TO THE INHABITANTS OF MANCHESTER AND SALFORD.

G FELLOW TOWNSMEN-A Public Meeting is convened for the purpose of expressing the strongest assurances of attachment to his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, and the most ardent zeal in support of his Government.

44 This is a measure of party, and introduced at a time when you are suffering under distress and wretchedness unexampled in its extent and pressure, and anticipating its incalculable increase; when every rank of society, from the highest order in the State to the meanest of the labouring poor, is viewing with agony the impending and complicated dangers, which threaten our very existence as an independent Nation. Of the motives of those with whom the meeting originated, it is unnecessary to speak : but I address you from the solemn conviction, that by the success of the contemplated measure, not only your worldly interests, but your moral and intellectual character, would be laid prostrate-would be delivered, bound for sacrifice, into the hands of the Minister, and be immolated by him at the foot of the Throne—that the smoke of the offering might thicken the vapours of delusion, which, fatally for you, already surround it. This, however, will not be. I have no such melancholy anticipation. I look forward to the defeat of the attempt with confidence. My hopes in this are strong for the object of them is good. You feel the dis honour prepared for you, and will impressively condemn the sophistry and cant with which it may be recommended. " FELLOW TOWNSMEN !- With a national character of wisdom and magnanimity; with a form of Government calculated for comfort, protection, and happiness; with numbers of public men of andoubted talents and virtue; and with many and great resources, you behold your country sunk in reputation, degraded in rank, and pursuing those measures which will inevitably terminate in irremediable destruction and misery. The public mind is no longer ignorant of the cause. The cauker-worm of state, in piercing our feelings with agony, has at once roused us from a general and unaccountable indifference, and, fortunately too, opened a passage for the light. Darkness is now removed from the face of the deep. The rays which shot through the perforations of corruption have dissipated the clouds that obscured it. We now discern the dangers that surround us, and the misconduct that has produced them. We feel the necessity of concentrating our energies to repel the one, and protest against the other. The love and reverence we bear our country, and its laws, demand, on this occasion, a display of that unconquerable perseverance, which an exalted sense of duty inspires and animates. My Fellow Townsmen, if you are sensible of this duty, you will attend the Meeting on the 8th of April, and CONVERT THE RESOLUTIONS THAT WILL BE SUBMITTED TO YOU, INTO A CONSTITUTIONAL CALL UPON THE GOVERNMENT TO CONCEDE TO THE GENERAL WISH AND INTERESTS OF THE COUN-TRY, BY RENOUNCING THOSE FATAL PRINCIPLES HAT HAVE BEEN SO PREGNANT WITH CALAMITY.

" I have confidence in your wisdom, honour, and firmness; and trust that your conduct, calmly cooperating with the regenerating sense and spirit of the people, will restore this afflicted nation to its natural soundness and vigour.

" A WARNING VOICE. " Manchester, 2d April, 1812."

The following most inflammatory Posting Bill was put up all over the Town, which served to irritate the people to the highest degree, as they saw that the meeting was intended to revive the spirit of religious intolerance.

" ENGLAND EXPECTS EVERY MAN TO DO HIS DUTY 11! " Should you not this day give your support to the Prince Regent, you may, in a very short time, expect a revival of the days of Bloody Queen Mary, when your ancesters were tied to a stake, and burnt The active opposers of the present Government have pledged themselves to sanction the Popish Religion, and as Bonaparte is the head of that Religion, your universal cry should be,

" NO POPE BONAPARTE." The effect which these publications had was soon perceptible. The universal cry was found by the Junto to be hostile to their views. Having thus discovered, that they would not be able to carry their point, they determined not to hold their Meeting. It became necessary, therefore, to assign some reason for this to the inhabitants, but as they could not acknowledge the real one, they suddenly discovered that a room could not be procured fit for the purpose; that the stair-case leading to one was too weak, and another could not be obtained. It was consequently announced to the Public, by the following hand-bill, issued on the morning of the day on which the Meeting was advertised to be held, that it was not to take place :-

" Manchester, Tuesday Evening, April 7, 1812.

" The Boroughreere and Constables of Manchester having, at four o'clock this afternoon, received the following Communication from the Committee of the Exchange, beg leave respectfully to inform the Public, that the MEETING, appointed ing, CANNOT TAKE PLACE.

starving. The consequences, as might have been expected, were likely to have been fatal to the tranquillity of this town. On Saturday last, strong symptoms of insubordination were manifested by the lower orders of the people, but no serious mischief ensued. On Monday the populace, to the amount of 3000, went to Sandsfield (Port Car-liste), with an intention of unshipping several cargoes of corn and pointoes, that were destined to go coastways, but before they had accomplished their purpose, they were checked by the arrival of the military and several Magistrates. A judicious compromise took place between the Magistrates and the populace, on the former promising to use every exertion to repress the speculations of the baleful forestaller, with which the populace appeared per-feetly satisfied, as they knew that provisions, in that case, would soon find their level. All terminated quietly at Sandsfield, except that some of the Magistrates and Officers in the suburbs were assailed on their return, by women and boys, with a few stones. The soldiers were marched up to the mar-of people, many of whom were attracted by curio-chester. * The Committee of the Manchester Ex-CHANGE have been desirous at all times to accommodate the town with the use of the Diningroom on public occasions, but as the proposed MEETING to-morrow is likely to be so numerous as to endanger the safety of the STAIR-CASE, which is not calculated for a crowd, and upon which they had the opinion of an Architect, they beg leave to inform the Boroughneeve and Con-STABLES, that, as guardians of the property entrusted to their care, they cannot consent that the Meeting should be held in any part of the building. By Order of the Committee.

4 James Bruce, Master. Manchester, 7th April, 1812.

In addition to the above, we have received a vast number of letters from Manchester, confirming, in every particular, the alarming detail which we have ket-place, and followed by an immense concourse given; but we have only room for the following: -" MANCHESTER, APRIL 8, 1812 .- I am sorry to be the herald of unpleasant news, but I assure were hissed and hooted at on their retiring, when you Manchester, at the present moment, wears a truly alarming aspect. You are perhaps not unacquainted, that 154 of our great and loyal men called a meeting of the inhabitants for the purpose of ' moving an Address to the Prince on his assumption of the regal power, and to express their confidence in his Government.' You would be surprised to learn the soldiers under arms. After the lapse of a few the opposition this met with, and the numerous hand-bills which were posted up to that effect, calling on the People to speak for themselves. One ran thus :- ' Now or never! all those who do not wish for an increase of taxes and poor-rates, for a greater scarcity of provisious, and no work, are called upon to speak for themselves at the Meeting in the Dining-room of the Exchange, on the 8th instant.' In consequence of this formidable opposition, the Booughreeve and Constables thought fit to state the in the last stage of pregnancy, and wounded several Meeting would not be held; however thousands of people assembled this morning, and forced their way nto the Exchange, which was in a few moments entirely their own; after waiting some time, shouting and rioting, they broke every square in the Exchange windows, every table and chair, lamps inside and out, the picture, and every thing, and attempted to set it on fire. All the horse and foot soldiers are on duty, and I learn that several of the ioters are in custody. You have no idea of the confused state the town wears at this moment. The Scotch Greys are scouring up Cannon-street. " THREE O'CLOCK .- Where the disturbance will md, alas! who can tell? The people manifest a most outrageous spirit; they cry Now is our time to prevail on the farmers to sell the potatoes at the for a cheap loaf! and threaten to fire the ware- price of the previous market day. In this they houses. Little J was the most busy in call- were unsuccessful; and the consequence was, that ing the Meeting; he's sadly afraid, and not to be found; his warehouse is shut up. It is said the position, and either destroyed or carried away the mob are now gone to demolish the Portico, but the whole. military are off to protect it. The Exchange would actually have been on fire in five minutes; they had laid all the newspapers, the nice maps, and broken chairs and tables on a heap, when the soldiers arrived; the constables had before interfered, but they took their truncheous of them, and abused them. Mr. H. Berley attempted to get into the Exchange | City Officers. when they were breaking the things, and talked to hem, but they palled him into the street, threw him down, tore his clothes off, and abused him-you know he is a most worthy man. " Four o'Crock.-I have just been into the Exchange; it would really distress you to see what work is made there; they have actually demolished all they could. You no doubt have terrible accounts of this in London, and no doubt, too, much will be added. You may rely on the truth of all I have

" Wednesday, Eight o'Clock at Night. "I just learn that several of the rioters have been lodged in New Bailey Prison. The constables and military are parading the streets. The mob, inmall bodies, are still assembled at distant parts of the town, and appear to be refractory."

" Nine o'Clock. "The night is dark, and it is apprehended some mischief may occur before morning: the inhabitants are mostly afraid of fire, and many will not go to bed. At present, thank God, all is well, and I hope will continue so."

" Ten o'Clock. " An express has been sent to Liverpool for more troops. We are yet quiet." To the above, says a Morning Paper, it is pleasing to add, that we have seen a Gentleman, who left Mauchester, in the mail, at 12 o'clock on Wednesday night, at which time the town was quiet. CARLISLE, APRIL 7 .- For the last eighteen months, the operative Weavers of Carlisle and its vicinity have laboured under privations, and endured hardships, scarcely to be paralleled in times of actual scarcity and famine, on account of the inadequacy of their wages to meet the increased price of the necessaries of life. During the last five weeks the busy, but cruel, forestaller has been at work, buying up, both privately and publicly, provisions | put him and his family above the necessity of his of every description, and shipping them coastways | continuing a turnkey. This evidence was confirmto Liverpool and Wales. We allow that sterile ed by Mr. Newman, and by Mr. Hardy, Mr. Newdistricts should be supplied with provisions from man's confidential clerk, to whom Davis immediatemore fertile tracts of country; but without there is Iy communicated the attempt made upon his intedemonstrated scarcity in those districts, the obdu- grity. Mr. Newman also swore, that when the for to-morrow, in the Dining-room of that Build- rate forestaller, who, by his conduct, creates an Defendant, next after the conversation alluded to, artificial want, ought to be crushed. By the ma- called for Mr. Skeene, he (Mr. Newman) called the chinations of these sordid men, who batten on the | Defendant into a private room, and confronted him with that view, applied for the use of the large Room | tions in corn and potatoes have taken place, and by | but contented himself with stating, that he had of

Mr. Alley, Counsel for the Defendant, contend. ed that there were no words on the face of the ine dictment to support the present charge. There used be a specific criminal act alleged and set forth, intelligible language, on the face of the indictment. Here the crime charged was the endeavouring, "by every means in the Defendant's power," to seduce. Now it might so happen that all the means in the Defendant's power, though exerted by him to the utmost, might not be sufficient to constitute a charge of felony, in which case there would not be en tha face of the indictment such a charge as would support it. Such being the case, and there being hem no specific words which necessarily inferred criminality, the indictment, he submitted, must fall to the ground. The only other argument he could submit. either to the Court or Jury, was in mitigation of punishment. The crime imputed to the person whose liberation the Defendant was undoubtedly proved to have endeavoured to procure, was not one of those offences which were ranked among what are termed mala in se-it was not an offence ponishable by the law of God. At this moment, among the nations on the Continent, there were several where it was not regarded as an offence ranking among the higher class of crimes; and even in this country it was not till the last reign that it was made capital felony. The Defendant therefore might. owerer erroneously, have supposed that in promotng the escape of such a man as Mr. Skeene, he was not guilty of an offence at all to be compared with the offence of one who set loose upon the public a murderer, or a midnight robber. The Defendant. mode them, and the Officers went to mess, leaving too, he was informed, was a relation of the unfortunate Gentleman, whose escape he had attempted to favour-a Gentleman, except in the unfortunate instance which had occasioned his commitment, of threatened vengeance to those Officers who had, and the most unexceptionable character, and remarkable caused to be wounded, their famishing companions. only for his benevolence and humanity. Such a character could not have failed to be fully appreciatlate, when the populace had in a great measure reed, and his faults to be viewed with a lenient eye, tired, or were collected in small gangs, talking over by the Defendant, who had been a sailor, and who the occurrences of the day, the military fired sevepossessed so truly a benevolent heart, that he had ral rounds, shot a poor woman through the heart, twice thrown himself into the ocean, while the ship, in which he was, was under weigh, and had, on each men. Scarcely a house in the market-place, where occasion, been successful in saving the life of a fellow the affray took place, but exhibits marks, where the creature with whom he was not connected. The Defendant received an excellent character rom respectable witnesses. The Recorder, in addressing the Jury, expressed it as his opinion, that there was nothing in the objection to the wording of the indictment, which sufficiently pointed out an offence, and which offence had been clearly proved in evidence. As to thesituation of Mr. Skeene, his rank and prospects in life, and the powerful friends he had-they were all aggravations of his guilt, and of the offence of the present Defendant, who would have favoured his escape from public justice. What would have been said of the law of this country, the proudest boast of which was, that it took equal cognizance of the rich and of the poor, if this powerful and richly-allied man had been suffered to escape, while a poor man, for the same offence, incurred certain death.

The Jury found the Defendant-Guilty. The Recorder declared the sentence of the Court to be, after due consideration of the circumstances of the case, and to deter others from the commission f similar offences, that the Defendant do pay a fine of £50; beimprisoned in the gaol of Newgate for twelve calendar months; and do, at the expiration of that time, find sureties to keep the peace for

The Defendant addressed the Court, begging that hey would revise their sentence, and to banish him at once to Botany Bay. It had been truly said, that no man, however pure his principles, could expect on his return from confinement for any length of time in a common prison, to be an object of trust or confidence. For his own part, he was satisfied he could not long exist among such people as he had seen in Newgate. As to the fine, though he was a poor man, and wrought hard for what little he possessed, which was all earned by his own ten fingers, that he considered, comparatively speaking, as of no

The Recorder informed the Defendant, that the Court had already considered the case in all its bearings, and deemed the sentence which had been pronounced the lightest of which the case would admit, not in relation to the Defendant, whose sitution they deplored, but as holding out an example to others to beware of such attempts in the Cityof Landon.

Mr. Alley, on reckoning the Jury, observed that they consisted of 13, whereas 12 is the legal and established number.—On this ground he submitted, hat the verdict was void.

The Recorder said, the Defendant had the thir teenth in addition. One too few would have been fatal to the verdict, but one too many did not invilidate it. rules of the House. The Defendant, however,

Mr. Newman, with that humanity for which is distinguished, gave directions, the moment to Defendant was carried to prison, that he should be ccommodated on the State-side, in the mases most agreeable to himself.

Some surprise has been expressed at Bonaparte's not having yet set off for his army in Poland. The fact which we are about to state will do away that surprise. The rains have been so frequent and violent all over Germany, but particularly in the North, that the roads have not till lately been passable for heavy baggage and artillery. Bonaparte would not of course set off till all his artillery had got up, and every thing was ready.
