th.

FOOTBALL SEMI-FINAL Despite their unassuming form throughout the year and notwithstanding the fact that they will have to make the long journey to the city for the event, the local Geraldines remain quite confident of their ability to seriously challenge De La Salle when they clash in the semi-final of the senior football championship, on Sunday, November 29th.

The City Sportsfield, which was decided on by the toss of a coin, has proved a happy hunting ground for our men in the past and, was the scene of our successive junior championship victories in 1955 and '58.

There is, however, little need to stress the nature of our forthcoming task. De La Salle are county champions. Their record over the past couple of years speaks for itself. And they will be playing on what is for all practical purposes their virtual stamping ground.

Our task is formidable surely. But it is not impossible, unless our performance has been to-date. Back in 1955 we shocked a De La Salle side that was almost as highly regarded in its own way. With the proper approach, a revival of old-time spirit, and, of course, an honest to goodness bout of preparation, there is no apparent reason why we should be unduly pessimistic about our chances now.

De La Salle will be fit. That is a certainty. Yet, we must at all costs match them in that respect. In the circumstances an earnest appeal is made to all concerned to make the most of training during the next couple of weeks.

When training, which will be stepped up gradually, commences on Tuesday night it is to be hoped that there will be a full muster in attendance. A number of challenge games, including one with Kilrossanty on November 8th, are also in the offing.

Lamented Passing of Popular Abbeyside Man LATE JAMES FRAHER

ST. AUGUSTINE'S TERRACE The rather unexpected announcement of the death, which occurred in Waterford on Thursday last, of Mr. James Fraher, came as a painful shock to his legions of friends throughout Abbeyside, Dungarvan and surrounding countryside.

The late Mr. Fraher, who belonged to an old and highly esteemed West Waterford family, first saw the light of day in Ballyduff. He had resided in Abbeyside for a considerable period of years prior to his lamented death, which occurred after a brief illness and at a comparatively early age.

In the days when Freedom's Call rang clear the deceased and the other members of his family gave unflinchingly of their services to the Republican movement. He attained the rank of Adjutant to West Waterford Brigade I.R.A. and again enlisted in the Local Defence Force during the last emergency.

Up to the time of his last illness, the late Mr. Fraher who was held in the highest respect by employers and colleagues alike, occupied a respectable position in the local tannery.

Kilrossanty on the March

Kilrossanty mentors, are, by all accounts, well pleased by the excellent turnout when they commenced training for the senior football semi-final during the week. The Comeragh men would appear to have their sights trained on another championship. Very obviously, too, they are going to leave no stone unturned in their bid to take the crown for the fifth time since 1949. And Kilrossanty in that mood are a law unto themselves. What a humdinger their clash with Mount Sion on November 22nd promises to be.
