

Table with 4 columns: Stock Name, Price, and other financial data. Includes entries like 'B. & C. Stock', 'Irish Bank', etc.

The Waterford Chronicle. THURSDAY, MAY 13, 1830.

The London Mail of Monday has been received.

HIS MAJESTY'S HEALTH.

(From the Medical Gazette of May 8.)

Nothing can be more contradictory, or probably for the most part more incorrect, than the rumours in circulation with regard to the state of his Majesty. We have reason to believe that the statement lately made in the newspapers, that the disease was angina pectoris, is wholly unfounded.

While any irregularity in the heart's action and any impediment to the function of breathing continue, it would be absurd to say that the case can be free from danger, or that the risk of sudden change is not to be kept in mind.

(From the Observer of Sunday.) We are unable to add anything to the information we have already communicated to our readers on the subject of his Majesty's health.

We have from the commencement of our beloved Sovereign's illness, assured our readers that he was not in that imminent danger which most of our contemporaries asserted him to be.

(From the Age.)

We have from the commencement of our beloved Sovereign's illness, assured our readers that he was not in that imminent danger which most of our contemporaries asserted him to be.

The Court Journal of Saturday says, "It is with deep regret that we find ourselves compelled to discourage the hopes that recent reports and statements as to the King's health may have raised in the minds of our readers."

as to immediate and temporary relief: but we understand that they never expressed to the Duke of Wellington, or to the different branches of the Royal Family, an opinion in favour of his Majesty's perfect recovery."

Windsor Castle, May 9, 1830. The King has passed a tranquil night. His Majesty's symptoms are essentially the same.

(From the Globe of Monday.) No alteration for the better has taken place in the state of his Majesty's health; and the favourable anticipations which were entertained by some of the distinguished personages near the King have not been realized.

Windsor Castle, May 10, 1830. The King passed yesterday evening and the night in composure, with some sleep—but his Majesty's symptoms remain the same.

H. HALFORD, M. J. TIERNEY.

MR. O'CONNELL—THE IRISH REPRESENTATIVES AND THE LONDON COURIER NEWSPAPER.

If any proof were wanting to convince the vacillating portion of the Irish people that their provincial degradation is complete, the article which we copy from the Courier into this day's CHRONICLE, will, we trust, effect that conviction.

Those who know the relation in which this venal scribbler stands to the King's Ministers, cannot be deceived as to the source whence this audacious libel has emanated; and if the Irish Representatives shall not be roused to irresistible energy by this new indignity, put upon them by a contemptible hireling, but dictated by his employers the enemies of Ireland, they had much better retire at once from the British Legislature, return to their native country, and try if they cannot, in conjunction with the people, devise some plan of action, which, by constitutionally obstructing the progress of the King's Ministers in every measure that they may adopt, will compel them to pass an Act for the restoration of that Parliament which was sold by a pack of traitors, every one of which ought to have been strangled with the same noose that furnished the last dish of Gilderoy, the Scotch robber.

WATERFORD MEDICANT ASYLUM.

It will be seen, by an advertisement in this day's CHRONICLE, that a Meeting of the Citizens is convened to assemble at the Town Hall on Monday next. The merits of this most useful institution are a sufficient recommendation to the enlightened and humane, inhabiting this City; and it does not require any earnest entreaty of ours to induce a full and respectable attendance on that day.

MR. ADAMS'S BENEFIT.

This gentleman took his Benefit last Monday night, which was repeated on Tuesday night, at the instance of many respectable citizens. The most respectable and crowded audiences we have ever beheld at any public exhibitions in this City, on each evening, have amply testified the opinion entertained of his private worth and professional excellence.

AMAZING CONDESCENSION OF THE DUKE OF NORTHUMBERLAND.

The Freeman's Journal and Morning Register have described, in very appropriate terms, the perambulations of his Excellency, at stated periods, through the Metropolis and its environs, and, in a very animated and picturesque detail of his last Thursday's excursion, they have brought him to the brewery of that excellent Irishman, Mr Guinness, of James's Gate, where he inspected most graciously the entire process of the manufacture—looked most graciously into the porter vats—approved most graciously of the machinery and utensils, and most graciously declared his perfect satisfaction at the appearance of the whole concern.

The immense number of 14,500 pigs, from Ireland, have this season passed through the turnpike at Beckhampton, on their road to London.

CONTEMPLATED ANNIHILATION OF THE IRISH PRESS.

The Dublin Morning Post states, that "Government remains resolute in the determination not to recede a point in the proposed scheme of taxation for Ireland."

The Duke of Wellington and his necessary man, Goulburn, have never, in the course of their public lives, manifested, by a single act, their wishes to sympathize with the enemies of royal or ministerial tyranny, and why should it now be expected by the people, that these men will abandon their meditated annihilation of the Press, unless they are seized from the accomplishment of their iniquitous designs by the persons now conducting that Press.

The Duke of Wellington and his necessary man, Goulburn, have never, in the course of their public lives, manifested, by a single act, their wishes to sympathize with the enemies of royal or ministerial tyranny, and why should it now be expected by the people, that these men will abandon their meditated annihilation of the Press, unless they are seized from the accomplishment of their iniquitous designs by the persons now conducting that Press.

THE PRESS.

The following letter has been received from the Hon. Colonel Fitzgibbon, M.P. for the county of Limerick, in reply to a communication addressed to him by the letter-press printers of Limerick:—

Sir, I have just received the letter you have done me the honour to address me, requesting my support to the petition of the letter-press printers of Limerick against the proposed increase of stamp duty.

I am, dear Sir, your obedient humble servant, R. FITZGIBBON.

To the Secretary, &c.

The following letter has been received by the Secretary of the late Meeting of the Letter-press Printers of Cork, in reply to his request, that the writer of it would present to the House of Commons, the Petition of the Letter-press Printers, against the projected annihilation of the Stamp Duties.

My dear Sir—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of the petition from the Letter-press Printers of the City of Cork, against the new Stamp Duties on newspapers and advertisements, and I shall have much pleasure in presenting it to the House of Commons, and in giving to the printer of it every support in my power.

I have the honour to be, My dear Sir, Your very faithful servant, MR. HENRY BUTCHINSON.

However singular, yet the fact of a man's life being saved by a mail coach running over him may be ascertained by inquiry at Berkhampstead.

A labouring man returning home from a frolic, during the severest night's frost we had last winter, fell on the turnpike road, and remained insensible, and without power to move, till half past eleven, when he was effectually roused by a "friendly hint" from the hind wheel of the Birmingham mail, which grazed his head, and passed obliquely over his body.

REPRESENTATION OF DUBLIN.

Sir J. K. James, Bart. has declared himself a Candidate for the Representation of Dublin, in the event of a General Election of Members of Parliament.

VESTRIES.

To the Editor of the Waterford Chronicle. Sir—I have to apologise for troubling you with this letter; but well knowing that your patriotic Journal would give insertion to any production in the cause of an injured people, I have made bold to trouble you with the following lines:—You are aware, Sir, that a Vestry was held in St. Patrick's Church on Wednesday the 26th instant, for the purpose of examining the late Churchwardens' accounts—

The first dinner of this Club took place on last Sunday, at GRANT'S Hotel, George's-street. It would be an injustice were we to pass unnoticed the first convivial meeting of this useful Body.—About half-past five o'clock, seventy sat down to dinner.—MR. JOHN V. NUGENT, President. MR. FOSTER, Vice-President. After the cloth was removed, the Chairman proposed the following toasts:—The People. The King. The Dukes of Clarence and Sussex, and the rest of the Royal Family.

The Chairman thought the bare announcement of the next toast on his list was quite sufficient to ensure for it that reception it always met in a company of Irishmen. It was the health of Mr. O'Connell, and may be by successful obtaining a Repeal of the Union, as he was in effecting the Emancipation of Ireland.

WATERFORD HARBOUR BILL.

The Mayor has received the following letter from Sir John Newport, Bart. M.P.:—

Dear Sir—I have been yesterday favoured with your communication of the Resolutions adopted at a Meeting of my fellow Citizens, respecting the Waterford Harbour Bill, and immediately in compliance with their desire signified in Mr. Guinness, the Parliamentary Agent, and Mr. Mortimer, my refusal to take any further part in its progress, which, of course, closes the proceedings in the measure.

I am, dear Sir, your obedient humble servant, JOHN NEWPORT.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

We regret having to announce the death of William McCraith, Esq. of Linnahannon, under the following circumstances:—Thursday was the fair day of Bandon; and Mr. McCraith, according to his usual custom, attended. Throughout the fair were no less than from thirty to forty stallions, prancing and rearing about in every direction.

A melancholy accident occurred last week at St. Germain's, in the neighbourhood of Paris.—When General Nugent was driving a light carriage (caberle) down the hill in that town, the horses suddenly took fright, and the General being thrown down with violence, was killed on the spot.

GRADY ANA.—Chief Baron O'Grady, of the Irish Exchequer, possesses a fund of dry irony and severe humour. Among his caustic pleasantries may be noticed the following:—A Barrister, having on the trial of a pick-pocket, been employed as Counsel for the prosecution, for lack of any other, assumed a most imperious air, and took special care to reiterate loudly and frequently, for the edification of his Lordship, and the instruction of his audience, that he was Counsel for the Crown;—the Chief Baron bore this patiently for a time, till, at last, provoked by his pertinacity, when the pompous little gentleman, clad with the unwashed honour, again exclaimed he was Counsel for the Crown, his Lordship loudly remarked, "Yes, Sir, and I believe sometimes for the half crown too."

DINNER OF THE WATERFORD HOUSEHOLDERS' CLUB.

The first dinner of this Club took place on last Sunday, at GRANT'S Hotel, George's-street. It would be an injustice were we to pass unnoticed the first convivial meeting of this useful Body.—About half-past five o'clock, seventy sat down to dinner.—MR. JOHN V. NUGENT, President. MR. FOSTER, Vice-President.

After the cloth was removed, the Chairman proposed the following toasts:—The People. The King. The Dukes of Clarence and Sussex, and the rest of the Royal Family.

The Chairman thought the bare announcement of the next toast on his list was quite sufficient to ensure for it that reception it always met in a company of Irishmen. It was the health of Mr. O'Connell, and may be by successful obtaining a Repeal of the Union, as he was in effecting the Emancipation of Ireland.

MR. P. KENNEY, in his usual eloquent and energetic style, returned thanks in a speech of great length. MR. KENNEY again rose, and in elegant, complimentary, and eminently plain, proposed the health of the President, Mr. Nugent's services were so well known, that they needed little eulogy from him—they were known and appreciated by his fellow citizens.

The Chairman rose to return thanks. He could not at all conceive how he merited the eulogy bestowed by Mr. Kenney. He did more than his duty in opposing the Vestry bill in the men who had, after last week's proceedings, felt bound to call his fellow citizens. It was the special invitation of the Dean that he attended the Vestry in Trinity Parish.

The Mayor of Waterford, Bart. M.P.:—Dear Sir—I have been yesterday favoured with your communication of the Resolutions adopted at a Meeting of my fellow Citizens, respecting the Waterford Harbour Bill, and immediately in compliance with their desire signified in Mr. Guinness, the Parliamentary Agent, and Mr. Mortimer, my refusal to take any further part in its progress, which, of course, closes the proceedings in the measure.

The following letter has been received from the Hon. Colonel Fitzgibbon, M.P. for the county of Limerick, in reply to a communication addressed to him by the letter-press printers of Limerick:—

Sir, I have just received the letter you have done me the honour to address me, requesting my support to the petition of the letter-press printers of Limerick against the proposed increase of stamp duty.

I am, dear Sir, your obedient humble servant, R. FITZGIBBON.

To the Secretary, &c.

The following letter has been received by the Secretary of the late Meeting of the Letter-press Printers of Cork, in reply to his request, that the writer of it would present to the House of Commons, the Petition of the Letter-press Printers, against the projected annihilation of the Stamp Duties.

My dear Sir—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of the petition from the Letter-press Printers of the City of Cork, against the new Stamp Duties on newspapers and advertisements, and I shall have much pleasure in presenting it to the House of Commons, and in giving to the printer of it every support in my power.

I have the honour to be, My dear Sir, Your very faithful servant, MR. HENRY BUTCHINSON.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

We regret having to announce the death of William McCraith, Esq. of Linnahannon, under the following circumstances:—Thursday was the fair day of Bandon; and Mr. McCraith, according to his usual custom, attended. Throughout the fair were no less than from thirty to forty stallions, prancing and rearing about in every direction.

A melancholy accident occurred last week at St. Germain's, in the neighbourhood of Paris.—When General Nugent was driving a light carriage (caberle) down the hill in that town, the horses suddenly took fright, and the General being thrown down with violence, was killed on the spot.

GRADY ANA.—Chief Baron O'Grady, of the Irish Exchequer, possesses a fund of dry irony and severe humour. Among his caustic pleasantries may be noticed the following:—A Barrister, having on the trial of a pick-pocket, been employed as Counsel for the prosecution, for lack of any other, assumed a most imperious air, and took special care to reiterate loudly and frequently, for the edification of his Lordship, and the instruction of his audience, that he was Counsel for the Crown;—the Chief Baron bore this patiently for a time, till, at last, provoked by his pertinacity, when the pompous little gentleman, clad with the unwashed honour, again exclaimed he was Counsel for the Crown, his Lordship loudly remarked, "Yes, Sir, and I believe sometimes for the half crown too."

The Newp... and Co

A M... gularly... Monday... Post... ceptab... siding... of T... publi... Office... London

Bel... Jos... large... lished... time... the div... on Sir... of the... Humo... Life... equip... rivale... head... Chase... shoot... the F... his m... News... sale... of s... excep... gable... house... Sport... cally... away... Strand

The... New... Stran... at the... the... year... pursu... that... said... all... News... not... tend... stain... want... as T... is pr... new... it is... New... Lis... read... of T... a nu... of life... by an... Excu... on Su... blank write... year... led to... exilt... which... ed... fairly... casual... door... open... wind... midst... the g... beaut... lower... on a... barre... guard... secured... and p... chest... from... kind... in d... till a... conce... three... for b... auth... cleave... appro... priate... he ca... be us... party... had a... for it... iden... it, a... the... and a... boned... and... by the... have... groan... A... ome... hotel... to use... the d... my t... w... p... of p...