COUNCILLOR CONTRADICTS NEWSPAPER REPORT

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir,
A short time ago I read in a national newspaper that a small industry promoted by German interests had decided not to commence business in Dungarvan. I was responsible for the promotion of this industry in Dungarvan and as soon as I read this notice I communicated with the promoters in Germany. I have now received a letter from Mr. Dankmar Averdung who will be coming to reside in Dungarvan and he cannot understand how such a report could have appeared in any Irish newspaper.

He informs me that he has instructed a Dungarvan firm of solicitors to form a company, and that this matter is proceeding and he anticipates to be in Dungarvan in the near future with a view to commencing business.

I do not know the source of the information which prompted the publication of an obviously incorrect report and I would be obliged if you would kindly, in contradiction of this report, publish this letter.

Yours sincerely,
RICHARD A. WALSH,
U.D.C.

Popular Local Man in Hospital

We extend best wishes for a speedy recovery to Mr. Dan Phelan, Main Street, Dungarvan, who is a patient at present in Ardkeen hospital. Dan, we are glad to say, however, is on the road to complete recovery and we hope it will not be long before we have him in our midst again.

Gala Week-- one to remember

DUNGARVAN'S second annual Gala Week ended in spectacular style on Sunday night last, in the presence of one of the largest gatherings ever to converge on the town. To mark the closing of a week of fun and laughter, enjoyment and entertainment, the Gala Week Committee put on a monster fireworks display at the Look-out, and this proved a fitting climax to eight truly memorable days and nights.

Right from the moment Mr. John Pickard, Marketing Director, Beamish and Crawford Ltd. opened the Gala the previous Sunday, it was a success story the whole way. And as if in appreciation of the superb efforts of the Committee the sun shone brightly throughout during the process record crowds to the town.

Every night for the entire week, the Committee ensured that a most attractive programme of events had been arranged. All were excellently attended and went off without a hitch.

It is difficult to fully appreciate the extent of the work and preparation that went into the organising of this Gala Week. For months prior to the Gala the main committee comprised entirely of local men and women gave hours of their own leisure time to put on what thousands derived maximum pleasure from.

The local business houses, particularly the publicans, had a real "bonanza", whilst many other shopkeepers also reported a "roaring" trade.

Unfortunately, it is reported that the Committee actually lost money on the whole effort. That to the writer is not surprising for a great number of events were free. If then they did go down on the whole week, and the Committee decides to hold fund-raising projects, the people who so gaily enjoyed the Gala have an obligation to give their support.

And so the town is now just about coming around to its normal self once again. It was a splendidly run affair, and already those that attended the '65 Gala are turning their eyes towards next year's one.

Again many thanks to those who made it all possible and long may they continue their excellent work.

A special feature of the event was the two performances of "Twilight Memories" by the Choral Society in the Park. The lighting and public address systems in connection with the Gala were carried out by Electrical Engineering Services Ltd., Main St.

ANNUAL MASS AT TOOR HOLY WELL

On Wednesday, 28th July, the Annual Mass will be offered at Toor Holy Well (Aghish Co. Co. Waterford) at 12 noon.

Minister Refuses Road Grant

Dungarvan Urban Council has failed in its efforts to get a special grant for urban road work from the Minister for Local Government.

At the Council's monthly meeting on Friday night, Mr. P. Doyle (Town Clerk) read a letter from the Dept. stating that the matter was discussed at Official level with the County Engineer. The Urban Council had been granted an Urban Road Improvement grant already this year, which was 10% more than the previous year's grant. No further funds were now available from which additional grants could be allotted. Mr. Doyle said that the County Engineer had estimated that the improvements to be carried out on Urban Roads would be about £10,000.

Question of Camping Sites for Itinerants

A circular from the Department, criticising local Authorities for not providing camping sites for itinerants, was read by the Town Clerk, at last Friday week's meeting of Dungarvan Urban Council.

Mr. T. A. Kyne, T.D. (Chairman) said he did not feel like providing electricity and other amenities for itinerants if they would not avail of them. He would not have them billeted near his house and he would not like to place them near anyone else.

Mr. R. Walsh said he had received reports of destruction by itinerants in the Shandon area.

Mr. J. Butler said that people who had not got a field to graze an animal in or a stable to accommodate one in, should not be allowed to own an animal. This would solve the problem, he said.

This suggestion the meeting decided, should be sent to the Department.

Touraneena Notes

COLLISION AT CAHERNALEAGUE

Around 11 p.m., on Thursday night of last week, two motor cars and a jennet and trap (all travelling in the Dungarvan direction) were in collision in the straight stretch of road on the Touraneena side of Hickey's Cross, on the main road.

It appears that the first car (with driver only) crashed into the rear of the jennet and trap and with the force of the impact the trap, together with its occupants, a party of itinerant returners, was hurled clear over the animal and incredible as it may seem, all six (four adults and two children) were still inside the battered trap, and uninjured, when it came to rest in the centre of the road. And it was here that they had a second providential escape, for had not the driver of the second car in order to avoid them—swerved and crashed into the back of the first car, all six could have been killed.

Some of the occupants of the second car, who were injured in the crash, received spiritual and medical aid before being removed to hospital.

GIFTED TOURANEENA LADY

At the recent visit of Val Doonican, T.V. and radio star, to Waterford Men's Association in Dublin, a scroll of welcome was designed and presented by Miss Kathleen Barron, daughter of Mrs. M. Barron, Killooney, Touraneena, an ex-pupil of Touraneena Girls' national school, is now a successful dress designer in Dublin. Incidentally, she also designed a scroll of welcome presented to the Mayor of Chicago, on his visit to the Association. The mayor showed it to his friends on his return to the States, and it was mentioned on radio, T.V., and press.

Congratulations Kathleen!

SYMPATHY

Deepest sympathy is extended to the sons, daughter, daughters in law and other relatives of the late Mrs. Kathleen Walsh, Druidmount, Ballymacarby, whose death took place on last week-end. R.I.P.

AMMUNITION DUMP FOUND

Whilst engaged in demolishing an old outoffice at Lismore Convent, on Tuesday, 29th June, the foreman employed by M/S. Pyne, Building Contractors, Fermoy, found an old dump containing a large quantity of 303 rifle ammunition. It was in cardboard boxes, with 20 rounds in each box. Sgt. Daly, G.S., Tallow, took charge of the find, which is believed to date back to the days of the Anglo Irish war.

As Sean has a wide circle of friends in county Waterford as well as in Tipperary, we would like to bring this presentation to their notice. In furtherance of this the Hon. Treasurer and other Committee members will gratefully receive and acknowledge subscriptions forwarded to them on behalf of the presentation.

Kilmacthomas Notes

Ordination.—The third ordination which the Augustinian Friars have had in England since the Reformation, took place recently at Austin Friars School, Carlisle. Ordained to priesthood was Rev. Gregory O'Connor, son of ex-Sergt. Arthur and Mrs. O'Connor, 18 Terenure Park, Dublin. The O'Connors are well known in Stradbally, where Sergeant O'Connor served in the Garda force for some time.

Rev. Fr. Gregory received his education at St. Augustine's College, Dungarvan; at U.C.D., where he took his B.A., and at St. Monica's, the Augustinian College in Rome. For the past year he was attached to the teaching staff at Carlisle. His many friends in these parts congratulate him and wish him every success in his vocation.

Fests.—Many boys and girls, including a number of local children from Stradbally and Kilmacthomas Convent Schools, and from Knockmahon and Seaford National Schools, won medals for Irish step-dancing in a Feis held at Springvalley Hall, Bonmahon, last Sunday.

Holidaying.—Thomas Maher (Jnr.), is currently on holiday across channel. James Power, Kealfoun, has just returned after a short holiday in Birmingham. We have observed many of our emigrants in the locality lately and we are glad to hear that they are having a good time. Included among those whom we have seen are: Mrs. Bantry (nee Maisie Whitely); Mrs. Thos. Phelan (nee Mary Walsh, St. Anne's 'Tee'); little Linda; Mr. Paddy Crotty and family, visiting his sister, Mrs. O'Reilly; Pat and Mrs. Cullinan, visiting his parents at Old Rd., Currabaha, and Kathleen Cleary, visiting her parents in Bonmahon; Thomas Hartly, visiting his friend Nick Wall, Fews.

Transfer.—Kilmacthomas said "Au Revoir" last week to popular Miss Monica O'Driscoll, N.T., Newtown, N.S., who has left to take up a teaching appointment in Ballyragget. In her place we welcome Miss Guiry, N.T., a native Kilmacthomas.

Wedding Bells.—A very pretty wedding was solemnised at the Church of the Holy Family, Aughrim Street, Dublin, on June 21st, when Brendan McFeely, Veterinary Surgeon, Daisy Hill, Ballybofey, Co. Donegal, and Miss Christina Lenihan, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lenihan, "Clematis," Ballynamult, were united in matrimony. The ceremony, with Nuptial Mass and Papal Blessing, was performed by Most Rev. A. C. MacFieley, P.P., Strabane, uncle of the groom, who was consecrated Bishop of Raphoe, during last week.

Nuptials.—The marriage took place recently, of Mr. Martin Foley, Grattan Square, held in connection with Gala Week, and which took place in the Park, on Friday, 2nd July, the following competitors received prizes: Frank O'Keefe, Thomas Flynn, Michael Gough, Harriette Walshe, Maurice O'Keefe, Richard Shaw, Judith Kieley, Richard Dalton, Orla Fitzgibbon, and Miss Marie Hurley, Carrick-on-Suir.

LITTER BASKETS NOT BEING USED
Some years ago, the Co. Council, in response to public demand, supplied litter baskets in a number of local centres in an effort to encourage people to keep the streets clean and free of litter. Unfortunately, the service is not being availed of to the extent desired and the streets continue to be strewn with all sorts of rubbish, thus presenting a filthy and untidy scene. A final appeal is being made to the public to place all litter, waste papers, etc., in the baskets provided for the purpose. If this appeal does not meet with the desired response it is understood that the authorities will consider the removal of the litter baskets as it is futile to continue to spend public money on a service which was not being utilised.

FISHING
The peale season continues to be fairly good. All crews engaged report reasonably good catches.

SUNDAY LAST
With brilliant sunshine prevailing in this area on Sunday last, there was a big trek to the seaside and large crowds were to be seen enjoying themselves on the beaches from Ardmore to Ferryport. Most of the visitors were from south Tipperary.

TIPPERARY MACRA GROUP'S TOUR OF LOCAL FARM

The green light of progress expansion beamed ahead for the prosperous optimistic farmer some years ago and those of us who thought it was the real red light and made voluntary surrender not to proceed, sapped our own disaster and are now left sprawling far behind, but nevertheless, we can still expand economically with the visual guidance and advice of those who have advanced.

Knowing this, the Ballylooby branch of Macra na Feirme crashed through the frontier of their county on Wednesday and came to rest in the paradise of perfection at ground level. Yes, at Mr. Con Dempsey's of Dungarvan, and what a manifestation of enterprise we were honoured to have the pleasure of visiting under Con's personal guidance and explanations. Here our wildest dreams were unfolded.

We were at first led by him to inspect his dairy herd of almost fifty cows, all of Friesian descent, grazing on a most luscious pasture, from which a heavy cut of silage had been taken early in May. This was the first impression we got of his efficiency and programme planning. Because his entire herd calf down between November and January, he says that he always manages to have fresh pasture as a boost for his dairy herd at this period, so as to prolong the cows peak lactation. Is it any wonder then that his herd averages 1,000 gallons and this includes approximately eight replacements each year.

His milking parlour was amusing but it was also a model of perfection. Cows can be brought in and out by press button planning with what he called his "electric dog." Therefore the operator need not move from his milking position because all levers are within reach. His milking parlour was had any special reason for choosing his particular make of milking machine, his answer was an emphatic "No." He maintains all makes of milking machines will milk the cows in the way the operator works them, and he went so far as to say that it makes no difference whether you have a bucket plant, or one form or another of milking parlour, because no matter what method you use the average number of cows milked per set of teat cups is around nine per hour with no trouble whatsoever in reaching the maximum grade. This of course is due to the palace-like cleanliness, throughout and above all to what his herd man initiated, in cooling each 20 gallon churn as soon as it is filled, with an inchurn cooler, and since it takes 25 minutes to cool a churn and 28 minutes to fill a churn, this again falls into his pattern of efficiency. He claims that this rapid cooling prevents bacteria from multiplying at the most crucial period.

His magnificent silo, filled and sealed since early May, with over 200 tons of silo, was where it was entitled to be for all to see, in the prize-winning film "Leading the Way." He had one quarter of it sloped to the ramp side of the pit for his yearlings and two year olds so as not to have them intermingled with the dairy herd. You may argue "why so much silage?" This is necessary because of his herd being housed in November due to early calving and not being on pasture again until April. He does have good grass each year in early March but he maintains too much poaching of his soil would upset his methodically planned system. All his male calves are sold as droppeds and only some of the best heifer calves retained are reared, fed on whole milk for three weeks and suddenly changed over to meals. He emphasises 'suddenly' for complete success. His entire bedding for stock is purchased straw as he indulges in tillage only when necessitated by rotation. He sows his grass seed direct after taking one crop of barley. He pointed out one field he took barley from in August and ploughed and reseeded it on the 2nd of November, grazed with 40 to 50 cows some time ago again. He believes that similar results could never be reaped from sowing seeds at corn time. On average he manages to sustain one cow to one-and-a-half statute acres. This may not be up to Moorpark or Grange standards but he says it leaves him trouble free and to go lower with more intensive stocking may cost disease.

Then he took us to his pig lay-out, again something we can only dream of... breeding, rearing and fattening in one of the most efficient methods known. Irish, Dutch and Danish ideas amalgamated into one with something from Turkey thrown in for good measure. His aim is to have 39 sows so as to have two litters per fortnight the entire year round. In other words, two sows served, two litters born and two batches for the factory each fortnight. He is certainly going places. He has a magnificent orchard adjacent to the pig unit on which he intends to leave his sows graze for most of the year. Here again he is incorporating new ideas in expanding the pig unit. Yes! This valiant man is not content with just success, he intends to strive on to greater success. He knows that if one way of doing anything was the best and only way, progress would have stopped.

Darkness fell too soon and we were unable to visit his attractive orchard. Some of us apple growers by descent and cider makers of old were very interested and our interest was aroused much more when Mr. Dempsey stood back and pointing to his farmyard said: "All this issue to the financial results and returns from this little orchard," makes one sit back and think.

We parted realizing where perseverance, unflinching, determined, inexhaustible and valiant will surely carry one. Yes! This is not a view but a springboard from which we hope to drive into the bottomless field of prosperity and advancement.

Therefore, let us through the goodness of the editor, express through this column our sincere thanks and appreciation to you, Con Dempsey, for allowing us access to your premises and for being there yourself to impart to us what knowledge and advice you had accumulated from dedicated experience. It is undoubtedly in unison and consort with men like you we can best see our solutions to the many problems that will beset us as farmers and since expansion to-day is a 'must' we must brace ourselves to cope with the trials and problems that will inevitably come with it. Therefore this visual explanatory way you have given us is the surest key that will unlock the door to progress and achievement.

Ballylooby Macra na Feirme say again "Thank you, Con."

Co-Op. Win Inter-Firm Football Tournament

Waterford Co-Op. ... 2-3
Public Authorities ... 0-6

Waterford Co-Op. Society confirmed general belief and opinion at the Gaelic Field, Dungarvan on Friday night last, when they won out the final of the Inter-firms football tournament held in conjunction with Gala Week.

The losers, in fact, surprised many by their display in this final. They improved out of all doing anything was the best and only way, progress would have stopped.

However, the Creamery were to my mind the worthiest of winners. Trained to the very ounce, for which team official John Dwyer must take a considerable slice of the credit, and with a series of challenge games behind them, they played with greater cohesion and purpose. For half an hour they were forced to play second fiddle to the Authorities but left no doubts in anyone's mind as to who were the masters after the change of ends.

Throughout the opening half the losers had undoubtedly the better of the exchanges and at the interval were well deserving their 0-2 to 0-0 lead. But within minutes of the restart it became evident that the Creamery were getting the upper hand. First they levelled with a brace of points, and then took the lead they never relinquished with a well-worked goal.

Each credit must go to the Creamery defence for this victory. In particular full-back and team captain Eamonn McCarthy gave a superb display. It was by no means a one man defence, however as Paddy Cummins, Pat Dinneen and Joe Flynn all starred. At midfield Jim Dee and John Barry played their hearts out and of the forwards Monty Guiry, Ned Lennihan and John Guerin were best.

Pat Noctor, Tolly Queally, Colm Bannon, Tom Crowley, Sean Power and Bill Lovett were best for Authorities.

MINOR CHAMPIONS WERE LUCKY TO SURVIVE

DUNGARVAN 3-3; TALLOW 2-5

WESTERN MINOR HURLING CHAMPIONS, Dungarvan, are through to the semi-final of this year's championship. But they are not likely to forget for many a long day the fright they received from Tallow in the second round on Thursday at Cappoquin before scraping to a last minute and lucky victory. This was a game that for most of the hour seemed destined to bring about the dethronement of the champions, and Tallow, let me hasten to add did not deserve to go under in this thrilling tie.

The Brideside team, boosted by the inclusion of a few accomplished hurlers from Ballyduff, rose to majestic heights in this game, and at the very least deserved a draw. They were, in fact, the better team over the hour, and they must still be wondering how they were deprived of victory in the end.

All credit of course to Dungarvan. They were up against it in a big way in this game and at one stage, when trailing by nine points, looked all set to surrender their crown. But like true champions they pulled themselves together in the second half, and were complete masters during the entire second moiety.

BIG LEAD

But the first half belonged in the main to the challengers. They hurled with superb aplomb during this period, handing out a hurling lesson to the champions in the process. Watching the fluency of their display during that period, one felt that this was a team capable of matching the best in the county. They literally ran riot and they were worth every point of their 2-4 to 0-1 interval lead.

Now quite obviously the holders were in dire straits. But what a second-half come back they made after an interval "lecture" by Bro. O'Looney and the hurling lacked nothing as the Blues threw everything into their efforts to save the day. Gradually their perseverance paid dividends and despite the heroic work of the Tallow defence, that lead was being whittled unmistakably away. But with the actual sixty minutes up, the sides were level and it looked odds on a replay.

VITAL POINT

Their forwards were in sparkling form for half an hour, and even if the winners defence clamped down on their efforts thereafter they still battled it out gamely to the very end. Most prominent in the sector were John Beecher, Jimmy O'Brien and the stylish "Mutt" Curley at corner forward.

Special Restrictions on Use of Loud-Speakers

In future there will be special restrictions on the use of loudspeakers in the Urban area. This was decided at the monthly meeting of Dungarvan Urban Council, on Friday week last.

Mr. P. Doyle (Town Clerk) said people would not be allowed to use loudspeakers attached to motor cars unless they had a permit from the Urban Council. The Co. Manager felt that loudspeakers should not be used near the District Hospital, Nursing Home or near any church whilst service was on. At the moment, said Mr. Doyle, people could come into town at any time, day or night, and blaze away.

MR. J. J. STEWART, Southern Area Manager, Smithwicks-Irish Ale Breweries Ltd., hands over the Smithwicks Sponsorship Cheque for the Dungarvan Judo Exhibition to MR. GAELIC JOTTINGS YOU COULD BE IRELAND'S FIRST DAIRY QUEEN

WHAT A LET OFF AT LIMERICK

Elsewhere in this issue there is a full account of last Sunday's championship game against Cork at Limerick. There is therefore little need for another blow for blow account of the happenings at the Ennis Road grounds in this column.

MINOR FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

Two minor football championship games are down for decision at the Fraher Field, Dungarvan—one to-night (Thursday) and the other to-morrow. To-night's game brings Ardmore and Emmetts (Master McGrath's) into opposition. The latter had a good first round victory, but Ardmore led by Tony Carleton are slightly fancied.

To-morrow night's clash is between Ring and Affane and this also is a very open one. However, taking a chance I give the vote to the Affanes.

It is difficult to visualise the team playing as badly again. That they have the beating of this Cork side I have no doubt but unless they step up on last Sunday's form by a considerable extent, then their championship hopes for this year will become nothing more than a pipe dream.

THE LIFE OF A QUEEN

During her reign, the Queen will hold a position of great importance to the Dairy Industry—and of considerable interest to herself. As representative of the Irish Dairy Industry she will play a central role in promoting the sale of Dairy Produce. In addition to winning a cash prize of 100 gns., the Dairy Queen will have the opportunity of attending many major social functions and meeting many celebrities and personalities—with all expenses paid. The Dairy Princesses, who will each win a cash prize of 25 gns., will attend local functions in connection with the promotion of the Industry's produce.

Entrants, over 18 and under 30, must be associated directly or indirectly or have an interest in the dairy industry of Ireland or be employed in any branch of the processing or distribution of Irish Dairy products.

A heat of the Dairy Queen competition (sponsored by the National Dairy Publicity Council) will be held in conjunction with the Dungarvan Show on Thursday, 29th July, 1965.

Entry to the competition, which is sponsored by the National Dairy Publicity Council, is free. You simply fill in a coupon to be got from your local creamery manager, or the Show Secretary and post it to the Secretary of Dungarvan Show. SUCCESSFUL CLASHMORE BUSINESS

About two years ago, Mr. Michael O'Brien opened his new bar at Clashmore, and since then the business has gone from success to success with an ever widening clientele. Reason for the unprecedented success story is the quality of the drinks served in the modern lounge bars and the hospitality and courtesy extended to patrons at all times.

A further feature is the friendly and happy atmosphere which prevails day in day out and the fact that the bars lend themselves to comfort and relaxation.

We congratulate Mr. O'Brien on the success which has attended his latest business venture.

LICENSING OF BULLS

Applications for licences for bulls culled during the period 1st July to 31st December, 1964, should now be made. Application forms may be obtained from Garda Stations, Post Offices, County Committees of Agriculture and the Department. Applications made after 31st July will be subject to additional fees. The inspection of the bulls will take place at approved centres during August.

Persons keeping bulls of the prescribed age without licences are liable to prosecution and, on conviction, to a penalty of £20.

The foregoing statement has been issued by the Government Information Bureau on behalf of the Department of Agriculture.

N.F.A. NEWS

N.F.A. Concerned About Economic Situation

A departmental investigation into the high prices of compound fertilisers is being carried out at present by officials of the Department of Industry and Commerce. This is something N.F.A. has been seeking for some time past and the Association was given an undertaking during this year's Annual Review of Agriculture that an inquiry would be implemented.

It is to be hoped that the findings of the officials will be put in the hands of the two interested Ministers within the shortest possible time. It will then be up to the Minister for Industry and Commerce to decide whether a full-scale sworn inquiry is called for.

The National Industrial and Transport Committee of N.F.A. has been concerned with this problem over the last six months. A survey carried out by the Committee earlier this year revealed that the wholesale price for the 1964/65 season showed an increase over 1963/1964 of 20% on nitrogen, 5% on superphosphate and 10% on potash.

The Committee severely criticised the level of compounding and granulating charges and expressed the opinion that some action on this aspect of fertilizer costs was long overdue.

SPECIAL NATIONAL COUNCIL MEETING

The Special Meeting of the N.F.A. National Council, postponed from June 30, has now been fixed for Friday next, 9th July, in N.F.A. House, at 12 noon. The purpose of the meeting is to consider the Government's attitude to agriculture in light of this year's Annual Review of Agriculture and the subsequent Budget.

Following the Budget, the National Council instructed the President and the Vice-presidents to meet the Government and to put specific questions to them on a number of matters varying from special assistance to the small farmer to an increased price for milk. The N.F.A. position was put clearly to the Government who then requested a further meeting with the Association. This was granted "to enable the Ministers for Finance and Agriculture to decide on their attitude to agriculture and farmers' incomes during the current financial year." At the time of writing, no date has been fixed for this resumed meeting.

N.F.A. is gravely concerned about the current economic situation and the Association holds the view that all sectors of the community should obviously join together in a common effort to overcome the present difficulties. There is also a need to find more effective machinery for planning equitable advances in the incomes of the various sectors.

N.F.A. is gravely concerned it is therefore extremely regrettable that the Government apparently proposes to discuss the immediate problems of the Irish economy with the industrial sector only. Agriculture, which provides the livelihood of some 35% of our working population and the basis for 75% of our national exports is seemingly to be ignored during these vital talks.

The Government's neglect of consultation with agriculture at this present juncture must be interpreted as a slight upon our basic industry. When considered alongside the fact that the Government is not yet even in a position to fix dates on which to finalise the 1965 Annual Review of Agriculture with the Association, the position becomes much more serious as far as farmers are concerned.

There will be a new departure at this year's annual general meeting of the National Council of N.F.A.—for the first time, part of the meeting will be given over to a public session.

The afternoon session of the meeting, to be held on July 15 (full details of venue, etc., will be given to branches in a circular within the next few days) will be devoted to consideration of the theme "The Inspiration of a Community to Progress." The Association has certainly succeeded in making a capture for this session in the person of the world-famed agronomist, Dr. Roberto Volpi. The Italian-born agriculturist and humanitarian was the initiator of the internationally renowned programme of rural development at Borgo Mozzano—a mountainous region in north west Italy.

Following Dr. Volpi's talk (illustrated with film) a number of guest speakers will address the meeting. There will then be a forum with the following taking part: Fr. J. McDyer of Glen columkille, Labhras O Nuallain, lecturer in Economics at U.C.G. and a member of the Rural Development Committee of N.F.A.

N.F.A. Makes a Capture

There will be a new departure at this year's annual general meeting of the National Council of N.F.A.—for the first time, part of the meeting will be given over to a public session.

The afternoon session of the meeting, to be held on July 15 (full details of venue, etc., will be given to branches in a circular within the next few days) will be devoted to consideration of the theme "The Inspiration of a Community to Progress." The Association has certainly succeeded in making a capture for this session in the person of the world-famed agronomist, Dr. Roberto Volpi. Following Dr. Volpi's talk (illustrated with film) a number of guest speakers will address the meeting. There will then be a forum with the following taking part: Fr. J. McDyer of Glen columkille, Labhras O Nuallain, lecturer in Economics at U.C.G. and a member of the Rural Development Committee of N.F.A.

the Presidents of Macra na Feirme and the I.A.O.S.; the Chairman of An Foras Taluntais and Dr. Volpi.

It might be thought that the work being done by Dr. Volpi in Italy has little relevance to conditions here at home but this is far from true. Irish people who have visited Borgo Mozzano have remarked how similar it is to certain areas in Ireland, particularly the west.

At the time that Dr. Volpi took on the task at Borgo on the request of the Institute of Agrarian Economy of Florence University. He entered an impoverished area where the soil was poor, crops bad and conditions generally disheartening. To-day the barren soil has become fertile, crops have improved tenfold, agricultural produce is marketed on a co-operative basis and the farmers are making a decent living out of the land.

The message from Borgo a Mozzano is that it was not money, but self help and technical assistance which changed the face of the area.

"We insist," said Mr. Roche, "that we get a realistic price for our produce—a price that will permit us to meet our requirements of increased capital investment in land, buildings and machinery and at the same time provide us with a decent standard of living for ourselves and our families."

Sheep and the Institute at Muckross

Happiest men in all Ireland last week were the members of the Co. Kerry N.F.A. Sheep Committee. A deputation, headed by the Chairman Jim McCarthy of Inch, Annascaul, travelled to Muckross House, Killarney, to voice their support of the work the Agricultural Institute were doing in sheep breeding research at the Muckross Estate.

The meeting was called by the Co. Committee of Agriculture, the organisation which invited the Institute into Killarney. After months of controversy, during which the methods of the Institute were criticised, the Committee of Agriculture figured that the Institute should receive some public support. But the Committee also invited the Killarney U.D.C. and the Killarney Co. Ordinating Committee to send representatives so that a full discussion on the divergent viewpoints could take place, and, if possible, a solution reached.

After three hours of debate, which was quite heated at times, agreement was reached. The meeting decided that the Institute should continue its work at Muckross Estate. It was also decided that the Government be requested to develop Muckross Estate as a national park. Finally, chairman, Mr. T. O'Connor, T.D., was requested to contact all interested parties and invite them to nominate two persons to a committee, which would meet to consider any further difficulties.

The N.F.A. men at the meeting stressed the importance of the work being done by the Institute. Mr. McCarthy could not see what objection tourists would have to the presence of sheep. "In fact," he said, "many of these people coming from an urban environment long to see animals out in the fields."

With Mr. McCarthy were Daniel O'Connell, Michael Moran and John O'Brien of Kenmare (also a member of the Co. Committee of Agriculture) who made an impassioned plea for the hill farmers of Kerry who were forced to leave their homes and seek employment elsewhere "simply because not enough research has been done into hill land development in this country. The Institute is trying to do that now, please let them continue."

Before attending the meeting I visited the home of Noel Tanney, a few miles outside Kenmare. Noel, who is secretary of the Kerry N.F.A. Wool Committee, runs about 600 sheep over about 1,000 acres of mountain. He was vitally concerned with the experiments in fertilisation being carried out by the Institute. "For the first time this year I started fertilising on the mountain; but I am not sure of the full effects it may have. Will it develop some kind of growths while hindering others? These are the kind of questions we want answers to from the Institute."

The principal complaints against the Institute's operations at Muckross were that the sheep were ruining the grassland and secondly the fencing would limit the grazing area of the red deer, thereby bringing about the eventual extinction of the herd.

Dan Kelleher, a 26 year old U.C.C. graduate, who is superintendent at the research station, answered both charges. "We are already silage making in the area where we had sheep paddocked out to six weeks ago. As for fencing, the fully fences we have are stock fences, three feet high, which keep the sheep from wandering. These fences do not inhibit the freedom of the red deer in any way."

100,000 Hurleys Broken every Season

Did you know that 100,000 hurleys of all sizes are broken every season; that 20,000 ash trees are required annually to replace these breakages? There are but some of the interesting facts contained in a booklet, now being issued by the Trees for Ireland Committee. (The booklet is being sponsored by the G.A.A.)

Many people have worried over a period of many years about the continued availability of ash for the manufacture of hurleys. (There is still no agreement on a suitable synthetic material as a substitute for the native wood). There have been reports that the supply of ash was dwindling away with consequent danger to the development of the game here. But the true position is that there is enough ash in the country to meet our present needs. It is also true that this position might not continue if the present Hurling Revival Scheme proves as successful as preliminary reports indicate.

It is for this reason that the G.A.A. and the Trees for Ireland Committee have issued their booklet "Ash Trees for Hurleys." It is designed to encourage individual members and the 3,000 G.A.A. clubs throughout the country to start with their own ash tree plantations—no matter how small.

Clear lucid instructions on how to grow the seedlings are given. From this it appears that the tree grows fastest in deep, loamy soil. Opinions vary on the right age for felling. Some say fifteen years, some thirty. To meet the demands of the country, 300,000 trees need to be in varying stages of growth simultaneously. This represents about 1,000 statute acres under oak.

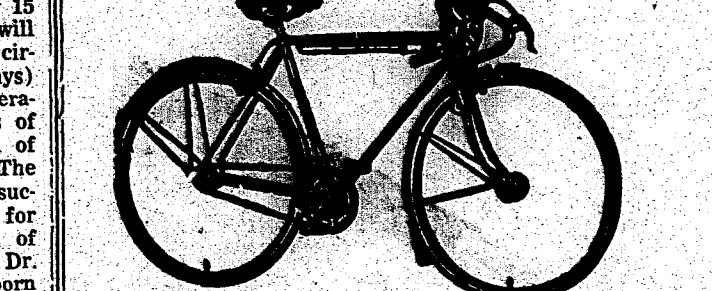

As soon as N.F.A. learned of the scheme to promote the growth of ash trees, the Association offered its full cooperation to the Trees for Ireland Committee. Copies of the booklet will be issued shortly to trying to do that now, please

There will be a new departure at this year's annual general meeting of the National Council of N.F.A.—for the first time, part of the meeting will be given over to a public session.

The afternoon session of the meeting, to be held on July 15 (full details of venue, etc., will be given to branches in a circular within the next few days) will be devoted to consideration of the theme "The Inspiration of a Community to Progress." The Association has certainly succeeded in making a capture for this session in the person of the world-famed agronomist, Dr. Roberto Volpi. The Italian-born agriculturist and humanitarian was the initiator of the internationally renowned programme of rural development at Borgo Mozzano—a mountainous region in north west Italy.

Following Dr. Volpi's talk (illustrated with film) a number of guest speakers will address the meeting. There will then be a forum with the following taking part: Fr. J. McDyer of Glen columkille, Labhras O Nuallain, lecturer in Economics at U.C.G. and a member of the Rural Development Committee of N.F.A.

Cork May Have 'Missed the Bus'

WATERFORD REMAIN THE CHOICE

THE senior hurlers of Waterford and Cork return to the Ennis Road grounds Limerick, on Sunday next, to do battle for the second time within a week for the contest this year's Munster championship final with the holders Tipp. On Sunday last there was stalemate after an uninspiring hour, productive in the main of negative hurling, but it is now generally felt in most quarters that this replay may well atone in full for the many disappointments of the drawn game.

On Sunday last there can be no denying the fact that Waterford were extremely fortunate to have survived. Territorially Cork enjoyed quite an advantage and had their attack been on a par with other sectors of the side, there would surely have been no need for this second tie. But because of a belated goal and point by Frankie Walsh, Cork were thwarted and they may well regret the concession of those scores at the end of next Sunday's hour.

That both camps were far to the half-back line of defence was anticipated. Guinane never fitted into things in both sets of selectors have bound to benefit by his return. Jim Irish rightly remains in favour on the opposite flank of Waterford's case many felt—and with justification, that there would be more changes in the personnel of the team, but the mentors have in fact only replaced the injured Martin Og Morrissey with Portlaw/Ballyduff clubman, Jackie Whelan.

Their positional changes however, are numerous, with the goalkeeper and full back line the only ones to remain unaltered. The return of Larry Guinan selectors are trying an entirely different pairing in Joe Condon and Jackie Whelan. The latter was introduced in the closing stages of the drawn game and did enough for the brief spell to warrant inclusion on Sunday. It promises to be a big ordeal for this member of Waterford's Intermediate side but though unorthodox in style, he has I think got what it takes to be a success.

Not surprisingly the attack has undergone considerable positional switching, yet it looks far from being the ideal attacking set up. This forward sector has failed now on its last four or five missions and Frankie Walsh cannot be expected to continue carrying the entire brunt of the scoring responsibilities.

For Sunday John Kirwan has been drafted from full to centre forward, with Philly Grimes taking over on the fringe of the square. Many felt Seamus Power would fall out of favour but he is now placed at top of the left in a line completed by another Mount Sion veteran, Mick Flannelly. In fact Frankie Walsh is the only member of the sextet to retain the same position he occupied on Sunday last. The Sion man is now playing in top form and he is again likely to present the greatest threat to the Cork defence.

And having inter-changed between midfield and the forty, Tom Cheasty now finds himself on the right of the half-forward line. He was not altogether happy at midfield on Sunday last and he may well add much needed scoring power to the sector.

Cork, too, have made radical changes, particularly in attack. Here, "Fox" Sheehan and 19-year-old Charlie McCarthy are introduced and with John Bennett now at full and Noel Gallagher at left half, it looks a more potent sector than the one that squandered so many chances on Sunday last. Justin McCarthy now teams up at midfield with Ted Ma-

WATERFORD

CORK

WATERFORD'S quest for senior hurling championship honours continues. But once again it took the uncanny opportunism of ace marksman Frankie Walsh to avert dismissal at Limerick's Ennis Road Grounds, on Sunday last, with a brace of belated scores that earned for his side a draw they hardly deserved. Cork, with victory in sight, had a seemingly invincible four point lead wiped out in the final two minutes by Walsh and so the sides must now return to the same venue on Sunday next to decide who meets Tipperary in the Provincial decider.

But if this semi-final produced as sensational and super-charged finish as one could wish, the game, viewed on an overall basis, was a sad anti-climax to all the pre-match "build up." The standard slumped to an almost incredibly low status, and in truth to tell it is doubtful if the pick of last Sunday's sides would have been good enough to bring about a change of champions in the Province.

Hard words indeed, and equally strong criticism to teams that put in such a spell binding finish. But to the writer it is all so very apt, for those closing minutes excepted, the shirt sleeved attendance (in the region of 20,000), were given precious little to enthuse over. For this was Munster hurling played without the verve and dash that has, over the years, become part and parcel of this Southern championship.

Cork, will, I suppose, in all the circumstances, be reasonably satisfied with their display. When assessing their performance one must take into account the fact that almost half the side had never sampled championship hurling at senior level up to this, and they are certain to gain and benefit from the occasion. Nevertheless, by Lee-side standards it was a side not comparable in many respects with other teams which this great hurling county has produced, and this in itself must lessen still further any credit that Waterford may have earned on Sunday.

What has gone wrong with this Deise machine which only two short years ago could master the best in the land? Father Time, we must now reluctantly concede, has caught up with some, whilst others from whom better things have been expected, are failing to raise their game to that anticipated level. And still the hurling heart of the team is strong, for were it not, then they could not have possibly survived either against Limerick or Cork. But survive they did, when all seemed lost, and I now have more than a feeling that Cork may well have missed the bus on Sunday last.

For half an hour on Sunday things went well enough to suggest that they would qualify for that Munster final on 25th July. True, a six point advantage, having played with the breeze, was far from being an unassailable one, but so utterly inept was the Cork opposition, particularly their attack, that it looked almost impossible for them to run up a match winning tally.

WEAKNESSES EVIDENT
But what a transformation that second half brought about—a half in which weaknesses in Waterford's hurling armour were shown up like a beacon in the night. Now it was Cork, refreshed from their first half sombreness, who assumed almost complete control. They raised their game by a considerable extent, and soon it was glaringly evident that Waterford were in serious trouble. Gradually, the Leesiders enormous of the occasion, but it is still my belief that Waterford, functioning fore and aft, can still qualify for the Munster final. But it is doubtful if they can again play as poorly and still escape defeat.

THE SCORING
Playing with wind advantage in the opening half, Waterford displayed extreme promise in the early moments. After a first minute attack failed to bear fruit, they were back on the attack almost immediately, and when Peter Doolan picked the ball straight off the ground Philly Grimes made no mistake about the resultant free. In the 5th minute Jimmy Byrne pointed a "70" and a minute later Frankie Walsh added a third from almost sixty yards. Cork then played some spirited if not too skilful hurling and twice within minutes Ned Power saved raspers from Gallagher and O'Brien. But another Cheasty point stretched their advantage still further in the 11th minute and it wasn't until the half way stage that Cork eventually broke their scoring deadlock with a point by Eddie O'Brien.

WALSH THE SAVIOUR
Then came the 28th minute, and onto the scene flashed Waterford's saviour Frankie Walsh. In a twinkling he snapped up a half chance and the ball was nesting behind Paddy Barry in the Cork net. Now only a point separated them, and with less than a minute left in the game Walsh again gained possession and from an almost impossible angle, floated over a glorious point—and one of the most valuable he has ever scored in a great career.

And there it ended. Cork, no doubt, were stunned into something resembling disbelief; Waterford, undoubtedly thankful for those belated scores which kept their championship hopes alive, but when making a full and comprehensive analysis of the game on the whole, Cork can, with considerable justification, consider themselves unlucky to have been thwarted of outright victory. It is true they were pathetically poor in the opening half, but so clearly do change of ends that they cannot excuse themselves for failing to clinch the issue. In all they shot 18 wides, many from very feasible scoring positions, and, basically, it was this lack of accuracy which made next Sunday's replay a necessity for both.

For Waterford it was but a continuation of the disappointing form they have been displaying now for some considerable time past. Almost two-thirds of the team fell way below expected standards, and it is almost incredible that for 28 minutes of the second half they failed to notch a score. That surely blue prints how urgently in need of added scoring power the sector really is.

And yet in this one must find considerable hope for Sunday next. With so many off colour, and with limited chances, they still managed to evade defeat. Cork will, of course, benefit considerably from the experience of the occasion, but it is still my belief that Waterford, functioning fore and aft, can still qualify for the Munster final. But it is doubtful if they can again play as poorly and still escape defeat.

O'BRIEN ABSENT
One must of course not forget or overlook the absence of John O'Brien from the attack, and the consequent reshuffling of the side. In stepped Sonny Barry; T. Mahony, P. O'Connor, J. McCarthy, N. Gallagher, E. O'Brien, J. Bennett, C. Sheehan, E. Dorney, Subs.—C. McCarthy for S. Barry.

GAELIC TOTTINGS

C.B.S. STREET LEAGUES
The finals of the C.B.S. Street Leagues will take place on Thursday next, 14th July, in the C.B.S. Grounds. Watch out for full details in our next issue.

ALL SENIOR GAMES POSTPONED ON SUNDAY
Because of the senior hurling championship replay at Limerick all five senior championship games down for decision on Sunday had to be postponed.

This leaves a considerable backlog, and it now seems as though the championships are going to run very late. This is particularly so where the senior football championship is concerned with so many teams participating. Incidentally a meeting of the County Board will be held in Dungarvan on Monday night to re-fix all the postponed games to date.

WESTERN BOARD MEETING ON TUESDAY
Although not definitely decided yet, it is likely that the Western Board will meet in Cappoquin on Tuesday night next. This is the meeting which will consider the incidents which followed the Colligan/Rockies-Kilgobinet Intermediate hurling game and will thus command considerable public interest.

This matter has been passed to and fro by the Western and County Boards and it is hoped that it will be fully considered on Tuesday night.
