THE TWENTY FIRST ANNUAL REPORT OF THE MANAGING COMMITTEE OF THE WATERFORD INSTITUTION, to the GENERAL MEETING OF PROPRIETORS, 10th DECEMBER, 1840.—Your Committee have much pleasure in Reporting the continued prosperity of the Institution during the past year.

In providing the Books which have been added to the Institution during their Year of Office, your Committee have been only anxious to select such Works of acknowledged or reputed merit as they deemed most likely to contribute to the instruction and amusement of the General Reader; and they feel happy in being able to state that the numerous Volumes purchased under their directions have been generally approved of.

The Funds of the Institution are a subject matter of congratulation. The credit side exceeds by a trifling amount that of last year. The subscription account—in which your former Committee reported as "showing nearly trebled amount over that of two or three years previous."

The expenses of the New Book Cases and alterations in the Library, ordered by the former Committee, and rendered necessary by the increased and increasing number of Volumes having been brought into this year's expenditure, have considerably lessened the sum which otherwise would have been at your Committee's disposal for the purchase of New Works.

Under every circumstance your Committee report favorably, and feel confident that the value of this Institution, comprising as it does, above SIX THOUSAND VOLUMES, is daily being more and more appreciated.

Your Committee have also much pleasure in recording a valuable Donation of Books from your PRESIDENT, the Right Hon. Sir JOHN NEWPORT, whose constant care over the interests of this Institution has been frequently the theme of thankful acknowledgment.

Signed, USHER LEE, Vice President. IN CHANCERY. Edward Courtney Clibborn, PLAINTIFF.

Table for KILKENNY with columns for items (Second Flour, Inferior, Thirds) and prices.

Table for WEXFORD with columns for items (Butte, Wheat, Barley) and prices.

Table for CLONMEL with columns for items (Butter, Oatmeal, Pig's Heads) and prices.

Table for CARLOW with columns for items (Butter, Flour, Thirds) and prices.

DUBLIN CORN EXCHANGE—DEC. 11. All descriptions of grain remain at Tuesday's currency, with the exception of grinding barley, which brought an advance of about 6d. at this day's market:—

LIVERPOOL PROVISION MARKET—DEC. 11. The business done in the Irish provision market during the past week has been on a moderate scale, whilst prices remained stationary.

LIVERPOOL CORN EXCHANGE—DEC. 11. Except on Foreign Rye, advanced to 16s 1d, and on Pease to 5s 6d per qr., the duties for the ensuing week remain unvaried.

Presented by easterly winds, the arrivals into this port since Tuesday last have been generally very trivial; and the limited supplies last week, appear to have given rather more stability to the trade during the last two days, more especially as regards Wheat, Flour and Oatmeal, in occasional transactions occurred with a slight tendency to improve in value all other articles, at the same time remaining steady.

The weather having been very favorable throughout the last four or five weeks. Wheat sowing around us is nearly completed in excellent order, and the plant, where it is up appears healthy, and are expected to bring in supplies at leisure for thrashing, and are expected to bring in supplies rather more freely; to-day, however, few samples of country Wheat were shown, and such maintained former prices.

For good fresh Foreign Wheats we had a fair inquiry this morning, but some holders requiring higher terms, checked the demand, and though in partial instances a small amendment was realized, the business done was, in general, at previous rates and upon a moderate scale only; whilst all descriptions of Irish meal and a very dull sale at our last currency. Flour, the stock here having been considerably decreased of late, was in good demand, prime brands of Foreign containing full 6d per barrel over Tuesday's quotation.

Barley and Malt, continuing to be taken off very sparingly, hardly supported the terms last noted. Beans and Pease remained in slow request, without material change in value.

Oats, being scarce, were the more dearer; but the dealers, waiting arrivals, were not anxious buyers to-day. Oat meal appearing to meet little notice was rather easier to dispose at late prices.

IRISH MANUFACTURE—GREAT MEETING OF ST. MARY'S PARISH DUBLIN.

The great meeting of St. Mary's parish, for the encouragement of Irish manufacture, took place on Friday at the large Square Room of the Rotunda, and in numbers, respectability, and influence, exceeded any of the former meetings which have been held for the same vital purpose.

On the motion of Mr. Mallet, seconded by Mr. Mallet, The Churchwardens, Jervas Murray and Henry Cooper, Esqrs., were appointed secretaries.

Mr. John Chambers was appointed secretary. Mr. Murray, on taking the chair, expressed his great pleasure at seeing so very respectable and numerous an assemblage before him, and trusted that the speakers would all confine themselves strictly to the immediate objects of the meeting.

Mr. Joshua Kearney moved the second resolution. After some observations he proceeded to describe the ruin which the decay of trade had brought on the city, and said that nothing but the most perfect unanimity and good feeling among all parties and classes could have the effect of again raising up the fallen greatness of the city.

His Grace the Duke of Leinster came forward to propose the next resolution, and was received with loud and continued cheering. He said—Gentlemen, I have been requested to propose the next resolution, which I do with very great pleasure; but gentlemen, I beg to most distinctly understand that in attending this meeting, though I am most anxious in every way in my power to promote and encourage the manufacture of my native country, as will be made manifest to you by the nature of the system; and if most decidedly opposed to any system which is not in accordance with the nature of the system, I would not have attended or given it my countenance.

The Earl of Charlemont rose, and was received with the most rapturous applause, and cries of "Hail to the hereditary leader of Ireland." When silence was restored he proceeded as follows—I rise, gentlemen, to propose to you a resolution, to which I confess I can anticipate no objection (hear, hear).

Mr. Mallet moved the next resolution, and proceeded to address the meeting at some length, but in an equal tone of voice in which he spoke we could not hear his observations. Mr. Coyne, hatter, of Capel street, seconded the resolution at great length. He said that that was indeed a proud day for Ireland, when the highest in the kingdom was permitted to be present at a meeting of Irish manufacturers.

He said that that was indeed a proud day for Ireland, when the highest in the kingdom was permitted to be present at a meeting of Irish manufacturers.

Mr. Pearson said he had great pleasure in being entrusted with a resolution, the truth of which he was perfectly satisfied of, as he could speak from experience. He had eight men in his factory who were formerly notorious drunkards, but at the same time most superior workmen, and he could not therefore in prudence dismiss them, though he sustained many severe losses through their intemperance, while they and their families were constantly in the most extreme want.

agement of Irish manufacture, but their object was simply to disabuse the minds of the people from the erroneous impression under which they had hitherto labored, that they could not get any article made in Ireland equally good and cheap as what was made in England.

Mr. George S. Murray, in seconding the resolution, said that the present meeting, composed as it was of the highest personages in the land, who had consented to join such a purpose with the humblest artisan, would have the effect of ensuring the co-operation of all parties and classes for the advancement of the glorious object which they had in view.

Mr. Coyne, hatter, of Capel street, seconded the resolution at great length. He said that that was indeed a proud day for Ireland, when the highest in the kingdom was permitted to be present at a meeting of Irish manufacturers.

hardly recovered the effect even to the present day. In his opinion, the promoters of the present movement ought not to build their hopes of success on any exclusive feeling, but to maintain to the public that they were in fact other countries from coming to Ireland, and that they were in the market, they would be sure to succeed, notwithstanding the difficulties by which they were surrounded.

Mr. Henry Gratton said he felt great pleasure in coming forward to take a part in the proceedings, and he did so not alone as a householder of the parish, but as a manufacturer, and as a man who was deeply interested in the welfare of his country.

Mr. Coyne said that a subscription ought to be at once entered into to defray all expenses of the Duke of Leinster and the other gentlemen who had been so good as to attend the meeting.

Mr. Richard Allen would mention, for the information of the ladies, that goods of that description were manufactured in Belfast, sent to London, brought back with the English stamps, and sold as English; and that the goods of that description were made in Belfast and Drogheda than in England or Scotland.

Mr. Mallet complimented the Irish artisans and laborers for their industry in the most marked manner. He mentioned one fact as highly interesting to Irish workmen, that his friend, Mr. Chambers, hatter, had a contract for the manufacture of hats, and that it was about to expire, he told his men that he was afraid an English house would put in a proposal at a lower rate, and that he would lose it; and they said to him, do you reduce your prices, and take off your wages, which would be a great relief to them.

Mr. Mallet was then moved to the chair, thanks returned to the churchwardens, and the meeting separated.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

ROLLS COURT—DUBLIN, THURSDAY.

IMPORTANT APPLICATION. Fausset v. Hughes, the Public Officer of the Agricultural Bank, and others.

In this case the plaintiff filed his bill against the defendants, founded on the equity of the 33rd Geo. II, chap. 14, sec. 6, which declares that "if any banker or bankers, after he or they shall stop payment, shall receive or discharge any sum or sums of money due to him or them at the time he shall stop payment every such receipt and discharge shall be absolutely null and void."

for their own purposes to call in aid the 6th of George IV., so far as it enabled them to sue the public officer, while in the same breath they denied the right of that officer to discharge one of his most important functions, the enforcing the collection of the assets due to the bank. Counsel then proceeded to contend that the term "banker," as it was found in the 33rd Geo. II, did not apply to shareholders in a joint stock banking company, but to a person giving his personal superintendence, and not a person engaged in the business of banking.

Mr. Mallet moved the next resolution, and proceeded to address the meeting at some length, but in an equal tone of voice in which he spoke we could not hear his observations. Mr. Coyne, hatter, of Capel street, seconded the resolution at great length. He said that that was indeed a proud day for Ireland, when the highest in the kingdom was permitted to be present at a meeting of Irish manufacturers.

6th of George IV., the shareholders were, in truth, bankers, liable to all the provisions of the 33rd Geo. II. It was alleged by the creditor, and had been satisfactorily denied, that in June last, as far as related to the branch banks in the country, they had stopped payment, and that, therefore, the members of the bank were not, as considered as bankers, entitled to receive or pay away any of the assets.

Mr. Dwyer hoped his honor would make the plaintiff pay the costs. It would prevent others from filing similar bills. His Honor observed that this was the first application of the kind. Mr. Dwyer said that it might be succeeded by others. His Honor stated that he knew how to act in that event.

FREEDOM OF ELECTION IN CARLOW—ATTACK ON THE ELECTORS' WIVES IN THE CHAPELS.

Our readers will recollect that after the election of January, 1835, when the Radical party were defeated, the Roman Catholic electors who had voted for the Conservative candidates were inhumanly beaten in the chapels, and in some instances—as in Mr. Cummins' case—their cattle were burnt to the ground, and their cattle carried off to the mountains.

On Sunday last, while the priest was celebrating mass in Tallow, the mob attacked the daughter of Silvester Easton, who had voted for Col. Bruen. They dragged her out of the Chapel, tore her clothes, and beat her inhumanly—so great was the apprehension that the mob would murder her, some persons who witnessed the brutal treatment of this female, proceeded to the church during divine service, and gave the alarm. John Whelan, Esq., of Ash, proceeded without delay to the chapel, accompanied by Mr. Fitzgibbon, Sub-Inspector, with a party of police and rescued the girl from the mob, and protected some of the voters who were threatened with summary vengeance.—Carlow Sentinel.

OTHER OUTRAGES ON THE ELECTORS.

On Friday night a mob of ruffians proceeded to the houses of certain electors named Hayden, and Byrne, of Butler's Grange, and threatened to burn their out-ribs, and murder the family. Fortunately the leaders of the party were known, and we hope they will be punished with the utmost severity of the law. Need our readers be astonished that these atrocious proceedings take place in open day, and in houses of worship, when the mob are told they are the allies of Government, and that a breach of the peace may be committed with impunity. No doubt these laws, without the knowledge of electors may have taken place, without the knowledge of the Roman Catholic clergy, but it is their duty to preach peace and charity, and to exert themselves for the suppression of those outrages which are a disgrace to a civilized country. The honest Roman Catholic electors must be protected, and they may feel assured the geunty of this country will avenge their wrongs, and punish the miscreants who have endeavoured to restore the reign of anarchy and independent Franchise of this Country.

On Friday night, another mob collected in the Quarries, adjoining this town, and proceeded to the house of a respectable farmer named Darcy, who resides on the Dublin road, near Oak Park, and declared they would destroy his corn and injure his person for not voting at the election. They threatened to beat the family if they appeared at the chapel on Sunday last. On Thursday Mr. Darcy summoned some of the party, and held one of the ruffians named Danne to bail for the offence. He swore he was in "dread and terror of his life," and that his family were apprehensive of being assaulted if they went to the chapel, and that although unsuccessful in every attempt to do any human being were determined to injure him because he had not voted for Mr. Posenby. It is gratifying to state, that none are connected with these outrages but the lowest and most degraded ruffians of the community, and that the names of the persons who were picked out to be the victims are known, and are the friends of Mr. Posenby, and the allies of the government;—Ibid.

BRUTAL MURDER.—The town and neighbourhood of Duleek, were thrown into the utmost consternation on Wednesday evening last, by the report of a barbarous murder having been committed, on a woman named Bridget Brady—which report, on inquiring we are sorry to say, proved too true. The circumstances of the case are as follows.—It appeared that her son and daughter left home after breakfast to dig some potatoes in a field at a considerable distance, and on their return in the evening, they found the body of the mother lying on the floor, her brains literally dashed to atoms, and her clothes saturated with blood; beside the body was a little wooden stool clotted with blood and hair, which is supposed to have been the instrument used by the murderer to accomplish his horrid purpose. Suspicion immediately rested on a fellow named Matthews, a stranger some time resident in the neighbourhood, and to whom the deceased was very kind. Matthews, it was ascertained, was not present on the night, and he was apprehended at Ratoath, and marched into Duleek. His clothes were spotted with blood. J. Higgins, Esq., Coroner, held an inquest on the body, when, after a lengthened investigation, Matthews was fully committed to Trim jail, to abide his trial. The only reason that can be assigned, for the committal of the barbarous deed, is that deceased was considered to be a person of some money, to obtain which it was supposed was the object of the murderer. The goods in the house were ransacked, but nothing was missing.—Drogheda Con- siderator.
