CLOSE OF THE 33d YEAR'S LIST THE LIFE ASSOCIATION OF SCOTLAND.

The Bonus System in Class A.

Designed with the view of Reducing the Expense of Life Assurance to the lowest sum consistent with security, has been eminently successful. Annual allocations of Profit are made in the form of Cash Bonuses, applied in part payment of the next premiums of all policyholders who have paid at least six premiums. This yearly Cash Bonus has never to any policyholder been less than 25 per cent. of his annual premium, leaving him to pay only three-fourths of the premium.

According to the Carlisle 4 per Cent. Tables, a Cash Bonus of 25 per cent. of the premium is equivalent in value to a Bonus Addition to the Sum Assured of so much as £2 10s. to £1 10s. (according to age) per annum for every £100 assured. Such Bonus Additions rank with the highest declared by other Offices, and certainly exceed the Bonuses of many.

The Bonuses in Class B are Unusually Large,

being reserved and accumulated for those policyholders who live till the average age of persons of their age at entry—that is, about one-half of the whole number. They are Bonus Additions to the Sum Assured, and have amounted at each of the past divisions to so much as £1 per annum for every £100 assured.

ENTRANTS BEFORE the 33d ANNUAL BALANCE

will secure special advantages.

CURE FOR ALL; HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

All sufferers from coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, and irregular action of the heart are earnestly recommended to rub Holloway's searching Ointment well over the throat, breast, and back, as the case may require, twice a day. It will be found to be a most efficacious remedy for all internal and external ailments of the throat.

BAD LEGS, BAD BREASTS, ULCERS, ABSCESSSES, WOUNDS, AND SORES OF ALL KINDS May be thoroughly healed by the application of this Ointment to the parts affected, after they have been duly fomented with warm water. Under the action of this powerful Ointment, aided by the Pills, the depraved humours of the body will be quickly removed; even scrofulous ulcers and foul sores, however old or inveterate, can thus be cured.

IN GOUT, RHEUMATISM, AND NEURALGIC PAINS This Ointment never fails to give relief. It very first application lessens the inflammation and diminishes both heat and pain. This soothing Ointment, by penetrating the blood on its route to or from the affected parts, promotes healthy action. In severe and chronic cases the Pills should always be taken, as they purify the blood and restore the vitality of the whole mass of fluids and tissues to a wholesome condition.

THE MOTHER'S FRIEND.—SKIN DISEASES, HOWEVER DESPERATE, MAY BE RADICALLY CURED. Scald heads, itching blotches on the skin, scrofulous sores or king's evil, and such like affections, yield to the mighty power of this fine Ointment, provided it be well rubbed around the affected parts two or three times a day and the Pills be taken according to the printed directions.

DROPSICAL SWELLINGS, PARALYSIS, AND STIFF JOINTS.

Many of the worst cases of the above diseases will yield in a comparatively short time, if the Ointment be diligently applied to the affected parts, even when other means have failed. Whenever the malady has been of long standing the Ointment should be assisted by Holloway's purifying Pills, which act upon the stomach and liver, guarding digestion against falling into that disordered state, which the pain, restlessness, and fever attending these ailments is apt to produce, and which much retards recovery, and sometimes even makes serious the slightest case.

PILES, FISTULAS, AND INTERNAL INFLAMMATIONS Persons afflicted with these distressing complaints will find in this wonderful Ointment in stant means of relief, and all can effect their own cure without explaining their infirmity to anyone. The Pills, if in small doses, greatly assist the Ointment, as they purify the blood, and regulate the stomach.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following complaints:

- | | | |
|-----------------------------|------------------|---------------|
| Bad Legs | Fistulas | Sore Throats |
| Bad Breasts | Gout | Skin Diseases |
| Burns | Glandular | Scoury |
| Bunions | Swellings | Sore Heads |
| Chilblains | Lumbago | Ulcers |
| Chapped Hands | Pile Hemorrhoids | Wounds |
| Corns (hard) | Rheumatism | |
| Contracted and Stiff Joints | Sore Nipples | |
| | Scalds | |

The Pills and Ointment are sold at Professor Holloway's Establishment, 533, Oxford Street, London; also by nearly every respectable Vendor of Medicine throughout the Civilized World, in Boxes and Pots, at 1s 1/2, 2s 9d, 4s 6d, 11s, 22s, and 33s each. The 2s 9d size contains three, the 4s 6d size six, the 11s size sixteen, the 22s size thirty-three, and the 33s size fifty-two times the quantity of a 1s 1/2 Box or Pot. The smallest Box of Pills contains four dozen; and the smallest Pot of Ointment one ounce. Full printed directions are affixed to each Box and Pot, and can be had in any language, even in Turkish, Arabic, Armenian, Persian or Chinese.

WILLIAM WILLIAMS, Secretary. Head Offices, Waterford Terminals, June 22, '72.

NATIONAL TESTIMONIAL TO MR. MAGUIRE, M.P.

On the completion of the Twentieth Year of his Parliamentary Services. A MEETING of some of Mr MAGUIRE'S Constituents, convened by the Mayor's Circular, and held at the Chamber of Commerce, Cork, on Thursday, the 15th February last, it was proposed by WILLIAM WILLIAMS, M.P., seconded by JOHN NICHOLAS MURPHY, D.L., and unanimously resolved:—

- That for the greater part of a generation Mr Maguire's talents, talents, and energies, have been almost exclusively devoted to the public service, with a zeal that never flagged, and a fidelity that never failed, and an ability that did honour to his country, and largely contributed to every legislative amelioration. That it is therefore, desirable on public grounds to give practical evidence that his constituents and his country appreciate and reward a fidelity that never failed, and an ability that did honour to his country, and largely contributed to every legislative amelioration.

Since the above Meeting was held over Four Thousand Pounds have been subscribed in various parts of Ireland; and sub-criptions are now being organised in the chief cities of Ireland, as well as in England, Scotland, America, and Australia.

The following are Extracts from Letters received from Catholic Prelates in commendation of the project: (From the Cardinal Archbishop of Dublin). In my opinion a national debt of gratitude is due to Mr Maguire for distinguished services, rendered in and out of Parliament, to our Country and to our Church.

(From the Archbishop of Westminster). I have great pleasure in uniting with the Bishops and faithful in Ireland in presenting to Mr Maguire an expression of our gratitude, for his long and faithful services.

(From the Archbishop of Cashel). Though to his great credit it has been set on foot by his fellow-citizens in Cork, we may trust that Irishmen at home and abroad, will cordially join in this testimonial to their distinguished countryman, as a recognition of public services, not confined to the City or County of Cork, but rendered to the Nation at large.

(From the Bishop of Cork). A Member of Parliament is not a mere delegate to watch over the interests of a restricted locality. His higher functions are as one of the representatives of the nation, to promote the general welfare of his country.

(From the Bishop of Ross). Any word of approval from me of the useful Parliamentary career of Mr Maguire could not in the slightest degree add to the well-deserved compliment inaugurated to him so successfully in the City and in the County of Cork, which cannot but find a hearty response throughout the length and breadth of Ireland, for in him we have the advocate of Catholic Ireland in Parliament.

(From the Bishop of Drogheda). May I ask you to add the enclosed five pounds as my subscription towards the well-merited National Testimonial to Mr Maguire.

(From the Bishop of Down and Connor). No man has behaved, during his long and useful Parliamentary career, with greater zeal and ability, with more disinterestedness and unflinching labour, or with greater personal independence and effective influence among all creeds and classes, and I may add, too, with the best results to others, than he has done.

EDITORIAL CLIPPINGS.

The great Japanese Embassy, now at Washington, will embark at Boston on the 6th of August, direct for Liverpool, whence, after a short stay, it will proceed to London.

A Supplementary estimate, for the purpose of National education in Ireland for the year 1872-3 has been issued: The total amount in excess of the estimate for former years is £100,091. The salaries of the teachers are to be increased, and payment by results is to be substituted for good service salaries and gratuities.

The committee on chapel affairs of the English Wesleyan Conference, met yesterday in London. The report showed the income of the fund to be £8,079, being an increase of £586. In the building department 386 erections have been sanctioned, at a cost of £306,727, and 270 erections have been completed, at a cost of £205,363.

The cholera is increasing at St Petersburg; 88 fresh cases and 31 deaths were registered on the 18th. The number of persons then under treatment was 368, making, with 239 deaths and 112 recoveries, a total of 119 attacks since the outbreak on the 23rd June.

Thirty-eight Irish members supported the motion for the adjournment of the Galway debate on Friday night, and in the list we find the names of Mr Blennerhassett, Mr Guet, Mr Maguire, Mr Mathews, Mr Munster, The O'Donoghue, Mr Synan, Col White, Sir Colman O'Loghlin, and Mr McCarthy Downing. Twenty-nine Irish members voted with the majority, amongst whom were Mr Chichester Fortescue and Sir Colthurst.

The "Cork Examiner" says:—The competition between Cork and Waterford for the honour of receiving the Royal Agricultural Society next year has been decided in favour of our spirited rivals. The matter was considered at the meeting of the Council of the Society last Thursday, when the advantages of Cork were set forth in seductive terms by the Mayor and Mr Smith Barry, M.P., but the eloquence of our representatives failed to overcome the unfavorable impression produced by the spathy displayed by our public bodies, and the Council prudently decided to go where they were sure of a hospitable reception. When it came to a division, there were fifteen for Waterford and only three for Cork.

The annual report of the Commissioners of National Education in Ireland is just issued. From this it appears that on the 31st of December, 1870, there were 6,806 schools in operation, which had on their rolls 998,966 children, with an average daily attendance for the same period of 350,899. At the close of 1871 the number of schools in operation was 6,914. The total number of children on the rolls within the same year was 1,021,700, and the average daily attendance of children for the year was 363,850. There was, therefore, an increase of 22,701 on the rolls, and of 4,851 in average daily attendance.

WATERFORD HARBOUR—OPENING THE BAR. The opening of the Bar at the mouth of Waterford Harbour has long engaged the attention of our most active merchants and ablest scientific men. The deepening of the Ford was a work which was carried on under much difficulty, and which involved unavoidable delay; but it has been completed, and the result is already perceptible. The removal of this shoal, however, would have been of comparatively little importance, and certainly of no consequence, if the harbour shoal were to remain in its present position. The gentlemen who constitute the Harbour Board, although they are vilified, maligned, and sneered at, are men of practical experience and active business habits. They saw at once the absolute necessity of removing the Bar, which is an obstruction to vessels entering the harbour of Waterford, which is in reality as much the harbour of New Ross as of Waterford. They perceived the advantages of Waterford as a Port of Call and Harbour of Refuge for foreign ships, and they determined that it should be rendered as such. With this view they went to Parliament for a Bill and to the Board of Trade for a loan to deepen the Bar preliminary to erecting a Dry Dock in Waterford, which would bring thousands annually to our port and city. It is well known that several ships leave this port for the purpose of cleaning and repairing at the other side of the Channel, when the masters of these vessels would gladly avail themselves of the Dry Dock which Waterford might easily afford. A sharp and stern fight was made against the removal of the Bar by the New Ross men, who were ably represented by Messrs Carr and Son, who have acquired a high reputation for the manner in which they conduct every case which they undertake. As for our friend of the Mail, he spoke, acted, and has written "bankum" on this important question. After all the New Ross gentlemen will only form a thirteenth part of the representation on the new Board, and they will contribute about one-eighth to the funds. It must be borne in mind that the Ross Commissioners cannot interfere with the regular business of the Harbour Board, and they can only have a voice in what effects the new toll. The money paid them for their expenses comes out of the new dues, and therefore they must in reality pay their fair proportion towards the cost of deepening the Bar. We may add that the highly-coloured picture of the evidence before the committee of the House of Lords must be taken cum grano sales, for Mr. Slattery did not interchange a word with Mr.

Carew as to his being delegated by the Bar Shoal Committee to represent that body before the Committee of the House of Lords. The correspondent of the Mail must have been labouring under a strange hallucination when he said so. It is hardly necessary to say that Mr Slattery would be the last man to be guilty of assumption, and the creditable and highly-satisfied factory man in which he discharged his duties as Chief Magistrate of Waterford bear ample testimony to his integrity and the desire which he has uniformly evinced to promote the interests of the city. We may say, by way of supplement, that the whole affair was decided by the Committee without clearing the room, notwithstanding the long statement of Mr Fisher, who figured so conspicuously in opposition to the proposed improvement. On the whole, we rejoice that the Bill has passed, and we trust that the removal of the Bar will be duly preliminary to other improvements.

WATERFORD, DUNGARVAN, AND LISMORE RAILWAY.

By reference to our advertising columns it will be perceived that on Thursday next two highly important meetings will be held in Waterford for the purpose of promoting the line of railway from Waterford to Lismore, passing close to Dungarvan. The energy and public spirit of a number of city and county gentlemen secured the show of the Royal Agricultural Society for Waterford, and we hope that the same estimable qualities will be brought to bear in procuring the projected county railway to a successful issue. The city, we are sure, will do its part, and the county will not be backward. Lieut-Colonel the Hon. Villiers Stuart, D.L., has thrown himself heart and soul into the movement; and whatever he undertakes is sure, from his earnestness, to succeed. With his invaluable aid and that of the esteemed agent of the Duke of Devonshire, F. E. Curry, Esq., Mr. Delahunty, M.P., and other gentlemen, we are sure that the line will be rapidly completed.

THE ROYAL AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY. We were able to announce last post that Waterford gained the holding of the Show of the Royal Agricultural Society of Ireland in this city in 1873. The Cork journals are piously rabid at the spathy of their own city and county inhabitants; and are dolorous in contrasting the energy of Waterford with the supineness of the "fair city." It only proved that Cork has met the fate of all those who rest on their cars, and we trust the lesson will not be thrown away on Waterford: Sir Robert Paul, the Mayor, Mr. St. George Freeman, T.C., and other gentlemen, deserve the highest credit for their zeal and energy in bringing about this desirable result; whilst the activity of the Honorary Secretary Mr. E. S. Kenney, cannot be too highly lauded. He was untiring in his exertions as were all the gentlemen connected with the movement. We trust the committee which is to be formed on Thursday will exert themselves to the utmost to render the Show worthy of Waterford in every respect.

DEATH OF SIR JAMES O'CONNELL. Traler, Monday.

On yesterday morning Sir James O'Connell, only surviving brother of the Liberator, died at his residence, Lakeview, near Killarney, in his 84th year. In the politics of Kerry Sir James took a most important part for the greater part of his life, and though he was not what may be called an advanced politician, yet he was highly respected by his political opponents. As a grand juror none in Kerry was more respected. His comprehensive mind at once took in the most abstruse questions, while his retention and love of adding statistics in support of his argument made him a formidable opponent. His pungent satirical remarks are proverbial here, his dealing with his tenantry was highly honorable, no landlord acting on the motto that property has a duty as well as its rights, with more consistency than Sir James. His death has cast a gloom over this county.—Evening Telegraph.

OPENING OF THE NEW BELLS.

On Saturday, eight members of the ancient Society of College Youths, London, established A.D. 1837, achieved a true peal of Grand and Tripples, containing 5040 changes, in three hours and four minutes on the above bells, being "the first peal rung in Ireland." Performers were:—William Cooter, Treble; Charles Lee, 5th; James Pettit, 2nd; M. A. Wood, 6th; J. Robert Harris, 3rd; Arthur Hayward, 7th; George Masket, 4th; Wm Greenleaf, tenor.

Weight of Tenor, 20 cwt. The above was Mr John Holt's original peal, and was conducted by Mr. James Pettit.

The Tipperary Militia arrived in Waterford this day, and proceeded to Clonmel.

The Waterford Amateur Brass Band performed a choice selection of airs last evening on the London stage, before a very large concourse of people.

THE POTATO BLIGHT.—Unmistakable symptoms of the potato blight have shown themselves in this neighbourhood. Up to the present it is confined to a few cress gardens, and has not yet shown itself in the open fields.—Clonmel Chronicle.

We understand there will be a Regatta in Dunmore about the middle of August.

THE MICHIGAN.—On the recommendation of Viscount Lismore, Lieutenant of the county, the Lord Chancellor has appointed Alderman William Byrne, of Clonacorney, to the Commission of the Peace for the County Tipperary.

THE SISTERS OF MERCY, CARPENTER.—The bazaar in aid of the Industrial Schools under the care of the Sisters of Mercy, is postponed to Tuesday and Wednesday, the 3rd and 4th of September.

The third Letter of our "Own Flaneur en Voyage" has come to hand. It will appear in our next.

The letter of Mr O'Beirne will appear in our next.

The lines of "E.L.B." on the new bells, have been received.

MEETING OF FISHERY CONSERVATORS.

A meeting of the fishery conservators of Waterford and the surrounding district was held on Monday, in the Grand Jury Room of the County Court House, Waterford.

The chair was occupied by Sir R. J. PAUL, Bart. Also present—Major Hayes, T. Elliott, Dermot O'Donoghue, Clonmel; E. Roberts, J. P.; J. L. Worrall, Clonmel; E. Power, J. P.; E. Carr, New Ross; William Doran, E. A. Byrne, New Ross; James Poe, Kilkenny.

RESIGNATION.

In reply to Mr Roberts, Mr. Wall, secretary, stated that the resignation of Mr Worrall was to be considered. Mr Worrall said that the present state of affairs in Clonmel left him no other alternative than that of resigning the office of conservator. One reason why matters could not be properly carried on in Clonmel was to be found in the fact that it had become impossible to secure the services of any man as water bailiff who could be relied upon. He also had to complain of the interference—some of the conservators in matters taken in hand by him. Prosecutions for poaching have become useless, for they are never followed by convictions. It was utterly impossible for him to carry on anything there. He had discharged all the water-bailiffs, after paying them as far as he could; and there was now no p. o. tention. It further appeared, from Mr Worrall's statements, that for some action of his in relation to fish, some parties had summoned him, and succeeded in getting him fined 15s (laughter). He refused to be fined, in order that he might appeal to a superior court, but they would not (increased laughter).

Mr Elliott—They could not refuse you a case at Queen's Bench.

Mr Worrall—There is a case before them now, and they will not decide it at all. There is great scope for poaching in Clonmel. Major Hayes hoped Mr Worrall would be induced to withdraw his resignation. He would be a great loss to the district.

Mr Worrall—What is the use of trying to do any good when the magistrates who fine parties will pay the fines themselves (oh, oh).

Mr Elliott—I hope there is no reporter here (laughter).

Mr Worrall—I wish there was; it is enough to disgust anybody.

Mr Dermot O'Donoghue was of opinion that to stop, or make an attempt to stop, cot-fishing would be a move in the right direction. He believed that no Act of Parliament justified cot-fishing in fresh water.

Mr Elliott considered that it was the public right—and one that had been exercised for 20 years before the passing of the Act—which entitied them to prevent poaching, and believed that any attempt to stop the same would be as useless as improper.

This was the signal for a long, though not interesting, discussion between Messrs Elliott and O'Donoghue as to the legality or the reverse of the suggestion thrown out by the latter gentleman. When the dialogue had terminated, the Chairman read a resolution that had been handed in, requesting that Mr Worrall might be pleased to remain a member of the board.

This resolution, which was proposed by Mr Byrne and seconded by Mr Elliott, was then passed unanimously, but, though a compliment, failed to have any influence in changing Mr Worrall's determination to resign.

THE SHEASTOWN FISH PASS.

For a long time back, as appeared from correspondence received by the secretary, Mr O'Shea of Sheastown, has been urging the board to make good damages done to this fish pass, for which he holds the Board of Conservators responsible. Nor does it appear to be denied by the board that Mr O'Shea, at least to a certain extent, is justified in his action in the matter.

Speaking on this subject at the meeting on Monday, Mr Dermot O'Donoghue said—It occurs to me that, as we are out of funds just now, we should do something of this kind in the matter: Let us recommend that when the funds are to be distributed in November—for we are out of funds at present—a sum in gross should be allocated to making good this fish pass, provided that the gentlemen of the upper waters would add a certain sum to it; and that the entire amount be handed over to the Inspectors of Fisheries, as they could put a fish pass in it. If that were done, I think Mr O'Shea would expect no more.

Mr Carr read a blank form of resolution he had drawn up, in which was embodied the foregoing remarks.

Mr Elliott—Let £10 be added by this board to whatever the gentlemen of the upper waters will subscribe towards making a fish pass.

Mr Roberts—Oh, ten fiddlesticks!

Major Hayes said that, if he remembered rightly, he had heard that £25 would meet the expense.

Mr Robert Dobbyn, solicitor, said he had heard a gentleman tell Mr Wall that it could be done for £60. It ought to be seen to at once, as it was getting worse and worse every day.

Mr Elliott—It ought to be made by the upper water people.

Major Hayes said it also affected the lower water people.

Mr Roberts considered that if it could be ascertained what the gentlemen of the upper waters would be likely to subscribe the board could then consider whether it would make good the remainder of the sum required, and the work might be commenced at once, the board paying its portion in November.

It was finally resolved to give £20, when available, towards making a fish pass at Sheastown, the remainder of the expense, to be defrayed by subscriptions from private parties.

WATERFORD CATHEDRAL BELLS.

On Friday afternoon the inauguration of the new peal of bells took place at the above Cathedral, which event was witnessed by an unusually large congregation, who seemed to take the deepest interest in the proceedings. On last Christmas Eve the idea was first mooted to have a new peal of bells in lieu of the old peal, which was incomplete, of a very inferior quality of tone, and almost worthless for ringing purposes. With this object in view a committee was formed, and Messrs. Ridgway and Goff and Dr. G. I. Mackesy having kindly consented to act as secretaries and treasurer, a public subscription list was opened and a considerable sum collected. The order was shortly afterwards given to Messrs. Meares and Stainbank, the eminent bell founders of Whitechapel, London, and without exaggeration Waterford can now boast of one of the finest peals of bells in Ireland. The first musicians in the city assert the new bells cannot be surpassed for quality of tone and tune, and the members of the Society of College Youths—whose extraordinary performance on Saturday evening we will further allude to—can also bear testimony to the rich and mellow tones of the bells, and the admirable and ingenious manner in which they have been hung by Mr. W. Warskitt. As a proof of the great power of the Bells, it may be mentioned that their sweet tones were heard miles away in the country. It having been decided to inaugurate the new Bells in a suitable way, was commenced at three o'clock on Friday, in presence of a very large congregation, the attendance of the clergy being exceedingly numerous. The prayers were taken by the Rev. Dr. Benson, of Dublin, and lessons appropriate to the occasion were read by the Ven. Archdeacon Kyland. The singing of the psalms, psalms, the responses, and Goss's beautiful anthem, "O give Thanks unto the Lord" displayed the state of efficiency arrived at by the choir under the energetic organist, and choirmaster, Mr. J. M. Morland. The earnest and hearty manner in which the large congregation joined in the singing is a proof of how much this important feature is cultivated. Prayers, having concluded, the Very Rev. E. N. Hoare, A.M., Dean of Waterford, then ascended the pulpit, and preached the following appropriate taking as his text Numbers x chap. 1, 2 v. v. "And the Lord spoke unto Moses, saying, make thee two trumpets of silver, of a whole piece shalt thou make them, that thou mayest use them for the calling of the assembly." In these words we find that Moses, the servant of God, was ordered by Divine command to provide silver trumpets, to be sounded for calling together the congregation of Israel to the special convocations for the worship of the Almighty. Thus we have the principle sanctioned by highest authority for making use of costly instruments in the assembling of the people together; and this principle is carried out by the Christian Church, and has been, for the last 1500 years, by the use of "metal bells" instead of "silver trumpets" and the scripture in which you were appointed has been equally chosen for the first lesson on this occasion. We have met together, my friends, this afternoon for the purpose of dedicating to the service of God the Bells which have been provided so liberally for this Cathedral; and I desire to take the opportunity of acknowledging the kindness and liberality of those who have by voluntary contributions forwarded this good work. You have thus evinced your zeal and love for that branch of the Church of God which has been planted in this land, and have manifested that, although the Church of Ireland is no longer established or endowed by the State, yet it is established in the hearts of the people, and I trust will be found to be endowed with heavenly gifts, and be made the blessed instrument, in God's hands, of bringing many souls to eternal salvation through Christ. It is a source of joy and thanksgiving to God that we see the laity coming forward thus to testify their love for the Church; and that more than ever since it has ceased to be upheld by the State. Of this we have abundant proof in the services of this Church, which have been so greatly improved since the disestablishment; and we have this day met together to receive, and to dedicate to the service of God, a new peal of Bells, which has been long wanted in the lower part of this Cathedral. In older times of medieval superstition it was customary to adorn the bells of churches with oil, and to exorcise and bless them; but the only dedicate, then to the service of God and His Church, which we consider sufficient, and, at the same time, both suitable and booming. But it is seriously objected by some, that we should not dedicate Bells thus to the service of God and His Church, because the Roman Catholic baptize and anoint their Bells. The same argument, however, might be used as a reason for not having the Lord's Supper because Roman Catholics believe in Transubstantiation, and that in this Sacrament there is an offering for the sins of the living and the dead. Neither should we have Baptism, because Roman Catholics use oil and ceremonies for the purpose of exorcising and anointing the newly-baptized. Agoing on in this way, we might object to Charities and good works on the ground that Roman Catholics, and too many Protestants, believe that they thus earn eternal life. It is manifest, in fact, that we cannot be obliged, like some professing Christians, to give up all sacraments, and rites and ceremonies, and holy orders, inasmuch as all these have been, and are, perceived by many. But while our Church avoids the superstitious usages of the Church of Rome, it equally keeps clear of the slovenliness of the Puritans, observing the Apostolic and Scriptural rule, that all things pertaining to the worship of God should be "done decently and in order." We know of how great importance the ornaments, the sacred vessels, and even the dress of the High Priest, were considered under the law, and how they were carefully appointed by God Himself, and with what particularity of pattern and of material they were commended to be made. These things were, we know, all typical, and as such were done away in Christ, who is the end and the fulfillment of the law; but may we not argue that what was thus so minutely appointed and ordered by God Himself, cannot of themselves be wrong? We should give to God and to His service of our best, and dedicate all to Him, and that "not grudgingly or of necessity, for God loveth a cheerful giving." While we give ourselves in coiled and comfortable hours, it is only meet and right that we should not leave the house of God desolate. These bells which this day inaugurate are intended to summon the people to the house of prayer; and, brethren, let us pray that the Lord, who by the mouth of His servant Moses did command to "make two silver trumpets" for the convocation of solemn assemblies, may be pleased to accept these bells, which we dedicate to His service, and to grant that the present generation, and generations to come, may continually be so called together, as His faithful people to praise and worship His holy name. Let us pray that when they bid to His house of prayer we may have willing hearts to obey the call. Let us pray that the marriage peal, which may be rung on these bells may remind those who are united by earthly bonds that their vows have been heard in heaven; and that the festal chimes may teach us to bless God, who is the fountain of all joy and gladness. Let us pray that when we hear the solemn toll for those who are passing away, we may be reminded how short our time is, and seek so to "number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom." And finally, let us pray that all those who are called by the sound of these bells to His house of prayer, may "enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise," and may finally, by God's mercy in Christ Jesus, have part in the new song, and among the harpers in the house of God: "building not made with hands, eternal, in the heavens." If these our prayers be answered, then shall we have cause to bless God that these bells have been provided for this church, by the liberality of the people. And, my brethren, suffer me to avail myself of this opportunity, not only to thank you for your liberality on this occasion, but also to appeal to those who have not given, to evince their joy and gratitude for this gift; by a cheerful and ready contribution towards the completion of the fund which is still so much less than the sum required. And I must also take this occasion to say that the ordinary collections of the offertory in this Church, fall very far short of what is required, and of what might be reasonably expected from so large and respectable a congregation as assembles here on ordinary occasions. These collections do not much exceed £2 a week, and certainly we might expect at least £5 to be collected. You must remember that these are the offerings of the Church, and as lighting and heating, which had been formerly met by Church rates, and latterly by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, but which are now thrown upon the voluntary contributions of the people. I do hope and trust that such a sum may for the future be realized as to enable us, not only to provide these necessities, but also to continue the relief hitherto given to the poorer members of our own church, whom we must regret to see compelled to enter the poor-house. Finally, brethren, I would call upon you to pray earnestly that all your services may be to the glory of God, and the benefit of your souls; and I pray that your faith may grow exceedingly, and that the love of each of you may be multiplied abundantly, so that you may come behind in no spiritual gift, looking for, and hastening unto the day of God. May God grant that our praise may be, not of our lips only, but in our lives, that we may give up ourselves to His service, walking before him in holiness and righteousness all the days of our lives. And when all our services are added here below, may we be found of that blessed company, who shall assemble in his courts above,—"I who shall be found harping upon their harp, and singing the praises of their God and Saviour through the countless ages of infinite eternity, to which, through Christ our Lord, to whom with the Father and the Holy Ghost be ascribed all honour and glory world without end. Amen.

DIVINE SERVICE.

THE OFFERTORY.

which amounted to a considerable sum, having been taken up, and the Benedicite having been pronounced, the clergy, choir, and congregation, proceeded to the Nave, which was carpeted for the occasion, to witness the ceremony of HANDING OVER THE BELLS.

The members of the choir having taken up positions on either side of the presentation table, the Venerable Dean, and Sub-Dean and Precentor, with officiating Clergy, Registrar, Organist, Churchwarden, Select Vestry, Sexton and Bandle, passed down the centre, where they met by the members of the Bell Committee, with Messrs. Goff and Ridgway and Dr. Mackesy at their head. At this stage of the proceedings the scene was truly imposing—the galleries on both sides filled with ladies who gentlemen in gay attire—the clergy and choir in their white surplices—in fact, everything to denote decency and order. Mr. R. G. Ridgway, having come to the front, proceeded to read the following ADDRESS:

"Mr Dean and members of the Chapter of Waterford Cathedral.

"GENTLEMEN,—On the part of the committee appointed by the Select Vestry of Trinity Parish, and the Cathedral of Christ Church, Waterford, we have the pleasure to present for your acceptance a peal of eight Bells, of which the tenor is of the weight of 20 cwt, and the others in proportion, in the key of E flat, made at the foundry of Messrs. Meares and Stainbank, Whitechapel, London.

"These bells have been provided by voluntary subscription, amounting to nearly £400, in addition to the value of the old peal, of £350; and we beg to hand you a list of the contributors, and of the several sums subscribed.

"We trust that these bells will prove useful to this parish, and, in calling the people to prayer and praise, and the hearing of God's Holy Word, will be blessed in this Cathedral; and that an abundant blessing will rest upon this Church—both upon those who minister therein, and upon those who are ministered unto.

"We have been desirous to erigize by these and other gifts to the Church, that though disestablished and disendowed by the State, our hearts and affections are still with the Church of Ireland, and that it is our earnest desire that she may ever continue a praise in the earth, and a source of blessing in this land."

The above document was then handed over to the Dean, who read the following BREVE.

"GENTLEMEN AND CHRISTIAN FRIENDS,—As Rector of this parish, and on behalf of the Chapter of Waterford of which I have the honor to be, although unworthy, the Dean and head, I most thankfully accept your munificent gift of a peal of bells, for this Cathedral; and I do most heartily join, with you in this parish and city, in calling the people to unite in prayer and praise, and to hear God's Holy Word read and preached by his ministers in this place. We rejoice in this, and similar testimonies of your love and zeal, and in the evidence thus given that the Church of Ireland is endeared to your affections, and we thankfully unite in your prayer that the Church may ever continue a praise in the Earth, and a source of great and abundant blessing to this our native land."

THE INAUGURAL SERVICE.

The signal being given, the new bells rang out in joyous strains. The effect of the "ringing" which is only done on special occasions, was very peculiar, and elicited the admiration of all admirers of bell-ringing. The "Queen's Changes," which followed were, in fact, the extreme of what is known in the art, and of whom spoke in the highest terms of the ringers and the bells. Gentlemen from Cork and Kilkenny declared they were the sweetest they had ever heard. At seven o'clock the ringers and bell committee adjourned to the Protestant Hall to partake of an excellent BANQUET.

The banquet was served up in the neatest and choicest style by Mr. David Keogh, of the Adelphi Hotel. The Dean of Waterford occupied the chair. After an hour and a half had been spent in the most pleasant manner.

Dr. G. I. Mackesy said he had much pleasure in moving that their united thanks be given to the gentlemen who had arrived from London that day, and whose presence on the bells had so delighted them all. He hoped that the subject of bell-ringing would be warmly taken up, and that the splendid music they had just heard would act as an incentive to them to persevere in the art of change-ringing.

Mr. Allingham briefly seconded the vote of thanks.

Mr. J. R. Haworth said he wished on behalf of his brethren and himself to thank all the gentlemen for the great kindness shown to them since their arrival. With regard to change-ringing, if the gentlemen about to commence it persevered he assured them they would find it a most interesting and useful science. He congratulated them all on the interest they were bringing to ball-ringing, and on the noble peal of bells they possessed.

Mr. Allingham (churchwarden) in a short, effective speech, alluded to the fact that the exertions of the ringers that day would have gone for nothing if the work in the bell tower had not been properly performed. He (Mr. Allingham) could bear testimony to the energy displayed by Mr. Warskitt during his stay here, and the manner in which the bells worked that evening is proof sufficient that the difficult and nice task of hanging the bells has been most satisfactorily executed (hear, hear).

Mr. Clappett seconded the motion, and said Mr. Warskitt deserved their thanks for the manner in which he performed his duties in Waterford. The new bells were a credit to Waterford, and to their church (applause).

Mr. Warskitt, in returning thanks, said he should never forget his visit to Waterford; owing to the kind manner in which he had been treated by all the gentlemen connected with the bell movement. In order to ensure to do his duty in Waterford as their churchwarden, he considered he was only doing justice to his generous employers. He was proud to think that he had met with the approval of the bell committee (applause).

The Rev. H. V. Daly proposed, and Mr. J. Wall seconded, a vote of thanks to the bell committee.

Mr. B. G. Ridgway responded in a few appropriate remarks.

On the motion of Mr. James Longmore, a warm vote of thanks was passed to Messrs. Price and Blew for the sumptuous entertainment they provided for the ringers and the Bell Committee. A vote of thanks was also given to the Very Rev. the Dean.

It will be seen by another announcement that the ringers succeeded on Saturday evening, 27th inst., in obtaining a complete peal of 5,040 changes in three hours and four minutes, being the first peal ever rung in Ireland.

LETTER FROM DR. LIVINGSTONE.

The London correspondent of the "New York Herald" furnishes the following letter from Dr. Livingstone to Mr. James Gordon Bennett:—

My DEAR SIR—It is in general somewhat difficult to write to one we have never seen. It feels so much like addressing an abstract idea, but the presence of your representative, Mr. H. M. Stanley, in this distant region, takes away the strangeness I should otherwise have felt in writing to thank you for the extreme kindness that prompted you to send him. I feel quite at home. I explained the forlorn condition in which he found me. You will easily perceive that I have good reason to use very strong expressions of gratitude. I came to Ujiji off a tramp of between 400 and 500 miles, beneath a blazing vertical sun, having been baffled, worried, defeated, and forced to return when almost in sight of the end of the geographical part of my mission, by a number of half-bred Moslem slaves, sent to me from Zanzibar instead of men. The sore heart made still sorer by the truly woeful sights I had seen of man's inhumanity to man, rooted on the bodily frame, and depressed it beyond measure. I thought that I was dying on my feet. It is not too much to say that almost every step of the way I was a mere ruckle of bones. Here I found some £500 worth of goods I had ordered from Zanzibar had unconsciously been entrusted to a drunken, half-caste Moslem tailor, who, after squandering them for 16 months on the way to Ujiji, finished up by selling all that remained for slaves and ivory for himself. He had divided on the Koran, and found that I was dead. He had also written to the governor of Unyamwebe that he had sent slaves after me to Manjima, who returned and reported my decease, and begged permission to sell off the few goods that his drunken appetite had spared. He, however, knew perfectly well from men who had seen me that I was alive and waiting for the goods and men; but as for morality, he is evidently an idiot, and there being no law here except that of the dagger or musket, I had to sit down in great weakness, destitute of anything save a few better cloths and beads I had taken the precaution to have here in case of extreme need. The next prospect of begging among Uppan made me miserable. I could not despair, because I laughed so much at a friend who, on reaching the mouth of the Zambesi, said that he was tempted to despair on breaking the photograph of his wife, and could have no success after that. After the first 400 miles of despair he was such a strong smacker of the ludicrous, it is out of the question. Well, when I had got to about the lowest stage, vague rumours of an English visitor reached me. I thought myself at the man who went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, but neither priest, Levite nor Samaritan could possibly pass my way. Yet, the Good Samaritan was close at hand, and one of my people rushed up at the top of his speed, and in great excitement gasped out, "An Englishman coming, I see him," and off he darted to meet him. An American flag, the first ever seen in these parts, at the head of a caravan, told me the nationality of the stranger. I am as cold and non-demonstrative as my islanders are usually reported to be, but your kindness made my frame thrill; it was, indeed, overwhelming, and I said in my soul let the richest blessings descend from the Highest on you and yours. The news Mr. Stanley told me was thrilling—the mighty political and military changes, the conquest of the Atlantic coast, the election of Grant and the joyful revivified my attention for days together, and had an invigorating and beneficial effect on my health. I had been without news from home for years, save what I could glean from a few "Saturday Reviews" and copies of "Punch" for '68. The appetite revived, and in a week I began to feel strong again. Mr. Stanley brought a most kind and encouraging despatch from Lord Clarendon, whose I sincerely deplore the first I have received from the Foreign Office since '66, and information that Her Majesty's Government had kindly sent £1,000 to my aid. Up to his arrival I was not aware of any pecuniary aid. I came unaided, but this went is now happily repaired, and I am sixties that you and all my friends have known that though unheeded by letters, you have done the best you could for me. Mr. Stanley's departure set me with John Rollin kindly believing that he will come right at last. The water shed of Great Central Africa is over 500 miles in length. The fountain (thereof) almost insuperable; that is, it would take a man's lifetime to count them. From the water shed they converge into four large rivers, and then again into two mighty streams, into the Nile valley, which begins in ten degrees, twelve minutes south latitude. It was long until light dawned on this current problem, and gave me a clear idea of the drainage, I had to feel my way, and every step of the way, and was generally groping in the dark, for who cared where the rivers ran? We drank our fill, and let the rest run by. The Korymbos who visited Cosmobe asked for slaves and ivory. I heard of nothing else. I asked about the water, and questions about roads, and about the water, and about being set down as afflicted with hydrocephalus. My last work, in which I have been greatly hindered for want of suitable attendants, was to joining the central line of drainage down through the country of the cannibals, called Manuema, or shortly, Mangema. This line of drainage has four large lakes in it. The fourth I was near when I was obliged to turn. It is from one to three miles broad, and never can be waded at any point at any time of the year. There are two western drains; the Dufira and Barle Frere's River flow into it at lake Kamelondo; then the great river Lamoni flows through Lake Lindool into it too, and seems to form the western arm of the Nile, on which Petherick traded. Now I know about 600 miles of the watershed, and unfortunately the seventh hundred is the most interesting of the whole, for in it, if I am not mistaken, four fountains, four broomes, at no distance off, a large river, two of these run north to Egypt, the Louira and Lamoni, and two south into Inner Ethiopia, as the Jamburi or Upper Zambesi and the Kafue. A few of these sources of the Nile mentioned by the secretary of Minerva, in the city of Sais, to Herodotus? I have heard of them so often and at great distances off, that I cannot doubt their existence, and in spite of the sore longing for home that seizes me every time I think of my family; I wish to finish up by their re-discovery.

I conclude by again thanking you most cordially for your great generosity, and am gratefully yours,

DAVID LIVINGSTONE.

NEW ROSS TOWN COMMISSIONERS' MEETING.

YARNS AND MARRIAGES. "House of Commons Library, July 18th, 1872.

"DEAR SIR—Since the receipt of your note of the 8th I have carefully considered the markets and Fair Act, and the Local Government Act of last year, and all the other Acts bearing on the question, and especially the opinion of Mr Boyd, who must be familiar with the exact nature of the title of the commissioners to the fair and have come to the conclusion that he is right in holding that act of 1821 does not authorise him to change the fair days. So satisfied on this head am I that I have given notice of an amendment in the present Local Government Board Bill to confer on Town Commissioners the requisite power with regard to established fair days.

"It is clear that if the power to change the fair days were conferred by the Local Government Act, W. 71; it could not be carried out with the approval of the Lord Lieutenant, and the allowance of the justicers of quarter sessions who have a very large direction in the matter.

"The Commissioners desire to know by what authority the fair days could be changed if not by the government body of the town.

"The answer to this in this case is simple enough. If the fair of New Ross has been fixed by prescription—that is, by usage from beyond the time of memory—they cannot be changed now without the authority of Parliament—no other way. The only other way in which fair days can be obtained is by patent. If these fair are by patent, and that the Commissioners inherit the rights of the patentee, their rights are fixed by the patent, and on a glance at it they will see how far they are authorised to alter the days for holding the fairs. In this case also, if by the patent they have not right to make the change, they promise, they must seek it through Parliament.

"The Commissioners desire also to know, whether fairs held in a place not subject to bills, may be considered simple cattle markets."

"As far as I have said, can be claimed only by patent or prescription, and the mere omission to insert the amount of tolls, would not reduce it to the character of a mere cattle market.

"Permit me to return you my best thanks for the great trouble you have taken in collecting all the Passages in the Local Government Act, and the Markets and Fairs Act bearing on the main question.

"I will send to-morrow to the commissioners my proposed amendment in its full shape, for I did hand it on Tuesday, but think that it requires a slight amendment. I enclose it with the proposed amendment.—Yours truly,

P. M'MANON. Mr Tobin, Clerk Town Commissioners, New Ross.

"House of Commons Library, July 18th, '72.

"DEAR SIR—The petition from the Town Commissioners on the subject of the Galway case I have just presented.—Yours truly, P. M'MANON. "House of Commons Library, July 18th, '72.

"DEAR SIR—Will you kindly inform the commissioners that the House agreed, this morning for allowing the commissioners to alter the fair work at their discretion."

"The amendments to dissenting with the consent of the grand jury for the transfer of powers from it to the town within its jurisdiction. The Government would not agree to do it; as it was feared that its adoption might give rise to opposition, which at this period of the session might prevent the progress of the measure. The same objection was urged to the proposed amendment for submitting the account of all public corporations to an effectual audit.

"The accounts of the grand jurors of Ireland require very much, I am told, to be overhauled by an efficient and competent auditor.

"But the affairs of grand jurors should not concern us much longer. We ought to organise a movement to take the fiscal affairs of the towns of Ireland out of the hands of irresponsible county grand jurors as those of the towns of England already are.

"Without some such organisation and movement we cannot hope to address against the present unsatisfactory system.—Yours faithfully,

P. M'MANON. "A general conversation ensued on the above, the meeting closing with its sentiments. No further order was made on the matter.

THE ROSS QUESTION. New Ross Gas Company (Limited), New Ross, 26th July, 1872.

"GENTLEMEN—Will you please to give me instructions regarding the lamps to be lighted during the month of August. The number of lamps, and where, &c., and your order shall be attended to. Say what lights they are to be lighted.—I am, gentlemen, yours &c., W. FAUST, Manager.

"To the Town Commissioners, New Ross.

CLERK'S REPORT. It will be necessary to take steps for entering into a contract with the gas company for lighting the public lamps immediately, to secure satisfaction and legality in the contract.

He suggested that it would be well to consider the opinion of counsel respecting the power of the commissioners to employ the present watchmen.

He asked the instructions of the commissioners for Mr. Brophy, G.E., respecting the other matters which the commissioners wished to have entered upon the new maps, in addition to what had already been specified.

Adjourned. Reports of Ross Board of Guardians and Petty Sessions are held over till our next.

EPPS'S CHOCOLATE.—An illustration (the Imperial origin), in an article entitled "France of Angletore," says:—"Nous n'avons en France qu'une seule usine où la préparation du cacao emploie un matériel et un personnel aussi considérables que ceux que nous avons vus dans l'usine de Messieurs Epps."

"C'est une véritable curiosité dans son genre que cette immense fabrique."

The wrapper of each cake of Chocolate prepared by this firm is labelled "JAMES EPPS & Co., Homoeopathic Chemists, London." Also, makers of Epps's Milky Chocolate (Chocolate and Condensed Milk).

The Godrich divorce suit seems to have reached its last stage on Tuesday, in an application by Mrs. Godrich to have the custody of the children, who are now in Belgium in the care of Mr. Godrich's father. Mrs. Godrich stated that in November next she would be in a position to maintain them, and an order was made that he should then have them delivered over to her, opportunities being given in the meantime for her to have access to them.

THE SETTING SUN. I take myself, a pilgrim at my rest, A silent gazer at the quiet west— A simple pilgrim to myself confessed, And in my loneliness a soul all blest.

THE SADDEST THINGS. To sadder things to see or hear, To witness a sigh, or draw a tear, Is an evil look on a fair child's face; A young man running a sinful race; An old man bent beneath a load of crimes; A maid forgetting to blush at times; A sinner weeping in a saintly dress; A mother robbed of her tenderness; A miser making a god of gold; A lamb that has strayed from the human fold; Two hearts estranged that have beat as one; Twelve wasted hours when the day is done; A homestead ruined by sad neglect; A parent treating his children as foes; A faithful wife with a cruel mate; A poor man driven from his brother's gate; A sweet dove caught in a cunning trap; A Sampson slain in Delilah's lap; A living stone in a busy hive; A half-drowned dog on a daily drive; A mortal going the downward road; A man blaspheming his maker, God; All these, and many more were seen, Are the saddest sights in earth's history.

A very curious book could easily be made of addresses presented to the various sovereigns of Great Britain, and of their replies. The address of the townspeople of Coventry to Queen Elizabeth merits a foremost place:—

"We men of Coventry, Are very glad to see, Your gracious Majesty— Good Lord! how fair you be!" To which Elizabeth replied:— "My gracious Majesty, Is very glad to see, You men of Coventry— Good Lord! what fools you be."

The inhabitants of Shrewsbury presented to James I., Elizabeth's successor, an address as pompous as the one of the inhabitants of Coventry was simple. In the course of it they expressed the wish that his reign might endure as long as the sun, moon, and stars. "In that case," replied the pedantic king, laughing gaily, "my sun will be obliged to rule by candle light."

Love-Letters.—It is hard to say which is the more pleasant, writing love-letters or receiving them. To the case belongs the pleasure of unfolding the feelings and conveying self-declaring how eagerly we would possess our own comfort to the task of rendering the beloved one happy; on the other side, few things give more exquisite delight than hearing identical sentiments uttered by the absent half of our heart. Doubtless it is this thrilling uncertainty which lends so strong a charm to the romance of courtship; anticipation and fear of disappointment create a grateful agitation in the breasts of all who stray into that Foul's Paradise, yeelp falling in love, while the proverbial tendency of quarrelling, common to lovers, keeps up the red flow of excitement. Notwithstanding the "kissing again with tears" which the Laureate culgises as the best part of a love quarrel, love-letters have probably had more influence in breaking off engagements than the hastiest of speeches; "a velle irrevocabile verbum" once committed to the dirty pink newspaper sealed with the motto "treat and be treated as you would be treated," in the contents, and the stinging rancors for many a day in the heart of the recipient, whereas an angry word on the spur of the moment is easily atoned on the spot. Many lovely lines curse the day on which they were such and such a hasty message and despatched in a sudden gust of anger; but, alas! unlike the ring that Queen Elizabeth gave to Essex to be returned to her when he was in any trouble, no talisman is there to draw a justly-offended woeer once more to their senses. In vain now do they apply their enchantments: Daphnis does not come. If the language of the heart is best brought before another heart in temperate climes by the matter-of-fact expedient of the penny post, warm countries find the language of flowers the most fitting interpreter of the language of the eyes. Partly because we are a practical people, partly because of the death of flowers with us for a great part of the year, this expedient has not found much favour with Englishmen. In "Maudie" the poet has used the idea of sending a floral letter to a lover very prettily, and has added the further conceit of causing it to flow down a stream to its destination. The gift consists of a rose.

"O, rivulet, born at the Hall, My Maudie has sent it by thee (If I read thee with a right) On a blushing mission to thee, Saying in colour and colour, 'Ah, be Among the roses to-night.'"

DUBLIN EXHIBITION.—The most refreshing preparation for the complexion, at this season of the year, is ROWLANDS' KALYDOR, which dispels cloud of languor and relaxation, allays all heated irritability, and immediately affords the pleasing sensation attending restored elasticity and healthful state of the skin. Freckles, tan, spots, pimples, flitches and discolorations are eradicated by its application, and give place to healthy purity and delicacy of complexion, and a softness and delicacy of skin. Price 1s. 6d. and 8s. 6d. per bottle. Ask for ROWLANDS' KALYDOR and avoid cheap imitations under the same or similar names.

"THE LION, THE NET, AND THE MOUSE"—To prevent the unprincipled Traders from deceiving the public, the proprietor of ROWLANDS' BALSAM OF ANISEED, has been compelled to adopt the above Trade Mark, (Lion, Net, and Mouse), and this design will, in future, continue to appear upon the wrapper of each genuine bottle, and any one imitating it, will render himself liable to the severe PENITENTIARY PUNISHMENT. The following letter will bear testimony to the wonderful curative properties of this OLD COUGH MEDICINE.—Her Majesty's Gunboat, "Netley," Wick, North-East Coast of Scotland, September 7th, 1869.—Dear Sir,—Having had a most distressing and severe Cough, which could not be cured in any other way, and which was recommended by His Excellency, the Duke of Devonshire, to try your most valuable Balsam of Aniseed, and I can assure you that I have found immediate relief, even without having to suspend my various duties; and the first bottle completely cured me, therefore, I have the great pleasure in fully recommending it to the million. Most respectfully yours, W. JINZELL, R.M.G.B., "Netley."—To Mr. Powell—Prepared and Sold by Thomas Powell, 16, Blackfriars Road, London; and Sold by Chemists and Medicine Vendors throughout the World. In bottles only, at 1s. 6d., 2s. 6d., and 11s. each.—Ask for "Powell's Balsam of Aniseed."

AVAILABLE DISCOVERY FOR THE HAIR!—very nicely perfumed hair dressing called "The Mexican Hair Restorer," now being sold by most Chemists and Perfumers at 3s. 6d. per bottle, in fact superseding all "Hair Restorers"—for it will positively restore in every case Grey or White hair to its original colour, by a few applications, with out drying it, or leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Hair Restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting the growth of bald spots, where the hair glands are not decayed. It is sold by Dr. Verman on every bottle with full particulars. Ask for "The Mexican Hair Restorer," prepared by H. O. GALLUP, 493, Oxford Street, London.

Civilization is making great strides in Japan. By the latest mail advices we learn that women are now granted the same rights as men, as to visiting temples, &c. The burnt down part of Yeddo is being laid out in streets, ninety, sixty, and forty-eight feet wide. All indecent exhibitions, and the sale of indecent pictures and toys are henceforth prohibited. Gas will shortly be laid at Yokohama. A fine suspension bridge is being erected at Yeddo. The custom of going down on the hands and knees in the Emperor's presence has been abolished.

The greatest of all English sonnet-writers is Wordsworth. Not only has he composed a larger number of sonnets than any other of our poets, he has also written more that are of first-rate excellence. There is no intensity of passion in Wordsworth's sonnets—and herein he differs from Shakespeare, and Mrs. Browning; neither has he attained the severe dignity of style which marks the sonnets of Milton, but for perfect purity of language, for variety and strength of thought, for the "curious diction" of powerful diction, for the exquisite skill with which the emotions of the mind are associated with the aspects of nature, we know of no sonnet writer who can take precedence of Wordsworth.—"Cornhill Magazine."

Everybody does not go to Church, but everybody does read novels. You can't help it, if the novels are good. Now, the novelist's duty is obvious. I don't want him to give up his description of villains, male and female, since such persons exist, and are very troublesome; but I ask him to look at the other side of human nature, and to try and depict the honorable gentlemen and the lovely ladies who are by no means scarce in this England of ours. Villains are not the majority among us: even if they were, more good would be done by painting a man as he ought to be, than by photographing scoundrels. The fault of the modern novelist is, that he cannot put up his canvas a gentleman or lady. Yet one meets gentlemen and ladies every day, and as they certainly have not perished from society, I see no reason why they should have perished out of literature. Is it because novelists are, for the most part, not exactly gentlemen and ladies.—"Mortimer Collins."

JOSEPH HAYDN.—The number of Haydn's compositions is nearly estimated at eight hundred, comprising cantatas, symphonies, oratorios, masses, concertos, trios, quartets, sonatas, minuets, &c.; twenty-two operas, of which eight are German, and four are Italian. But the great father of symphony is not to be judged by his operas any more than the great father of oratorio. The world has often been tantalised by the spectacle of genius without industry, or industry without genius, but in Haydn genius and industry were happily married.

"Ego nec studium sine divite vena. Nec rudo quid possit videri ingenium."

In early years he worked sixteen, and sometimes eighteen hours a day; and latterly never less than five; and the work was not desultory, but very direct. No man had a clearer notion of what he meant to do, and no man carried out his programme more rigidly. He was equal to Schubert in the rich flow of his musical ideas, but superior to him in arrangement and execution. He could be grave and playful; serious, and sometimes sublime, but seldom romantic. In him there is nothing artificial, nothing abnormal; his tenderness is all real, and his gaiety quite natural; nor is the balance of symmetry anywhere sacrificed to passion or to power. The abundance of his ideas never tempted him to neglect the fit elaboration of any. He applied himself without distraction to his thought until it became clear to himself. He would often compose, and then recompose on a given theme, until the present expression had been found. We remember, some years ago, one of the finest classical scholars at Cambridge, who was in the habit of making miserable work of his Greek-construing during class-time. Few of his pupils could understand what he was about; to the experienced freshman it sounded like the bungling of a schoolboy. The sentence was rendered over and over again, and at the close probably not a word retained its original position. Whilst the novices scribbled and scratched out, the older hands waited calmly for the last perfect form. The process was fatiguing, but amply repaid the toil. Poets have been known to spend days over a line which may afterwards have been destined to sparkle for ever.

"On the stretched forefinger of all time." Like good construing or good poetry, good music demands the most unremitting toil. No doubt the artist attains at length a certain direct and accurate power of expression. We know that many of Turner's pictures were dashed off without an after-touch. Whilst Macaulay's manuscripts are almost illegibly interlined and corrected, many of Walter Scott's novels are written almost without an erasure; but such facility combined with accuracy is, after all, only the work of a mind rendered both facile and accurate by long practice. Haydn is valuable in the history of art, not only as a brilliant, but also as a complete artist. Perhaps, with the exception of Goethe and Wordsworth, there is no equally remarkable instance of a man who was permitted to work out all that was in him. His life was a rounded whole. There was no broken light about it; it orbled slowly with a mild, unclouded lustre into a perfect star. Time was gentle with him, and death was kind, for both waited upon his genius until all was won. Mozart was taken away at an age when new and dazzling effects had not ceased to flash through his brain; at the very moment when his harmonies began to have a prophetic ring of the nineteenth century, it was decreed that he should not see its dawn. Beethoven himself had but just entered upon an unknown "sea whose margin seemed to fade for ever and for ever as he moved," but good old Haydn had come to port over a calm sea, and with a prosperous breeze. The laurel wreath was this time woven about silver locks; and gathered-in harvest was ripe and golden.—H. R. Haweis.

"How many misfortunates have fallen in the war?" said a spinster to a veteran general, "who was also a veteran bachelor." "Not half so many, madam, as have fallen in love!" was the testy reply.

A wretch said to a person who sought to console him on the death of his wife, he tried to take these additions patiently, and that he remembered the old saying, "That there are many blessings in disguise."

Depend upon it, it is of little use, generally speaking, to preach to empty stomachs. A comfortable home, a hearty meal, a mind at ease on worldly matters, are a much better preparation than starvation and a continued struggle with poverty for the entrance of the gospel into the heart; and the minister who exhibits active sympathy with temporal wants is most likely to be accepted as a counsellor in spiritual need.—"Maumillon's Magazine."

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Systematic Treatment.—Few statements are more worthy of truth than the assertion that for the cure of disease the alling put above demands attention, whereas both local and general mischief requires redress. These remedies boldly face the evils they profess to remedy; local relief and general purification progress together; the diseased portion is cured, the foul whole is cleansed. Holloway's Ointment rubbed on the throat and chest exercises the most beneficial influence over sore throats, diphtheria, and cough, whether resulting from catarrh, asthma, or bronchitis. This unguent acts miraculously in arresting the extension of sores, healing ulcerations, curing skin diseases, and completely stopping all destructive inflammations.

Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children.—Should always be used when Children are cutting teeth; it relieves the little sufferers at once, it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub wakes as "bright as a button." It is perfectly harmless and very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, it softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for dysentery and diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is sold by thousands of Medicine Dealers in all parts of the world at 1s. 3d. per bottle, and Millions of Mothers can testify to its virtue.—Manufactured by H. O. GALLUP, 493, Oxford Street, London.

LAWES' CELEBRATED MANURES

LAWES' BONE SUPERPHOSPHATE, OR PATENT TURNIP MANURE. LAWES' SUPERPHOSPHATE OF LIME, OR LAWES' SPECIAL MANURES, FOR POTATO, MANGOLD, AND CORN CROPS. THIRTY SECOND SEASON.

"Mr LAWES' MANURE has an unrivalled Composition: it is dry to the touch, very finely sub-divided, and may be therefore intermixed with the soil with much facility. I may add that, in examining with a lens the insoluble Phosphate present in this Manure, I find Particles of Bones, which must augment its value. Its character as an active and certain fertiliser for a soil in which Turnips or other Green Crops are to be grown is so well established, that it is quite unnecessary for me to say anything on such a subject."—Extract from Professor APJOHN'S Report for 1872.

"This is an extremely valuable Manure, carefully manufactured, and in admirable condition for applying to the soil. It is very rich in soluble Phosphates, and contains fair proportions of Ammonia and Bone Phosphate of Lime. It has been repeatedly reported in the most favourable terms as to the Composition of the Artificial Manures prepared by Mr Lawes, that I need only say of the sample now described, it is everything which a Superphosphate ought to be."—Extract from Professor CAMERON'S Report for 1872.

FRIEND OF ALL. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. Let no one be longer oppressed with the notion that his malady is incurable till these pills have had a fair trial. A few doses will move the more urgent symptoms, and thereby completely control all the various actions, regulate the torpid liver, relieve the obstructed kidneys, cleanse impure blood, and confer on every individual healthful vigour.

IMPERITUS OF THE BLOOD. These wonderful Pills are valued at the humblest hearths as well as in the houses of comfort and wealth. They work a thorough purification throughout the entire system, without disturbing the natural action of any organ, and eradicate those germs of complaint which consign tens of thousands to an early grave.

INDIGESTION, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, AND SICK HEADACHE. No organ in the human body is so liable to disorder as the liver and none is more up, when neglected, to become seriously diseased. Remove when nausea, flatulency, or acidity on the stomach warns you that digestion is not proceeding properly, that Holloway's Pills regulate the function, give strength to every organ, speedily remove all causes of indigestion, bile, and sick headache, and effect a permanent cure.

WEAKNESS AND DEBILITY. In cases of debility, languor, and nervousness, generated by excess of any kind, whether mental or physical, the effects of these Pills is the highest degree of bracing, renovating, and restorative. They drive from the system the morbid causes of disease, re-establish the digestion, regulate all the secretions, strengthen the nervous system, raise the patient's spirits, and bring back the frame to pristine health and vigour.

URNS OF LIFE AND UNDESIRABLE SWELLINGS. The turn of life the most distressing period of woman's existence; it demands the regulation of the whole of the gross humours collect together, and like a tide, sweep away life and health. It is not timely and powerfully checked. The certain antidote for all these dangers is Holloway's Pills. Armed with them the fiery ordeal is passed through, and the sufferer is once more restored to the possession of a vigorous and healthy constitution. Little known that at the same period of life, many men also, when verging on forty or fifty, are "sowers that his health is considerably deranged, and knows not the cause—a critical period in the life. All perils to both sexes are at once removed by recourse to these Pills.

THEIR ARRANGEMENT AND USE. If these Pills be used according to the printed directions, and the Ointment rubbed over the region of the kidneys for at least half an hour at bed time, as salt is forced into meat, it will penetrate the kidneys and correct any derangement. Should the affliction be stone or gravel, it is particularly recommended that the Ointment in such cases be used at night, as by its frequent and judicious application the most astounding cures have been performed.

Holloway's Pills are the best remedy known in the world for the following diseases: Ague, Biliousness, Dropsy, Fevers of all kinds, Gout, Indigestion, Liver Com, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Scrofula, Stone & Gravel, Strains, Swellings, Urinary Disorders, Venereal Affections, Worms of the Intestines, Weakness of the Stomach, &c., &c.

Printed and Published by the Proprietors, WILKIE RICHARD WARD and JAMES LONGBLUE, at their Offices, 103 and 104, Paradise Quay, Waterford, and filed by all the principal news agents in Great Britain and Ireland.
