Proposed Closure of Railway Line Criticised

COLR. NOT SATISFIED WITH EXTENSION SCHEME

He was entirely dissatisfied with the railway extension scheme which had been made for the last few years. So said Colr. N. Walsh at the County Council meeting when referring to the A.L.R. Extension Scheme.

WATERFORD County Council at its monthly meeting on Monday last unanimously passed a resolution that they appoint the Chairman and Vice-Chairman to join a deputation from Cork and Waterford County Councils and Cork and Waterford Corporations, together with the Senators and Deputies from each area, to meet An Taoiseach and/or Dr C. S. Andrews to submit representations against the proposal to close the railway line from Waterford to Mallow.

Colr. P. Cahill who proposed that they protest strongly over the matter, said if the Waterford-Mallow line goes, Waterford will go. The Chairman, Colr. Curran, said this was the most important matter that had come up at the meeting. Colr. P. Walsh seconded the protest proposal, said if the line was closed it would cause grave inconvenience and would prove the death knell of towns Lismore and Cappoquin in the line of industry. STREAM-LINE CARS Colr. Tom Lannon said everyone knew the benefit of Tramway Railway to the County fight. We cannot take this lying down. Chairman—Something drastic will have to happen. We must take positive action. Colr. M. Harty, said Dungarvan Railway Station for its size was as busy as any in Ireland and he challenged C.I.E. to contradict that if they could. It was also the main service for tourists from London to Killarney. Colr. Lannon—It is the poor man who is being axed by this. Let them close the Dail or the Senate for all the good the politicians are doing. Colr. W. Dower, said it would hit the small business man most.

End of the Line for the Bus-ride

THE joy-ride to school each day is nearly over for some forty-five children from the Bonmahon-Kill-Kilmacothomas area of Mid-Waterford, who travel a total of 150 miles a week to attend Dungarvan Tech. With the go-ahead signal given by the Department of Education for the erection of a £25,000 four-roomed vocational school in Kilmacothomas, the girls and boys will soon have their own Tech. close to home. Pictured for the "Observer" are the Kilmacothomas-Bonmahon-Kill group at the start of their summer holidays.

Union Rejects 11/- Increase for Road Workers

NOTIFICATION of the refusal of an offer of 11/- per week to the County Council's roadworkers was received from the National Federation of Rural Workers at last Monday's Council meeting in Dungarvan. The original request was for an increase of 15/- a week but on the recommendation of the Co. Manager, it was unanimously agreed to grant an 11/- increase, bringing them up to the same wage level as North and South Tipperary.

The Chairman, Colr. C. Curran, said he had discussed the matter with the County Manager, Mr. S. J. Moynihan and had made the following statement on it: "This is an unexpected development. It is necessary at this stage to point out that the Council has always, despite many difficult financial problems, readily acceded to all reasonable requests from the roadworkers and has missed no opportunity to improve their pay and conditions of employment. Very often the Council's decisions to improve the lot of the roadworkers has led to strong criticism, as large sections of the community feel that our roadworks schemes are far too elaborate and costly."

The Chairman's statement went on: "The action of the Union in refusing to accept the offer of an increase of 11/1 appears to be unreasonable and indicates a lack of appreciation of the Council to the efforts of the Council to bring the wages of our roadworkers up to the level of that prevailing in neighbouring counties. In the circumstances the Council will have to give careful consideration to the whole question of roadworks policy, otherwise a chaotic situation could easily develop."

SYMPATHY A note of sympathy was passed with Mrs. Nicholas A. Kelly, U.D.C., on the death of his wife, at last Tuesday's meeting of Waterford Vocational Education Committee. Mr. M. H. O'Hara, who proposed the vote of sympathy, said the late Mrs. Kelly was wife of a one-time member of the Committee.

Co. Engineer to Submit Report on Ballyneety Bridge

The Co. Engineer (Mr. J. D. Hally) will draw up a full report on the exact cost and other details regarding the replacement of the existing Ballyneety Bridge near Dungarvan. In a prepared statement, Mr. Hally told last Monday's Council meeting, that the present bridge was built in 1909. It was partly in the Urban District of Dungarvan and partly in the county. It was however, originally built as a county-charge. Two years ago the load capacity of the bridge was reduced to 3 tons and it was not practical to repair it now. It was decided to replace the bridge by a concrete and not steel, for which the probable cost would be £13,000 or £14,000. The Secretary, Mr. Dowling read a letter from the Department declining to give any grant for the bridge. Replied to Deputy Kyne, Mr. Hally said part of the cost would fall on the Dungarvan area. Deputy Kyne said he was sure the people of Dungarvan would be loathe to pay any more money. It would be a terrific impost on them. "Of course, he added, we'll give you 100 yards on one side of it if you like. Colr. M. Galvey said it would be very necessary if the railway was going to close down.

Tomato-Selling Allegations Again Discussed

A reply by the Co. Engineer, Mr. J. D. Hally, to allegations made by a Co. Councillor regarding the selling of tomatoes at a creamery, made at a previous meeting of the Council, was the subject of further discussion at Monday's meeting, when Colr. Tom Lannon said that the allegations made were quite true. Colr. Lannon said the County Engineer described the allegations as petty. He (Colr. Lannon) made the statement and was prepared to stand over it. Mr. Hally said anyone was entitled to sell tomatoes as long as it did not effect the County Council's operations. It was purely a personal matter. Colr. Lannon—Let him sell them or deliver them in his own time and not the County Council's. The sooner we realise we are the servants of the public and not working for your selves the better. Mr. Hally—That's nonsense. Colr. Lannon—Your reply to the Auditor's report is nonsense also. The Chairman (Colr. Curran) said it did not look good to have an engineer delivering tomatoes during working time.

LED THE GROUP

Mr. Tom Spratt, Coolcorrack, Dungarvan, who is technical adviser to the Vitaneelo Company, took a party of prizewinning farmers, who scored highest in an essay competition on pigs sponsored by the company, on a tour of farms in the North of Ireland last week.

BIG DAY FOR TENNIS FANS

Sunday next will be a big day for tennis in the town when the local tennis club play host to the Hillview, Clonmel Club who are travelling to participate in a tournament. The visitors will be entertained to a social by the Dungarvan club at the conclusion of the day's play.

Further Tributes Paid To County's C.E.O.

FURTHER tributes were paid to Mr. Denis Cullinane, C.E.O., at the July meeting of Waterford Vocational Education Committee, on Tuesday—his last before taking up a similar post in Co. Limerick next September. Mr. John Butler said he was absent from the last two meetings, when many tributes were paid to the C.E.O. He now wished to join in those tributes. Mr. Cullinane, he said, always made the work of the Committee light, and they always took his advice. It would be hard to replace him, as besides his normal duties, he gave lectures and advice to many other bodies. He regretted that he was leaving them but he wished him well. There was terrific competition for the Limerick post and he was glad "their man" got it. He hoped he would be very happy when he goes back there. Mr. Michael Harty said that he, like Mr. Butler, was not present at a previous meeting good without the help of his staff. He wished the Committee all the best.

Concluding, Mr. Cullinane thanked the Press who had always given them "a fair crack of the whip."

MORE TEACHING JOBS

Planning ahead for the staffing of its new Vocational School to be built at Kilmacothomas—work on which will commence shortly—the County Vocational Committee approved a schedule of new appointments of teachers within the next two years. Five additional teachers will be appointed, in rural science, engineering with mathematics, domestic science, commerce and Irish and general subjects.

£2,000 APPROVED FOR CUNNIGAR EXPENDITURE
On the proposal of Col. M. Harty, Waterford County Council agreed to the expenditure of £2,000 on works for the protection of the Cunnigar and public roads likely to be affected by a future breach of the Cunnigar. This amount is in excess of the sum provided under general purposes in this year's estimate and is subject to a state grant of £1,600. Mr. J. G. Dowling, Co. Sec. retary, read a letter from the Council's legal adviser stating that if the Co. Engineer thought there was a real danger to roads, not only were they requested to carry out the repairs but it was their duty to do so. Mr. J. D. Hally (Co. Engineer) said if there was a breach in the Cunnigar, there would be a danger of damage to Co. Council property. C. T. Larsson said something would have to be done with it, or half the town would be washed away. Col. M. Harty said by passing money for the project they were doing the greatest service to the ratepayers of County Waterford. KELVICK HARBOUR Work at a total cost of £450 to provide a channel between the inner and outer harbours at Kelvick was also approved. The money is a 100% grant and the primary purpose of the work is to provide access to low water for boats.

COLD COMFORT

— By MAURA LAVERTY —

Sometimes, to open my refrigerator is to see the kaleidoscope of my childhood.

To lift a tray of fluffy ice-cream from the freezing compartment is to see a Dublin street towards the end of the first Great War. The ice cream man, sounding an invitation on his cornet and pushing his gaudily-painted barrow, makes his appearance. Like a cloud of sparrows settling on a piece of bread, we children envelop him, ha'pennies and pennies in our grubby paws. Disregarding his admonitions and entreaties (delivered, more often than not in Italianate English), the over-impatient and uninitiated climb on the painted wheels of the barrow and watch avidly as he puts a dab of custardy mixture on the top of a ha'penny measure of icecream over the pink or white wafer-biscuits which sits snugly in an oblong tin contraption, tops it with another biscuit and hands over the delicacy of delicacies to his clamouring customer. Wise clients control their longing. They refrain from scarring the red and green paint by climbing on the barrow. They wait until the less-restrained addicts have been served, knowing that their patience will be rewarded with thicker wafers, more generous cones.

The ice-cream man moves off, cornet shrilling. And then comes the envy-making contest to make one's cone or wafer last longer. It is a tricky business, this contest, and one which calls for judicious licking. To lick too slowly may well mean that part of the precious icecream will melt and be lost in a trickle of drops before one reaches the last mouth-watering scrap of soggy, papery biscuit. The best plan is to turn one's wafer around and around taking small quick licks as one turns.

In those pre-refrigerator days, there was a big thrill in the buying of icecream. There was a big danger in it, too. It would be interesting to know just how many cases of diarrhoea, summer enteritis and other illnesses were due to that unsterilised cone-scoop and wafer-shaper, to that neglect which was made without any supervision from the Department of Health in dirty rooms and from unpasteurised milk.

Another refrigerator-invoked flashback comes when I prepare to unroll a beautifully set mousse, jelly or other cold sweet. For my birthday treat, I had been promised strawberry jelly. But on the eve of the big day, when the jelly should have been made so as to give it ample time to set, we discovered that not a single shop in our village had a packet of jelly in stock. "Well, have it in for sure tomorrow morning," I was told by each of our eleven shopkeepers as I searched through Humphreys (Hardware and Provisions) to William Byrne (Undertaker, Grocer and Publican) "Never mind," my mother comforted me. "If Moll-Be-low-In-The-Kitchen makes it first thing when it comes in tomorrow, it will be well set by the time you come from school. Can't she stand the mould in a basin of water with a good fistful of soda and another of salt?"

Reassured, I went to bed happily. The following day at school I boasted: "We're having strawberry jelly and bismoch for afters today because it's my birthday." The blamange was waiting when I got home from school. But there was no jelly. Moll had failed to make allowance for the displacement which the mould would cause, and the noxious mixture of brine and soda had mingled with my jelly. Without its proper complement, that blamange looked as forlorn as a bride at the altar rail without her bridesmaid.

Such catastrophes were frequent. "Ah, well, sure God is good," my mother would sometimes say optimistically. "Maybe one of these days we'll have a freezing machine." Miss Malloy of Mount Pleasant, a wealthy, kinless septuagenarian, was the only woman in our place who owned one of those miraculous contraptions. Common decency forbade my mother to put into plain words what we all knew was in her mind: Maybe when Miss Malloy goes to Heaven we'll be able to buy her freezer at the auction. As it happened, when we left the village twelve years later, Miss Malloy and her freezer were still in excellent working order. Perhaps it was just as well. Having since read of the labour involved in the working of the old-fashioned freezer, I doubt if even the devoted loyalty of Moll-Be-low-In-The-Kitchen would have been equal to this extra burden.

Memory's eye catches other pictures when I store food in the safety of our fridge. I see the food safe which stood outside our backdoor on sturdy green legs, with its doors and sides of finely-pierced zinc. Small though the piercings were, they did not exclude the adventurous baby flies which in one gluttonous night, grew to bloated adult malignancy on our food. Rarely did a joint come from that safe which hadn't to be washed in vinegar before being cooked. I see my mother's disturbed face when she discovered that the milk had "turned." I see her gesture of despair as she took a spoiled, half-leg of cooked lamb from the safe. A mis-aimed, hurrying ball hand forested an inch of the zinc door to bluebottles which had deposited their loathsome eggs on our meat. And I see the runny substance into which our butter was transformed in summertime.

Small wonder that in the long ago, butter, unless freshly churned, was used by the wealthy solely for cooking. In 1655, Thomas Muffett said of butter, "Only I wonder with Blivy 'hat Africa and other Barbarous Countreys esteeme it a Gentleman's dish, when here and in Holland and in all the Northern Regions it is the chief food of the poorer sort." Butter was either rancid or liquid, or so salty that it puckered the mouth.

While there is general agreement that we owe the modern electric refrigerator to a Dutchman called Linde, to Sir Francis Bacon must go the credit for being the first to try to prove that cold was the best and safest preservative. Probably this lover of high living (at one time he had 116 servants) had grown tired of eating sea meat and fish and of food which had to be liberally coated with spices to disguise their "high" taste. One bitterly cold day in 1626, he left his warm carriage and stuffed a newly-killed fowl with snow in an effort to preserve it. The experiment resulted in a chill of which he died within a week.

Early in the 19th century, the increased population of towns made the people of Great Britain and Ireland look longingly towards the cheap meat available in Australia and America. But who was to solve the problem of transporting it over 13,000 miles so that it would be in good condition on arrival? Salt meat and fish were being imported in large quantities but, in common with Sir Francis Bacon, we on this side of the Atlantic had grown tired of it. Believing that the exclusion of air would achieve the desired result, various experiments were made and found useless. They included the coating of freshly-killed carcasses with thick gravy, hot fat and melted paraffin wax.

A stride forward was made by Nicholas Appert, a Frenchman who was the pioneer of tinned and bottled fruit. Tinned beef and mutton arrived in large quantities from Australia. For a time, it found a ready market: its cost was about half the price per pound of fresh meat. But, being already cooked, the meat was not very palatable. The British Navy, its principal purchasers, dubbed it "Sweet Fanny Adams" for a rather macabre reason. A woman called Fanny Adams was the victim of a particularly gruesome murder in Hampshire in 1867. The unfortunate victim's body was literally hacked to pieces, and the sailors at Dartmouth chose to believe that there was a connection between this shocking event and their tinned meat rations.

The first real contribution to refrigeration was made by James Harrison, a Scottish immigrant to Australia. He designed an ice-making machine which would save the exorbitant cost of transporting ice. A Frenchman called Carre improved on Harrison's device, but their efforts failed. Equally fruitless was the work of their followers, Mort and Nicolle. It remained for the Frenchman, Telier, to complete the job. After many failures, in 1880 he succeeded in bringing the first cargo of edible refrigerated meat from Australia to London.

It was not until about 50 years later that housewives began to recognise the importance of refrigeration in the home, and to realise that even in temperate climates cold was the only sure protection against the contamination and putrefaction of food.

no excuse for not getting one, now that the E.S.B.'s h.p. terms have brought the cost down to a few shillings a week. Writing on food hygiene in his book, "Human Nutrition," Professor V. H. Mottram, who is a world-famous expert on diet, says: "The biggest reform necessary in the British kitchen is the installation of a refrigerator."

Are we Irish women going to let British housewives get ahead of us in the pursuit of hygiene and the protection of our families' food?

LATE MRS. N. A. KELLY

Deep and profound regret was occasioned throughout Dungarvan and District and her native Lismore at the news of the death of Mrs. Nicholas A. Kelly, Murphy Place, Abbey-side, which occurred at a Dublin hospital late on Monday night. Deceased, who was comparatively young woman, was a member of the well-known and popular Lineen family of Lismore. She was wife of Nicholas A. Kelly U.D.C. who is also recently indisposed.

She was an exemplary wife, a loving mother and a kind and generous neighbour, and was deservedly popular with all who became acquainted with her.

Deepest sympathy is extended to her husband and three young daughters, Mary, Ann and Bernice, on their great loss.

The remains were removed from Dublin to Abbeyside Parish Church on Tuesday evening followed by a large and representative cortege and were received by Rev. F. M. Walsh C.C., Abbeyside, assisted by Very Rev. J. Roche, P.P., do.

Following Requiem Masses on Wednesday the funeral took place to St. Mary's Parish Church cemetery, Dungarvan, for the interment. Very Rev. Fr. Roche, P.P., officiated at the graveside in the presence of another large gathering.

The chief mourners were: Nicholas A. (husband); Mary, Ann, Bernice (daughters); Wm., Michael, Jim and Paddy Lineen (brothers); Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kelly (parents-in-law); Michael, Liam, Joe, Vincent Kelly (brothers-in-law), etc. (Funeral arrangements were carried out by Jack Nugent, Lismore).

Villierstown N.S.

Mr. Michael J. Davern T.D. asked the Minister for Education if he is aware of the very poor condition of the Villierstown N.S. Co. Waterford; that this school has been condemned for a long time; that a private house was used up to some time ago as a school; and that the old school is again being occupied for the teaching of the children; and what steps he proposes to take to remedy the matter.

The Minister replied: "I am sorry to hear of the poor condition of Villierstown N.S. Co. Waterford and of the very urgent need for its replacement. My Department has sanctioned a grant towards the cost of the new school, and I understand that the Commissioners of Public Works are endeavouring to place a contract for the work. The Commissioners have been asked to advise the Department as to the feasibility of carrying out remedial works to the existing school premises pending the erection of a new school."

Biggest General Meeting Ever of N.F.A. Members

LAST week saw the biggest gathering of County representatives at the annual general meeting since the organisation was founded. Every county was represented and enthusiasm shown augurs well for the future.

Counties are progressively increasing membership—some of them in a really remarkable way. This will result in increased county representation on the National Council. Some of these took their places at the meeting last week, many more are expected to join the ranks when the Council next meets in August.

Many familiar faces will be missing in the new Council. To those who, because of pressure of work or other personal reasons are unable to continue giving their services, the farmers of Ireland say, thank you for the work you have done in the past. Your help and sincerity have been great value to the Association. However, even though you have given up office at National level it is confidently expected that you lend your weight to any efforts being made by the Association at branch and county level.

The signs are that the coming year is likely to prove one of the most important and critical in the history of the Association. The new Council has a tough job ahead of it but judging by the calibre of the men who have served in the past it is possible for us to be optimistic for the future.

The newly-elected Council consists of: Mr. J. Kehoe, Carlow; Mr. T. O'Reilly, Cavan; Mr. J. Cahill, Wick; Mr. J. Clery, Clare; Messrs. S. B. Murphy and P. Walsh, Cork; Mr. N. Chance, Donegal; Mr. T. J. Branagan, Dublin; Mr. J. Managhan and Mr. C. Mitchell, Galway; Mr. R. Gleesure, Kerry; Mr. P. J. Foley, Kildare; Mr. J. Mullins, Kilkenny; Mr. D. P.M. Laisir, Mr. P. McGoldrick, Leitrim; Mr. P. O'Callaghan, Limerick; Mr. F. Enny, Longford; Mr. M. McKeever, Louth; Mr. J. O'Neill, Mayo; Mr. T. Blake, Meath; Mr. M. J. McCormack, Monaghan; Mr. W. Bultin, Offaly; Mr. P. Killian, Roscommon; Mr. J. Dunphy, Sligo; Rev. R. J. Livingstone, North Tipp.; Mr. T. J. Maher, South Tipp.; Mr. J. Barry, Waterford; Messrs. C. V. O'Reilly and D. Dolan, Westmeath; Mr. E. Dunne, Wexford; and Mr. H. Meredith, Wicklow.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

Department praised by N.F.U. Since the Bovine Tuberculosis Eradication Scheme was first launched the N.F.A. has done all in its power to promote the scheme, seeing to it that there was as little inconvenience and cost to the Irish farmer as was possible under the circumstances and that he was adequately compensated. The Association invited authorities from other countries to come over here to study a first hand the position as it existed. In this way valuable information was gathered from the experiences of others and the National Livestock Committee was able on many occasions to speak with clarity and force on various difficulties as they arose.

Among the people who came to Ireland was Mr. J. W. Salter-Chalker, Chairman of the Animal Health Committee of the National Farmers' Union in Britain. He travelled extensively through the country with members of the National Livestock Committee and as a result made many pertinent remarks about the scheme as it then existed. His home was freely given and proved valuable. Last week Agriculture saw the Minister for the Council of the Union and the members of my committee that I should convey their congratulations to you and your chief veterinary adviser on the success which has attended the eradication of tuberculosis from the herds of your country.

It is a great achievement and a great contribution to the welfare of the country. I am sure that you will be proud to have the Minister for Agriculture and the members of my committee that I should convey their congratulations to you and your chief veterinary adviser on the success which has attended the eradication of tuberculosis from the herds of your country.

In his reply to Mr. Salter-Chalker, the Minister for Agriculture said that the letter "will give us great encouragement in our drive to complete the final stage of eradication here in the shortest possible time."

The confidence of the British farmer, echoed through the words of Mr. Salter-Chalker (first introduced to Irish farmers by the NFA) re Irish cattle is to be welcomed. The liaison work of the NFA is again responsible.

Some hard things were said about farmers by Mr. J. Conroy, General President of the Transport and General Workers Union at their annual conference last month. It is regrettable that a man in his position should say publicly that "many farmers wrongly think that it is to their advantage to have available to them uneducated labour. They seek to employ men and women who because of little education and training find it difficult to get employment with industrial and commercial firms. Farmers hope that the needs of such persons will force them to work cheaply and not to complain when they are obliged to live under the most primitive conditions." Generalisation in this manner is a travesty of the truth.

Neither was it fair or true for him to say that "the pouring of further millions of pounds of taxpayers' money into agriculture... will, in my opinion, only lead to an increase in the fantastic number of ditches, hedges, furze bushes and bogholes that now seem to be the major product of the fertile land of Ireland."

He inferred that farmers neglect their families and regard progress of their farms by spending and educating some of their children for professions or Civil Service jobs at the expense of the farm. "Seldom or ever does it dawn on the farmer that the management, the progress and prosperity of an agricultural holding depends largely on a first class education and an extended specialised training."

Other remarks made by Mr. Conroy are worth quoting and reflection. "Agriculture," he said is still, and will as far as one can see, remain Ireland's main industry. One is not a realistic if one tries to visualise Ireland progressing without a prosperous agricultural industry. One has little faith in the present policy and methods to win success for those who are engaged on the land. For years it has been beyond my understanding how the farming community continues the role of individuals with all their requirements passing through a never-ending chain of trades and gomben men, all taking a goodly rake off before the goods or services reach the farmer's haggard. Likewise with everything the farmer has to sell. He sells as an individual to some agent or gomben man and so on and on through many agencies before it finally reaches the consumer dear in price although the farmer has received a poor reward for his labour. Why the farmers of Ireland do not do their own buying and selling through their own co-operatives from producer to consumer both ways is beyond my comprehension."

At the moment there is a tremendous growth in membership in the NFA. How far we have got to go can be readily assessed by further remarks by Mr. Conroy when he said that the net increase in membership in his Union totalled over 4,000 and the income increased by 17,880 over the previous year. Today the assets of the Union stand over £1,310,000. Despite all this, however, he said that Union income was unsatisfactory as was the level of membership.

INCREMENTS FOR ELEVEN VOCATIONAL TEACHERS

Annual increments totalling £220 were granted to eleven vocational teachers at the Committee's monthly meeting on Tuesday last.

The C.E.O., Mr. Cullinane, said the increments came under the recognised salary scales. They arose each year, and were sanctioned by the Committee and then forwarded to the Department, who pay a little more than half of the increments.

Replying to Mr. Norman Walsh, the C.E.O. said 16 years was the maximum length of time the increments could go on for.

Senator J. Butler said they were part of the contract and he proposed they be granted unanimously.

Water Supply Development Programme

By 13 votes to 2, Waterford County Council at its monthly meeting on Monday adopted the recommendations of the Water Supplies Committee on the formulation of a Water Supply Development Programme. A proposal to live the matter adjourned was defeated on a similar vote.

The Chairman (Colr. C. Curran) said the Water Committee had faced the situation more realistically than any other county in Ireland.

Colr. Tom Lannon said he objected to it was having consultants attached to it at big fees.

Colr. Curran said consultants could not be appointed today and he would give an assurance that no money would be spent on water schemes or consultants before the matter first came before the Council.

E.S.B. Reports More Progress

During the past year one balance carried forward to next year amounts to £89,647.

EXCESSIVE STORM DAMAGE

Storms caused an unusual amount of damage during the year; particularly the high winds associated with Hurricane 'Debbie', which in addition to causing the breakage of over 500 poles and more than 5,000 spans of line, caused other interruptions, mainly in the south and west, by depositing salt on insulator surfaces.

The value of the radio network and the helicopter patrol was very apparent in the fact that supply was restored to nearly all consumers within 24 hours. A feature of the storm was the very large number of trees blown down.

NEW STATIONS AND EXTENSIONS

Power stations at Rhode and Fexbane in Co. Offaly, Lanesborough in Co. Longford, Portlinton in Co. Louth, Marina, Cork, and North Wall and Ringsend in Dublin are being extended and new power stations are under construction at Bellecorick in Co. Mayo and Shanabroige in Co. Offaly.

When these are completed they will provide a further 326 MW in addition to the 723.5 MW already available.

NEW PREMISES

To improve the service to local residents, ten new service centres were completed and a further 14 are under construction throughout the country. Plans for alterations to the Waterford premises are well advanced and work on the new area depot at Tramore and Gorey was completed.

FISHERIES

Steady progress was maintained on the scheme for re-licensing the salmon fisheries on the River Shannon and there was a marked increase in fisheries work on the Erne, the Liffey and the Cladon.

The Board believes that with key, Sean Michael and Laurence conservation measures which will eliminate unjust exploitation of the stock before it matures, the salmon resources of the rivers can be developed fairly quickly.

The Report states that industrial motive power accounted for over 39% of the units used in the district and that of the industrial consumers are using electricity to an increasing extent.

The Report states that electricity generation during the year rose by 191 million units or 8.4% to a total of 2,453 million units.

Generation from our native sources—water power, turf and native coal amounted to 72.5% of the total output.

The demand for electricity for all purposes shows a steady increase, but the growth in domestic and general heating in 1961-62 was exceptionally large due to the long severe winter.

SALES OF ELECTRICITY

The sale of electricity realised £17,731,000, an increase of £1,468,000 or 9% over the previous year and the surplus

LATE MRS. MARY O'BRIEN

MILLSTREET, CAPPAIGH

The death took place on Wednesday evening, July 4th, at her residence Millstreet, of Mrs. Mary O'Brien, wife of David and mother of Joseph (Joe) to whom very sincere sympathy is extended by one and all. She was a well-known and likeable person and had conducted a flourishing and successful business for a very long number of years in the village of Millstreet. She was a member of a very old Touraneena family and a sister of the late Michael Hickey, Cahernaleague, who only predeceased her by a fortnight, and also a sister of St. Xavier Portlaine.

The remains were removed on Thursday evening to Touraneena Parish Church, followed by a cortege of very great dimensions, and were blessed and received by Very Rev. Fr. Hally, P.P., Mudego, assisted by the Very Rev. Fr. P. Walsh, P.P., Touraneena, Very Rev. Fr. N. Walsh, and Rev. Fr. M. Walsh, C.C., Farnane, both of the American Mission.

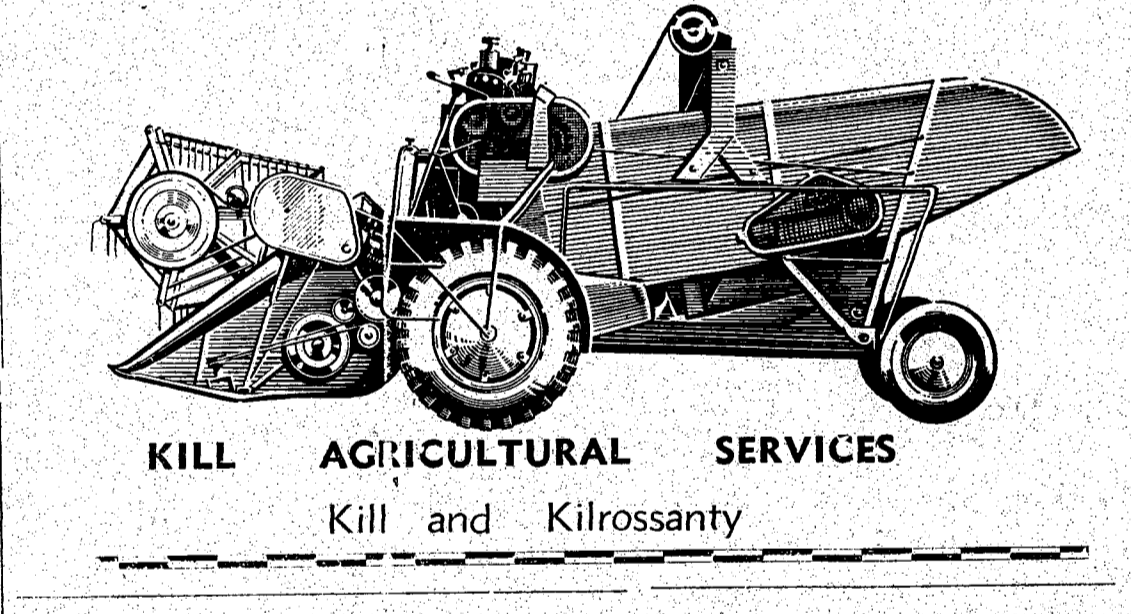

Requiem Masses were celebrated on Friday morning for the happy and eternal repose of her soul and the interment took place in the adjoining family plot. Rev. Fr. T. Nugent, C.C., Ballinacorney, assisted by Rev. Fr. C. Daly, C.C., Modeline, and Very Rev. Fr. R. Donovan, P.P., Australia, officiated at the graveside where the final absolution was given and the prayers of Requiem were recited by the very large and impressive concourse present.

Very large sheaves of spiritual tributes were received by her family.

The chief mourners were: David (husband); Joseph (son); General Thomas Hickey, James Hickey, Laurence Hickey, John Lee, the Liffey and the Cladon. The Board believes that with key, Sean Michael and Laurence conservation measures which will eliminate unjust exploitation of the stock before it matures, the salmon resources of the rivers can be developed fairly quickly.

(Funeral arrangements by J. Kieley and Sons, Dungarvan.)

KILL SHOULD WIN

Dungarvan for years now in a comparative football wilderness. They have yet another bid to drag themselves from the doldrums when they oppose Kill in the second round of the senior championship.

The Easteners have already dispensed of De La Salle, but for Dungarvan Sunday's tie is their first in the campaign - having received a first round bye.

Kill, however, paid dearly for that victory over De La Salle. Star midfielder Monty Guiry received marching orders that day and as a result incurred a two-month suspension. Needless to say his loss is a serious one, particularly when Dungarvan can call on such a formidable mid-field pairing as the McCarthy brothers Eamon and Gerard.

Dungarvan selectors will not name their side until shortly before the game, but Tom Cunningham who received a finger injury against Cork on Sunday last is a definite starter.

Besides Cunn and the McCarthys, the Blues will have former Brickey star Liam O'Donnell in the full-line of attack, while Ray Lannon, Michael Woods and Paddy Ryan are also assured of places on the side.

Year in year out Kill make a determined bid to break through the barrier, and record their first championship victory. To-date success has eluded them, but enthusiasm and confidence are their keynotes in this latest effort.

Despite Guiry's loss they can still field a strong side, and hard though the Blues will try on their own pitch, it is unlikely that they will halt them.

CURTAIN RAISER

As a curtain raiser to the football game, western champions Fourmilewater and Kilrossanty clash in the junior hurling championship, and the holders should experience little difficulty in advancing.

MINOR AND JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIPS

On tonight (Friday) two minor football championship games are down for decision at Dungarvan and Lismore.

At the former venue, Ardmore fresh from their victory over the holders Dungarvan will be confident of meeting out similar treatment to the villagers. They have five county minors in Frank Colbert, Paddy Carlton, Hugh Reilly, Jim Rooney and Liam Bourke, and should have the besting of Abbesside whose key players will be Austin Cashin and Donal Brennock.

At Lismore Cappoquin meet Master McGrath's and here the Cornerstone lads are strongly fancied.

GAME OF THE DAY

The junior game of the day however should be the meeting of Shamrocks and Ardmore in junior hurling at Lismore. Both are amongst the strongest sides in the championship, and it is the view of many that either of them could well de-throne the holders Fourmilewater.

In the winter league, Ard-

JUSTICE WARNS DEFENDANT TO "CLEAR-OUT"

Patrick Flynn, no fixed abode, but stated to be a native of County Kerry, was sentenced to 14 days imprisonment at Dungarvan District Court on Wednesday, not to be enforced if he stays out of the area for six months, when convicted of begging on July 10th, at Abbesside.

Sgt. J. Browne said on July 10th a large number of people were waiting for a funeral at Abbesside, and the defendant was begging. He asked him to stop, but he refused and was abusive.

The defendant said he was short the price of the bus and wanted a few coppers. He was only in the area once before.

Sgt. Browne said as quick as he collected money he went into a near-by public house and came out again collecting.

The Justice warned the defendant to be gone out of the area within 12 hours.

LISMORE FETE

The Field Fete to help in raising funds towards the erection of the new school, will be held in the Convent Grounds, Lismore, on Sunday next, July 15th, and will continue on the nights of the 16th and 17th.

As can be seen from advertisement in this issue, the event will surpass anything of the kind which has been held in this area for many years and it is to be hoped that the public, not alone in Lismore, but from far afield, will support it.

It will open at 2 o'clock with a Children's Fancy Dress Parade from the Movement to the Convent Grounds. Egg and Spoon races, sack races and an Old Age Pensioners' Race are listed among the sports items. The children can enjoy donkey rides. The adults will not be neglected. The various stalls will offer innumerable bargains and the prizes for the lucky dips are really stupendous. Prizes for the various competitions will be numerous and valuable.

The evening session will commence with an Adult Fancy Dress competition from The Movement. Amusements of all kinds will be held and all tastes will be catered for.

A meeting of all members of the above Section will be held in the Court House, Dungarvan, on Saturday, 14th inst. at 3.30 p.m., to consider the Council's offer on our application for wage increase. Signed: P. J. Breen, P.C., Secretary.

LOCAL FAMILY BEREAVED

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. B. Dee, Ballyhenry, Clashmore and Mr. Michael Lincoln, do., on their recent bereavement occasioned by the death of their sister, Mrs. Catherine Cunningham, Yougal. The deceased, who was a popular and respected figure, formerly resided at Ballyglassin, Killeagh.

PREPARING FOR MATCH

Clashmore Primary Football team are at present busily engaged preparing for the third round of the championship, in which they meet Shamrocks. As the teams are evenly matched, a good game is expected and the issue is very open.

POPULAR PRIEST TRANSFERRED

The transfer of Rev. Fr. P. Flavin, S.T.L., C.C., has occasioned deep regret in the combined parishes of Ardmore and Grange, where he has laboured with such zeal for the past few years. During his all too brief stay in Ardmore he endeared himself to all sections of the community because of his unselfish devotion to duty and his interest in the spiritual and temporal interests of the people. All feel a sense of personal loss at his departure and join in wishing him many years of health and happiness.

Munster Title within Waterfords Grasp Leesiders Mastered After Absorbing Struggle

WATERFORD - - 4-10 CORK - - 1-16

THURLES, the scene of many epic championship encounters in the past, had yet another pulsating and thrill-consuming chapter indelibly imprinted into its file of honoured games on Sunday last when Waterford, after an exhilarating hour of swaying fortunes, marched gloriously on to yet another Munster hurling final at the expense of Rebel Cork. Words would be utterly futile to adequately pay tribute to the splendour of the hurling and the gripping tension of the exchanges that had 31,705 spectators privileged enough to witness it, enthralled for the full hour.

GAELIC JOTTINGS

• ABBEYSIDE AND KILL FANCIED

Although Waterford's championship victory over Cork is still the top-of-the-line for the county, club championships are also arousing keen and wide-spread interest, and Dungarvan should house a huge attendance on Sunday for the double-decker programme arranged for the venue. The Gaelic menu is a varied one. In hurling Abbeyside and the Briceys will try conclusions at 8 p.m., while Dungarvan play hosts to Kill in senior football in the afternoon.

The Abbeyside - Briceys clash was to have been played a few weeks back, but for a variety of reasons had to be postponed. This extension will be of benefit to both clubs, who have in the interim availed of every opportunity to attain peak fitness.

Abbeyside have however had greatest cause to be thankful for the postponement. Had the game gone on as originally planned they would have had to play without their brilliant defender Austin Flynn, who was then nursing an ankle injury. But now Flynn is fit and well (ask Christy Ring), and the Bricey forwards will find it difficult to penetrate a rear-guard that will undoubtedly find its inspiration in the county star.

Although a few disappointing tournament displays may have caused uneasiness amongst Village supporters, the very fact that Sunday's test is the acid one may kindly hope and confidence in the side again. For no team, Mr. Sion included, in this county, has moved with such frequency that tournaments and championships are poles apart. Abbeyside invariably reserve their best for the big occasion; they are never far from the front when the championship is on, and sooner or later their hour of glory must come.

For Sunday's game no particular training course has been adopted. Instead the players have been constantly hurling in their newly acquired ground, and reports to hand seem to indicate a fully prepared side will be on duty. Flynn will of course be the key figure in defence, but Mick Kieley, John Browne, Ned Moore can be relied upon to lend able assistance, while goal-keeper Thomas Hogan has years of championship experience.

Most striking feature of their attack will be the re-appearance of Johnny Hogan at top of the right. Missions from recent outings, rumor had it that this good "little" had decided to call it a day, but he will again be out there harassing the Rangers defence no end. Former county star "Duck" Whelan is another on whom village mentors will pin great hopes and Willie Redmond and Tony Mansfield will also need careful "policing".

Though Bricey folk make no secret of the fact that football is their first love, such has been the improvement of their hurling standards in the past few years that they cannot be treated lightly by any opposition.

In Jim and Wick Walsh, Pat and Justin Spratt, John Woods, Willie Terry and Nicholas McGrath they have the personnel to boost their efforts to great heights.

Whatever the outcome, victory will not be easily attained. Briceys have it in them to advance, but yet my preference is for Abbeyside. The tradition of one will make them favourites, and they should just about vindicate that position.

AT LISMORE
A two game programme has been arranged for Lisore on Sunday when Ballynacolla and Geashlines should have the beating of Ballyduff and Killgobnet respectively in primary hurling.

In the same programme's Glen Rovers (Ballysaggart) meet St. Mary's (Mullery) in Mullery in what is expected to be a real "needle" affair.

In the game's preview I wrote that Sunday would make or break the Deise County as a hurling power for years to come—and that to any knowledgeable hurling man was an obvious fact. But before this semi-final was beyond its period of infancy the huge Waterford contingent had been given the answer they had so fervently hoped for. The side was almost unrecognisable in comparison to the slipshod and uncertain teams that failed in successive weeks to Tipperary and Wexford in challenge games. Their every move and stroke on Sunday bore a distinctive stamp of quality and made justified the after-thoughts of followers that Munster and All-Ireland titles were well within their grasp.

For, make no mistake about it, this was as exacting a test as Waterford are likely to be confronted with during the entire campaign. Tradition, form, yes almost everything appeared to be stacked in Cork's favour, and it is to Waterford's everlasting credit that they emerged from it all meritoriously triumphant.

From the start, Cork to use a racing terminology put the bit between their teeth. Their play though sprinkled as always with cultured skill, bordered however for the most part on physical force. Their plan was obvious and simple. Their defence, never one to stand on ceremony, was undoubtedly under instructions to hit hard and often, while Ring and Dowling were to be the "ours de force" in attack.

But in the face of unrelenting Deise opposition this premeditated organising became unworkable. Had Ring and Dowling been given a free hand—as so often before—they could have shattered all hopes of a Waterford victory. On this occasion however the match maligned full-back line of Cunningham, Flynn and O'Brien brilliantly displayed all the essentialities that make a rear-guard as near to invulnerable as is humanly possible, and silenced all who doubted their ability to match brain with brawn. Not once during the game's allotted span was the recalled Ned Power plagued with inrushing forwards, something which must have been a prime factor in his stupendous goal-keeping display.

VICTORY FOUNDATIONS LAID
With Cork's planning having been jolted from its very inception, the foundations for victory had been well and truly laid. The outer line of defence followed the methods of approach adopted by the inside trio and with the exception of danger man, Patsy Harte and to a lesser extent newcomer Tom Corbett, the Leeside attack was held in a vice-like grip. Nevertheless despite the failure of their "big guns" to function up front, Cork were never at any stage out of the game. On the contrary, in fact, and when they lost and regained again their slender lead late in the second half, it looked as though these greatest of championship battlers might again prevail. But Sunday was Waterford's day and not even Cork could deprive them of their hour of glory. When the all-out effort was most needed the side as a whole rose majestically to the occasion and the Leesiders had no answer to their power hurling in the closing stages.

QUARTER NEITHER GIVEN NOR ASKED
This game also gave irrefutable proof that the furnace-like cauldron—that is the Munster Championship, is only a campaign for the best. Quarter was neither given nor asked by either side, the slightest concessions by victors and vanquished towards each other was beyond the realm of possibility and in such an electric atmosphere that the pot should boil over on a few occasions. Fortunately untardy incidents were few and far between and tempers quickly subsided after each disturbance.

From the moment referee Gerry Fitzgerald set the game in motion, thrill followed uninterrupted thrill. In the early stages Cork, thanks to the work of their midfielders Terry Kelly and Tim Walsh enjoyed an outfield advantage and after six minutes led 0-4 to 0-1. Throughout the remainder of the half the standard of play remained regally high with little or nothing separating the sides in ability. While all six Deise forwards looked ever-dangerous, Cork's Dowling and Ring were so outplayed by Cunningham and Flynn, respectively that by the 23rd minute they were forced to swap positions. Indeed it was the pin-point accuracy of Harte more than anything else that enabled them to keep in front, and their 0-11 to 1-5 interval lead, slender though it was, was well deserved.

SUSPENSE-FILLED SECOND HALF
But good though that opening half had been, it was little better than mediocre in comparison to the sheer brilliance of a suspense-filled second half. Waterford restarted with Phil Grimes in attack and Mick Dempsey replacing the injured Tom Cheasty. Almost immediately the switches paid handsome dividends as it became clearly evident that Dempsey was master of his game and Grimes was a revitalised figure in attack.

When one realises the many unseen obstacles that crept up before the Deise men during the course of the game, their display automatically becomes all the more praiseworthy. The injury bug, so distasteful a factor with the side, struck cruel blows with the enforced retirements of Tom Cheasty and Frankie Walsh, yet it failed to demoralise or diminish the dedication of the side.

BITTER PILL
Defeat, unexpected as it was in the County, must be a bitter pill to swallow for Cork. The side in general played extremely well and would have mastered most sides on the day. But their tactical plans back-fired against uncompromising opponents, and the weight of responsibility which fell on the shoulders of a certain few at the crucial period proved too great a burden against Waterford's better balanced fifteen.

While some outshone others on the Deise side, all fifteen and the reserves introduced, had moments of prominence. Each and every one of them gave his all towards achieving victory and for that alone credit must be given.

POWER WAS SUPERLATIVE
It was generally accepted that the display of the recalled Ned Power in goal would have a vital bearing on the outcome. But few could have been prepared for such a superlative display from the Dungarvan-born school-teacher. His uncanny anticipation for "grounders" and his alertness and assurance in dealing with "flighted" centres all combined to make him Waterford's man of the match. During the game he proved more than competent, but all would pale into oblivion when compared to his brilliance on Sunday last.

Never has the full-back line emerged from any one game with so much honour. The original selection of Cunningham, Flynn and Patsy Harte was altered when Casey was a late victim of appendicitis and Freddie O'Brien was called in to replace him. The 'Sion man' seemed over-awed by the occasion early on and committed a few unnecessary infringements from which Harte reaped full benefit. But once he settled in, he proved more than competent and was seen to greatest advantage in the second half.

FLYNN'S GAME
It is doubtful if Austin Flynn has ever played a greater game since his advent to the side many years ago. From the start he was master of Ringey in every phase of the game while Liam Dowling was just as unsuccessful when switched to the "mark." Flynn looked the perfect full, possessed with hurling in abundance while the "bit of devil" which characterised his game made him even more effective.

Like Flynn, Tom Cunningham played Dowling and Ring in turn out of the game. In a vintage display he took the rough with the smooth and was monarch of all he surveyed. Although the half-backs were outshone by the men behind them, Jimmy Byrne and Martin Morrissey were always dependable. Byrne always had the measure of Sheehan and if Corbett was a troublesome opponent to subdue, Morrissey more than held his own.

POWER TOOK MID-FIELD HONOURS
Midfield honours must go to lion-hearted Seamus Power whose ceaseless promptings of his attack paved the way for many scores. Philly Grimes who partnered him in the opening half was far from conspicuous against Terry Kelly but when placed on the "forty" after Cheasty's retreat, became an inspired individual. He looked far more suited to this latter berth and his goal three minutes from time made victory secure.

Until his injury Tom Cheasty, without being the potential goal-scorer of old, was nonetheless difficult to subdue and took his goal with admirable opportunism. Frankie Walsh who like Cheasty was badly injured, had been "flying" up to his departure while a delightful second-half goal was the highlight of a great display by Mick Flannelly.

Cheasty eluded three defenders to crash home a goal past an unsighted Mick Cashman. Almost immediately Kieley had the misfortune to see his great drive come back off the crossbar but Grimes was on hand to point the rebound.

Gradually Cork began to regain their early ascendancy. Barry scored a delightful point from an acute angle and Patsy followed with three likelike—the last direct from a side-line cut. In the 24th minute Kelly pointed and almost immediately Ring then at top of the left, added another. Frankie Walsh (free) and Dowling, exchanged minors before Joan Kieley closed the first half scoring with a point, leaving Cork leading by 0-11 to 1-5.

DECISIVE BLOWS
Straight from the restart, Waterford with unexpected swiftness struck the decisive blows. Within a minute a beautifully placed centre by Barron was smacked to the net by the inrushing Mick Flannelly and a minute later the sides were level when Frankie Walsh pointed a free. Twice in rapid succession Cashman made wonderful saves from Walsh and Grimes before he was eventually beaten by Kieley in the sixth minute.

Again Cork rallied and after Corbett had pointed, the positive wizardry of Ned Power in goal denied their likely goals. But perseverance had its own reward in the 15th minute when Harte soloed through the defence to fire home the equaliser. In the 17th minute Ring pointed a free but Grimes quickly negated with a like score.

And so the battle raged with ever increasing fury. First Cork and then Waterford seemed through for what could have proved to be golden goals but the respective goalkeepers were equal to the demands of the occasions.

ALL-IMPORTANT GOAL
Eight minutes from time, Grimes regained Waterford's lead with a point. Barron tackled on another and then Corbett and Barron again exchanged minors. Then came Grimes all-important goal after Kieley had completed the spade work.

But Cork blankly refused to accept defeat. They launched a succession of assaults on the Waterford posts and points by Ring and O'Sullivan cut their deficit to a goal. Again Corbett and Ring had efforts at goal miraculously thwarted by Power and Cork were vainly battling in search of an equaliser at the call of time.
