PROPOSED ERECTION OF FILLING STATION OPPOSITE HOSPITAL HEALTH AUTHORITY OBJECTS

BECAUSE the members felt that it would cause a traffic hazard and that it would interfere with the amenities of the hospital, Waterford Health Authority unanimously objected to the proposed building of a petrol filling station opposite Ardkeen Hospital gate.

At last Monday's meeting of the Health Authority, the Secretary (Mr. J. A. Hynes) said that application had been made to the Planning Authority (Co. Council) to build a petrol filling station opposite Ardkeen gate. The land on which it would be built would not be the property of the Health Authority.

Mr. C. Curran asked if it was against the best interests of the Health Authority. If so they should object to it.

The Chairman (Mr. P. Browne) said he believed it would improve the entrance to the hospital.

Mr. M. Galgey said this was a matter of the Engineer. It was outside the control of the Health Authority.

Mr. Curran—But if it is a hazard.

Mr. Galgey—The Engineer will decide that.

Mr. Hynes (Secretary) said any recommendation they wished to make would be given to their engineer who would turn give them to the Planning Authority.

Mr. T. Gallagher said they should ask their engineer if it would be any hazard or hindrance to the hospital gate.

The County Manager (Mr. S. J. Moynihan) suggested that the Health Authority engineer take the matter up with the County Engineer.

Mr. Curran said he had a look at the area very recently and noted where the filling station was proposed to be built. It was his view as an ordinary layman that it should be built opposite the gate.

Mr. Hynes said the Health Authority had no function in this. It was for the planning authority to decide.

Mr. Galgey—Who told you that?

Mr. Hynes—We are not the Planning Authority.

Mr. Thomas Lannon said it was his view also that it should not be built opposite the hospital gate. They should request that the final decision not be taken by the County Council until the Health Authority had first approved of it.

Mr. Curran then proposed that they object to the erection of the filling station.

Mr. Lannon seconded.

Mr. W. Foran said it seemed a very foolish place to him to erect a filling station.

The Chairman (Mr. P. Browne) said there was also the danger that the station might be open all night and might affect the night patients in the hospital.

The Authority then unanimously decided to object to the erection of the filling station on the grounds already mentioned at the outset of this report.

Death of Popular local Businessman

LATE JOHN DUCEY

MAIN ST., DUNGARVAN

We deeply regret to record the death of John Ducey, which occurred after a very short duration of illness, on Friday afternoon, August 20th at his residence Main Street, Dungarvan.

The deceased was a native of Modeligo, but had spent the best part of his life in the business circles of Dungarvan. He conducted a flourishing bar, green grocery and catering trade in the Main St. He was a gentleman of very many outstanding qualities, and his jovial manner won for him the admiration of all. He was always interested in the affairs of Dungarvan and also in the games of the gael.

We join in extending our very deepest condolences to his sorrowing widow, son, brothers, sisters and relatives on this sad occasion.

The removal of his remains took place on Saturday evening to St. Mary's Parish Church followed by a cortege of very great proportions and representative of all sections of the community, and his coffin was blessed and received by Rev. W. Power, C.C., assisted by Rev. W. J. Dee, C.C., English Mission, Rev. J. F. Morrissey, C.C., Aghlish, Rev. Fr. Whelton, O.S.A., and Rev. Fr. R. O'Shaughnessy, O.S.A.

The last Mass on Sunday morning was offered for the repose of his soul and the interment took place afterwards in the adjoining cemetery. Another huge concourse, who had come from near and far, were in attendance, and stood in sympathy beside the grave as Rev. D. O'Byrne, C.C., imparted the final absolution, assisted by Rev. J. P. Walsh, C.C., Peter & Paul's, Clonmel, and Rev. R. O'Shaughnessy, O.S.A.

Large sheaves of Mass cards, telegrams and letters of sympathy were received by his relatives.

The chief mourners were:

Mrs. Mary Ducey (widow); James Ducey (son); Patrick Ducey, Mountain Castle, Modeligo, James Ducey, do., Edward Ducey, U.S.A., Martin Ducey, do. (brothers); Miss Mary Ducey, Mountain Castle, Modeligo, Mrs. Ellen Kearny, Arklow (sisters).

(Funeral arrangements by J. Kiely & Sons, Dungarvan.)

Broke Speed Limit Twice Within Hour

Madeline Maher, Ballyhest House, Rathgormack, was fined for breaking the speed limit twice within fifty minutes when she appeared before District Justice Skinner at Dungarvan Court on Wednesday.

Garda E. Doherty said at 12.30 p.m. on July 23rd the defendant was travelling at 48 miles an hour in the 30 mile zone, and at 1.20 p.m. on the same date she was travelling at 46 miles an hour in the same mile zone.

Judge Skinner imposed a fine of £7 on the first charge and £5 on the second charge.

Revised Salary Scale for Doctor Passed

By seven votes to two, Waterford Health Authority passed a revised salary scale of £1230 to £1820 for the temporary District Medical Officer in Seskinane. The application came from the doctor himself, and his present scale was £1010 to £1400.

Mr. John Griffin proposing the revised scales for him said if he did not get it he would leave and they would have to try and get a replacement.

It was passed with Mr. Lannon and Mr. Curran dissenting.

Engagement Announced

The engagement is announced between John, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kelly, Santry, Dublin, and Maureen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dunphy, Knocknagrannagh, Dungarvan.

IS WEST WATERFORD AMBULANCE SERVICE ADEQUATE?

Why a man who was fatally injured near Ballyduff Upper was brought to hospital in an ambulance from Fermoy, was queried by Mr. Norman Walsh at Monday's meeting of Waterford Health Authority. His reason for asking was to find out if there was anything wrong with the service in West Waterford.

Mr. Hynes (Secretary) said they had two ambulances in Dungarvan and three in Waterford city.

Mr. Walsh said he was curious why they should not have got an ambulance from west Waterford. Was there anything wrong with the services, he asked.

Mr. Hynes said that Fermoy was only 10 miles from the scene of the accident and Dungarvan was 22. They took the nearer one.

Mr. Walsh said he was referring to the possibility of having an ambulance in Lisimore.

Mr. Hynes said this was considered before. He would have it gone into again.

Mr. Hynes also stated that they were negotiating with the County Council for the installation of Walkie Talkies in the ambulances on the Health Authority's behalf. In Dublin this was working very successfully but a mast would have to be erected here and he did not know if it would be as successful here because of the Comeragh and Knockmeal-down mountains.

Home Assistance Increases

At a meeting of Waterford Health Authority in Dungarvan on Monday last, the Secretary, Mr. J. A. Hynes said the average increase to the Home Assistance recipients in the county was 10% a week. The highest increase was 25% and the minimum was 5% a week.

These increases were awarded following an original notice of motion by Mr. P. Cahill that an increase of £1 all round be given to the Home Assistance recipients.

"SHOULD BE SENT TO JAIL"

— Says Justice

Patrick O'Leary, no fixed abode was fined a total of £5 with £3 expenses when convicted at Dungarvan District Court on Wednesday of maliciously damaging a barbed wire fence the property of Cornelius Dempsey, Shandon, Dungarvan.

Supt. M. English said on the night of August 4th the defendant cut the barbed wire surrounding Mr. Dempsey's land and let in horses.

Mr. E. P. King, Solr., representing Mr. Dempsey said his client was having continuous trouble over this cutting of wire. The fence had cost Mr. Dempsey £100 to have erected.

Judge Skinner said he was inclined to send the defendant to jail.

Mr. M. J. Lavin solicitor, defending, said the defendant had not caused any other trouble, and it would not happen again. They made a clean breast of the charge and the defendant gave every assistance to the Gardai.

Judge Skinner said it was about time this kind of thing was stopped.

Mr. King said that every week Mr. Dempsey was ringing up the Guards about this.

Imposing the £5 fine, Judge Skinner said if the defendant ever came before him again he would send him to jail.

Summons — "Out of Order"

Because a summons had been written inaccurately, a charge of driving a tractor without a driving licence against Valentine Curran, Ballinamuck, Dungarvan was dismissed at the local District Court on Wednesday.

The charge against Curran was with driving the tractor at Main Street without a driving licence.

Curran in evidence said he was in O'Connell Street, and not Main Street. He said the number of the tractor was also given incorrectly on the summons.

COURT SEQUEL TO COLLISION

Daniel O'Shea, 41 Studley Grange Road, Harwell, London N.7, was charged with dangerous driving at Knocknagrannagh, Dungarvan, on August 16th, when he appeared before Judge L. B. Skinner at Dungarvan District Court on Wednesday.

In evidence, Mr. Richard Fitzgerald, a patrol man of the Automobile Association said he was on duty between Dungarvan and Waterford on this date. Coming to Knocknagrannagh junction leading down to the Golf Club he saw a motor cyclist coming and a car cyclist behind the motor cyclist. The motor cyclist was indicating that he was turning. He had passed out the vehicles when he heard a bang. He went back and the car was on its incorrect side of the road, the motor cycle was on the other side and the motor cyclist was underneath the car.

Garda Eddie Doherty said he went to the scene of the accident. The motor cycle was lying on the fence and the car was in the grass margin on the other side of the road. A man was lying on the roadway, bleeding profusely from the head and he appeared to have a broken leg. He was Richard Joy, Ballinacourty. The defendant said he saw Mr. Joy give no signal. He had a compound fracture of the right leg, pelvic injury and head cuts.

The defendant, Daniel O'Shea, stallion of electrical heaters.

Water Supply Improved

The Water Supply in the County Home, Dungarvan, which came in for criticism by Mr. W. Dower at a recent meeting of Waterford Health Authority, was stated to be now improved, by the Secretary, Mr. J. A. Hynes, at last Monday's meeting. The improvement he said, resulted following the installation of electrical heaters.

Charge of Stealing YOUGHAL NOTES

Heifer Dismissed

Stating that he did not think any jury could convict on the evidence submitted, Judge L. B. Skinner at Dungarvan Court on Wednesday last dismissed three charges against Albert Boylan, Cattle Dealer, Ballymore, Co. Kildare. Boylan was charged with (1) stealing a heifer calf value £125.0, the property of Dungarvan Livestock Mart; (2) Forging a pass out docket and (3) uttering the docket knowing it to have been forged.

James Moran, Cattle Dealer, Athy, Co. Kildare, said he went to Dungarvan Mart with the defendant on May 3rd. He bought a total of 17 heifers—seven for himself and the remaining ten for the defendant. He went to the office and paid for the 17 and was given a pass-out docket. He did not alter that in any way. He gave it to Boylan and on the following Monday in the Mart Office the Manager told him of an alteration that had been made in the pass-out docket.

Mr. Timothy McGrath, Manager of the Mart, said a heifer calf was removed from the Mart on May 3rd that should not have been. A different one was taken out and the difference in the value of the two calves was £215.0.

Mr. Laurence Fraher said he was employed at an auctioneer's clerk at the Mart. Lot number eight was bought in the name of James Moran and lot nine by a man named Kennedy. Lot eight was representing a heifer calf valued £125 and lot nine was representing a heifer calf valued £91.00.

Miss Margaret Phelan, an office employee at the Mart said it was a rule of the Mart that any change that was to be made would be done by having the entire line rewritten. They would never go over a figure. On the pass-out docket the original number was nine and it was altered to eight. She was quite positive she did not make that change.

Garda J. Murphy said he interviewed the defendant on May 17th and he made a statement. He denied forging the pass-out docket.

Judge Skinner said he did not think any jury would convict and he dismissed the charges.

BODIES OF CREWMEN ARRIVE

The bodies of the four crewmen who lost their lives in a fire aboard the Irish Sycamore at New Orleans, arrived on Monday night at Alexander Basin, Dublin, on board a sister ship the Irish Maple. Two of the bodies (both Youghal men) William J. Gaule (who was flown to London where his parents reside), and Thomas Paul Ring, of Sarsfield Tee, Youghal, arrived at Dunkettle, on Tuesday evening at seven o'clock, where his remains were met by a large number of sympathisers from his native town and escorted by road to St. Mary's Parish Church, Youghal, where Solemn Requiem Mass was offered on Wednesday morning, and the funeral took place that afternoon to North Abbey Cemetery, followed by a large and representative cortege. Relatives of the four men were amongst those at the quayside at the lead-lined coffins containing the remains were taken from the Irish Maple and placed in separate hearses. They were put on board in Norfolk, Virginia and the Maple's flag flew at half mast on the journey to Dublin.

Requiem Mass was celebrated at the Church of St. Laurence O'Toole, Evlille Place, by Rev. D. McCarthy, C.C., and the deck apprentices of the Irish Shipping Fleet formed a guard of honour at the remains were landed.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gaule and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Ryan, in their great sorrow.

REGATTA POSTPONED

The Youghal Regatta Committee, as a mark of respect to Mr. Ed. Murray and son, both of Youghal, who lost their lives in a tragic drowning accident, postponed the regatta and fireworks display from 8th August to Sunday last, 22nd inst. Due to the strong northern gale over the weekend however, it was further postponed to Wednesday, the 25th, when it was further put off until Sunday next, at 4 p.m., as it would clash with the funeral of Thomas Paul Ring. Should Sunday's weather prove unfavourable, the regatta will not be held at all this year but the fireworks display will take place at 10 o'clock from the Ferrypoint. Last Sunday's postponement was a great disappointment, not alone to the Committee, but to the large number of people who had come into town for the event.

FINED FOR NO CAR INSURANCE

Sergt. Quinn charged Donal Collins of Gallagher's Terrace, Youghal, at Youghal District Court, before District Justice Leo Skinner, with driving a car at Youghal, on July 2nd (1965), without current insurance. On the first charge the P.O.A. was applied and on the second charge a fine of £10 was imposed.

FLYING SAUCER?

Early last week what appeared to be a Flying Saucer, was witnessed at the head waterworks about five miles from the Youghal at about 12 noon. The object, which was seen by Mr. W. Lyness, Asst. Town Clerk, Mr. M. Hannon, Town Superintendent and Mr. O. Casey, Waterworks caretaker. The object, which was round and shining, remained stationary for about ten minutes at cloud level. It made no noise and vanished as quickly as it appeared.

RENOVATION OF LIFEBOAT HOUSE

Great progress is being made with the Youghal Lifeboat Station, which is being renovated to accommodate a new and modern boat due to arrive in Youghal in late October. The work is being carried out by direct labour under the supervision of the R.N.L.I. General Foreman, Mr. Jack Keating. It consists of the laying of a heavy galvanised roller keyway slip with greenhard bilge supports. It replaces one consisting of rails which have been subject to deterioration. The roller

Rev. Bro. D. C. O'LOONEY — the juveniles and minors, and in these grades Dungarvan enjoyed stupendous successes, thanks solely to the handling they received from their Dublin born "master." Western and one and narrowly losing the other, whilst the superb minor team he put on the field in '64 was in itself a tribute to his work.

But the spirit that he had infused into the minors and juveniles quickly spread to the players in the higher grades. All wearing the Blue jersey looked up to this man who spared neither time, effort nor himself in bringing Dungarvan to the forefront. That he succeeded in his mission none can deny.

Modeligo Man's Licence Restored

...Kieran Reddy, Chapel Road, Modeligo, who had his driving licence suspended for two years in June, 1964, successfully appealed to have it restored at Wednesday's District Court in Dungarvan before Judge L. B. Skinner.

Mr. A. R. Farrell, solr. for the applicant said in June '64, Reddy was fined £5 with £26.8.0 expenses. He had been properly behaved in the meantime. He was employed as a builder's labourer and he had to be driven to his work every morning by his brother and collected again that evening.

Judge Skinner said it was very seldom he suspended a licence for two years. This must be something very serious. Mr. Farrell said Reddy was involved in an accident and he was advised to keep going by the others in the car with him. He took their advice and did not stop.

Supt. M. English said there was nothing against Reddy since Judge Skinner then restored the licence.

Council. Ann received her primary education at Knockmahon national school and at the Convent of Mercy, Dungarvan. She has selected St. Mary's College, Convent of Mercy, do. in which to pursue her secondary studies. Great credit is due to Anne and continuing success to her.

Exam. Success. — Miss Mary Margaret Maguire, daughter of Mr. Richard (Dick) Maguire, Leamybrien, is now a fully-qualified S.R.N. She was among the candidates successful in the final nursing examination for Arukeen Hospital, and she gained high marks in the written and practical tests.

Pretty Wedding. — Rev. Fr. Swaine, P.P., Kildare, officiated at the marriage, which was solemnised with Nuptial Mass and Papal Blessing, at Kildare Parish Church, of Mr. Patrick (Paddy) Burke, Fews, Kilmacthomas, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burke, do., and Miss Pauline Gallagher, only daughter of Mrs. and the late Mr. Gallagher, Campion Crescent, Kildare.

Given away by her brother, Mr. Tom Gallagher, the bride was attired in a white nylon ballet-length frock, and she wore a shoulder-length veil. Her bouquet was of red roses. The bridesmaid, a cousin of the bride, wore a blue nylon ballet-length frock, and carried a bouquet of forget-me-nots.

Approximately fifty guests attended the reception, which was held at the Derby House Hotel, Kildare, after which the happy couple left for Dublin. Paddy has been attached to the P. J. Prendergast stables at the Curragh for seven years. We wish the newly-weds every happiness.

Successful Candidate. — Miss Brigid Gough, S.R.N., Ballykerogue, Stradbally, was successful in her final examination by which she qualified as a nurse in the Co. and City Infirmary, Waterford.

Fire. — A very bad fire occurred on the farm of Mr. G. Jennings, Dunmore East, on Thursday night of last week and it continued into the early hours of Friday morning; lasting 15 hours in all. Units of Waterford, Tramore and Kilmac fire brigades fought the blaze. Large quantities of hay, corn on stem and outfitches were destroyed.

Death. — Rosslare has lost one of its most esteemed personalities, Mr. Patrick (Pat) Maher, whose death occurred recently. A native of Kilmovoe, Kilmac, he spent the great part of his long life in the Mahod-veined locality. WEDDING BELLS

The marriage was solemnised last week, in Modeligo Parish Church, of Mr. Patrick Hickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hickey, Sleadly Castle, Ballinacraig, and Miss Margaret Theresa Nugent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nugent, Churchquarter, Modeligo.

The ceremony was performed with Nuptial Mass and Papal Blessing by Very Rev. James Halley, P.P., Modeligo.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Kathleen Nugent as bridesmaid, and Mr. John Hickey, brother of the groom, was best man.

Following a reception held at the Minella Hotel, Clonmel, Mr. and Mrs. Hickey, left on their honeymoon, which they are spending touring the south of Ireland.

We wish the happy couple every success and happiness in the years ahead.

LABOUR PARTY MEETING

Mr. T. A. Kyne, T.D., was in Touraneena on Saturday night last to organise the local branch. He stressed the need of a strong active party in the district and after discussion it was decided to extend the area to Kibrien and Scart. He said a greater interest in local matters by the members was necessary and it was hard to explain how the Party had only one representative in the County Council and at the same time be able to elect a Dail Deputy.

The repairs to cottages and Water Supply schemes were then discussed. Mr. Kyne told the meeting that as the sub-regional water scheme was now abandoned, he would do his best to get piped water in most of the parish by minor schemes, using existing public pumps and proved springs. He (Mr. Kyne) would cause a motion to be moved at the next Council meeting to have the pump at Cahernaleague serviced for that area and the Spring in Upper Touraneena utilised to cover the Knockboy, Clonagegale, Hickey's Cross and Touraneena area. He also promised to give any matter raised by the branch his full attention.

LATE MR. THOMAS HEAPHY
We tender our sincere sympathy to the brothers, sisters and relatives of the late Mr.

Thomas Heaphy, Croughateskin, Ballymacarby, whose death took place—following an operation—in a Dublin hospital, on last week-end.

The remains were removed to St. Laurence's Church, Fourmilewater, on Saturday, and after last Mass on Sunday interment was made in the family burial plot in the adjoining cemetery. R.I.P.

GONE TO ENGLAND
Amongst the numbers of young men who left the district recently to seek employment in England, were James Corbett, Croughateskin; Edmond Whelan Shanballyanney; John Kearney, Touraneena; and Thomas O'Brien, Fourmilewater.

ON HOLIDAYS
Very Rev. John O'Flynn, P.P., Bristol, is currently spending his annual holidays amongst the family circle and friends at Killooney, Ballinacraig. Also on a visit from California to his native Nire Valley, is Rev. Fr. Colm O'Ryan.

LABOUR PARTY MEETING
Ald. Sean Treacy, T.D., will preside at a meeting of the Modeligo Labour Party branch, to be held in the old schoolhouse, Modeligo, on Thursday night, 28th August, at 8 p.m. The most important matter to be discussed will be the water problem and the best means to adopt to procure for the families in the district (who are not already supplied) a piped water supply, at the most economical figure.

Decisions on Valuation Appeals

The rating authorities indicated below have to-day received from the Commissioner of Valuation the List of his decisions on valuation appeals relating to their rating areas. The owner or occupier of any tenement or hereditament appearing thereon can obtain any relevant extract from the list if he applies by 15th September, 1965, to the Commissioner of Valuation, 6, Ely Place, Dublin, or to the undersigned officer of the rating authority concerned.

- (1) Waterford County Council, Courthouse, Dungarvan, Co. Waterford. S. G. Ua Dunlaing, Rinal, 25th August, 1965.
- (2) Dungarvan Urban District Council, Town Hall, Dungarvan. P. Doyle, Town Clerk, 25th August, 1965.

Mrs. Bridget Fraher, Caseyville, Dungarvan, sister of the deceased, said that on July 31st she made a statement to Sargent Morgan Hayes. In that statement she said that she saw the body in the morgue of the District hospital, on Friday 30th and identified it as that of brother. She had seen him on the Thursday night he was killed and he said he was going to a dance in Clonlea. He was then quite normal.

Sgt. Morgan Hayes said that at 11.20 p.m. on the night of July 29th he received a telephone message that a serious accident had occurred on the Dungarvan-Clonlea road. He arrived there at 11.40 and saw a man lying on the side of the road. He appeared to be dead. He assisted in removing him to the morgue of the district hospital. He again viewed the body in the morgue the following day.

Dr. P. O'Connell said about 11.20 p.m., or 11.30 p.m., on July 29th, he was called to an accident near Clonlea. When he arrived there he found the body of Patrick Prendergast lying on the road and he was dead. He got him removed to the morgue in the district hospital. On Friday July 30th he carried out a Post Mortem examination of the body. There were signs of extensive haemorrhage from the nostrils and mouth. There were abrasions on the nose and forehead, on the right side of the chest, right hand, right leg and foot and left shoulder. There was a deep wound two inches long on the top of his skull and a 1 1/2-inch long wound on the back of the poll. The left ankle was almost severed from his leg and was hanging only by a pouch of skin.

Dr. O'Connell said that on opening the skull, he found that there were wide fractures above and behind both ears, extending down to the base of the skull. There was a laceration of the brain inside both fractures. There was extensive haemorrhage into his neck muscles at the back. In his opinion death was due to laceration of the brain and haemorrhage, due to fracture of the skull.

At this stage Supt. English said that he did not propose to call anymore evidence. He asked for an adjournment because criminal proceedings were being considered.

Granting the adjournment, Dr. Healy, Coroner, said he wished to express sympathy with the deceased's relatives on their sad loss. Accidents of this kind, he said, were unfortunately, too common.

Supt. English, on behalf of the gardai, and on his own behalf, joined with the Coroner in expressing sympathy with the relatives of the deceased, as did Mr. Sean Brosnan (instructed by John L. Keane and Co. Solicitors) representing Mr. A. S. Youghal representing Mr. A. S. Fenton, Aglish driver of the car which was involved in the accident, Mr. Nicholas Casey, on behalf of the members of the jury, and Dr. O'Connell.

Mr. E. P. King (Solr. for the next of kin of deceased) thanked them for their expressions of sympathy.

STOLE FROM DONATION BOXES IN LOCAL CHURCHES

Two Dungarvan youths from Cathal Brugha Place pleaded guilty at Dungarvan District Court on Wednesday to stealing £11.20 from a donation box from the Friary Church between May 23rd and July 26th last and stealing 6d. from a donation box from the Parish Church on July 25th. The youths were aged 10 and 12 years.

Supt. M. English said on five Sunday between May 23rd and July 26th, one of the youths went in and took the money from the donation box in the Friary whilst the other kept watch outside. On July 25th, Det. Garda Michael Bowen was hiding in the Church and caught them at the box. Their mother had no control over them and when Garda Bowen went to the house to interview them she used the most obscene and foul language. If she was here in the Court with the children he would ask to have them sent away.

The father of the children told the Justice that if he gave them this chance it would not happen again.

Justice Skinner said they were going in the wrong direction now.

The father said if they had to come in here again he would not come with them.

Judge Skinner addressing the youths said he would give them this chance. He was sorry for their father for the disgrace they brought him.

Driving Licence Suspended

A 34-year-old farmer who was convicted of drunken driving at Dungarvan District Court on Wednesday had his driving licence suspended for a period of twelve months by Judge L. B. Skinner. He was James Kennedy, Nowtown, Kinsalebeg, Co. Waterford, and the offence was committed on August 2nd last at Cathal Brugha Place, Dungarvan.

Garda P. Noctor said he was on duty in the official car on this date. Driving across the square, defendant pulled out from a parking lot there. The defendant went up Mary Street and at the top of this street he had to make three attempts to restart the car after it had stopped. Eventually he got it going and at the junction at Rice's Street he swerved over to the right. He did the same at the junction of Bridget's Terrace, again at Fennell's garage farther up. He could not pass him out because it was too dangerous to do so. At Loughmore he again swerved over to the right, ran up on the kerb and hit the iron frame. Just before he hit the iron frame he saw a young boy fall from the car and land on his feet. The front windscreen of the car was smashed.

When witness approached the car the defendant was slouched back in the seat, and he said "Sound ould Guard there is nothing wrong." He smelled of liquor and his eyes were watery. When he got out of the car he was unsteady on his feet. In the Garda station the defendant said he was trying to avoid children that were playing on the road. But he (witness) did not see any children playing on the road at that time.

This accident, he said, happened around 7.30 p.m. and at 8.05 the defendant refused to be examined by Dr. Cusack.

Garda T. Breen said he was in the station when Kennedy was brought in. He staggered and his face was flushed. His eyes were watered and bloodshot and he smelled of liquor. It was witness's opinion that he was not fit to drive a car at that time. He made no reference of getting a certain Dr. Murray, Clashmore to examine him. All he asked was when would he be left home.

Sergt. M. Hayes said he arrived at the Garda Station at 8 p.m. and the defendant was in the cell. When he was taken from the cell he walked unsteadily and smelled of liquor. He did not think he could take proper control of a car. He said to witness that he did not wish to be examined by a doctor. Witness then called Dr. Cusack but the defendant would not allow him to examine him.

The defendant, James Kennedy, said he went to Dungarvan Mart that day arriving there about 11 a.m. He was accompanied in his car by Jackie Power and Mr. Power's two children. They finished at Mart about 1.30 or 2 p.m. and in all he had five small bottles of stout there. After a meal in town he had three small brandies. When he left he stopped his car at the top of Mary Street to let oncoming traffic pass. The car stalled and he had difficulty in getting it going again. He did not think he was swaying. He was not feeling well all that day and the reason for his striking the iron fence was because the sickness came on him. In the Garda Station he asked to have Dr. Murray, Clashmore, called to examine him. Dr. Murray was his family doctor. He was not drunk and the sickness was the cause of what happened.

Mr. John Power, a neighbouring farmer of the defendant said that Kennedy started off perfectly in the car after leaving the Enterprise. Going up Mitchell Street he thought Kennedy was going to get sick and he said to him to pull up but defendant did not answer him.

Imposing the suspension from driving, Judge Skinner also imposed a fine of £5 with £8.13.8 expenses. Recognisances were fixed in the event of an appeal.

CAPPOQUIN NOTES

DROMANA BRIDGE

General satisfaction and in particular in the Villierstown area has been expressed because of the County Council's sanction of the building of the much-needed bridge at Dromana and the relaying of the approach roads. The members of the deputation, who spoke at the Council meeting put their claim so impressively that refusal to grant their request could not be even thought of. The residents in Villierstown and surrounding area and to a lesser degree the people of Cappoquin are delighted at the successful outcome of the agitation.

HISTORICAL RESEARCH

For many years defunct, but some half-a-century ago very flourishing was a philanthropic society known as "The United Irishwomen." Quite recently, from headquarters of the I.C.A. came a circular to Guilds requesting information regarding this organisation. As Cappoquin boasted of a very active branch of the "U.W.", the ladies of the I.C.A. acted on the request from headquarters.

Mrs. M. Meaney (nee Mason) of Carrick-on-Suir came forward with much information of the Cappoquin branch of which she was a founder member and this information is being sent to headquarters. If, as is proposed, a history of the "United Irishwomen" is published, Mrs. Meaney's note will be of much value.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER

Master Michael Brennan of Allen Street has won a Council Scholarship tenable at a Secondary School. Congratulations.

OPERA FESTIVAL

Arrangements are being made locally for a visit to the Waterford Opera Festival on Sunday, 12th September, when "New Moon" will be staged. A bus has been engaged for the occasion and those wishing to travel are asked to communicate with Mrs. J. McGrath.

N.F.A. NEWS Agriculture's Place in The Economy

What is agriculture's place in our economic picture and what is Government attitude towards it? These are questions which more and more farmers and people outside the industry are asking these days, particularly as the country seems to be on the threshold of an Anglo-Irish Free Trade agreement with its resultant implications.

Fundamentally, agriculture employs 35% of our population and accounts for 70% of our exports. It is the industry upon which the country relies most and the one with the greatest potential. But it is also an industry with the appallingly low return of 1% on investment and an absolutely ridiculous average income of £7 a week.

FALSE PICTURE

Unfortunately, urbanites seem intent on maintaining a picture of the big farmer with his big car as the typical illustration of agriculture. It could be some sort of self protective interest that makes them ignore the true situation obtaining over the greater range of our agriculture—small farms, poor land and lack of capital. The jibe is often thrown out "look at all the grants the farmers get?" The implication here is that our industrial sector stands on its own feet with no Government bolstering. The easiest way of answering that assertion is to quote the then Minister for Finance, Dr. Ryan, who told Deputy G. Sweetman in the Dail on April 15th, 1964 that State Aid to Industry for the year 1964/65 would be £61,140,000, while the comparative figure for agriculture would be £43,150,000—a sizeable difference of nearly £18 million in favour of industry.

Another feature which urbanites like to ignore is the sheer gamble that is farming. While they enjoy the almost sure-fire succession of wage round increases their country cousin is pitting his wits against the weather (the Irish weather), fickle prices and uncertain markets. The truth is that the most progressive farmer can do all the right things, buy the best seed, provide the required fertilisation and spraying, etc., and still conceivably end up with zero at the end of his year.

HIGH PRICES TO WHOM?

Some months ago there was much play on the high prices which the housewife had to pay to feed her family. Again by an insidious implication the finger was levelled at the farmer. This week I did a little cross-check on some of the consumer and farm prices which were prevailing last November (the latest available). They make an interesting reading. Take eggs. While the farmer was getting 4/5 for his dozen eggs the housewife was paying 5/9. Potatoes? The housewife was paying 4/- a stone at the same time that the farmer was being paid 2/6d. What about milk? I have more recent figures for that commodity. At present the Dublin housewife is paying 7d per pint for the bottle of milk left on her doorstep in the morning. How much of that does the farmer get—6d, 5d, 4d? No, the answer is 3d.

I think that the above illustrations reveal one thing at least while the farmer is doing the work somebody else is "making hay."

SECOND CIRCULAR TO VETS.

Arising from our report in last week's Bulletin that the Veterinary Medical Association of Ireland had circualised its members recommending them "not to participate" in the Warble Fly Eradication Scheme we now learn that a second circular has since gone out stating that no restraint would be put on any individual members who wished to participate. "In fact, I can tell you," said Mr. J. K. Kealy, Chairman of the Association's Public Relations Committee "that nearly all the vets in Connacht will be participating."

The second circular was issued because it was stated some members of the Association regarded the first one as somewhat "ambiguous." Mr. Kealy pointed out that the Association was favourably disposed to a programme for the eradication of the warble fly, but they had reservations on the Department's scheme.

DETAILS OF SCHEME

The Department's scheme is due to come into operation on Sept. 1st next; the dressing period being from 1st Sept. to November 30th. As from December 1st 1965, no beast may be sold, sent for slaughter or for export except with an official certificate of dressing for the warbles. To get the certificate the cattle must be dressed by an operator, working under an A.I. Centre or for a veterinary surgeon.

All cattle in the herd must be dressed, except, for example, calves under two months old, sick animals, and cattle going to be slaughtered before 1st December.

To all intents and purposes the scheme is compulsory. Even though farmers cannot be forced to dress their cattle, the Order says that no cattle may be sold unless they have been dressed. If you take the extreme example of the man with only one beast, even he doesn't know when he may have to sell.

saved without finance. Unless the Department of Finance is prepared to back up the proposals of this Council with the necessary finance, the work of this Council will be a complete waste of time.

Among the N.F.A. representatives who spoke at the meeting were: Very Rev. P. W. Davis, P.P., Balisobree; Ballina, Co. Mayo; Mr. Padraig Rafferty, Chairman, Galway Co. Executive; and Mr. D. McCarthy, Drimilague, Co. Cork.

ANY LAND FOR SALE?

The Department of Lands is looking for lands for Forest nurseries. The land would be purchased at market value. A broad outline of the requirements was given by Mr. D. Howett of the Department in a letter to Mr. Sean Healy, General Secretary, N.F.A., this week.

They are as follows:— Each area would have to be compact—not straggling—and not less than 50 statute acres in extent. It is not essential that the same person should own the total amount of such an area.

The soil should preferably consist of light loams or light sandy loams, be deep, fertile and easily worked and have a gentle even slope (PH 5.0 - 5.5).

The districts in which the land is required are: East Donegal, East Mayo, East Clare, North Tipperary, Sligo/North Roscommon, Laois/Offaly and North Louth.

The price payable would be market value.

A conveyance in fee simple, free of all rights and charges will be required.

R.N.L.I. FLAG DAY

The annual flag day in aid of the Lifeboat Institution will be held in this area on Sunday next. It is hoped that the public will give generous support to this wonderful organisation to enable it to continue its great humanitarian work of saving lives. It is of interest to note that the National Lifeboat Institution is entirely dependent on voluntary subscriptions and receives no government aid.

SUCCESSFUL STUDENT

Congratulations are extended to Roger J. Barron, Clashmore N.S., on his recent success in the examination for Co. Council scholarships. He is son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Barron, Kilmore, Clashmore and his teacher is Mr. M. Moroney.

MUNTIIR NA TIRE

The recent rural week, under the auspices of Muintir na Tire recalls to mind that two such rural weeks were held at St. Declan's Irish College, Ardmore in the 1930's. The speakers at Ardmore included President de Valera, General Mulcahy, Rev. Dr. Lucey, D.D. (now Most Rev. Dr. Lucey, Bishop of Cork), and of course, the late Canon Hayes founder of Muintir na Tire.

People from all over Ireland attended. Ardmore was then a great centre of Irish culture and was famous throughout the land. Also, this is all now changed. The Irish College has gone (demolished) and as a result, Ardmore is now no longer a seat of Irish learning and culture.

ON VACATION FROM U.S.A.

Enjoying a holiday with his wife and family in his native Clashmore at present is Mr. Michael Mulcahy, now residing in Boston, Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mulcahy, Coolbagh, he is a personal friend of the Archbishop of Boston, Cardinal Cushing. Before returning to the U.S.A. he will spend a period with relatives in London.

VILLIERSTOWN

The decision of Waterford County Council to take over Dromana Road and Bridge is welcomed in the area.

Work on the new sewerage and Water Scheme for the area has commenced. This will supply a long-felt want and also provide some welcome employment in the district.

HOME FROM THE STATES

Back in Clashmore on a holiday following an absence of over 30 years in the U.S.A., is Mr. James Curran, who is accompanied by his wife. He is brother of Messrs. Thomas and John Curran, Ballinure, Clashmore and his many surviving friends are pleased to see him in excellent health.

ASSURANCE ON THREE-MILE LIMIT CLAUSE FROM THE MINISTER

The Minister for Lands, Mr. O'Morain has told the President of N.F.A., Mr. Rickard Deasy, in a letter, that the Government had never intended "that the three mile limit clause (in the Land Act) should be operated against the out-farms of working farmers and I can assure you that it will not be operated in that way by the Land Commission.

The Minister stated that: "Having already repeated it in substance many times during debates in the Dail, Senate and elsewhere, I am glad of this further opportunity to confirm categorically that the Government do not intend (and never intended) the Land Act, 1965, to constitute any threat to the security of working farmers. This assurance applies generally to all the provisions of the Act, but especially to the three-mile limit clause in Sections 35 and 42."

In essence, Sections 35 and 42 provide that in addition to providing adequate employment on and production from the land the owners must now have lived on the land or within 3 miles of it through the previous year and must not have offered it for sale during that time.

The N.F.A. Oireachtas Committee fought the three-mile clause since its first announcement and held a series of meetings with the Minister on the issue. At the last meeting, Mr. O'Morain gave a verbal assurance on the matter which he has now confirmed.

Tony Wall's New Book on Hurling Launched

"This book makes a very valuable contribution to the current national programme for the revival of hurling," said Alf O Muiri, president of the G.A.A. at a function in the Guinness Brewery, St. James' Gate, Dublin. He was speaking at a lunch given in honour of Capt. Tony Wall, the well-known Tipperary sportsman, whose book on hurling has just been published with the assistance of Guinness and the Central Council of the G.A.A.

At the lunch the author formally handed over a copy of his book to Alf O Muiri.

The guests, who included officers of the G.A.A. and many gaelic sportswriters and broadcasters, were welcomed by Mr. Guy Jackson, director of the St. James' Gate Brewery, and the hosts included Mr. F. E. James, Marketing Director, Harp Lager (Ireland) Ltd.; Mr. R. B. Howick, Managing Director, Irish Ale Breweries; Mr. R. W. S. Greene, Assistant Trade Manager of Guinness; Dr. H. S. Corran, Chairman of the Guinness Athletic Union, and officers of the gaelic section of the G.A.U.

Mr. Jackson said that Guinness were proud to be associated with Tony Wall's book and to have been able to lend it their financial support. This was the second G.A.A. publication that they had sponsored—last year they had assisted Joe Lennon to publish his manual on football. That venture has proved highly successful and he felt sure that this would be equally so.

"In these days of highly competitive sport," said Mr. Jackson, "it is sometimes overlooked that games are meant to be enjoyed. Tony Wall obviously enjoys his hurling and wishes others to share this enjoyment. Any aspiring hurler who studies his book will not only increase his skill, but also the pleasure he derives from his sport."

Alf O Muiri, speaking first in Irish and then in English, said: "I have maintained for a long time that the impact which our native games have had on the life of the nation has not had its true reflection in the literature of our country. The publication of a book on Gaelic Football last year was an encouraging start and to-day's launching of this first hurling instructional book marks another important step forward. On behalf of the whole Association, I extend our sincere congratulations, and our sincere thanks, to Tony Wall and wish him every success with this very fine pioneering effort."

In the publication of both of these books that I have mentioned, Messrs. Guinness have joined with the Association in assisting young authors, who, in the absence of outside help, could not have borne the financial risks involved. I would therefore like to pay tribute to the Company and assure them that their assistance in this regard, and the interest they have shown in our native games in many other ways, is much appreciated.

"Tony Wall's book is being made available at a time when the need for expert guidance on the teaching problems of the game is keenly felt. Since the new Hurling Scheme was introduced, the game is being enthusiastically taught in areas where no hurling tradition exists and many of the teachers not expert hurlers themselves, will find this book to be invaluable."

"I would like to say here that the Officers of the Association are tremendously pleased with the response which has been made in this first year of our Hurling Scheme to our efforts to bring the hurling back. Every county in Ireland has responded to the call and I now sincerely believe that, if we can keep up the enthusiasm and give the proper encouragement to our instructors and their pupils, the battle can be won. We have four more years in which to achieve our main aim of making hurling popular in all grades up to 18 years of age and I can vouch for the determination of my fellow officers that every effort towards that end will have our full support and encouragement."

"As the interest in the game increases, the demand for expert guidance and advanced coaching hints will increase also. I agree entirely with Tony Wall that there are no 'born hurlers', but that where the tradition is strong, the environment shapes their destiny. Our ambition is to create the hurling environment in every county in Ireland and every effort to make the hurling revival a live topic and to keep it in the public eye, is of value. For that reason I hope that Tony's book will be further literature on the subject which will be forthcoming."

"The himself has been kind enough to say that a chance remark of mine—on the contribution which even the strong hurling counties could make to the revival—encouraged him to go ahead with his book. I hope that the success which should attend his efforts will encourage others to realise that, if our hurling scheme is to succeed, every single member of the Association has a contribution to make to it."

"Tony has made his contribution on our playing fields over the years, but I regard this new effort on his part to be even more important than the countless star performances and the many years of exemplary sportsmanship."

"This book is a very real and permanent contribution and once again, on behalf of the Association, I thank all those who helped with its production."

Replying, Captain Tony Wall thanked the sponsors, publishers, and all those who had helped and advised him in preparing and producing his book. He said: "I would first of all like to repeat how grateful I am to Messrs. Arthur Guinness and to the Central Council of the G.A.A. for the financial backing which they so generously gave me in publishing this book. Without that assistance the undertaking would not have been economically feasible."

"Secondly, I wish to thank the various people who so willingly helped and advised me in preparing and producing the book. And finally, I think a word of thanks is due to Cityview Press Ltd., whose workmanship in printing the book speaks for itself."

"When, over a year ago, the president of the G.A.A., Alf O Muiri, suggested to me that I should consider attempting such a book, I hesitated, not because I failed to realise the need for such a book, but because I was not sure if I was the man most qualified to write it."

"However, after much thought I concluded that somebody had to make the first contribution towards relieving the great absence of hurling instructional literature and there was no reason as to why the first contribution should have to be the most eminent."

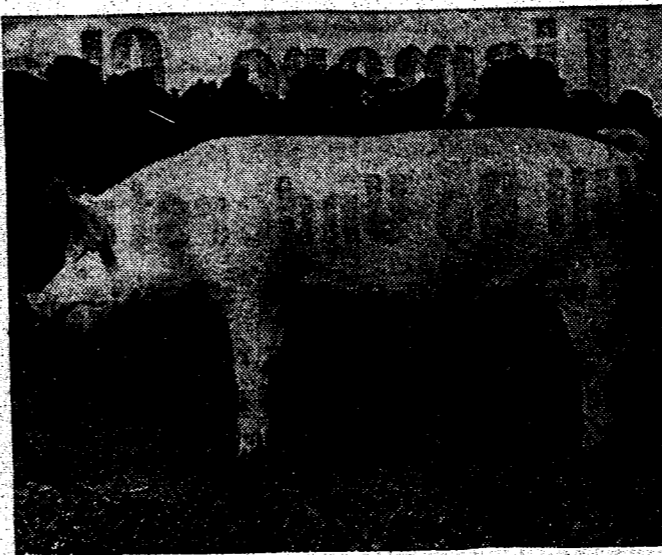

"The absence of instructional books on hurling is something which I personally have had reason to be aware of for many years. I had to work particularly long and hard so as to make the grade as a hurler and during all of that time there was not even one book to which one could turn for guidance."

"There is one book now. I sincerely hope that a number of others will follow and that as a result of them the road to the top will be considerably shorter and less arduous for the hurling stars of the future than it was for me and for most of my contemporaries."

Capt. Tony Wall, who has played on the Tipperary team for some twelve years, is regarded as one of the great defensive players of all time. He holds a number of all-Ireland medals, gained whilst playing at centre back for his county.

"Hurling," published by the Cityview Press (price 6/-) contains articles on all aspects of the game. Starting with a discussion of the hurley itself, the author devotes separate chapters to the grip and the swing, taking frees, striking, blocking, rising tussling, solo running, passing, etc. There are sections on tactics and positional play and general articles on training, health and fitness. The book is amply illustrated throughout.

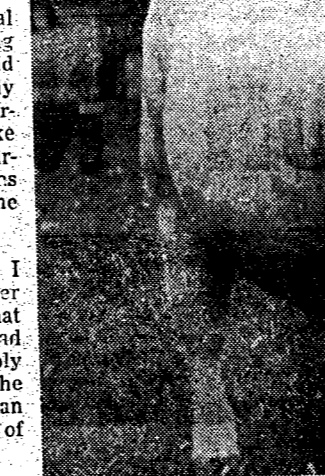

A TYPICAL IRISH PIG

Treatment and Care of Premium Bulls

Bull calves intended for breeding are generally well and carefully fed from birth until they are sold in the spring. At their new homes the feeding is usually quite different from that to which they have been accustomed. In some cases the food given may not be quite suitable, while in others the bull may even be turned out on grass to forage for himself. In either case the animal usually falls away in condition or gets a serious check in growth; his constitution is thereby weakened and his usefulness impaired.

Considering that the bull is in all cases for a considerable period before the show and sale, young bulls are subjected to exceedingly careful treatment and generous feeding. It frequently happens that when they get to their new homes they refuse to eat. This may be due to over-generous feeding by the previous owner, or to the animal's getting chilled by exposure to draughts in railway trucks. It is necessary, therefore, to exercise great care in the selection of foods and to feed sparingly during the first few days. The bull should be got home as comfortably and as quickly as possible half the herd, and that so much of the season's breeding depends upon him, he should receive more attention than that given to the ordinary live stock on the farm.

TREATMENT FOLLOWING PURCHASE

The first and one of the most important considerations in the management of a bull arises immediately he is brought to his new home. At the shows and sales of bulls breeders try to have their young bulls looking as well as possible so as to attract buyers. In most cases from birth, and

and be given immediately a pint and a half of raw linseed oil according to age and size. He should be littered down in his box or stall and left rest quietly. Bran mash mixed with a little linseed-cake meal, or a small quantity of sweet hay are all that is necessary for a few days, after which the animal should be gradually accustomed to whatever sort of food it is intended to give him.

In some instances young bulls are presented for inspection at the end of the first year in very poor condition. At this stage if an animal has been reasonably well fed but still presents an unthrifty appearance it will usually be found that one or other of the causes outlined below at (a), (b) and (c) or perhaps a combination of all may be responsible.

- (a) Difficulty in getting first permanent incisor teeth. Mouth should be examined.
- (2) Irritation and loss of flesh due to lice. Examine neck, shoulders and thighs carefully for vermin and if found treat as recommended.
- (c) Infestation with house and stomach worms or liver fluke.

HOUSING

A point of much importance in the successful management of a bull is to provide him with a suitable house. He should have the use of a loose box about 12 feet by 10 feet in dimensions, well lighted and ventilated. The house should be fitted with a feeding trough and a manger for fodder. The floor should be of concrete, or be well paved with brick or stone. If a small yard or better still, a paddock, preferably facing such as attached, to which the bull can have free access, it will be of great advantage. The walls and manger should be scraped and then scrubbed with a 4% solution of hot washing soda after which a disinfectant solution or lime-wash should be applied twice yearly. The floor should be similarly treated as regards cleansing and by the use of a disinfecting solution.

FEEDING

There is no single food factor which more than another is specially required for fertility, a diet which is suitable for good growth and perfect health being quite suitable for the purpose. Variety in the house diet is important in that it is more likely to be complete in all the nutritive requirements than is any single food such as hay or oats; and, besides, variety of food is conducive to good appetite. Pasture herbage makes a complete diet for the bull. Other green foods are almost equally good for the purpose and should be fed when the animal is not on pasture. In winter the allowance of good quality hay and roots together with 4 to 6 pounds of concentrates per day usually suffices, but a supplement of cabbage or kale or turnips or other green rye grass adds considerably to the value of the diet. Good quality green sewage may constitute a large proportion of the diet of the bull. When green feeding, either ensiled or fresh, forms an appreciable part of the daily ration the constitution of the concentrate mixture is not a matter of great importance provided, of course, the foods are good and wholesome. Where the diet consists of hay, root and concentrates a suitable mixture of concentrates is made of rolled oats, 5 parts, bran 1 part and oilcake 1 part. In that case in addition to the meal mixture a mineral supplement, at the rate of 1 pound to the hundredweight of mixture is advocated. A lump of rock-salt should be placed in a feeding box for the bull to lick at when he desires.

The overfeeding of a bull renders him lethargic and excessively heavy. Underfeeding on the other hand is equally undesirable. Best results are obtained where the bull is maintained in reasonably good and active condition.

It is a bad practice to give the animal more at one time than he is able to clean up. Any food left from a previous meal should be removed. It is most important that the bull should at all times have free access to clean, fresh water. Where this is not possible he should be offered water at least twice each day before feeding time.

Strict regularity in feeding, both as regards quantity and time, is one of the secrets in the management of cattle. The hours of feeding may be divided as the feeder thinks proper, but, when adopted, they should be adhered to. Cattle fed in the house soon learn the exact time at which their food is due, and if not fed at the regular time and if usual quantity of food is not given they become restless. During winter and where a paddock is not available, the bull, if confined to the house, should be regularly led out for exercise. In summer he should be allowed out at night into his paddock or be kept in a conveniently situated enclosed field. This will give him the necessary exercise and maintain him in health. A careful man should always be put in charge of the bull.

Tony Wall's New Book on Hurling Launched

"This book makes a very valuable contribution to the current national programme for the revival of hurling," said Alf O Muiri, president of the G.A.A. at a function in the Guinness Brewery, St. James' Gate, Dublin. He was speaking at a lunch given in honour of Capt. Tony Wall, the well-known Tipperary sportsman, whose book on hurling has just been published with the assistance of Guinness and the Central Council of the G.A.A.

At the lunch the author formally handed over a copy of his book to Alf O Muiri.

The guests, who included officers of the G.A.A., and many gaelic sportswriters and broadcasters, were welcomed by Mr. Guy Jackson, director of the St. James' Gate Brewery, and the hosts included Mr. F. E. James, Marketing Director, Harp Lager (Ireland) Ltd.; Mr. R. B. Howick, Managing Director, Irish Ale Breweries; Mr. R. W. S. Greene, Assistant Trade Manager of Guinness; Dr. H. S. Corran, Chairman of the Guinness Athletic Union, and officers of the gaelic section of the G.A.U.

Mr. Jackson said that Guinness were proud to be associated with Tony Wall's book and to have been able to lend it their financial support. This was the second G.A.A. publication that they had sponsored—last year they had assisted Joe Lennon to publish his manual on football. That venture has proved highly successful and he felt sure that this would be equally so.

"In these days of highly competitive sport," said Mr. Jackson, "it is sometimes overlooked that games are meant to be enjoyed. Tony Wall obviously enjoys his hurling and wishes others to share this enjoyment. Any aspiring hurler who studies his book will not only increase his skill, but also the pleasure he derives from his sport."

Alf O Muiri, speaking first in Irish and then in English, said: "I have maintained for a long time that the impact which our native games have had on the life of the nation has not had its true reflection in the literature of our country. The publication of a book on Gaelic Football last year was an encouraging start and to-day's launching of this first hurling instruction book marks another important step forward. On behalf of the whole Association, I extend our sincere congratulations, and our sincere thanks, to Tony Wall and wish him every success with this very fine pioneering effort."

In the publication of both of these books that I have mentioned, Messrs. Guinness have joined with the Association in assisting young authors, who, in the absence of outside help, could not have borne the financial risks involved. I would therefore like to pay tribute to the Company and assure them that their assistance in this regard, and the interest they have shown in our native games in many other ways, is much appreciated.

"Tony Wall's book is being made available at a time when the need for expert guidance on the teaching problems of the game is keenly felt. Since the new Hurling Scheme was introduced the game is being enthusiastically taught in areas where no hurling tradition exists and many of the teachers not expert hurlers themselves, will find this book to be invaluable.

"I would like to say here that the Officers of the Association are tremendously pleased with the response which has been made in this first year of our Hurling Scheme to our efforts to 'bring the hurling back.' Every county in Ireland has responded to the call and I now sincerely believe that, if we can keep up the enthusiasm and give the proper encouragement to our instructors and their pupils, the battle can be won. We have four more years in which to achieve our main aim of making hurling popular in all grades up to 18 years of age and I can vouch for the determination of my fellow-officers that every effort towards that end will have our full support and encouragement.

"As the interest in the game increases, the demand for expert guidance and advanced coaching hints will increase also. I agree entirely with Tony that there are no 'born hurlers,' but that, where the tradition is strong, the environment shapes their destiny. Our ambition is to create the hurling environment in every county in Ireland and every effort to make the hurling revival a live topic and to keep it in the public eye, is of value. For that reason I hope that Tony's expectation that further literature on the subject will be forthcoming, will be realised.

"He himself has been kind enough to say that a chance remark of mine—on the contribution which even the strong hurling counties could make to the revival—encouraged him to go ahead with his book. I hope that the success which should attend his efforts will encourage others to realise that, if our hurling scheme is to succeed, every single member of the Association has a contribution to make to it.

"Tony has made his contribution on our playing fields over the years, but I regard this new effort on his part to be even more important than the countless star performances and the many years of exemplary sportsmanship.

"This book is a very real and permanent contribution and once again, on behalf of the Association, I thank all those who helped with its production."

Replying, Captain Tony Wall thanked the sponsors, publishers, and all those who had helped and advised him in preparing and producing his book. He said: "I would first of all like to repeat how grateful I am to Messrs. Arthur Guinness and to the Central Council of the G.A.A. for the financial backing which they so generously gave me in publishing this book. Without that assistance the undertaking would not have been economically feasible.

"Secondly, I wish to thank the various people who so willingly helped and advised me in preparing and producing the book. And finally, I think, a word of thanks is due to Cityview Press Ltd., whose workmanship in printing the book speaks for itself.

"When, over a year ago, the president of the G.A.A., Alf O Muiri, suggested to me that I should consider attempting such a book, I hesitated, not because I failed to realise the need for such a book, but because I was not sure if I was the man most qualified to write it.

"However, after much thought I concluded that somebody had to make the first contribution towards relieving the great absence of hurling instructional literature and there was no reason as to why the first contribution should have to be the most eminent.

"The absence of instructional books on hurling is something which I personally have had reason to be aware of for many years. I had to work particularly long and hard so as to make the grade as a hurler and during all of that time there was not even one book to which one could turn for guidance.

"There is one book now. I sincerely hope that a number of others will follow and that as a result of them the road to the top will be considerably shorter and less arduous for the hurling stars of the future than it was for me and for most of my contemporaries."

Capt. Tony Wall, who has played on the Tipperary team for some twelve years, is regarded as one of the great defensive players of all time. He holds a number of all-Ireland medals, gained whilst playing at centre-back for his county.

Treatment following purchase. The first and one of the most important considerations in the management of a bull arises immediately he is brought to his new home. At the shows and sales of bulls breeders try to have their young bulls looking as well as possible so as to attract buyers. In most cases, from birth, and

and be given immediately a pint and a half of raw linseed oil according to age and size. He should be littered down in his box or stall and left rest quietly. Bran mashes mixed with a little linseed-cake meal, along with a small quantity of sweet hay are all that is necessary for a few days, after which the animal should be gradually accustomed to whatever sort of food it is intended to give him.

In some instances young bulls are presented for inspection at the end of the first year in very poor condition. At this stage if an animal has been reasonably well fed but still presents an unthrifty appearance it will usually be found that one or other of the causes outlined below at (a), (b) and (c) or perhaps a combination of all may be responsible.

(a) Difficulty in getting first permanent incisor teeth. Mouth should be examined. (2) Irritation and loss of flesh due to lice. Examine neck, shoulders and thighs carefully for vermin and if found treat as recommended. (c) Infestation with house and stomach worms or liver fluke.

HOUSING
A point of much importance in the successful management of a bull is to provide him with a suitable house. He should have the use of a loose box about 12 feet by 10 feet in dimensions, well lighted and ventilated. The house should be fitted with a feeding trough and a manger for fodder. The floor should be of concrete, or be well packed with brick or stone. If a paddock or better still, a paddock preferably facing such be attached to which the bull can have free access, it will be of great advantage. The walls and manger should be scrubbed and then scrubbed with a 4% solution of hot washing soda after which a disinfectant solution of lime wash should be applied twice yearly. The floor should be similarly treated as regards cleaning and by the use of a disinfecting solution.

FEEDING
There is no single food which, more than another, is specially required for fattening a diet which is suitable for food growth and perfect health being quite suitable for purpose. Variety in the house and the value of the diet. Good quality green silage may constitute a large proportion of the diet of the bull. When green feeding, either ensiled or fresh, forms an appreciable part of the daily ration the constitution of the concentrate mixture is not a matter of great importance provided, of course, the foods are good and wholesome. Where the diet consists of hay, root and concentrates a suitable mixture of concentrates is made of rolled oats, 5 parts, bran 1 part and oilcake 1 part. In that case the addition to the meal mixture of a mineral supplement at the rate of 1 pound to the hundredweight of mixture is advocated. A lump of rock-salt should be placed in a feeding box for the bull to lick at when he desires.

The overfeeding of a bull renders him lethargic and excessively heavy. Underfeeding on the other hand is equally undesirable. Best results are obtained where the bull is maintained in reasonably good and active condition.

It is a bad practice to give the animal more at one time than he is able to clean up. Any food left from a previous meal should be removed. It is most important that the bull should at all times have free access to clean, fresh water. Where this is not possible he should be offered water at least twice each day before feeding time.

Strict regularity in feeding, both as regards quantity and time, is one of the secrets in the management of cattle. The hours of feeding may be varied but, when adopted, they should be adhered to. Cattle fed in the house soon learn the exact time at which their food is due, and if not fed at the regular time and if usual quantity of food is not given they become restless.

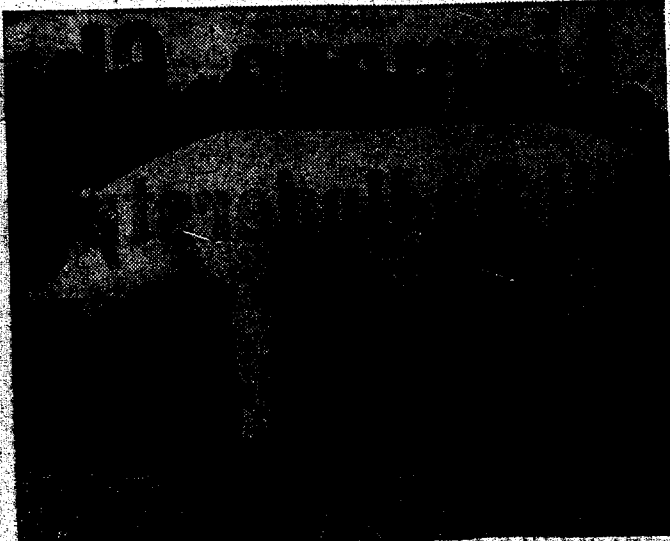

During winter and where a paddock is not available, the bull should be regularly led out for exercise. In summer he should be allowed out at night into his paddock or he kept in a conveniently situated enclosed field. This will give him the necessary exercise and maintain him in health. A careful man should always be put in charge of the bull.

Treatment and Care of Premium Bulls

Bull calves intended for breeding are generally well and carefully fed from birth until they are sold in the spring. At their new homes the feeding is usually quite different from that to which they have been accustomed. In some cases the food given may not be quite suitable, while in others the bull may even be turned out on grass to forage for himself. In either case the animal usually falls away in condition or gets a serious check in growth; his constitution is thereby weakened and his usefulness impaired.

GAELIC JOTTINGS

ERIN'S OWN FANCIED

The senior hurling championship "field" should be reduced still further on Sunday next when Erin's Own and Dunhill meet in another first round tie at Tramore. At a first glance this would appear to be something of a pushover for the city men, but Dunhill are our championship battlers, and on the neighbouring Tramore pitch, will not go under easily. Erin's Own sought "extension" of this tie on Sunday next because of the one month suspension imposed on Joe Condon in the Munster championship against Cork. But now, Condon is back in harness as it were, and so brilliantly is he playing just now that he will be the key man of the side on Sunday.

Another Erin's Own man dogged by injury, Peter McGovern, has also fully recovered, and he, too, is expected to be included in their lineup. Not since they last won a county title in '62 have Erin's Own prepared so assiduously for any championship, and whilst respecting the Dunhill challenge, will not hear of defeat.

With McGovern fully fit, John Meaney likewise, Condon back after suspension, and Jim Frish, Billy Kelly, Charlie Ware and Seanie Duggan all still there, this side is going to take a deal of stopping. What, then, are Dunhill's chances of upsetting the general consensus of opinion? Never an easy side to master, they can be relied upon to battle every inch of the way. Their hopes, however, nosedived recently, when Mick Regan, their hurler-cum-footballer, left for England and he will be sorely missed from their attack. As always, Mick Whyte, Billy Daniels, Monty Guiry and company, will be expected to lead their challenge, but I doubt if they have the all-round balance and hurling know-how to cause an upset.

Thus, with reasonable confidence, I give Erin's Own the vote to qualify for the semi-final against the awaiting Ballygunner.

TOURIN CHALLENGE GERALDINES

What a hurling feast awaits patrons of the Dungarvan venue on Sunday next. At 2 p.m. the eagerly awaited county minor final between Lismore and Mt. Sion is scheduled, followed by the meeting of famed rivals, Tourin and Geraldines in the Western semi-final of the Intermediate championship. This, it goes almost without saying, should be a mighty struggle between championship hardened campaigners: an epic if there ever was one.

Both have their sights trained on this Divisional title. Geraldines in particular, have been serving up a series of impressive displays that not too surprisingly, makes them favourites on Sunday to qualify for the final. They have already mastered Tourin in a Cappoquin tournament game with ease this year, and in all the circumstances, are well entitled to the role of favourites.

But they would be well advised not to place too great an emphasis on that tournament result. Tourin have proved ere now that only when the championship is at stake are they seen of the best. They face a mammoth task on Sunday—made all the greater by virtue of the fact that they must field without star forward Stephen Scanlon, under suspension following their championship victory over Shamrocks. Now, more than ever, they are likely to appreciate Scanlon's real worth as a scoring attacker, and it is now a matter for conjecture as to how they will fare without him.

But knowing Tourin as I do, they are still capable of rising to great heights. They overcame Shamrocks with only fourteen men for the greater part of the second half, and in a subsequent tournament held them to a draw without Scanlon. Make no mistake about it they will contribute regally to a hectic hour's hurling on Sunday.

Even without Scanlon—and remember I could not lay sufficient significance on his absence, they have still the backbone of a top class team. Frank McGrath guards their net with confidence, and any defence that contains men of the calibre of Johnny Gorman, Ollie Wilkinson and Wally Dooney, will not easily be circumvented.

But now with Scanlon missing from attack, that sector is undoubtedly the suspect one. It is difficult in fact to anticipate just how their selectors will meet the emergency, but certainly they face an unenviable task to say the least.

Geraldines' hurling morale, on the other hand, has seldom been as high. From the very outset of this championship they have established themselves as the top favourites to take the title. To-date they have justified that ranking, and it is difficult to oppose them now.

Between the posts Johnny Grady is playing top class hurling, and Mickey Downing (back after suspension), Billy Crotty, Bunny Ronayne, Stylo Riordan and Jim Hallahan are solid defenders.

Mick Tobin is playing very well at midfield, and their key men in a fine attack, are Paddy Kenneally, full forward Mick Keating and Jim Joe Landers. They will, no doubt, be also hoping that Mick Lacey, who has donned their colours this year, will hit his best form—something he has failed completely to do to-date.

Both Tourin and Geraldines are uncompromising championship battlers, and this promises to be a really tough and exciting encounter. Handicapped Tourin will start underdogs, but whilst fully confident of their ability to stretch the Aglishers to the full, I cannot do other than give the vote to Geraldines.

SUNDAY'S REMAINING GAMES

A third game is billed for Dungarvan on Sunday next also. It is the meeting of the Pike and Old Parish in the junior football championship, and the winners of this game are expected to have a vital say in deciding the destination of the Western crown.

The Pike have made a celebrated return to competitive football, and enthusiasm within the camp has reached fever-pitch. The players are keen and dedicated, and though the Reds will be slight favourites, they will not hear of defeat out Kilineen way.

Last year, Old Parish went to the Western final. They are again heading in that direction, and though the Pike challenge will not be readily disposed of, they must be fancied to advance.

AT LISMORE

Also in the junior football championship Shamrocks and Tallow meet in Lismore and here the issue is wide open. With little or no knowledge of the football prowess of either, I am not in a position to forecast how the tie is likely to go, and this is one result I will await with interest.

WINTER LEAGUE GAME

The only other game down for decision on Sunday, is the clash of Ballinameela and Abbeyside in the winter hurling league. As the Villagers must field their second string for this game Ballinameela should advance with something to spare. The game is fixed for Cappoquin.

DUNGARVAN WERE GALLANT IN DEFEAT

Although the final score read 10-2 to 4-4 in Ferrybank's favour, Dungarvan put up a superb show in the county juvenile hurling final at the Fraher field on Sunday last. That final scoreline was a gross injustice to the gallant efforts of a Dungarvan side that conceded height, weight and, in most cases, age, to one of the best teams ever to win this championship.

The Blues led at the interval after a wonderful half hour's hurling, and entering the last quarter were still seven points clear. Ferrybank—the odds on favourites—just did not know what was hitting them, and a major upset looked in store. But then the stronger Easterners took over, and in a fantastic scoring spell which yielded six goals, the game was won and lost.

All credit to the winners for taking the initiative in a big way in that vital last quarter. But Dungarvan in defeat, were truly superb. Each and every one of them gave everything they had in quest of victory, and with the majority of them eligible again next year, they will certainly keep the Old Boro flag flying in this grade.

Lismore Challenge County Champions

Will Be Understrength For Vital Clash

AS I write, the Cathedral town of Lismore is gripped in a hurling fever. For on Sunday next their minor hurlers will do battle with the might of Mount Sion in the County final on the vast expanses of the Dungarvan's Fraher field. It is truly a final that has captured public imagination to an almost alarming degree, as Lismore throw down the gauntlet to the reigning champions. A series of cruel twists of fate will necessitate the Western champions from fielding at full strength, but the chosen fifteen are fully bent on making this their greatest hour of glory.

To oppose Mount Sion at any stage of the championship irrespective of the grade, is a mammoth task. But when they provide the opposition at the final hurdle then the assignment is that much harder still. It is surely ironic then that Lismore appearing in their first ever minor decider should be forced to field without three of the men that have stalwarted their path to this final stage.

That, however, is the story of misfortune that has hit the wearers of the black and amber singlets. The first of their losses came when Mick Caples their dependable centre-back was given marching orders in the western final against Dungarvan. His suspension will not expire until the following Thursday after the final, and so he is automatically out.

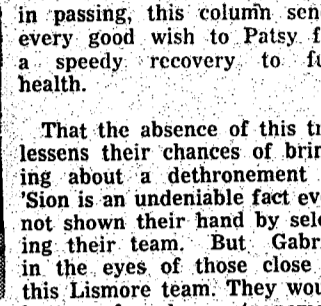

JARLATH DALY . . . star midfielder.

JIMMY GEOGHEGAN . . . Lismore's stalwart full-back.

But worse was to follow. Joe Betanett will be unavoidably absent from their half-line of attack, and hot on the heels of that came the shock news that Patsy Quinn was hospitalised through injury and he too will be missing. Incidentally, in passing, this column sends every good wish to Patsy for a speedy recovery to full health. That the absence of this trio lessens their chances of bringing about a dethronement of 'Sion is an undeniable fact even not shown their hand by selecting their team. But Gabriel in the eyes of those close to this Lismore team. They would have preferred a postponement and even sought one from the County Board. But now the game goes on and I can say with certainty the determination to upset the odds is all the greater.

DAVY WHELAN . . . another pillar in defence.

As yet, Lismore mentors have Daly—a younger brother of midfielder Jarlath, will be home from England for the tie and another Western final absentee, Michael Farrell is another likely to find favour. If this pair reveal true potential towards offsetting the loss of the other absentee regulars. Incidentally rumours that Bernie Scanlon would also be missing can now be discounted for he has opted to play in the minor final rather than with Tourin in their Intermediate chamampionship against Geraldines. It would of course be the height of folly to state other than 'Sion will start almost certain to win yet another minor title. They have already carried off the first leg of their hoped for under eighteen double by defeating Ardmore in football and form, tradition and almost every other significant factor suggests they will continue on their winning way.

REACHED FINAL WITH EASE

With ease they have reached Sunday's final, literally mopping up every opposition en route. Their side bristles with names of inter-county minor stars including goalkeeper Tony Flynn, centre-back Noel Kelly—what a clash it should be between the latter and Liam Canning, Dafny Wyse, Sean Frisby, Pat O'Grady and others.

What then are Lismore's chances of success? Had they been able to field a full-strength fifteen then it would be a wide open issue. Now the champions are warm favourites but knowing Lismore's dedication towards the task on hands, and guaranteed the backing of a huge following from all corners of the Division, they cannot be ruled out by a long shot.

The chosen fifteen will be as fit as the proverbial fiddles. They have trained as never before and should defeat 'be their lot the after match reasons cannot be pointed . . . in that direction.

Even without Quinn and Caples that defence of theirs is mighty solid. It is doubtful if there's a better minor full-back in the county than Jimmy Geoghegan, whilst David McGrath and Davy Whelan can stand up sides with the best in the grade. And behind them is goalkeeper Denny Buckley, unspectacular but admirably competent.

But if this game is to be won, then all Lismore will look to Michael McGrath more than anyone else to win it for them. McGrath has no peer as a minor midfielder in the County and together with the hard-working Jarlath Daly they form a really top-class partnership.

The trouble sector of the side is undoubtedly their attack, and in particular their full line. Joe Bennett will be quite a loss, and Michael Farrell, if selected there could add a bit of much-needed drive to the sector. Bernie Scanlon is another capable of picking off vital scores but up front main hopes will be pinned on the shoulders of centre-forward Liam Canning. To-date Canning has been scorer-in-chief in attack, a virtual matchwinner, as St. Laurence's and Dungarvan can readily vouch for. If held, then Lismore can hardly survive.

So there you have it. A final intriguing in the extreme; a pairing that is a novel one in the grade and all of which adds to the appeal and glamour of the occasion. Mount Sion as I have stated will start favourably, but Lismore would do well to remember that the champions are not invincible. It has taken a lot of good hurling to get the Lismore lads this far, and handicapped though they are, the winning of this game is not beyond them. Reluctantly I must go for a Monastery victory, but the entire west will salute them should Lismore pull it off.

Mount Sion Never Extended

MOUNT SION . . . 2-6; ARDMORE . . . 1-2

FAILING dismally to reproduce to form and determination that was instrumental in the shock defeat of Stradbally in the Western final, Ardmore proved no match for a far from great Mount Sion side in the County decider at the Fraher Field, Dungarvan, on Sunday night last. In fact, after the opening ten minutes it was pretty clear the title was heading Citywards as the Seasiders were tottering in far too many sectors.

DUNGARVAN WERE GALLANT IN DEFEAT

Although the final score read 10-2 to 4-4 in Ferrybank's favour, Dungarvan put up a superb show in the county juvenile hurling final at the Fraher field on Sunday last. That final scoreline was a gross injustice to the gallant efforts of a Dungarvan side that conceded height, weight and, in most cases, age, to one of the best teams ever to win this championship.

The Blues led at the interval after a wonderful half hour's hurling, and entering the last quarter were still seven points clear. Ferrybank—the odds on favourites—just did not know what was hitting them, and a major upset looked in store. But then the stronger Easterners took over, and in a fantastic scoring spell which yielded six goals, the game was won and lost.

COLLIGAN ROCKIES MEETING

A meeting of the Colligan Rockies and Emmetts G.A.A. Clubs will be held on Monday night next, August 30th, for the purpose of drawing for the All-Ireland hurling tickets. Members interested should give their names to Paddy Walsh or Shamie Kirwan.

It was too, one of the most disappointing finals I have witnessed in this grade for a number of years. It attracted a fair-sized attendance, swelled no doubt by those anxious to see in action the team that had ousted the reigning champions, Stradbally. But from start to finish spectators were doomed to disappointment and the football was of such a negative and spoiling nature that one could not even offer the unsuitable conditions as a worthwhile partial alibi.

But Sunday was undoubtedly one of Ardmore's best forgotten days. Their troubles started early and when transport arrangements prior to the game went somewhat astray they were forced to start without Harry O'Donnell and Mee Wade. And if the introduction of this pair before the end of the opening quarter brought about some improvement, their attack was still lacking in guile and penetrative power to work through for a match winning tally.

In fact the greatest and most significant difference between the finalists was in the merits of the respective attacks. Whilst Ardmore had no one capable of creating the openings, the winners were well served in this respect. As with all Mount Sion sides they opted to keep the ball on the ground and had it not been for the stalwart efforts of some of the Ardmore defenders, they must inevitably have gone under by an even more substantial margin.

Backed by the breeze, the winners without exerting an altogether noticeable territorial advantage still looked the better side and they were good value for their 2-3 to 1-1 interval lead. But with the elements behind them in the second half I fully expected the Western standard bearers to achieve enough to make a thrilling and close finish a certainty. If anything Mount Sion dominance became more pronounced and this decider just dragged inexorably to an uninteresting end. Without being critical of Ardmore's efforts, the plain and simple truth is that they were not good enough on this occasion. They did not reveal the sparkling form that shocked Stradbally and had they succeeded in doing so they would have made the issue much closer. But this was Mount Sion's day and without reaching any great heights annexed the title with almost contemptuous ease.

MOUNT SION . . . Again County Minor Football champions

THE SCORING

After a brace of misses, the winners opened the scoring in the second minute with a point by Pat O'Grady. In the fifth minute, Tony Carlton from a free secured the equilibrium for the first and last time. Then in the seventh minute they fell into arrears which they never wiped out thereafter. Again it was O'Grady who did the damage, availing of a defensive blunder to smack the ball to the net. Twelve minutes later the writing was really on the wall for the losers when an other movement initiated by O'Grady was rounded off with Sean Dwyer fisting home.

Then in the 22nd minute came the first spark of Ardmore hope, when Cronin beat a wall of defenders and smacked a great drive to the net. But almost immediately . . . Sion retaliated. Dwyer and O'Grady tacked on points and then in the 27th minute the Seasiders lost a glorious opportunity of a goal when Jimmy Quinn fisted wide of a yawning net from just outside the parallelogram.

Whatever hope Ardmore had of a second half resurgence were dashed with early second half points by O'Grady and O'Rourke. O'Donnell pointed an Ardmore free but it was Dwyer who had the final score—a Monastery point in the 24th minute.

SOLID DEFENCE

The winners had a very solid defence, easily outclassing a weak Western attack. Their midfielders, Noel Kelly and Sean Dwyer held sway for most of the hour and in attack O'Grady, Flynn and A'Rourke took the honours. For Ardmore none played better than goalkeeper Jimmy Callaghan whose sturdy frame prevented danger on several occasions. And their defenders too never gave up trying with Paul Flavin, Noel Rooney, Patsy Mulcahy and Donie Murphy repeatedly catching the eye.

Their midfielders were forced to play second fiddle to the winners' pairing over the hour, by P. Kelly, P. O'Grady. Ardmore—J. Callaghan; R. Hennessy, P. Flavin, D. Murphy; M. Hennessy, N. Rooney, P. Murphy; R. Lincoln, M. Power; D. Lehane, M. Cronin, J. Quinn. Subs.—M. Wade for A. Carlton; T. Reilly, J. Pender, Pender, H. O'Donnell for Reilly.

Referee—Tom Ryan (Ballymacarby).
