Swimmers and Dance Promoters to Pay More

CLUBS running dances at the Town Hall, Dungarvan, and adults and children using the local Swimming Pool during the coming summer will have to pay more following a decision taken at last Friday night’s meeting of Dungarvan Urban Council.

The increased charges are aimed at relieving the rates of as much of the burden they have to carry for the maintenance of the Hall and the pool as possible and the move was foreshadowed at the Council’s recent Estimates meeting when income and expenditure under both headings were closely examined.

Mr. P. Doyle (Town Clerk), fine submitting the new charges for the swimming pool, proposed by the Co. Manager, as the Manager was anxious to obtain the views of the Council on them. In practically all cases the proposals indicated increases of 100%, while an increase of 150% was suggested in the charges for season tickets. The Manager’s charges were as follows: Adults 1/- per swim (6d); Children (under 14 yrs.), 2d. (1d.) over 14 yrs., 6d. (2d and 3d). The use of bathing boxes would increase these charges by an additional 50%. Season Tickets 50/- (£1).

Mr. J. McCarthy thought the new prices “a bit stiff” and said that an adult using a box would have to pay 1/6d. for a swim.

Another member said that a “daily ticket” should be given for 1/- for two swimmers a day when the weather was charges to the Manager—Children (under 14) 1d. per swim; children from 14 to 18, 3d; Adults, 9d.. A charge of an extra 50% for the use of bathing boxes; season ticket 40/-.

THE TOWN HALL.

Increased charges suggested for lettings of the Town Hall were as follows: Dances—8 to 1 £7 (£6); 8 to 2 £10 (£8); 8 to £3 £14 (£10), plus the existing charges for the Caretaker and the doorman. Plays and concerts—No extra charge for locals but an additional £1 per night for professionals.

A Member said that even at the present charges it was very difficult to make a profit from running dances in the hall. A man from Wexford, he said, ran four dances there recently and made money on only one. In its present condition, he said, I know this man will hardly book the hall again. I think we should get an estimate of what it would cost to redecorate it and to make the stage smaller and more comfortable for bands.

Mr. P. Walsh, Town Engineer, said that what was required for the hall would run into four figures to do. The walls were in a frightful state and would have to be hacked off before any painting could be done. Mr. Doyle said that it was also suggested that special prices should be charged for special occasions such as Easter Sunday night etc.

Finally it was agreed to recommend the following new scale of charges for dances 8 to 1, £6.10.0; 8 to 2, £9; and 8 to £3, £11. It was also agreed to put the special nights up for tender and to remove the present time restrictions on bookings.

TRAGIC PASSING OF DUNGARVAN MAN

LATE THOMAS A. SPRATT
Coolcormac and Carrigaline

Dungarvan and surrounding districts were plunged into gloom on Wednesday night of last week, April 22nd, when the news of the tragic death of Thomas A. (Tom) Spratt, a native of Coolcormac, in an accident earlier that evening, was broken.

Tom, as he was affectionately known, was only in his thirty-fourth year and his untimely passing had a sorrowful impact on the entire local community.

Elderly of a family of eleven, that are held in the highest esteem, he was a married man and leaves a wife and two young children.

He was educated at Dungarvan C.B.S. and Mount Mellery Seminary, following which he studied at U.C.D. He received the degree of B.Agr.Sc. in 1958 and took up a post with the Co. Cork County Committee of Agriculture.

He then went to the well-known company, “Vitameco” and was adviser for them in the 26 Counties. He was residing in Carrigaline, Co. Cork.

Following Requiem Mass on Friday morning the funeral took place to Carrigaline (Co. Cork) cemetery where the interment was made. Very Rev. Fr. Coffey, C.F., Crosshaven, assisted by Rev. Fr. Shinguin, C.C. officiated, and imparted final absolution at the graveside.

Twenty-six beautiful fresh floral wreaths were placed on the grave.

The chief mourners were: Mrs. Mina Spratt, French Furze, Carrigaline (wife); Tony and Jean (children); Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Spratt, Coolcormac, Dungarvan (parents); Pat, Justin, Bill (Coolcormac); Michael, U.C.D., and Jim, U.C.C. (brothers); Mrs. B. Twomey, Clonkerdon; Miss R. Spratt, Maypark Nursing Home, Waterford; Miss Joan Spratt, Coolcormac; Sr. M. A. Monica, New York; Sr. M. Austin, Gibraltar (sisters). (J. Kiely & Sons, Shandon, had charge of arrangements).

LATE TOM SPRATT
As a sportsman he had few equals. He was a valued playing member of the Brickey Rangers Club for years, during which time his exemplary

New Clinic for City

At the monthly meeting of Waterford Health Authority on Monday, it was unanimously decided to agree in principle to provide a new clinic in Waterford. The members also recommended that the existing Clinic at Lady Lane be handed to Waterford Corporation in return for a suitable site for the proposed new one.

Addressing Monday’s meeting the Architect (Mr. Brian Johnston) said it would be more economical to build a new clinic rather than reconstruct the present one at Lady Lane.

Mr. Wm. Collins asked if there was something wrong with the existing clinic seeing that it was recommended to build a new one.

Mr. Johnston said there were several things wrong with the existing one. It had been idle for a number of years and moisture had got into the walls causing decay and dry and wet rot. The plaster on the walls was also damaged by moisture and was ready to fall off. By putting up a new building they could economise in the height of the building and also the size of the rooms. Also there would be little difference between the cost of erecting a new clinic and reconstructing the old one.

Mr. Milo Galgey said they should ask themselves if they sold the present clinic would they get any reasonable amount that would go towards covering the cost of a new building. If so why reconstruct the building, when they could put up a clinic exactly like the one the people of Waterford would want. If they reconstructed the present one the people in time to come might say to them “Why didn’t ye put up a new building instead of trying to save a few pounds.”

Alderman Thomas Gallagher said it would be much more economical to build a new clinic. The present one looked alright from the outside but was very badly affected by dry rot inside. A new clinic would cost approximately £40,000, whilst to reconstruct the present one would cost £37,000. They would get a two thirds grant. He felt they should apply to the City Manager and the Corporation for a site to build the new clinic.

Mr. James Power said they would be only throwing good money away if they did not build a new clinic. Mr. P. Browne said after what the architect said about the present one, he did not think it would be much use to the Health Authority.

The Chairman (Mr. W. Kenneally) said he was sure the Corporation would be able to get a site for the new building.

President's Address to Past Pupils

ST. AUGUSTINE'S OLD BOYS' ANNUAL GATHERING

Mr. Seamus O. Braonain, (outgoing President's) address to the Past Pupils Union, St. Augustine's College, Dungarvan, on Sunday, 19th April—

"Whether we like it or not, we are bound by ties stronger than mere threads from the past to our old school: we are bound to it by a debt of thanks and a debt of respect; and by a debt of loyalty, for it formed our characters in a certain degree, and moulded our consciences and awakened our intellects, and made us in some part what we are to-day."

"We are bound, in fact, to our old school, by ties of the same essential nature as those which bind us to our parents, to our wives and sisters, to our brothers and friends, to the same ties, too, which bind us to our colleagues, our parish, our county (whether they win All-Ireland or merely throw them away), and last of all, to the result of all, to our country."

"Pietas the scholars call this virtue which regulates these ties. And it is one we shouldn't take too lightly. Patriotism, I think is the nearest you can get to rendering that Latin word in English. Now, there you have a word which means many things to many people, and the same thing to but a few. There are those who think only of the physical aspect of patriotism, who think only of the boys' aspect of patriotism: the taking up of arms and fighting, the violence of combat. This is understandable in the light of the turbulent history of our country, and the fact that too often our citizens have been called upon to exercise their patriotism in this way. But, they were exceptional times: times when the ultimate in self-sacrifice was needed if the country's self-respect were to be maintained."

"Tell me, have you ever seen a man who cannot argue without getting, violently angry. You know what I mean, the fellow who, when crossed, hasn't the patience, the self-discipline, the steadiness to think of how to present his arguments coolly and convince his hearers that way; instead he immediately sees red and throws a punch. And a punch at a time when cool logic is needed with convince nobody."

"That's very much the case with patriotism I think. There have been times when punches were called for in Ireland's past. But infinitely more often a more steadiness, a simple steadiness is what is needed from us. In times like the present we show our love of our country by our ordinary day-to-day living in it. By serving it well, we love it well; by serving it best we love it best. And though the love of service may not be as spectacular and exciting as the love of action, it is no less difficult. For it demands a moral courage equal to the physical courage of our ancestors and our honoured veterans; and—and this is the real point of the matter—it is of equal importance now to our country as violent combat was before."

"Doing our jobs to the best of our ability, giving a decent day's work for a decent day's pay; living a life in harmony with our neighbours, and in harmony with the teachings of the Christian Church, taking an interest in politics and casting our vote conscientiously, balancing our personal budgets, establishing a pleasant home life for our families, helping a youngstr to get a job here, when he might otherwise have to emigrate, pulling our weight in clubs and societies to which we belong, and pulling our weight in support of our parish and regular clergy. These are the ordinary humdrum daily things in which the ordinary man—like you and me—shows his patriotism."

"There is utterly no use in destructive and carping criticism of the condition of the country. It is a most negative and harmful pursuit. Remember that there is no such thing as 'this country', independent of the people who make it up. A country is only as good as the sum of its individual citizens. And if each one of us refuses to make this country a better place to live in, because we do not work our hardest to make our little corner of it a better place to live in, we are failing in our duty to it—the same duty, I repeat, which we owe our families and our Church and our school. And, if we fail in that duty we are being unpatriotic—dare I say it, traitors."

"Gentlemen, I feel, very strongly that these truths are more important to-day than ever before. They say that 'no man is an island sufficient to himself,' and a realisation of that and what it means is vital to Ireland just now, at this crossroads in time when our future depends on our ability to make our country respected among the nations of the earth. And there can be no hope of that respect without our loyalty to our little part of it, and no outside respect without self-respect."

"In education, I think, a country's progress and the self-

economic progress and plans, its political and executive structure, the needs of the medical, educational, and other services, and giving boys and girls a bit of advance knowledge about where they can best find a useful niche in life, so they may best serve their country, and make it a better place for us all."

"Finally, you will bear with me on the subject that everyone thinks fashionable to speak about: the Irish language. So often we hear people with some kind of imaginary axe to grind condemn it because of its compulsion. It is a little difficult to understand their arguments here because not even one in a hundred of all those who take the Leaving Cert. and fail, can attribute their failure to failure in Irish. People who talk of compulsory Irish never talk of compulsory maths, though they are a far greater hazard to Inter-Cert. candidates than Irish ever is. And I might suggest that failure at the Inter Cert. has a far greater effect on the youngster than failure at the Leaving Cert. And no one complains that compulsory Latin is needed for the Church; and they do not complain about compulsory English, or compulsory games. I think the whole thing was summed up years ago by Douglas Hyde when he said: 'Any examination that was ever passed involved some degree of compulsion to pass it.'

"The structure of our education is like a pyramid, with the infant schools and primary school as base and the universities and higher institutes as pinnacle. Somewhere half way up are the secondary and vocational schools. Yet the pinnacle is only a very tiny part of the base or even of the cross-section at secondary level. What I fear is that in aiming at the summit we might forget about some of those further down the sides of our pyramid."

"Obviously there are some excellent new things which have been talked about in the last year: the introduction of a comprehensive school system for instance, so that all will be catered for, and every type of student will get the very best of education for his particular bent. This will need a streamlining of boys and girls at a suitable age into the various kinds of classes which will provide specialist training in the direction in which they want to go."

"When we manage to implement that system we shall have an ideal machinery, involving specialisation for all and not for a few, as at present. However, what I fear is that we may be led astray by this idea into thinking that we are ready for it, or for some of it, before we really are. I fear that we may be led into specialising for those who intend to specialise before we are ready to specialise for those who are merely going to take jobs straight from secondary school."

"What I mean might well be shown by an example: the new mathematics courses which are to be introduced in the near future. These new courses are, in the opinion of most authorities on the subject, geared for those who intend to go on for university standard studies in mathematics or the scientific subjects after school. This would, of course, be a good and desirable thing—something we must achieve anyway—but we must be very careful that when these courses arrive we are still in a position to give ordinary good grounding in bread-and-butter mathematics to the boy who does not wish to specialise in the subject. It would be terrifying to have a top-heavy load of brain power at the top and a poorly serviced middle rank."

"What I am trying to say is this: that we need the facilities before we can properly and justly introduce the new courses which are desirable, so that no boy will find himself elbowed aside into a second-class education because the top of his head is not flying off with the electric energy of the brain activity underneath."

"And, with the implementing of a comprehensive system and the addition of graded programmes according to every boy's ambition and ability, I believe that we need here a permanent institute or study group to find what sort of men our country needs: what kind of skills are going to be most necessary in the immediate future. I mean that it is no use educating a glut of doctors if enough at any particular time, while maybe the dental service is crying out for more men. It is no good educating every girl to be a shorthand-typist if there are no jobs for them, while there is a scarcity of telephoneists, say."

"I feel that such a study group, assessing the country's economic progress and plans, its political and executive structure, the needs of the medical, educational, and other services, and giving boys and girls a bit of advance knowledge about where they can best find a useful niche in life, so they may best serve their country, and make it a better place for us all."

He should clearly understand the official attitude of the Church on these problems. It was only by reading and studying good literature, pamphlets, periodicals, etc., that one could effectively counteract the pernicious influence of so much evil literature that was about. This type of literature, he said, was doing untold harm, not merely to the young and immature, but also to half-educated and unprepared minds.

The double-flashing white light on Dun Laoghaire pier is visible for a distance of twelve miles. Early in the eighteenth century the lighthouse was adapted as the regular mail packet station for Holyhead, and shortly afterwards the first railway in Ireland was opened between Dublin and Dun Laoghaire. The present lighthouse was built in 1846. In the event of fog a gun was fired from the lighthouse fifteen minutes before the expected arrival of the packet and every five minutes after until an answering report was received. Later, a fog-bell was established, which in turn was replaced by a fog horn.

LINK WITH TOURANEENA The death of Mr. Michael Walsh, Chief Superintendent of the Garda Síochána up to his retirement two years ago, and which sad event occurred at his home Claremont Park, Sandymount, Dublin, on Thursday of last week, was learned with feelings of sincere regret in Touraneena and Ballymacarby. The late Supt. Walsh, who was a native of Co. Galway, came to Touraneena (as Sergeant in charge) with the first quota of guards, in the fall of 1923, and during his time in the district he was greatly esteemed for his devotion to duty and high sense of his civic responsibilities.

He was afterwards promoted to the rank of Supt., and served in Dungarvan, and later in Waterford city. In 1954 he was transferred to Dublin, where he was promoted to Chief Superintendent and put in charge of the Donegal Division. In 1959 he took charge of the Laois-Offaly Division.

The late Supt. is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Walsh (formerly Miss Rita Noonan, Ballymacarby); his daughters, Mrs. Rita Heskin, Ann, Maureen and Winifred Walsh; his brothers Owen, Martin and William Walsh; his sisters, Mrs. W. McDonagh and Mrs. J. O'Sullivan.

The funeral took place from the Star of the Sea Church to Deans Grange Cemetery, where interment was made. R.I.P.

DIOCESAN CHANGES The departure of the Rev. Fr. Mulcahy, C.C., Touraneena, who is being transferred to Clogheen, was learned with regret by his parishioners in Touraneena and Nire. During his ministrations amongst them he commanded feelings of well merited respect and popular esteem, for, as well as his devotion to his people's spiritual welfare, every movement for the betterment of local conditions and the brightening of rural life, had his warm and enthusiastic support.

Fr. Mulcahy carries with him to his new sphere of duties, the best wishes of the people of Touraneena and Nire for his future well-being.

Fr. Mulcahy is replaced by Fr. Griffin, C.C., Portlaoine.

PHELAN CUP games at Dungarvan and Waterford, and a selection of Western championship games at the three major venues, make up the Gaelic programme for Sunday next. Most of the games promise thrills aplenty and the biggest problem confronting followers, may well be the final choice of venue.

In the Phelan Cup games, John Mitchels and Kill battle out the semi-final of last year's competition at Waterford, whilst Stradbally and Brickey Rangers do battle in this year's Cup at the Fraher Field. Highlight of the championship programme should be the Intermediate football meeting of Ballinacourty and Affane at Lismore, both of whom are amongst the general favourites for the Divisional title. Cappoquin meet Clashmore in the same championship at Dungarvan whilst in a two game hurling bill at Cappoquin, St. Mary's (Mellera) and Lismore oppose Ballyduff and Kilgobnet respectively in the Primary grade.

The clash of Mitchels and Kill at the city venue promises to provide spectators with a classical exhibition of the code. Both sides invariably play an attractive brand of open and attacking football and the marked similarity in their styles is a near guarantee of an epic hour.

Whilst Mitchels has as yet to win either the championship or Phelan Cup, they seem to hold an outstanding chance of annexing this latter trophy now. They have been very impressive en route to the penultimate stage and if the Kirwans, Goughs, Seamus Kenny, Sean Power, Charlie Crowley, Sam Anderson and the Connors' hit it off they will really trouble the former county champions.

Since their championship defeat by the Brickeys last December, Kill have steadily fought their way back into favour and victory over the Mitchels would reassure supporters that they were far from being a spent force. Like the Mitchels they can boast of some top class footballers, and men like Monty Guiry, Noel Power, Mick Regan, A'chill Lannon and Tom Mooney will be expected to spearhead the Thomas Hogan, who is presently hospitalised in Waterford. But in Donal Whelan, John McGrath, Johnny Hogan, Mick Kiely, Denis Flynn and Tony McCarthy they have the nucleus of a really fine side and I take them to advance to the second round.

But Affane, the reigning Primary champions, are in no way overawed by the magnitude of their task. In fact it would be the height of folly to dismiss them lightly and they would be the first to capitalise on any Ballinacourty complacency.

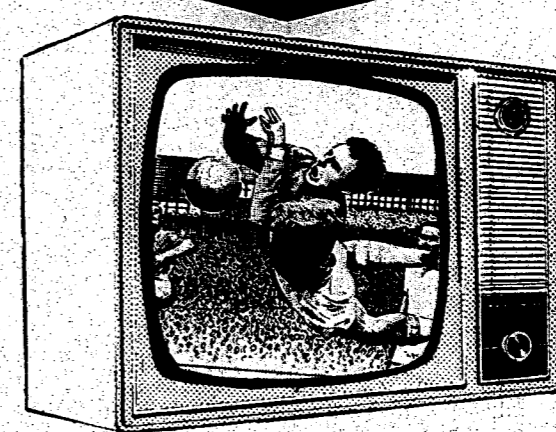

They hope to field their full strength side although it was rumoured earlier in the week that they were harassed by injuries to some key players. But I have been well informed that all will be fit and well for the big day and there is a quite air of confidence in the camp that they will prevail.

But whilst expecting the margin of victory to be a narrow one, my faith in a Ballinacourty win remains steadfast and they are my choice to march on towards the elusive first title.

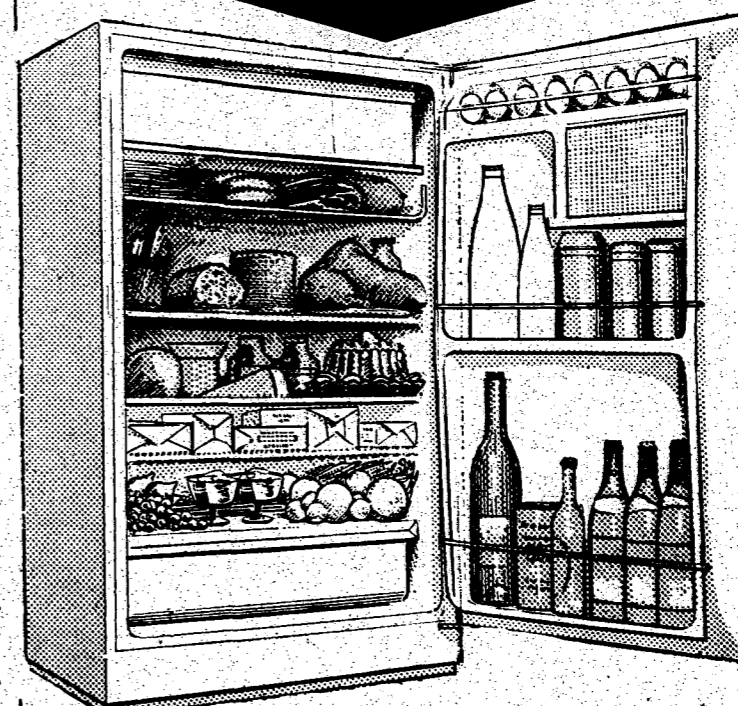

CLASHMORE FANCIED AT DUNGARVAN

Another interesting clash in the same competition is scheduled for Dungarvan between Clashmore and Cappoquin. Like Ballinacourty, the Cornerstone brigade had a successful run in this championship last year before being eventually beaten by the ultimate winners, Valley Rovers and doubtless, will be hoping for better

DUNGARVAN LOURDES INVALID SOCIETY

The above Committee would like to take this opportunity to thank very sincerely all those responsible for making the concert held in St. Laurence's Hall, Ballinroad, on Monday, the 30th April, in aid of the Lourdes Invalid Fund, such an outstanding success.

In particular our thanks are due to Rev. Fr. Flavin, Spiritual Director, Lourdes Diocesan Pilgrimage, who so kindly gave his time and came along to open the concert; to the Abbeyside Variety Group for their generous gesture in donating to our fund the proceeds of the night's takings of their popular and most enjoyable show "Talk of the Town"; to Mr. Jackie Kenneally, U.D.C., for putting his Mini-Bus at our disposal; to Miss Maureen Allwright for placing her car at our disposal and last but not least to the very large attendance who supported the concert.

BIG PRICE FOR FARM

The 26-acre farm of the late Patrick Walsh, Ballinacourty, was sold, in trust, to M/s. Farrell & Morrissey, Soirs, Dungarvan, for £4,750 on Wednesday last. The auctioneers were Messrs. Quealy & Co., Dungarvan.

Council Again Consider Offer of Land

An offer of 15 acres of land at Abbeyside at £500 an acre which was received by Dungarvan Urban Council and discussed at their March monthly meeting, was again considered at last Friday's meeting.

The Town Clerk (Mr. P. J. Doyle) said that since the last meeting of the Council he asked the Auctioneer acting on behalf of the owner to arrange a meeting between a Council deputation and the owner. They were later informed, however, that a meeting would serve no purpose, as the original price of £500 an acre still stood. He again met the auctioneer in an attempt to arrange a meeting but the owner has since become indisposed and there would be some delay.

The Chairman (Deputy Kyne) said he did not think the owner would like a Council deputation to visit him in hospital but as a personal friend he could see him there.

Colr. Lee—What is all this land for? We have two or three sites already and are doing nothing with them.

Deputy Kyne said the land was required for housing.

Hospital Lighting Inadequate

That the present lighting was totally inadequate at Dungarvan District hospital, was stated by Mr. Charles Curran, at last Monday's meeting of Waterford Health Authority. Mr. Curran, who was a member of a visiting committee that visited the hospital, said there was only one light in each ward, and Mr. T. Lannon, who had previously raised the matter, was quite correct.

On the proposal of Mr. James Power it was decided to get an estimate of the cost of a new lighting system in the hospital and present it for the next meeting.

CENTRAL HEATING

Mr. William Dower said he understood that central heating was to be installed in the hospital.

Mr. J. A. Hynes, Secretary, said it was proposed to reconstruct the County Home, Dungarvan and temporary heating was put in.

Mr. Dower said he understood that both Dungarvan hospitals were to have central heating, yet storage heating had been put in instead.

Mr. Hynes said they had been in touch with the Dept. in connection with the central heating and they suggested that temporary heatin be installed. They then put in storage heaters. No additional equipment was bought, however, and only labour costs were involved.

Mr. Dower said he saw wall heaters being installed as late as a month ago. The discussion then ended.

For fourpence you can rear 3 chickens from day-old to maturity with an electric infra-red lamp—at your service, at the touch of a switch. You can also use electric infra red heating to keep bonhams and indeed any small, young animals warm and safe. This is just one of the ways in which electricity cuts the cost and adds to the efficiency of your farming. Your local E.S.B. representative is at your service to advise you on the best and most economic equipment to meet your needs.

Dungarvan Observer

FARM INFORMATION SERVICE

Question—What is the advantage of applying Nitrogen to a well established sward consisting of the good commercial grasses and clover? Can the clover, which is growing well, not supply all the nitrogen required?

Answer—The clover in a mixed sward supplies some nitrogen for the other plants but it only releases significant amounts of this important plant food when growing strongly. This, of course, is in the form of ammoniacal Nitrogen released, depending on weather conditions and growth. You cannot expect to get "Early Bite" or late-season grazing on clover nitrogen. The advantages of applying Nitrogen are that it increases the rate of growth of grass, and also governs the time when the grass will be ready for grazing, silage or hay. This is not possible with clover nitrogen.

Good management of the sward is essential to obtain maximum output from clover nitrogen, the sward must be grazed sufficiently short, so that the grasses do not overshadow the clover and so reduce nitrogen supply. Two or three small applications of nitrogen during the growing season give better output than one large application, provided the clover and Potash status is satisfactory.

Q—What spray should be used on a crop of wheat which has a lot of weeds in it, and when should the crop be sprayed to get best results?

A—There are many sprays on the market for the control of weeds in cereal crops. What spray to use will depend largely on which weed is most prevalent. This, of course, involves identification of the weeds but most of the commoner ones are well known and can be identified by the Local Agricultural Instructor. M.C.P.A. will give a good kill to most weeds if applied at the recommended rates and at the correct stage of growth. Where clovers and other broad leaved are predominant C.M.P.P. or C.M.P.P. x 2, 4-D spray should be used.

These sprays are only suitable for cereal crops which are not overgrown.

Q—I have a sow which farrowed recently and after a few days she had no milk and I lost some of the bonhams. What is the cause of this and is it likely to occur again?

A—This could have been a case of Mastitis and if so I think you should have called in your local Vet to diagnose the complaint and give the sow an injection to bring back the milk. Your management of the sow prior to farrowing often influences the milk-flow. Proper feeding, clean housing and outdoor exercise are important to combat disease or disorders of your sow at the next farrowing. You should include a laxative such as bran or treacle in the food for a few days prior to farrowing.

NO INCREASE IN REAL INCOME

Last week a meeting of the National Pigs and Bacon Committee was held in Dublin. Many resolutions from branches throughout the country were dealt with and a frank discussion took place on the present and future constitution of the committee itself. Much of the meeting was given over to discussing the recent increase in bacon prices and reports on the present feed position were given in detail.

Most farmers feel that while any increase in pig prices is to be welcomed, the particular increase granted recently barely compensates them for increased food stuffs prices. Their real income position has not benefited as a result.

IRISH FARMERS TO BE REPRESENTED IN WASHINGTON

On the 5th and 6th of May a joint meeting of IFAP European and North American members will be held in Washington, at the N.F.A., which is an affiliated member, will be represented.

Included on the Agenda are two items which reads as follows:—

1.—To discuss and agree: (a) a common definition of the fundamental objectives assigned by member organisations to a national agricultural policy, especially with respect to farm income; (b) a common evaluation of the limits which a policy so defined imposes on international competition and the international division of labour; (c) a common approach to the aim of maintaining a reasonable flow of agricultural trade amongst North American and European countries and of promoting better utilization of their productive potential.

2.—To consider practical ways in which the foregoing understanding could be translated into specific agreements and commitments in the context of the current trade negotiations: (a) general framework for commodity arrangements; (b) application thereof to specific commodities, e.g. (cans, dairy products, meat).

TAX CONCESSION FOR VOLUNTARY HEALTH INSURANCE BOARD

The Finance Bill 1964 will include a provision to exempt the Voluntary Health Insurance Board from payment of income tax. This was one of the announcements made by the Minister for Finance in the course of his Budget speech on April 14th and the concession was granted in recognition of the social importance of the service provided by the Board.

Because of the Board's policy of using the greater bulk of its subscriptions income for the direct benefit of subscribers, the operating surplus has been small, particularly in the amount of income payable by the Board was less than £1,500 in 1962/63, or 0.8% of last year's. Consequently total income.

However, from February 1957 to February 1963, the Board paid a total of £26,623 in income tax. If this sum had been left with the Board, further extension of benefits to subscribers would be possible. It is to be expected that the additional sum which will be available each year from now on as a result of the tax exemption, will facilitate such extensions of benefits.

N.F.A. NEWS WE NEED THE BEST MEN

Completed ballot papers from branches in the 1964 election to National Council will reach Central Office before the 9th May, 1964.

Lists of candidates duly and constitutionally nominated by branches have been already sent out and branches are asked to vote for the number of candidates to which their county or region are entitled. Ballot papers will be considered valid only if: (a) each such ballot paper is posted or delivered in the supplied envelope having been sealed, and on the outside of which, in the appropriate space, the Hon. Secretary of the voting branch shall have signed his name and indicated the name of the voting Branch, and (b) the voting branch is an affiliated branch (both to the County Executive and the National Executive) for 1964.

It is often said that a country gets the government it deserves and even in a democracy people often criticise those whom they have directly or by default, chosen to represent them. The same thing can be applied within organisations such as ours and for this reason members should jealously guard against its happening.

Agriculture at this particular stage in its development, needs the keenest and the most able representatives. As a minimum these should be capable of doing two jobs well: (a) commanding respect within and without the organisation for things agricultural, and (b) dedicated to the task of making the problems of their county or regional members fully understood at national level while at the same time keeping the ordinary member fully informed on the why and wherefore of every move at national level.

Every branch should feel duty bound to take part in these elections. The work of those chosen eventually, will not be easy during the next two years. The amount of support given to them at local level will make their efforts more or less efficient and every farmer should bear this in mind.

The atmosphere which prevailed these meetings was one of willingness to come to terms with agricultural problems generally. This is a big step forward and all those are to be congratulated on their share in bringing it about.

In the interests of farmers and the country generally it is imperative that there should be the closest possible relationship between organised farmers, the Department of Agriculture and various other departments which are, in one way or another concerned with matters which impinge in agriculture.

It is expected that within the coming weeks and months further discussions will take place between N.F.A. representatives and Government officials on the longer term issues of the N.F.A. Seven Year Plan for Agriculture and there is already becoming evident a new feeling of confidence among farmers concerning the outcome of these talks.

AREAS TO GET SPECIAL TREATMENT

Striking similarities exist between some of the recommendations contained in the reports on "Pilot Area Development" published last week and those sections of the N.F.A. Document dealing with Small Farms and Regional Development. Incidentally, the report in question has been approved in principle by the Government.

One of the recommendations included in the Report is that a pilot area should be established in each of the counties: Galway, Mayo, Roscommon, Sligo, Leitrim, Longford, Donegal, Cavan, Monaghan, Clare, Kerry and in West Cork. It is also suggested that a full-time Adviser should be assigned to each of the selected pilot areas and he should have the part-time assistance of such specialist advisers as were considered necessary. Local committees consisting mainly of more enterprising and younger farmers, to work with the adviser to select projects for development and to implement them would be essential.

In line also with N.F.A. thought is the recommendation that the Agricultural Credit Corporation should be encouraged to deal sympathetically with applications coming from the pilot areas and endorsed by the adviser who would help in drawing up the agreed programme.

On more than one occasion the N.F.A. has suggested that the scope and resources of the I.A.O.S. should be enlarged and it is to be welcomed that another recommendation suggests that the I.A.O.S. should take part in the pilot area development programme in the selected areas.

In view of the pressing difficulties under which farmers in problem areas work it is also good to see that the Inter-Departmental Committee suggests that the special facilities available under the Land, Project and Farm Buildings Scheme in selected areas might be extended to the pilot areas; maximum grant under the Land Project might be increased in special circumstances the provision of facilities for bulk storage of grain to meet the requirements of pig producers in the pilot areas should be encouraged, with special grants if necessary.

A detailed study of the complete report is presently being made at Central Office.

FURTHER DISCUSSION ON N.F.A. PLAN

At the meeting held between the N.F.A. and the Government prior to the Budget the emphasis was naturally laid on the need for immediate price increases and the lessening of the rates burden. They constituted, in effect, the first Annual Review talks to be held in this country.

The atmosphere which prevailed these meetings was one of willingness to come to terms with agricultural problems generally. This is a big step forward and all those are to be congratulated on their share in bringing it about.

In the interests of farmers and the country generally it is imperative that there should be the closest possible relationship between organised farmers, the Department of Agriculture and various other departments which are, in one way or another concerned with matters which impinge in agriculture.

SHAMROCK'S DEFEAT TALLOW

Lismore gaelic field was the scene of a full-blooded hurling game on Sunday last, when Shamrocks disposed of Tallow in the opening round of the intermediate hurling championship. It was a game that gripped and held the attention of the large attendance. And if Shamrocks ran out victors by four points, they had to fight every inch of the way.

Scorer-in-chief for the winners was John Joe Murphy, who notched up 8 points mostly from frees.

At half-time Shamrocks led 0-5 to 0-1, and the final score was: Shamrocks 2-9; Tallow 3-2.

For Shamrocks, Mickey Keane, Frank Concoran, Billy Tobin, Seamus Murphy, Paul Allen, John Foley, Gerald McGrath, and Billy Keefe, were outstanding, whilst Tallow had stars in, Sean Sheehan, Phil Cox, Claude and Ollie Fitzgerald, and goalkeeper Ned Power who was in magnificent form and brought off some wonderful saves.

WATERFORD WEST NEWS

CIVIL DEFENCE
 First Aid Training under the admirable direction of our local Medical Officer, Dr. J. McNamara, assisted by Mrs. Veale, our Jubilee Nurse, has proved to be a most popular gathering of a very dedicated class throughout the winter months at Ardmore.
 As was only to be expected an enviable camaraderie developed among the gathering of young men and women and others not so young who took the pains to turn out for weekly training in such valuable subject and under the auspices of such a praise worthy effort as Civil Defence, in which the members are enrolled.

The pleasant association and rapport between the members of the class evident to the writer who attended a recent session, was reminiscent of the best that a more carefree age offered and while it is understood this weekly training will be discontinued for the summer months, it is to be hoped that it will again be resumed in the autumn.

Doctor, nurse and members of the class alike are to be congratulated for their consistency in attendance throughout the winter and for their dedication to a task undertaken.

On Wednesday, 15th April last, all members of the class were examined by Dr. E. P. Cogan, of Cork, with a view to testing their proficiency in the knowledge of first aid preparatory to the issue of first aid certificates.

Those who received certificates were: Terry Bagge, Cliff House Hotel; John Colbert, Crossford, Rd. Hennessy, 3 College Rd.; Helen Havenagh, Tower View; John Keane, Duffcarrick; M. Keane, Clarks town; Nellie Keane, do.; Jas. Mahony, Curragh; Jas. Moloney, Fountain Hse.; Jas. Mooney, Duffcarrick; Ed. Mooney, Shanbally; Donal Murphy, Fountain Hse.; Brigid Power, Por. Curragh; Pat. N. Power, Cliff; Jas. F. Quinn, Main St.; Mary Quinn, do.; John Reilly, Ardo; Bridget O'Reilly, Main St.; Stephen N. Raghallaigh, do.; Pat. Seward, Crossford; Martin Troy, Curragh; Mary Troy, do.

CLASHMORE G.A.A.
 On Sunday next, at Dungarvan, Clashmore J.F. team meet Cappoquin in the first round of the West Waterford championships, and a good game is assured. The issue is very open and a close and exciting finish is expected.

DROMANA BRIDGE
 When the Irish Commission closed Dromana Edge a few years ago, it resulted in considerable inconvenience for many people in the area and there were numerous protests. All efforts to have the bridge re-opened have so far failed, but it is understood that a new line of action is to be taken by local interests.

ON HOLIDAY IN U.S.A.
 Enjoying a holiday in the U.S.A. at present is Mrs. Brigid Cullinane, Dromana. Mrs. Cullinane, who is wife of Mr. David Cullinane, P.C., well known farmer and timber merchant, flew out from Shannon and will visit relatives and friends in different parts of the U.S.A.

F.F. ORGANISATION
 It is understood that Mr. J. Lynch, Minister for Industry & Commerce, will attend a meeting of the local F.F. Organisation in the near future.

ARDMORE FOR TIDY TOWNS COMPETITION
 Ardmore has again entered for the Tidy Towns Competition and an energetic local committee are in charge of the project. Last year the picturesque seaside town did remarkably well in this competition and it is confidently expected that it will be amongst the winners this year.

CLASHMORE MAN WEDS
 Congratulations to Mr. Patrick Hynes, Castlelyons, and a native of Clashmore, on the occasion of his recent marriage. Mr. Hynes is brother of Rev. Fr. W. Hynes, Crescent City, U.S.A. The young couple have been the recipients of many felicitations and good wishes for their future welfare and happiness.

SALMON FISHING
 So far fish have been scarce in this area. Better weather conditions are expected to bring an improvement.

DEPREDACTIONS BY FOXES
 In a number of instances young lambs have mysteriously disappeared from farms in this area. Foxes are believed to be responsible for the losses.

WELL KNOWN CLASHMORE MAN BEREAVED
 Widespread sympathy is extended to Mr. Edmund Nash, Clashmore, on the recent death of his mother, Mrs. Ann Nash, Livershampane, Co. Kerry. The deceased, who had reached an advanced age, was member of a well known and popular Co. Kerry family.

Kilmacthomas Notes

A Genuine Lover of the native games and pastimes was quiet and unassuming Mr. Henry Cunningham, late of Carrigeen, Kilmacthomas, who, following a period of indisposition and at a moderately advanced age, died at St. Patrick's Hospital, Waterford, on Monday, 20th ult. (Feast of St. Theotimus). Though he is gone from among those intimately acquainted with him, they will be the better for having had for a friend this wonderfully kind and human man. Better epitaph no neighbour need desire. Widespread sincere sympathy is extended to his sorrowing wife and family.

The remains were removed to the Parish Church, Clonsilla, where they were received and blessed by Very Rev. Fr. Cahill, P.P., do. Requiem Mass in the sacred edifice at 10.30 a.m., on Wednesday week, preceded the interment in the adjoining cemetery. Rev. Fr. Ryan, C.C., Rathgormack, officiated at the graveside. Beannacht De le'n anam.

Widow of the late Mr. Edmond (Ned) Lonergan, dairy and tillage farmer, Carrigeen, Kilmacthomas, and sister of the late Mr. John Boushell, draper, Main Street, do., was Mrs. Catherine Lonergan who, in Cashel Hospital, Co. Tipperary on a recent date, breathed her last at the allotted span. R.I.P.

Mr. James Power, farmer, Ballycroddick, Dunhill, who died at Ardkeen General Hospital, Waterford, on Tuesday, 21st ult. (Feast of St. Anselm) was brother of amiable Mrs. Catherine McKee, widow, Ballydwan West, Stranally, and the general sorrow caused by his passing was reflected in the attendance at the removal of the remains to the Parish Church, Dunhill, on Wednesday evening week, adjoining cemetery the next day (after two Requiem Masses). R.I.P.

Des Ettes Showband (Dublin) disbursed the music at Ballydurn-Newton Social Club's grand social at the Rainbow Ballroom, Kilmacthomas, on the first night of this week. The function was right well patronised; it commenced at 9 o'clock and concluded at 2 a.m., and gaiety was the keynote from start to finish.

The Many Friends of muchesteemed Mr. James Lonergan, Ballydwan, Kiln, are delighted to find, he is again out and about, and feeling fully recovered from the effects of his recent indisposition.

The Question Time brought off before a capacity and keenly interested audience at the Spring Valley Hall, Bonmahon, on Friday night of last week, was under the auspices of Muintir na Tire, the teams from guilds of which participating included Ballyduff Upr., Ballylaheen, Ballyduff-Kilmeaden and Portlaw.

The competition was won by Portlaw, who emerged worthy winners by 2 points. Fianna Fail.—The youth and beauty of these parts will flock to the Spring Valley Hall, Bonmahon on Sunday night, for the Kilmacthomas Comhairle Ceantair-sponsored dance, the full preliminary particulars of which are advertised.

Briefly referred to in the previous issue, was the recent death of Garranturton-born Mr. Thomas Curran, in Australia, sprung from a fine old mid-Waterford farming stock, he first saw the light in 1911; emigrated in 1929, and in the land of his adoption his upright and honourable character won for him the respect and confidence of all whom he contacted "down under." Due to his being well educated and blessed with great intelligence he was a delightful person to meet and a most devout and good-living Catholic throughout his career.

Not so long since his health took a serious turn, and despite the best of medical skill, his life came to a peaceful and happy close after he had received the last rites of the Mother Church. Surviving him in Australia are his wife and three sons, and here in Ireland are his sisters (Mrs. Lena Morrissey, Garrynagarragh, Dungarvan, and Mrs. Mary Power, Fahaeela, Kilmacthomas) and brothers, (Mr. James Curran, Abbeyside, and Messrs. John and William Curran, Garranturton, Kilmacthomas. Peace to the gentle soul of the late Mr. Curran.

G.A.A. Items.—At Kilmacthomas on Sunday next, May 3rd, at 12 noon, Mt. Sion play Kilmacthomas, on their minor football re-lecture in the 1st round of the championship. The game will be refereed by John O'Brien.

Other fixtures on Sunday next: St. Brendan's v. Newtown, in J.F. Championship, 1st round. Newtown team leaves Carroll's Cross at 1.30. Mitchel's v. Mt. Sion, (J.F.), at Waterford, 3.30. Mitchells will leave Fews 2.15 p.m.

At Newtown on Sunday last, Mitchell minor footballers beat Cathal Brugha 2-4 to 1-4 in a very exciting game.

Tramore minor footballers were very hard pressed to overcome Newtown on Sunday last and it was not until the closing minutes of the game that they clinched the issue. The final score was: Tramore 4-4; Newtown 1-4. Newtown were very unfortunate in that due to a mix-up in transport arrangements, four of the regular players were absent.

LATE MRS. KATE O'CALLAGHAN

COLLIGAN DUNGARVAN
 The sad event of the death of Mrs. Kate O'Callaghan, occurred during the early hours of Monday morning, April 27th at her daughter's residence, Friary St., Dungarvan, after a duration of illness, but at the fullness of years and fortified by the Rites of Holy Church. The deceased lady was relict of the late Jeremiah O'Callaghan. She was a most popular person of a gentle and retiring disposition and a member of a very old Colligan family.

We extend our deepest sympathy to her family and relatives at this sad time. May she rest in peace.

The removal of her remains took place on Monday evening to Colligan Church, followed by a large and most representative cortege and were blessed and received at the church gates by Very Rev. Fr. D. McGrath, P.P., Kilgobnet, assisted by Rev. T. C. Butler, O.S.A., Dungarvan, Rev. Fr. Stibbles, O.S.A., do., Rev. Fr. Oden, C.C., Waterford.

Requiem Masses were celebrated for the intentions of her soul on Tuesday morning, and the interment took place immediately afterwards in the adjoining family plot. Another large and sympathetic concourse were present to pray for the departed one and to sympathise with her nearest and dearest. Rev. M. Farrell, C.C., assisted by Very Rev. D. McGrath, P.P., imparted the final absolution at the graveside.

The chief mourners were: Mr. Sean O'Callaghan, Mitchel Tce. (son); Mrs. Margaret Flynn, Fitzgerald Tce.; Mrs. Patrick Flynn, Ballykennydy, Cappagh; Mrs. Sean Walsh, Friary St.; Mrs. Patrick Moore, Mitchel St. (daughters); Sean Walsh, Patrick Moore, Patrick Flynn (sons-in-law); and a large circle of grandchildren. Large sheaves of Mass cards were received. (Funeral arrangements were by J. Kiely & Sons, Shandon, Dungarvan.)

FRENCH BUYERS AT CLOMEL PIC MARKET

Producers who offered pigs at last week's Clomel Market were in great luck. They received about 30% over and above the normal price for their store pigs. This increase was caused by the presence of agents of a large Paris Meat Packing Plant who were sending the pigs direct to France. The local buyers were not too pleased at this, having to pay between 9d. and 1/- per lb. more for their store pigs.

Southern Feeders have protested strongly to the Minister for Agriculture and also to the Pig and Bacon Commission with regard to these shipments of live pigs to France. The Minister so far has made no order to stop this trade would penalise the Pig Breeders who would then be confined to an Irish market only. Monsieur Jean Amery commented most favourably on the quality of the pigs shown at the Market. He said he had not seen better anywhere in Europe.

GAELIC JOTTINGS

SHAMROCKS MASTER TALLOW

Shamrocks, the combination drawn from the combined parishes of Knockanore, Killinore and Glendine, move inexorably nearer their first-ever Western Intermediate hurling crown. On Sunday last they turned over with a 1-5 to 0-1 lead. A surprise selection was former inter-county defender Eddie Mooney at full forward, and he acquitted himself well, scoring his side's first half point.

But it was the Reds who as their attack, brilliantly led by stylish Tom Cunningham, led the Ardmore defence towards history when defeating arch rivals, Tallow, in their opening round after a tense if not spectacular hour. As expected the issue was in doubt right up to the final whistle, at the end of which Billy Tobin and his men had only four precarious points to spare.

Tallow obviously put everything into this game and they certainly covered themselves with glory in defeat. Home from England for the game came Sean Sheehan, Ollie Fitzgerald and Tom Mulcahy, and together with Ned Power, John Lyons, Eddie Cunningham and company they made the mighty Shamrocks travel every inch of the way. Be that as it may, the honours just about went to the better all-round side. True, the men from the Bride town might with better luck have reversed the result but taken overall the Shamrocks just deserved to prevail. Whereas Tallow depended for the most part on the brilliance of individuals, the winners were the more evenly balanced side and it was their equal distribution of all round strength that eventually swung the issue in their favour. Now that this formidable obstacle has been surmounted they are going to take a deal of beating and are in fact the slight favourites at this stage to take Divisional honours.

It may be somewhat disheartening for Tallow to make so early a championship exit, but make no mistake about it, this once great hurling centre, is on the way back to former glory. After Sunday the talent of the team is available and would have beaten many another team. Their turn cannot be long delayed and whilst 1965 may seem an eternity, the men from the Bride country will be big news in twelve months time. Of that I have no doubt. Finally a word of praise for both teams for the wonderful standard of sportsmanship displayed. This was accepted in all quarters as a "needle game" and whilst in fact there was quarrel neither given nor asked, neither side once stepped out of line. It was tough all through but above all was manly, and for this exemplary display of good sportsmanship both deserve the highest praise.

TOURIN FOOTBALLERS MARCH ON
Showing a marked improvement on recent outings, Tourin advanced comfortably to the second round of the Primary football championship on Sunday last when defeating Ballinacorney by 1-5 to 0-2 at Cappoquin. The standard of football was not great but there was no mistaking Tourin's superiority and were not flattered by their six point winning margin.

Tourin had distinctly the better of the first half exchanges but their attack squandered some good chances and they only led by 0-2 to nil at the break. Ballinacorney's best period was in the opening quarter of the second half and when they reduced the arrears to a solitary point looked capable of making a real close issue out of it. But the missing of a golden opportunity of a goal seemed to demoralise the side in general and Tourin took complete command to run out comparatively easy victors.

Outstanding for the winners were Wally Doocey, Ollie Wilkinson, Tom Sullivan, Jimmy O'Gorman and J. J. Scanlon. Ballinacorney's best were the Dodo Cliffe, Jim Power, Leo McGrath, Tom Browne and Johnny Reynolds.

ARDMORE ADVANCE IN 1963 PRELAN CUP
By the narrow margin of two points, Ardmore advanced a stage further in the 1963 Phelan Cup competition when accounting for Stradbally at Dungarvan on Sunday night last. But if the Seaside deserved their victory, they were made fight very hard for it. It was a game of two halves in which each side enjoyed their thirty minutes of supremacy. From the outset Ardmore piled on the pressure and inspired by a brilliant Paddy

KILGOBINET

IN a game that wreaked with rancour throughout, Kilgobinet enjoyed one of their greatest hours by eliminating fancied Colligan Rockies from the Intermediate hurling championship at the Old

Despite the unkindness of a frightening one as hurleys flew with rare abandon and whilst many are "bedecked" with the scars of battle, it was only through the purest of good luck that someone was not seriously injured. One must, of course, be reasonably tolerant in this respect when parish neighbours clash but quite candidly there was little justification for the ferocity of the exchanges at times. And the pity of it all was that the teams should resort to such tactics, because when the mood betook them they served up some top-class hurling. The emphasis was on ground hurling which at times was spectacularly good under the adverse conditions that prevailed. Kilgobinet's keynote was dedication, for seldom have I seen a team so thoroughly thirsty for victory.

SUPERB FITNESS SENSATIONAL OPENING
Nor can one overlook their superb fitness when seeking the factors that contributed most to the triumph. Sunday's was without doubt the fittest side that I have yet seen wearing the club's green and white jersey and is a tribute in itself to Fr. Farrell, Simon Hanley and others responsible for their peak condition.

The Rockies, in marked contrast, looked a tired and bedraggled side as the game came to its gruelling close. When they cut their deficit to a single point at the three quarter stage hopes sprang eternal once more but blatant lack of fitness took its inevitable toll, and they faded dismally from the picture. It would, of course be ungracious to all members of the team to levy this fault of lack of fitness at their doorstep, but truthfully with the exception of five or six of the side they did not look like men that had undergone thorough preparation for the game.

Except for the opening few minutes, Kilgobinet dominated the first half exchanges. They held a firm grip at midfield where Michael Kelly reigned supreme and they were not flattered by their 0-1 to 1-2 interval lead. When they stretched their advantage with a further point minutes after the resumption they rampaged in domineering fashion and even partisan Colligan supporters must have read between the lines. But in a golden five-minute spell they notched up as many points and amidst tension and feverish excitement the issue was well and truly thrown wide open.

OUT OF GAS
Then it was, however, that the Rockies ran out of gas, and Kilgobinet still buoyant, still unflustered, and still supremely confident regained former composure and asserted a superiority that was truly emphatic. They tacked on the decisive scores and ended the hour in an absolute blaze of glory.

BRICKY DEATH OF TRAGIC STAR
This week fate has ordained that I end this column on a sombre note, as I endeavour to pay a tribute to Tom Spratt of Coolcormack, who tragically lost his life in a car accident last week.

Tom, who hailed from a footballing family unsurpassed in this county, wore the black and amber jersey of the Brickey Rangers with glorious distinction for many years, and it was something of a travesty of justice that a senior championship medal should have eluded him. But Tom was not one that played for the prizes that were to be won but rather for the enjoyment he obtained from playing the game of his choice. The last time I recall seeing him play was in that memorable county senior final against Kilrossanty in 1960. That day he was not on the actual fifteen but when introduced as a substitute almost swung the tide of battle in his side's favour. On and off the field he was an exemplary sportsman, a credit to a great

5-3 COLLIGAN ROCKIES

Boro's rain swept Fraher Field on Sunday last. It was a victory as decisive as it was merited, a win in fact that will be justifiably hailed in the four corners of the Kilgobinet section of the parish for a long time to come.

stood out, never stood on ceremony and gave ample protection to a most competent goalkeeper in Michael Dunford. If Kelly was the key figure around midfield, he got good support from Anthony Hayes, and it is difficult to fathom the decision to replace him in the second half.

The forwards, as a unit, were ever dangerous, but the major honours must go to the half forward trio of Lar and Tomas Cummins and Roger McCarthy. They were more or less the creators of scores which were finished off by full forwards Tommy Woods, Mick Keating and Bobby Buckley. So poorly did Colligan perform that it is exceedingly difficult to comment without being critical. The team's display on the whole was something of an anti-climax and was in marked contrast to that of their exuberant rivals.

WALSH OUTSTANDING
The star of their side was undoubtedly centre back Mickey Walsh who was majestic throughout. His striking was crisp and lengthy and clearly remains one of the top defenders in the county. Little fault could be found

Scart and Kilbrien Water Schemes
Mr. John Fahey, Lyreanearla, Clonmel, a member of Waterford County Council, and other subsidiary bodies, has received the following letter from Mr. J. D. Hally, County Engineer, in connection with Minor Water Supply Schemes for Scart and Kilbrien.

"You will recall that last January you made representations regarding the possibility of Minor Water Supply Schemes for Scart and Kilbrien. I have now examined the Consultants proposals for the proposed Modeligo Regional water scheme and find that Scart and Kilbrien are included in the area to be served by this scheme. When the Consultants preliminary report on this scheme is received it will be placed before the County Council for their consideration."

KELLY THE STAR
After a victory such as this, Kilgobinet followers could parade several team members for the title of man of the match, but for the writer at any rate none merits that award more than their stylish teenage, midfielder, Michael Kelly.

Everything he did bore a stamp of class about it and must surely be an automatic choice for the inter-county intermediate team this year. Their defence of which John Woods, Peter and Nicholas Power and Mark Cummins
