16 Dispensary Districts For County?

Modern Style Nun Visits Home

On a brief visit to her home in the Ring Gaeltacht at the weekend was a young nun who had travelled from her convent in Rome to visit her father. She wore fashionable modern clothes instead of a nun's habit.

The Order was specially designed to meet the needs of modern times for greater facilities of operation in areas where the wearing of religious garb might prove a hindrance but that nuns in ordinary smart lay-attire could follow their vocation of Christian charitable work among the poor in a more effective manner. The nuns in the Opus Dei Order are not called "Sister" or "Mother," but use their normal baptismal names.

A SPECIAL Meeting of the Waterford Health Authority for the purpose of considering the Committee's report on the revised dispensary boundaries for the County, was held in Dungarvan on Monday last. After a short discussion it was decided to recommend a total of sixteen dispensary districts, which would mean one less than the existing number and three doctors less.

A special meeting of the Waterford Health Authority for the purpose of considering the Committee's report on the revised dispensary boundaries for the County was held in Dungarvan on Monday last. After a short discussion it was decided to recommend a total of sixteen dispensary districts, which would mean one less than the existing number and three doctors less.

Mr. A. Hamilton said two or more dispensary districts could be amalgamated and in that way they would cut the number of dispensaries in the County.

Mr. C. Curran said the patients were the first consideration of the Committee.

Mechtild, Portlucella, Ballinasloe, and Sr. M. Gertrude, Victoria, Australia.

BISHOP OF CLOYNE SPEAKS ON GRACE

The Pastoral Letter of his Lordship, Most Rev. Dr. John Aherne, Bishop of Cloyne, took as its subject: Grace, Sanctifying and Actual.

"We cannot understand what sanctifying grace is and the important place it should have in our lives, unless we first consider the destiny to which God raised us," said his Lordship. Sanctifying Grace is life, though it is not the ordinary life we have in this world, nor the immortality which belongs to our soul because it is a spirit. It is a life which we receive from Jesus Christ, who is the source of every grace that we have, and who came into the world to give us supernatural life.

HIS LORDSHIP, MOST REV. DR. AHERNE

This is the teaching of Jesus Christ Himself. Who said: "I am come that they may have life and have it more abundantly." It is also the teaching of St. John in his first Epistle: "By this hath the charity of God appeared towards us, because God hath sent His only begotten Son into the world that we may live by Him."

The supernatural life of grace is first given to us in Baptism, the Sacrament instituted by Christ, wherein we are born of water and the Holy Ghost.

As is taught explicitly by St. Peter, by the Fathers of the Church and by the Popes in their encyclical letters, we become partakers of the divine nature, and in a very real though mysterious sense, God becomes our Father and we become His sons when we receive sanctifying grace into our souls. And since we are the sons of God and since God is our Father, we are, as St. Paul teaches, "heirs indeed to God and joint heirs with Christ" and we have a real right to share in the kingdom of God and in the happiness of heaven.

Sanctifying grace is a free gift of God. That is why it is called grace, from the Latin word "gratia" which means a favour to which we have no strict right. The kind of grace spoken to you in this Pastoral Letter is called sanctifying, because it sanctifies us and makes us become children of God, so that we are holy and pleasing to him. But there is another kind of grace as well, another kind of free gift which God gives us for the salvation of our souls. In order to distinguish it from sanctifying grace, this second kind of gift is called actual grace. It does not give us a new life, nor is it something permanent or lasting like sanctifying grace.

Instead, it is a special transitory or passing help which God gives us to enable us to avoid sin or to perform some particular act which tends towards our salvation.

REPENTANCE

Sanctifying grace can be lost in the sacrament of Penance, by committing a mortal sin, and though it can be recovered this is possible only if we repent of our sin. Repentance is absolutely necessary because sanctifying grace and mortal sin cannot exist in the soul at the same time. Mortal sin means that a person disregards the command of God as a serious matter. He cannot regain God's friendship unless he turns his back on sin and turns again to God.

I emphasise this because I fear that there are some people who do not appreciate how necessary repentance is for the forgiveness of sin. They appear to have a vague hope that the priest can forgive their sin, even if they do not turn away from it.

They would like to be free of sin, but they would not take the necessary steps to get pardon from God. They would not banish from their hearts hatred of their enemies, they will not give up the free proximate occasions of sins against purity, they will not restore property which they unjustly possess.

Dearly beloved brethren, I appeal to you to realise that you cannot get forgiveness of sin unless you really repent of it. As you already know, the Pope has convoked the Second Vatican Oecumenical Council to meet in Rome towards the the long-established custom of not holding or attending dances during Lent. I trust too, that the diocesan regulation of not holding dances on Saturday nights at any time during the year, or on the eves of holy days of obligation will continue to be faithfully observed.

I ask the faithful of the diocese to continue their devotion to Blessed Oliver Plunkett and to pray that God may grant the miracles required in the process of the Marry's canonisation. We should pray to Blessed Oliver in our spiritual and temporal needs.

DEPUTY ORMOND IN THE DAIL

Deputy Sean Ormond asked the Minister for Transport & Power if Coras Iompair Eireann propose to undertake a survey of problem lines with a view to further economies in the system; and, if so, what lines have been earmarked for this survey and what sections of the service are likely to be affected.

The Minister replied that he was informed by C.I.E. that the entire system is to be re-examined to see what further economies can be effected. These economies are necessary to bridge the recent and prospective wage increases, and the total revenue which can be attained by increases in fares and rates and greater productivity.

This examination has only commenced and I am unable to forecast the results. It is, of course, a matter for C.I.E. to determine the means by which they will achieve the statutory obligations to pay their way by March 1964.

Deputy asked the Minister for Lands if he is aware that Six-County fishermen operating around the south-east coast have, by reason of being heavily subsidised, a decided advantage over Twenty-Six County fishermen; and if so, if he will take steps to put the Twenty-Six County fishermen on a basis of equality with those of the Six Counties.

The Minister replied that he understood that Six-County fishermen do not qualify for a subsidy in respect of fish which they land in the Twenty-Six Counties. Independently of this, however, I am looking into the possibility of improving conditions for our fishermen.

The monthly meeting of the Dungarvan Irish Countrywomen's Association was held at the club rooms on Tuesday, February 27th. M. T. O'Donoghue, B.E. gave a very interesting lecture on Civil Defence. Essentially the Town Association of the I.C.A. wish to make it known that they have no connection with the Country Markets and strongly resent certain statements made by a member of the Dungarvan Urban Council at a recent meeting.

THE FLOODS

Unusually heavy floods which affected Lismore in Cork City on Wednesday also took its toll on Abbeyside and Dungarvan. With sales of tremendous force sweeping through the town the dangers to people and property became perilous and most took the wise course of staying indoors. With the high tide at approximately 6.45 p.m. on Wednesday evening, many houses in the low lying areas of Abbeyside were flooded to a depth of over 18 inches, causing much damage to furniture. The 'Look-Out' report to the local health authority was unrecognisable as the rushing waves turned it into a 'minor sea'. Local 'victualer' Joe Conway was another to suffer losses and a large quantity of his cattle-feeding stuffs were destroyed on his lands near 'Fr. Toomey's'.

In many ways he left his impress on the life of his native district, and was widely known and esteemed and unreservedly trusted, and his sound judgment in current affairs was sought after by the leading men of the provinces of Munster and Leinster.

Leamybrien Hall held a capacity and most appreciative audience on Thursday night week, 1st inst., when the talented members of Stradbally Amateur Dramatic Class presented Mr. J. B. The entertainment in its every phase proved pronouncedly pleasing, and the performers received the unstinted plaudits of their well-satisfied patrons.

CAPPOQUIN NOTES

DEATH OF MR. N. HERR

Through the death of Mr. Nicholas Herr, which took place in Ardenk Hospital, on Sunday, 4th inst., Cappoquin has lost one of its most popular residents. The news of his death was learned with deep sorrow in the town and district. He was a native of Tipperary and over thirty years ago settled in Cappoquin, where he became a general favourite. A great lover of sport he was actively associated with local sporting clubs. He was particularly interested in coursing and was a founder member of the Cappoquin Club to which, down through the years, he gave invaluable help. His familiar figure and cheery presence will be much missed by his many friends and in particular by the members of the C.Y.M.S., of which he was a staunch supporter. To his wife and sons sympathy is extended in the great loss they have suffered.

The obsequies reflected public regret on his passing. Practically every family in the town and district was represented and many from outside areas, including Tipperary were present. A great personal friend, Mr. M. Davern, T.D., was unable to attend and was represented by Mr. E. A. Wyley. Officiating clergy were Very Rev. J. Kenneally, P.P., and Rev. M. O'Meara, C.C.

The chief mourners were: Mrs. E. Herr (wife); John and Plunkett (sons); Mrs. J. Cremin, Limerick; Mrs. O'Dwyer, do. (sisters); Thomas and James O'Leary, J. Cremin (brothers-in-law); Mrs. D. Egan (sister-in-law); and Mr. D. Egan.

Funeral arrangements by A. Walsh and Sons, Cappoquin.

What These Marches Are All About

N.F.A. NEWS

TAKING the low density of population in the two counties into consideration these were substantial protests. These words are quoted from a report in one of our national newspapers on the demonstrations held by six thousand farmers in Counties Mayo and Donegal. Similar reports appeared daily on demonstration such as the six thousand Claremen who marched in protest through the town of Ennis, the four thousand farmers who paraded in the Market Square, Portlaoise to bite the snow and hail.

More than 100,000 people are estimated to have taken part in the demonstrations. The fact that the Government has accepted the proposals for a new policy is a relief to the farmers. It is to be hoped that Government Departments will also accept the proposals for a new policy. It is to be hoped that Government Departments will also accept the proposals for a new policy.

When these marches started in Waterford and Kerry, it was a surprise to many. The fact that the Government has accepted the proposals for a new policy is a relief to the farmers. It is to be hoped that Government Departments will also accept the proposals for a new policy.

He had done so in the past, but now it is again. The fact that the Government has accepted the proposals for a new policy is a relief to the farmers. It is to be hoped that Government Departments will also accept the proposals for a new policy.

All his efforts are directed towards the fact, namely, that Irish farmers do not want a second treaty. The fact that the Government has accepted the proposals for a new policy is a relief to the farmers. It is to be hoped that Government Departments will also accept the proposals for a new policy.

Every other section of the community has received wage increases to help them face the rising cost of living. There has been eight rounds of wage increases. Farmers do not object to others looking for what they regard as their rights, but it is grossly unfair surely, that they alone should be asked to accept the same or lower prices for their commodities, than they received in 1953. What is worse for the goose should be sauce for the gander. Farmers have suffered doubly, because while their prices have remained low, their costs have increased enormously.

Other organisations, such as the I.C.A., Macra na Feirme and the I.C.M.S.A., have come out boldly in support of the N.F.A. demands at local level. More than 900,000 signatures have been publicly shown their dissatisfaction with existing conditions and have called for immediate redress of the situation. People are becoming angry at the lackadaisical way in which their demands are being treated. If nothing is done and if they become angrier, who can blame them.

senatives that farmers were in the worst possible position to accept any increase in costs regardless of the percentage increase which may be involved because far from being able to add the extra cost to the selling price of their produce they are actually forced to accept falling prices.

Therefore, we ask again—why should farmers be called on to accept the increase in wages for other sections of the community out of falling farm prices? C.I.E. may be quite correct in its answer but the fact remains that the question is a valid one.

Stupendous Increase in Agriculture Losses Out

Losses in the agricultural sector have increased by 13% in the past few weeks. This is in response to the continued request from the Government to reduce the subsidies on agricultural products. The Government has refused to do so, and the result is a further increase in losses.

The estimates further show a fall in expenditure of 7.3 million pounds in agriculture due to the withdrawal of the guarantee payments for cattle and sheep. The Government has refused to do so, and the result is a further increase in losses.

Undue Haste

For the information of our members, we would like to quote from a letter received from the Minister for Local Government, stating that: "The collection of rates is a matter for the rating authorities concerned and no pressure whatever has been put on these bodies to collect rates earlier this year than in previous years."

Agricultural Policy at Last!

Early in January, the European Economic Community (Common Market countries) reached the unanimous agreement needed to move into the second stage of the Common Market's transitional period. To do so, it had to overcome the most difficult problems which have faced the Community in its four years of existence—the problems of working out a common policy for agriculture. The main lines of that policy are substantially those originally proposed by the Common Market Commission. It can truly be hailed as a triumph in modern international relations.

Timothy O'Sullivan was appointed as Secretary, and Mr. P. J. Lisivigeen was appointed Treasurer.

Money to finance the work as it went along came by way of a temporary loan from a bank in Killarney with the grants coming from the Department of Local Government and County Council as security. Work on the scheme got under way in the middle of July. The first job was to sink their houses when a lot of the people in nearby Killarney and the local diviner, Paddy Kelly, Town were without supply due to a local epidemic. Paddy Kelly, under-stipend. This was because had confirmed that there was sufficient water available to Government regulations for their requirements. Paddy gave

As the schoolhouse is due for replacement soon—it was extended to include a further six houses, which necessitated the installation of a pressure system. This is because these houses are above the level of the reservoir and could not be supplied from it by gravity. Four years ago the people of Lisivigeen had no electricity, now they have running water. As the scheme was worked out at one farmer remarked, "I don't know which is the bigger boon to us, the light or the water."

his services free, another example of local co-operation. Teachers to take the plastic piping which was laid after joining on the banks—a simple operation—were then opened and the reservoir and pump house were erected from precast concrete beams. All the labour was voluntary and there was no question of compensation to anybody for disturbance or lifting sods.

Lisivigeen is situated at the junction of the main Killarney-Cork and Killarney-Mallow roads and this presented one of the main obstacles which the community had to overcome—crossing the roads with the piping. This had to be done in five places due to the layout of the scheme. It was no easy task in summertime in a tourist area like Killarney. But here the community spirit showed how things can be done. The committee hired a compressor and pneumatic drill from the County Council and with the locals themselves operating the drill, had the road cutting job completed in one day. No mean feat when one considers that both roads are over 50 ft wide and that the piping had to be laid 2 1/2 ft under the road surface.

77 year-old Mrs. Ellen Scannell finds water on tap a big change from when she was Commented her son Eugene, "we should have had it centuries ago."

French they came across a large cave in sandy soil which had to be bridged with concrete beams. As Secretary, Timothy O'Sullivan, commented: "work like his gives people confidence in their ability to get things done on a community basis." Over 3 miles of trench was dug to contain the piping, some of it had to go through rough ground. The main piping is 2 inches in diameter with 1/2 inch and 3/4 inch tees off it to houses, farm yards and fields. It took many hours of hard work to complete the scheme in November last but this voluntary effort saved hundreds of pounds. The overall cost of the scheme was £7,100 without taking into account the voluntary labour. Each of the houses was qualified for the Department of Local Government grant and the Kerry County Council grant, both of which came to a total of £1,500 for the scheme.

Already the scheme is being extended to include a further six houses, which necessitated the installation of a pressure system. This is because these houses are above the level of the reservoir and could not be supplied from it by gravity. Four years ago the people of Lisivigeen had no electricity, now they have running water. As the scheme was worked out at one farmer remarked, "I don't know which is the bigger boon to us, the light or the water."

What These Marches Are All About

N.F.A. NEWS

TAKING the low density of population in the two counties into consideration these were substantial protests. These words are quoted from a report in one of our national newspapers on the demonstrations held by six thousand farmers in Counties Mayo and Donegal. Similar reports appeared daily on demonstrations such as the six thousand Claremen who marched in protest through the town of Ennis, the four thousand farmers who paraded in the Market Square, Portlaoise to spite the snow and hail.

More than 100,000 people have already shown publicly their support for the farmers' just demands for fairer treatment at the hands of the powers that be. This shows the serious concern of Irish agriculture. The few semi-illiterate planning and demonstration When these marches started in Waterford and Kilkenny, people wondered what it was all about. Now they no longer wonder. The general public is waking to the fact that farmers have a grievance and that everything is not rosy in the agricultural garden and that future prosperity depends on the full and active participation of the farmer in the plans of the Government. It is to be hoped that Government Departments will also wake up. A completely new approach to agriculture is needed. A more definite policy in which every farmer can share is essential. Given incentive and some sense of security where production is concerned, the Irish farmer will prove himself second to none in his response.

He had done so in the past, he will do it again, but the present atmosphere of discussion and frustration must be rid of. Costs must be reduced, unfair burdens must be lifted from his shoulders, and remunerative markets must be found.

All this adds up to one simple fact, namely, that Irish farmers do not want special treatment, neither do they want charity. All they ask is that they be given a fair share in the national prosperity in accordance with the effort they put into producing it and the risks that they take in maintaining it. It is too much to ask that in 1962 we stop treating the Irish farmer as a second rate citizen and that we merely give him the reward that is due?

Every other section of the community has received wage increases to help them face the rising cost of living. There has been eight rounds of wage increases. Farmers do not object to others looking for what they regard as their rights, but it is grossly unfair surely, that they alone should be asked to accept the same or lower prices for their commodities, than they received in 1953. Stupendous Increase in Agriculture Losses Out

Over the past few weeks, the Minister for Finance has continued requests from old branches down the country that are being extended their membership from new branches that are springing up like mushrooms in the more active counties. Typical of what one can hear everywhere at the moment is the remark made by Mr. Maurice Pheasant, Honorary Secretary of Gaultier Branch, who reported to a recent Annual General Meeting that membership for the year had increased by 13% to 35% of the farmers in the district were now members and that before the end of the year they would see to it that there was a hundred per cent membership.

In South West Cork alone, more than 1500 farmers have joined the N.F.A. within a period of three weeks. Temporary, Clare, Westmeath, Laois and many others can show an extraordinary growth in membership. Not only is it gratifying to see our ranks swell, this new interest is wonderful insofar as it shows a growing realisation on the part of Irish farmers for the need for concerted national endeavour in trying to better conditions within the industry and as a preparation for the difficult years ahead.

Bols got off to a great start with a goal after only two minutes play. This seem to badly shake the home-ers confidence and it was practically all Bols up to the half-time whistle. However, the finish in front of goal was very weak and they failed to increase their lead.

On the change-over, Abbeyside with the breeze now behind them, went into it straight from the kick-off and soon lay siege on the Bols goal. They were rewarded after 15 minutes when centre-forward Michael Singleton bagged home the equaliser. Play swung from end to end after this with both sides having some very near misses. Abbeyside with a bit of luck in those closing minutes would have grabbed the winner but overall a draw was a fair result.

John McGrath in goal played his usual confident game while the rest of the backs were Jerry Flynn and Paddy Whelan while Bill Organ turned in a useful second-half. But there was a rather lacadaisical approach up front and the only two forwards to hit top form were Singleton. The foregoing in Michael Singleton and Danny O'Connor, the latter having his best game to-date.

NEXT SUNDAY'S GAME.
On Sunday next Abbeyside travel to the city to meet Hibemians. This is a very difficult obstacle for the village lads and they will have to be right on top of their form to overcome their city rivals.

Why Make Farmers Pay?

Members of the N.F.A. Industrial Committee and Livestock Committee met representatives of the C.I.E. Commercial Department on Friday, 2nd March, 1962. The main item for discussion was the recent increase in freight charges, with particular reference to livestock. C.I.E. stated that a general increase of 10% had been made in an effort to offset the additional impost of £2,000,000 a year resulting from wage increases and alterations in conditions of work.

The special problem of the man who formerly got a reduced rate for a wagon carrying a small lot of say, eight cattle, was discussed. It was admitted on behalf of C.I.E. that the increase in such cases would be in the region of 25% on the basis that the charge for a full wagon will be payable in future, and assuming that a wagon holds ten cattle.

The N.F.A. representatives were also assured that every effort had been made to minimise the effect on freight rates by improving efficiency and reducing operating costs. It was emphasised by our repre-

Was Once A Famine Area

As Secretary, Timothy O'Sullivan, commented: "work like his gives people confidence in their ability to get things done on a community basis."

Over 3 miles of trench was opened to contain the piping, some of it had to go through rough ground. The main piping is 2 inches in diameter with 4 inch and 3 inch tees off it to houses, farm yards and fields. It took many hours of hard work to complete the scheme by November last but this voluntary effort saved hundreds of pounds. The overall cost of the scheme was £2,100 without asking into account the voluntary labour. Each of the house owners qualified for the Department of Local Government grant and the Kerry County Council grant, both of which came to a total of £1,500 of the scheme.

As the schoolhouse is due for replacement soon—it was built by Lord Kenmare in 1860—it did not qualify for a grant. Instead a generous contribution was made to the scheme by the local Administrator, Rev. J. Sheahan to have water installed in it for the 140 pupils.

The entire cost of running the scheme was worked out at 5/- for each household every two months. This sum, which is added to their electricity bills, includes the cost of maintenance and any repair of the pumps and the electrical end which may arise.

"Well worth it" was the comment of farmer Arthur E. O'Keefe. Up to last November he had to drive his cattle a mile along the main road to a disused watering trough beside the main well. When he got there he had to fill the trough with a hand pump. "It wasn't a pleasant job with all the traffic on the road apart from the time it wasted" he said, "now it's all done for me automatically."

The people of Lisivigen can now drink the old days without water on tap and wonder how they managed, but they are also looking to the future. A 60 gallon tank has been installed in the roof of each house so that later on they can install a hot water system and a bathroom with modern sanitation.

Already the scheme is being extended to include a further six houses which necessitated the installation of a pressure system. This is because these houses are above the level of the main pipe and could not be supplied from it by gravity.

Four years ago the people of Lisivigen got electricity, now they have running water. As one farmer remarked: "I don't know which is the bigger boon to us, the light or the water."

his services free, another example of local co-operation.

Trenches to take the plastic piping which was laid after joining on the banks—a simple operation—were then opened and the reservoir and pump house were erected from precast concrete beams. All the labour was voluntary and there was no question of compensation to anybody for disturbance or lifting sods.

Lisivigen is situated at the junction of the main Killarney-Cork and Killarney-Mallow roads and this presented one of the main obstacles which the community had to overcome—crossing the roads with the piping. This had to be done in five places due to the layout of the scheme. It was no easy task in summertime in a tourist area like Killarney. But here the community spirit showed how things can be done. The committee hired a compressor and pneumatic drill from the County Council and with the locals themselves operating the drill, had the road cutting job completed in one day. No mean feat when one considers that both roads are over 50 ft. wide and that the piping had to be laid 2 ft. under the road surface for each household.

Another obstacle was when in the course of digging a hard weather, the people of Lisivigen were proud of the fact that they had water on tap in their homes without any due to the Department of Local Government regulations. Paddy gave

HURLERS TRAVEL TO

GOREY Favoured To Account For Wexford

To venture into Wexford territory and successfully engage in hurling combat with the renowned Slaneysiders invariably means a super-human effort on the part of the "intruders." In brief, it is a task that the strongest of Counties often found to be beyond their capabilities. But on Sunday next, Waterford travel to Gorey on that one-fold mission and should their journey prove a rewarding one then they will become warm favourites to qualify for the league semi-final on April 15th.

ANOTHER BRICKEY-KILROSSANTY DRAW

They're-at it again. Yes, these arch rivals of Waterford football, Brickey's and Kilrossanty, once again failed to settle a Phelan Cup argument at Dungarvan on Sunday last, when they drew 1-5 each, after a very disappointing game.

For once spectators had to endure a practically thrillless hour. Noteworthy incidents were non-existent, and the only after match talking point was the premature full time whistle which referee Mick Whyte blew in the 58th minute.

Seldom, if ever, can the standard of football between these teams have been so low. Both sides were obviously not fully tuned up for the occasion, but even this apparent lack of adequate preparation would not be deemed a feasible excuse for the substandard play by my reckoning.

A draw then in the circumstances was about the fairest result. Both attacks missed golden opportunities of scores, particularly towards the close, but truthfully speaking, neither side deserved to have won outright. Neither team, on this display at any rate, could possibly hope to achieve anything of importance. For Kilrossanty the result must have given immense satisfaction, but the Brickey's can have no alibis.

After the game I spoke to several Kilrossanty men closely connected with team affairs, and whilst all agreed the game was below par, all were satisfied this was the start of a new era for the "old Kilrossanty." Yes indeed, optimism is high in the parish as a result of this morale-boosting draw, and no doubt they will face the replay in a more confident mood.

That, however, is another day's work, but the writer fervently hopes it produces far better fare than Sunday's best-forgotten draw.

HURLERS TRAVEL TO GOREY

The close-season lull in inter-county activity is well and truly behind us now, and Sunday next marks the return of the county's hurlers to league duty when they travel to Gorey to take on Wexford in a game of vital importance to Waterford.

A defeat on Sunday could have disastrous consequences, and would impair the county's prospects of appearing in their second successive league decider greatly. Wexford have already said good-bye to their league aspirations as a result of defeats by Limerick and Cork, and will, in all probability try out some newcomers on Sunday.

That however does not ensure a Deise victory. A healthy rivalry has always existed between the counties, but despite the insignificance of the game to the Slaneysiders, they will, nonetheless, go all out to lower Waterford's unbeaten record.

The team, announced since last week, has no surprise selections, but the continued absence of Jackie Condon, Tom Cheasty and Larry Guinan is something of a blow. Feature of the selected side is John Barron's apparently new permanent return, and if the De La Salle men can touch his 50 form there will be few quibbles.

On form it's a game that Waterford must be fancied to win. Wexford haven't been enjoying the best of good fortune recently and even at home may not be good enough to halt the Waterford men.

JOHN MITCHELLS (KILROSSANTY) OUT ON SUNDAY

Those that will make Dungarvan their venue on Sunday next will witness history being made. For Sunday marks the debut of John Mitchell's (Kilrossanty) into the world of competitive football, when they tackle Emmets in the first round of the 1962 Phelan Cup.

Only last Sunday the other football half of the Comeragh parish—"old Kilrossanty" made their initial appearance since they were drawn to play Brickey Rangers to a draw. Now, hot on the heels of that game come the Mitchells with a burning anxiousness to prove that they are as good (if not even better) than their fellow parishioners.

Curiosity alone should be sufficient to attract a big attendance for this game. The appearance of Mitchell's in Dungarvan for the first time is an attraction in itself, and many are extremely interested to see how Emmets—now in their first year as seniors—in fact this also is their senior debut—will fare in the higher grade. It's a novel and unique pairing in every respect, but somehow I feel these senior debutants will give us an enjoyable game.

No doubt the composition of Mitchell's line-out will be watched with more than average interest. Of the old "stock" they can call on the Kiwans—Tommy, Michael, Noel and the ever-green Billy, Pele Gough, and Rogie and Wally Connors. Their greatest capture, however, has been Eamon Halpin the former county minor who, if available on Sunday will be a tremendous acquisition. These seasoned stagers will be the back-bone of their victory bid on Sunday, but reports concerning the "young blood" which has been roped in are also highly encouraging.

Since the "son finitum" county junior football final Emmets have gone under heavily to Ballinacourty, and will be anxious to erase the memories of that defeat on Sunday. Despite travel difficulties involved in bringing some players home for the game I have been assured they will field their strongest side, Dick Tobin, Eddie Brett, John Kiely, Garry Quinlan and Vincent Byrne are fine footballers even by senior standards and could shatter Mitchell's hopes of making a winning debut at the Old Boro.

For all that it's a game with too many question marks attached and for once I am shirking the job of attempting a correct forecast. Mitchell's, when beating Gaultier in a recent challenge, looked a very good side. Likewise we are all fully aware of Emmets' true worth. The issue appears wide open, and for safety sake I intend to leave it that way.

ing to sum up how the game will go. For example, if we compare the displays of the respective counties against Limerick then one would without hesitation predict a comfortable Waterford victory.

Limerick it will be recalled travelled to New Ross and scored a surprise but meritorious victory over the Leinster side. Yet reflect back again and look at the thorough annihilation Waterford subsequently meted out to these self-same Shannoniders. On these facts alone Waterford's role of favouritism on Sunday is not alone justified but also inevitable.

But a word of warning. Any one travelling South-East in over-complacent mood on Sunday could have a rude shock awaiting them. Wexford's lowly league position is a very misleading guide to their true worth and I have been assured from many quarters that they are fully bent on halting Waterford's victory gallop.

The Deise selectors were clearly not perturbed by the recent Kinnane Cup defeat by Kilkenny and no less than twelve of that side have again been nominated for duty on Sunday.

Gone from that beaten side are Jim Irish, Billy Dunphy and Mick Kiely who are replaced by Jimmy Byrne, Phil Grimes and Mick Murphy. The return of this latter trio is bound to have a more steady influence on the side in general and their inclusion gives the team a far more potent appearance.

Positional switches are also made and Mick Dempsey, at right half forwards, against Kilkenny is now brought out to partner Joe Condon at mid field.

The drawn game was a big disappointment for the big attendance that turned up and we were treated to a thrill-less hour. It would, however, be really drawing the long bow to suggest that Sunday will be no better, and I confidently expect a vast improvement in playing standards from both sides.

In drawing with the Rangers, Kilrossanty surpassed the expectations of many and the knowledge that they are still a force to be reckoned with will help them greatly in their bid to dethrone the holders at the second attempt.

Likewise if the Brickeys were over-confident on Sunday last (it has been put down as a reason for their inability to beat the Comeragh side), they can have no such excuses on this occasion. Furthermore, I expect their forwards to have learned a great deal from their own poor display in the drawn game.

Again, there should be very little in it at the end on Sunday. Brickeys are bent on making certain this time while Kilrossanty, secure in the knowledge that the right material is at their disposal face the game more confidently than heretofore. Prior to the drawn game the Brickeys were my choice and if only for honour sake I'll stand by them for this replay.

ERIN'S OWN BREAK HOODOO AT LAST

Try and try again boys and you'll succeed at last. So the saying goes, and for Erin's Own its meaning was fully brought to light on Sunday last, when they finally broke that M. Sion jinx with a well merited 3-2 to 0-5 victory in the semi-final of the Sargent Cup. The sides were level 0-1 each at the interval, but the Poiberry side swamped the champions with a scintillating second-half display. Sion fielded without Jimmy Byrne, Larry Guinan and "Doc" Walsh, but Erin's Own were also short some of their regulars, including Jackie Condon and Harry Russell.

The winners now meet Brickey Rangers in the final at Cappanin.

a team that would do justice to the County in an All-Ireland '40' and if Frank Walsh and Jicider has been chosen.

Regular sharp shooters "Hoppe" McGrath, Padge K'hue and Jimmy O'Brien all hold key positions in attack and any altitude on the part of the Waterford defence could prove disastrous.

The more I study Waterford's line out the more confident I become that they can successfully overcome this Wexford obstacle. Considering that mentors were left no option but to find replacements for Jackie Condon, Larry Guinan and Tom Cheasty, they have under such trying circumstances, done a good job.
