Late Scores Made Affane Champions

AFFANE — — — 2-3;
BRICKEYS — — — 1-2

In a game that was as much a trial in human endeavour as it was a hurling skill, Affane became Western junior hurling champions for '65, when, on a rain soaked Fraher field, Dungarvan, on Sunday last, they inflicted a four point defeat on Brickey Rangers. As expected, it was close and exciting, with precious little between the sides, but in the crucial final ten minutes it was Affane who edged in front and scored a hard earned but deserved victory.

Sunday last was an almost impossible day for hurling, and it redounds to the credit of these finalists that they succeeded in serving up such an entertaining five. For long stages, particularly in the second moiety, it looked as though a replay would be necessary, but Affane had other ideas and their belated scores put the issue beyond any doubt.

Brickeys, as is their very tradition, relied on a tough and uncompromising brand of hurling. The day too was of greater disadvantage to Affane, who never relished the first time hurling of the fingers. But lack of fitness played a major part in the losers complete second half collapse, and over all none can deny Affane's right to this hour of hurling glory.

It was obvious at the half way stage that the Brickeyes were in real trouble. For, after having played with the strong breeze they turned over lead by 12 to 10, and this meagre two point advantage looked totally inadequate in the light of all the circumstances.

And when Affane equalised with a brace of points within six minutes of the restart, that half time contention seemed well founded. But then followed some heroic defensive work by the Brickeyes. For fourteen minutes there wasn't a score conceded by either side and followers of both must have been thinking in terms of a replay. But then, incessant pressure brought its reward for Affane and a point and a goal finally clinched it for the new and worthy champions.

As already stated, the honours rightly rest where they belong. For, gallantly though the Brickeyes played—and they lost no caste in defeat—Affane were undisputedly the better side. Certainly they were the more polished hurlers and had not the opposition rearguard been in such sparkling form, then they would surely have won by an even bigger margin.

THE SCORING
The Brickeyes started in tremendous fashion, and for the opening quarter pummeled the Affane goal. They deservedly jumped into a 7th minute lead with a point by Mattie Mulcahy and shortly afterwards Willie Terry added a second from a free. Continuing to dominate, the Brickeyes repeatedly bore down on the Affane goal, and when Patsy Murray belted the ball to the net in the 10th minute, one wondered if this championship was again going to prove the graveyard to the hopes of another highly fancied side.

But then the Affane defence inspired by a brilliant Paddy McGrath at full back, tightened its grip, and never again could the Brickeyes raise a flag. In the 24th minute came a really decisive Affane score when Billy Burns cracked the ball to the net, and thus they trailed by a meagre two points at the half way stage.

Now, aided by the breeze, the winners were not long in assuming control in the vital outfield sectors. Michael Cahill fired over a sixth minute point and within seconds diminutive Danny Coughlan flashed over a great equaliser. Then, it was however, that the Brickeye resistance was at the peak of its resistance. Their defence literally whipped on everything, somewhat recklessly at times, but nonetheless, their defence stand was superb. However, Coughlan with an invaluable point ten minutes from time gave Affane a lead of two minutes later Billy Burns crashed home the vital second goal from a centre by Mossie Connors.

AFFANE'S STARS
This, believe you me, was an Affane victory that was earned in the hardest possible way. That they stood up to so trying an hour as well as they did was marvellous in itself, and in victory they had their quota of stars.

Readily coming to mind is the name of full back Paddy McGrath, who gave as fine an exhibition of full back hurling as the venue has seen for many a day. But if McGrath overshadowed all others, he was given great assistance by Tom Stapleton, Jimmy McGrath, Goalkeeper Coughlan also contributed splendidly to the win. Midfielders Paddy McGrath and Bill Flynn got well on top in the second half, and in attack Billy Burns, the scorer of the two vital goals, Danny Coughlan and Mossie Connors stole the honours. The remaining trio Mick Cahill, Tony McCarthy and Tom Scanlon also played their parts in this great victory.

The Brickeyes certainly made this a top class final, and it looked for a period early on as if they would run riot. They were splendidly served in goal by Paud Donoghue, who, despite injury, lined out. And their defence was undoubtedly the top sector of the side, with Bill Spratt, Lar Curran, and Paul Killeen all in great form. Their players had their moments of supremacy, and in attack, Dan Woods, Willie Terry, Patsy Murray and Frankie Cooney tried very hard.

N.F.A. NEWS N.F.A. View On The Prices Bill

A price freeze they are calling it, but it is not really that at all. The Prices Stabilisation Order announced by the Government this week which deals with the prices and profit margins of 70 descriptions of goods for the next three months is clearly evidence of the Government's concern for our present depressing economic situation and of their willingness to take positive action to overcome it.

But when you dig beneath the surface, all the Order signifies is an appeal to the commonsense of manufacturers, importers and wholesalers. It asks for their co-operation in stabilising prices for the duration of the specified time, which may be continued if the Minister for Industry and Commerce thinks fit.

"We will have to make it work," said Dr. Hillery, on television the other night. This is the rub though. It seems that existing legislative machinery to make this Order enforceable is not adequate for the job. Under the 1958 Prices Act the Minister can establish a Committee of Inquiry and subsequently bring out a Price Fixing Order. The 1965 Amending Act empowers him to say that a firm may not increase their prices without giving three months notice, during which time he would examine their request for upping their prices. But the machinery now available to the Minister in a case where a firm disregards his Order, would appear to be almost unworkable. Already some snags have arisen in relation to the present Order. Outside the controlled areas a price increase of 2d. per gallon for producers of liquid milk, effective from 1st November, has been agreed for some time. But one group of milk producers in some areas have been told that in view of the Prices Order the increase would not now be granted. The N.F.A. Liquid Milk Group immediately contacted the Department of Industry and Commerce, pointing out that such cases were covered by Section 5, Sub-section D of the Prices Act, 1958, which states: "The Act does not apply to any of the following prices paid to producers or received by dealers at factories for primary agricultural products (including eggs, poultry, milk and milk products and horticultural products). There seemed to be a certain amount of confusion about the case in the Department and the Minister for Agriculture has now been asked to get a speedy ruling.

The President of N.F.A., Mr. Rickard Deasy, has some strong words to say about the new Order, particularly in relation to that old "bug-bear" the price of fertilisers. "N.F.A.," he said, "in the course of this year's Annual Review, established a prima facie case that the margins charged by compound fertiliser manufacturers, particularly in relation to compounds for tillage crops were excessive. In some cases margins run as high as 46% over and above the cost of constituent ingredients. Does this price freeze mean that vital raw materials of agriculture, the key indeed to all increases in production and productivity, are in effect, to be frozen at levels which we have already shown to be excessive?"

"I, therefore, repeat in the unequivocal way, our demand for an immediate inquiry under the Prices Act, 1958. We demand that in the public interest this should be a broad-based inquiry into all relevant aspects of the Irish fertiliser industry. "Something must surely be wrong in a situation in which the State pays the manufacturers a production subsidy to bring their production costs down to world level, while at the same time farmers are charged excessive prices for certain of the products thus subsidised."

To sum up, if the present Order is successful in bringing about badly needed stability to our economy it is welcome. N.F.A., on behalf of the agricultural industry, is more than anxious that our economy should be put back on an even keel, if only for selfish reasons; when our economy flags it is agriculture that has to bear the brunt. It is happening this year. It could mean that the present Order is the thin end of the wedge towards a wage freeze and an all-embracing incomes policy. As such, it would be doubly welcome.

THE RATES COMPAIGN
As the rate collectors work with greater zeal than ever before (confusing many farmers in the process), the N.F.A. campaign for a "go slow" to the payment of the second moiety gathers momentum. Latest counties to express support this week are Cavan, Westmeath and Wexford.

Meanwhile, reports continue to come in of rate collectors refusing to accept money for the first moiety which was received after the end of September. This may be acting within the strict letter of the law, but it surely not a very practical step if county councils are as short of money as they say they are. When farmers find themselves in such a position, they should send their money direct to the county councils, when at least they will have an acknowledgment on their hands.

The Association again stresses that this is not a fight on rates alone. The "go slow" on rates is being used merely as a weapon to bring to the notice of the Government and the general public exactly what farmers are suffering. What are they suffering? The answer is simply, falling incomes in an era when everybody else is rising and this in conjunction with all the other burdens, which their better-off counterparts in other sectors also have to bear, i.e., rising costs, rising rates, etc.

A letter dated October 20th, 1965, from N.F.A. to a number of organisations dealing with the agricultural side are such items as this year's figures to reveal £7 million the major portion of which goes to fertiliser and transport costs; £3.4 million which is capital for the Agricultural Credit Corporation; and there is even a sum for the Botanical Gardens, which is primarily for the pleasure of Dubliners.

Why is there always such emphasis on Government expenditure in relation to agriculture? Does the Government have to spend more on agriculture than on any other industry? Why is the picture always presented of grasping, conniving and lazy farmers forever satisfied to live off the backs of hard working urbanites? Why do our elected representatives so seldom refer to the fact that agriculture is the only industry which is pulling its weight at the moment and well on the way to surpassing its Second Programme target? Why is there such a reluctance to accord agriculture its rightful place as our basic industry and the one with the greatest potential?

If all these questions were honestly faced up to and honestly answered our country would not be in the plight it is in to-day.

Drogheda we all know about.

ten takes much longer. But, back to the £50 million. Taoiseach must take part of the blame for the misconception that is abroad about expenditure in relation to agriculture, for in the very same sentence, part of which is quoted above he went on to say that the £50 million was for the country a very considerable sum and one which involves a substantial transfer of income, by means of taxation, from the community as a whole to the farmer. The Government has professed itself as against the breakdown of our community into self-interested and self-protective segments, but a statement such as the above does not contribute anything to a spirit of greater harmony between city and countryside.

The Taoiseach would have been using the occasion to much greater effect if he had contrasted the rise in industrial incomes with the fall in agricultural incomes this year and then made a plea for greater understanding of the plight of the farmers.

Anyway, the fact is that State Aid to industry exceeded Government expenditure in relation to agriculture by £18 million last year. An undoubted fact on the agricultural side are such items as this year's figures to reveal £7 million the major portion of which goes to fertiliser and transport costs; £3.4 million which is capital for the Agricultural Credit Corporation; and there is even a sum for the Botanical Gardens, which is primarily for the pleasure of Dubliners.

CARLOW AND DROGHEDA DEMONSTRATIONS
Drogheda we all know about.

It is a guaranteed success even before it starts. But quietly and efficiently work is going on further down the province for the third of the mass protest demonstrations by farmers to be held in Carlow on Friday, 12th November. An active committee composed of delegates from Carlow, Wicklow, Kilkenny, Kildare, Wexford and Offaly has almost finalised plans for their demonstration.

The demonstrations, as nearly everybody realises at this stage, have been organised by N.F.A. to highlight the grievances of farmers in relation to falling farm incomes and rising costs. The first held in Castlebar a fortnight ago was a whopping success.

For the Carlow demonstration farmers will assemble in Barrack St. beside the Cattle Mart and march through Tullow St., College Street, to the Court House, Dublin Street, the Market Cross and return via the Tullow Rd., to Shamrock Square, where the platform will be cited. Assembly time is 1.30 p.m., with the parade moving off at 2 p.m. The speeches will commence at 2.30 p.m.

Mr. Seamus McCann of N.F.A. Headquarters, who is acting as Secretary to the Organising Committee, said this week that they expected 12,000 farmers to participate in the parade. Indicative of the enthusiasm of the south of Leinster counties is the fact that they have raised over £500 for the exclusive of the organising committee.

Friday, November 5th, Drogheda; Friday, Nov. 12th, Carlow. These are two key dates in every N.F.A. man's diary. They are the dates of the next two protest demonstrations by farmers against falling incomes and rising costs.

Now, a final word of Drogheda. All is now in readiness for the demonstration where county delegates confidently predict that more than 20,000 farmers will pack the town for the parade and speech-making. Assembly points for the different counties are all to the north of the town and the parade will move through the streets of Drogheda at 1 p.m. The demonstration proper will be held at the junction of the main Dublin-Belfast road with the Duleek roads.

ARDMORE SUPREME

ARDMORE — — — 6-5;
KILROSSANTY — 1-2.

As near perfect an exhibition of Gaelic football as one could expect to see, was given by Ardmore juniors on Sunday last, at Dungarvan, when they romped to the Western final at the expense of a gallant but completely outclassed Kilrossanty fifteen. They now await the winners of the Old Parish-Balkinmeela semi-final, but with all due respects to these sides, I cannot see them halting this superb football machine of the Seaside.

This was an Ardmore display revealing all that is precision in the code. They were resolute and solid in defence; they possessed a pair of high fielding midfielders and their forwards dovetailed and combined in a manner that would have done justice (and perhaps a little more) to their senior counterparts.

One must refrain from being critical of the Kilrossanty display. Their side was weakened from the one that carried them through the earlier rounds, and against superior opposition gave of their best. Nothing more could be asked of them. This game was as good as over after half an hour. During that moiety Ardmore, backed by the breeze, simply toyed with the Comeragh men, and they ran up 53 without a solitary reply.

On the change-over, Kilrossanty fared much better, and both sides scored 12 each. But quite obviously Ardmore were content to sit on their unassailable interval position, and the game ebbed to a tame and uneventful ending.

This was an Ardmore side without a weakness, with all sectors pulling their weight. But I'm sure I'll be forgiven if I single out Pato Keever, Gerry Dwyer, Michael Reilly, Tony Carlton and Matt Cronin for special mention.

Kilrossanty, I have already said, gave of their best. But they seldom had any chance of mastering an Ardmore side functioning properly fore and aft.

Mt. Sion Retain Title

Ballygunner Fail From Last Minute Free

MOUNT SION — 3-2; BALLYGUNNER — 2-4

TWO minutes remained of this close, but somewhat disappointing senior hurling final, at Tramore, on Sunday last, and Ballygunner, then trailing by a solitary point, were awarded a 21 yard free. But, inexplicably, John Hearne failed to notch the vital equalising point, and long reigning champions Mount Sion luckily carried off their 21st title. It was a brave effort by the youthful Gunners seeking their first title, yet, they themselves must shoulder the entire blame for letting the champions "off the hook," particularly in the closing quarter.

But if this decider produced a super-charged finish, it was over all a very mediocre hour's hurling. Yet, in fairness to both, one cannot be too critical, for the conditions on Sunday last were far from being conducive to good hurling. The Tramore pitch succumbed to the treacherous elements in a big way, with both goal areas well flooded and parts of the midfield surroundings also a sea of water. The attendance, too, was understandably small—in fact it must have been the smallest attendance at a senior decider in the county for many years.

There can hardly be any disputing the contention that Mt. Sion were a trifle fortunate to have retained their crown. They had their chances in the opening half, when aided by the very strong breeze, of establishing a commanding half-time lead. But this they failed to do, and when they turned over with but five points to spare, a Ballygunner victory seemed more than a possibility. But to Sion's great credit, they put up a magnificent defensive screen when the pressure was on after the change of ends. True, the Gunners had chances aplenty, but a goal-scoring obsession, with points being let go wholesale, proved mighty costly for them in the final reckoning. Territorially the champions held a definite first half advantage. But with Ballygunner goalkeeper John Warren inspiring a resolute defence with fantastic saves, Sion found it was becoming increasingly difficult to penetrate for scores. And at half time their tally was a meagre enough 2-2, to which Vinny Connors replied with a Ballygunner goal.

The second half, not surprisingly, now saw the Gunners in dictatorial form. But they, like Sion in the first half, soon realised that scores were not going to be easily come by. Yet, inexorably the interval gap was narrowed, and when but a solitary point separated them ten minutes from time, the odds were unmistakably on a shock reversal. Then it was, however, that the Gunners contrived their own downfall. Twice they failed to make profitable use of feasible frees, but it was their idea of trying fruitlessly for goals that proved the greatest folly of all. With Jimmy Byrne and Larry Guinan in brilliant form this gambit was almost certain to fail, and then, two minutes from time came the final blow when John Hearne missed out on that oh so important 21 yard free. He mis-hit his drive, and in the melee that followed the ball trickled harmlessly wide. Thus, Mount Sion completed a championship that for them could well be termed "the one point championship." They had but a point to spare over Ballyduff/Portlaw in the semi-final and now a similar margin of victory on Sunday last. And with this victory Mick Flannally carved his own particular niche in hurling history by capturing an unequalled fifteen championship medals in the premier grade.

The Mount Sion defence on Sunday last was top class, the sheet anchor sector of the side in fact. Michael Foley was very confident between the posts, and the half line of Larry Guinan, Martin Morrissey and Jimmy Byrne was seldom beaten. At midfield, Tony Forristal and Fintan O'Brien found the going oft times difficult, yet both helped considerably in victory. The attack was opposed by a defence that was uncompromising in the extreme. Flannally celebrated the great occasion with a fine display, and little behind were those other veterans Phil Grimes and Seamus Power.

They were brilliantly served by John Warren in the first half in goal, and he was equally successful when moved out field after the change of ends. And their defence certainly exonerated itself from all blame for defeat. The full line of Jim Phelan, P. Casey, M. Hearne covered their keeper at all times and the outer trio of Pat Sullivan, Tommy Hearne and Tony Cummins did a power of effective hurling. Midfielders James Phelan and Mick Gaffney were always trying, being particularly prominent in the second half, and John Hearne in his somewhat unaccustomed role of centre forward. Vinny Connors and John O'Brien took whatever honours were going in attack. Scorers for Mount Sion—D. Mahon, S. Power and S. Greene (1-0 each), and P. Grimes (0-2). T. Cummins (0-1).

The Board decided to protest strongly to the Minister concerned, as the Board had decided at a previous meeting to recommend that the law take its course.

Great Double for Abbeyside

JUNIOR: ABBEYSIDE — 7; TYCOR — 2
MINOR: ABBEYSIDE — 2; TYCOR — 1

Abbeyside United Soccer Club goes from strength to strength. On Sunday last at their home pitch their Juniors and Minors met Tycor in important League games, and obliged with a splendid double. The minors fell into first half arrears, but pulled out all the stops in the second half, whilst an early second half scoring spree paved the way for the Juniors crushing victory.

The minor tie was close and exciting throughout. But if Tycor battled gallantly, Abbeyside fully deserved their narrow win. It was a hard earned victory, but the winners showed great determination and at times a little skill. Tycor opened the scoring with a first half goal by Peter Freeman and they still held this lead at the interval. But on the turnover Abbeyside took complete control and goals by Seamus Fitzgerald and Brian Kennedy gave them their merited win.

an upright and Cowman tapped the rebound to the net. John Beresford had another in the sixth minute and seconds later Duggan made it 6-1 with a fine solo effort. Wallace pulled back one for Tycor in the 14th minute, but it was Abbeyside who had the final say with goal number seven in the 20th minute by Beresford.

This was yet another fine display by Abbeyside. When they really swung into irrefragable action in the second half there was no holding them, and they were in devastating form. Tom Cowman led the line with great dash, bagging two fine goals for himself as well whilst his inside men John Beresford and John Michael Duggan also helped themselves to a brace of goals apiece in giving great displays. Wingers Billy Mulvihill and Michael Lyons were also prominent.

When the issue remained wide open during the first half, the Abbeyside defence was at ten at full stretch, but was at all times the essence of confidence. In this sector John Woods, Michael Keohan and Paddy Whelan were outstanding.

Tycor's defence completely crumbled when the home attack found its goal scoring touch, whilst the best of their forwards were Waters, Wallace and Grant.

This win means that Abbeyside remain unbeaten in the Division 111 league. They have taken maximum points from their three games to-date, and are happily perched at the top of the table. The more difficult tests undoubtedly lie ahead, but if the team continues to play with the same determination, then this could be a vintage year for them.

The Abbeyside teams were:—
Minor: M. McGovern; F. Walsh; F. Dunphy; S. Fitzgerald; B. Kyne; J. Mulcahy; T. Flynn; T. Cliffe; L. Waters; P. Donovan; B. Kennedy.
Junior: J. McGrath; B. O'Grady; P. Whelan; J. O'Brien; J. Woods; M. Keohan; B. Mulvihill; J. Beresford; T. Cowman; J. M. Duggan; M. Lyons.

Dermot O'Brien and the Clubman

That versatile musician from Ardee, Co. Louth, Dermot O'Brien, is one of the best known personalities on the Irish Showband scene to-day. He is easily the most televisive personality and his successful appearances on "Jamboree" started him on the road to national recognition. His current Tuesday night appearances on T.E.'s "Lift of O'Reilly" are exceedingly popular from the publicity viewpoint. People always want to see television stars in the flesh and wherever O'Brien plays there are the usual mob of autograph hunters.

What kind of a man is this Dermot O'Brien? Has success gone to his head? Not in the least. He was successful in another sphere not so many years back when he captained a Louth team that won all-time honours, and success did not spoil him then. He came up in the hard school of endeavour and there was no room for dreaming. His first love was the 'box' and he is now the country's leading exponent on the piano-acordeon. This instrument is the big draw in the band and O'Brien's talented fingers can make it talk. He is equally at home on the piano and of latter years he has mastered the slide trombone. The real secret of his success is talent and he has gathered about him some of the finest musicians in Ireland. The Clubmen are immensely popular and they are not in the least bit overawed by the Dermot O'Brien image. Each man is a musician in his own right and collectively they have become one of the top box-office draws in the country.

Dermot O'Brien and the Clubmen are playing a welcome return date in the Collins Ballroom, Clonmel, on Thursday, 11th November, and dancing will be from 9 to 2.

BALLINACOURTY AND GERALDINES SEEK COVETED TITLES

ALTHOUGH the first senior football semi-final is down for decision on Sunday next, the Intermediate grade commands the undisputed pride of place in the day's attractive programme. For both the Intermediate hurling and football finals will be staged at the Tramore and Dungarvan venues respectively, and the irony of it is that they clash, for both are their task becomes automatically a more difficult one. At the time of writing, the Western champions have not made known their final fifteen. But such has been the manner in which they mastered Affane and Clashmore in turn, that the writer will be greatly surprised should they decide to alter that winning combination at this belated stage. They have been impressiveness personified, and the vast expanses of Dungarvan's Fraher field will admirably suit their brand of play. It is true—with the notable exception of this year's Western final—that they have the unhappy knack of falling from grace when the occasion demands the greatest from them. But this is a championship that they have had their hearts set on winning for quite a long time now, and somehow I can visualise them being at their very best on Sunday. Whether that (however, will be good enough on this occasion, remains to be seen.

Accepting that the selectors will pass a vote of confidence en bloc on the winning combination thus far, a run over the players will readily show the strength and balance of the side. Brian O'Connor, fully recovered from an injury received in the game against Clashmore, commands their net with confidence and as yet I have not seen the full line of Denny Barry, Mick Kiely and David Murray make any costly errors. Half back, too, they are adequately served by able footballers in John Cosgrave, John McGrath and Liam Enright. At midfield Fialie Hogan and Pat Enright have looked over all opposition to date. On Sunday they can expect a stiff trial of strength, yet it will take a really great pairing to eclipse them.

But it is to their attack that County followers will look to most for victory. The great has been an irrepressible come could well lay the foundations for a memorable victory. The half line of Vincent Byrne, Jack Elstead and Pat McGovern is full of potential, whilst Johnny Hogan, Duck Whelan and scorer in chief Tony Mansfield have been compiling the scores in all their games. Yes, this is a final that has all the ingredients for a football thriller. The issue is wide open, and whatever the outcome, the winning margin is likely to be small. It is one of those games that makes forecasting so difficult, but assuming that Ballinacourty reveal their true form, they can, I think, become champions for the first time.

GAELIC JOTTINGS

KILL MAY OUST ARDMORE

The first of the senior football championship semi-finals will be staged at Dungarvan's Fraher field on Sunday next (3.15) and this tie, together with the Co. Intermediate football final, should attract a huge crowd to the venue. The senior tie brings Ardmore and Kill into opposition, and this game promises to be the highlight of this entire senior campaign. Both are noted for their stylish brand of football, and though the writer will not go the entire way with the contention that this is the county final, the winners will certainly be firm favourites to take the title.

Twice in recent years these rivals have met in championship competition, with the score standing at one all. Ardmore, contrary to all expectations, were first to come out on top, by as clear a margin as five points. But two years ago, Kill got revenge on a day that was marred by torrential rain. This, then, is the rubber tie, and it promises to be a memorable encounter.

Ardmore, of course, have yet to capture a senior title, a state of affairs for which only themselves can be blamed. It is still a painful memory for them on reflection, at their defeat in last year's decider against Kilkenny—a game they should have won by the proverbial mile. It was in attack that they failed most that day, and had they possessed even two attack days worth of the name that day, then Tom Walsh's last minute Kilkenny goal would not have mattered.

Now, twelve months later, they have battled in the penultimate stage, and have openly avowed to stone for that '64 catastrophe. Their challenge must be respected, but all the time I have that feeling that as yet their attacking shortcomings have not been fully repaired. The answer will be provided in no uncertain fashion on Sunday.

Before ever a ball was kicked in this year's championship, it was glaringly obvious that Kill would be involved in the final shake-up. To date they have justified this rating, and good though the Seaside's may be, the Gully-led brigade must start favourites to qualify for another final.

In the opening round they showed they were a team, giving a masterly display in the process. But their second round triumph, different and vast in superior opposition, and indeed, with few minutes remaining, they were being held to level pegging by Stradbally. But then they took their inevitable toll, and at the end they had four pairs in spare.

Ardmore's entry to this semi-final has been gained by displays contrasting in merit. They were rather fortunate to account for Tramore in the first round, and this game again revealed that all was not well up front. But the second round brought improvement, and with it fresh hope, and Gully never had a chance of upsetting the odds. If this Ardmore attack can only click properly, then, even talent laden Kill may not be good enough to top their championship advance. But there remains that faintest doubt.

Defence-wise, there is little or nothing between the sides. Bolstering that Ardmore rear-guard are goalkeeper John Power, Willie Morrissey, Tommy Power, Bertie Hallahan and Paddy O'Connell, all of whom have donned the county jersey with distinction.

Kill, too, are well served in the rear, with outstanding footballers in Ger Mooney, Achill Lashin, Tim Whelan and Tom Mooney.

Can Geraldines accomplish the feat of Ballyduff Upper who twelve months ago almost to the very day, shocked Waterford Gaeldom by defeating their namesake club from the lower region of the County. On Sunday Geraldines too will be outsiders when they face Eastern champions De La Salle, but these Aglshers revel in the role of outsiders, and they will not hear of defeat at this ultimate stage.

Their march to this final has been marked with a determination that has been inspiring to say the least. This is a tough Cousidines team—what side ever to leave the parish hasn't been—but it should be remembered that they are mighty skilful hurlers into the bargain, and it is this apparent successful combination of factors that makes them so difficult to beat.

The first to fall before them were Fourmilewater, and then followed their complete annihilation of Tourin. But they were somewhat less than impressive in the western final, when Dungarvan's shortcomings in attack was as big a single factor as any in their three-point victory.

Their selectors will not meet until much later in the week to announce the result of their final deliberations, but this side of theirs is going to take a deal of picking. True, the goal-keeping and defensive sectors automatically pick themselves, for the brilliant Johnny Grady has no rival for the next mind-jogging job, whilst Ned Mernon, Bunny Ronayne and Billy Crotty, with Stylo Riordan, Jim Hallahan and Mickey Downing outside them form a really top class rear-guard.

A closer scrutiny of these men will readily reveal the strength of these departments. Grady, believe me, is in the top bracket as a goalkeeper and though the fulls may not be hurling stylists, they carry out the basic fundamentals of full back duty. Their outer trio are also amongst the most experienced of defenders. The great Stylo, with over a decade of top class hurling behind him still remains a dominant club man; Jim Hallahan, like Stylo has been mastering forwards for many years, and Mickey tall Willie Walsh, will operate in partnership with Jimmy Kinsella, and this pairing will take a deal of mastering.

Up front, too, there is power a plenty. Duggan, Moran, Sullivan and centre forward M'K Power have been wreaking havoc to date in this campaign, and it should be an intriguing set-to between them and that competent Aglish defence.

Reluctantly however, I must give the Easterners the vote. It will be close and exciting, of Downing, though of a newer generation, has the makings of a successful campaigner.

But in the remaining sectors will ensure them being at peak fitness, and as Philyagart have not been in action for several months, they can hardly expect to be properly match fit. It will be a big surprise should Ballinameela fail to advance.

deciders I would dearly love to see. At Tramore the Aglish Geraldines will be endeavouring to regain senior status at the expense of De La Salle, and this hurling final could well be the game of the day. The football decider, too, is an intriguing one, with reigning junior champions Rathgormack bidding to add the higher grade title to their credit at Ballinacourty's expense.

of the side there are no doubt of soundness, backed by John Barron at full back and the pivot Sonny Walsh. At midfield the star of the league game against Tipperary, edly question marks tailing the names of some. Midfield is one sector where things haven't so far been very satisfactory.

In attack the main scoring threat stems from Paddy Kenneally and Jim Kiely, and changes are almost certain hereabouts. For the life of me I cannot understand why Willie Joe Treacy has not commanded a regular place in attack to date, as on all occasions when introduced from the substitutes bench he was scorer of vital goals.

And what of De La Salle? Last year, too, they were the warmest of favourites to win out this championship, but seasonally crashed in the Eastern final. In that Division this year they made light of all opposition, and their impressiveness in that path of victory, coupled with the choice of venue, must make them favourites for Sunday.

Their defence is the essence that I have no doubt. And, knowing the Geraldine spirit, particularly when something big is at stake, I would not for a moment discount their chances of success.

Nevertheless, the De La Salle attack to me, at any rate, looks the stronger. Kenneally and Kiely have been carrying the responsibility in this sector for a campaign and it is surely a Geraldines right through the criterion of their real worth that they should have proved so successful to date. However, as I see it, the merits of the respective attacks may well decide this final, and on that assessment of affairs, I must opt for De La Salle.

BALLINACOURTY OR RATHGORMACK?
 The football decider at Dungarvan is no less intriguing, and this in fact, has the makings of a truly classic encounter. As intermediate sides go, these finalists are a class apart from the remainder, and given a dry sod we should witness a titanic and epic struggle for the coveted title.

Never before have Ballinacourty reached this stage in a football championship. In fact never before—this year excepted—have they even captured a Divisional title. But perseverance brings inevitable reward, and sheer justice was done, when 'Courty romped convincingly through the Western division this year. On their day they are a treat to watch; as good as any side in the higher grade.

The same can be justifiably

Footballers Retain Unbeaten Record

WATERFORD — 2-8; KILKENNY — 1-10

WATERFORD'S senior footballers are just one hour away from capturing sectional honours in the current National league campaign. On Sunday last they travelled to Plitown to face up to the challenge of Kilkenny, and after a hard-fought and highly entertaining game emerged victorious by a single point. Now they have only Wexford to play, and with the advantage of a home venue for that game there is every good reason for the optimism of followers throughout the county.

Sunday's game was played under appalling conditions with several sectors of this well appointed pitch covered with water. Yet, all credit to both sides, who at all times endeavoured to play open attractive football. This, under the conditions, was well nigh impossible yet the game was extremely exciting, being productive of a really thrilling finish.

It was a game that could well have gone either way, and certainly a Kilkenny viewpoint that a draw would have been a fairer result cannot be strongly disputed. But, nevertheless this was another heartening display, and for the writer's money at least were good value for their slender win.

Waterford had a tonic start when a drive from corner-forward Willie Connolly was deflected to the net by a Kilkenny defender. Yet, despite that gift score they could never shake off the Noreiders challenge, and at half time led by two points—15 to 0-6.

Then, within a minute of the restart Kilkenny jumped into the lead for the first time during the game. A well executed move ended with half forward Walsh cracking the ball home, and momentarily it looked as though Waterford's journey into enemy domain might be all in vain. But again Waterford regained the initiative, edged narrowly in front and then withstood some tremendous Kilkenny pressure in the last few minutes.

Because of a variety of circumstances, Waterford had to make changes from the originally selected line-out. In defence Ger Mooney was an absentee and his place at right half back was taken by Colm Bannion. A greater loss, however, was midfielder Monty Guiry and he was replaced by John Martin. Both proved more than adequate, yet Guiry's absence was felt all through.

The Waterford defenders enjoyed a definite physical advantage, and of the sextet the half line of Coim Bannion, Wally Connors and Noel Walsh, and full back Eddie Mooney, were best. Goalkeeper Paddy Crotty also made some fine saves, displaying great anticipation on a number of occasions. At midfield, Tom Flynn gave a superb display, looking the complete footballer in every way he did, and up front Willie Connolly, Tommy Kirwan, Jim Rooney and Tom Walsh took the honours. Kilkenny succeeded in playing their part admirably in this game, and all but saved the points in those hectic final minutes. They were adequately served in all sectors; brilliantly in some, and might, with greater accuracy in attack, have deprived Waterford of the very valuable league points. Scorers: Waterford—W. Connolly (1-3); J. Rooney (1-0); Flynn (0-3); T. Kirwan (0-2); Kilkenny—S. Walsh (1-0); T. Wilson (0-5); P. Larkin (0-2); J. Treacy, M. Morrissey, M. Meally (0-1 each). Waterford — P. Crotty; T. Walsh, E. Mooney, M. Tobin; C. Bannion, W. Connors, N. Walsh; T. Flynn, J. Martin, T. Riordan. T. Walsh, J. Rooney; W. Connolly, T. J. Hart, T. Kirwan. Kilkenny — L. O'Shea; T. Kenny; J. Hetherington, M. Brennan; M. Meally, M. O'Connell; J. Keogh; M. Meally, P. Leydon, J. Treacy, T. Brennan, S. Walsh; P. Larkin, T. Wilson, N. Morrissey. Referee—J. Canavan (Wexford).
